Dr. Jaggard always entertained the highest ideals with regard to the majesty and nobility of the law. He was a powerful pleader and a careful and just adjudicant, characteristics which marked his work from the beginning, hence his rapid rise to one of the most important legal positions which the state has the power to bestow.

ROY E. HILTON. Mr. Hilton's father was a native of Maine who came to Minnesota in 1855 and settled in Goodhue county. It was here that Roy E. Hilton was born in 1880, on May first. Henry Hilton was born in 1839 and spent the sixty years of his life as a farmer and real estate dealer. He responded to the call for soldiers to save the Union at the time of the Civil war and spent some time in active service. His wife was Miss Eva Conklin, of New York state, before her marriage, and is now residing at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. Henry Hilton, her husband, died in 1899.

Roy Hilton was educated in the public schools of Kenyon, Minnesota, graduating from the high school there in 1897. Four years later he received his degree of B. S. from Carleton college. After graduation Mr. Hilton entered the service of the United States government as chief clerk in the land office. He was at Duluth and Bass Lake and then at Pierre, South Dakota, and at Miles City, Montana. In 1906 he left the government service to go into the real estate business at Lake Benton, Minnesota. After three years in this town he came to St. Paul, where he has since resided and been engaged in the same occupation which he pursued so successfully in the smaller place. His first office location was in the Pioneer Press Building, but he is at present at 928 East Fifth street. Here, as in Lake Benton, his business has been very satisfactory. In politics Mr. Hilton gives his allegiance to the Republican party. He is a member of the Masonic order. His success has been of his own making, as he began life as a poor boy. His sound education and his varied experience have given him culture and a wide outlook and thus made him the more capable of enjoying the success he has attained. His family ancestry on both his mother's and his father's side is of that sturdy English stock which made America in the beginning and has been the dominating element in our composite and energetic character.

On May 2, 1902, was solemnized the marriage of Roy Hilton to Miss Phena Manton, daughter of J. S. and Phena Manton, natives of Vermont. Three children have been born of this union: Henry, John and Judson.

David Lansing Kingsbury was born at Marshall, Michigan, December 28, 1842, and died January 24, 1912, at his home, 1996 Milwaukee avenue, Merriam Park, St. Paul, Minnesota. He was of Revolutionary ancestry in several lines. His membership in the Sons of the American Revolution was based on descent from William Southworth, major, Rhode Island Troops; Richard Montague, captain, Massachusetts Troops, and Daniel Kingsbury, member New Hampshire Provincial Congress and of the Committee of Safety. For a long period Mr. Kingsbury was a Councillor of Minnesota Society S. A. R. His father died when he was only eight years old; he lived afterwards in the family of his aunt, Mrs. Henry Bunce, and came with them to Monticello, Minnesota, in 1856.

Although only eighteen years old when the war for the suppression of
