Mr. Berg moved that Senate Resolution No. 102 be taken from the table. The motion prevailed.

Senate Resolution No. 102: A Senate resolution memorializing the Commodity Futures Trading Commission to adopt rules to restrict speculative short sales and short sale orders of an agricultural commodity that is in oversupply.

WHEREAS, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission and agricultural commodity futures exchanges have a duty to protect the commercial interests in the agricultural commodity markets; and

WHEREAS, the Commodity Futures Trading Commission and the agricultural commodity futures exchanges protect commercial buyers of an agricultural commodity if the commodity is in short supply; and

WHEREAS, agricultural commodity producers use commodity futures markets to hedge their agricultural commodities and protect future sale prices and are a commercial interest in the agricultural commodity markets; and

WHEREAS, oversupply of an agricultural commodity tends to lower the market price of the commodity on the cash and futures agricultural markets;

WHEREAS, a nonexistent additional oversupply of an agricultural commodity causes the market price to deviate downward from the market price that would reflect actual supply and demand; and

WHEREAS, speculative short sales and the placing of speculative short sale orders of an agricultural commodity represents more sellers and more supply of an agricultural commodity than actually produced; and

WHEREAS, if an agricultural commodity is in oversupply the futures market can be manipulated by excessive speculative short sales and short sale orders; and

WHEREAS, speculative short sales represent a small portion of the liquidity of agricultural commodity futures markets; and

WHEREAS, during a period of oversupply of an agricultural commodity the negative effect of speculative short sales and speculative short sale orders on commodity price and the commercial interests of agricultural commodity producers is greater than the negative effect of reduced liquidity in the same manner as the negative effects of long positions when a commodity is in short supply and markets are closed or only liquidation sales are allowed; and

WHEREAS, agricultural commodity producers' commercial interests are severely jeopardized if commodity prices are manipulated downward by speculative short sales or speculative short sale orders; and

WHEREAS, under United States Code, title 7, section 5, the Congress has stated that the transactions and prices of commodities on exchanges are subject to manipulation and speculation and unreasonable fluctuations in prices which are detrimental to the producer occur as a result of speculation and manipulation and render regulation imperative for protection of the national public interest; and

WHEREAS, under United States Code, title 7, section 6a, excessive speculation causing unwarranted changes in commodity price is an undue and unnecessary burden on interstate commerce in the commodity; NOW, THEREFORE,

BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate of the State of Minnesota that the Commodity Futures Trading Commission should adopt rules to restrict speculative short sales and short sale orders of an agricultural commodity in oversupply, including provisions that substantially raise the margin requirements on speculative short sale orders for a person who would have a net short position in the agricultural commodity in oversupply.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of the Senate transmit a copy of this resolution to the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.
