

“Minnesota, so lately admitted into the Federal Union, will be second to no State in devotion to everything that makes for the safety, the glory and perpetuity of our Confederation. And, while secession and disunion are daily proclaimed by members of both Houses of Congress, simply in the event that a party, other than their own, becomes predominant in the national councils, we should offer our firm resolve and pledge to our older and stronger sister States, that, as far as depends upon us, we can never encourage, threaten or permit the sundering of those political ties that make of our United States a great, prosperous, powerful nation.”

ALEX. RAMSEY.
