To Whom It May Concern:

Dr. Kimberly Wilburn - Minnetonka City Council, Local Progress Organizing Committee, Board Member Plymouth Area Indivisible, Leader with ISAIAH is proud to support Driver's Licenses for All (H.F. 4/S.F. 27), which is critical to the safety and well-being of Minnesotans

In particular, Everyone deserves to be able to safely get to work, school, the grocery store, and anywhere else. But about 20 years ago, that right was stripped from immigrants in Minnesota. Restoring driver's licenses for all will benefit all Minnesotans by allowing parents to safely get to work, their children's schools, doctors appointments, and more.

It makes our roads safer for everyone

- Minnesotans without immigration status would need to pass a written and driving test to obtain a license, ensuring all drivers are certified to drive.
- Driver's licenses for all means fewer accidents. Issuing licenses to immigrants without immigration status led to a 9% decrease in hit-and-runs in Connecticut and a 7-10% decrease in California.
- With licenses, undocumented drivers will also be required to purchase auto insurance. After passing laws that allow undocumented drivers access to licenses, Utah and New Mexico both saw significant drops in their rates of uninsured drivers.

It benefits families and the economy

- In Minnesota, annual income would increase an estimated $2,000-6,000 for full-time workers lacking immigration status if permitted to obtain a driver's license. That means more spending, boosting Minnesota's economy for all of us.
- Greater Minnesota and the agricultural sector depend on immigrant workers, who need safe and legal access to roads in rural areas with little to no existing public transit.
- All drivers benefit from lower auto insurance rates in states that grant driving privileges regardless of immigration status.
- In Oregon, research found that barring immigrants lacking immigration status from receiving driver's licenses would likely cause the state to lose $134-201.9 million in gross domestic product due to the difficulty they would have in accessing their jobs without driving.
- In New York, research showed that newly licensed immigrants would buy and register more cars.
- Research in New York and Massachusetts found that government revenue increases created by permit and license fees and license renewal fees easily exceed any costs.
- Connecticut's DMV collected $7.5 million in license fees over four years offset by just $300,000 to ramp up the new license program

o It makes life safer for our immigrant neighbors and friends

- As of 2018, 30,700 U.S. citizen children in Minnesota have parents who lack immigration status, 2.4% of all children under 18 in the state. For these mixed-status families, issuing licenses to parents means giving U.S. citizen children safer access to essential services like education and healthcare.
- Law enforcement supports creating access to driver's licenses for all immigrants to be able to verify everyone's identity, giving them greater ability to protect public safety.
- Allowing immigrants to obtain licenses regardless of immigration status would grant greater ability to enforce laws in immigrant communities. Allowing them access to a license, a way to drive legally, and a way to identify themselves to law enforcement would increase trust

- between immigrant communities and law enforcement, leading to greater collaboration and cooperation.
- Immigrants with access to driver's licenses are able to help their citizen children go to school, to the doctor, and to activities and employment, building stronger families and communities for all.
- It keeps our communities healthy in the fight against COVID-19
 - 69% of individuals without immigration status work in front-line jobs considered "essential" to the U.S. fight against COVID-19. We need to ensure they have safe, reliable transportation to work.
 - Driver's licenses improve healthcare access and health outcomes for Minnesotans lacking immigration status, which strengthens our entire community's health.
- Restoring access to Drivers Licenses for All will protect victims of domestic violence
 - Victims of domestic violence are particularly vulnerable without access to a driver's license.
 - Abuse rates among immigrant women are as high as 49.8%, according to the National Organization for Women. This crisis was exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic.
 - Immigrant women have dramatically fewer people they can turn to, and not having a driver's license impedes their ability to create a safety plan.
- o Restoring access to Drivers Licenses for All will expand children's access to healthcare
 - Parents without a driver's license, especially in rural areas, face barriers accessing services such as healthcare, nutrition, and educational opportunities for their children.
 - Teens with undocumented parents tend to have higher levels of anxiety and depressive symptoms. These children are more likely to need health care and need a parent with a license to be able to drive them to access care.
 - When Utah began licensing drivers without status, immigrant mothers were better able to get adequate prenatal care.
