No motor vehicle may be operated in Minnesota unless an automobile liability insurance policy, or other evidence of financial responsibility, is in effect in at least the minimum amounts prescribed by Minnesota law. It will be considered in violation of the law to issue, display or have in possession proof of insurance that has been altered or is fictitious.

The law also requires that you provide your policy number and the name of your insurance company on your vehicle registration renewal notice. You may also be required to provide proof of insurance, at the request of a law enforcement official or at the time of an accident. Failure to comply with Minnesota law is punishable by imprisonment, a fine of not less than $200, and no more than the maximum amount authorized by law and revocation of driving privileges up to 12 months. The court may allow community service in lieu of any fine.

THIS FORM DOES NOT CONSTITUTE ANY PART OF YOUR INSURANCE POLICY AND MAY NOT BE USED TO MODIFY THE TERMS OR CONDITIONS OF THE POLICY. EXAMINE YOUR POLICY CAREFULLY.
