Senate State and Local Government and Veterans Committee
SF4655, Ramsey County EDA creation

Chair and committee members,

I am a lifelong resident of Ramsey County. I was employed by the Minnesota Senate from 1995 to 2002. I served as mayor of the City of Roseville from 2000-2004.

In 2016, I led the effort to successfully defeat the Ramsey County suburban EDA bill that had the same intent as the bill before you today, being presented under similar circumstances. I wrote a column about the ordeal in the April 12, 2016 edition of the Anoka County Record. I have attached this article, the 2016 legislation, and my city's currently valid resolution in opposition of this EDA proposal to my testimony.

I opposed the bill in 2016 and oppose the bill before you today for several reasons:

First, the process Ramsey County has gone about to seek this authority is nothing more than a raw exercise of political power at the expense of suburban county residents and suburban city elected leadership. It is unethical, underhanded, and runs roughshod over the rights of the people that exist under current law and the Ramsey County Home Rule Charter.

It should seriously concern this committee that it was I, a regular county resident, who first informed my city's elected leadership and staff that the House version of this bill was up for a hearing on March 6, 2024. Note that the hearing request was withdrawn the day prior and therefore has not received a hearing in the House.

Second, current law already allows Ramsey County to create an EDA through one of two processes. Minnesota Statutes 469.1082 already provides a framework to accomplish this. What Ramsey County opposes is that they cannot dictate its creation by fiat. Instead it must be recommended by a local committee made up of local stakeholders throughout the county who would first study the issue. If recommended and created, cities would still retain the option to join this county EDA, instead of the mandate demanded by Ramsey County.

In addition, Ramsey County is the only home rule charter county in Minnesota, created by legislation in 1987. The county board has had the authority to recommend placing the creation of a county EDA on the ballot for the past 35 years. Their opposition is likely due to the fact that approval would require a vote of county residents, the last group they have any interest in consulting.

Third, this is yet another scheme by Ramsey County to raise regressive property taxes on suburban cities, for the purpose of doling out corporate welfare to favored businesses and developers. In 2016, a Ramsey County Commissioner lamented to me how disappointed he was that the county didn't have the ability to add county taxpayer dollars to Shoreview's $1.3 million taxpayer subsidy to replace a Rainbow Foods with a Kowalski's supermarket that year.

It would not surprise me to hear Ramsey County claim that this bill language and their efforts differ from 2016. They are correct, but for the wrong reasons. Back in 2016, the county proposed taxing all suburban cities for their EDA, but would allow them to veto projects in their jurisdictions. I read the 2024 version as giving Ramsey County carte blanche authority to do whatever they please with or without the consent of suburban elected officials. Furthermore, when a city council is cut out of the decision making process, that also eliminates the public's ability to speak on these issues at hearings.

While the legislation is somewhat ambiguous on its face to the following point, as explained to me by county staff in 2016, Ramsey County will only have the authority to exercise these new EDA powers in suburban Ramsey County, as the City of St. Paul's authority predates. St. Paul's HRA was founded in 1947 and their EDA in 2009.

The suburban Ramsey County delegation that would be impacted by this bill is Sen. Gustafson, Sen. Kunesh, Sen. Marty, Sen. Xiong, Sen. Mitchell, and Sen. Oumou Verbeten, none of whom are co-authors of this bill.

For the reasons stated above, and because it appears that this bill failed to meet last Friday's deadline, I would ask committee members to vote a hard no on this proposal.

Sincerely,

John M. Kyslyczyn

Turnout for School Board Special Election increases by 250%

Asamarai wins Col Hts school board seat

Hala Asamarai won the last of two Columbia Heights ISD 13 school board seats that were put to special election after resignations in July and October of last year. Natai Severson won the first seat at a Jan. 26, 2016 special election.

What made the April 5 election of Asamarai significant was the surge in voter turnout. 1,343 voters came out, but this was still short of a 10% turnout. The three special elections prior (a primary and a general election was required for each seat) barely got above a 3% turnout. Shortly before the April 5 special election the Star Tribune reported a rift between Muslims in the area. There were predictions of a closer race and higher turnout, both of which turned out to be accurate. Asamarai had 740 votes to Tim Utz's 599.

Legislation addressing school board member removal

A bill taking away a school board's ability to remove one of its own elected members has been introduced in the state House of Representatives by Rep. Linda Runbeck (R-Circle Pines). House File 1962 was sent to the Government Operations and Elections Policy Committee, chaired by Rep. Tim Sanders (R-Blaine) and Rep. Cindy Pugh (R-Chanhassen). The bill has not yet had a hearing. It modifies statutes 351.14 and 351.16, which currently provides for the removal of a county elected official. The new bill strikes out county and replaces it with "local official".

A citizens' petition would be required for the removal process to begin. The petition would have to specify charges of "malfeasance or nonfeasance in the performance of official duties..." The number of signatures required is presently 25% of those who voted in the last

After Gross Misrepresentations, Anoka Legislators Pull Support of Bill

Runbeck and Chamberlain Abandon Ramsey County EDA Proposal

Publisher's Column

John Kyslyczyn

April 12, 2016 - Yesterday morning, Ramsey County Commissioner Blake Huffman and staff lobbyist Nicholas Riley were walking the halls of the state capitol complex. Huffman was trying to save Ramsey County's proposal to create a County Economic Development Authority (EDA). It was too late.

The chief author in the Minnesota House, Rep. Linda Runbeck (R-Circle Pines), was permanently withdrawing her Ramsey County EDA bill, HF2957. It would not receive its final hearing at tomorrow's House Property Tax and Local Government Finance Division meeting. Had the bill passed out of this committee, it most likely would have become law. Sen. Roger Chamberlain (R-Lino Lakes) also withdrew his support from the Senate bill.

Rep. Runbeck and Sen. Chamberlain made their decision after learning of the gross misrepresentations made by Ramsey County officials. Whether they were intentionally made or not, is a matter of debate.

EDA: Current Law vs. County's Request

With a County EDA, Ramsey County Commissioners, regardless of intent, would be able to more easily give away taxpayer dollars for what many would consider corporate welfare. Subsidies could include free streets, utilities, parking ramps, transit stops, training, flat-out cash subsidies, or forgivable loans, all under the guise of retaining or bringing businesses into the county.

County Commissioners had the option of creating this EDA under current law without involving legislators. Minnesota Statutes 469.1082 allows for the appointment of a citizen committee of 11 to 15 local stakeholders who would represent local government business, labor, etc. Only two members of the committee could be county begin. The petition would have to specify charges of malfeasance or nonfeasance in the performance of official duties...” The number of signatures required is presently 25% of those who voted in the last election for the office in question and petition signatures must be that of registered voters who reside in the jurisdiction.

Among the authors of the Senate version is Sen. Michelle Benson (R-Han Lake).

Removals of and threatened removals against school board members have taken place in Saint Francis, Cambridge, Duluth and Farmington among others in recent years.

Grant Nichols was the subject of a removal process from the Columbia Heights ISD 13 school board last fall, but the board lacked one vote to carry it through. Nichols was then pressured into resigning, although he had not been charged with malfeasance or nonfeasance in his official duties. (See Anoka County Record, Sept. 18, Sept. 25, Oct. 16, 2015).

DFL endorses candidates for Senate District 41 and House seats

Rep. Carolyn Laine of Columbia Heights was endorsed April 2 as the DFL candidate for Senate District 41 in the fall elections. Sen. Barb Goodwin is retiring, creating an open seat.

Mary Kunesh-Podein was endorsed for Laine’s 41B House seat. She has been a past candidate for New Brighton City Council.

Rep. Connie Bernardy, who challenged Laine for the SD 41 endorsement, was endorsed to run for re-election to the 41A House seat.

— Bryan Olson for ACR

Instead of following current law, County Commissioners asked legislators to pass a special law to create their County EDA... without the public committee... and without the ability of cities to independently decide whether they wanted to contribute tax base. They also included language that allowed the commissioners to appoint themselves to every seat on the County EDA.

Commissioner Huffman defended this decision by stating, “The County’s proposal makes the process more streamlined.” He also felt it would be unfair if Ramsey County had to go through the citizen committee process when other counties in the past didn’t have to. Huffman indicated that time was short and action needed to be taken now.

Assistant Ramsey County Administrator Heather Worthington echoed similar comments. She stated, “The legislation was written to achieve flexibility”, implying that the citizen committee process was cumbersome. Worthington indicated that staff has been discussing economic development issues for several years.

Gross Misrepresentation – No City Support

Rep. Runbeck and Sen. Chamberlain were given the impression that city elected officials were fully informed and supportive of the County EDA. Lobbyist Riley told the Record that all city elected officials in the county were aware of the County EDA proposal and were supportive. That claim directly conflicted with the Record’s findings.

The Record contacted local elected officials in the county, some of them very well connected in the political system, and not one had even heard of the County EDA proposal. One participated in several county-hosted economic development meetings and still never heard of it. The Record spoke with North St. Paul councilmember Jan

Commissioner Huffman informed the Record that he knew of several local elected officials that were aware of the County EDA and stated that maybe the Record did not make enough phone calls. He began to offer, but then declined to provide the Record with a list of names. When asked how many of these local elected officials testified in support of his bill at the capitol, he said none, which was confirmed by the committee meeting minutes.

not create an EDA by means already available in state law, Administrator Worthington stated, "They felt that this would not meet their goals." She also said if they could not do this by special legislation, they would probably not pursue this.

Commissioner Huffman sidestepped the question numerous times. He said, "The board didn't reject the citizen committee process. We believe that pursuing special legislation to create a County EDA is the best option." He didn't oppose the citizen committee; he just didn't have any interest in it. Huffman was adamant that there was a significant difference between these two positions.

A Public Process? That Depends...

Administrator Worthington claimed that by seeking special legislation at the capitol, this proves that the county was being very open to the public with their efforts. She stated, "County staff determined they could have expanded their authority on their own, but felt it was more transparent to seek special legislation." The county narrowed the choices to notifying no one vs. notifying capitol lobbyists. The third option of appointing a stakeholder committee and hold public meetings, would have notified thousands of regular citizens, but apparently was not a desirable option in the minds of County Commissioners.

County Continues To Push Ahead Cities Beware

Administrator Worthington informed the Record that county staff and attorneys spent months determining the best and most efficient way to create a County EDA. The Record requested a copy of the legal analysis which supported their decision to eliminate the citizens committee, force cities to contribute tax base, and allow commissioners to appoint themselves the capitol, he said none, which was confirmed by the committee meeting minutes.

Gross Misrepresentation

The Record asked lobbyist Riley, Administrator Worthington, and Commissioner Huffman why they did not inform Rep. Rumbek and Sen. Chamberlain that the County EDA proposal eliminated the citizens committee, forced all cities to contribute tax base, and allowed the county commissioners to appoint themselves to every seat.

Lobbyist Riley informed the Record that he did not know any of these things, and had no understanding of the tax issues. He said, "I didn't do any research. I just asked the Revisor's office to draft something like Scott County has. When asked why the Ramsey County Board will back to me to get it done,"

I gave that to the administration. They gave it back to me to get it done."

When asked why the Ramsey County Board will only a series of verbal discussions.

What Administrator Worthington made very clear to the Record, and city officials beware, is that county staff will continue to pursue the County EDA they want regardless of what any city elected officials or staff have to say about it. The County Board has told staff how they want this job done and staff is obligated to follow through until the County Board changes their mind.

Expect county staff to make attempts to sneak this County EDA onto some other bill as an amendment this session. As a last resort, they will find different legislators that did not read this article, and hope they will carry this same bill in the 2017 Legislative Session. - ACR
