2023 Enacted Legislation

Minnesota Laws 2023, chapter 61, article 8, now codified as Minnesota Statutes, chapter 246C, establishes the Department of Direct Care and Treatment as a separate state agency effective January 1, 2025.

The 2023 legislation also contained a direction to the nonpartisan legislative staff to “prepare legislation for introduction in the 2024 legislative session proposing the statutory changes necessary to implement the transfers of duties” required by the 2023 legislation. H.F. 3987, as introduced, is the product of this direction from the legislature to the nonpartisan legislative staff.

The legislature also directed the commissioner of human services to “prepare legislation for introduction during the 2024 legislative session ... for the creation and implementation of the Direct Care and Treatment executive board and defining the responsibilities, powers, and functions of the Department of Direct Care and Treatment executive board.” The Commissioner’s proposals related to the Executive Board are not contained in H.F. 3987, as introduced.

The Purpose of H.F. 3987

The purpose of H.F. 3987 is to make all the necessary changes to Minnesota Statutes to transfer to the Department of Direct Care and Treatment Executive Board all the duties and authorities currently vested in the commissioner of human services with respect to the activities of the Division of Direct Care and Treatment. This bill does not address the composition of the Executive Board nor establish any new responsibilities, powers, or functions of the Executive Board that do not currently exist as responsibilities, powers, or functions of the commissioner.

Nonpartisan staff have reorganized the affected language for clarity and ease of use, updated terminology, and removed obsolete language.

This recodification is not intended to change existing policy or to have a fiscal impact beyond the reorganization of executive branch functions.

Drafting Techniques in H.F. 3987

A mix of different drafting techniques were used to accomplish the goal of transferring all relevant duties and authorities related to direct care and treatment from the Commissioner of Human Services to the Department of Direct Care and Treatment, including renumbering existing statutes, repealing and re-enacting existing statutes, changing terminology, and making technical and editorial changes to current statutes. Many sections of the first nine articles of the bill are amended but are also included in the revisor instruction to renumber the sections. In these cases, the language as amended in this bill will be moved as the instruction indicates.

Renumbering

H.F. 3987 compiles into chapter 246C all the existing language concerning the duties and authorities relating to direct care and treatment currently vested in the commissioner of human services and compiles into chapter 246 all the language relating to specific services offered by the existing Division of Direct Care and Treatment unless those services are covered by chapter 246B. These compilations are accomplished primarily via the revisor instruction that begins on page 120, line 10.

Repeal and re-enactment

Sometimes the existing language does not lend itself to being easily renumbered, usually because the language being moved is at the sentence level. In this situation, the existing language is repealed in the bill and recreated as appropriate as new language in the bill. The repealer is on page 123, and while most of the statutory language on the list is being repealed because it is obsolete or redundant, three repealed sections are at least partially re-enacted in the bill: sections 246.01, 246.014, and 252.50, subdivision 1.

Changing terms

The easiest way to accomplish the changes requested by the legislature is to change every relevant instance of “commissioner of human services” to “direct care and treatment executive board.” On page 122, lines 23 and 30, there are revisor instructions to make these changes during the upcoming interim prior to publishing the 2024 edition of Minnesota Statutes.

Inline amendments

Any section of existing statute that nonpartisan staff determined needed to be amended in a way not captured by the revisor’s instructions was pulled into one of the first nine articles of the bill. These sections include technical and editorial changes as well as language to accomplish the transfer of duties and authorities that could not be accomplished by simply changing “commissioner” to “executive board.”

New language

Relocated language appearing as new

Sometimes relocated language appears as new language. In these instances, the new language is nearly identical to existing language that appears elsewhere in statute, but could not be easily renumbered by a revisor instruction.

New language capturing existing authorities

Article 1, section 27, contains new language that captures existing administrative functions performed by the commissioner of human services that require a mechanism for the executive board to continue. This language authorizes the executive board to contract with the commissioner to continue to perform these functions.

Article 3 is closely related to the language in article 1, section 27, and serves a similar purpose. The new language in this article is required to differentiate between which final orders following an administrative hearing are to be made by the commissioner and which by the executive board, to ensure that one agency does not infringe on the discretion of the other, and that the two agencies communicate information that the other may require.

Other examples of new language capturing existing authority include cases where the executive board is being given joint authority with the commissioner, the discretion of the executive board is being preserved, or a provision is being expanded to include both the commissioner and the executive board.

Chapter 246: State-Operated Services

Below is a table showing the statutory organization of chapter 246, which has been modified to govern the services provided by the new Department of Direct Care and Treatment. Several existing sections within chapter 246 have been renumbered and some existing sections from chapters 251 (Care of Tuberculosis Persons), 252 (Services for Persons with Developmental Disabilities), and 256 (Human Services), have been moved into this chapter. Additional services that will be administered by the Department of Direct Care and Treatment are in the existing chapter 246B (Sex Offender Program).
