Dear Chair Port and Members of the Committee,

The Equity in Place coalition is writing to express our strong support for Senator Mohamed's bill SF 3201, which would grant tenants across the state the affirmative right to organize for the stability, safety, and dignity of their homes.

Equity in Place is a diverse group of strategic partners from organizations led by people of color and housing advocacy organizations. We believe that everyone in Minnesota deserves to live where they want to live and have access to opportunity.

We know our state is stronger when families, children and workers can put down roots in the neighborhoods they call home. But housing stability is still a far-away dream for many of the 620,000 renter households in Minnesota who often face affordability issues and/or deal with unjust conditions in their housing. Tenants are increasingly likely to deal with an out-of-state corporation as their landlord, and their ability to request timely repairs, negotiate rent adjustments, and ultimately engage on more equal terms has diminished. Because of these factors, renters in Minnesota are forming tenants' associations and organizing against rent hikes, poor conditions, and mass evictions. But there's risk involved — tenants can face retaliation and eviction by their landlords, simply for organizing to improve their lives.

SF 3201 provides a tenant empowerment tool designed to ensure tenants can organize against unfair or illegal practices, without fear that they will be wrongfully retaliated against. Many Equity in Place member organizations work with tenants asserting their rights to dignified housing who then face unfair intimidation and retaliation from landlords for merely asking them to honor their leases and obey the law. As examples, the New American Development Center worked with renters who were informally evicted and displaced after requesting basic maintenance. In 2022 alone, HOME Line's hotline received 485 calls related to landlord retaliation and intimidation of tenants. This is an issue that our state needs to take a lead in addressing.

Equity in Place urges you to vote YES on SF 3201. If you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,
