During the review period, we enrolled 217 participants, of which 197 successfully engaged in either a training program or employment. We introduced work readiness training, which has proven highly effective in preparing participants for skills training and employment. This initiative has significantly enhanced workplace interactions, performance, and self-awareness among participants. These improvements have resulted in higher job retention rates and livable wages.

In addition, we have observed steady success by introducing new programs such as IT, boiler and ServSafe certifications, which broaden the opportunities available to participants. During this period, 67 participants completed credential or certificate training, and 107 secured employment with wages exceeding $24 per hour at the time of exit. Notably, our efforts have impacted 49% previously incarcerated individuals, 29% unsheltered individuals, 61% immigrants, and 97% participants living below the poverty line.

Our current progress highlights the effectiveness of our clear strategies, dedicated teams, and unwavering commitment to excellence. With sustained momentum, we are confident in our ability to achieve our goals and pave the way for even greater accomplishments in the future.
