The year of 1960 is just about kaput. It was suppose to be a sizzler but it turned out to be just an average year for everyone. But it was a rewarding year. No war, most all of us enjoyed a good standard of living, and the outlook for the future is good. Could have been a lot worse. So we do have a great deal to be thankful for. I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the business given our firm this year and the friends we made. Also may 1961 be a Happy and Prosperous year for all of you.

In 1961 nothing Great will be achieved without enthusiasm.

During the following cases and 1955-59 the following cases and deaths were reported to the state health department: 214 cases of diphtheria with 20 deaths; 1,379 cases of pertussis with 4 deaths; 989 cases of poliomyelitis with 37 deaths; and 38 cases of tetanus with 12 deaths.

Many of these 2,611 cases and most of the 73 deaths could have been prevented if every susceptible person had received the proper immunizations as a preventive measure, according to Dr. D. S. Fleming, director of the division of disease prevention and control. The value of immunization in the prevention of disease is reflected in two studies, one of diphtheria and the other of polio cases and deaths.

In 1959 there were 860 cases of diphtheria reported to the U. S. Public Health Service. In a cooperative study of these cases with the states involved, the immunization status was obtained in 755 cases. Only 46 patients had been fully immunized, representing an immunization failure of six percent. No deaths were reported among these patients, and only five deaths occurred in persons who had been immunized at some time in their lives. A total of 41 deaths occurred among the 555 persons (74%) with no prior history of immunization.

Polio epidemics, such as the one in Minnesota in 1952 in which 3,926 cases and 206 deaths were reported, could still occur unless a greater proportion of the population is protected. Of the 200 paralytic cases reported in Minnesota in 1959, 158 (79%) occurred in persons who had received no Salk vaccine or less than the three doses recommended as the primary series. Of the 17 deaths reported, 11 victims had received no vaccine. Four others had received less than the recommended primary series. Although tetanus is not a communicable disease, cases and

Country Cousins 4-H Club Has Christmas Party

A gayly decorated recreation room with fireplace and Christmas trimmings was the scene when the Country Cousins met at the Severn Alquist home for their December meeting. Our leader, Mrs. Vincent Hilgert installed the club officers which were: president Vince Hilgert; vice president, Albert Hechtman; secretary, Janice Spartz and treasurer, Larry Alquist.

The club voted to make marshmallow snowmen favors for the Children's Hospital in St. Paul. The project is to be completed December 16 at the Al Hechtman home.

The following volunteered to serve on committees: Calling, Al Hechtman and Brian Germundsen; they will call members for unscheduled events. Ways and Means: Bill Anstett and Douglas White; they will think of ways to raise money for our club. Transportation: Brian Germundsen and Mike Dellno; they make arrangements for transportation to meetings and other activities. Librarian: Vickie Hill, Vickie will keep a folder for each project carried by our members. This folder is then checked out by anyone desiring to use it for reference material for demonstration or project talks.

Bill Anstett has attended the county craft project meeting with his mother, Mrs. William Anstett who is our craft project leader. He showed us how to make holiday candles from bees wax and sequins. Bill has learned how to make so many things. He promised us another demonstration next month. Larry Alquist gave a very timely project talk on the proper care and use of our Christmas tree. He stressed the following don'ts for a safer holiday.

1. Don't put lighted candles on the tree.
2. Don't place it near doorways or exits.
3. Don't place near furniture where proper might be smoking.
4. Don't leave lights plugged in when retiring or going out.
5. Don't put strings of lights without checking wiring for breaks.
7. Fire? Don't try to do it yourself, call your fire department.

Our mother's were our guests for our party and Santa came and distributed the gifts we had made for them. We made a plaque from an old record and dry materials, this we sprayed with gold paint. Our mother's were very happy with the gift. An elaborate and delicious Christmas party lunch was served by mesdames Alquist, White and Germundsen. Our next meeting will be January 10 at the William and Anstett home.

State Health Department Urges Immunizations To Help Curb Preventable Disease Spread

Cases and deaths which continue to occur in Minnesota from several preventable diseases as diphtheria (whooping cough), poliomyelitis, and tetanus (lockjaw) indicate that much remains to be done, even though the death rate from all communicable diseases dropped from 58.8 per 100, population in 1949 to 43.5 in 1958.

During the five-year period 1955-59 the following cases and deaths were reported to the state health department: 214 cases of diphtheria with 20 deaths; 1,000 cases of pertussis with 4 deaths; 989 cases of poliomyelitis with 12 deaths; and 38 cases of tetanus with 12 deaths.

Many of these 2,611 cases could have been prevented if every susceptible person had received the proper immunizations as a preventive measure, according to Dr. I. Fleming, director of the division of disease prevention and control.

The value of immunization in the prevention of disease is reflected in two studies, one of diphtheria and the other of poliomyelitis and deaths.

Many of these 2,611 cases and most of the 73 deaths could have been prevented if every susceptible person had received the proper immunizations as a preventive measure, according to Dr. D. S. Fleming, director of the division of disease prevention and control.

The value of immunization in the prevention of disease is reflected in two studies, one of diphtheria and the other of polio cases and deaths.

In 1959 there were 860 cases of diphtheria reported to the U. S. Public Health Service. In a cooperative study of these cases with the states involved, the immunization status was obtained in 755 cases. Only 46 patients had been fully immunized, representing an immunization failure of six percent. No deaths were reported among these patients, and only five deaths occurred in persons who had been immunized at some time in their lives. A total of 41 deaths occurred among the 555 persons (74%) with no prior history of immunization.

Polio epidemics, such as the one in Minnesota in 1952 in which 3,926 cases and 206 deaths were reported, could still occur unless a greater proportion of the population is protected. Of the 200 paralytic cases reported in Minnesota in 1959, 158 (79%) occurred in persons who had received no Salk vaccine or less than the three doses recommended as the primary series. Of the 17 deaths reported, 11 victims had received no vaccine. Four others had received less than the recommended primary series.

Although tetanus is not a communicable disease, cases and deaths continue to require immunization is recommended. It is listed that six of who died from tetanus during the had not been properly immunized. The immunization of others was not recommended.

Immunization protects against infection and result from minor injuries, as well as tetanus. Persons previously immunized against tetanus should receive a booster dose of tetanus toxoid, especially in areas where tetanus is penetrating at a rapid rate.

The Minnesota Health Department recommends immunization against tetanus, polio, pertussis, and diphtheria during the first year of life, with booster doses at regular intervals, particularly in order to maintain high levels of immunity.

Dr. Flemming pointed out that what has been accomplished in the last 25 years in the Immunization against tetanus protects against infection that may result from minor cuts and scratches, as well as severe wounds. Persons previously immunized against tetanus should receive a booster dose of toxoid in case of injury, especially if their wounds are penetrating and contaminated with dirt.

The Minnesota Department of Health recommends primary immunization against smallpox, diphtheria, polio, pertussis, and tetanus during the first year of life. Booster doses should be given at regular intervals, perhaps throughout life, in order to insure adequate levels of immunity.

Dr. Flemming points out that what has been accomplished in the last 25 years in the control of certain diseases should not lead to complacency. As exposure to natural disease disappears, persons have less chance to build up natural immunity.

"If we are to maintain the gains made, we must do more and more immunizing since it is impossible to completely eradicate these diseases. Protection is especially important during infancy and pre-school years since these children lack natural immunity to these diseases," Dr. Fleming states.

From 1955 to 1959 non-military spending by the federal government increased by $10.8 billion. This was more than it cost to run the entire government in 1940.
