

PROCLAMATION

- WHEREAS: Thomas Alva Edison contributed so much to the birth of modern American science as any man, and
- WHEREAS: His inventive genius has greatly improved the welfare of Americans and other peoples of the world, has created industries upon which the soundness of the American economy rests, and has contributed significantly to America's present technological pre-eminence in the world today, and
- WHEREAS: In order to successfully encounter the serious problems posed during contemporary times, this nation needs many more men of science, and
- WHEREAS: To secure greater scientific manpower it is essential that more young Americans be motivated toward careers in science and that obstacles confronting young people attempting to pursue scientific careers be removed, and
- WHEREAS: In this age of limitless scientific horizons, our country's need for men inspired by the example of Edison has never been more urgent, and
- WHEREAS: February 11, 1972, marks the 125th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Alva Edison,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Wendell R. Anderson, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim Friday, February 11, 1972, as in Minnesota, and urge the citizens of the State to honor the inspiring heritage of America's great inventive genius, Thomas Alva Edison, by lending full support to all activities demonstrating to youth the unique challenges of science and invention in today's expanding universe.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota to be affixed at the State Capitol this twenty-fifth day of January in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seventy-two and of the State the one hundred fiftieth.
