

Proclamation

- REAS: Volunteers play a helpful role in the solutions to many human problems that occur in our complex modern society; and
- REAS: Volunteers can make the difference between liveable cities and urban decay, between strong communities and neighborhood disintegration, between a clean environment and a polluted one; and
- REAS: Half of all Minnesotans, representing every social, economic, ethnic and religious background, are volunteers in some capacity; and
- REAS: Volunteering provides the individual with opportunities for growth, career exploration and civic contribution in a personally satisfying setting; and
- REAS: Volunteering is a significant act of self-expression, permitting each of us to choose that activity and level of involvement that best reflects our individual priorities;

W, THEREFORE, I, Albert H. Quie, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim the week of April 22 through April 28, 1979, to be

Minnesota, in appreciation of the countless hours expended by so many citizens on behalf of their fellow Minnesotans.

#32065

RTHERMORE, I applaud the spirit of service that motivates these volunteers to the variety of worthwhile activities that depend on their help for success, and urge all Minnesotans to join me in acknowledging and encouraging the dedicated efforts of volunteers in our state.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota to be affixed at the State Capitol this twenty-seventh day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred seventy-nine, and of the State the one hundred twenty-first.
