

Proclamation

WHEREAS: The increasing costs of office personnel, equipment and space, plus the skyrocketing volume of paper work which confronts government and industry mandate ever-greater efficiency in offices throughout our state and nation; and

WHEREAS: Technological advances of recent years have increased the ease with which many office tasks may be performed; and

WHEREAS: The changing nature of personnel management has contributed to the redefinition of office roles, affording the opportunity for job assignments to reflect more closely each office's individual needs; and

WHEREAS: Continued openness to change as well as participation in programs of professional development will serve Minnesota's offices and office workers well in years to come;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Albert H. Quie, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim the week of May 13 through May 19, 1979, to be in Minnesota, and encourage all those interested in better business management to reflect on the need for continuous adaptation in offices throughout our state to meet the challenges of the future.
