WHEREAS: Human beings must live and work for peace, moreso than fight and die for it, so that peace as a path for the future becomes a reality; and

WHEREAS: The world is now a small community in terms of mutual dependency and communications between peoples, states and cities of the world in actions leading to peace or war; and

WHEREAS: The Worldwide Peace Day Foundation, through programs and activities involving schools, community groups and educators, having originated in this nation's capitol, offers a service for unity in human problem solving under threat of universal disaster;
