

Proclamation

HEREAS: Fathers render invaluable service to labor, industry, commerce and every field of endeavor which is necessary for the family, community, public welfare and the prosperity and health of the Nation; and

HEREAS: We look to the Father in the home as a dedicated partner in guiding the children and inspiring in them the importance of the morals and ethics and the fundamental laws which govern relationships among all people and to impress upon them the value of all the civic involvement and family responsibility which are the requisites of good American Citizenship; and

HEREAS: It is appropriate that we designate one day in the year to pay tribute in a broad concurrence of public expression to the respect and reverence in which we hold the Father as a responsible leader of the family in our American Society;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Rudy Perpich, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim Sunday, ^{June} June 17, 1984, to be

FATHER'S DAY
