

Proclamation

WHEREAS: Americans are A Nation of Readers; and

WHEREAS: Reading has been an integral part of our national experience; and

WHEREAS: America's libraries have nurtured this Nation of Readers with vast resources of knowledge and information; and

WHEREAS: Minnesota libraries have remained free and accessible to all citizens; and

WHEREAS: The quality and quantity of information and services provided by libraries is dependent upon community support; and

WHEREAS: That theme encourages us to learn more, grow more, enjoy more through the power and pleasure of reading and expand our horizons by using the wide variety of written materials our libraries offer;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Rudy Perpich, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim the week of April 14 through April 20, 1985, to be in Minnesota, and urge all citizens to become a part of this Nation of Readers by using their library this week and throughout the year.

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK
