

Proclamation

WHEREAS: One of the greatest joys an individual can experience during a working life is the opportunity to fulfill career goals and objectives; and

WHEREAS: The women of Minnesota and the United States have made great strides in achieving their career goals and becoming a better educated, professional and confident sector of the working society; and

WHEREAS: On November 8 through 9, 1985, Minneapolis will host the kick-off of the national tour of Strategies For Success, a career conference for today's women; and

WHEREAS: This conference is an opportunity for leading national professionals and representatives of major national corporations to discuss current and future hiring trends, educational requirements, and career advancement strategies with those in attendance; and

WHEREAS: It is an excellent opportunity for career women to share common achievements and experiences with one another, while working together to advocate and improve the quality of working life for all people;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Rudy Perpich, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim the second week of November to be in Minnesota.

WOMEN'S CAREER WEEK
