

Proclamation

WHEREAS: The success of Minnesota's schools stems from the competence and dedication of their instructional staffs, combined with the commitment of students, parents and other community members; and

WHEREAS: Citizen volunteers are a vital component of an effective educational experience, assisting professional educators to deliver quality instructional services; and

WHEREAS: Many Minnesota communities have demonstrated that citizen volunteers in the classroom enhance, extend, and enrich student learning as they contribute to the work of dedicated professional educators; and

WHEREAS: Numerous communities encourage groups, such as business and civic organizations to create mutually beneficial working partnerships with their schools, thus offering positive support from the community, which, in turn, both encourages staff and benefits the students; and

WHEREAS: Unpaid citizen volunteers in classrooms throughout Minnesota contribute daily to the enhancement of the quality of instruction in our schools and, thus, to the development of an educated citizenry; and

WHEREAS: The magnitude, quality, and selflessness of these contributions of Minnesota's citizen school volunteers merit the highest appreciation and gratitude;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Rudy Perpich, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim the twelfth day of November to be
