

Proclamation

WHEREAS: General Casimir Pulaski served courageously and selflessly in the cause of human freedom and dignity during the American War for Independence; and

WHEREAS: General Pulaski, with his own personal funds, organized the "Pulaski Legion" and was mortally wounded in defense of Savannah in 1779 and two days later died on board the ship WASP; and

WHEREAS: The memory of his deed and heroism in a land far removed from his native Poland has served as a constant reminder and an inspiration to all Americans, especially to those of Polish descent, and calls to mind the contributions that other distinguished citizens of Polish ancestry have made to this Nation; and

WHEREAS: General Pulaski's relentless yearning, and striving for freedom for the oppressed peoples of his native land, and all others throughout the world, serve as shining symbols to those who daily face adversity in the struggle for liberation of all mankind;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Rudy Perpich, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim October 11 to be
