I, Elmer A. Benson, Governor of Minnesota, hereby designate the week of

OCTOBER FIRST TO OCTOBER NINTH INCLUSIVE

NATIONAL AIR TRAVEL WEEK

to be observed in this State to commemorate the first ten years of successful passenger transportation by air.

As the end of the first decade in this type of transportation and interstate commerce comes to a close, it behooves every citizen, every State organization and every patriotic American to observe this week as a tribute to the heroic work, great advancement, and increased public convenience which all phases of the aviation industry have so nobly accomplished.

We, as American citizens, can feel proud of these developments which have put America in a leading position in world aviation. We can be proud of our National Government in bringing to fulfillment recent legislation which has created a new Civil Aeronautics Authority, in principle pledged to "Foster and encourage civil aeronautics in this country and abroad." In this body, our Government has given our aviation industry a bulwark of strength upon which it can build during the next decade, and through which it can make even greater advancements than those we are honoring during National Air Travel Week.

We have been fortunate in that those men in our aviation industry are men of vision, courage, resourcefulness and action. Such men have given this country better equipment, more convenient schedules, a choice of dependable airlines criss-crossing the country, and have brought about economies which give our travelers today the opportunity to take advantage of these improvements. Our men in aviation today have accelerated business and pleasure travel which brings to all parts of
