Description of the Office of the State Auditor

The Office of the State Auditor (OSA) serves as a watchdog for Minnesota taxpayers by helping to ensure financial integrity, accountability, and cost-effectiveness in local governments throughout the state.

Through financial, compliance, and special audits, the OSA oversees and ensures that local government funds are used for the purposes intended by law and that local governments hold themselves to the highest standards of financial accountability.

The OSA performs approximately 250 financial and compliance audits per year and has oversight responsibilities for over 4,300 local units of government throughout the state. The office currently maintains five divisions:

Audit Practice - conducts financial and legal compliance audits for local governments;

Government Information - collects and analyzes financial information for cities, towns, counties, and special districts;

Legal/Special Investigations - provides legal analysis and counsel to the Office and responds to outside inquiries about Minnesota local government law; as well as investigates allegations of misfeasance, malfeasance, and nonfeasance in local government.

Pension Oversight - monitors investment, financial, and actuarial reporting for over 700 public pension funds;

Tax Increment Financing (TIF) - promotes compliance and accountability in local governments' use of TIF through financial and compliance audits;

The State Auditor serves on the State Executive Council, State Board of Investment, Land Exchange Board, Public Employee's Retirement Association Board, Minnesota Housing Finance Agency, and the Rural Finance Authority Board.

Scope of Report

This publication is intended to facilitate the understanding of city financial operations by citizens, local government officials, and other policy makers. The report summarizes, through data tables and charts, the financial operations of Minnesota cities under 2,500 in population for calendar year 2001. These cities are required to annually submit annual financial reports to the Office of the State Auditor (OSA).

The data presented in this report is divided into governmental funds and proprietary funds. The governmental funds consist of the General, Special Revenue, Capital Projects, and Debt Service Funds. The financial operations of these funds are summarized in Tables 1 through 3. Tables 5 through 7 present the data by individual city.

The enterprise or proprietary funds of cities are presented separately from the governmental funds. Minnesota cities operate many types of public service enterprises. The enterprises furnish a variety of services and operate wholly or in large part with revenues derived from the sale of goods or services. Table 4 summarizes the operating revenues, expenses, and income/(loss) for city enterprises. The financial operations of the municipal public service enterprises (excluding municipal liquor stores) are presented in tables 8 through 17. Footnotes used in the analysis of the enterprise operations are described at the end of the enterprise fund section. Table 18 details the financial operations of municipal liquor operations.¹

Table 19 lists the bonded and other long-term debt outstanding as of December 31, 2001, by individual city. Other long-term debt refers to liabilities such as long-term lease agreements, installment purchase contracts, and notes.

An analysis of unreserved fund balances is not presented in this report. The majority of cities under 2,500 in population use a cash basis of accounting. The others use a modified accrual basis of accounting. Those cities using a cash basis of accounting report a single cash balance for all governmental funds at the end of the fiscal year. Cities using a modified accrual basis of accounting report separate fund balances for all of their governmental funds and denote the amounts that are reserved and unreserved. Because of the accounting differences among cities under 2,500 in population, a comparative analysis of unreserved fund balances is not appropriate.

The 2000 census decreased the number of cities classified as under 2,500 in population from 668 to 646. From 1991 to 2000, cities were classified as over or under 2,500 in population based on the 1990 census. This was true even if their estimated population changed. From 2001 through 2011, cities will be classified based on the 2000 census. Due to population growth, the following cities are no longer classified as under 2,500 in population: Albertville, Annandale, Appleton, Becker, Byron, Centerville, Chisago City, Cokato, Cold Spring, Greenfield, Lindstrom, Milaca, Montgomery, Perham, Rogers, Roseau, Spring Valley, St. Francis, Victoria, Wabasha, Watertown, Wyoming,

Zimmerman, and Zumbrota. Two cities, Lauderdale and Osseo, lost population between the 1990 and 2000 census and are now included with the group of cities under 2,500 in population. Tables that present data for 1997 through 2000 were not adjusted to reflect the change in the number of cities classified as under 2,500 in population.

In addition to this publication, the Office of the State Auditor maintains an interactive database containing several years of data that can be accessed through the OSA web site. The database allows users to customize the presentation of data to their individual needs. For example, a user can select a group of cities they want to compare, the criteria on which to compare them, and the time frame in which to compare them. The query can then be viewed on screen or saved to a file for downloading. The OSA web site address is www.osa.state.mn.us.

Overview

Change in Cities Under 2,500 in Population

The 2000 census decreased the number of cities classified as under 2,500 in population (small cities) from 668 to 646 (see the Scope for the names of the cities). From 1991 to 2000, cities were classified as over or under 2,500 in population based on the 1990 census. This was true even if their estimated population changed. Starting with 2001, cities are classified based on the 2000 census. The data tables in the report were not adjusted for the changing number of cities.

Total Governmental Revenues

In 2001, cities under 2,500 in population raised total governmental revenues of $333.1 million to finance city services. This represents a decrease of 12.7 percent from the amount raised in 2000. The decrease reflects the reclassification of 24 cities from under 2,500 in population to over 2,500 in population. An analysis comparing only those cities that are now classified as under 2,500 in population showed an increase of 4.5 percent.

The main sources of revenues for small cities in 2001 were state grants and taxes which together accounted for over sixty percent of all revenues. Taxes as a percent of total revenues dropped from 28.3 percent in 2000 to 26.5 percent in 2001, while state grants as a percent of total revenues increased from 30.7 percent to 33.8 percent during the same period. Figure 1 shows the relative shares of total governmental revenues by source. The underlying data for this chart is detailed in Table 1.

Total Governmental Expenditures

Most city services are accounted for in governmental funds. The governmental funds are made up of the General, Special Revenue, Capital Projects, and Debt Service funds. In 2001, cities under 2,500 in population expended $386.4 million from Governmental Funds to provide city services. This represents a decrease of 14.1 percent from 2000 total governmental expenditures. Again, the decrease reflects the reduction in the number of small cities from 2000 to 2001. An analysis of only those cities classified as under 2,500 in population in 2001 showed an increase of 2.7 percent in total expenditures.

The four largest expenditure categories are streets and highways, public safety, debt service and general government. These four categories together accounted for 72.0 percent of all expenditures. Over the last five years, debt service expenditures as a percent of total expenditures have decreased, while general government, public safety, and streets and highways have increased. To examine these and other changes over the five-year period, refer to Table 1.

Growth in Government

During the five-year period of 1997 to 2001, total governmental revenues and total current expenditures increased every year.¹ The rate at which they grew varied from 3.1 percent to 9.1 percent. To place this growth in perspective, Figure 3 below includes a bar showing the growth in per capita personal income for Minnesotans.² Per capita income is an indicator of the ability of citizens to pay for governmental spending. Generally, when expenditures grow faster than per capita personal income, citizens must spend a greater proportion of their income on governmental services. However, if non-tax sources of revenue keep pace or grow faster than expenditures, the increased spending may not result in a greater tax burden for citizens.

Figure 3 compares the growth in total current expenditures and total governmental revenues to the change in Minnesota per capita personal income from 1997 to 2001. During this period, total current expenditures grew faster than per capita income for four of the five years. Total governmental revenues grew faster than per capita income for three of the five years.

¹ The chart excludes capital outlay as it is more prone to yearly fluctuations. The chart also excludes revenues derived from borrowing because cities are prohibited from borrowing for current expenditures. Most capital projects are funded through the issuance of bonds or other types of borrowing such as certificates of participation.

Capital Outlay Expenditures

Capital outlay expenditures account for the purchase, construction or permanent improvements of buildings, equipment, machinery, and land. Cities expended $118.5 million on capital investments in 2001. This represents a decrease of 20.5 percent from the level expended in 2000. An analysis of only those cities under 2,500 in 2001 shows a decrease of 5.1 percent.

Capital outlays are more likely than current expenditures to vary significantly from one year to the next. The reason for this is that capital projects tend to be large in size, but the associated costs are short-term. Some of the factors that influence the level of capital investments include: demands for public meeting places and facilities, the need to replace aging infrastructure, public safety concerns, infrastructure improvements for new developments, and damage to public facilities caused by fire, floods, and storms.

Figure 4 illustrates the trend in capital spending for the years 1997 through 2001. Table 7 provides a detailed analysis of capital outlays for individual cities.

Municipal Enterprises

In addition to Governmental Funds, many cities establish Enterprise Funds to account for services that are financed and operated in a manner similar to private business enterprises. These enterprises are intended to be self-sustaining through fees and user charges. Although some enterprises earn a net income, most have the objective of breaking even. The most common enterprises created by cities are electric, gas, sewer, water, and heat utilities.

The net income of municipal enterprises decreased 25.1 percent, and net transfers (transfers out minus transfers in) from Enterprise Funds decreased 27.2 percent between 2000 and 2001. An analysis of only those cities under 2,500 in population in 2001 showed a decrease of 6.6 percent in net income and a decrease of 19.5 percent in net transfers. An example of this type of transfer is when a city transfers excess reserves from its water utility enterprise fund to the city's General Fund.

Municipal liquor stores, which are separated from other municipal enterprises because of accounting differences, showed a decrease of 7.1 percent in net income but an increase of 0.6 percent in net transfers between 2000 and 2001. An analysis comparing only those cities under 2,500 in population in 2001 showed an increase of 4.8 percent in net income and a decrease of 1.5 percent in net transfers. The primary purpose of municipal liquor stores is to provide additional revenues to cities, whereas other types of municipal enterprises primarily exist to provide a particular service for the city and citizens.

Figure 5 examines the five-year trend in net transfers from enterprise and municipal liquor store funds as a percent of net income. Tables 8 through 18 provide additional details on municipal enterprises.

Outstanding Long-Term Indebtedness

Cities incur long-term debt through the issuance of bonds and notes, certificates of indebtedness, and tax anticipation certificates. Long-term lease agreements are also classified as long-term debt. Cities may only borrow to finance capital projects and purchases. Cities are restricted by law from borrowing for current expenditures. The amount of outstanding debt affects a city's current expenditures because cities must make principal and interest payments to service the debt.

Table 1a looks at outstanding bonded indebtedness for 2000 and 2001. Figure 6 shows the five-year trend of outstanding long-term debt for cities under 2,500 in population.
