RECRUITMENT/RETENTION AND PROMOTION PLAN

OBJECTIVE: To plan and implement aggressive recruitment, retention and promotion strategies.

PHILOSOPHY

This plan supports the Metropolitan Council's policy of providing a work atmosphere and delivering public services in a manner that is free of discriminatory harassment and inappropriate behavior. The Council's ability to fulfill its mission hinges on the competency, motivation and commitment of staff who work in the organization. Recruitment and retention of the staff are key processes, the quality of which directly determines the business outcome. As a service organization, our people drive all functions of the organization.

All Council staff must share the mission of the organization. Staff must be equipped with educational and training credentials, experience, personal skills, and values to work in their assigned capacity so cooperation, creativity and the opportunity to contribute are enhanced. As an organization, the Council respects each individual's ability to contribute. By creating a culture with respect for those with whom we work and interact, where learning is reinforced and values shared, we believe that feelings of personal and professional fulfillment and job security are enhanced.

RECRUITMENT

Under the recruitment plan, an important consideration is whether external recruitment will be necessary in order to generate protected group applicants to assist the Council in meeting an Affirmative Action (AA) need. The Council's staffing plan drives its recruitment efforts. The identified hiring needs are derived from the variance between staffing levels approved during the budgeting process, business necessity, and actual levels of staff in the organization. The number and skill mix of personnel reflect the Council's management assessment of human resource needs reached after evaluation of services to be provided based on feedback from customers, analysis of operating realities and fiscal goals.

The Human Resources (HR) Department coordinates all recruitment efforts. HR generalists work with hiring managers and Office of Diversity and Equal Opportunity (ODEO) staff throughout the recruitment process. The Council believes that competent, qualified staff, who reflect a strong work ethic and desire to contribute to our mission, are critical to our success. Recruitment efforts are implemented both internally (through job transfer and promotion), as well as, externally (through the hiring of staff new to the organization). These efforts are carried out in accordance with Council administrative policies and procedures.

The hiring process begins when the hiring manager and HR representative initiate a personnel requisition for a job opening. During the pre-advertisement period, the Diversity staff reviews, signs, and annotates on the requisition whether there are any under-represented groups as reflected in the current AA plan.

External

An affirmative, proactive recruitment strategy will be developed for each externally recruited job opening. The strategy will include the following measures:

The Diversity Staff will develop and maintain a mailing list of recruitment sources capable of referring protected group applicants. When a job opening is announced notice will be sent to those recruitment sources that have been identified as providing the most qualified and diverse applicant pool by HR. The Diversity and HR staff and the hiring manager will jointly develop an AA recruitment strategy tailored to each specific job opening. Job openings will be advertised in media with large audiences among protected classes. Job openings will include the job title, brief job description, essential qualifications, starting salary or salary range, application deadline, and instructions on how to apply. All job openings will include the statement, "An Equal Opportunity Employer."

The Diversity staff and HR staff will periodically attend local job fairs that have a protected group focus. The Diversity staff, HR staff, and Council managers and supervisors may also engage in other affirmative recruitment strategies at the local, regional or national level to attract candidates from under-represented, protected groups. In such instances, the HR Department remains as the focal point for coordinating these efforts.

The Council shall act affirmatively to recruit and hire students who are women, minorities, and persons with disabilities into Council internships to provide protected group students the opportunity to gain skills that will help qualify them for possible future employment with the Council.

Internal

All applicants for employment must complete an application or submit a resume. The application and/or resume provides information required to evaluate the potential match in skills and work history. An application secures authorization to check references, an applicant's background, and credentials. New-hires and current employees who meet minimum qualifications and pass prescribed tests, where applicable and who compete for promotion and transfer opportunities are interviewed. When an extremely high number of applicants apply for a job opening where a single or relatively few positions are to be filled, the HR Department will establish an interview cutoff score based on objective criteria. The interview process results in a recommendation for hire. At this point reference checks, medical clearance, salary determination, orientation schedule, and start date must be finalized. HR representatives will communicate this information to the applicant. The HR Department will also notify those applicants who did not receive an interview opportunity and those who were interviewed but not hired of their status. This notification will include an invitation to continue expressing an interest in employment opportunities with the Council and an expression of appreciation for already having done so.

Notices of job openings will be posted prominently on all bulletin boards for 10 working days to encourage employees to apply for positions for which they meet the essential qualifications. HR staff will also provide notices of all job openings to the Diversity staff. The Diversity staff will make themselves available to provide information and encouragement to employees seeking job advancement and career opportunities.

When recruitment needs dictate, efforts in addition to those listed above are implemented to enhance targeted recruitment efforts. These measures occur when the availability of qualified applicants is limited and a more focused recruitment effort is needed. Additional actions include the use of mailing list, mass mailings, public service radio announcements, community resources (schools, churches, civic and professional associations, etc.) outreach opportunities, networking, and contacts.

Recruitment Strategies

Job Fairs

When appropriate, the ODEO will attend major job fairs that targets protected group populations. This attendance will serve to place special emphasis on those populations where under-representation exists.

Mailing Lists

Early on during the hiring process when the HR Generalist, the hiring manager, and the Diversity staff develop the recruitment strategy, they will coordinate in constructing the tailored mailing list. The purpose is to ensure that the mailing list is appropriate for that specific position. The job opening will be distributed to the recruitment sources on the respective lists with the intent of reaching the under-represented group to ensure that the process produces the most diverse applicant pool possible.

Advertising

In addition to advertising specific job openings in the major twin cities and area minority newspapers, the Council will invest additional resources to include advertisements in regional and national newspapers and publications (as appropriate), when targeted recruitment is needed to expand the applicant pool of qualified, under-represented, protected groups. HR staff, Diversity staff, and the hiring manager will determine the need for this more extensive advertisement on a case-by-case basis. All job postings are also listed on the Council's Internet page. We will take advantage of radio and television recruitment opportunities through reduced cost and free opportunities such as public service announcements and special promotions as appropriate.

Visibility

The ODEO, the HR Department, and other council program staff will continue to partner in representing the Council at community events such as: Cinco de Mayo, Juneteenth, the Hmong Soccer Tournament, and other activities as identified by ODEO. Managers will encourage staff who have not had exposure to these communities to accompany them to these events.

Contacts

The Diversity staff will make personal visits to organizations in the local area to strengthen the Council's current relationships with community partners and to develop additional opportunities. The goal of this strategy is to increase the regular referral of job applicants by community agencies.

Computer Posting

The ODEO will work with the HR Department and Information Services to expand our web page in listing our career opportunities and promoting the Council as an employer of choice.

Recruitment Source Effectiveness

The ODEO will meet with the HR staff on a quarterly basis to review and analyze the effectiveness of the recruitment source list. We will pay particular attention to the number of applicants referred, the number of applicants hired.

RETENTION

Retaining the talents and energy of our staff is critical to the success of the Council. Our ability to attract and retain our valued workforce and customer base affects our bottom line and is ultimately a measure of our success. Tenure is valued as long as it does not signify complacency or a level of comfort without commitment to openness for change. Change is reflected in two key activities – educational pursuit and career mobility. The Council facilitates the transfer and promotion of its staff throughout the organization, recognizing that the temporary inefficiencies of the internal turnover are offset by the growth of staff who are already knowledgeable about Council operations and committed to organizational values and mission. The Council through its tuition reimbursement policies supports seminar participation and other training opportunities that result in the attainment of new knowledge and skills.

The compensations program is reviewed periodically to ensure that staff members do not voluntarily end employment due to shortfalls in this area. Benefits and salary scales are structured to reward Council employees who contribute to the accomplishment of the Council's mission. The Council does recognize that turnover is natural and healthy for an organization. This allows for the recruitment of new staff, people whose talents may be new to the organization and from whom we can learn and improve. The departure of staff who do not function consistent with organizational norms is not cause for alarm.

Retention Strategies

- Identify and eliminate barriers that inhibit career advancement for protected class groups.
- Design and implement a Preparatory Program targeted to improve workforce skills and diversity representation by selecting and grooming qualified employees wishing to advance to management level.
- Implement exit interviews to review patterns of turnover to determine if contributing factors are unique or reflect organizational problems that need to be addressed.
- Partner with managers throughout the Council to give them a tool kit that will provide them with proven strategies to help employees manage their careers.

Note: See appendix 6 for recruitment sources.

PROMOTIONS

The primary purpose of the strategies and initiatives in the promotion plan is to provide all employees within the Council the opportunity to acquire the requisite knowledge, skills, and abilities in order to position themselves for future promotions, career enhancing opportunities and positions of increased responsibility. Among these initiatives, the Council will make available opportunities such as internship programs, developmental assignments and training programs, and upward mobility programs.

The Council believes that learning and development are essential components of work performance and are directly linked to the achievement of agency mission, goals, strategic planning, workforce planning and providing service to the public. Managers and employees share a mutual responsibility in determining their learning and development needs. Identifying the work goals, knowledge and skills necessary to achieve these goals is directly linked to promotion planning.

In addition to establishing systems and constantly monitoring turnover rates to measure whether there is a higher turnover among protected class employees, the Council will develop and refine strategies to correct all identified problems in this area.

The performance appraisal discussion and the numerous opportunities to provide ongoing feedback on performance throughout the rating period are directly linked to the primary purpose of providing all employees the opportunity to acquire the requisite knowledge, skills, and abilities to position themselves for promotional opportunities.

The Learning and Organization Development (LOD) unit works with divisions and business units to identify broad agency learning needs, provides learning opportunities for employees, measures performance improvement results, and tracks participation in the various learning and development opportunities.

In addition to offering internal and external learning opportunities (such as seminars, workshops and conferences), the Council provides tuition reimbursement and continuing education through accredited colleges and universities. There are two options. Required/Level 1 training allows employees to participate in continuing education on paid time. Generally, Essential/Level 2 training must be done on the employee's on time. All full and part-time regular employees who have successfully completed their probationary period are eligible to participate.

The LOD unit has put together a number of programs which provide employees the opportunity to develop professionally and personally. The unit provides employees and managers with tools to assist them in entering into meaningful development discussions. The LOD unit also has developed specific training curricula in a number of areas, and has established an Individual Learning Center where employees can take advantage of a number of learning aids and work at their own pace.

• Training for managers will include training on the implementation of the AA plan and on dealing with alleged acts of discrimination in the workforce.

PROPOSED MANAGEMENT TRAINING

Travel Toward Management Success

This is a mandatory full day of training designed to help our managers and supervisors build their management skills and work more effectively in partnership with our diverse employee population and stakeholders and to collaborate with the ODEO. It will challenge our managers and supervisors and cause them to rethink their old approaches and develop proactive methods to deal with issues of diversity, equal opportunity and affirmative action.

Objective:

- 1. Transition managers and supervisors from being reactive to proactive.
- 2. Refresh policies and procedures with managers and supervisors
- 3. Open discussion on topics such as racism and ethics.
- 4. To ensure the Council is hiring, retaining and promoting employees as prescribed in our state and federal AA Plans.

This training will be presented annually. LOD and Diversity will develop the curriculum and together with outside presenters will provide mandatory training.

Survey

Affirmative Action Plan requirements for Metropolitan Government Agencies suggest periodic review of the Council workforce to determine employee attitudes toward implementation for the plan.

In order to carry out the Metropolitan Council's mission, we must have a workforce that is competent, dedicated and a reflection of the community we serve. Our community over the past 30 years has grown to include cultural diversity, with immigrants from Asia, Africa, Russia and South and Central America. As an organization that provides services that include the operation of the regional transit system, the wastewater treatment system and provides affordable housing opportunities, we come in contact every day with an increasingly diverse clientele. Reflecting our clientele, our workforce is changing also. This diverse workforce brings an opportunity to benefit from new and different ideas, values and cultures. Our ability to provide the best services possible to our region is dependent on our employees, and therefore a greater understanding of our strengths and opportunities for improvement in our diversity efforts is of paramount importance.

The last council wide diversity survey was completed in 2000. The survey was developed to meet four criteria. They are:

1) Gauge effectiveness of current diversity programs;

2) Identify areas for improvement;

3) Set benchmarks for future surveys;

4) To meet the statutory requirements to survey our workforce.

The survey results were very encouraging. It indicated the Council was moving in the right direction with our Diversity efforts. Since the survey, the ODEO has spent the last three years improving the few areas that our employees felt that we could do better. We continue to turn-around employee complaints in less than 45 days, ODEO and HR attended a five session training program on employee selection to enhance our recruitment and hiring process and we have worked with communications on how we inform our employees about what ODEO is doing.

We intend on using the 2000 survey as a benchmark and survey our employees in 2005. By that time our new administration and Council will have had time to assess current applications of the current AA Plan and develop goals for the future.

Results of the Council's 1999-2000 survey are attached.

Diversity at the Council Report on Diversity Survey Results

Message from the Regional Administrator

• Diversity is important to the Council

We live and carry out our organizational responsibilities in an ever-changing community. Over the next twenty years our seven county regional area will see an increase in population of 650,000. Over the past 30 years, many of our new residents have come from a myriad of cultural background. Immigrants from Asia, Africa, Russia and Central and South America continue to look at Minnesota as a community of great opportunity.

Our commitment to Diversity is two fold. As an organization that provides transit service, wastewater treatment services and low-income housing we provide direct client services to this increasingly diverse community. Additionally, our workforce continues to reflect this changing population. This change has provided us with an opportunity to benefit from the different perspectives and contributions that diversity bring. In addition to this benefits, an increasing diverse workforce also brings with it new challenges. We are conscience of the strength and opportunities that this diversity offers us and are committed to effectively addressing the challenges. Our ability to provide the best services possible to our region is dependent on our employees and therefore a greater understanding of our strengths and opportunities for improvement in our diversity efforts is of paramount importance.

This survey is one tool that the Metropolitan Council will use to work on improving its diversity efforts. I am grateful to all those who took the time to provide us with this important feedback.

Why did we do this survey?

The Council has long supported a philosophy of equality and fairness. Management, the Office of Diversity and all employees play a role in making this philosophy a reality. However, the Office of Diversity and the management function have added organizational responsibilities. We carry out these responsibilities by providing services and programs aimed at improving our workplace and ensuring a fair and just work environment.

We believe that what is not measured is not valued. If we are to take an honest review of our diversity efforts we need to know how our employees view our performance. We developed this survey to meet the following four criteria.

Gauge effectiveness of current diversity programs

The Office of Diversity develops and administers a myriad of programs and initiatives aimed at improving the quality of work life for all our employees. It is important for us to know how well we are doing in meeting this objective. It is equally important for the Council's managers to know how well they are doing in carrying out their diversity responsibilities.

Develop programs to close gaps

The second purpose of this survey is to identify areas where we can improve our performance and programs. This information we will use to develop performance improvement initiatives, with the goal of eliminating those identified deficiencies.

Set benchmark for future surveys

Thirdly, we are going to use the survey results to set the performance benchmark against which we will measure future performance. By using this data we will be able to see whether or not our initiatives are resulting in the desired improved performance.

Meet statutory requirements

Lastly, we are meeting our statutory requirement to periodically survey our workforce.

Seven areas measures by the survey:

The following is a brief description of the seven areas that were covered in the survey.

General Diversity Policies

This section was intended to measure our employee's general understanding of the Council's Diversity Policies and Procedures. It is important for all our employees to have a good understanding of their rights and obligations covered under these policies.

Diversity Committee

The Diversity Committee represents our workforce and provides assistance to the Office of Diversity in the implementation of our programs and initiatives. It is important that this committee be effective in carrying out these duties. To this end, the survey questions were designed to give us a picture of the committee's success in meeting its objectives.

Affirmative Action

The section sought to measure our employee's perception of how well we are doing in recruiting and retaining a diverse workforce as well as their belief of the fairness and equity of our selection procedure.

➢ Complaints

This section sought to answer the questions; how well does the organization and in the Office of Diversity perform in dealing with employee complaints? What are the expectations of employees once a complaint has been filed and what is their perception of the fairness and impartiality of the complaint investigation process?

Organizational Performance

This section had a number of focuses. The first segment sought to get information on how well the organization was doing in the delivery of various services. Secondly, we asked questions around resolving employee conflicts. Lastly we wanted to know employees perception of the administration of the agency's diversity policies and procedures

> Communications

Communications is a very important objective and tool for the Office of Diversity. Here we were interested in know how effective our communication efforts have been and what vehicle of communications would best meet the needs of our employees.

▶ Training

This section sought to gain some insight into the effectiveness of the agency's diversity training. Additionally, we were interested in knowing the type of training most desired by employees, and their preference for training method and frequency.

Survey Results

The following section of this report is presented by survey category. For each category we will first provide a brief evaluation of the data, this will be followed by actual survey results for each question by Council Division and overall scores.

Areas for improvement include communicating the complaint channels, turnaround on complaints, and the perception of fairness and impartiality. There is also some concern that some employees might not report a complaint due to fear of retaliation, belief that nothing would be done and pressure from co-workers.

Organizational Performance

- There is a strong belief that the agency does a good job in its Affirmative Action hiring, diversity communications and training. Also rated positively were the agency's administration of its reasonable accommodation/workplace adjustment process. Areas needing improvement included complaint processing, employee involvement.
- Managers were rated high in their approachability and ability to resolve diversity related issues. Employees also indicated a high degree of comfort in going to a manager with diversity issues and believe that managers would go to some or a great extent to resolve the issue. The Office of Diversity was rated somewhat lower than managers in all three areas. This indicates an area where Diversity can work on to increase the confidence level of employees.

- Most respondents believe that management and the Office of Diversity administer the diversity policies fairly, that they are held accountable for complying with the Discriminatory Harassment and Inappropriate Behavior policy. They also believe that both are effective in ensuring an equal opportunity and discrimination and harassment free environment and that they "walk the talk" as it relates to diversity.

Communications

For the most part the agency does a good job in its diversity communications efforts. Information is readily available and communicated effectively. Managers are accessible to employees to discuss diversity issues. Areas for improvement include soliciting and welcoming employee opinions, and increasing the frequency that diversity is discussed as a part of regular staff meeting. Employees a split on their desire to get additional information on diversity and on their desire to continue to have celebrations around the various cultural groups.

Training

- A majority of employees feel that diversity training has been effective in raising their awareness and has had an impact on changing their behavior. Better that half believe that they are better able to interact with people who are different from them. Most employees are aware of the types of actions, words and symbols that are offensive to others. This data is promising, it indicates that training is having a positive effect on our employees but it also indicates that we have a ways to go to fully integrate our diversity philosophy.

Conclusion

The survey results are very encouraging. They indicate that in many respects and in many areas the Council is moving in the right direction with its diversity efforts. We are doing well in our recruitment and retaining efforts. We are seen as a fair organization where management and the Office of Diversity do a good job of supporting and ensuring a discrimination and harassment free work environment. Our communications and training efforts also received high marks from our employees. Most employees are knowledgeable of our diversity programs, philosophy and policies and procedures.

There were also areas where employees felt that we can do a better job. The timely processing of complaints and the fair administration of our selection process were two significant areas for review. More can be done to instill a higher level of confidence in the Office of Diversity. Additionally, the Diversity Committee can be improved to be more visible to our employees and to be seen as representative of the workforce interests and concerns.

Progress since the survey

The Office of Diversity and the Human Resources Department sponsored and attended a five session training program on employee selection. The purpose of the program was to ensure a consistent and fair process across the four Metropolitan Council Divisions. A workgroup of Diversity, HR and managers will be working to identify areas for improvement and to design and implement agreed upon changes.

The Diversity Committee structure and charter is being reviewed to address the issues of its effectiveness.

Work has been ongoing to improve the turn-around time on employee complaint with the objective of closing complaints within a 45 day period.
