Office of Minnesota Attorney General Mike Hatch

VOLUME II: CONSULTING EXPENSES

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

From 2000 through 2005 BCBSM spent almost $1.5 billion on consulting and related services, an average of over $200 million per year. The AGO sought to review the legitimacy of these contracts and invoices in order to determine whether the services that were sought were in the interest of the policyholders, whether the services were actually rendered, whether the company appropriately monitored the services, and whether the payment was made pursuant to the contract. Unfortunately, the AGO was not able to undertake a meaningful review of these consulting expenses because BCBSM was oftentimes unable or unwilling to produce the contracts. In many cases, BCBSM stated it could not find the contracts.

Missing Records. BCBSM claimed that it lost a significant number of contracts the AGO sought to review.

Missing Consultants. The AGO's review of BCBSM's consulting practices was based on a list of vendors prepared by BCBSM. BCBSM's list, however, omitted significant relationships, including a relationship with Architectural Alliance, to which BCBSM paid over $5 million from 2000 to 2005.

BCBSM spent significant resources on consulting services which could be considered questionable in an environment where its focus should be holding down subscriber premiums. Those include:

American Healthways. BCBSM has paid $98 million over four years to American Healthways, a "disease management firm" based in Nashville, Tennessee. American Healthways apparently analyzes the health records of certain subscribers and employs a nurse to call the subscribers periodically to make recommendations about their care. BCBSM claims that its arrangement with American Healthways was the first of its kind. Disease management firms are controversial because they invade patient privacy, interfere with physician/patient relationships, and deliver questionable quality or unproven results.

Virgil Hammerstad/Creative Benefit Consultants. Virgil Hammerstad is a former Vice President of BCBSM who was paid several million dollars when he left BCBSM in the 1990s. Thereafter Mr. Hammerstad entered into a consultant contract with service cooperatives which purchase health coverage on behalf of school districts. Even though BCBSM knew that Mr. Hammerstad was representing public employers in their negotiations for health coverage, BCBSM paid Mr. Hammerstad over $2.9 million dollars since 1998. Not by coincidence, Mr. Hammerstad's public employers have not purchased health coverage from any insurer other than BCBSM.

BabyCenter. BCBSM hired BabyCenter to develop a health information website for enrollees. The website contained an online store marketing various products to subscribers. While BCBSM touted the website as a health information tool, it received half of all revenues from certain business transacted through the website. When the AGO attempted to determine whether BCBSM profited from this venture, BCBSM responded that it was "not able to locate information" regarding its earnings from the website.

Contributions and other Questionable Payments. BCBSM, primarily through its affiliated Foundation, contributed funds to organizations affiliated with executives or board members' private interest. Examples of these and other questionable expenses include:

- BCBSM paid over $284,000 to the Children's Theatre Company to encourage attendance at the company productions. Mark Banks, Robbin Johnson and John Murphy, members of BCBSM's Board of Directors, sat on the Board of the Children's Theatre Company at the time of the donations.
- BCBSM paid the Ordway Center $40,000 for corporate sponsorship of a children's' festival at a time when BCBSM's CEO, Mark Banks, sat on the Ordway's Board of Directors.
- BCBSM spent over $500,000 from 2000 to 2004 to sponsor the United States Olympic Team.
- BCBSM paid over $12 million to the Blue Cross Blue Shield Association, its national trade association.
- BCBSM paid a consultant $180,000 to improve the quality of its letter writing -- this "pilot" project involved the rewriting of 30 letters.

Conclusion. The AGO recommends that BCBSM clean-up its contracting procedures and conduct an in-depth evaluation of its disease management programs. The AGO also recommends that the Minnesota Department of Commerce conduct a comprehensive examination of BCBSM's contracting practices to make sure that BCBSM is appropriately spending premium dollars.

CONSULTING EXPENSES

I. INTRODUCTION.

Between 2000 and 2005, BCBSM spent almost $1.5 billion dollars on consulting services. Despite the enormous amount it spends on consulting, BCBSM's oversight of its consultants is remarkably deficient. The review by the Attorney General's Office ("AGO") found that BCBSM frequently loses its consultant contracts, does not require sufficient itemization of contractor work, and pays contractors more than the contracted amount, all contrary to its own internal audits recommending improvements in these areas. BCBSM also made numerous large expenditures in areas which could be considered wasteful, experimental, or otherwise contrary to the public interest of safeguarding health plan dollars. The AGO's review also revealed potential conflicts of interest inherent in several of BCBSM's consultant relationships.

II. OVERVIEW.

A. Scope of Review.

The AGO reviewed hundreds of BCBSM's consulting contracts and materials relating to those contracts, including purchase orders and invoices, dating back to 2000. The AGO's review was primarily focused on consultant relationships over $100,000, although in some cases extended to consultant contracts below that amount. In many instances, BCBSM was unable to provide a contract to document the consideration to be provided to and from the consultant. The AGO, therefore, tried to review other documents regarding the consultant relationship, including purchase orders, letters of engagement, and invoices, where provided by BCBSM. The AGO also reviewed BCBSM's policies and procedures regarding consultant relationships and other internal documents regarding consultant services.

B. Failure to Provide Requested Information.

The AGO's compliance review of BCBSM's consulting practices was hindered due to BCBSM's repeated failure to provide requested information. For example:

- BCBSM claimed it "lost," and therefore refused to provide, a large number of the documents the AGO sought to review, as further discussed below. This prevented the AGO from conducting a comprehensive review of BCBSM's consulting practices.
- BCBSM's responses to the AGO frequently omitted significant information. For example, the AGO's review of BCBSM's consulting practices was based on BCBSM's own list of its vendors. BCBSM's list, however, omitted many significant consultant relationships, including a relationship with Architectural Alliance, on which it spent over $5,117,863 from 2000 to 2005, and relationships with compensation consultants Towers Perrin and Clark/Bardes. It is likely that other consultants have been omitted from the list.
- BCBSM's responses to the AGO were inconsistent. For example, the AGO asked that BCBSM disclose how much it paid to various trade associations. BCBSM provided this information in two different responses which contained vastly different numbers. BCBSM's explained that it "inadvertently missed" or "omitted" some information and simply excluded other information requested by the AGO because BCBSM unilaterally decided it was not relevant.

Unfortunately, BCBSM's repeated failure to provide requested information, in combination with the other problems discussed below, raise the concern that BCBSM may have been deliberately withholding information from the AGO in an attempt to curb criticism of its consulting practices.

III. BCBSM'S OVERALL CONSULTING EXPENSES HIGH.

BCBSM's aggregate expenditures on consultant services are staggeringly high.¹ From 2000 to 2005 BCBSM spent almost $1.5 billion on consultants. (Exhibit 1.)² For the last six years, BCBSM averaged well over $200 million per year on consultant services. (Id.)

In comparison, HealthPartners, one of the other major health plans operating in Minnesota, spent $26 million on consultants over a four year period from 1997-2000. Fairview, a major Minnesota hospital, spent approximately $10 million per year on consultants in 2001 and 2002. Although they are smaller than BCBSM, a rough comparison shows that BCBSM spent an average of $249 million per year on consultants, while HealthPartners and Fairview spent an average of $6.5 million and $10 million per year, respectively. In other words, BCBSM's consultant expenditures are roughly 38 times larger than those of HealthPartners and 24 times larger than those of Fairview, far surpassing any allowance for BCBSM's larger size.

Given BCBSM's high level of spending on consulting services, there is a concern that BCBSM may be purchasing unnecessary services, paying too much for consulting services, or paying consultants to perform work that could be done internally.

IV. DEFICIENCIES IN BCBSM'S CONSULTANT CONTRACTING PRACTICES.

Because BCBSM is a nonprofit organization that exists to provide affordable health care coverage to Minnesotans, it is important that it follow reasonable contracting policies to ensure that it is efficiently using health care premium dollars. Despite numerous internal audits of its consultant contracting practices over the past few years, BCBSM continues to make the same contracting errors flagged by its own auditors. BCBSM's errors conflict with the recommendations of its own audits, generally accepted contracting standards, and its own policies.

^{$30,000,} and, accordingly, the actual amount BCBSM spends on consultants is likely even higher.

² To place the amount BCBSM spends on consultants in perspective, consider that $1.5 billion is more than three times the annual expenditures of the University of Minnesota and enough to build new stadiums for the Twins, Vikings, and Gophers.

A. Consulting Contract Standards.

Numerous sources describe reasonable and prudent procedures in the selection and management of outside contractors by nonprofit and other organizations. (Exhibit 2.) Depending on the size of the contract, nonprofit organizations should:

- Determine and articulate the goals and desired outcomes of the contract;
- Interview contractors regarding experience, credibility, and knowledge;
- Obtain references regarding competing contractors and issue a request for proposal to each contractor;
- Enter into a written contract that describes the work to be performed, the desired outcome of the work, the time parameters for the work, the expected total project cost, and the documentation necessary to be submitted for payment to be made; and
- Require adequate documentation to support fees.

(Id.)

B. BCBSM's Consultant Policy.

BCBSM's policy entitled "Use of Contractors and Consultants" requires it to follow certain contracting practices, including those listed below, when using consultants:

- A written contract with the consultant;
- Close monitoring of the consultant, including requiring the submission of detailed invoices;
- Proper due diligence for contracts over $50,000, including a competitive bid process; and
- Proper documentation and filing procedures.

(Exhibit 3.)

BCBSM's policy explains: "It is Blue Cross policy that using outside consultants and contractors is based on justifiable business reasons and is closely monitored to ensure that expected value is received from the services provided." Id.

As discussed below, BCBSM appears to routinely ignore these policies.

C. BCBSM's Internal Reviews of its Consulting Practices.

BCBSM conducted at least three internal reviews of its consultant contracting practices in 2002, 2004, and 2005. Despite two requests made by the AGO, BCBSM did not provide the underlying audit reports for those reviews, but rather only provided its responses to these audits.

In 2002, a BCBSM internal audit of compliance with its consultant policy found, among other problems, that BCBSM failed to obtain appropriate signatures and documentation from consultants, failed to include appropriate terms and conditions in consultant contracts, and failed to obtain confidentiality agreements from consultants accessing BCBSM buildings. (Exhibit 4.)

In January 2004, BCBSM conducted another audit of its consultant contracting practices, this time using an outside auditor, KPMG. KPMG's findings included that numerous consultant contracts lacked the proper signatures, were missing complete documentation, including consultant confidentiality statements, or were altogether lost. (Exhibit 5.) KPMG further found instances where BCBSM had not required consultants to submit references and proof of insurance as required by BCBSM policy. Additionally, KPMG concluded that BCBSM paid some consultants despite their failure to submit appropriate invoices adequately stating the work performed and hours worked. (Id.)

In January 2005, BCBSM again audited its consultant contracting practices. Although it noted some improvement from the 2004 audit findings, the 2005 audit reported lost and incomplete contracts, missing references and proof of adequate insurance coverage, and failure to include appropriate contract terms and conditions, just like the prior audits. (Exhibit 6.)

D. Continued Problems with Consultant Contracting Practices.

Despite at least three internal audits warning BCBSM of problems with its consultant contracting practices and its adoption of a corporate policy aspiring to good contracting practices, the AGO's review indicated that BCBSM continues to experience serious problems in this area.

1. Lost Contracts and Missing Documents.

BCBSM indicated that it was "unable to locate" many of the contracts the AGO sought to review. The AGO requested certain contracts for the period 2000 through 2005, a time period dating back only five years. BCBSM, however, was unable to comply with the AGO's request. For example, for the year 2000, BCBSM failed to produce contracts for at least 290 out of the 370 consultants it identified for that year. In other words, it lost 78% of its consultant contracts for that year. The following are a few examples of the many contracts BCBSM lost in 2000, including at least one contract exceeding $1 million dollars and several exceeding a half million dollars:

- Foley Sackett (BCBSM paid this advertising firm $1.6 million);
- Himle Horner (BCBSM paid this public relations firm $142,844);
- Maritz Inc. (BCBSM paid this market research firm $197,170);
- British Landscapes, Ltd. (BCBSM paid it $37,750 for what appears to be specialized landscaping services);
- Epley Marketing Services, Inc. (BCBSM paid this market research firm $34,000);
- EPA Audio Visual (BCBSM paid this firm almost $500,000 for audio visual services or equipment);
- PRC Consulting (BCBSM paid this "program and project management" consulting firm $492,000);

- Computer Gains, Inc. (BCBSM paid this firm $555,900 for unidentified projects or services); and
- William J. Business Interiors (BCBSM paid this interior design firm $87,000).³

Additionally, for many of the consultants for which it could not produce contracts, BCBSM also could not produce any other documentation, including invoices or purchase orders. In other words, BCBSM had absolutely no evidence of any consultant relationship or what product or service the contractor provided. This was the case for at least half of BCBSM's missing consultant contracts for the year 2000 and many of the more recent contracts the AGO sought to review.

BCBSM's own consultant policy, good contracting practices, and basic common sense dictate the importance of maintaining adequate consultant files, particularly where a company, like BCBSM, spends at least $200 million per year for such services. Moreover, BCBSM's own prior audits flagged contract retention as an issue requiring improvement. As stated in one prior audit, "Not having evidence of ... [c]onsultant [a]greements could make it difficult to hold either party accountable for expected terms, conditions, and responsibilities." (Exhibit 6, p. 5.) Although BCBSM purports to be taking steps to improve its contract retention through continued internal audits, it appears to have made little or no improvement in this fundamental area.

2. Incomplete Contracts.

In addition to losing contracts, BCBSM provided the AGO with many incomplete contracts. Frequently, the consulting contracts provided by BCBSM did not contain complete signatures and were missing exhibits or other important documentation. Major, multi-million dollar contracts were not exempt from this sloppiness. For example:

³ BCBSM's inability to find contracts was not confined to year 2000 contracts, but extended to many contracts throughout the 2000 to 2005 review period.

- BCBSM paid TempCo Auditing of Minnesota over $3 million in 2000 for supplemental staffing services, but could only provide an unsigned, draft contract governing the relationship. (Exhibit 7.);
- A major contract with Ernst & Young regarding Y2K compliance was not signed and was missing fundamental terms, including the amount of compensation to be paid. (Exhibit 8.);
- BCBSM provided only a marked-up draft of a major contract with Wisconsin Physician Services regarding Medicare services. (Exhibit 9.);
- BCBSM provided the AGO with only an unsigned draft of a contract with Architectural Alliance for architecture services for a major office building project. (Exhibit 11.) (BCBSM paid Architectural Alliance over $4.7 million from 2000 to 2005); and
- BCBSM provided the AGO with only the schedules, but not the underlying contract, to an agreement with Banctec regarding software consulting. (Exhibit 12.) (BCBSM paid Banctec over $400,000 from 2000 to 2002).

Incomplete contract files, while marginally better than no contract at all, seriously impairs the integrity of this compliance review and prevents adequate oversight of the consultant relationship.

3. Subpar Tracking of Consultants.

BCBSM's careless consultant practices extend to its tracking of consultant relationships. Upon the AGO's request that it identify the consultants to whom it paid more than $30,000 in any year from 2000 to 2005, BCBSM responded that it would have difficulty doing so because it did not have the ability to easily assemble a list of the consultants with whom it does business. In fact, despite the fact that BCBSM spends hundreds of millions of dollars on computer technology, it claimed that at least part of such a list would have to be compiled "manually." (Exhibit 13.) If this is true, a good first step in improving BCBSM's consultant oversight would be to centralize its consultant information in one, easily accessible place.

4. Inadequate Invoices.

The AGO's review revealed many instances where consultant invoices contained only the most cursory description of the services performed and no itemization. Such invoices vaguely described the services performed as, for example, "professional services" or "consulting services." (Exhibit 14.) Such a lack of description makes it very difficult to oversee a consultant's work and stop excessive billing. It also violates BCBSM's own consultant policy which requires close monitoring of consultants, including detailed invoices. (Exhibit 3.) Furthermore, when cryptic invoices are combined with no underlying contract, as was the case with many BCBSM consultant relationships the AGO reviewed, it is difficult to discern what value a consultant may be providing the company at all, much less whether its work was properly overseen.

Failure to require sufficient description of consultant work performed was a recurrent problem in BCBSM's own reviews of its consulting practices.

5. Cost Overruns.

The AGO's review indicated that BCBSM frequently paid its contractors more than it had originally agreed. For example:

- BCBSM paid Vasquez & Associates, a software consultant, $235,071 in 2000, despite its initial agreement to pay only $37,500; and
- BCBSM paid Action Marketing Research, a market research firm, $284,000, but could only find a contract authorizing $4,000 of that expenditure.

The AGO noted many other instances where the amount BCBSM actually paid the consultant far exceeded the original agreement, reflecting a lack of appropriate oversight or planning. Additionally, continuously underestimating the amount to pay a consultant frustrates BCBSM's due diligence requirements, which are only triggered on contracts over $50,000.

V. QUESTIONABLE SPENDING.

BCBSM spent significant resources on consulting services which could be considered questionable in an environment where public policy should be devoted to holding down subscriber premiums. Some of the questioned expenses are described below.

A. American Healthways.

1. Multi-Million Dollar Disease Management Partnership.

BCBSM spent startlingly large sums of money to partner with American Healthways, a "disease management" firm based in Nashville, Tennessee. BCBSM hired American Healthways to intervene in the care of subscribers posing certain claims risks to BCBSM, such as those suffering from diabetes or heart problems. American Healthways analyzes the health records of these subscribers and employs a nurse to call them periodically to make recommendations about their care. According to BCBSM, adding another monitor, in addition to a patient's doctor, will save the health plan money because the additional oversight may help avoid expensive claims. BCBSM calls this effort its "BluePrint for Health care support program."

BCBSM touts its agreement with American Healthways as the first program of its kind in the country, emphasizing the breadth of the program, which encompasses many different types of illnesses ranging from diabetes to anxiety and stress management. Indeed, one BCBSM document suggests that the national recognition it would receive from entering into the agreement was a factor in BCBSM's decision to launch the program. (Exhibit 15.)

While BCBSM's relationship with American Healthways is undeniably innovative, it is also expensive and unproven. Their ten-year contract began in 2001 with BCBSM's payment of $650,000 to American Healthways and ramped up each year thereafter, with payments of $11,100,321 in 2002; $18,534,314 in 2003; $31,641,057 in 2004; and $36,576,550 in 2005, with total payments to date of over $98 million.

Disease management programs are controversial. Some researchers, including the Congressional Budget Office, have concluded that disease management programs are not proven to control costs or improve quality.⁴ Others have found limited cost savings.⁵ The Minnesota Physician-Patient Alliance, a group formed in 1997 to restore patient and physician authority to medical decision-making, opposes such programs because "disease management by insurance companies rather than health care providers reduces the quality of health care and violates patients' privacy rights."⁶ It should be noted, however, that some researchers and some consumers believe that disease management programs are worthwhile.⁷

BCBSM's claims regarding the return on investment for its program with American Healthways have been inconsistent, further muddying the issue of whether any savings to the health plan can be reliably measured. For example, in November 2003, BCBSM claimed that it saw an overall return on investment of almost $3.00 for every dollar it spent on its disease management program with American Healthways. (Exhibit 16.) Later, in August 2005, BCBSM estimated its return on investment to be a significantly lower -- $1.50 to $2.00 for every dollar spent. (Exhibit 17.) The financial benefit of this program remains debatable where even BCBSM cannot adequately pin down savings, if any, arising from it.

⁵ See e.g., Goetzel, Ron, Ozminkowski, Victor, Duffy, Jennifer, Return on Investment in Disease Management: A Review, Health Care Financing Review, v. 26, n. 4 (Summer 2005).

⁷ See e.g., Foote, S.M., Population-Based Disease Management Under Fee-for-Service Medicare. Health Affairs, pp. 342-256, July 30, 2003, http://www.healthaffairs.org.

If the program is, indeed, saving BCBSM money as it claims, its subscribers should benefit by paying lower premiums. In fact, in BCBSM's Product Launch and Marketing Plan for the program, BCBSM stated that "claims savings due to program will lead to lower premiums over time." (Exhibit 18.) In fact, rather than passing on savings, BCBSM appears to charge its self-insured customers extra to participate in the program. (Exhibit 19.) If the program truly offers reliable savings as BCBSM claims, BCBSM should be able to offer it to all groups without cost.

BCBSM's claims regarding improved quality of care due to the program appear to be undermined by other quality assessments. For example, Blue Plus, BCBSM's affiliated HMO, has been part of the BluePrint for Health care support program since its inception in 2001. Blue Plus, however, performed marginally in the National Committee for Quality Assurance's ("NCQA") assessment for 2004, ranking only 126 out of a total of 257 health plans reviewed nationwide. (Exhibit 20.) The NCQA methodology assesses audited data submitted by health plans in four major categories: access to care, overall member satisfaction, prevention, and treatment. The "treatment" category measures the quality of care regarding diabetes, heart disease, asthma, and depression -- all areas included in the Blue Print for Health care support program. If this program truly improves patient outcomes and satisfaction as BCBSM claims, it is troubling that Blue Plus falls behind almost half the other health plans reviewed on an independent assessment directly measuring its progress in these areas.

Furthermore, it is troubling that BCBSM would make such an extensive commitment to disease management given its unproven and expensive nature. BCBSM, itself, recognized the risks inherent in the venture, describing disease management programs as having "mixed success," and stating that "the translation of program outcomes into meaningful cost savings has been uneven." (Exhibit 15.) Despite this recognition, BCBSM entered into a long-term, 10-year venture with American Healthways for disease management services and in five years -- only half the life of its contract with American Healthways -- has spent over $98 million.

2. Privacy Concerns.

BCBSM's disease management program does raise serious privacy concerns. BCBSM shares health plan subscribers' private medical information with American Healthways to implement the program, a practice which has given rise to many subscriber concerns and complaints.

BCBSM exacerbated the privacy problems inherent in its program by automatically enrolling subscribers unless they affirmatively opted out of the program. BCBSM triggers participation in the program by sending an introductory letter to targeted subscribers. The onus is then on the subscriber to notify BCBSM that she does not want to participate. If the subscriber does not affirmatively opt-out, she is automatically enrolled, and her private health information is shared with American Healthways without her affirmative consent. (Exhibit 21.) BCBSM's failure to obtain subscribers' affirmative consent to the sharing of health records raises concerns under a state privacy law requiring a signed and dated consent form for such disclosure. See Minn. Stat. § 144.335.

BCBSM recognized the strict requirements of Minnesota privacy law, yet chose to ignore them. BCBSM stated, "Minnesota privacy statutes are stricter [than federal law] and raise challenges for the initial DM [disease management] program enrollment process." (Exhibit 22.) Despite this recognition, BCBSM persisted with its opt-out enrollment method in violation of Minnesota law.

Documents reveal that BCBSM specifically chose the opt-out mode of operation to boost enrollment in the program. (Exhibit 23.) BCBSM's calculations showed that it would obtain a much smaller number of participants if subscribers had to affirmatively choose to participate.⁸ Id. Although BCBSM states that it plans to change to an opt-in format in mid-2006, the program has been operating in opt-out mode for years.

BCBSM subscribers complained to it in droves regarding their dissatisfaction and anger over its unauthorized sharing of their private medical information. Many subscribers wrote or called BCBSM wondering how their private health data could be disclosed without their affirmative permission and asking to be excluded from the program. Others understandably expressed concern that the cost of the program increased their already rising health insurance premiums. Still others felt that only their doctor, not their insurance company or one of its consultants, should be accessing their private health information. Although BCBSM responded to these complaints, it took no concrete steps to address the privacy and other concerns underlying its relationship with American Healthways.

American Healthways also provides a service called "predictive modeling" to BCBSM. "Predictive modeling" is based on subscribers' private health information and involves American Healthways using past health data to predict which patients are at risk for certain claims. BCBSM did not specifically notify subscribers that their health data would be used for this purpose. Minnesota law requires a subscriber's written authorization before an insurer collects personal information, including health data, regarding the subscriber. Minn. Stat. § 72A.502, subd. 1.

Furthermore, the extent to which BCBSM uses the "predictive modeling" information is unclear. In response to the AGO's request for more information regarding the use of this information, BCBSM stated that "for the most part" it uses the information to identify individuals who would benefit from disease management services. However, BCBSM admitted that its employees have accessed this information for other reasons, but remarkably stated that it did not know why. It further indicated that, because the individuals who accessed the information are no longer employed by the company, it could not determine why the information was accessed.⁹ BCBSM's apparent lack of control over access to this sensitive data is extremely troubling. While BCBSM claims that it does not use this information in determining subscriber premiums or coverage, it is, nonetheless, a disturbing collection of subscriber data.

Moreover, it appears that BCBSM shares at least some of the data generated by American Healthways with employer groups. (Exhibit 24.) BCBSM provides reports to employer groups showing employee utilization, claims savings and return on investment, participation and activity in the program, subscriber satisfaction, and compliance with standards of care. BCBSM also responds to specific questions from employers. For example, BCBSM stated that an employer can find out whether one of its "high case" employees (an employee with claims over $50,000) is participating in the American Healthways programs. This is a troublesome use of subscribers' sensitive health information. It is unclear whether health plan subscribers are notified that this information is provided to BCBSM and their employers.

3. Conflict of Interest.

In addition to the privacy and other concerns regarding BCBSM's disease management program, the use of a third party intervenor like American Healthways raises other concerns.

⁹ It certainly must be used for some purpose, as BCBSM pays American Healthways thousands of dollars every month to compile this information.

BCBSM claims that the disease management programs are a win-win -- they assist consumers in managing their illnesses and save the health plan money. BCBSM, however, may have an inherent conflict of interest in hiring a consultant to manage its subscribers' health. Although BCBSM has described its program as "Mother Theresa in a nursing uniform at the NASA control center," by its own admission, it has potentially conflicting goals -- saving money and improving subscribers' health. (Exhibit 25.) It is, therefore, doubtful that BCBSM can render subscribers a truly impartial service, making its analogy to Mother Theresa optimistic, at best. This is particularly so where the paid intermediary's performance and compensation are based on saving money, as is the case with American Healthways.

Moreover, wedging an intermediary between the doctor and patient raises concerns about interference with the primacy and inviolability of that relationship, a complaint raised by at least one BCBSM enrollee. It may also be confusing to patients, who could receive conflicting advice from the paid intermediary and their doctor or be unsure about the interplay between the two.

B. More Disease Management Projects.

In addition to the expensive venture BCBSM launched with American Healthways, it purchased additional disease management services from other vendors including Accordant Health Services and Health Media. BCBSM has paid Accordant over $5.7 million since 2001 and Health Media $125,000 for disease management services. In sum, BCBSM has spent over $103 million on disease management programs since 2001.

VI. CONFLICTS OF INTEREST.

A number of BCBSM's payments to consultants or other vendors raise potential conflicts of interest.

A. Hammerstad/Creative Business Consultants.

In June 2005, the Minnesota State Auditor released a report entitled "Service Cooperatives Insurance Programs Special Review" examining the role of a former BCBSM executive in the management of health insurance provided to certain government cooperatives. The Report, issued after a six-month investigation, concluded that the former BCBSM executive, Virgil Hammerstad, breached his duty to provide impartial services to the government cooperatives by maintaining inappropriate ties with BCBSM. While Hammerstad was being paid by the government cooperatives to negotiate the most economical health insurance coverage for them, he was also being paid by BCBSM. Not surprisingly, BCBSM was consistently chosen to provide health insurance coverage to every one of the cooperatives. The State Auditor found this arrangement between Hammerstad and BCBSM to be a conflict of interest and clearly not in the best interest of the service cooperatives.

The AGO's review confirms that BCBSM's relationship with Hammerstad was inappropriately close and alarmingly lucrative. The two have entered into a string of high-paying, long-term contracts since 1998. In July 1998, Hammerstad and his companies entered into an agreement with BCBSM pursuant to which BCBSM purchased all of the intangible assets of Hammerstad's companies -- Creative Business Consultants and People's Health Care, Inc. (Exhibit 33.) Hammerstad was the sole shareholder of both companies, which, according to the agreement, provided health benefits and provider networks to Minnesota's service cooperatives. BCBSM paid Hammerstad $1.4 million for all the intangible assets of Hammerstad's businesses, including its corporate and trade names, customers, goodwill, and favorable business relationships. Additionally, BCBSM entered into a consulting and non-compete contract with Hammerstad, agreeing to pay him $150,000 over the next five years.

Before the five-year term of the initial consultant agreement even expired, BCBSM entered into another contract with Hammerstad in January 2002, agreeing to pay him a base fee of $50,000, a bonus payment of between $50,000 and $100,000, and additional fees based on sales for more consulting work related to his marketing of BCBSM's medical savings and health reimbursement accounts. (Exhibit 34.) This contract had a six-year term.

Approximately six months later, in July 2002, BCBSM entered into yet another consulting contract with Hammerstad regarding the service cooperatives. This contract had a six-year term and involved payments of $1.2 million to Hammerstad for the same consulting services regarding the service cooperatives that were encompassed by the 1998 agreement. (Exhibit 35.)

The next year, in 2003, BCBSM and Hammerstad entered into yet another million dollar contract with respect to the service cooperatives. (Exhibit 36.)¹⁰ This contract had a five-year term and involved payments of $1.1 million to Hammerstad for general consulting work related to the government cooperatives. This contract had a provision requiring Hammerstad to transition the government cooperative work to BCBSM at the end of the five-year term. This million dollar contract, like the ones before it, was not put out for bid in violation of BCBSM's own policy and sound contracting procedures. (Exhibit 37.)

In addition to the ethical problems associated with Hammerstad's simultaneous relationship with BCBSM and the service cooperatives, BCBSM's many large payments to Hammerstad are troublesome from a contracting perspective. BCBSM's records show that it paid Hammerstad $750,000 in 2001 and his company, Creative Benefit Consultants, over $735,000 from 2001 to 2004, in addition to the $1.4 million it paid him for the buyout of his company in 1998. One BCBSM document described its payments to Hammerstad as "unlimited, based on performance." (Exhibit 38.)

It is, however, unclear exactly what services Hammerstad was rendering to BCBSM and whether any services were appropriate given that Hammerstad was supposed to be rendering unbiased advice to the government cooperatives. It is troubling that BCBSM continued to make significant payments to Hammerstad's company, Creative Benefit Consultants, even after it agreed to pay over $1 million to purchase virtually all of its assets in 1998. This raises troublesome questions about the true nature of the payments to Hammerstad.

B. Incubator Project.

The AGO's review indicated that BCBSM has engaged in other ventures that raise possible conflicts of interest and other concerns.

In addition to the millions of dollars BCBSM paid American Healthways every year for the disease management program discussed above, BCBSM launched an experimental joint venture with the same company dubbed the "Incubator Project." The purpose of this project is far from clear. BCBSM's agreement with American Healthways vaguely describes the program as a joint effort to develop "pilot programs" to "improve health care outcomes." The agreement further attempts to define the program, but the actual work performed under the agreement remains murky.¹¹ One thing is clear -- the experiment was not profitable for BCBSM. As BCBSM described it, "The Incubator was a development project that had no revenue stream associated with it."

¹¹ The Agreement states that the initial focus of the partnership would include "integrating the various medical management interventions" provided by BCBSM and American Healthways and "increasing the effectiveness of the current ... care support program by building closer linkages among American Healthways, BCBSM, and BCBSM participating providers."

Like the BluePrint for Health care support program, the experimental Incubator Project was expensive, costing BCBSM well over $1 million. (Exhibit 39.) Although costly, it was fleeting, operating for only one year.¹² It is unclear whether such expensive experimentation is the best use of subscriber dollars. The very fact that BCBSM launches such costly experimental projects reflects the abundance of its resources and raises the question whether more effort should be placed on reducing subscriber premiums.

C. BabyCenter Relationship.

BCBSM agreed to a partnership with BabyCenter, Inc. ("BabyCenter") in late 1999. Pursuant to this arrangement, BCBSM hired BabyCenter to develop a health information website for enrollees. In addition to health information, the website contained an on-line store marketing various products to subscribers. According to its agreement with BabyCenter, BCBSM was to receive half of all revenues from certain business transacted through the website. (Exhibit 40.) It is deceptive for BCBSM to profit from the sale of products off a website it touts as a health information tool, and raises serious questions about the site's true purpose and the quality and integrity of the information found there. While the AGO attempted to address these issues, BCBSM was "not able to locate information" regarding its earnings from this website. (Exhibit 41.)

¹² Although BCBSM states that the Incubator Project operated from January 2003 to December 2004, it continued to make payments to the Project through the fall of 2005 for what BCBSM describes as the "winding up" of its operations. It appears that the Project actually continued to operate during this time, as numerous staff continued working on the Project.

D. Payments Connected to Board Members' and Executives' Private Interests.

The AGO found numerous instances where BCBSM made contributions or payments to organizations affiliated with executives' or board members' private interests.

For example, BCBSM paid over $284,000 to the Children's Theatre Company from 2000 to 2003 to encourage attendance at the company's productions. These payments run far afield from the provision of affordable health care coverage. Mark Banks, Robbin Johnson and John Murphy, members of BCBSM's Board of Directors, sat on the board of the Children's Theatre Company at the time of the donations, raising the concern that they may have inappropriately influenced BCBSM's support of an organization of their own personal choosing.

In 2000, BCBSM apparently questioned the public attitude concerning these expenditures; it paid a consultant $25,000 to conduct market research regarding the effectiveness of its support of the Children's Theatre.¹³ (Exhibit 31.) The market research sought to determine how many people remembered that BCBSM had supported the Theatre and whether these people thought the purpose of the support was publicity or civic advancement.

Support of a board member's personal, community or professional interest does not appear to have been unusual at BCBSM. In 2001, BCBSM paid the Ordway Center $40,000 for corporate sponsorship of a children's festival. BCBSM's $40,000 donation was made to support a city-block-sized inflatable labyrinth called a "Luminarium," which was intended to be the festival's centerpiece. CEO Banks sat on the Ordway's board at the time of the donation.

CEO Banks also sat on the board of the Codman Research Group, a software company, in 2000, the same year BCBSM paid Codman over $380,000 in software license fees -- only one installment in a lucrative multi-year contract for Codman. (Exhibit 32.)

¹³ CEO Banks personally approved this expenditure as evidenced by his signature on Exhibit 31.

In 2004, BCBSM paid the Carlson School of Management $67,500 for leadership training seminars for executives. Emmett Carson, a BCBSM board member at the time of the payment, was also a member of the Carlson School's Board of Trustees at the same time. BCBSM also paid the Minneapolis Foundation over $175,000. Carson was President and CEO of the Minneapolis Foundation at the time and was sitting on BCBSM's board when the payments were made between 2001 and 2004.¹⁴ Two of the payments sponsored policy seminars regarding immigration and early childhood education. While these payments may have funded worthwhile projects, it is questioned whether BCBSM should routinely fund organizations affiliated with its board members, particularly where the money does not support activities that are related to the delivery of affordable health care.

BCBSM paid a company called Zonetrader over $33,000 in 2001 at the same time BCBSM board member Ellen Perl appears to have been a Zonetrader executive. BCBSM provided no documents underlying this payment to Zonetrader, preventing the AGO from examining it further.

While directors completed an annual questionnaire indicating that they served on various community boards, BCBSM ignored this information. Apparently, BCBSM found no conflict of interest in the fact that that it routinely paid money to organizations governed by members of its own board of directors. BCBSM should be more vigilant and effective in monitoring this issue. Simply having policies and paying lip service to them is no substitute for active oversight of board member affiliations.

¹⁴ BCBSM Foundation made two of the four payments to the Minneapolis Foundation. As discussed in other volumes of this compliance review, the BCBSM Foundation is funded entirely by BCBSM.

VII. OTHER EXAMPLES OF TROUBLESOME SPENDING.

A Market Promotion.

BCBSM spends millions of dollars every year on promotions. From 2001 to 2003, it spent approximately $6 million per year to promote itself. (Exhibit 26.) Examples of these expenditures are described below.

1. U.S. Olympic Team Sponsorship.

BCBSM spent over $500,000 from 2000 to 2004 to sponsor the U.S. Olympic Team. (Exhibit 27.) At a time of skyrocketing premiums, there is no explanation concerning this use of premium dollars.

2. Promotional Trinkets.

In 2003, BCBSM spent $468,607 on what it called "promotional trinkets." (Exhibit 28.) It spent almost $200,000 on similar "trinkets" in 2001. These "trinkets" included items such as pens, band-aid packs, notepads, T-shirts, fans given away at the State fair, and travel mugs.

3. Market Research.

BCBSM also spent considerable resources on consultants conducting "market research." BCBSM commissioned market research polls and surveys on what appears to have been, at times, a monthly, or even more frequent, basis.

The topics upon which BCBSM paid consultants to conduct market research are virtually endless, including the following:

- $30,000 to conduct focus groups evaluating BCBSM's "do" campaign;
- $25,000 to conduct what are described as simply "focus groups;"
- $29,000 for an otherwise unspecified "small group survey;" and
- $49,000 for a "survey of mid-sized purchasers;"
- $20,000 to interview people regarding data privacy;

- $29,000 to determine whether people are aware of hypertension;
- $25,000 to conduct an otherwise unspecified "advertising evaluation;"
- $23,000 to conduct focus groups evaluating BCBSM's website;
- $27,000 to assess "several" of BCBSM's "system-generated" letters to subscribers;
- $20,000 to conduct interviews with consumers regarding BCBSM's "fall campaign television concepts;"
- $25,000 to conduct "positioning research" regarding Medicare;
- $40,000 to conduct focus groups with "pre-retirees;"
- $15,000 to assess whether employers are interested in consumer-driven health plans;

In short, seemingly no topic escaped BCBSM's market research consultants, for which BCBSM paid handsomely. According to BCBSM, it paid Action Marketing Research well over $1 million between 2000 and 2004 for market research projects. It paid another consultant, Katherine Galligan, over $600,000 during the same time period for additional market research. Yet another market research consultant, SNG Consulting, was paid well over $600,000 between 2000 and 2004.¹⁵ BCBSM paid another such consultant, Maritz Inc., $842,977 for additional market research between 2000 and 2003. Additionally, it paid Research International over $200,000 for more market research between 2000 and 2004.

Market research consultants were also used to assess consumer awareness of some of BCBSM's community involvement programs, raising the question whether BCBSM conducted those programs to improve community health or, instead, for publicity.

¹⁵ BCBSM was "unable to locate" any documents regarding this consultant's work.

B. Leadership Coaching and Letter-Writing Consultants.

In 2000, BCBSM paid a company called Leaps of Faith $166,000 for leadership coaching seminars. The seminars involved topics such as "turning ideas into reality" and "being a good meeting participant." (Exhibit 29.) BCBSM spent another $332,000 on this consultant in subsequent years.

In 2004, BCBSM paid another consultant $180,000 simply to improve the quality of its letter writing. (Exhibit 30.) This project was considered a small "pilot" involving the rewriting of 30 letters. ¹⁶

C. Trade Association Dues.

BCBSM spent significant amounts of money on trade association dues and lobbying. It paid large dues to Blue Cross Blue Shield Association, a trade association for Blues plans, almost a quarter of which was allocated to lobbying. Since 2000, BCBSM has paid well over $12 million in dues to the Association, with 2004 dues exceeding $3 million. BCBSM also paid large dues to many other trade association groups, including, between 2000 and 2004, over $2.2 million to the Minnesota Council of Health Plans and $493,995 to the American Association of Health Plans.

VIII. CONCLUSION.

Although BCBSM has adequate consulting expenditure policies on its books, it has consistently failed to follow the policies and to adequately remedy problems flagged by its own audits. BCBSM's nonprofit mission would be better served if it heeded its contracting policies, with particular attention to keeping better track of its contracts and consultant relationships. The large number of contracts that BCBSM was simply "unable to locate" indicates, at best, serious incompetence and a possible design to avoid the AGO's review. BCBSM also needs to rein in its spending on consultants. As a nonprofit health service plan corporation, it has a responsibility to spend health plan dollars wisely and in subscribers' best interest. BCBSM has ignored this responsibility by spending millions of dollars on experimental, unnecessary, or ethically questionable endeavors.

¹⁶ BCBSM did not follow its bid or vendor reference requirements for this project.

IX. RECOMMENDATIONS.

The AGO makes the following recommendations with respect to BCBSM's consulting practices

 The Department of Commerce should undertake a comprehensive examination of BCBSM's contracting and consulting practices to determine whether BCBSM is appropriately spending premium dollars.

2. BCBSM should:

A. Clean-up its contracting procedures by:

- (1) following its own policies;
- continuing to conduct internal audits, but following through on the recommendations made in those audits;
- (3) improving its contract maintenance by implementing measures to better track its consultants and maintain complete consultant contracts. The number of contracts BCBSM claims to have lost is unacceptable and procedures need to be implemented to remedy this serious problem;
- requiring detailed invoices from consultants to permit meaningful monitoring of consultants' work; and
- (5) improving initial estimates of consultants' work and adhering to those figures as closely as possible to avoid costly overruns and better observe competitive bid requirements.

B Carefully consider whether its astronomically expensive disease management programs are the best use of subscribers' premium dollars;

C. Pass through any savings it realizes on its disease management programs to subscribers by reducing their premiums;

D. Put health plan subscribers' privacy rights first. BCBSM should not have used an opt-out method to gain enrollment in its disease management programs. BCBSM should have sought subscribers' affirmative consent before sharing their private health information and should notify and gain subscribers' consent regarding exactly how it plans to use that information;

E. Stop expensive experimentation like the failed Incubator Project;

F. Curb excessive spending on consultants. For example, cut back on market research, promotional and advertising expenditures, and lobbying expenses. Devote these resources to goals consistent with BCBSM's nonprofit mission; and

G. Better monitor conflicts of interest. As a nonprofit health services plan corporation, BCBSM should not be funding board members' and executives' personal projects.

How to Choose and Work with a Consultant

IY PETER C. BRINKERHOFF

Consultants can offer excellent hands-on experience, insights, practical solutions and fresh perspectives to vexing issues. But to receive your money's worth you need to know when to use consultants (and when not to use them); what to look for (and what to look out for) what to require from them and where to start looking. Here are some suggestions.

WHY USE CONSULTANTS

There are many good reasons to use consultants, but that doesn't mean you should use them without careful consideration. Below are some valid reasons for nonprofits to use consultants.

- The organization is required to use outsiders. Almost all nonprofits which receive government or foundation support are required to have an outside financial audit and management letter each year.
 Some funders also require, as a condition of funding, using one of a selected "stable" of consultants to rectify problems within the organization.
- The problem to be solved is highly technical. If you're facing a complex issue, such as the development of a computer system, advice on a large telephone network or a new accounting system, an outsider is probably called for, if for no other reason than to bring you state-of-the-art options. (Not that you should always purchase the latest state of the art system, but you should know what is available.
- The problem is a one-time or infrequent one. Certain problems are just not worth knowing how to solve. For instance, if your organization is going to build one new office/program building in the next 20 years, it doesn't pay to train staff to be architects, realtors and contractors. Instead, hire these professionals as consultants.
- You need an unbiased outsider. One of the major benefits of outside consultants is that they don't bring vested interests to the problem. They can bring a fresh outlook and offer suggestions without being overly concerned with internal personal policies.
- You need a hired gun. In certain situations, you need an outsider to make unpopular recommendations, such as a staff structural change, which will eliminate positions or the abandonment of a popular, but overly expensive program. Even though you can perform the job yourself, it may not be wise to do so.
- You don't have the time. Be careful of using this justification too often. "Subbing out" a job to a consultant may mask poor time management or priority setting on the part of staff or board.

As you consider using a consultant, examine your problem to see if it fits into one or more of these categories. If not, reexamine the problem to see if you can solve it with internal resources. "BEWARE OF THE CONSULTANT WHO DOES A LITTLE BIT OF EVERYTHING – A LITTLE PLANNING, A LITTLE FUND RAISING, A LITTLE COMPUTER CONSULTATION, A LITTLE OPEN-HEART SURGERY."

WHY NOT USE CONSULTANTS?

People give a number of reasons for using a consultant when they really don't need one. These include:

- To reinforce a decision already made. Sometimes the decision-maker knows what to do but wants the "backup" or credibility of an outsider before proceeding. While a prime reason to use consultants is to provide outside objectivity (see above), in this case the consultant is being used inappropriately. Ask yourself if you are avoiding the true problem your own insecurity about your expertise or fear that your opinions don't have sufficient clout with the board or staff. People who hire consultants for this reason are almost never happy with the consultants' work. The reason? The consultant tells them what they already know. In the future they should put their confidence in their own cognitive abilities.
- To do regularly performed work. Consultants have their greatest application when they solve problems and teach solutions. (Remember the old adage, "Give me a fish and I eat for a day, but teach me to fish and I eat for a lifetime.") If you find yourself asking a consultant to do rather than to teach, consider hiring part- or full-time staff instead. The single common exception to this rule is your auditor. Auditors must be outsiders and do basically the same work (your year-end audit) each year.
- To impress your board, staff and funders. Bad idea. Having the foresight to seek outside expertise in a tough situation is commendable, but hiring a consultant only for show is not a good move. It's a waste of your money and of the consultant's time.

WHAT TO REQUIRE FROM YOUR CONSULTANT

Once you decide you need a consultant, you should require two things:

- 1.A written proposal containing the following:
- A specific scope of work, including the tasks the consultant will perform; the tasks that you, your staff and the board will perform; and target completion dates for each major item.
- At least three references specifically relating to your needs. Check these references.
- A fixed fee schedule or hourly rate with a cap.
- A contract. Once you select a consultant, require that a contract be drawn up and signed before work begins.

WHERE TO START LOOKING

The best way to find good consultants is by word-of-mouth. Start by carefully defining your needs. Then talk to peers, state and national trade associations, your United Way and your major funding sources about consultants they have used or heard of. Next draft a RFP (Request For Proposal) – a statement of what you need done, when you need it done, and about how much you want to spend. Send it to the consultants you've identified. Interview the best respondents and take the plunge with the best of the bunch.

How to Choose a Consultant

VHAT TO LOOK FOR IN A CONSULTANT

be effective, a consultant must have certain traits. Look for these salities as you search for a consultant, and confirm them in your initial consultation.

- Someone who wants to work with you, not for you. Your consultant should involve you in as much of the work as you can reasonably handle. Why? Because it will augment your understanding to the consultant's final product, increase your ownership of (and willingness to carry out) the recommendations, and reduce your costs. It will also decrease the chance that your consultant will force-fit your problem into a "canned" solution.
- Someone experienced and knowledgeable. Your consultant should have hands-on experience. If you want management consultation, look for those who have actually managed, especially those who have managed organizations of your type and size.
- A good teacher. Remember that professor you had in college who knew the subject but just couldn't teach? Being learned does not necessarily mean that you can transmit that knowledge to others. Even hands-on experience is not enough. It is essential that your consultant teach you to help yourself. This skill can be assessed in person as well as through references.
- Someone who can listen. While it's natural for consultants to spend part of your first interview giving you a "sales pitch" be wary if they do all the talking. Instead, they should be finding out as much as possible about your organization, your problem, your unique characteristics. If they don't seem interested in you and your organization, they probably aren't and that is a bad sign. The same is true during the on-site consultation. The consultant should spend a fair amount of the first few hours (or days, depending on the length of the consultation) listening, asking questions and taking notes. Beware of the "quick fix." It won't work for long.
- A good writer. This rare skill is vital, because many of your_consultant's recommendations and findings will be transmitted in writing to your board and staff. The consultant may be able to diagnose and help you solve your problem, but can he or she transmit that information through the essential medium of print? Look for clear, concise prose in the consultant's proposal and in any examples of past work that you receive.
- A good presenter. Another common function of consultants is to present their findings and recommendations to the board and staff. Thus, they must have good "stage presence" and be able to answer questions well.
- Someone who specializes in what you need. Beware of the consultant who does a little bit of everything – a little planning, a little fundraising, a little computer consultation, a little open-heart surgery. (Of course there is nothing wrong with consulting firms offering a range of services as long as they assign staff specialists in each area.) Find an individual or firm with a proven track record in what you specifically need. For example, if you need a business plan written, don't seek a long-range planner, seek a business planner. If you are dealing with Medicaid reimbursement rates, find someone who knows the Medicaid system in your state.

 Someone who is available. One of the greatest problems with busy consultants is their lack of available time, either in person, by telephone or by mail. Ask yourself how rapid your answers need to be. For example, if your consultant is helping you with accounting software selection and installation and your computer system crashes, you don't want to be dependent on someone two time zones away. Conversely, if you're hiring a consultant to help you develop your long-range plan; you probably don't need someone on site within two hours notice.

WHAT TO LOOK OUT FOR

As with any other purchasing decision, the operative phrase is "buyer beware." Here are some specific suggestions on what to avoid.

- Open-ended fees. There is no excuse for accepting an open-ended fee. It is an invitation to an open-ended bill. If your potential consultant suggests an hourly rate with no maximum hours, watch out.
- A non-specific scope of work. Can you imagine having your kitchen renovated and not specifying what appliances and cabinets you want where, or in what color? The same applies to a consultation. Look for a proposal that specifically lists what the consultant will do and when, as well as the responsibilities of you and your staff.
- Large advances. If a consultant requires a large advance (more than 15 percent or one month's fee), it could indicate fiscal instability. You run the risk of the consultant going out of business during your consultation or while you need follow-up. (In some cases, sizable advances are justified, of course, as when the consultant must spend a large amount of cash up-front.)
- Sloppy (or no) marketing material. Lack of good descriptive materials about the firm could indicate poor long-range planning, lack of capital, or less than long-term commitment to the consulting business and its customers.
- A firm made up of all part-timers. Would you hire a part-time plumber or a part-time pediatrician? People who don't work fulltime at consulting simply can't stay as current in their field and as practice in the art of consultation as a full-timer. Also, you may have problems access a firm of part-timers easily. One hint Be wary of a firm that continually uses an answering machine or service during regular business hours.

WHAT TO EXPECT.

What to expect from your consultant? Expertise, assistance and wisdom, but no miracles. If things go well (and they should if you've screened and selected well), you'll get your money's worth, but only if you have reasonable expectations and treat your consultant with respect and fairness. Don't try to sneak in a little add-on assistance here and there. The consultant's bid was constructed in light of what you originally proposed. Don't ask for a change in the work scope fithout first accepting a higher fee. Peter Brinkerhoff is president of Corporate Alternatives, Inc. (CAI) a firm specializing in nonprofit organizations. turned out that she had done more harm than good and he was reluctant to reopen Pandora's box.

If you are considering using a management consultant to help you with some of your organizational issues, here are some guidelines that will help you choose the right consultant and get the results you want:

Ask your friends and colleagues for names of consultants they would recommend. Beware of newcomers to the field. Many people are hanging "Open for Business" shingles between jobs or when they get laid off or fired. Don't let a greenhom learn the ropes at your company's expense.

Be clear about the results you want, but not about how you want them to do it. If you can nail down the specific deliverables you expect, it will help the consultant determine the process that will get you there. However, be careful not to dictate the specific steps you want the person to take. For instance, sometimes clients will ask me to come in and fix something by conducting a training program. But during the intake interview, it becomes clear to me that training will not produce the desired results. A client who is open to other solutions will get the best results.

Check references. Ask to speak to peole who are at your level in companies similar to yours, or people for whom the consultant has done similar work. If you skip this step, it's like inviting a stranger 10 baby-sit your children for the weekend. Would you really feel comfortable leaving them alone? Make sure the person shares your management philosophy.

LLOYD@WORK

time on the front end discussing the consultant's perspective, how he or she has approached other cases and what kind of style the person uses. Any outsider will stir things up a bit, regardless of style, just because the outsider is like a foreign body injected inside a living organism. If the person's philosophy is a match with yours. there will be less natural rejection and more acceptance by the organization.

Be sure the consultant has relevant real-life experience. Beware of consultants who sound like book reports on legs. If they consult by "best seller," the outcome may feel like the program-of-the-month.

Be careful to maintain control of the project. Spend enough time carefully communicating to employees what the consultant will be doing and why. If you don't, it will feed the rumor mill and cause even more concern. Don't allow the consultant to start working before you have reached a clear understanding of fees and how they will be billed. Finally, determine the schedule on the front end and build in monitoring points along the way.

Discuss vulnerabilities. Although it may be uncomfortable, the consultant needs to know how you and others could be vulnerable. Without this information, the consultant may stumble into an area and cause problems. For example, tell the consultant one of your employees is married to the owner's brother, or explain that if you have more turnover in your area, you could lose your job. It will help the consultant to help you.

The physicians' code, "First do no harm," applies to consultants, too. Good ones will only do as much as the organization can tolerate. They have a light touch and understand that an organization will push back when it has reached its limit for change.

Good consultants leave the organization stronger than they found it. They teach lessons that managers can repeat on their own and they leave behind practical tools that will make the lessons last.

1155A : "HIRING" CONSULTANTS AND LAWYERS

You may find yourself in a position in which you need assistance to solve business problems. Before you engage the services of a consultant or an attorney, carefully think through the reasons why you feel you need assistance and methodically review the process before contacting an outside resource.

Obviously, there is a critical difference between discovering you are being sued as opposed to the realization that your salary survey data is out of date. However, do as much advance analysis as possible in a time-critical situation. If you do, you will avoid or mitigate many future difficulties.

The process outlined below uses the term consultant, but you may also substitute the word "attorney" for consultant. The following decision sequence should be useful in most situations.

Step 1. Defining the scope of the problem

- Define your problem or issue:
 - ... Exactly what is wrong?
 - Why change what you have?
 - . How do you know you have a problem?

• Who else in your company has any information that would help you understand why you have this situation?

- Do you know how the problem happened?
 - · Do you know why the problem occurred?
 - . What will it take to solve the problem?
 -Da you know how to solve the problem?
 - Have you discussed the problem with your superior?
 - Who else should know?
 - Has this ever happened before? If so, what was done?

To determine exactly what the ramifications of the problem are, you may have to perform some preliminary information gathering and analysis. Specifically:

- What will happen if we do nothing?
- What risk(s) does your company have?
- Are there any financial risks? If yes, how can the risk be quantified?
- Is there a risk of adverse publicity?
- Is there any risk if other employees become aware of the problem?
- Are there risks associated if the company does not act quickly?

¶ 155A

Q2000, CCH INCORPORATED

What will it cost to fix the problem?

* Are funds budgeted and available to dedicate to resolving the problem? If not, how can funding be secured?

 Is the problem one issue or is it a part of a broader problem or process that must be addressed in order to solve the apparent problem.

Step 2. Resource analysis

Internal analysis:

Does your company employ someone who can solve the problem?

Can that person be made available to solve the problem?

□ If there is no internal ability to solve the problem in the time available, what potential external resources are there?

What if you have no latitude in selecting outside consultants? It is not uncommon for some companies to have a law firm on a retainer or to have a long-standing relationship with a specific consulting firm. In those situations, you generally would not be in the position of selecting the firm; however, you should still consider following the process described below as closely as possible. It will provide you with more information and, in the event the relationship or situation deteriorates, you will have attempted to ensure success.

To identify all possible resources available, use all of the following:

Contact your professional peers for referrals.

Contact trade and professional associations.

Ask your colleagues for recommendations.

What external organizations have been used in the past?

Example: Your organization recently hired a chief financial officer from one of the major accounting firms. She has made an outstanding impact on your organization. When you advise her of your need, she is insistent that you hire her former employer.

In the above situation, if you have networking relationships, membership in one or more professional societies, and read periodicals and attend seminars and conventions, you are in a position to debate the relative value of one firm or expert compared to another. Also, you may have heard a speaker or read an article by an individual that could be a candidate, or the individual's firm may be a candidate for your current needs.

Does the situation require multiple resources? Can one external resource provide expertise to resolve your situation or do you need to investigate several different types of resources? For example, if your problem involves a legal and training matter, you may need to employ an attorney and a consultant who specializes in training program design.

After you have secured the names of several possible resources, consider the following:

 You may prefer local resources to reduce the cost of travel and to make communications easier.

Personnel Practices/Communications

¶ 155A

Generally, referrals from inside your company are preferable. If the resolution may be potentially embarrassing to your firm, you may find support easier internally if your peer(s) participated in the decision to retain a specific consultant or attorney.

· Initially, narrow the list to three or four resources.

 Meet with your superior and any other interested party to apprise them of your progress and planning.

 Contact each resource and arrange a meeting at your facility as soon as mutually convenient.

Step 3. Interviewing potential candidates

Prior to the first meeting:

□. Give each potential consultant a confidential copy of a written document that defines the scope of the problem and expectations the expectations you and your company have of what the consultant will do. This can be in the form of a request for proposal that explains your objectives and needs or may be presented during your initial interview.

Determine whether there is any question concerning the financial performance. stability and reputation of the firm and include questions to secure information regarding these concerns.

Understand the issues surrounding your problem and be familiar with related laws and other similar matters.

Be prepared to listen carefully and take comprehensive notes.

During each interview, discuss the following with each consultant:

Request a list of prior clients with the same or a similar problem and, if possible, in the same industry. Ask whether or not you can contact the organization, and if so, secure contact information.

Ask for an estimate of the cost to resolve the problem, advice on how to plan expenses, how the consultant will bill, how expenses are handled, as well as the fee.

Inquire whether or not your firm can do some of the work, such as printing, to reduce costs.

Probe whether or not the consultant provides advice as well as a product.

L Determine whether the solution to your problem will be the same as others or whether the consultant will create a unique solution.

detailed sequence of steps necessary from beginning to end.

. D. Insist on meeting with the individual(s) who will do the work prior to any decision to engage if the consultant you are meeting with will not be the individual who will complete the assignment.

Ask about the consultants prior experience with your situation.

Inquire what the consultant's credentials are.

1155A

01998, CCH INCORPORATED

Find out how will the consultant safeguard the confidentiality of your information.

Request that the consultant's proposal include a statement that the consultant is complying with all laws; regulations and canons or standards of conduct governing his or her profession and business.

Inquire if the consulting firm will guarantee their work, and for how long.

proposal addressing all of the commitments made in this meeting, the plans to resolve your situation, and the total cost and all contingencies to cost.

D Be prepared to tell the consultant to whom to direct questions, who will make the decision on hiring, your time frame for project completion, and anything you consider outside the scope of the work.

D Provide a deadline for bids and advise how many copies of the bid you want to receive.

Step 4. Selecting the consultant

· Review each written proposal:

· Is the proposal consistent with your notes and recollections of what was said by the consultant?

- Are you comfortable with the proposal as a solution?
 - Is one proposal clearly superior to the others?
- . Is one proposal clearly less costly than the others?

"__"Chemistry" is important:

. If this is a situation of risk, such as a high profile discrimination lawsuit, your working relationship with your expert is critical. You must be completely candid and feel the individual has the company's best interest at heart. All things being equal, chemistry may be the most important variable.

· Did the consultant do all of the talking or did the consultant ask many questions and is the proposal reflective of what the consultant learned in the interview? Do your homework:

Check all references and credentials.

- O Check professional regulators and the Better Business Bureau.

Remember, cheapest is not always the best.

Recommendation:

Discuss your thought process and preliminary recommendation with your superior and any other interested party. Gain support for your decision by sharing the process and what you have learned.

Make your decision.

Final details:

Have a legal review of the contract before signing. Compare your original meeting. notes and the initial written proposal to the contract to ensure that the documents and your understanding are consistent. Pay particular attention to any discrepancies.

If a decision was based on price, you may want to negotiate price with other bidders before making a final decision.

Call the winning bidder and follow up with a letter recapping your understanding. . and expectations.

Personnel Practices/Communications

1155A

_____Contact the other consultants by mail. You need not divulge who got the bid or ______why, although you may want to give feedback.

Step 5. Monitoring progress after engaging external services

Monitor progress closely. If daily contact is necessary, then demand daily feedback.
 Review all bills.

internal processes in order to avoid the same or similar situations in the future.

 Do not broaden the assignment without redoing most of steps 3 and 4. Remember that consultants earn money by billing time. If you ask for information, you will be charged for the time spent in researching and responding to your request.

 Designate one company contact for all communication with the consultant. No one should go directly to the consultant; everyone should work through the designated contact.

 If there are several individuals doing tasks for the consultant, request that the consultant also appoint a "point person" to facilitate accountability for communications.

 Do not "leak" information prematurely. Have periodic update sessions conducted by the consultant and provide the sessions to all interested parties for the life of the assignment.

 Do not hesitate to advise your professional counterparts of your experience with your consultant. Open, earned praise or factual information is always valuable.

What should you expect from your consultant or attorney? Using the terms "consultant" and "attorney" interchangeably, the traits listed below should reflect the manner in which your consultant or attorney handles his or her part of the relationship:

Reassuring: You should not be made to feel that your situation is unusual, and you should be made to feel that your questions and concerns are reasonable. You should receive a timely and quick response.

No surprises: You should be aware of any possible actions and alternatives.

Leadership: Your attorney should function as the leader of the team.

Honesty: In simple language, your consultant should be candid and straightforward.

Know your business: Your attorney should make an honest effort to understand your business and industry, and therefore understand how advice may impact the business in general.

Anticipate problems: Your consultant should anticipate your concerns and be an individual you feel you can confide in.

Interested: Your consultant should be enthusiastic about your challenge.

Professional: Your attorney should always demonstrate the highest standards of professionalism.

Loyalty: You should expect the consultant's loyalty and commitment.

Available and proactive: Your attorney should encourage communications and anticipate your need for information concerning the status of your situation.

Attentive: You should be made to feel you are the most important client your consultant has.

1155B HOW TO MANAGE LEGAL CHALLENGES

Almost anyone can sue your firm for some reason. Certainly, employees and former employees can engage the services of an attorney and, generally, sue you for alleged misconduct or harm of some form. The fact that a law suit is filed does not mean you will not prevail; however, it does mean you must investigate and respond.

Regardless of the merit of the suit or the actual facts, there are certain actions you should take whenever you are sued:

Derived a protect, the plaintiff (charging party). Immediately upon learning that an individual is suing your firm, take what ever reasonable steps you can to ensure that the party is not retaliated against in any way. Assuming the individual is employed by your company, there must be no change in the individual's employment situation—no matter 'how'subtle—as a result of the individual's action against the company. Meet with the individual in private, explain the company's desire to ensure that there are no negative reactions, and strongly request that the individual advise you (or the individual he or she meets with) if there is a perception of negative actions. If the individual is no longer an

What to include, What should you include in documentation to make it meaningful, helpful or useful? At a minimum, documentation should include:

The purpose of the documentation, i.e., written warning, manager's log, logging a complaint, etc.

The critical elements who, what, where, when, why and how.

How the event impacted your business-cited by decision makers as the key to effective documentation as it shows what your legitimate business reason was for taking the action.

Relevant policies and procedures.

 Dast documentation relevant to the event-attach past warnings, incident reports and performance appraisals, as applicable.

Corrective action taken.

Action plan for follow up.

Statement of consequences,

Signature and dates If the employee refuses to sign, make a note on the document and have a witness sign the note.

Remember your role as a juror. If you have not made a fair investigation, you will not succeed in convincing the jury or the juror that the evidence is fair. While the goal is to have an outcome that is favorable to the company, your job is to make a fair and complete investigation of what occurred. If you bypass unfavorable evidence, testimony or documentation, be certain that the opposition will not.

Employee rights to representation prison and prime'r

I.... Union employees have the right to request the presence of a union representative at an investigatory interview that could result in discipline, according to the US Supreme Court's NLRB v J Weingarten decision. The NLRB has also extended Weingarten rights to nonunion employees—they have the right to have a coworker present at an investigatory interview. Investigatory interviews are those in which an employee is investigated or questioned or when the emloyee reasonably fears that some sort of discipline may result. There is no right to representation in a disciplinary or termination meeting where the employee is informed about disciplinary action.

1165D A GUIDE TO REQUESTS FOR PROPOSALS

You may want another firm to administer certain services for your company. You may need research before you decide how to handle a matter. How will you find the best service provider or researcher to meet your needs? Send out"d' Request for Proposals (RFP) and choose the company or researcher that submits the text proposal.

Puntingli@2001, OCH INCORPORATED

This section explains a general RFP procedure and provides a checklist of major points that should be covered in an RFP. A sample RFP is also included below.

General procedure. There are five main steps to the RFP process. An RFP must be created and distributed. The proposals that are submitted must be reviewed and a selection made. Then, participants are notified and a contract for services is negotiated.

1. Create the RFP. After a need is identified and assessed, an RFP must be created. An RFP should be very specific about what services are required. A specification sheet that would anticipate the questions that may be asked by someone desiring to submit a proposal in response could be attached. The more specific an RFP, the better, more relevant the proposals received should be. A checklist for creating an RFP and a sample RFP are provided below.

2. Distribute the RFP. Determine who should receive the RFP. It may be necessary to purchase a mailing list from an organization in order to reach those that can provide the needed services. The RFP may be distributed by mail, E-mail or fax. RFPs may also be included in newspaper employment ads or posted on the Internet. An Internet list server may also be used. If you are sending out a large number of RFPs by mail, you might want to engage a mail house to stuff and post the envelopes.

3. Review proposals submitted. Keep a log of the date and time each proposal has been received. Assemble a committee to review and select the best proposal. Committee members should be knowledgeable about the needs of the organization and the need for the requested services. Each reviewing member should receive a copy of all proposals. Should a large number of proposals be received, a screening process could be used.

Review and selection would be facilitated through the use of a uniform rating sheet. A deadline should be set for the reviews. One member of the committee should tabulate the reviews and determine if one proposal is clearly the favorite. If a tie is apparent, the proposals that are tied should be reviewed again by the committee. Once a winner has been selected, carefully review the credentials to evaluate whether, in the committee's opinion, the proposal can be carried out.

4. Notification. Notify the winner that his or her proposal has been selected and that you would like to begin contract negotiation. Also, notify the other participants that the first selection has been made and tell them that contract negotiation is underway. Do not give participants a final selection notification until you have a signed contract with the winner. You may be unable to form a contract with the first choice and you may need to enlist the services of your second choice.

1. Create contract, Before entering into contract negotiations, study the proposal to see if there are any issues that could make problems for your company, Such issues would have to be explored and resolved during contract negotiation. With a wellcrafted RFP and accompanying specification sheet, there shouldn't be many issues left to resolve during this negotiation phase.

From: CCII Incorporated and the Society for Human Resource Management

CCII Incorporated and the Research Coulmittee of the Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM) request the submission of proposals for funded contract research on the topic of the transformation of the IIR function.

Those submitting proposals should be willing to present their research results at the 1998 SHRM National Conference and Exposition in Minneapolis, Minnesota, June 14-17, 1998. In addition, a CCII-edited summary of the research results, based on the researcher's final written report, will be sent to SHRM members and to subscribers of CCII services.

The overall purpose of the project is to identify and analyze whether and how the IIR function is being transformed from a traditional department structure to a decentralized business unit framework that places more responsibility on line managers and other functional organization members (including employees) to perform HR tasks.

The successful proposal, when implemented, will (1) determine and quantify the extend to which the transformation has taken place in small, medium and large organizations; (2) show the various structures and technologies that are currently in place to perform all HR functions; (3) determine the role HR plays in the transformed structure; (4) identify the specific functions that are being performed by line management and other functional organization members; and (5) determine the tools and support needed by line managers and business units to perform HR responsibilities. It is assumed that this will require nonrandom survey(s) of a stratified sample of the SHRM membership.

The proposal must also contain sufficient information to enable CCH and the SHRM Research Committee to evaluate the researcher's ability to conduct the project.

Proposals should be submitted by February 7, 1997, in accordance with the enclosed specification sheet, to:

[name, address, telephone number and E-mail address]

Requests for additional information, if required, should be directed to the person at the telephone number or E-mail address designated above.

✓ CHECKLIST: Creating an RFP

Clearly specify what services you are seeking. For example, do you need a benefits administrator? Contract research? An outsourcer?

Identify your company and be specific about your requirements.

Identify your purpose.

Set out what a successful proposal will include.

Note any conditions that apply (e.g., extra fees).

Indicate when the submissions must be received.

List the name and relevant information on where to send a proposal. Also, list the name of a contact person who can be contacted for questions or clarifications.

Attach a specification sheet to set out additional proposal requirements. The sheet should include:

· Submission deadline

 Statement of purposes and objectives. Each proposal must indicate how each area set forth in the RFP will be addressed. It must specify key issues and identify potential problems. For example, how the services will meet the company's needs or how research findings will advance knowledge or add value.

 Support for the proposal. This could include a literature review or demonstration of previous approaches, case studies and client references.

 Description of methodology. How will the services be provided? How will the problem be approached? Other information that may assist their ability to perform includes: history/organizational structure; staffing; risk management; liability programs; ADA compliance; account management capabilities; performance guarantees; complaint resolution procedure; technology (Y2K compliance); and confidentiality.

· Schedule. Ask for a project timetable. Provide an end date, if applicable, Budget statement. State the resources required. Explain the charges, fees and expenses that you expect to pay and those you will not.

If you want to do a blind review, specify that the statement of qualifications be in a separate document. References and former clients should be listed along with contact numbers. If anyone is not eligible to participate in the RFP process, it must be specified.

- A. Audit fees for governmental auditors.
- B. Audit fees for financial statement and other attestation work engaged by the Audit Committee.
- C. Payments to professionals for peer review or medical review services.
- D. Investment managers/investment advisors.
- E. Contractors or consultants performing services under the direction of a Law Department attorney, with the expectation that the work being done will be subject to the attorney client privilege or the work product doctrine.

Guidelines:

 Business Justification: The initiator of a request to use a contractor or consultant will provide, in writing, the business rationale for the request. Such rationale will address the following:

- A. The business need that will be addressed and why it needs to be addressed at this time.
- B. If the contractor or consultant is to be associated with a larger project, identify that project.
- C. An explanation of why employee(s) cannot be used to address this issue.
- D. An indication of whether or not funds are budgeted to pay the contractor or consultant, and where funding is located.
- E. An estimate of the total cost of the services to be rendered.

F. An identification of the deliverable or work product to be received.

G. An estimate of the time to complete the project.

II. Selection: Prior to selecting a consultant or contractor, the initiator of the request will conduct the required due diligence to ensure the contractor or consultant selected is appropriate for the job and represents the best value for the investment. Required due diligence will consist of the following when the services to be rendered exceed $50,000 per project.

A. Competitive bids:

- A competitive bid process will be undertaken unless there are justifiable reasons for not conducting the bid. Reasons for not conducting a competitive bid should be documented in writing and provided to Purchasing.
- Bids can be oral or written. However, written bids should be obtained when the services to be received exceed $150,000 or when bids and services between vendors are not easily and obviously comparable. Copies of the competitive bids must be forwarded, and kept on file in the Purchasing department.
- Written documentation should be provided in situations where the low-cost vendor is not selected and sent to Purchasing.
- It is reasonable to expect that competitive bids are sometimes not necessary. These situations may include but are not limited to occasions where:
 - a. A corporate contract is in place,
 - b. The vendor is providing services which are an extension of work previously completed by the vendor, or
 - c. In cases where the vendor provides services for which the initiator of the request is confident no comparable vendor is available.
- B. Vendor references:
 - References from the contractor or consultant will be requested and checked if there is no knowledge of the vendor's work history at Blue Cross.
 - 2. Justifiable reasons for not obtaining and checking references will be documented.
- C. Vendor financial viability: A review of a prospective contractor or consultant's ongoing financial viability will be conducted when any of the following four conditions are present:
 - The project is of a nature that substitute vendors could not complete the project at a reasonable cost should the vendor under consideration become unable to finish the project.
 - The vendor is an integral part of a project that extends more than one month, the vendor will be receiving payments in excess of $150,000 and the vendor requires progress payments (i.e. the vendor is paid on work performed, not on the basis of a completed project).
 - The nature of the service or project, when completed, requires the vendor to provide ongoing services to Blue Cross that could not be provided by alternative vendors.
 - The vendor is providing a service that results in the production of an asset or intellectual property to be owned by Blue Cross.

Corporate Finance will conduct a review of a vendor's financial viability when any of the above conditions are met and the payments to the vendor are expected to exceed $250,000. The initiator will document the reasons a review of the financial viability of the vendor is not conducted when the above conditions are met.

If the initiator does not have the skills to evaluate the prospective vendor's financial viability, the division controller or a financial analyst in corporate financial planning will conduct the review.

- D. Requests for proposals:
 - 1. Blue Cross will conduct formal requests for proposals (RFPs) when payments to a contractor or consultant are expected to exceed $1,000,000 over the life of any project. Request for proposals will be required when a contractor or consultant used in one stage of a project will be considered for a subsequent stage and total payments to the contractor or consultant after subsequent stages are completed are expected to exceed $1,000,000. Using the same vendor based on project knowledge and consistent workflow will not eliminate the need to conduct an RFP when total payments to a vendor in multiple stages will exceed $1,000,000.
 - Blue Cross will conduct RFPs at least once every five years for other contractor or consultant services that are provided annually, are typically provided by the same vendor from year to year, irrespective of whether a long-term contract is in place, and exceed $1,000,000 in payments over five years or less.
 - 3. RFPs will be coordinated by the Purchasing department.
 - RFPs are not required for contractors or consultants that serve a staff augmentation or temporary help function.

E. Independent contractors: Blue Cross employees will consider the following when selecting all independent contractors or independent consultants, including those whose fees are not expected to exceed $50,000:

- Blue Cross will comply with IRS guidelines with respect to the use of independent contractors. Employees will obtain approval from Human Resources prior to entering into an agreement with an independent contractor or consultant to ensure compliance.
- In order to ensure an ethical environment, independent contractors or consultants will not be engaged by or placed into a position reporting directly or indirectly to a relative or spouse. Under no circumstances will a relative or spouse of an officer, Human Resource employee or Payroll employee be hired as an independent contractor or consultant.
- Former employees will not be engaged as an independent contractor or consultant until 90 days after termination of employment.
- 4. When former employees, officers or Board members are being hired and the total fees are expected to exceed $100,000 in the aggregate, prior approval is required in addition to the authorization required under Associated Procedure B. Former employees require the additional approval of the Chief Compliance Officer. Former officers or Board members require the additional approval of the Board.
- Independent contractor or consultant assignments are limited to six months. Independent contractor or consultant assignments extending beyond six months will require a written justification for the extension.

III. Contracts and Agreements: An initiator of a request to use a contractor or consultant will ensure that the contractor or consultant agrees in writing to the terms and conditions of the work to be performed prior to the commencement of any work.

- A. Contractors and consultants will be required to sign 1) a standard Blue Cross Consultant Agreement, 2) a standard Master Technology Services Agreement for technology-related services or products, or 3) a substantially similar agreement which defines all terms and conditions of the product or services to be provided and identifies the Blue Cross requirements under which the contractor or consultant will be allowed to conduct business at Blue Cross.
- B. If a Blue Cross consultant agreement is not used, any substitute document must address the same or similar terms and conditions as contained in the Blue Cross consultant agreement.
- C. Potential conflicts of interest must be addressed in the contract or supporting documents as described in our associated procedures.
- D. Certain contracts must be submitted to the Legal department for review prior to signature. These contracts include, but are not limited to, contracts which involve the release of protected health information; contracts for services which result in the production of a deliverable for which Blue Cross or an affiliate requires ownership or license rights; contracts obligating Blue Cross or an affiliate to indemnification, warranty, non-competition or non-solicitation provisions when the provisions deviate from pre-approved language; and other contracts as determined by the Legal department.
- E. Prior to commencement of work, the vendor must provide proof of insurance coverage as defined in the procedures. The Blue Cross Purchasing department can assist vendors in obtaining coverage.
- F. Contractors/consultants who will have access to any of Blue Cross' business systems, protected health information (PHI), or proprietary information must comply with requirements for conducting criminal background checks (see attached link below), or represent that persons assigned to work for Blue Cross are not currently charged with, pled quility to, or been convicted of a felony before they perform any work for Blue Cross. All exceptions to this policy require prior approval from the vice-president initiating the contract, the corporate compliance officer and a law department attorney.
- G. Separate contracts are not required for vendors filling temporary positions placed through Blue Cross' on-site temporary help agent for which a master service agreement is in place.

Approval of the highest-ranking vice president will be required in the event circumstances prevent a written contract from being signed prior to work commencement. All reasonable efforts will be taken to obtain a signed contract when a contractor or consultant is needed in emergency situations.

IV. Payment: A contractor or consultant will not be paid until a signed written contract is in place and the services that have been received have been accepted.

V. Prepayments or Advance Payments: Blue Cross provides payments to vendors as work is performed or projects are completed. Occasionally a vendor will request payments prior to starting or completing work due to upfront working capital needs associated with the project. If the initiator of a request determines that prepayments or advances are directly associated with the ability to start or complete the Blue Cross project, the following will be required before the prepayment or advance can be made:

- A. Written documentation indicating the reason(s) for the prepayment or advance.
- B. Prepayments or advances of $0-$50,000 require signature of a vice-president.
- C. Prepayments or advances exceeding $50,000 require the signature of the chief financial officer.

Prepayments or advances not related to the project are not permitted.

VI. Retainers: Compensation paid to a consultant or contractor in advance of services being rendered and to ensure the availability of the contractor or consultant when services are needed are considered retainers.

- A. Retainers will be provided to vendors infrequently and only when appropriate financial or other business justification for the retainer is provided with the request.
- B. Use of retainers will be limited to the Legal and Legislative Affairs departments. In the event a retainer is required for any other department, the signature of the chief financial officer will be required.
- C. The vice-president most closely associated with the retainer will conduct, or have conducted, an assessment of the value of the retainer at the end of each period covered by the retainer and will use this assessment to determine if renewal of the retainer is appropriate. The assessment will accompany the request for a purchase order upon renewal.

VII. Access to Buildings, Systems and Confidential Information:

- A. Contractors and consultants will not be given unaccompanied access to Blue Cross buildings until the following requirements have been met.
 - 1. a written contract is signed or appropriate vice president approval is obtained,
 - 2. a purchase order is established, and
 - a vendor confidentiality statement is signed or prior approval of the privacy officer, or their designee, is obtained.
- B. Contractors and consultants will not be given access to Blue Cross systems and confidential information until the following requirements have been met.
 - 1. a written contract is signed or appropriate vice president approval is obtained,
 - 2. the Security Acknowledgment form is signed, and
 - a vendor confidentiality statement is signed or prior approval of the privacy officer, or their designee, is obtained.

VIII. Monitoring Performance: The initiator of a request for contractor or consultant services, or their designee, will be responsible for ensuring services or products are received prior to making payment and that such services or products meet expected quality standards. The performance of the contractor or consultant will be closely monitored as services are delivered. This shall include the following activities:

- A. Review deliverables on a periodic basis to ensure that the contractor or consultant is providing what has been agreed to in the contract.
- B. Demand complete and accurate invoices and bills from the contractor or consultant.
- C. If the contractor or consultant is paid on an hourly basis, he or she may be required to enter the time into Blue Cross' online time-reporting system. The employee responsible for monitoring this vendor shall review and approve the time entered on a timely basis.
- D. If the vendor is not monitored through Blue Cross' online time-reporting system, the initiator will ensure that invoices include a complete itemization and description of the work performed, identification of who conducted the work, the date the work was completed and an identification of the project worked on and applicable purchase order number.
- E. If the invoice represents a progress payment, the invoice will identify the work completed to date for which the vendor is requesting payment.
- F. The initiator of a request to use a contractor or consultant will ensure that all travel, lodging and meal expenses of the vendor will be reimbursed in accordance with Blue Cross' Vendor Expense Reimbursement Policy. (See link below).

IX. Documentation and Filing: Contracts and other documents supporting the justification for the contractor or consultant should be supplied with the purchase order requisition and kept on file in the Purchasing department.

X. Government Programs: Blue Cross will comply with applicable state and federal requirements when selecting and using contractors and consultants whose services significantly relate to Blue Cross' government programs members. Blue Cross' government program members include enrollees in the Prepaid Medical Assistance Program, MinnesotaCare Program, Medicare Programs, Minnesota Comprehensive Health Association and the Federal Employee Program (FEP).

- A. Blue Cross will comply with applicable provisions of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) and the Federal Employee Health Benefits Acquisition Regulation (FEHBAR) relating to FEP subcontracts. The FEP subcontracting provisions require, among other things, that all subcontract arrangements require advance approval when the cumulative subcontract costs charged to FEP exceed $100,000 and represent 25 percent or more of the total subcontract. The FEP subcontracting provisions may also require that flow-down clauses be included in certain subcontracts.
- B. Blue Cross will not offer vendor agreements to persons or entities who are debarred, suspended, or otherwise excluded from participating in a government program or from participating in procurement activities under the Federal Acquisition Regulation.

Associated Procedures :

A. Procedures: Initiators of a request to use a contractor or consultant will follow the appropriate Accounting and Purchasing department procedures for selecting, monitoring and compensating the vendor.

B. Approvals and Authorizations: Requests for vendor services will require the following approvals:

$0 - $1,000	Manager
$1,001 - $5,000	Director
$5,001 - $49,999	Vice president
$50,000 - $149,999	Two vice presidents
$150,000 and above	Vice president and CFO

Use of Contractors and Consultants Policy Blue Cross Blue Shield of Minnesota Audit as of December 2, 2002 1A96-1202

Objective & Scope

The objective of this audit was to review contracts entered into July 15, 2002, and thereafter to ensure compliance with the Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants Policy that became effective July 15, 2002.

Summary of Findings

In the course of this review, the findings listed below were noted. These findings and our recommendations for improvement were discussed with Tim Schultz, Vice President of Finance; Marv Heck, Director of Cost Accounting/Procurement/Accounts Payable; and, Kevin Fossum, Manager of Purchasing, who responded as indicated.

- Training for Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants Policy, effective July 15, 2002, was not performed for business units that use contractors and consultants.
 - Response: The first phase of the training was started in August with a presentation to the controllers group. This was a follow up to the policy introduction meeting with the controller group in June. The controllers are going to help carry out the policy to the business units. Those requisitioners who are not following the policy will be contacted and reminded of the policy. Repeat offenders will be reported to Corporate Compliance.

Training sessions will be held in the auditorium of each building for all those involved with the acquisition of outside labor services. Starting January 16th, a series of one-hour targeted training meetings began with project managers. Face to face meetings with the business units, starting with the high volume areas, began January 22nd. Purchasing is responsible for ensuring these training sessions occur.

- Documentation required by the Guidelines section of the Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants Policy, effective July 15, 2002, is not always submitted.
 - Response: The required documentation is not always received before the contractor starts his/her project. Effective immediately, Accounts Payable and Purchasing will hold all invoices until the required documentation is received. In addition, the requisition form/database will be modified to require all the information needed for compliance with the policy. The ongoing training will address the necessary documentation requirements.
- Contracts for consultants/contractors are not always signed prior to work being performed by that consultant/contractor.
 - Response: Contractors are allowed in the door and access to systems without having proper documentation in place; however, the signed paperwork is still required. Purchasing and Accounts Payable will hold all invoices until the contracts and the other documentation is signed. The master service agreements (MSA) were sent to the appropriate vendors by 12/31/02. The vendors affected by this action are the hourly staff augmentation contractors. As indicated in the previous response, the ongoing training will address the necessary documentation and procedural requirements. The workflow of the modified requisition will notify Systems Security when requirements are met. Purchasing will notify Systems Security by email until the new system is in place.
- Contracts for consultants/contractors are not always signed prior to payment being made to the vendor.
 - Response: The master service agreements (MSA) were sent out to the staff augmentation vendors by 12/31/02. The reason why these vendors had been paid prior to signing a contract was due to an issue raised by Human Resources with regard to background verification for contractors. However, it has been that determined that these issues will be handled as an amendment to the agreement if necessary. The ongoing training will address the necessary documentation and procedural requirements.

- A contract prepared by a vendor was signed by BCBSM and did not address the same or similar terms and conditions as contained in the Blue Cross consultant agreement as required by policy.
 - Response: These contracts should be reviewed by legal. Templates were created to eliminate the need for legal review in every case. In most cases these vendor agreements are already signed when Purchasing receives them. The requesting manager will need to be trained on working with the legal department to get proper vendor contracts. The ongoing training will address the necessary documentation and procedural requirements with regard to contract templates, and vendor contracts.
- Confidentiality Agreements are not always received from vendors prior to allowing unaccompanied access to Blue Cross buildings.
 - Response: This issue requires the assistance of Physical Security. Purchasing and Accounts Payable will hold all invoices until the proper paperwork is received. Some vendors will not sign this form. In these situations written approval from legal is required. The ongoing training will address the necessary documentation and procedural requirements.

Policy Training

Condition: Training for the Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants Policy, effective July 15, 2002, has not been performed for business units that use contractors and consultants, as indicated in an e-mail sent from Tim Schultz, dated July 15, 2002.

Effect: Those responsible for entering into contracts with contractors and consultants are not fully informed of the policy requirements. Therefore, their process for entering into contracts may not be in compliance with the policy and may expose the Company to additional risks.

Criteria: Policies should be communicated fully and training should be performed, as needed.

Cause: The planned training for this policy has not yet occurred.

Recommendation: We recommend that training for the Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants is performed with the appropriate individuals.

Response: The first phase of the training was started in August with a presentation to the controllers group. This was a follow up to the policy introduction meeting with the controller group in June. The controllers are going to help carry out the policy to the business units. Those requisitioners who are not following the policy will be contacted and reminded of the policy. Repeat offenders will be reported to Corporate Compliance.

Training sessions will be held in the auditorium of each building for all those involved with the acquisition of outside labor services. Starting January 16th, a series of one-hour targeted training meetings began with project managers. Face to face meetings with the business units, starting with the high volume areas, began January 22nd. Purchasing is responsible for ensuring these training sessions occur.

Documen	tation	Rea	uirements

Condition: Documentation required by Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants Policy, effective July 15, 2002, is not always submitted.

Effect:

Out of 16 contractor/consultant files reviewed, which were initiated after July 15, 2002:

- 10 did not have the Business Justification documented in writing
- 2 did not have competitive bids performed, as required
- 2 did not have a review of Vendor Financial Viability performed, as required
- 1 did not have a Request for Proposal performed, as required

Therefore, in these situations, the Company is out of compliance with Corporate Policy.

Criteria:

Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants, effective July 15, 2002, requires various documentation be submitted prior to entering into a contract such as:

- Business Justification, in writing, addressing specific concerns noted within the policy
- Competitive Bids, in writing, when services to be received exceed $150,000
- Review of Vendor Financial Viability, when an integral part of the project extends more than one month, the vendor will be receiving payments in excess of $150,000, and the vendor requires progress payments
- Formal Request for Proposals, when payments to the contractor or consultant are expected to exceed $1,000,000 over the life of any project
- Cause:

The planned training for this policy has not yet occurred and, therefore, individuals are unsure of where exactly the policy is located and what documentation is required.

Recommendation:

We recommend that training for Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants is performed with the appropriate individuals.

Response:

The required documentation is not always received before the contractor starts his/her project. Effective immediately, Accounts Payable and Purchasing will hold all invoices until the required documentation is received. In addition, the requisition form/database will be modified to require all the information needed for compliance with the policy. The ongoing training will address the necessary documentation requirements.

Signed Contracts on File

Condition: Contracts for consultants/contractors are not always signed prior to work being performed by that consultant/contractor.

Effect: One consultant performed and completed services in July 2002 and the contract and Confidentiality Statement for this consultant was not signed until October 2002. Therefore, in this situation, the Company is out of compliance with Corporate Policy.

Criteria: Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants, effective July 15, 2002, Section III. Contracts and Agreements, states 'An initiator of a request to use a contractor or consultant will ensure that the contractor or consultant agrees in writing to the terms and conditions of the work to be performed prior to the commencement of any work.'

Cause: A signed contract was not on file prior to services being performed by the consultant.

Recommendation: We recommend that signed contracts be required to be on file prior to the commencement of any work being performed by a contractor/consultant as per Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants; or, amend this policy to reflect current business practice.

Response: Contractors are allowed in the door and access to systems without having proper documentation in place; however, the signed paperwork is still required. Purchasing and Accounts Payable will hold all invoices until the contracts and the other documentation is signed. The master service agreements (MSA) were sent to the appropriate vendors by 12/31/02. The vendors affected by this action are the hourly staff augmentation contractors. As indicated in the previous response, the ongoing training will address the necessary documentation and procedural requirements. The workflow of the modified requisition will notify Systems Security when requirements are met. Purchasing will notify Systems Security by email until the new system is in place.

Vendor Payment

Condition: Contracts for consultants/contractors are not always signed prior to payment being made to the vendor.

Effect: Two vendors received payment from BCBSM prior to having a signed written contract in place. Therefore, in these situations, the Company is out of compliance with Corporate Policy.

Criteria: Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants, effective July 15, 2002, Section IV. Payment, states 'A contractor or consultant will not be paid until a signed written contract is in place and the services that have been received have been accepted.'

Cause: For both of these situations, there was an understanding that a new contract format was being developed and these two vendors would sign the new contract once it was finalized.

Recommendation: We recommend that signed contracts be required to be on file prior to payment being made as per Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants; or, amend this policy to reflect current business practice.

Response:

The master service agreements (MSA) were sent out to the staff augmentation vendors by 12/31/02. The reason why these vendors had been paid prior to signing a contract was due to an issue raised by Human Resources with regard to background verification for contractors. However, it has been that determined that these issues will be handled as an amendment to the agreement if necessary. The ongoing training will address the necessary documentation and procedural requirements.

Vendor Contract

Condition: A contract prepared by a vendor was signed by BCBSM and did not address the same or similar terms and conditions as contained in the Blue Cross consultant agreement.

Effect:

The contract prepared by the vendor did not contain the following items, which are contained in the Blue Cross consultant agreement:

- Conflict Resolution Statement
- Identification of the specific individual(s) who would be performing the project
- Requirement of a signed Confidentiality Agreement
- Specific Invoicing requirements

Therefore, in this situation, the Company is out of compliance with Corporate Policy.

Criteria:

The Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants, effective July 15, 2002, Section III. Contracts and Agreements, subsection A. directs that Contractors and consultants are required to sign a standard Blue Cross Consultant Agreement or a substantially similar agreement or a Master Technology Services Agreement for technology-related services or products. Subsection B., states 'If a Blue Cross consultant agreement is not used, any substitute document must address the same or similar terms and conditions as contained in the Blue Cross consultant agreement.'

- Cause: The planned training for this policy has not yet occurred and, therefore, all individuals have not been made aware of the requirements within the policy.
- Recommendation: We recommend if contracts are prepared by the vendor, the initiator of the request should ensure the contract addresses the same or similar terms and conditions as contained in the Blue Cross consultant agreement. In addition, BCBSM Legal should review the contract prior to signing if appropriate. Otherwise, the policy should be revised to reflect current practice.

Response:

These contracts should be reviewed by legal. Templates were created to eliminate the need for legal review in every case. In most cases these vendor agreements are already signed when Purchasing receives them. The requesting manager will need to be trained on working with the legal department to get proper vendor contracts. The ongoing training will address the necessary documentation and procedural requirements with regard to contract templates, and vendor contracts.

Vendor Confidentiality Agreement

Condition: Confidentiality Agreements are not always received from vendors prior to allowing access to Blue Cross buildings.

Effect:

Two out of 16 contractor/consultant files reviewed, which were initiated after July 15, 2002, did not have Confidentiality Agreements on file for all vendor employees prior to providing them unaccompanied access to Blue Cross buildings. Therefore, in these situations, the Company is out of compliance with Corporate Policy.

Criteria:

The Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants, effective July 15, 2002, Section VII. Access to Buildings, Systems, and Confidential Information, states 'Contractors and consultants will not be given unaccompanied access to Blue Cross buildings until a written contract is signed or appropriate vice president approval is obtained, a purchase order is established and a Vendor Confidentiality Statement is signed.'

Cause: The planned training for this policy has not yet occurred and, therefore, all individuals have not been made aware of the requirements within the policy.

- Recommendation: We recommend that signed Vendor Confidentiality Agreements be required to be on file prior to allowing unaccompanied access to Blue Cross buildings, as per Corporate Policy: Use of Contractors and Consultants; or, amend this policy to reflect current business practice.
- Response: This issue requires the assistance of Physical Security. Purchasing and Accounts Payable will hold all invoices until the proper paperwork is received. Some vendors will not sign this form. In these situations written approval from legal is required. The ongoing training will address the necessary documentation and procedural requirements.

Contractor/Consultant Audit

January 28, 2004 BlueCross and BlueShield of Minnesota

This report is provided pursuant to the terms of our internal audit services engagement. The use of the report is solely for internal purposes by the management and Board of Directors of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota and, pursuant to terms of the engagement, it should not be used by or distributed to others.

Contractor/Consultant Audit BlueCross and BlueShield of Minnesota Field Work Start Date: December 8, 2003 Field Work End Date: December 19, 2003 Report Number IA127-0104

Background

BlueCross and BlueShield of Minnesota (BCBSM or the Company) implemented policy FIN 1-02 (Use of Contractor and Consultants) on July 15, 2002 and issued a revision to this policy on October 6, 2003. This policy requires that use of outside consultants and contractors is based on justifiable business reasons and is closely monitored to ensure that expected value is received from the services provided. BCBSM Internal Audit initially tested compliance with this policy in an Audit Report (IA96-1202) issued on December 2, 2002.

Objective and Scope

The objective of this audit was to determine if the Corporate Policy regarding the "Use of Contractors and Consultants" is being followed at BCBSM.

The scope of the audit included reviewing contractor/consultant contracts and contractor/consultant invoices for the period beginning March 1, 2003 through October 31, 2003. Our samples included:

- A review of 27 judgmentally selected Contractor/Consultant contracts to verify that the contracts:
 - Were appropriately approved and executed
 - > Included the required contract terms or were approved by the legal department
 - Were adequately supported by required documentation (e.g. Confidentiality Agreement, Business Justification, etc.)
 - Included appropriately approved amendments
- A review of 110 judgmentally selected Contractor/Consultant invoices (from the contract sample reviewed above) to ensure that:
 - > The nature of goods and services charged were in accordance with the contract
 - > Business expenses appear valid and the invoices were properly approved
 - Invoice amounts agreed to the terms or amounts in the contracts
 - > Payments were within the contract period
 - Payments were to valid vendors

These areas were evaluated based on reviews of contracts and invoices and discussions with key members of BCBSM Purchasing.

Summary of Findings

In the course of this audit, we identified opportunities for strengthening the internal control structure. Details of these issues and recommendations are included in this report. These issues and our recommendations for improvement were discussed with Tim Peterson, Senior Vice President and Chief Financial Officer; Tim Schultz, Vice President, Finance; Marv Heck, Director, Cost Accounting, Procurement and Accounts Payable; Kevin Fossum, Manager, Purchasing; and Phil Frosch, Manager, IS Finance.

Contractor/Consultant Contracts

Evidence of Signed Contracts and Approvals

Condition:

Signed agreements for one contract and one contract amendment could not be located.

- One contract for professional writing services was amended, adding $40,000 to the contract without either the contractor or BCBSM signing the amendment.
- One contract for a $30,000 physical security assessment was not signed by either the Consultant or by BCBSM.

Criteria:

Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02, page 3) requires that a contractor/consultant be required to sign:

- a Blue Cross Consultant Agreement;
- a substantially similar agreement (similar to the Consultant Agreement) defining all terms and conditions of the product or services to be provided and identifying the Blue Cross requirements under which the contractor or consultant will be allowed to conduct business at Blue Cross or;
- a Master Technology Services Agreement for technology-related services orproducts.

Additionally, page 5 of FIN 1-02 specifies that contractors and consultants will not be granted unaccompanied access to Blue Cross buildings or systems until a written contract is signed or appropriate Vice President approval is obtained.

Effect:

Cause:

Lack of evidence of proper signatures and approvals for contracts and contract amendments could result in legal issues in the event services are not provided by the contractor/consultant as expected.

Proper signatures were either not obtained or signature pages were not properly retained or scanned.

Recommendation:

We recommend that Management obtain signed contracts and/or amendments and appropriate approvals for contractors/consultants for the cases noted above.

The remainder of this recommendation applies to many of the issues in this report and is referenced throughout the report.

In addition, we recommend that Management perform a cost benefit analysis to determine if a review of all active contracts for appropriate documentation is warranted. At a minimum, we recommend that:

- Management implement an on-going monitoring program to assess compliance with the "Use of Contractors and Consultants" policy.
- The Purchasing Department implement processes to ensure that all documents imaged are complete and the most current versions available.
- BCBSM Purchasing conduct additional training for all business units, including the Purchasing Department, regarding the requirements for Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02).

Based on discussions with BCBSM Purchasing, the new "Non-Employee Labor Services Database", which was implemented January 2, 2004, will provide more systemic controls over signatures, approvals, and document collection than currently exists.

Response:

All signatures have been obtained on the two Contracts and amendments mentioned above. All employees who played a role in the non-compliant events have or will be contacted regarding their non-compliance.

A checklist monitoring system is now being used to ensure each contract has all the required terms and signatures. Contracts will remain in open status until all the documentation for compliance is complete. The requisitioning department must provide the required documentation. These open files will be monitored with weekly follow up on open items. If, after two requests for documentation by Purchasing, the documentation is still not provided, the third request will be forwarded on to the next level of management. Invoices will not be processed for payment until the documentation is received. The Senior Buyer will monitor these files.

Once the file is complete the documents will be scanned into the system. The Senior Buyer will monitor the completion of the scanning process.

Monitoring: Purchasing will perform a quarterly audit, beginning in the second quarter 2004, to confirm compliance with the policy. A report of the audit will be prepared and reviewed by the Manager of Purchasing. A copy of this report will be provided to the Director, Cost Accounting, Procurement and Accounts Payable and the Vice President of Finance, Controller. If the audit discovers items of non-compliance, then Purchasing will follow up with each employee whose actions caused the item.

Training: Purchasing will perform a training session for their Department to ensure that all staff are fully aware of the Policy's terms. Training for Administrative Assistants & SAP Requisitioners will be scheduled in the Auditoriums at the Main Bldg., River Park, and Eagandale during the 1st and 2nd quarters of 2004. This training will include a walk through of the Contractor/Consultant Policy, the "Non-Employee Labor Services Database" and the Purchasing Department Database. The Senior Buyers will conduct one on one training sessions with those Directors and Managers who need it.

Master Service Agreements (MSA's) or Master Technology Service Agreements (MTSA's)

Con

The following items regarding MSAs or MTSAs were noted:

- At the end of fieldwork, MSAs for five of seventeen contracts requiring a MSA/MTSA could not be located.
- Subsequent to the end of fieldwork, three of the five missing MSAs were located (two internally and one was created and signed after fieldwork).
- One of seventeen contracts with MSAs or MTSAs contained revisions to required insurance coverage without documented approval from BCBSM Legal.
- One of seventeen contracts had a MSA that was not signed by the contractor/consultant.
- Criteria: MSAs and MTSAs are important legal documents, which specify terms and conditions for contractors/consultants and their employees. Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02 page 6) requires that contracts and other documentation be supplied with the purchase order requisition and kept on file in the purchasing department. The initiator's division controller will also maintain a copy of all contracts.
- Effect: Not having MSAs or MTSAs that are properly signed and approved (including changes to the terms or conditions of the MSA/MTSA) could create potential legal problems related to the contract for BCBSM.
- Cause: Failure by Purchasing and the divisional controllers to ensure that all contracts and related documents have been properly collected and maintained appropriately.
- Recommendation: We recommend that BCBSM Purchasing and all divisional controllers attempt to obtain missing MSAs or MTSAs for the cases noted above. For additional and related recommendations, refer to the "Evidence of Signed Contracts and Approvals" issue on page 4.

Response: Subsequent to the conclusion of this audit Purchasing was able to obtain all require documentation.

Purchasing will make sure that the required documentation is obtained from legal and others to ensure compliance with the Policy. The Senior Buyer will monitor this activity.

See first Response regarding on-going monitoring and training.

Contracts Missing Confidentiality Statements

- Condition: Two of 27 contracts were missing Vendor Confidentiality Statements. Subsequent to the end of fieldwork, one of these missing statements was obtained from the vendor.
- Criteria: Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02 page 5) states that "contractors and consultants will not be given unaccompanied access to BCBSM buildings until a written contract is signed or appropriate vice president approval is obtained, a purchase order is established, and a Vendor Confidentiality Statement is signed".
- Effect: Allowing contractors/consultants to perform work at BCBSM without having obtained a signed Vendor Confidentiality Statement could increase the Company's exposure in the event HIPPA or other proprietary information is disclosed by a contractor/consultant.
- Cause: Failure to ensure that all necessary documents were obtained and/or scanned/retained prior to allowing the contractor/consultant to begin work.
- Recommendation: We recommend that BCBSM attempt to obtain the one missing Vendor Confidentiality Statements from the contractor in our sample. For additional and related recommendations, refer to the "Evidence of Signed Contracts and Approvals" issue on page 4.

Response: The missing confidentiality form is for a contractor that is no longer working at BCBSM, and therefore we will be unable to obtain the document.

See earlier response regarding training and on-going monitoring.

Contracts Missing Vendor References

- Condition: Vendor references were not obtained for three of five contracts that required these references, and reasons for not obtaining these references were not documented.
- Criteria: Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02 page 2) requires that "references from the contractor or consultant will be requested and checked if there is no knowledge of the vendor's work history at BCBSM. Justifiable reasons for not obtaining and checking references will be documented". While a contract house vendor provided one of the three vendors noted, the policy does not indicate that references are not required for these types of contractors.
- Effect: Vendor references serve as a control over the selection of contractors and consultants by providing verification of contractor/consultant skill and competence. Without these references or previous experience with a vendor, the vendors selected may not meet the needs of BCBSM.
- Cause: Failure to ensure that all necessary steps were taken prior to allowing the contractor/consultant to begin work.
- Recommendation: We recommend that management review the current policy and the current practice related to vendor references, determine which is most appropriate, and change the policy or practice to reflect management's assessment. For additional and related recommendations, refer to the "Evidence of Signed Contracts and Approvals" issue on page 4.

Response:

Vendor references are to be supplied by the requisitioner along with the other required documentation. With the use of a checklist procedure, Purchasing will make sure that this documentation is received, or the documented reasons for not conducting a reference check.

Response:

Purchasing will obtain the insurance certificates from all active Contractors/Consultants. These certificates will be scanned and included with the MSA, MTSA or other contract.

Purchasing, Treasury and Legal will review our current company policy regarding required insurance coverage to determine if modifications are appropriate by the end of the second quarter.

BCBSM's risk is also mitigated by the fact that BCBSM has insurance coverage to cover its risk of liability in the event a contractor or consultant's coverage turns out to be inadequate.

Contractor and Consultant Invoices

Adequate Documentation of Work Performed

Condition:	Four of 110 contractor/consultant invoices did not adequately state the work performed and/or hours worked. All four of these invoices related to contractors and consultants who did not report their time through the BCBSM time reporting system (TROL).
Criteria:	Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors/Consultants" (FIN 1-02 page 5) specifies if the vendor does not enter time into TROL, the initiator will ensure that all vendor invoices include complete itemization and description of the work performed, identification of who performed the work, the date the work was completed and identification of the project worked on and applicable purchase order number.
Effect:	Accepting and paying contractor and consultant invoices with vague or non- existent explanations of the work performed could lead to inappropriate disbursement of funds and potential regulatory scrutiny of expenses.
Cause:	The BCBSM contract initiators have not required more information from those contractors and consultants who are submitting invoices with little, if any, explanation of work performed or other required detail.
Recommendation:	We recommend that BCBSM Purchasing conduct additional training for the accounts payable staff regarding the requirements for Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02). We also suggest that accounts payable

Contractor/Consultant Business Expenses

Condition:

Six of 110 contractor/consultant invoices included business expenses that were not appropriate or did not have adequate documentation for the expense. These invoices included:

- Five invoices, all of which were under $25, requesting reimbursement for mileage. Mileage is not specified in the BCBSM "Contractor Expense Reimbursement Policy" (April 14, 2003) as a reimbursable expense
- One invoice had two separate business meals not supported by an itemized receipt, list of persons in attendance, or business purpose
- Criteria: The "Contractor Expense Reimbursement Policy" (April 14, 2003) states that expenses for business meals require an itemized receipt identifying the place, date, and amount of expenditures. A list of names of the person(s) in attendance and the business purpose are also required. Mileage is not noted as a reimbursable expense in the policy.
- Effect: Accepting and paying contractor and consultant invoices for inappropriate or unsupported business expenses could lead to improper disbursement of funds and potential regulatory scrutiny of expenses.
- Cause: The initiator of the request for the contractor/consultant did not perform a thorough review of all claimed business expenses and did not compare total business expenses to amounts approved in the contract.
- Recommendation: We recommend that BCBSM Purchasing conduct additional training for the accounts payable staff regarding the requirements for Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02) and the "Contractor Expense Reimbursement Policy". We also recommend that BCBSM Accounts Payable review, prior to payment, contractor/consultant business expenses to ensure that they are in compliance with the "Contractor Expense Reimbursement Policy".
- Response: Purchasing will add to the contract the requirements of the vendor to add detail information on their invoice if relating to reimbursement of expense. Also Purchasing will attach to each contract the BCBSM "Contractor Expense Reimbursement Policy". Prior to payment Purchasing will perform a detail audit on all invoices that contain travel expense to make sure that the vendor is in compliance with the BCBSM travel policy. If the vendor is outside of policy, the invoice will be returned to the vendor for adjustments.

Internal Audit

Blue Cross Blue Shield of Minnesota Contractor/Consultant Audit

January 5, 2005

Report Number IA160-1204

Contractor/Consultant Audit Field Work Start Date: November 8, 2004 Field Work End Date: November 23, 2004 Report Number IA160-1204

Background

BlueCross and BlueShield of Minnesota (BCBSM or the Company) implemented policy FIN 1-02 (Use of Contractor and Consultants) on July 15, 2002 and issued revisions on October 6, 2003, and September 9, 2004. The use of outside consultants and contractors is based on justifiable business reasons and is closely monitored to ensure that expected value is received from the services provided. The Contractor/Consultant audit is performed annually at BCBSM.

Objective and Scope

The objective of this audit was to determine if BCBSM follows its corporate policy regarding the "Use of Contractors and Consultants".

The scope of the audit included reviewing contractor/consultant contracts and contractor/consultant invoices for the period beginning April 1, 2004 through October 31, 2004. The sample of contracts was selected from two specific general ledger accounts relating to contracted and professional services. Payments made for Contracted and Professional Services through three quarters in 2004 totaled approximately $13.5 million. Contract and payment attributes were tested using the policy in place at the time of execution and/or payment. Our samples included:

- A review of 25 judgmentally selected Contracted and Professional Service contracts to verify that the contracts:
 - Were appropriately approved and executed
 - Included the required contract terms and conditions or deviations were approved by the Legal Department
 - Were adequately supported by required documentation (e.g. Confidentiality Agreement, Business Justification, Background Checks, Conflict of Interest Statements, etc.)
 - Included proper approvals for contract amounts
 - > Payments did not exceed approved amounts
 - Included support for proper insurance amounts and coverages
- A review of 52 judgmentally selected Contracted and Professional Service invoices (from the contract sample reviewed above) to ensure that:
 - > The nature of goods and services charged were in accordance with the contract
 - > Business expenses were allowable and the invoices were properly approved
 - Invoice amounts agreed to the terms or amounts in the contracts
 - > Payments were within the contract period
 - Payments were to valid vendors

These areas were evaluated based on reviews of contracts and invoices and discussions with key members of BCBSM Purchasing.

Summary of Findings

In the course of this audit, certain issues that require management attention were identified. These issues include:

- Two of twenty-five contracts requiring a Master Service Agreement (MSA), Master Technology Service Agreement (MTSA), or a Consultant Agreement were either missing the entire agreement or were missing the required Terms and Conditions to the signed agreement.
- Vendor references were not on file for one of nine contracts that required these references.
- Seven of twenty-five contracts did not have adequate insurance coverage, per the terms specified in the MSA and MTSA.
- Four of twenty-five contracts did not use the appropriate Terms and Conditions with the related conflict of interest (2 instances) and background check (2 instances) language.
- No reportable issues were identified in the invoice testing.

These issues and our recommendations for improvement were discussed with Tim Schultz, Vice President, Finance; Marv Heck, Director, Cost Accounting, Procurement and Accounts Payable; Kevin Fossum, Manager, Purchasing; and Phil Frosch, Manager, IS Finance.

The following table provides a summary of issues from the 2003 audit and the results of the current audit in each area. This is intended to provide management with comparative information regarding the current year's audit results in relation to the corresponding items in the 2003 audit. In summary, 51 exceptions were reported in the 2003 audit (41 contract and 10 invoice) with 969 attributes tested. In the 2004 audit, we reported 14 exceptions (all contract related) with 503 attributes tested.

Signed agreements for one contract and one contract amendment could not be located.	No reportable exceptions.
 The following items regarding MSAs or MTSAs were noted: At the end of fieldwork, MSAs for five of seventeen contracts requiring a MSA/MTSA could not be located. Subsequent to the end of fieldwork, three of the five missing MSAs were located (two internally and one was created and signed after fieldwork). One of seventeen contracts with MSAs or MTSAs contained revisions to required 	Master Service Agreement, Master Technology Service Agreement, or a Consultant Agreement were either missing the entire agreement or were missing the required Terms and Conditions to the signed agreement.
 MTSAS contained revisions to required insurance coverage without documented approval from BCBSM Legal. One of seventeen contracts had a MSA that was not signed by the contractor/consultant. 	 No reportable exceptions.

Two of 27 contracts were missing Vendor Confidentiality Statements. Subsequent to the end of fieldwork, one of these missing statements was obtained from the vendor.
Vendor references were not obtained for three of five contracts that required these references, and reasons for not obtaining these references were not documented.	Vendor references were not on file for one of nine contracts that required these references.
At the end of fieldwork, proof of insurance or adequate insurance coverage per the terms specified in the Master Service Agreement (MSA) or Master Technology Service Agreement (MTSA) was missing for twenty- six of twenty-seven contracts. Subsequent to the end of fieldwork, seven insurance certificates were received from vendors, and two more were located internally (nine total). Seven of these nine insurance certificates lacked the required coverage per the MSA/MTSA.	Insurance certificates were on file for all twenty-five contracts reviewed; however, seven did not have adequate insurance coverage, per the terms specified in the Master Service Agreement (MSA) and Master Technology Service Agreement (MTSA).
Four of 110 contractor/consultant invoices did not adequately state the work performed and/or hours worked. Six of 110 contractor/consultant invoices included business expenses that were not appropriate or did not have adequate documentation for the expense.	No reported issues noted.

Contractor/Consultant Contracts

Master Service Agreements (MSA's) and Master Technology Service Agreements (MTSA), and Consultant Agreement's Terms and Conditions

- Condition: Two of twenty-five contracts requiring a MSA, MTSA, or a Consultant Agreement were either missing the entire agreement (1 instance) or were missing the required Terms and Conditions to the signed agreement (1 instance).
- Criteria: MSA's, MTSA's, and Consultant Agreements are important legal documents, which specify terms and conditions for contractors/consultants and their employees. Corporate Policy (FIN 1-02 page 6) requires that "all contracts and other documentation supporting the justification of the contract or consultant be supplied with the purchase order requisition and kept on file in the Purchasing department".

Effect:

Not having evidence of MSA's, MTSA's, or Consultant Agreements could make it difficult to hold either party accountable for expected terms, conditions, and responsibilities.

Contracts Missing Vendor References

- Condition: Vendor references were not on file for one of nine contracts that required these references. Justification for not obtaining these references was not documented.
- Criteria: Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02 page 2) requires that "references from the contractor or consultant will be required and checked if there is no knowledge of the vendor's work history at BCBSM. Justifiable reasons for not obtaining and checking references will be documented".

Effect: Without vendor references, contractors/consultants, may be hired that lack the appropriate skill sets to complete the work. In addition, there is increased risk that contractors/consultants may be engaged that do not meet BCBSM standards of reliability, integrity, and honesty.

Recommendation: Management should consider implementing the following suggestions for missing MSA's, MTSA's, Consultant Agreements, and for missing vendor references:

Self-Audits:

- Increase the sample size of the quarterly self-audit to provide more information regarding exceptions to management.
- Summarize results by attribute in a report for management and document trends discovered during the quarterly self-audit.
- Formalize procedures for remediating errors and exceptions, including the identification, by name and title, who is responsible for correcting errors and exceptions and communicating directly to the business manager responsible for the error.
- Include a review of imaged documents to ensure that all documents received were scanned.

Checklists:

- Require management and/or the controller within the business unit to use the formalized checklist that has been developed. This checklist is currently required to be used by the Purchasing Department for every new project worked on by a contractor/consultant.
- Require management and/or the controller within the business unit and the Purchasing Department technician to formally sign-off on the checklist with their initials indicating full compliance with checklist requirements.
- Include a requirement on the checklist that all new Statements of Work (SOW's) include a review of the existing MSA, MTSA, or Consultant Agreement to ensure that the agreements exist and that proper amendments are included.

File Management:

- Require the use of formalized checkout tags when an employee removes a MSA, MTSA, or Consultant Agreement from the filing cabinet.
- Checkout tags should include the name of the employee removing the file, the name of the MSA, MTSA, or Consultant Agreement removed, and the date it was removed.
- For missing Consultant Agreements and MTSA Terms and Conditions identified during the audit, Purchasing should locate these documents or obtain them from the contractor/consultant.

Corporate News:

The Purchasing Department should continue sending occasional Corporate News reminders regarding the policy. These reminders could include:

- notices of newly released policies and terms and conditions
- reminders about various provisions in the Contractor/Consultant policy that may have a high error rate (discovered during self-audits).

Response:

Self Audits:

- The Purchasing Department will increase the sample size of the Self-Audits by three to five additional contracts beginning January 1, 2005.
- The audit will continue to be summarized in a report to management but will be more detailed to include the number of attributes and trends discovered.
- Formalized procedures to remediate errors and exceptions discovered during audits will be written and approved by end of first quarter.
- Purchasing has already implemented a new process when scanning documentation to verify that the scan was completed correctly.

Checklists:

- A revised checklist will be provided to the business and their controller's before the end of the first quarter that highlights the requirements of our Policy.
- The Checklist will be updated to require checking all MSA, MTSA, or Consultant Agreements to verify compliance with the policy including all amendments.
- The checklist will also be used and reviewed more thoroughly by the Purchasing Department.

File Management:

- Our policy of scanning all contracts should eliminate the need for the use of checkout tags. However, to the extent we continue to use paper copies only, a formalized check out process will be developed by the end of the first quarter.
- Purchasing will make every effort to obtain copies of missing Agreements.

Corporate News:

 Purchasing will send more frequent Corporate News reminders regarding the Policy focusing on those areas with history of compliance problems.

 Company wide training will continue in 2005. Purchasing will meet with various business units including Managers, Directors, and Vice Presidents, to make sure that everyone in the organization who needs to has an understanding of the policy and knows where to obtain help if required. Throughout the year Purchasing will identify problem areas within business units and make an effort to meet frequently with those business units to ensure compliance.

Insurance Coverage

Condition:

Seven of twenty-five contracts did not have adequate insurance coverage, per the terms specified in the MSA or MTSA. Specifically,

- Four contracts had insurance amounts that were inconsistent with the requirements in the terms and conditions.
- Three contracts had types of insurance that were inconsistent with the requirements in the terms and conditions.

These exceptions were not approved by the Director of Cash and Risk Management as required.

Criteria:

Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02 page 4) requires that "prior to commencement of work, the vendor must provide proof of insurance coverage as defined in the procedures". Contracts with the MSA's or MTSA's specify various types and amounts of coverage including:

- Workers Compensation Insurance
- Employers Liability Insurance with not less than $1 million each accident, $1 million disease, and $1 million each employee
- Commercial General Liability Insurance with not less than $1 million combined single limit
- Automobile Liability Insurance with not less than $1 million combined single limit
- Fidelity and Electronic Crime Insurance with limits not less than $2 million each occurrence and not less than $5 million aggregate (required if Vendor furnishes employees or permitted subcontractors that will perform programming services for BCBSM)

If there is a deviation needed from the insurance requirements, the accepted business practice is that an approval must be obtained from the Director of Cash and Risk Management.

Insurance Coverage - Continued

Effect:

Contractors/consultants with insufficient or non-existent insurance coverage could leave BCBSM with no legal recourse should the work performed be faulty, lead to systems malfunctions, or expose the Company to legal/regulatory violations.

Recommendation:

Management should consider reviewing the current business practice, with respect to contractors/consultant insurance requirements, to determine if the policy needs to be updated to reflect current practice. It is recommended that the review include the following steps:

- Determine how many contracts are signed with contractors/consultants prior to receiving the insurance binder/certification
- For those contractors/consultants hired prior to receipt of their insurance binder/certification, determine how many of them lack the required types or amounts of insurance coverage
- The frequency of these deviations that are actual business practices, could then be used as a baseline for establishing the current business practice.
- Determine whether the current business practice is acceptable or whether Management should place special focus and review on insurance coverage for contracts with higher levels of inherent risk (i.e. IT projects, HIPPA related projects, and certain facility construction projects). Management could consider not requiring evidence of specific levels of insurance for those engagements that have lower risk.
- Work with the Director of Cash and Risk Management to document these specific requirements.

Response:

Complying with our insurance coverage requirements has been our biggest challenge to date. We will work more diligently to verify that the required insurance coverage limits are met. In addition, the Purchasing Department will consult with the Director of Cash and Risk Management to determine if appropriate insurance limits are being requested. If necessary the standards will be modified and the MSA, MTSA and Consultant Agreements will be modified to reflect those decisions. Once the standard requirements are set Purchasing will implement processes and procedures to validate that insurance requirements are met and will work with the Director of Cash and Risk Management on any deviations.

The review of the current policy to ensure it meets current business practices will be completed by the end of the first quarter.

Contract Terms and Conditions - Conflicts of Interest and Background Checks

Condition:

Four of twenty-five contracts did not use the appropriate Terms and Conditions with the related conflict of interest language (2 instances) and background check (2 instances). The Company's standard Terms and Conditions were updated January 5, 2004 to require that background checks be performed prior to the beginning of work for all contractors/consultants. These Terms and Conditions were revised again, effective September 9, 2004, to include language related to conflicts of interest.

 Two contracts were executed in October 2004, but did not have the required terms and conditions for conflicts of interest.

• Two contracts were executed in May and August 2004. One contract uses the vendors terms and conditions, but omitted references to background checks. The other contract was with a vendor who had previously worked with BCBSM and had an existing Master Service Agreement with terms and conditions dated July 10, 2002. The standard business practice of amending pre-existing MSA's, MTSA's, and Consultant Agreements for new terms and conditions was not carried out in this case.

Criteria:

Terms and Conditions are important legal documents that identify requirements for the contractors/consultants and their employees. Corporate Policy "Use of Contractors and Consultants" (FIN 1-02 page 3) requires that "the initiator of a request to use a contractor or consultant will ensure that the contractor or consultant agrees in writing to the terms and conditions of the work to be performed prior to the commencement of any work". The Company's standard Terms and Conditions were updated to address risks associated with conflicts of interest and background checks and should be used consistently once implemented.

Effect:

Without proper background checks and conflicts of interest disclosures BCBSM could expose itself to: hiring consultants/contractor who violate laws/regulations involving Protected Health Information (PHI), may compromise proprietary information, or may have other conflicts that would impair their ability to perform and complete projects for BCBSM.

Recommendation:

ndation: Management should consider adopting a procedure to ensure that adequate time exists for notifying and requiring affected hiring managers to comply with changes to the "Use of Contractors/Consultants Policy" and all related Terms and Conditions. This 'grace period' would also include the use of new forms, templates, and checklists. Further, the Purchasing Department should attempt to obtain amendments for agreements, and related terms and conditions that are currently not in place.

Response:

Steps will be taken to ensure compliance with our corporate policies including revisions. The effective dates of policies will be established once it has been determined we are ready to comply. Tasks required to be completed in advance of the effective date of the revision will include the updating of our forms, checklist and templates and the communication of the revisions to affected staff. This will be put into affect immediately and will impact the next revision of this policy.

For those contractors BCBSM is still doing business, new amendments will be obtained and filed.

1. SERVICES AND PERSONNEL

- A. TempCo agrees to act as an independent contractor in providing supplemental staffing services to BCBSM in accordance with the requirements stated and referenced herein. Such services shall include soliciting new suppliers and working with existing BCBSM suppliers to fill requests for supplemental staffing (hereafter "Contractor") for BCBSM.
- B. TempCo agrees to provide tracking of Contractors for BCBSM including, but not limited to, all reports shown as Sample Reports in Exhibit 1.
- C. TempCo agrees to administer the bidding process as follows:
 - 1. BCBSM sends a Contract Services Request Form to TempCo
 - 2. TempCo sources the request through various suppliers of contract labor
 - 3. TempCo forwards resumes of Contractors with their hourly rates to BCBSM
 - 4. BCBSM selects a Contractor and notifies TempCo
 - BCBSM issues a purchase order to TempCo confirming the decision
- D. TempCo agrees to obtain from all suppliers providing supplemental help to BCBSM any information requested by BCBSM, including but not limited to, proof of Workers Compensation Insurance, Liability Insurance, Federal ID tax numbers, drug testing, and reference checks in compliance with IRS guidelines.
- E. TempCo does not maintain its own pool of temporary Contractors and will not directly supply Contractors to BCBSM. TempCo will, however, at the direction and approval of BCBSM, payroll appropriate personnel located by BCBSM at a charge equal to the pay rate plus 26%. The 26% covers, but is not limited to, Workers Compensation Insurance, Unemployment Compensation Contributions, all taxes including FICA, and insurance coverage described in Section 6 of this agreement.

TempCo agrees that it is the employer of each payrolled Contractor assigned to BCBSM and as such, TempCo has sole responsibility for fulfilling applicable legal requirements with respect to such Contractors. In addition to complying with all such legal requirements, TempCo agrees to have the Supplier conduct all employment activities associated with such Contractors, including, but not limited to, advertising for available assignments, interviewing, screening, providing orientation, investigating, hiring, disciplining, firing, performance appraisal and compensation. TempCo will have the Supplier distribute to Contractors during the orientation process the BCBSM Code of Conduct and the Orientation Guide. All such employment related activities conducted by the Supplier through TempCo shall be under the exclusive control and at the sole expense of the Supplier, and without interference from or consultation with BCBSM; provided, however, that TempCo shall obtain prior approval from BCBSM for the Supplier on all advertisement which identifies BCBSM to ensure compliance with BCBSM protocol for the use of its name and service mark.

In the event BCBSM desires to hire a Contractor, TempCo will upon notification by BCBSM, coordinate a termination of employment of the Contractor to enable the Contractor to become an employee of BCBSM. There will be no special charges made by TempCo to BCBSM for the hiring of any Contractor by BCBSM.

- F. TempCo further agrees to validate the existence of a valid signed Contract Services Request form and that it is on file with the BCBSM IS Controller Group prior to any Contractor beginning work at BCBSM.
- G. BCBSM agrees to validate the existence of all contractors reporting time for which TempCo will remit payment for services rendered by said Contractor.
- H. BCBSM may at any time without notice and without cause discontinue the services of a Contractor provided under this agreement by notifying TempCo of the date such services will end (discontinue date). In the event that TempCo is so notified, TempCo will take whatever steps necessary to notify the Supplier and the Contractor that no services will be provided beyond the discontinue date. BCBSM shall not be liable to TempCo, the Supplier or the Contractor for any charges related to the Contractor beyond the discontinue date except BCBSM shall remain liable for all outstanding, unpaid and undisputed invoices of TempCo for services rendered to BCBSM before the discontinue date.

2. TERM/TERMINATION

This Agreement is effective for a period of one year from the date shown above (hereinafter "Effective Date"). This Agreement shall remain in force unless terminated for convenience by either party giving ninety (90) days written notice of termination for convenience. In the event of termination for convenience by BCBSM, TempCo agrees that BCBSM will have the right to contract directly with the suppliers for contractors already being utilized by BCBSM and that TempCo releases BCBSM and the Supplier from all claims and fees related to the Contractor after the termination date except BCBSM shall remain liable for all outstanding, unpaid and undisputed invoices of TempCo, TempCo agrees to continue to provide the services under this agreement until the termination date or an earlier date if agreed to by BCBSM.

In the event of material breach by either party, notice of breach shall be given by the nonbreaching party. In the event such breach is not cured within 10 days of receipt of such notice, the non-breaching party may immediately terminate this Agreement and all work and obligations thereunder.

Services.

In the event of any conflict between the provisions of any Schedule hereto and the provisions set forth in the Agreement, the provisions of this Agreement shall govern, unless the parties have expressly provided that a specific provision of this Agreement is amended, in which case this Agreement shall be so amended but only with respect to such Schedule. Medical Devices Exclusion. E&Y will not have any responsibility or obligation for managing, reporting on, inventorying, assessing or converting any software or hardware used in connection with or as part of devices used to provide medical care.

Each Schedule shall commence on the start date indicated on the Schedule and shall terminate upon completion of testing of all Clusters in accordance with Section 11 or as otherwise provided in such Schedule, unless earlier terminated in accordance with Section 12. If E&Y's performance is delayed as a result of failure or untimely performance by Company, its vendors, or other Persons not retained by E&Y, E&Y shall not incur any liability to Company as a result of such delay.

Each party agrees to promptly advise the other of any objections it has to the other party's proposed staffing, and to make good faith efforts to accommodate the other party's objections to its own staffing. E&Y and Company will cooperate to minimize any adverse impact on the scheduled time and projected cost of the Services that may be caused by removal of their respective employees from a project, but each acknowledges that their respective businesses may require reallocation of personnel from time to time and that resignations and personal hardships may require the alteration of project teams.

E&Y will maintain a log of the individual Company Applications that have been removed from the Site and will make that log available for review by the Company upon its request.

5.3 Subcontractors. Company agrees to E&Y's engagement of TCS and Crystal Systems Solutions Ltd. to provide Services as subcontractors hereunder. E&Y may engage other subcontractors, or discontinue the use of any subcontractor, in its reasonable discretion, but no such utilization shall relieve E&Y from its responsibility for the Services, including those performed by such subcontractors. E&Y shall inform Company in writing of any new subcontractors who E&Y expects to do a substantial amount of Services under a Schedule prior to the commencement of work by that subcontractor.

5.4 E&Y Materials. If E&Y elects to use any software tools or other proprietary materials to perform the Services, E&Y shall be responsible for obtaining all rights and licenses necessary to use such tools and materials to perform its obligations in accordance with this Agreement.

In the event E&Y requires use of a Company Application off-Site and the cost of such use is not included on a Schedule, E&Y will notify Company. If Company elects to obtain such rights, the Schedule will be amended accordingly. If Company elects not to obtain such rights, E&Y will discontinue its work on the Application to the extent such work requires use of the Company Application at an off-Site location;
 - (b) provide E&Y with all data, information, access to the Company Facilities (or make other arrangements as necessary to such effect) and other resources and support as may be appropriate to enable E&Y to perform the Services in a timely manner and otherwise fully cooperate with E&Y in connection therewith;

Company shall assign and staff the BCBSM Program Director position, as well as all other Company positions described in a Schedule, on a full-time basis, during the full term of the Agreement.

Performance Reports. The E&Y Engagement Director shall provide to the parties written reports on the performance of the Services described in the applicable Schedule, identifying any known significant problems that are unresolved and any details concerning their expected resolution. E&Y shall, and if necessary shall cause its vendors and subcontractors to, give Company reasonable assistance and to execute any documents reasonably required, at Company's expense, to perfect such assignment. However, notwithstanding the foregoing, E&Y may, and may permit its vendors and subcontractors to, use internally Work Product in support of its Services, subject to its obligations set forth in Section 9. In addition, E&Y and its vendors and subcontractors retain all rights in data, designs, models, methodologies, analysis frameworks, leading practices, specifications and other elements of the Work Product ("Technical Elements") that are owned, developed or used by E&Y prior to, or independently from, the Services. To the extent that any Technical Elements that are owned, developed or used by E&Y prior to or independently from the Services are integrated into any Work Product, E&Y hereby grants to Company and Company Affiliates a perpetual, worldwide, paid-up license to use, copy, modify and sublicense such Technical Elements as integrated into such Work Product to the full extent necessary to enable Company to exercise all the rights of ownership it otherwise has in the Work Product. Conversely, Company grants to E&Y a perpetual, worldwide, paid-up license to use, copy, and modify and sublicense any Technical Elements developed by E&Y hereunder in the course of providing services to other clients, so long as such use would not disclose Company's confidential information or inherently disclose Company's identity.

E&Y and Third Parties' Proprietary Property. E&Y and E&Y's vendors or subcontractors (with respect to proprietary property provided by such vendors or subcontractors) will have and retain all right, title and interest, including ownership of copyrights, patents, trade secrets and other intellectual property rights in and to all tools and methodologies, or other intellectual property that is owned, developed or used by E&Y or its vendors or subcontractors prior to or independently from the Services (including the Technical Elements and intellectual property embodied therein), including any enhancements, improvements or other derivative works thereof developed in the course of E&Y's or its subcontractors' performance under this Agreement. 10. Relationship of Parties.

- 10.1 Independent Contractor. Nothing herein contained will be construed to imply a joint venture, partnership or principal-agent relationship between the parties, or co-employment or joint employment by Company of any personnel retained by E&Y. E&Y, in furnishing Services to Company hereunder, is acting only as an independent contractor. E&Y does not undertake by this Agreement or otherwise to perform any obligation of Company, whether regulatory or contractual, or to assume any responsibility for Company's business or operations. The parties agree that, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, E&Y has not, and is not, assuming any duty or obligation that Company may owe to its customers or any other Person. 11. Testing.

11.1 Test Suite and Target Test Results. In accordance with the applicable Detailed Conversion Plan, Company shall develop or prepare, in consultation with E&Y and for E&Y's review and approval (which shall not be unreasonably withheld), processes, tools, test scripts and the technical environment to be used to determine whether each of the Clusters to which such Detailed Conversion Plan applies meets the Year 2000 Processing Requirements and other requirements as may be specified in a Schedule specified in such Detailed Conversion Plan (the "Test Suite") and the results of such tests that shall demonstrate whether the applicable Cluster so meets such requirements (the "Target Test Results"). Each Detailed Conversion Plan shall also set forth the duration of the initial testing period for each Cluster (the "Initial Test Period"). Within the Initial Test Period after completion of the conversion of a Cluster and the delivery of the source code for that Cluster, Company shall perform the tests included in the Test Suite with respect to such Cluster, document the results of such tests in reasonable detail (the "Actual Test Results") and provide to E&Y the Actual Test Results in writing. If the Actual Test Results are consistent in all material respects with the Target Test Results, Company shall issue to E&Y, by the end of the Initial Test Period, a written notice of approval in the form of Exhibit C (the "Approval Notice") with respect to the applicable Cluster. If the Actual Tests Results fail in any material respect to be consistent with the Target Test Results, the Company shall identify the material inconsistencies ("Identified Inconsistencies") in reasonable detail and E&Y shall provide further Services with respect to the applicable Cluster pursuant to the terms of this Agreement. At the conclusion of the further Services, E&Y shall redeliver the applicable Cluster to Company for re-performance of the Test Suite for the applicable Cluster with respect to such Identified Inconsistencies. After redelivery of the applicable Cluster, Company will then have fifteen (15) business days, or such other period as may be agreed upon by the parties, in which to re-perform the Test Suite with respect to the Identified Inconsistencies (the "Re-Test Period") and to issue an Approval Notice or a report of any remaining Identified Inconsistencies. Any remaining Identified Inconsistencies will be addressed in the same manner as indicated above until there are no remaining Identified Inconsistencies. E&Y will not charge Company for any fees for the first fifty (50) hours of work in correcting Identified Inconsistencies for any Cluster (for up to a maximum of twenty (20) Clusters), provided that Company notifies E&Y of such Identified Inconsistency in accordance with the test process described above, but in any case within sixty (60) days after the delivery of such Cluster. Any such hours that remain unused for a Cluster may not be carried over to another Cluster.

11.2 Failure To Conduct Test. If Company fails to provide to E&Y the Actual Test Results in writing within the applicable Initial Test Period or any Re-Test

15253504.9 30398 1636C 97385124

Period described in this Section 11, Company shall be deemed to have approved the applicable Cluster and to have provided to E&Y an Approval Notice for such Cluster.

11.3 Final Approval. If a Cluster for which an Approval Notice has been, or is deemed to have been, issued contains a "bridge" that still has to be removed by E&Y, the Company will have fifteen (15) business days or such other period as may be agreed upon by the parties (the "Final Test Period") after E&Y removes the "bridge", in which to provide E&Y with written notice of final approval, in the form of Exhibit D, (the "Final Approval Notice") or a written notice in reasonable detail of any material inability of such Cluster to interact with programs, data and processes and procedures that have been converted to meet Year 2000 Processing Requirements, and other requirements as may be defined in a Schedule, by E&Y and its subcontractors (a "Material Interaction Problem"). If the Company notifies E&Y of a Material Interaction Problem, E&Y shall provide further Services with respect to the applicable Cluster pursuant to the terms of this Agreement. At the conclusion of the further Services, E&Y shall redeliver the applicable Cluster to the Company, at which time the process described above with respect to such Cluster shall be repeated until there are no remaining Material Interaction Problems with respect to that Cluster. If the Company fails to provide E&Y with a Final Approval Notice or a notice of a Material Interaction Problem within the Final Test Period, the Cluster shall be deemed to have no Material Interaction Problem and the Company shall be deemed to have provided E&Y with a Final Approval -Notice.

11.4 Exclusions. The obligations of E&Y under this Agreement shall not be applicable with respect to any abnormal operation, impairment or calculation that is caused by (i) the quality of the data sought to be processed with the Company Application, (ii) the subsequent modification of any Company Application (other than by E&Y and E&Y subcontractors), or (iii) the use of the Company Application in a manner inconsistent with the way it has been historically used by Company or as otherwise provided in the Detailed Conversion Plan.

11.5 Scope of Obligations: E&Y's only obligation with respect to Identified Inconsistencies and Material Interaction Problems shall be to perform further Services at its then-current rates (except as otherwise provided in Section 11.1) as set forth in Sections 11.1 and 11.3 until it determines that it is no longer reasonable to continue to do so. E&Y shall have no further obligation or liability whatsoever with respect to any Cluster after an Approval Notice and, if applicable, a Final Approval Notice, for such Cluster has been, or is deemed to have been, issued.

- 12.1 For Convenience. The Company shall have the right to terminate any Schedule for convenience, in whole or part, at any time, by giving E&Y thirty (30) days written notice prior to the effective date of such termination, subject to the Company's payment to E&Y of redeployment fees in the amount set forth in such Schedule.
- 12.2 For Breach. If either party should fail materially to fulfill its obligations under this Agreement, the non-breaching party shall have the right to terminate this Agreement, in whole or in part, at any time as of which such breach or default persists uncured for thirty (30) days after receipt by the breaching party of written notice from the non-breaching party of such breach or default.

- 12.4 Consequences. Upon termination, each party shall immediately return confidential data and other information supplied by the other party except as permitted in Section 9 (Confidential Information). If this Agreement and/or any Schedule is terminated, Company will be entitled to receive all applicable Work Products and reports, complete or incomplete, in hard copy and electronic versions, subject to full payment to E&Y pursuant to Section 12.5.
- 12.5 Payment Obligations Survive. In the event of termination of this Agreement for any reason, the Company shall pay E&Y all accrued fees and expenses as specified in the applicable Schedule for any and all Services rendered, and all expenses related thereto, up to the effective date of the termination. In the event of any termination of this Agreement by Company, other than because of E&Y's material breach of this Agreement or E&Y's insolvency, Company will in addition pay to E&Y the redeployment fees specified in the applicable Schedules.

13. Covenant.

If after Company places the last of the converted Company Applications into production, Company provides E&Y with written notice in reasonable detail of material non-performance issues with respect to the ability of any converted Company Applications to meet Year 2000 Processing Requirements and other requirements specified in the Schedule, E&Y and, at E&Y's discretion, its subcontractors will provide further Services to the Company with respect to the converted Company Applications for a period of up to sixty (60) days after receipt by E&Y of said notice from Company, (unless E&Y and, if applicable, its subcontractors agrees to an extended period). If after such sixty (60) day period Company experiences a major problem involving Year 2000 Processing Requirements, then, unless this Agreement or any Schedule has been terminated by either party for cause or Company has terminated this Agreement or any Schedule for convenience prior to the completion of E&Y conversion work thereunder, E&Y will use reasonable efforts to supply Services to assist Company with resolving such problem, subject to the availability of the required E&Y personnel. The further Services provided pursuant to this Section 13 will be performed by E&Y and its subcontractors, if applicable, at E&Y's and such subcontractors' then current rates.

In no event will E&Y, its subcontractors, or Company be liable, for any reason, for consequential, incidental, indirect, punitive, or special damages, including loss of profits, revenue, data, use of money, business opportunities, or goodwill, regardless of whether such liability is based upon a claim of breach of contract, tort, or otherwise and of whether a party has been advised of, or is aware, that such damages have been or may be incurred.

Company shall reimburse the E&Y Indemnitees for such Indemnified Costs as they are incurred by the E&Y Indemnitees. If any third party shall notify any E&Y Indemnitee with respect to any Covered Claim which may give rise to a claim for indemnification against Company under this Agreement, then such E&Y Indemnitee shall promptly notify Company thereof in writing. Company will have the exclusive right to defend the relevant E&Y Indemnitees against the Covered Claim with counsel of Company's choice provided that Company so notifies the notifying E&Y Indemnitee in writing within twenty (20) days after the E&Y Indemnitee has given notice of the Covered Claim. DISPUTE RESOLUTION PROCESS

The following procedures shall be used to resolve any controversy or claim ("dispute") as provided in the Agreement. If any of these provisions are determined to be invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall remain in effect and binding on the parties to the fullest extent permitted by law.

Mediation

A dispute shall be submitted to voluntary mediation by mutual written agreement of the parties. In the mediation process, the parties will try to resolve their differences voluntarily with the aid of an impartial mediator, who will attempt to facilitate negotiations. The mediator will be selected by agreement of the parties. If the parties cannot agree on a mediator, a mediator will be designated by the American Arbitration Association ("AAA") or JAMS/Endispute at the request of a party. Any mediator so designated must be acceptable to all parties.

The mediation will be conducted as specified by the mediator and agreed upon by the parties. The parties agree to discuss their differences in good faith and to attempt, with the assistance of the mediator, to reach an amicable resolution of the dispute.

The mediation will be treated as a settlement discussion and therefore will be confidential. The mediator may not testify for either party in any later proceeding relating to the dispute. No recording or transcript shall be made of the mediation proceedings.

Each party will bear its own costs in the mediation. The fees and expenses of the mediator will be shared equally by the parties.

Arbitration

If a dispute has not been resolved within 5 days after the actions described in Section 17.1 of the Agreement or, if the parties agree to proceed with mediation, within 20 days after agreement to mediate has been reached (or a longer period, if the parties agree to extend the mediation), the dispute may be submitted to arbitration by either party.

The arbitration will be conducted before a panel of three arbitrators, regardless of the size of the dispute, to be selected as provided in the AAA Rules. Any issue concerning the extent to which any dispute is subject to arbitration, or concerning the applicability, interpretation, or enforceability of these procedures, including any contention that all or part of these procedures are invalid or unenforceable, shall be governed by the Federal Arbitration Act and resolved by the arbitrators. No potential arbitrator may serve on the panel unless he or she has agreed in writing to abide and be bound by these procedures.

Unless otherwise provided for in the Agreement, the arbitrators may not award non-monetary or equitable relief of any sort. They shall have no power to award (i) damages inconsistent with the Agreement or (ii) punitive damages or any other damages not measured by the prevailing party's actual damages, and the parties expressly waive their right to obtain such damages in arbitration or in any other forum. In no event, even if any other portion of these provisions is held to be invalid or unenforceable, shall the arbitrators have power to make an award or impose a remedy that could not be made or imposed by a court deciding the matter in the same jurisdiction.

No discovery will be permitted in connection with the arbitration unless it is expressly authorized by the arbitration panel upon a showing of substantial need by the party seeking discovery.

All aspects of the arbitration shall be treated as confidential. Neither the parties nor the arbitrators may disclose the existence, content or results of the arbitration, except as necessary to comply with legal or regulatory requirements. Before making any such disclosure, a party shall give written notice to all other parties and shall afford such parties a reasonable opportunity to protect their interests.

The result of the arbitration will be binding on the parties, and judgment on the arbitrators' award may be entered in any court having jurisdiction.

SCOPE OF SERVICE

PREVENTATIVE MAINTENANCE

MAJOR OPERATING INSPECTION(S)

The frequency of each major operating inspection is to be as indicated on the Service Summary Sheet(s) for each equipment type. This inspection is to be in accordance with each equipment manufacturer's recommendations and as per the task-action listing herein.

A Major Operating Inspection is to be performed at least at the first seasonal inspection each year to provide those items that are in addition to the Routine Operating Inspection(s). The intention is to prepare the equipment for upcoming seasonal demands by having the equipment ready to be put into operation.

ROUTINE OPERATING INSPECTION(S)

Each Routine Operating Inspection is to consist of the task-actions listed herein for each equipment type and to be performed at the frequency listed.

ANNUAL PREVENTIVE MAINTENANCE

Each Annual Preventive Maintenance is to consist of pre-scheduled recurring preventive maintenance actions which are to be performed on a yearly interval determined by equipment operating hours that may be recommended by each equipment manufacturer. These annual tasks are designed to prepare the equipment for prime operating condition so that the equipment will operate effectively, reliably, and efficiently during the peak demand months.

PARTS AND MATERIAL REPLACEMENT

Unless otherwise stated herein, replacement parts, oil, lubricants and materials (refrigerant is a separate item herein) are to be included as necessary to perform any Major Operating Inspection(s), Routine Operating Inspection(s), Annual Preventive Maintenance or Multi-year Preventive Maintenance tasks indicated on the Service Summary AGREEMENT. Also, replacement parts and materials are to be included for any Repair Service Material items indicated on the Service Summary AGREEMENT.

Replacement parts may be stocked by CARRIER for equipment covered herein to be based on each original equipment manufacturer's (OEM) recommendations for: routine expendable parts, normal annual stop replacement parts and multi-year stop replacement parts where applicable. Unless otherwise specified, CARRIER has the option of stocking parts locally or having access to vendor stocked parts for immediate delivery.

All parts used in the performance of this AGREEMENT shall be new and meet OEM specifications.

SCOPE OF SERVICE

REPAIR SERVICE

MINOR REPAIRS

Minor repairs shall consist of tasks which are performed during routine inspection(s) on an as needed basis that may require minor disassembly and removal of available inspection covers for minor repairs, measurements, and adjustments including replacement of routine expendable parts, controls, switches and indicator lamps. Labor and/or Material is to be included as indicated on the AGREEMENT.

EMERGENCY CALLS (Unscheduled Service)

Emergency Calls shall be provided when necessary to diagnose problems and perform minor adjustments between scheduled inspections. Unless otherwise indicated herein, Emergency Calls are to be available 365 days per year, 24 hours per day.

REFRIGERANT LEAK REPAIR LABOR

Refrigerant leak repair labor is included as indicated on the AGREEMENT. Leak repair labor consists of tightening bolts and flange fittings, replacing gaskets, replacing o-rings and if necessary welding, soldering or brazing to stop leaks of components or any refrigerant piping on or between two or more pieces of equipment.

MAJOR REPAIRS

Major repairs consist of the repair or replacement of moving parts, motor stators, motor rotors, and maintainable components that may have failed unexpectedly (except for those failures beyond CARRIER'S control as stated in General Provisions). Major Repairs include dip and bake motor windings where applicable. Labor and/or Material is to be included as indicated on the SERVICE AGREEMENT.

TUBE REPAIRS-REFRIGERANT SIDE

This service includes the repair or replacement of internal tubes, tube sheets, support sheets, distribution systems, liquid eliminators, drain/purge baffles, and components that contain or distribute refrigerant/lithium bromide within the equipment. This service covers tube failures that may result from the refrigerant/lithium bromide side of the equipment heat exchanger. Labor and/or Material is to be included as indicated on the SERVICE AGREEMENT.

REFRIGERANT MATERIAL

The percent of refrigerant material indicated on the SERVICE AGREEMENT is to be the percent of chiller's design refrigerant charge provided per year. The refrigerant provided is to be for the performance of any Major Operating Inspection(s), Routine Operating Inspection(s), Annual Preventive Maintenance, Multi-year Preventive Maintenance or any Repair Service tasks so indicated on the Service Summary Sheet(s) herein.

Any refrigerant material stocked on the job site by CARRIER for equipment covered herein is to be in approved storage containers and in accordance with ASHRAE Standard Safety Code for Mechanical Refrigeration (ANSI/ASHRAE 15-1994). Unless otherwise specified, CARRIER has the option of stocking refrigerant on CUSTOMER'S job site or having access to local stock for immediate delivery.

CFC-11 ASSURANCE PROGRAM (CAP)

The term of this service will be specified in the SERVICE AGREEMENT but shall not extend beyond December 31, 2003.

The following is a preliminary Project Description with associated preliminary construction budget data.

1. Basic Project

The basic project consists of an approximately 100,000 Gross Square Foot office building which is the first of four planned buildings to be connected to the existing Riverpark facility. The site work (parking lot and landscaping at the building) associated with the building is included in the basic project.

ARCHITECTURAL ALLIANCE

In addition to the basic project, the following items will be part of the overall project:

2. Underground Parking or Storage

The overall project will include an area for underground parking or storage (subject to program verification).

Skyway or On-Grade Connector

The overall project will include a skyway or on-grade connector between the new building and the existing facility.

4. Cafeteria Expansion

The overall project will include an expansion of the cafeteria seating area into occupied space within the existing facility. There is adequate kitchen and servery capacity in the existing facility to accommodate the additional seating area.

5. Site Infrastructure Improvements

The overall project will include the upgrade of Yankee Doodle Road at the intersection with the site approach road, the upgrade of the internal site circulation roads with curb and gutter, the provision of additional landscaping, and site signage.

It is noted that the budget figures listed above are preliminary, and that they do not include any contingencies.

- 12.1 The Architect has identified Dunham Associates as its structural, mechanical, and electrical engineers and SRF Consulting Group as its Civil Engineer and Landscape Architect.
- 12.2 Potential Additional Services identified to date:
 - 12.2.1 Comprehensive Corporate Programming/Stack Process

For purposes of establishing a fee for this effort, we recommend that the total scope of anticipated services be established first on an hourly rate basis. We can then prepare an accurate assessment of the required fee, which can be amended to this contract if it exceeds the $20,000 we listed in our proposal for Stack Plan Development. Refer to Attachments "D" and "E".

12.2.2 Detailed Space Programming

We will need to assess the fee for these efforts in a similar way as outlined above.

- 12.2.3 Interior Design Services
 - A. Concept layouts are included in basic services.
 - B. Furnishings implementation and space planning will be accomplished for a fee that is based on 6% of the furnishings budget.
- 12.2.4 Civil Engineering/Landscape Architecture Beyond Base Building Design
 - A. For purposes of providing professional design services for site-features beyond work associated with the building itself (e.g., infrastructure upgrade of Yankee Doodle Road, internal circulation roads, additional landscaping, signage, etc.) a lump sum basis of 7.0% for Civil Engineering and 8.0% for Landscape Architecture of the associated construction budget is established.

on attorney-client privilege grounds to production of a letter dated November 11, 2002 where BCBSM's outside counsel communicated legal opinions and analysis to BCBSM regarding a Department of Labor audit. That portion has been redacted. BCBSM also objections on attorney-client privilege grounds to production of September 2001 and March 2003 presentations by Robins, Kaplan, Miller & Ciresi attorneys on corporate governance and regulation of nonprofits, and an October 2004 report on expenditures and contracting done at the direction of counsel.

BCBSM has produced state and federal governmental audits, Blue Cross Blue Shield Association (BCBSA) audits (BCBSM is an independent licensee of BCBSA), and National Committee for Quality Assurance (NCQA) audits of Blue Plus (NCQA does accreditations for health plans). External audits are presented to the Audit Committee on a regular basis.

DOCUMENT REQUEST NO. 15:

Provide a list of all persons that YOU paid more than $30,000 in any given year for the year 2000 to the present including the aggregate amount paid in a given year.

RESPONSE:

BCBSM objects to this Interrogatory on the grounds of vagueness. Subject to that objection, however, BCBSM has provided a list of vendors BCBSM or BCBSM affiliates (including the Blue Cross Foundation, but not MIPH because BCBSM does not pay their bills) paid more than $30,000 in any given year for the year 2000 to the present (document headed "Vendors Over $30,000 – 2005, with 2005 referring to the year the databases were searched, not the year the payments were made. Consistent with the understanding previously reached with the Attorney General's Office, BCBSM excluded agent and broker fees, amounts paid to providers for claims or claims settlements, wages and business expense reimbursements paid to BCBSM enaployees, Board member compensation and expense reimbursement, investment manager and monitoring fees, payments between BCBSM entities, payments to employer groups for premium refunds, reinsurance settlements, and other items related to BCBSM insurance and administrative service activities, Blue Card fees, and covenant payments to providers. We have also not included First Plan of Minnesota's separate vendor payments. The information provided was derived primarily from database queries for all payments made and posted to administrative expense accounts and related balance sheet payments. BCBSM also queried certain claims expense and related balance sheet accounts to capture payments for disease management and other outsourced cost containment activities. Because BCBSM's databases often do not maintain data at the vendor level, BCBSM manually reviewed all the wire transfers to determine which transactions or vendors would properly be included in this category.

DOCUMENT REQUEST NO. 16:

Provide a list of all employees who have signed a separation or termination/severance agreement since January 1, 2000 and the amount paid to each individual and provide a copy of any such agreement.

RESPONSE:

Copies of those agreements are enclosed. Most, if not all, of these agreements contain confidentiality covenants, and BCBSM has therefore designated those agreements as nonpublic "trade secret information" under the Minnesota Government Data Practices Act, and confidential information under the rules of civil procedure applicable to attorney general civil investigative demands.

DOCUMENT REQUEST NO. 17:

Provide a list all employees who have signed an employment and/or retention agreement

VIA MESSENGER

Kristine Eiden Chief Deputy Attorney General 102 State Capitol St. Paul, MN 55101

Re: In re BCBSM, Inc.-Civil Investigative Demand

Dear Ms. Eiden:

Enclosed are the following additional materials related to the annual Commerce Department filings of BCBSM and its affiliates:

- March 2001 and April 2001 Loaned Securities detail for BCBSM;
- Annual filings for First Plan of Minnesota.

We also received your letter dated May 6, 2005. We can clarify the answers to some of your questions right now, and produce (or re-produce) many of the documents you have requested relatively quickly. The supplementation of the "over-$30,000" list will, however, take some additional time, and we would like to discuss your request in greater detail so we are certain we understand what information you need.

On the first three items in your letter, we can respond as follows. First, our records indicate that Dr. Banks is the only BCBSM employee within the scope of your request who has a corporate credit card. The Minnesota Institute of Public Health (MIPH), which is now an affiliate of BCBSM, does have employees with corporate credit cards, but none of those employees made over $200,000 in any of the requested years. BCBSM does have its own credit cards it uses for BCBSM purchases, but employees cannot use those cards to cover their own business expenses. It is possible that First Plan of Minnesota may have made corporate credit cards available to some of their employees in the past, and we are checking on that.

Second, Pricewaterhouse did not perform any audits or reviews of BCBSM on behalf of BCBSM. The Commerce Department hired Pricewaterhouse to do their audits of BCBSM in 1999, 2000, and 2001. We have rechecked our invoices, and have confirmed that BCBSM has not paid or used Pwc for audits during the relevant period.

GELES MINNEAPOLIS

Third, we will copy the business expense policy from 1999 that you requested again and send it to you as soon as possible.

On the last three items in your letter, involving the Commerce Department, we are gathering that information and should be able to provide it to you within the next 30 days. The correspondence relating to IS audit review and examination of BCBSM alone takes up thirty binders by itself, so it will take us some time to get all that information reviewed and made ready for production.

With respect to item four, the over-$30,000 list, our original response provided you with a list of information categories that we understood from our conference at the Capitol were outside the scope of your interest, e.g. payment of claims or reimbursements to subscribers (for example, when nonparticipating providers are involved, BCBSM pays the subscriber, not the provider), payments made to reconcile self-insured accounts, payments among Blue Cross entities, reinsurance settlements. We have already produced the information you requested concerning board compensation and expenses and expenses for BCBSM employees making over $200,000 (we are checking to see if there are any over-$200,000 BCBSM employees who may have not submitted any expense reports), and we have already produced the list of MIPH vendors. We will supplement our response to cover additional agent and broker payments, investment manager payments, and covenant payments to providers with whom BCBSM has a joint venture relationship, although that will be a difficult manual effort and will take a greater amount of time. If there is particular claim and premium payment or reimbursement information that you need, please clarify. We would be happy to discuss this with you further at your convenience.

Sincerely,

ROBINS, KAPLAN, MILLER & CIRESI L.L.P. Scott R. Strand

American Healthways (AMHC) Status Report August 22, 2001

I. Background

A. Strategic Opportunity

As national concern about health care costs, quality and service continues to rise, and skepticism about the effectiveness of traditional managed care tools grows, employers and health plans are increasingly looking to disease management (DM) programs as a solution. The core component of most DM programs is deployment of health plan based nurses to interact periodically by telephone with members with specific chronic diseases. The five basic intervention elements are education about the disease, early symptom recognition, adherence to recommended therapy, coordination of care, and social support. DM program goals typically include more appropriate utilization (e.g. ER visits) and improved clinical outcomes (e.g. fewer relapses and complications) resulting in reduced claims costs.

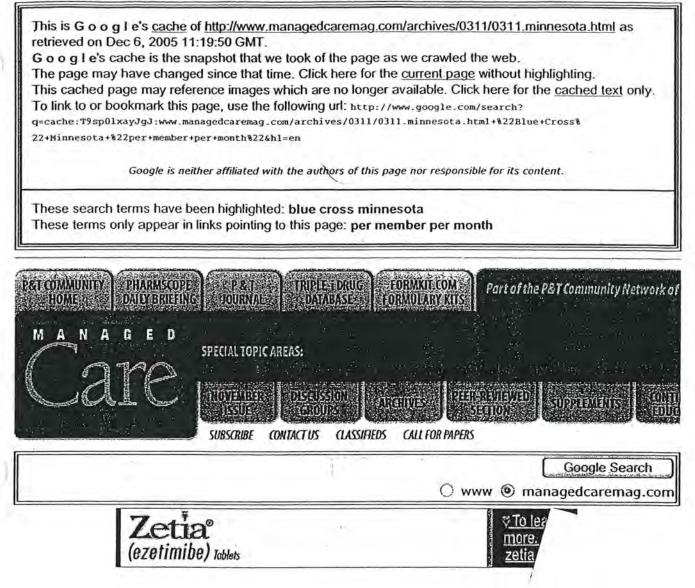

To date, DM efforts have had mixed success, and the translation of program outcomes into meaningful cost savings has been uneven. Although 46% of the US population has one or more chronic conditions accounting for 76% of all medical costs, DM programs to date touch only a small percentage of these people.

Blue Cross Minnesota has the opportunity to strategically partner with the nation's leading provider of disease management services in an ambitious effort to advance the art and science of disease management interventions, and to substantially increase their clinical and financial impact. Success in this effort will likely bring Blue Cross national recognition and a leadership position in the growing area of chronic disease management. Furthermore, broad deployment of DM programs to our own membership is projected to produce a return on investment of 1.7 in the first year and 2.0+ thereafter, producing cumulative 5 year gross claims savings of over $400M, and net savings of over $200M. Most important, program participants will experience improved clinical outcomes and high program satisfaction levels. The potential impact on member retention and acquisition of new business is profound.

CONFIDENTIAL TRADE SECRET

MANAGED CARE November 2003. @MediMedia USA

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota and American Healthways score a hat trick by improving outcomes and satisfaction while saving money.

How Broadening DM's Focus Helped Shrink One Plan's Costs

WILLIAM R. GOLD, MD

Chief Medical Officer and Vice President of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota

PETER KONGSTVEDT, MD

Vice President, Cap Gemini Ernst & Young

Two years ago, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota faced issues common among health plans. Its disease management programs had resulted in reasonable successes in controlling costs for diabetes and cardiovascular disease, but health costs overall were continuing to increase and employers were asking for explanations as well as methods to help stem the rise.

As the largest health plan in the state, covering 2.5 million members in Minnesota and nationally, BCBSMN was no stranger to innovation, and it was in this context that a meeting between the leaders of BCBSMN and American Healthways Corp. (AMHC) proved to be a milestone for the two organizations.

The objectives were clear: Improve clinical outcomes and compliance with care standards, lower total health care cost, and achieve member and provider satisfaction.

10-year agreement

In December 2001, the two companies signed a 10-year agreement for a population health management program called BluePrint for Health Care Support.

Population health management programs are part of the arriving generation of disease management. Over the past decade, health plans have worked hard to identify methods to better manage the health of their patients.

True population health management goes beyond traditional utilization and disease management; it seeks to better manage the care and health of both chronically ill patients and those patients who are at high-risk but have not had an acute event. This new model of care leverages innovative technology and resources to strengthen the physician-patient relationship while improving care for the small percentage of the patient population that incurs the highest expenses.

Population health management programs focus on the whole person and that person's propensity to develop one or more diseases. They focus on a larger number of illnesses than typical disease management programs, and consider both chronically ill and high-risk healthy patients, as opposed to traditional disease management that focuses solely on chronically ill patients. Furthermore, traditional disease management programs are typically segregated by disease, and they target people who already have one or two specific diseases or chronic conditions (e.g., diabetes or heart disease).

Compounding that, many traditional disease management programs, both internally and outsourced, use different personnel and systems for different conditions. Since many of the chronically ill have more than one condition, it is not uncommon that the same patient hears from two or more disease managers from the same health plan.

profile of individuals, who are often at risk of developing multiple medical conditions (e.g., diabetics developing heart disease, stroke, or renal disease). These programs are more complex than typical disease management programs and cut across clinical specialties

Population health management goes far beyond the typical 4 to 6 clinical conditions managed by typical disease management programs. In the case of BCBSMN, 17 chronic diseases or conditions were addressed.

Population health management uses a variety of proactive interventions, many of which are used as well in typical disease management programs — for example, personal nurse care managers assigned to high-risk patients such as those suffering from diabetes and/or cardiac illness. These nurses and health care professionals, working with the patient's physician, tailor treatment programs for the various clinical conditions — e.g., blood sugar testing, retinal eye exams, weight and diet management, smoking cessation, daily weight checks and usage of aspirin or beta blockers — to help reduce the occurrence of acute episodes of care caused by these diseases.

Population health management uses new point-of-care clinical tools and especially advanced data modeling to identify and work with at-risk patients. Information systems, technology, and databases are critical for these programs to be effective. To start with, a health plan must understand its current claim experience and which diseases pose the biggest problems. Population health management avolves analyzing data on a broad population and doing predictive modeling, which has become very robust in recent years, to identify individuals who are at risk for developing a particular clinical condition or a complication. Based on this information, health managers can reach out to those people to work with them ahead of time to prevent acute episodes.

What sets population health management apart then from typical disease management is the integration of three key elements: a far broader scope of chronic conditions and diseases, the application of "one stop shopping" in which patients with multiple conditions are managed through a single point of contact and coordination, and the rigorous application of predictive modeling across multiple clinical conditions. The use of continually updated clinical practices and strong academic support is also necessary since, in the end, the clinical interventions must improve outcomes.

In March 2002, BCBSMN launched its population health management program. A team of 120 nurses supported the program. They had an average of 15 years experience and diverse clinical backgrounds. They shared relationship-building, empathy, and behavior change skills. And through American Healthways, they received continuing clinical and technical training and advice.

ngagement model

BCBSMN identified members eligible for the program based on claims and pharmacy data, and referrals from members, physicians, and case managers. BCBSMN used an engagement model, in which members were automatically enrolled in the program unless they decided to opt out (versus an opt-in model in which members must enroll themselves). Engagement models typically have a 95 percent participation rate; BCBSMN's BluePrint for Health Care Support program had 97 percent participation.

Enrollees were stratified into 1 of 4 risk levels. BCBSMN worked with American Healthways to develop algorithms based on claims, prescriptions, self reports, physician, and care calls. For example, the algorithms included data such as cholesterol and triglyceride levels, history of heart disease, and perceived health status. The algorithms were fluid, allowing stratifications to change daily.

At the cornerstone of the program were personalized member interventions. Enrollees interacted with the program through multiple points of contact and multiple formats (i.e., telephone, mail, internet). All enrollees received an initial telephone call, general health assessments, depression screenings, education materials, and regular telephone calls (the frequency and timing of which were based on their risk stratum). Enrollees had around-the-clock access to care managers through a toll-free number.

Physicians were actively involved in the program as well. They received regular reports on medications and alerts, as well as care guidelines. They too had around-the-clock access to care managers through a toll-free number. A sophisticated software system provided care managers with complete member records, goals, and assessments. Tracking software was integrated with a telephone dialer system.

BCBSMN classified the initially selected 17 conditions or diseases into one of two groups. The first group included what BCBSMN termed "core conditions," traditional disease management programs that it had offered before. These included: diabetes, coronary artery disease, congestive heart failure, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), asthma, and end stage renal disease (ESRD).

The second group included what BCBSMN termed "impact conditions," which were new to the program and included: osteoarthritis, acid-related stomach disorders, low back pain, osteoporosis, fibromyalgia, atrial fibrillation/anticoagulant therapy, chronic hepatitis and cirrhosis, incontinence, irritable bowel syndrome, pressure ulcers, and inflammatory bowel disease. BCBSMN is the only payer in the country to address many of these impact conditions with disease management techniques.

These conditions affect 12 percent to 15 percent of BCBSMN's commercial population and account for between 40 percent and 45 percent of all claims costs. (Typical approaches to disease management programs, in contrast, reach less han 3 percent of the population.).

During the first year of operation, all fully insured groups, Medicaid, and certain self-insured groups were eligible to participate in BluePrint for Health Care Support. Shortly after the program started in March 2002, BCBSMN began marketing it to self-insured groups.

The program was implemented by a team led by executives from both BCBSMN and AMHC. There was an operations work group consisting of department heads in affected areas; its job was to design and institute the program.

An advisory council of community physicians monitored the program's clinical integrity, reviewed care support treatment guidelines, communicated developments to the provider community, and recommended improvements.

Because of the program's size and scale, BCBSMN and American Healthways faced challenges. When implementation began in March 2002, the program had 70,000 members with chronic diseases. A few months later, there were more than 100,000. Neither company had taken on a program of this magnitude. For example, BCBSMN and American Healthways had to:

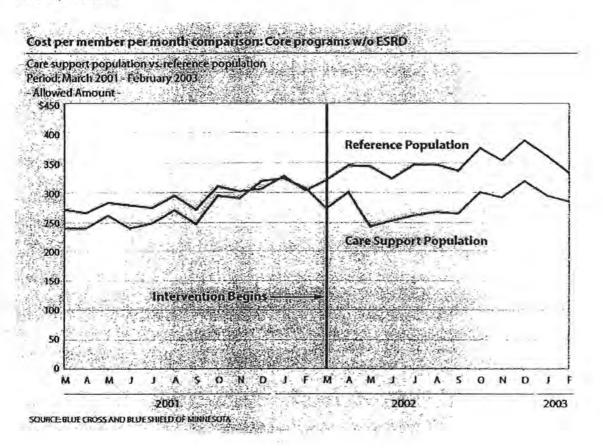

- Transfer several million records.
- Conduct multiple mailings with separate branding requirements.
- Build a call center in Minnesota.
- Establish a complaint tracking and resolution process.
- Staff and train clinicians and managers.
- Customize products for BCBSMN.
- Ensure staffing and establish processes to satisfy contractual obligations.
- Address unique requirements in the Minnesota market.

A common criticism of disease management programs of any kind has been a perceived inability to demonstrate genuine differences in outcomes and cost. Critics have said that savings could have occurred due to other changes, such as the introduction of new drugs or overall changes in physician practice behavior. The introduction of BluePrint for Health Care Support provided BCBSMN with an excellent opportunity to measure accurately the effect of the innovative new program.

Because a health plan cannot simply apply a new program to a self-funded client, such a client must pay for the cost of the program since it will gain all the benefits of lowered health care costs. This difference in clients allowed BCBSMN to measure differences in two cohorts of otherwise similar individuals (i.e., they had similar distribution of age, diseases, and clinical conditions).

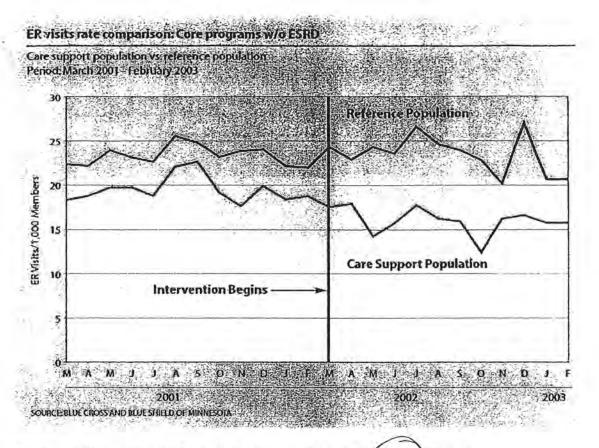

The first cohort was made up of fully insured groups (with a small number of selfinsured groups that joined early); the second was made up of groups that were ot enrolled in the new program, but continued with the typical disease and inedical management programs that they had been using. Groups in both cohorts were continuously enrolled for two years, and there were approximately 60,000 individuals in each cohort.

The first-year results show dramatic improvements in health outcomes, resulting in average claims savings estimated at nearly $500 for each member when compared to members in the control cohort. In 12 months, BCBSMN has experienced reduced hospital admissions, reduced emergency room visits, a 2 percent to 3 percent projected reduction in its fully-insured, commercial health care expenditure.

2003_11 | How Broadening DM's Focus Helped Shrink One Plan's Costs

BCBSMN also saw an overall return on investment of at least $2.90 for every dollar spent. Based on the results from the first year of operation, the potential future effect is considerable and could easily grow even higher.

* Health maintenance organizations (HMO) and point-of service (POS) plans were analyzed. In an HMO, a primary-care physician provides basic care; other care is delivered by a strictly defined network of specialists. Members pay out of pocket for care received outside the network. A POS plan is similar, but the plan pays some of the cost of out-of-network care.

Note: Identical ranking indicates plans with identical scores. Otherwise, ties in plan scores are due to rounding.

<member name> <member address> <city, state, zip>

Dear <member name>:

We're contacting you because you may benefit from a unique program known as BluePrint for Health[®] care support

If you live with a health condition, chances are you're aware of its effects daily. You may even have physical limitations. With fast-changing treatment options, you may have questions about your medication, food choices or recommended tests. The BluePrint for Health care support program can help.

The BluePrint for Health care support program is designed for you

Every person is different, with unique preferences when it comes to health. Our program helps you and your doctor better manage your condition with support tailored for you. As a participant, you may receive one-on-one guidance by phone from a care support professional, such as a nurse or dietitian, educational materials or reminders by mail. The goal: to help you feel better about your health every day.

The BluePrint for Health care support program is confidential

Please know that your personal information is protected and is not released to any unauthorized entity. Your care support team must keep your information confidential and may not use it for any reason other than this program. Your decision to participate or not participate will be kept confidential and does not affect your health benefits, your premiums or how your claims are paid.

The BluePrint for Health care support program is voluntary

This program is offered as part of your health plan at no cost to you. We believe you'll find great value and comfort from it. We will begin the process for your participation by sharing your information with our program administrator, American Healthways. Then, in the next few weeks, you will receive more information about how the program can address your unique health needs.

If you would like more information about this program, please call 1-888-264-1744.

If you choose not to participate, check the box below and return the form to us in the enclosed postage-paid envelope within the next 14 days to be removed from this program. Please note you need to return the form below only if you do not want to participate.

We look forward to supporting you and your doctor for better health!

Sincerely,

Wit ger, Jus

4. Open Issues

a) Privacy

HIPPA guidelines do not appear to raise privacy concerns for this program. However, Minnesota privacy statutes are stricter and raise challenges for the initial DM program enrollment process. We need a written statement reflecting our planned approach as we expand disease management capabilities.

b) NCQA

NCQA requires that we deploy heart disease and diabetes DM programs to all Blue Plus members including self insureds. We need to estimate the cost to fund Blue Plus self insureds until a time when the program can be offered to these accounts for an additional fee.

c) Medicare Supplement

To date we have not offered DM programs to the Med Supp population. We have asked AMHC to develop a business model so that we can consider

Purchaser Questions

58. Would it be possible for a group to pilot the program using only one disease category as the target disease at first?

This program was designed to achieve the highest attainable level of patient success combined with overall cost savings. The reality is that the most needy patients are the ones with multiple chronic diseases which this program has been designed to address. Without the hierarchy and coverage for the multiple diseases, the business model that drives the success of this program will not work. The program is not available on a separate disease basis.

59. What if an ASO group prefers an "opt in" model rather than an "opt out" model?

Our financial and business relationship with American Healthways is again based on an opt out model. The opt out model allows us to get over 95% of the population engaged in the program. Where a typical enrollment model (opt in) will only attract 30% of the population, which is the "worried well." The worried well are typically not the drivers of the majority of the health care costs. Therefore, and opt-out model allows us to engage and impact the majority of the population which results in lower health costs.

Currently, we have less than 2% who have opted out of the program. Our contract with American Healthways was built around this model and we are contractually bound to pay American Healthways when the introductory letter is mailed to the member. The program is also multifaceted and individuals are getting things in the mail, through the internet and through telephone conversations which incur labor and resource costs. Therefore, we are unable to be flexible with groups on this particular issue. We strongly believe in the beneficial aspects of the opt out model and this is part of how the process was structured.

60. Do participants "graduate" out of the program when they become low risk? (Does an employer continue to pay for the participant when the condition improves?)

Most member participants do not "graduate" out of the BluePrint for Health care support program. Instead, the program's interventions and intensity are matched to each individual's needs and risk level. Risk level is fluid and changes frequently, at times without warning. It is very important to keep low risk members their healthiest and to offer support, education and self-management skill development.

Among the conditions in the core and extended bundles a few protocols include "graduation" or program completion if certain clinical and lifestyle factors are maintained over a significant period of time (e.g. 18 months). These conditions include: asthma, acid-related disorders, pressure ulcers, fibromylagia, irritable bowel, low back pain, urinary incontinence and osteoporosis.

61. How does an identified member opt out of the care support program? During the engagement process, the eligible member is contacted by mail and telephone to confirm their participation. At this time, the member may decline the program. (This type of engagement model results in participation rates of over 90% compared to 30% for less proactive approaches).

Once in the program, a participant may "opt out" or quit the program by notifying the care support nurse. Only the participant or a family member (given permission to speak on behalf of the participant), can provide an opt out request.

100. What if a doctor recommends something outside or different from the BluePrint for Health care support program recommendations?

Blue Cross will work with your doctor to ensure the best care possible. Participants should continue to follow and seek the advice of their physician.

Provider reports/interventions - define

Reporting

101. What types of reports will be available?

Blue Cross and American Healthways will create the following types of reports:

- Clinical Process/Outcomes examples include compliance with standards of care per disease, heart attack rates, quality of life.
- Satisfaction random samples on an annual basis of providers and participants across all groups.
- 3) Utilization examples include ER and hospital admissions per 1,000.
- 4) Financial includes claims savings and ROI.
- 5) Participation/activity

102. When are reports available?

Most of these reports require a claims run out period after year-end of six months. (Plan year reporting). By the first quarter of 2003, we should have the information necessary to generate reports for the Blue Cross plan-wide reporting

103. Are there any mockups of reports available now?

Yes. There are some sample reports available on the BluePrint for Health at Work Lotus Notes database. These are samples of what a client's annual report may look like. The Account Reporting team is responsible for the development and implementation of reports.

104. What types of reports will be available to fully insured groups?

All Blue Cross fully insured groups will be able to review the data analysis across the entire plan. (More information on this to come.) In addition, we are beginning to evaluate participation reports for fully insured groups with 51+ contracts so that they can see the activity among their members in the program. More detail on timelines and development of these reports is available via your leadership.

105. What types of reports will be available to self-funded groups?

Self-funded groups will receive group-specific monthly activity reports –regardless of group size. Groups with 4,500 contracts or more are eligible to receive all outcome reports (plan- year) on a group specific level.

106. Will AccordantCare purchasers receive reports?

No. At this time there are no plans to produce or offer reports for this program. The participation rate is so low that report value and confidentiality become an issue.

107. Is there a report available that categorizes a group's program members into the various strat/severity levels (1, 2, 3, or 4)?

Our current reporting does not stratify by risk level because this information would most likely be misleading and inconclusive. A member's strat level is very dynamic and can change multiple times over a quarter. As a result, American Healthways does not produce reports on this field. Current reports focus on results and outcomes of the program, not the process by which we match interventions to needs

Background : (provide information leading to this request)	Letters currently sent to members and providers are often confusing and do not convey a tona of trust that BCBS would like to build with members. The project will evaluate and rewrite approximately 30 letters. In addition, training materials will be developed which will increase the letter clarity and improve the tone of letters being written in the future. Ultimately, this will build a better sense of trust between BCBS and members and will decrease the volume of phone calls to customer service. No all letters will be evaluated as part of this effort. This is a pilot that will look at approximately 30 letters. [Include any supporting documents as attachments]
Other Alternatives:	The letters could remain as is. However, members have given feedback that they are very unclear. (Include any supporting documents as attachments)
