INTRODUCTORY.

TO THE MEMBERS
OF THE
THIRTY-FOURTH LEGISLATIVE SESSION OF MINNESOTA
THIS MANUAL IS RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED.

The Legislative Manual of nineteen hundred and five is divided as to contents into three parts. Part I. contains the state organic act, act authorizing a state government, act of admission, declaration of independence, articles of confederation, constitutions of the State of Minnesota and the United States, territorial and state government, legislative statistics. Part II. contains history and growth of state, and review of state departments and institutions. Part III. contains roster of officers of state departments and institutions, county officers and federal officers appointed from Minnesota, election returns, population and financial statistics of the state, and such miscellaneous matter as has usually been published in the Manual and that has been considered of general interest.

The publication of this Manual is authorized under chapter 122, General Laws of 1893, as amended. A synopsis of the same herewith follows:

SECTION 1. It shall be the duty of the secretary of state to cause to be prepared and published, for the use of the senate and house of representatives, a book to be denominated "Legislative Manual," which shall contain the constitution of the United States, and the organic act and the constitution of this state, rules of order of the senate and house of representatives of this state, joint rules of the senate and house, lists of senators and members of the house and employees of each house, statistical and other information of the same description with that heretofore published in the Legislative Manual.

SEC. 6. The secretary of state shall, under the contract of the state printer, and upon as favorable terms as he can secure for the state, cause twenty thousand (20,000) copies of the Legislative Manual to be published biennially, to be distributed as follows:

Fifty copies to each member of the legislature, including the president of the senate.

Fifty copies to state historical society for exchange with other states.

Five copies to state university.

Three copies to state library.

Two copies to congressional library at Washington.

Two copies to soldiers' home.

Two copies to each free public library in the state.

Two copies to each public college, seminary or academy in this state.

Two copies to each state normal school.

Two copies to each state high school.

One copy to each independent special and common school district in this state.

And the secretary of state shall send the number of manuals required to be furnished said school districts to the county superintendent of schools of each county.

One copy to each state institution not herein provided for.

One copy to each elective state officer.

One copy to each appointed state officer who is the head of any department.

One copy to each officer and employe of the house and senate.

One copy to each supreme and district court judge.

One copy to each United States senator and member of congress from this state.

One copy to each auditor's office in this state.

Two hundred and seventy-five copies to remain in the office of the secretary of state for distribution among the members of the next succeeding legislature.

The remaining copies shall be held for distribution as deemed best.

P. E. HANSON,
Secretary of State.

CYPRIPEDIUM.—THE MOCCASIN FLOWER.

STATE FLOWER OF MINNESOTA.

OF MINNESOTA.

The name Cypripedium (from Greek words meaning the shoe of Venus), published for this genus in 1737 by Linnæus, and its common English and American popular names, as Lady's Slipper, Moccasin Flower, and Indian Shoe, refer to the saccate and somewhat shoe-like form of the most conspicuous petal (in this Orchis family called the lip) of the flower.

About twenty-five species of Cypripedium are known, belonging to the north temperate zone and reaching south into Mexico and Northern India. Six species occur in the northern United States and Canada, east of the Rocky Mountains, all of these being found in Minnesota; and about a dozen species in total occur on this continent. They are perennial herbs with perfect, irregular flowers, which are solitary or few, large and showy.

The Minnesota species are as follows: C. arietinum R. Br., the Ram's-head Moccasin Flower, with red and whitish veiny lip, as shown in the accompanying plate; C. candidum Muhl., the small White Moccasin Flower; C. parviflorum Salisb., the small Yellow Moccasin Flower, also shown in this plate; C. pubescens Willd., with much larger yellow flowers; C. spectabile Sw., with most showy, large flowers, of mingled white and pink purple color; and C. acaule Ait., the Stemless Moccasin Flower, with leaves on the ground and a large rose-purple flower on an erect scape nearly a foot high. These plants grow preferably in cold and moist woods and in bogs, flowering from May to July. The first and second are rare or infrequent; but the other four are frequent or common, especially northward.

NOTE.—Minnesota has fourteen genera, including forty-one species, of the Orchis family, to which the Cypripediums belong. In total, 1,582 species of flowering plants, and sixty-eight ferns and their allies, making together 1,650 species, were tabulated, as known to grow without cultivation in this state, by Warren Upham in the Catalogue of the Flora of Minnesota, published in the Twelfth Annual Report of the Geological and Natural History Survey for the year 1883 (193 pages, with a map showing the areas of forest and prairie). Within the basin of the Minnesota river, according to the report in 1892 by Prof. Conway MacMillan, the state botanist, 1,174 species and varieties of flowering plants, including all our Cypripediums, are known and have been collected for the Herbarium of the State University. The State Flower is thus chosen from among more than a thousand others which bloom on our prairies, in the northern woods, in their cool bogs, and in our streams and lakes.

THE STATE FLAG

OF MINNESOTA.

The state legislature of 1893, by chapter sixteen, provided for the adoption of a state flag.

Mrs. Franklyn L. Greenleaf, Mrs. A. A. White, Mrs. Edward Durant, Mrs. F. B. Clarke, Mrs. H. F. Brower and Mrs. A. T. Stebbins were by this act named and designated a commission to select and adopt an appropriate design for a state flag.

Conformably to the provision of this act, this commission called for designs, and on Tuesday, Feb. 28, 1893, met, selected and adopted the design presented by Mrs. Edward H. Center, of Minneapolis.

Following is a description of the flag: "The ground is of white silk, and the reverse side of blue silk, bordered with bullion fringe. In the center is the state seal, wreathed with white moccasin flowers, on a blue ground. The red ribbon of the seal bearing the motto is continued through the wreath, entwining the blossoms and floating carelessly over the lower portion of the flag. It bears, in gold, the dates 1819, the time of the settlement of Minnesota, and 1893. Above, also in gold, is the date 1858, the time of the admission of Minnesota to the Union. Below the design, in gold letters, is wrought 'Minnesota.' Grouped around the seal are nineteen stars in the design of star points, with the North Star, significant of the North Star State, in a group of three at the top."

The choice of the number nineteen is a peculiarly happy one, as Minnesota was the nineteenth state, after the original thirteen, to be admitted to the Union. The standard to the flag was surmounted by a golden gopher, and tied with a gold cord and tassel. The execution of the design is entirely in needle work.

THE STATE SEAL

MINNESOTA.

The first official record of a state seal is in the message of Governor Ramsey to the first territorial legislature, Sept. 9, 1849, in which he says: "A temporary great seal of the Territory of Minnesota has been adopted, an impression of which will be submitted. I preferred consulting the legislative assembly upon the adoption of a permanent great seal, and I herewith lay before you the design of one, to which I ask your attention, and if you approve it, or suggest its modification, it will be placed in the hands of an artist and engraved, and thenceforward supersede the seal now in use." On October 31st Mr. James M. Boal, from the committee appointed to draft a device for the territorial seal, reported having adopted for "a device, an every-day scene, consisting of an Indian family with their lodge, canoe, etc., and a single white man visiting them, with no other protection than the feeling of hospitality and friendship existing between the two people. The white man is receiving from the Indian the pipe of peace," etc. This report was adopted, and an act providing for the use of the seal was duly passed and became a law. But, for some reason, the seal so authorized was never used.

In place of it one was adopted, just how or by whom there is no record now, and which was used as "the great seal of Minnesota" until 1858. It bears the date at the bottom, "1849." The device is much the same as the present state seal. A farmer is plowing in the foreground, but facing to the west. His rifle, powderhorn, etc., are leaning on a stump near him. In the distance, to the left, is the Falls of St. Anthony, and an Indian on horseback riding rapidly eastward, towards what appears to be a rising sun. Over the device is the motto, "Quo sursum velo videre," the third word a misprint for volo, the whole meaning, "I wish to see what lies beyond." This motto was selected by Hon. H. H. Sibley, while delegate in congress, and the engraving of the seal was procured in Washington, by Governor Ramsey, of D. O. Hare, an engraver of that city, at a cost of $157.

This seal was ridiculed more or less by journalists, who said it represented "a man plowing one way and looking another," or "an astonished Indian and a scared white man," etc. But it was used until 1858.

At the first session of the state legislature the question of a state seal was taken up. Hon. Chas. F. Dowe, a member of the constitutional convention in 1857, had drafted (by Mr. Buechner, an artist of St. Paul) a design for a state seal, which he had hoped that the first state legislature would adopt. It was generally considered very suitable (an engraving is given of it on page 658 of W. H. C. Folsom's History of the Northwest). Article fifteen of the state constitution, adopted on Oct. 13, 1857, provided that "The legislature shall provide for an appropriate device and motto for said seal." The first legislative session (which assembled Dec. 2, 1857), however, does not seem to have done so, and when the state government came into operation in May, 1858, there was still no "state seal" for use on documents. Governor Sibley authorized the secretary of state to continue the use of the old territorial seal for the present. At the adjourned session of the legislature in June, Governor Sibley referred to the subject, and a special committee was appointed to report the design for a seal, of which W. H. C. Folsom was chairman. This was done on June 30th. Mr. Folsom had secured an elaborate design from an artist of St. Paul, Dr. R. O. Sweeny, fully described in his report. A joint resolution adopting the design was passed, and duly signed, on July 16th.

Several months appear to have elapsed before the new seal was engraved and put into use, and when it was, it was found that the elaborate design proposed in Mr. Folsom's report had not been adopted, but that the device of the old territorial seal had been used, with a little change. The equestrian Indian was represented as riding westward and the farmer plowing eastward. No other change was made except the use of the word "state" instead of "territory," and adding the date of its admission, "1858." The motto was "L'ETOILE DU NORD" (the North Star). The "Minnesotian" newspaper ridiculed this latter in a series of vituperative articles, declaring that Governor Sibley had used a French motto simply because he spoke that tongue. But the seal soon came into general use, and has been the only one used officially.

ORGANIC ACT OF MINNESOTA.

ORGANIC ACT OF MINNESOTA.

An act to establish the Territorial Government of Minnesota.

[Passed March 3, 1849.]

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the passage of this act, all that part of the territory of the United States which lies within the following limits, to wit: Beginning in the Mississippi river, at the point where the line of forty-three degrees and thirty minutes of north latitude crosses the same; thence running due west on said line, which is the northern boundary of the state of Iowa, to the northwest corner of the said state of Iowa; thence southerly along the western boundary of said state to the point where said boundary strikes the Missouri river; thence up the middle of the main channel of the Missouri river to the mouth of White Earth river; thence up the middle of the main channel of the White Earth river to the boundary line between the possessions of the United States and Great Britain; thence east and south of east along the boundary line between the possessions of the United States and Great Britain to Lake Superior; thence in a straight line to the northernmost point of the state of Wisconsin in Lake Superior; thence along the western boundary line of said state of Wisconsin to the Mississippi river; thence down the main channel of said river to the place of beginning, be and the same is hereby erected into a temporary government by the name of the Territory of Minnesota; provided, that nothing in this act contained shall be construed to inhibit the government of the United States from dividing said territory into two or more territories, in such manner and at such times as congress shall deem convenient and proper, or from attaching any portion of said Territory to any other state or territory of the United States.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the executive power and authority in and over said Territory of Minnesota shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States. The governor shall reside within said Territory; shall be commander-in-chief of the militia thereof; shall perform the duties and receive the emoluments of superintendent of Indian affairs. He may grant pardons for offenses against the laws of said Territory, and reprieves for offenses against the laws of the United States until the decision of the president can be made known thereon; he shall commission all officers who shall be appointed to office under the laws of the said Territory, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That there shall be a secretary of said Territory, who shall reside therein, and hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States; he shall record and preserve all the laws and proceedings of the legislative assembly hereinafter constituted, and all the acts and proceedings of the governor in his executive department; he shall transmit one copy of the laws and one copy of the executive proceedings, on or before the first day of December in each year, to the president of the United States, and at the same time two copies of the laws to the speaker of the house of representatives, and the president of the senate for the use of Congress. And in case of the death, removal, resignation, or necessary absence of the governor from the Territory, the secretary shall be ~~and he is~~ hereby authorized and required to execute and perform all the powers and the duties of the governor during such vacancy or necessary absence; or until another governor shall be duly appointed to fill such vacancy.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power and authority of said Territory shall be vested in the governor and a legislative assembly. The legislative assembly shall consist of a council and house of representatives. The council shall consist of nine members having the qualifications of voters, as hereinafter prescribed, whose term of service shall continue two years. The house of representatives shall, at its first session, consist of eighteen members, possessing the same qualifications as prescribed for members of the council, and whose term of service shall continue one year. The number of councilors and representatives may be increased by the legislative assembly, from time to time, in proportion to the increase of population; provided, that the whole number shall never exceed fifteen councilors and thirty-nine representatives. An apportionment shall be made, as nearly equal as practicable, among the several counties or districts for the election of the council and representatives, giving to each section of the Territory representation in the ratio of its population, Indians excepted, as nearly as may be. And the members of the council and of the house of representatives shall reside in and be inhabitants of the districts for which they may be elected, respectively. Previous to the first election, the governor shall cause a census or enumeration of the inhabitants of the several counties and districts of the Territory to be taken, and the first election shall be held at such time and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct; and he shall, at the same time, declare the number of members of the council and house of representatives to which each of the counties and districts shall be entitled under this act.

The number of persons authorized to be elected having the highest number of votes, in each of said council districts for members of the council, shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected to the council, and the person or persons authorized to be elected, having the greatest number of votes for the house of representatives, equal to the number to which each county or district shall be entitled, shall also be declared by the governor to be duly elected members of the house of representatives; provided, that in case of a tie between two or more persons voted for, the governor shall order a new election to supply the vacancy made by such tie. And the persons thus elected to the legislative assembly shall meet at such place on such day as the governor shall appoint, but thereafter the time, place and manner of holding and conducting all elections by the people, and the apportioning of the representation in the several counties or districts to the council and house of representatives, according to the population, shall be prescribed by law, as well as the day of the commencement of the regular session of the legislative assembly; provided, that no one session shall exceed the term of sixty days.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That every free white male inhabitant above the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of said Territory at the time of the passage of this act, shall be entitled to vote at the first election, and shall be eligible to any office within the said Territory; but the qualifications of voters and of holding office at all subsequent elections shall be such as shall be prescribed by the legislative assembly; provided, that the right of suffrage and of holding office shall be exercised only by citizens of the United States and those who shall have declared on oath their intention to become such, and shall have taken an oath to support the constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power of the Territory shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation, consistent with the Constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act; but no law shall be passed interfering with the primary disposal of the soil; no tax shall be imposed upon the property of the United States; nor shall the lands or other property of non-residents be taxed higher than the lands or other property of residents. All the laws passed by the legislative assembly and governor shall be submitted to the Congress of the United States, and if disapproved shall be null and of no effect.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That all township, district and county officers, not herein otherwise provided for, shall be appointed or elected, as the case may be, in such manner as shall be provided by the governor and legislative assembly of the Territory of Minnesota. The governor shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the legislative council, appoint all officers not herein otherwise provided for, and, in the first instance, the governor alone may appoint all said officers, who shall hold their offices until the end of the next session of the legislative assembly.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That no member of the legislative assembly shall hold or be appointed to any office which shall have been created, or the salary or emoluments of which shall have been increased, while he was a member, during the term for which he was elected, and for one year after the expiration of such term; and no person holding a commission or appointment under the United States, except postmasters, shall be a member of the legislative assembly, or shall hold any office under the government of said Territory.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the judicial power of said Territory shall be vested in a supreme court, district courts, probate courts, and in justices of the peace. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and two associate justices, any two of whom shall constitute a quorum, and who shall hold a term at the seat of government of said Territory annually; and they shall hold their offices during the period of four years. The said Territory shall be divided into three judicial districts, and a district court shall be held in each of said districts by one of the justices of the supreme court, at such time and places as may be prescribed by law; and the said judges shall, after their appointment, respectively, reside in the districts which shall be assigned them. The jurisdiction of the several courts herein provided for, both appellate and original, and that of probate courts and justices of the peace, shall be as limited by law; provided, that the justices of the peace shall not have jurisdiction of any matter in controversy when the title or boundaries of land may be in dispute, or where the debt or sum claimed shall exceed one hundred dollars; and the said supreme and district courts, respectively, shall possess chancery as well as common law jurisdiction. Each district court, or the judges thereof, shall appoint its clerk, who shall also be the register in chancery, and shall keep his office at the place where the court may be held. Writs of error, bills of exception and appeals shall be allowed in all cases from the final decisions of said district courts to the supreme court, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, but in no case removed to the supreme court shall trial by jury be allowed in said court. The supreme court, or the justices thereof, shall appoint its own clerk, and every clerk shall hold his office at the pleasure of the court for which he shall have been appointed. Writs of error and appeals from the final decisions of said supreme court shall be allowed, and may be taken to the supreme court of the United States, in the same manner and under the same regulations as from the circuit courts of the United States, where the value of the property or the amount in controversy, to be ascertained by the oath or affirmation of either party, or other competent witness, shall exceed one thousand dollars; and each of the said district courts shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction, in all cases arising under the constitution and laws of the United States, as is vested in the circuit and district courts of the United States; and the first six days of every term of said courts, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be appropriated to the trial of causes arising under the said constitution and laws; and writs of error and appeal in all such cases shall be made to the supreme court of said Territory, the same as in other cases. The said clerk shall receive in all such cases the same fees which the clerks of the district courts of the late Wisconsin Territory received for similar services.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed an attorney for said Territory, who shall continue in office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall receive the same fees and salary as the attorney of the United States for the late Territory of Wisconsin received. There shall also be a marshal for the Territory appointed, who shall hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall execute all processes issuing from the said courts, when exercising their jurisdiction as circuit and district courts of the United States; he shall perform the duties, be subject to the same regulations and penalties, and be entitled to the same fees as the marshal of the district court of the United States for the late Territory of Wisconsin; and shall, in addition, be paid two hundred dollars annually as a compensation for extra services.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That the governor, secretary, chief justice and associate justices, attorney and marshal, shall be nominated and by and with the advice and consent of the senate, appointed by the president of the United States. The governor and secretary to be appointed as aforesaid shall, before they act as such, respectively, take an oath or affirmation, before the district judge, or some justice of the peace in the limits of said Territory, duly authorized to administer oaths and affirmations by the laws now in force therein, or before the chief justice, or some associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, to support the constitution of the United States, and faithfully to discharge the duties of their respective offices, which said oaths, when so taken, shall be certified by the person by whom the same shall have been taken, and such certificates shall be received and recorded by the said secretary among the executive proceedings; and the chief justice and associate justices, and all other civil officers in said Territory, before they act as such, shall take a like oath or affirmation, before the said governor or secretary, or some judge or justice of the peace of the Territory, who may be duly commissioned and qualified; which said oath or affirmation shall be certified and transmitted, by the person taking the same, to the secretary, to be by him recorded as aforesaid; and afterwards, the like oath or affirmation shall be taken, certified and recorded in such manner and form as may be prescribed by law. The governor shall receive an annual salary of $1,500 as governor, and $1,000 as superintendent of Indian affairs. The chief justice and associate justice shall each receive an annual salary of $1,800. The secretary shall receive an annual salary of $1,800. The said salaries shall be paid quarter-yearly, at the treasury of the United States. The members of the legislative assembly shall be entitled to receive three dollars each per day during their attendance at the session thereof, and three dollars each for every twenty miles traveled in going to and returning from the said sessions, estimated according to the nearest usually traveled route. There shall be appropriated, annually, the sum of $1,000, to be expended by the governor to defray the contingent expenses of the Territory; and there shall also be appropriated, annually, a sufficient sum to be expended by the secretary of the Territory, and upon an estimate to be made by the secretary of the treasury of the United States, to defray the expenses of the legislative assembly, the printing of the laws, and other incidental expenses, and the secretary of the Territory shall annually account to the secretary of the treasury of the United States for the manner in which the aforesaid sum shall have been expended.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That the inhabitants of the said Territory shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities heretofore granted and secured to the Territory of Wisconsin and to its inhabitants; and the laws in force in the Territory of Wisconsin at the date of the admission of the State of Wisconsin shall continue to be valid and operative therein, so far as the same be not incompatible with the provisions of this act, subject, nevertheless, to be altered, modified or repealed by the governor and legislative assembly of the said Territory of Minnesota; and the laws of the United States are hereby extended over, and declared to be in force in said Territory, so far as the same, or any provision thereof, may be applicable.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That the legislative assembly of the Territory of Minnesota shall hold its first session in St. Paul; and at said first session the governor and legislative assembly shall locate and establish a temporary seat of government for said Territory, at such place as they may deem eligible; and shall at such time as they shall see proper prescribe by law the manner of locating the permanent seat of government of said Territory by a vote of the people. And the sum of twenty thousand dollars, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, is hereby appropriated and granted to said Territory of Minnesota, to be applied by the governor and legislative assembly to the erection of suitable public buildings at the seat of government.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That a delegate to the house of representatives of the United States, to serve for the term of two years, may be elected by the voters qualified to elect members of the legislative assembly, who shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges as are exercised and enjoyed by the delegates from the several other territories of the United States to the said house of representatives. The first election shall be held at such times and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct; and at all subsequent elections the times, places and manner of holding the elections shall be prescribed by law. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected, and a certificate thereof shall be given accordingly.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That all suits, process and proceedings, civil and criminal, at law or in chancery, and all indictments and informations, which shall be pending and undetermined in the courts of the Territory of Wisconsin, within the limits of said Territory of Minnesota, when this act shall take effect, shall be transferred to be heard, tried, prosecuted and determined in the district courts hereby established, which may include the counties or districts where any such proceedings may be pending. All bonds, recognizances, and obligations of every kind whatsoever, valid under the existing laws, within the limits of said Territory, shall be valid under this act; and all crimes and misdemeanors against the laws, in force within said limits, may be prosecuted, tried, and punished in the courts established by this act; and all penalties, forfeitures, actions, and causes of action may be recovered under this act the same as they would have been under the laws in force within the limits composing said Territory at the time this act shall go into operation.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That all justices of the peace, constables, sheriffs, and all other judicial and ministerial officers, who shall be in office within the limits of said Territory when this act shall take effect, shall be and they are hereby authorized and required to continue to exercise and perform the duties of their respective offices as officers of the Territory of Minnesota, temporarily, and until they or others shall be duly appointed and qualified to fill their places, in the manner herein directed, or until their offices shall be abolished.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That the sum of $5,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be expended by and under the direction of the said governor of the Territory of Minnesota, in the purchase of a library, to be kept at the seat of government for the use of the governor, legislative assembly, judges of the supreme court, secretary, marshal, and attorneys of said Territory, and such other persons and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That when the lands in said Territory shall be surveyed under the direction of the government of the United States, preparatory to bringing the same into market, sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in each township in said Territory shall be and the same are hereby reserved for the purpose of being applied to schools in said Territory, and in the state and territories hereafter to be erected out of the same.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That temporarily, and until otherwise provided by law, the governor of said Territory may define the judicial districts of said Territory, and assign the judges who may be appointed for said Territory to the several districts, and also appoint the times and places for holding courts in the several counties or subdivisions in each of said judicial districts, by proclamation to be issued by him; but the legislative assembly, at their first or any subsequent session, may organize, alter or modify such judicial districts, and assign the judges, and alter the times and places of holding the courts, as to them shall seem proper and convenient.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That every bill which shall or may pass the council and house of representatives, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the Territory; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated; which shall cause the objections to be entered at large upon their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall also be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law; but in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislative assembly, by adjournment, prevent it; in which case it shall not become a law.

ACT

AUTHORIZING A STATE GOVERNMENT.

[Passed Feb. 26, 1857.]

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the inhabitants of that portion of the Territory of Minnesota which is embraced within the following limits, to-wit: Beginning at the point in the center of the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the boundary line between the United States and the British Possessions crosses the same; thence up the main channel of said river to that of the Bois de Sioux river; thence up the main channel of said river to Lake Traverse; thence up the center of said lake to the southern extremity thereof; thence in a direct line to the head of Big Stone lake; thence through its center to its outlet; thence by a due south line to the north line of the State of Iowa; thence along the northern boundary of said state to the main channel of the Mississippi river; thence up the main channel of said river, and following the boundary line of the State of Wisconsin, until the same intersects with the St. Louis river; thence down the said river to and through Lake Superior, on the boundary line of Wisconsin and Michigan, until it intersects the dividing line between the United States and the British Possessions; thence up Pigeon river and following said dividing line to the place of beginning, be and they hereby are authorized to form for themselves a constitution and state government by the name of the State of Minnesota, and to come into the Union on an equal footing with the original states, according to the Federal Constitution.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the State of Minnesota shall have concurrent jurisdiction on the Mississippi and all other rivers and waters bordering on the said State of Minnesota, so far as the same shall form a common boundary to said state and any state or states now or hereafter to be formed or bounded by the same; and said river or waters leading into the same shall be common highways, and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said state as to all other citizens of the United States, without any tax, duty, impost, or toll therefor.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That on the first Monday in June next, the legal voters in each representative district then existing within the limits of the proposed state, are hereby authorized to elect two delegates for each representative to which said district shall be entitled according to the apportionment for representatives to the territorial legislature; which election for delegates shall be held and conducted, and the returns made, in all respects in conformity with the laws of said Territory regulating the election of representatives, and the delegates so elected shall assemble at the capital of said Territory on the second Monday in July next, and first determine by a vote whether it is the wish of the people of the proposed State to be admitted into the Union at that time; and if so, shall proceed to form a constitution, and take all necessary steps for the establishment of a state government, in conformity with the Federal Constitution, subject to the approval and ratification of the people of the proposed State.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That in the event said convention shall decide in favor of the immediate admission of the proposed State into the Union, it shall be the duty of the United States marshal for said Territory to proceed to take a census or enumeration of the inhabitants within the limits of the proposed State, under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the secretary of the interior, with the view of ascertaining the number of representatives to which said State may be entitled in the Congress of the United States. And said State shall be entitled to one representative, and such additional representatives as the population of the State shall, according to the census, show it would be entitled to according to the present ratio of representation.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the following propositions be and the same are hereby offered to the said convention of the people of Minnesota for their free acceptance or rejection, which, if accepted by the convention, shall be obligatory on the United States, and upon the said State of Minnesota, to-wit:

First—That sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in every township of public lands in said State, and where either of said sections, or any part thereof, has been sold or otherwise been disposed of, other lands, equivalent thereto, and as contiguous as may be, shall be granted to said State for the use of schools.

Second—That seventy-two sections of land shall be set apart and reserved for the use and support of a state university, to be selected by the governor of said State, subject to the approval of the commissioner at the general land office, and to be appropriated and applied in such manner as the legislature of said State may prescribe, for the purpose aforesaid, but for no other purpose.

Third—Ten entire sections of land to be selected by the governor of said State, in legal subdivisions, shall be granted to said State for the purpose of completing the public buildings, or for the erection of others at the seat of government, under the direction of the legislature thereof.

Fourth—That all salt springs within said State, not exceeding twelve in number, with six sections of land adjoining or as contiguous as may be to each, shall be granted to said State for its use; and the same to be selected by the governor thereof within one year after the admission of said State, and, when so selected, to be used or disposed of on such terms, conditions and regulations as the legislature shall direct; provided, that no salt spring or land the right whereof is now vested in any individual or in individuals, or which may be hereafter confirmed or adjudged to any individual or individuals, shall by this article be granted to said State.

Fifth—That five per centum of the net proceeds of sales of all public lands lying within said State, which shall be sold by Congress after the admission of said State into the Union, after deducting all the expenses incident to the same, shall be paid to said State for the purpose of making public roads and internal improvements as the legislature shall direct; provided, the foregoing propositions herein offered are on the condition that the said convention which shall form the constitution of said State shall provide, by a clause in said constitution, or an ordinance, irrevocable without the consent of the United States, that said State shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same by the United States, or with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title in said soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and that no tax shall be imposed on lands belonging to the United States, and that in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents.

CONSTITUTION
STATE OF MINNESOTA.

Adopted October 13, 1857. Ayes, 30,055; Noes, 571.

Preamble. We, the people of the State of Minnesota, grateful to God for our civil and religious liberty, and desiring to perpetuate its blessings and secure the same to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution:

Preamble.

ARTICLE I.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

SECTION 1. Government is instituted for the security, benefit and protection of the people, in whom all political power is inherent, together with the right to alter, modify or reform such government, whenever the public good may require it.

Object of government.

SEC. 2. No member of this State shall be disfranchised, or deprived of any of the rights or privileges secured to any citizen thereof, unless by the law of the land, or the judgment of his peers. There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the State otherwise than in the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

Rights and privileges.

SEC. 3. The liberty of the press shall forever remain inviolate, and all persons may freely speak, write and publish their sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right.

Liberty of the press.

SEC. 4. The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, and shall extend to all cases at law without regard to the amount in controversy, but a jury trial may be waived by the parties in all cases in the manner prescribed by law; [and the legislature may provide that the agreement of five-sixths of any jury in any civil action or proceeding, after not less than six* (6) hours' deliberation, shall be a sufficient verdict therein.]*

No excessive bail or unusual punishments.

SEC. 5. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor shall excessive fines be imposed; nor shall cruel or unusual punishments be inflicted.

Rights of accused in criminal prosecutions.

SEC. 6. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the county or district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which county or district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, to be confronted with the witnesses against him, to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defense. (a)

Further rights of accused.

SEC. 7. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law, and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require.

When bailable.

Redress of injuries or wrongs.

SEC. 8. Every person is entitled to a certain remedy in the laws for all injuries or wrongs which he may receive in his person, property or character; he ought to obtain justice freely and without purchase; completely and without denial; promptly and without delay, conformable to the laws.

Treason defined.

SEC. 9. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against the same, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

Right against unreasonable searches.

SEC. 10. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches

*The clause in brackets was adopted Nov. 4. 1890.

(a) The jury contemplated by article 1, section 6, securing the right to jury trial in criminal cases, is a body of twelve men, and it is error to try a party charged with crime in a justice court, against his objection, with a jury of six. and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the person or things to be seized.

SEC. 11. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, nor any law impairing the obligation of contracts shall ever be passed, and no conviction shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate.

Prohibits ex post facto laws, or laws impairing contracts.

SEC. 12. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in this State, (a) but this shall not prevent the legislature from providing for imprisonment, or holding to bail, persons charged with fraud in contracting said debt. A reasonable amount of property shall be exempt from seizure or sale for the payment of any debt or liability. The amount of such exemption shall be determined by law. [Provided, however, that all property so exempted shall be liable to seizure and sale for any debts incurred to any person for work done or materials furnished in the construction, repair or improvement of the same; and, provided further, that such liability to seizure and sale shall also extend to all real property for any debt incurred to any laborer or servant for labor or service performed.]*

SEC. 13. Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use without just compensation therefor, first paid or secured.†

Private property for public use.

SEC. 14. The military shall be subordinate to the civil power, and no standing army shall be kept up in this State in time of peace.

Military power subordinate.

SEC. 15. All lands within the State are declared to be allodial, and feudal tenures of every description, with all their incidents, are prohibited. Leases and grants of agricultural lands for a longer period than twenty-one years, hereafter made, in which shall be reserved any rent or service of any kind, shall be void.

Lands declared allodial. Leases, when void.

SEC. 16. The enumeration of rights in this constitution shall not be construed to deny or impair others retained by and inherent in the people. The right of every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience shall never be infringed, nor shall any man be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship, or to maintain any religious or ecclesiastical ministry, against his consent; nor shall any control of or interference with the rights of conscience be permitted, or any preference be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of the State, nor shall any money be drawn from the treasury for the benefit of any religious societies, or religious or theological seminaries.

No religious test or property qualification to be required.

SEC. 17. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification for any office of public trust under the State. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification of any voter at any election in this State; nor shall any person be rendered incompetent to give evidence in any court of law or equity in consequence of his opinion upon the subject of religion.

ARTICLE II.

ON NAME AND BOUNDARIES.

Name and boundaries.

SECTION 1. This State shall be called and known by the name of the State of Minnesota, and shall consist of and have jurisdiction over the territory embraced in the following boundaries, to-wit: Beginning at the point in the center of the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the boundary line between the United States and British Possessions crosses the same; thence up the main channel of said river to that of the Bois des Sioux river; thence up the main channel of said river to Lake Traverse; thence up the center of said lake to the southern extremity thereof; thence in a direct line to the head of Big Stone lake; thence through its center to its outlet; thence by a due south line to the north line of the State of Iowa; thence east along the northern boundary of said State to the main channel of the Mississippi river; thence up the main channel of said river and following the boundary line of the State of Wisconsin until the same intersects the St. Louis river; thence down the said river to and through Lake Superior, on the boundary line of Wisconsin and Michigan, until it intersects the dividing line between the United States and British Possessions; thence up Pigeon river and following said dividing line to the place of beginning.*

*The northern boundary of the state at the Lake of the Woods is projected beyond the 49th parallel a distance of about twenty miles, making a wedge-shaped jog through the lake until it strikes firm ground on the west bank of the lake; thence in a due south line to the 49th parallel. The explanation of this jog is found in the subjoined paragraphs: In the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, section 19 reads as follows: Sec. 19. Resolved that the following described (also represented on said map as before mentioned), is, in the opinion of the commissioners, so far as the SEC. 2. The State of Minnesota shall have concurrent jurisdiction on the Mississippi and on all other rivers and waters bordering on the said State of Minnesota, so far as the same shall form a common boundary to said State, and any other state or states now or hereafter to be formed by the same; and said rivers and waters, and navigable waters leading into the same, shall be common highways and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said State as to other citizens of the United States, without any tax, duty, impost, or toll therefor.

SEC. 3. The propositions contained in the act of Congress entitled, "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government, preparatory to their admission into the Union on equal footing with the original states," are hereby accepted, ratified and confirmed, and shall remain irrevocable without the consent of the United States; and it is hereby ordained that this State shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same, by the United States, or with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title to said soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and no tax shall be imposed on lands belonging to the United States and in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents.

same extends, the true boundary intended by the before mentioned treaties, namely: * * * thence through the middle of the waters of this bay to the northwest extremity of the same; being the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods, and from a monument in this bay, on the nearest firm ground to the above northwest extremity of said bay, the courses and distances are as follows: 56° W. 1,565½ feet; 2d, N. 6° W. 861½ feet; 3d, N. 28° W. 615.4 feet; 4th, N. 27° 10' W. 495.4 feet; 5th, N. 5° 10' E. 1,322½ feet; 6th, N. 7° 45' W. 493 feet, the variation being 12° east. The termination of this 6th and last course and distance being the above said most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods, as designated by the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, and being in latitude 49° 23' 55" north of the equator, and in longitude 95° 14' 38" west from Greenwich. The second article of the convention of 1818 is as follows: Article 2. It is agreed that a line drawn from the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods along the 49th parallel of north latitude, or, if the said point shall not be in the 49th parallel of north latitude, then that a line drawn from the said point due north or south, as the case may be, until the said line shall intersect the said parallel of north latitude, and from the point of such intersection due west, along and with the said parallel, shall be the line of demarkation between the territories of the United States and His Britannic Majesty, and that the said line shall form the northern boundary of the said territories of the United States and the southern boundary of his Britannic Majesty, from the Lake of the Woods to the Stony Mountains. This boundary was re-established and determined by a commission authorized by congress, and the surveys embracing four years were made and reported to congress in 1877.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

powers.

SECTION 1. The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—legislative, executive, and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to or constituting one of these departments shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except in the instances expressly provided in this constitution. (a)

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

Legislature
meets biennially.

Length of

Apportion-
members.

SECTION 1. The legislature shall consist of the Senate and House of Representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the State, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety (90) legislative days; (b) and no new bill shall be introduced in either branch, except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty (20) days of such sessions, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor.*

SEC. 2. The number of members who compose the Senate and House of Representatives shall be prescribed by law, but the representatives in the Senate shall never exceed one member for every 5,000 inhabitants, and in the House of Representatives one member for every 2,000 inhabitants. The representation in both houses shall be apportioned equally throughout the different sections of the State, in proportion to the population thereof, exclusive of Indians not taxable under the provisions of law.

(a) Courts cannot control or interfere with an executive officer of the state in his official acts, even though they are such that the duty to perform them might have been entrusted to some other officer. 28 Minn. 50.

(b) Feb. 5, 1889, the judiciary committee of the House of Representatives unanimously reported, "that it was clearly the purpose of the legislature which proposed this amendment of the Constitution to the people, and plainly the intention of the people themselves, when voting for its adoption, to limit the sessions of the legislature to ninety days, excluding only Sundays and legal holidays." Also that twenty days' limitation of introduction of bills before adjournment only applied to the period of ninety days, and proportionately for a shorter session.

*Amendment adopted Nov. 6, 1888.

SEC. 3. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and eligibility of its own members; (a) a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to transact business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as it may provide.

Eligibility of members.

Quorum.

SEC. 4. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, sit upon its own adjournment, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member; but no member shall be expelled the second time for the same offense.

Rules of government.

SEC. 5. The House of Representatives shall elect its presiding officer and the Senate and House of Representatives shall elect such other officers as may be provided by law; they shall keep journals of their proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, and the yeas and nays, when taken on any question, shall be entered on such journals.

Officers.

Journal of proceedings.

SEC. 6. Neither house shall, during a session of the legislature, adjourn for more than three days (Sundays excepted), nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be assembled, without the consent of the other house.

Length of adjournments.

SEC. 7. The compensation of senators and representatives shall be three dollars per diem during the first session, but may afterwards be prescribed by law (b). But no increase of compensation shall be prescribed which shall take effect during the period for which the members of the existing House of Representatives may have been elected.

Compensation.

SEC. 8. The members of each house shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of their respective houses, and in going to or returning from the same. For any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Privileged from arrest.

SEC. 9. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he is elected, hold any office under the authority of the United States or the State of Minnesota, except that of postmaster, and no senator or representative shall hold an office under the state which has been created or the emoluments of which have been increased during the session of the legislature of which he was a member, until one year after the expiration of his term of office in the legislature. Bills of revenue to originate in House

Approval of bills by Governor.

Action on non-approval.

Governor may cut out items of appropriation bills and otherwise approve.

SEC. 10. All bills for raising a revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose and concur with amendments as on other bills.

SEC. 11. Every bill which shall have passed the Senate and House of Representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the State. If he approve, he shall sign and deposit it in the office of secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment within that time, prevents its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law.

[If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.]*

SEC. 12. No money shall be appropriated except by bill. Every order, resolution or vote requiring the concurrence of the two houses (except such as relate to the business or adjournment of the same) shall be presented to the governor for his signature, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being returned by him with his objections, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the members of the two houses, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in case of a bill.

Money appropriations, how made.

SEC. 13. The style of all laws of this State shall be: "Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota." No law shall be passed unless voted for by a majority of all the members elected to each branch of the legislature, and the vote entered upon the journal of each house.

Majority vote of all members elect to pass a law.

SEC. 14. The House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment, through a concurrence of a majority of all the members elected to seats therein. All impeachments shall be tried by the Senate; and when sitting for that purpose the senators shall be upon oath or affirmation to do justice according to law and evidence. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Impeachment powers.

SEC. 15. The legislature shall have full power to exclude from the privilege of electing or being elected any person convicted of bribery, perjury, or any other infamous crime.

Exclusion from civil rights.

SEC. 16. Two or more members of either house shall have liberty to dissent and protest against any act or resolution which they may think injurious to the public or to any individual, and have the reason of their dissent entered on the journal.

Protest and dissent of members.

SEC. 17. The governor shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies as may occur in either house of the legislature. The legislature shall prescribe by law the manner in which evidence in cases of contested seats in either house shall be taken.

Vacancies in legislature.

SEC. 18. Each house may punish by imprisonment, during its session, any person, not a member, who shall be guilty of any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in their presence. but no such imprisonment shall at any time exceed twenty-four hours.

Punish for disorderly conduct.

SEC. 19. Each house shall be open to the public during the sessions thereof, except in such cases as in their opinion may require secrecy.

Open sessions.

*This paragraph in brackets was adopted Nov. 7, 1876.

bills.

SEC. 20. Every bill shall be read on three different days in each separate house, unless, in case of urgency, two-thirds of the house where such bill is depending shall deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and no bill shall be passed by either house until it shall have been previously read twice at length. (a) of bills.

SEC. 21. Every bill having passed both houses shall be carefully enrolled, and shall be signed by the presiding officer of each house. Any presiding officer refusing to sign a bill which shall have previously passed both houses shall thereafter be incapable of holding a seat in either branch of the legislature, or hold any other office of honor or profit in the State, and in case of such refusal, each house shall, by rule, provide the manner in which such bill shall be properly certified for presentation to the governor.

day of
prohibited.

SEC. 22. No bill shall be passed by either house of the legislature upon the day prescribed for the adjournment of the two houses. But this section shall not be so construed as to preclude the enrollment of a bill, or the signature and passage from one house to the other, or the reports thereon from committees, or its transmission to the executive for his signature.

Census
enumeration.

SEC. 23. The legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of this State in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and every tenth year thereafter. At their first session after each enumeration so made, and also at their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe the bounds of congressional, senatorial and representative districts, and to apportion anew the senators and representatives among the several districts according to the provisions of section second of this article.

ment.

Senatorial
term of office of senators

SEC. 24. The senators shall also be chosen by single districts of convenient contiguous territory, at the same time that members of the house of representatives are required to be chosen, and in the same manner; and no representative district shall be divided in the formation of a senate district. The senate districts shall be numbered in a regular series. The terms of office of senators and representatives shall be the same as now prescribed by law until the general election of the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), at which time there shall be an entire new election of all the senators and representatives. Representatives chosen at such election, or at any election thereafter, shall hold their office for the term of two years, except it be to fill a vacancy; and the senators chosen at such election by districts designated as odd numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the second year, and senators chosen by districts designated by even numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the fourth year; and thereafter senators shall be chosen for four years, except there shall be an entire new election of all the senators at the election of representatives next succeeding each new apportionment provided for in this article.*

SEC. 25. Senators and representatives shall be qualified voters of the State, and shall have resided one year in the State and six months immediately preceding the election in the district from which they are elected.

legislators.

St. Paul, Aug. 11, 1892.

*Hon. F. P. Brown, Secretary of State,

Dear Sir: You inquire whether it will be necessary to give notice of election of state senators for odd numbered districts, at the coming general election.

Your inquiry is evidently based upon the language of section 24 of article 4 of the constitution of the State of Minnesota. (See sec. 24 above.)

The above is as section 24 reads since its amendment in 1877. It will be seen that by the terms of this section that representatives chosen at such election (being the general election of 1878), or at any election thereafter, shall hold their office for the term of two years; and the senators chosen at such election (being the general election of 1878), by districts designated as odd numbers were to hold their office for two years; and those chosen by even numbered districts, for the term of four years. And thereafter, that is, after such election (the election of 1878) senators shall be chosen for four years, except there shall be an entire new election of senators at the election of representatives next succeeding each new apportionment.

It is difficult to see how but one construction can be placed upon this language. There are but two limitations placed upon a four years' term of state senators; one is that those chosen by odd numbered districts, at the election of 1878, shall hold for two years; another is, that a new election after an apportionment may result in shortening by two years the terms of all senators; if the apportionment is made at the first session after the election of senators. The first is a positive limitation. The other is a possible limitation which may apply after the election; as to the election itself and the term for which they are to be elected, the language is too plain to admit of any question. After providing for the election of 1878, it is provided: "And thereafter senators shall be chosen for four years," except * * *

It may be urged that this section provided that as to the election of 1878, one-half should hold office for four years and one-half for two years; thus providing for one-half the Senate going out of office every two years, and that it was desirable that this order should be maintained. Whatever may be said as to the wisdom of such policy, we are obliged to interpret the law as we find it; for, where a law is plain and unambiguous, we must assume that that was intended which the words used clearly import.

I have the honor therefore to advise you that in my opinion all the senators elected in 1890 were elected for the term of four years. Very truly yours, fications hereinafter mentioned. All moneys derived from the sales of said lands shall be invested in the bonds of the United States, or of the State of Minnesota issued since 1860; and the moneys so invested shall constitute the Internal Improvement Land Fund of the State. All moneys received by the county treasurer under the provisions of title one (1), chapter thirty-eight (38), aforesaid, derived from the sale of internal improvement lands, shall be held at all times subject to the order and direction of the state treasurer, for the benefit of the fund to which it belongs; and on the fifteenth day of June in each year, and at such other times as he may be requested so to do by the state treasurer, he shall pay over to the said state treasurer all moneys received on account of such fund.

MOSES E. CLAPP,
Attorney General.

Investment
in bonds.

The bonds purchased in accordance with this amendment shall be transferable only upon the order of the governor, and on each bond shall be written "Minnesota Internal Improvement Land Fund of the State, transferable only on the order of the governor."

The principal sum from all sales of internal improvement lands shall not be reduced by any charges or costs of officers, by fees, or by any other means whatever; and section fifty (50), of title one (1), of chapter thirty-eight (38), of the General Statutes, shall not be applicable to the provisions of this amendment, and wherever the words "school lands" are used in said title, it shall read as applicable to this amendment, "Internal Improvement Lands."

SEC. 36. Any city or village in this State may frame a charter for its own government as a city consistent with and subject to the laws of this State, as follows: The legislature shall provide, under such restrictions as it deems proper, for a board of fifteen freeholders, who shall be and for the past five years shall have been qualified voters thereof, to be appointed by the district judges of the judicial district in which the city or village is situated, as the legislature may determine, for a term in no event to exceed six years, which board shall, within six months after its appointment, return to the chief magistrate of said city or village a draft of said charter, signed by the members of said board, or a majority thereof. Such charter shall be submitted to the qualified voters of such city or village at the next election thereafter, and if four-sevenths of the qualified voters voting at such election shall ratify the same it shall, at the end of thirty days thereafter, become the charter of such city or village as a city, and supersede any existing charter and amendments thereof; provided, that in cities having patrol limits now established, such charter shall require a three-fourths majority vote of the qualified voters voting at such election to change the patrol limits now established.

City or village may frame its own charter.

Charter to be submitted to voters.

Before any city shall incorporate under this act the legislature shall prescribe by law the general limits within which such charter shall be framed. Duplicate certificates shall be made setting forth the charter proposed and its ratification, which shall be signed by the chief magistrate of said city or village and authenticated by its corporate seal. One of said certificates shall be deposited in the office of secretary of state, and the other, after being recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county in which such city or village lies, shall be deposited among the archives of such city or village, and all courts shall take judicial notice thereof. Such charter so deposited may be amended by proposal therefor made by a board of fifteen commissioners aforesaid, published for at least thirty days in three newspapers of general circulation in such city or village, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city or village voting at the next election, and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the Constitution and laws of the State of Minnesota. The legislature may prescribe the duties of the commission relative to submitting amendments of charter to the vote of the people and shall provide that upon application of five per cent of the legal voters of any such city or village, by written petition, such commission shall submit to the vote of the people proposed amendments to such charter set forth in said petition. The board of freeholders above provided for shall be permanent, and all the vacancies by death, disability to

It shall be a feature of all such charters that there shall be provided, among other things, for a mayor or chief magistrate, and a legislative body of either one or two houses; if of two houses, at least one of them shall be elected by general vote of the electors.

Articles of amendment may be submitted separately.

In submitting any such charter or amendment thereto to the qualified voters of such city or village, any alternate section or article may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately without prejudice to other articles or sections of the charter or any amendments thereto.

General laws for cities by divisions of population.

The legislature may provide general laws relating to affairs of cities, the application of which may be limited to cities of over fifty thousand inhabitants, or to cities of fifty and not less than twenty thousand inhabitants, or to cities of twenty and not less than ten thousand inhabitants, or to cities of ten thousand inhabitants or less, which shall apply equally to all such cities of either class, and which shall be paramount while in force to the provisions relating to the same matter included in the local charter herein provided for. But no local charter, provision or ordinance passed thereunder shall supersede any general law of the State defining or punishing crimes or misdemeanors.*

SEC. 2. The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and two associate justices, but the number of the associate justices may be increased to a number not exceeding four, by the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, when it shall be deemed necessary. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the State, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified, and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had. lands.

All swamp lands now held by the State, or that may hereafter accrue to the State, shall be appraised and sold in the same manner and by the same officers, and the minimum price shall be the same less one-third ($\frac{1}{3}$), as is provided by law for the appraisement and sale of the school lands under the provisions of title one (1) of chapter thirty-eight (38) of the General Statutes. The principal of all funds derived from sales of swamp lands, as aforesaid, shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished. One-half ($\frac{1}{2}$) of the proceeds of said principal shall be appropriated to the common school fund of the State. The remaining one-half ($\frac{1}{2}$) shall be appropriated to the educational and charitable institutions of the State in the relative ratio of cost to support said institutions.†

SEC. 5. The permanent school funds of the State may be loaned upon interest at the rate of five (5) per cent per annum to the several counties or school districts of the State, to be used in the erection of county or school buildings. No such loan shall be made until approved by a board consisting of the governor, the state auditor and the state treasurer, who are hereby constituted an investment board for the purpose of the loans hereby authorized; nor shall any such loan be for an amount exceeding three (3) per cent of the last preceding assessed valuation of the real estate of the county or school district receiving the same. The state auditor shall annually, at the time of certifying the state tax to the several county auditors, also certify to each auditor to whose county, or to any of the school districts of whose county, any such loan shall have been made, the tax necessary to be levied to meet the accruing interest or principal of any such loan, and it shall be the duty of every such county auditor forthwith to levy and extend such tax upon all the taxable property of his county, or of the several school districts, respectively, liable for such loans—as the case may be—and in all such cases the tax so assessed shall be fifty (50) per cent in excess of the amount actually necessary to be raised on account of such accruing principal or interest. It shall be levied, collected and paid into the county and state treasuries in the same manner as state taxes, and any excess collected over the amount of such principal or interest accruing in any given year shall be credited to the general funds of the respective counties or school districts. No change of the boundaries of any school district after the making of any such loan shall operate to withdraw any property from the taxation herein provided for; nor shall any law be passed extending the time of payment of any such principal or interest, or reducing the rate of such interest, or in any manner waiving or impairing any rights of the State in connection taxation.

Municipal
pipes, etc.

SECTION 1. All taxes to be raised in this State shall be as nearly equal as may be, and all property on which taxes are to be levied shall have a cash valuation and be equalized and uniform throughout the State; provided, that the legislature may, by general law or special act, authorize municipal corporations to levy assessments for local improvements upon the property fronting upon such improvements, or upon the property to be benefited by such improvements, or both, without regard to a cash valuation, and in such manner as the legislature may prescribe. And, provided further, that for the purpose of defraying the expenses of laying water pipes and supplying any city or municipality with water, the legislature may, by general or special law, authorize any such city or municipality, having a population of five thousand (5,000) or more, to levy an annual tax or assessment upon the lineal foot of all lands fronting on any water main or water pipe laid by such city or municipality within corporate limits of said city for supplying water to the citizens thereof without regard to the cash value of such property, and to empower such city to collect any such tax, assessments or fines, or penalties for failure to pay the same, or any fine or penalty for any violation of the rules of such city or municipality in regard to the use of water, or for any water rate due for the same.* And, provided further, that there may be by law levied and collected a tax upon all inheritances, devises, bequests, legacies and gifts of every kind and description above a fixed and specified sum, of any and all natural persons and corporations. Such a tax above such exempted sum may be uniform, or it may be graded or progressive, but shall not exceed a maximum tax of five per cent.†

Tax on inheritances, etc.

SEC. 2. The legislature shall provide for an annual tax sufficient to defray the estimated ordinary expenses of the State for each year; and whenever it shall happen that such ordinary expenses of the State for any year shall exceed the income of the State for such year, the legislature shall provide for levying a tax for the ensuing year, sufficient with other sources of income to pay the deficiency of the preceding year, together with the estimated expenses of such ensuing year. [But no law levying a tax, or making other provisions for the payment of interest or principal of the bonds denominated "Minnesota State Railroad Bonds," shall take effect or be in force until such law shall have been submitted to a vote of the people of the State, and adopted by a majority of the electors of the State voting upon the same.]‡ (a)

State debt
contracted.

SEC. 5.* For the purpose of defraying extraordinary expenditures, the State may contract public debts, but such debts shall never, in the aggregate, exceed $250,000; every such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single object, to be distinctly specified therein; and no such law shall take effect until it shall have been passed by the vote of two-thirds of the members of each branch of the legislature, to be recorded by yeas and nays on the journals of each house respectively; and every such law shall levy a tax annually sufficient to pay the annual interest of such debt, and also a tax sufficient to pay the principal of such debt within ten years from the final passage of such law, and shall specially appropriate the proceeds of such taxes to the payment of such principal and interest; and such appropriation and taxes shall not be repealed, postponed or diminished, until the principal and interest of such debt shall have been wholly paid. The State shall never contract any debts for works of internal improvements, or be a party in carrying on such works, except in cases where grants of land or other property shall have been made to the State, especially dedicated by the grant to specific purposes, and in such case the State shall devote thereto the avails of such grants, and may pledge or appropriate the revenues derived from such works in aid of their completion.

created debt.

SEC. 6. All debts authorized by the preceding section shall be contracted by loan on State bonds of amounts not less than five hundred dollars each on interest, payable within ten years after the final passage of the law authorizing such debt; and such bonds shall not be sold by the State under par. A correct registry of all such bonds shall be kept by the treasurer, in numerical order, so as always to exhibit the number and amount unpaid, and to whom severally made payable.

Limitation
as to when
contracted.

SEC. 7. The State shall never contract any public debt, unless in time of war, to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, except in the cases and in the manner provided in the fifth and sixth sections of this article.

SEC. 8. The money arising from any loan made, or debt or liability contracted, shall be applied to the object specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or to the repayment of such debt or liability, and to no other purpose whatever.

*Amended April 14, 1858.

SEC. 9. No money shall ever be paid out of the treasury of this State except in pursuance of an appropriation by law.

Money drawn from the State treasury. Credit of the State prohibited.

SEC. 10. The credit of the State shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association or corporation. [Nor shall there be any further issue of bonds denominated "Minnesota State Railroad Bonds," under what purports to be an amendment to section ten (10) of article nine (9) of the Constitution, adopted April fifteenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-eight, which is hereby expunged from the Constitution, saving, excepting and reserving to the State, nevertheless, all rights, remedies, and forfeitures accruing under said amendment.]*

SEC. 11. There shall be published by the treasurer, in at least one newspaper printed at the seat of government, during the first week in January in each year, and in the next volume of the acts of legislature, detailed statements of all moneys drawn from the treasury during the preceding year, for what purpose and to whom paid, and by what law authorized; and also of all moneys received, and by what authority and from whom.

Publication of receipts and expenditures by treasurer.

SEC. 12.† Suitable laws shall be passed by the legislature for the safe-keeping, transfer and disbursements of the state and school funds; and all officers and other persons charged with the same or any part of the same, or the safe keeping thereof, shall be required to give ample security for all moneys and funds of any kind received by them; to make forthwith and keep an accurate entry of each sum received, and of each payment and transfer; and if any of said officers or other persons shall convert to his own use in any manner or form, or shall loan, with or without interest, or shall deposit in his own name, or otherwise than in the name of the State of Minnesota; or shall deposit in banks or with any person or persons, or exchange for other funds or property, any portion of the funds of the State or of the school funds aforesaid, except in the manner prescribed by law, every such act shall be and constitute an embezzlement of so much of the aforesaid State and school funds, or either of the same, as shall thus be taken, or loaned, or deposited or exchanged, and shall be a felony; and any failure to pay over, produce or account for the State school funds, or any part of the same entrusted to such officer or persons as by law required on demand, shall be held and be taken to be prima facie evidence of such embezzlement.

State school funds—investment—safe keeping.

All state funds to be deposited in name of State.

SEC. 13. The legislature may, by a two-thirds vote, pass a general banking law, with the following restrictions and requirements, viz:

General banking law—provisions and restrictions.

*The clause in brackets was adopted Nov. 6, 1860.

†Adopted Nov. 4, 1873

First—The legislature shall have no power to pass any law sanctioning in any manner, directly or indirectly, the suspension of specie payments by any person, association or corporation issuing bank notes of any description.

Second—The legislature shall provide by law for the registry of all bills or notes issued or put in circulation as money, and shall require ample security in United States stock or State stocks for the redemption of the same in specie; and in case of a depreciation of said stocks, or any part thereof, to the amount of ten per cent or more on the dollar, the bank or banks owning said stocks shall be required to make up said deficiency by additional stocks.

Third—The stockholders in any corporation and joint association for banking purposes, issuing bank notes, shall be individually liable in an amount equal to double the amount of stock owned by them for all the debts of such corporation or association; and such individual liability shall continue for one year after any transfer or sale of stock by any stockholder or stockholders.

Fourth—In case of the insolvency of any bank or banking association, the bill holders thereof shall be entitled to preference in payment over all other creditors of such bank or association.

Fifth—Any general banking law which may be passed in accordance with this article shall provide for recording the names of all stockholders in such corporation, the amount of stock held by each, the time of transfer, and to whom transferred.

Special provision for a loan for hospital building for insane.

SEC. 14. (a)* For the purpose of erecting and completing buildings for a hospital for the insane, a deaf, dumb and blind asylum, the state prison, the legislature may by law increase the public debt of the State to an amount not exceeding $250,000, in addition to the public debt already heretofore authorized by the Constitution; and for that purpose may provide by law for issuing and negotiating the bonds of the State, and appropriate the money only for the purpose aforesaid; which bonds shall be payable in not less than ten nor more than thirty years from the date of the same, at the option of the State.

Superseded by section 15 but not repealed in express terms.

SEC. 14. (b) The legislature shall not authorize any county, township, city, or other municipal corporation to issue bonds or to become indebted in any manner to aid in the construction or equipment of any or all railroads to any amount that shall exceed ten per centum of the value of the taxable property within such county, township, city, or other municipal corporation; the amount of such taxable property to be ascertained and determined by the last assessment of said property made for the purpose of state and county taxation previous to the incurring of such indebtedness, Nov. 5, 1872.

SEC. 15.* The legislature shall not authorize any county, township, city, or other municipal corporation to issue bonds, or to become indebted in any manner, to aid in the construction or equipment of any or all railroads to any amount that shall exceed five (5) per centum of the value of the taxable property within such county, township, city, or other municipal corporation. The amount of such taxable property to be ascertained and determined by the last assessment of said property made for the purpose of state and county taxation, previous to the incurring of such indebtedness.

County, city or township aid to railroads limited.

SEC. 16. For the purpose of lending aid in the construction and improvement of public highways and bridges, there is hereby created a fund to be known as the "State Road and Bridge Fund." Said fund shall include all moneys accruing from the income derived from investments in the internal improvement land fund, or that may hereafter accrue to said fund, and shall also include all funds accruing to any state road and bridge fund, however provided.

State road and bridge fund.

The legislature is authorized to add to such fund for the purpose of constructing or improving roads and bridges of this State, by providing, in its discretion, for an annual tax levy upon the property of this State of not to exceed in any year one-twentieth (1-20) of one (1) mill on all the taxable property within the State.

Legislature may levy tax to aid road and bridge fund.

The legislature is also authorized to provide for the appointment, by the governor of the State, of a board to be known as the "State Highway Commission," consisting of three (3) members, who shall perform such duties as shall be prescribed by law without salary or compensation other than personal expenses.

Providing for state highway commission.

Such commission shall have general superintendence of the construction of State roads and bridges and shall use such fund in the construction thereof and distribute the same in the several counties in the State upon an equitable basis. Provided further, that no county shall receive in any year more than three (3) per cent or less than one-half ($\frac{1}{2}$) of one (1) per cent of the total fund thus provided and expended during such year; and, provided further, that no more than one-third ($\frac{1}{3}$) of such fund accruing in any year shall be expended for bridges, and in no case shall more than one-third ($\frac{1}{3}$) of the cost of construct-

COUNTIES AND TOWNSHIPS.

County organization.

SECTION 1. The legislature may from time to time establish and organize (a) new counties; but no new county shall contain less than four hundred square miles; nor shall any county be reduced below that amount; and all laws changing county lines in counties already organized, or for removing county seats, shall, before taking effect, be submitted to the electors of the county or counties to be affected thereby, at the next general election after the passage thereof, and be adopted by a majority of such electors. Counties now established may be enlarged, but not reduced below four hundred (400) square miles.

ARTICLE XIII.

IMPEACHMENT AND REMOVAL FROM OFFICE.

SECTION 1. The governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, and the judges of the supreme and district courts, may be impeached for corrupt conduct in office, or for crimes and misdemeanors; but judgment in such case shall not extend further than to removal from office and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit in this State. The party convicted thereof shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

Impeach-
removal

If two or more alterations or amendments shall be submitted at the same time, it shall be so regulated that the voters shall vote for or against each separately.

constitution.

SEC. 2. Whenever two-thirds of the members elected to each branch of the legislature shall think it necessary to call a convention to revise this Constitution, they shall recommend to the electors to vote at the next general election for members of the legislature, for or against a convention; and if a majority of all the electors voting at said election shall have voted for a convention, the legislature shall, at their next session, provide by law for calling the same. The convention shall consist of as many members as the House of Representatives, who shall be chosen in the same manner, and shall meet within three months after their election for the purpose aforesaid.

ARTICLE XV.

MISCELLANEOUS SUBJECTS.

government.

SECTION 1. The seat of government of the State shall be at the city of St. Paul, but the legislature, at their first or any future session, may provide by law for a change of the seat of government by a vote of the people, or may locate the same upon the land granted by Congress for a seat of government to the State; and in the event of the seat of government being removed from the city of St. Paul to any other place in the State, the capitol building and grounds shall be dedicated to an institution for the promotion of science, literature and the arts, to be organized by the legislature of the State, and of which institution the Minnesota Historical Society shall always be a department.

Indian lands.

SEC. 2. Persons residing on Indian lands within the State shall enjoy all the rights and privileges of citizens, as though they lived in any other portion of the State, and shall be subject to taxation.

Uniform
elections.

SEC. 3. The legislature shall provide for a uniform oath or affirmation to be administered at elections, and no person shall be compelled to take any other or different form of oath to entitle him to vote.

State seal.

SEC. 4. There shall be a seal of the State, which shall be kept by the secretary of state, and be used by him officially, and shall be called the great seal of the State of Minnesota, and shall be attached to all the official acts of the governor (his signature to acts and resolves of the legislature excepted) requiring authentication. The legislature shall provide for an appropriate device and motto for said seal.

SEC. 5. The territorial prison, as located under existing laws, shall, after the adoption of this Constitution, be and remain one of the state prisons of the State of Minnesota.

State prison location.

SCHEDULE.

SECTION 1. That no inconvenience may arise by reason of a change from a territorial to a permanent state of government, it is declared that all rights, actions, prosecutions, judgments, claims and contracts, as well of individuals as of bodies corporate, shall continue as if no change had taken place; and all process which may be issued under the authority of the Territory of Minnesota previous to its admission into the Union of the United States shall be as valid as if issued in the name of the State.

Territorial laws valid in change to State organization.

SEC. 2. All laws now in force in the Territory of Minnesota not repugnant to this Constitution shall remain in force until they expire by their own limitation, or be altered or repealed by the legislature.

Territorial laws not repugnant to constitution to be in force.

SEC. 3. All fines, penalties or forfeitures accruing to the Territory of Minnesota shall inure to the State.

SEC. 4. All recognizances heretofore taken, or which may be taken before the change from a territorial to a permanent state government shall remain valid, and shall pass to and may be prosecuted in the name of the State; and all bonds executed to the governor of the Territory, or to any other officer or court in his or their official capacity, shall pass to the governor or state authority and their successors in office, for the uses therein respectively expressed, and may be sued for and recovered accordingly; and all the estate of property, real, personal or mixed, and all judgments, bonds, specialties, choses in action, and claims and debts, of whatsoever description, of the Territory of Minnesota, shall inure to and vest in the State of Minnesota, and may be sued for and recovered in the same manner and to the same extent by the State of Minnesota as the same could have been by the Territory of Minnesota. All criminal prosecutions and penal actions which may have arisen, or which may arise before the change from a territorial to a state government, and which shall then be pending, shall be prosecuted to judgment and execution in the name of the State. All offenses committed against the laws of the Territory of Minnesota, before the change from a territorial to a state government, and which shall not be prosecuted before such change, may be prosecuted in the name and by the authority of the State of Minnesota with like effect as though such change had not taken place, and all penalties incurred shall remain the same as if this Constitution had not been adopted. All actions at law and suits in equity which may be pending in any of the courts of the Territory of Minnesota, at the time of a change from a territorial to a state government, may be continued and transferred to any court of the State which shall have jurisdiction of the subject matter thereof.

superseded.

SEC. 5. All territorial officers, civil or military, now holding their offices under the authority of the United States, or of the Territory of Minnesota shall continue to hold and exercise their respective offices until they shall be superseded by the authority of the State.

First session
legislature.

SEC. 6. The first session of the legislature of the State of Minnesota shall commence on the first Wednesday of December next, and shall be held at the capitol, in the city of St. Paul.

SEC. 7. The laws regulating the election and qualification of all district, county and precinct officers shall continue and be in force until the legislature shall otherwise provide by law.

Constitution
people.

SEC. 8. The president of this convention shall, immediately after the adjournment thereof, cause this Constitution to be deposited in the office of the governor of the Territory; and if, after the submission of the same to a vote of the people, as hereinafter provided, it shall appear that it has been adopted by a vote of the people of the State, then the governor shall forward a certified copy of the same, together with an abstract of the votes polled for and against the said Constitution, to the president of the United States, to be by him laid before the Congress of the United States.

congress.

SEC. 9. For the purposes of the first election, the State shall constitute one district, and shall elect three members to the House of Representatives of the United States.

First apportionment

SEC. 10. For the purposes of the first election for members of the State Senate and House of Representatives, the State shall be divided into senatorial and representative districts, as follows, viz: First district, Washington county; Second district, Ramsey county; Third district, Dakota county; Fourth district, so much of Hennepin county as lies west of the Mississippi; Fifth district, Rice county; Sixth district, Goodhue county; Seventh district, Scott county; Eighth district, Olmsted county; Ninth district, Fillmore county; Tenth district, Houston county; Eleventh district, Winona county; Twelfth district, Wabasha county; Thirteenth district, Mower and Dodge counties; Fourteenth district, Freeborn and Faribault counties; Fifteenth district, Steele and Waseca counties; Sixteenth district, Blue Earth and Le Sueur counties; Seventeenth district, Nicollet and Brown counties; Eighteenth district, Sibley, Renville and McLeod counties; Nineteenth district, Carver and Wright counties; Twentieth district, Benton, Stearns and Meeker counties; Twenty-first district, Morrison, Crow Wing and Mille Lacs counties; Twenty-second district, Cass, Pembina and Todd counties; Twenty-third district, so much of Hennepin county as lies east of the Mississippi; Twenty-fourth district, Sherburne, Anoka and Manomin counties; Twenty-fifth district, Chisago, Pine and Isanti counties; Twenty-sixth district, Buchanan, Carlton, St. Louis, Lake and Itasca counties.

SEC. 11. The counties of Brown, Stearns, Todd, Cass, Pembina and Renville, as applied in the preceding section, shall not be deemed to include any territory west of the State line, but shall be deemed to include all counties and parts of counties east of said line as were created out of the territory of either, at the last session of the legislature.

SEC. 12. The senators and representatives at the first election shall be apportioned among the several senatorial and representative districts as follows, to wit:

Judicial districts.

SEC. 13. The returns from the Twenty-second district shall be made to and canvassed by the judges of election at the precinct of Otter Tail City.

SEC. 14. Until the legislature shall otherwise provide, the State shall be divided into judicial districts as follows, viz:

The counties of Washington, Chisago, Manomin, Anoka, Isanti, Pine, Buchanan, Carlton, St. Louis and Lake shall constitute the First judicial district.

The county of Ramsey shall constitute the Second judicial district.

The counties of Houston, Winona, Fillmore, Olmsted and Wabasha shall constitute the Third judicial district.

The counties of Hennepin, Carver, Wright, Meeker, Sherburne, Benton, Stearns, Morrison, Crow Wing, Mille Lacs, Itasca, Pembina, Todd and Cass shall constitute the Fourth judicial district.

The counties of Dakota, Goodhue, Scott, Rice, Steele, Waseca, Dodge, Mower and Freeborn shall constitute the Fifth judicial district.

The counties of Le Sueur, Sibley, Nicollet, Blue Earth, Faribault, McLeod, Renville, Brown, and all other counties in the State not included within the other districts, shall constitute the Sixth judicial district.

SEC. 15. Each of the foregoing enumerated judicial districts may, at the first election, elect one prosecuting attorney for the district.

First State election.

SEC. 16. Upon the second Tuesday, the thirteenth day of October, 1857, an election shall be held for members of the House of Representatives of the United States, governor, lieutenant governor, supreme and district judges, members of the legislature, and all other officers designated in this Constitution, and also for the submission of this Constitution to the people, for their adoption or rejection.

Voters at the first election.

SEC. 17. Upon the day so designated as aforesaid every free white male inhabitant over the age of twenty-one years, who shall have resided within the limits of the State for ten days previous to the day of said election, may vote for all officers to be elected under this Constitution at such election, and also for or against the adoption of this Constitution.

Vote on the constitution.

SEC. 18. In voting for or against the adoption of this Constitution, the words, "For Constitution," or "Against Constitution," may be written or printed on the ticket of each voter, but no voter shall vote for or against this Constitution, on a separate ballot from that cast by him for officers to be elected at said election under this Constitution; and if upon the canvass of the vote so polled it shall appear that there was a greater number of votes polled for than against said Constitution, then this Constitution shall be deemed to be adopted as the Constitution of the State of Minnesota, and all the provisions and obligations of this Constitution, and of the schedule thereunto attached, shall thereafter be valid to all intents and purposes as the Constitution of said State.

SEC. 19. At said election the polls shall be opened, the election held, returns made, and certificates issued, in all respects as provided by law for opening, closing and conducting elections and making returns of the same, except as hereinbefore specified, and excepting also that polls may be opened and elections held at any point or points in any of the counties where precincts may be established as provided by law, ten days previous to the day of election, not less than ten miles from the place of voting in any established precinct.

Election—
conducted.

SEC. 20. It shall be the duty of the judges and clerks of election, in addition to the returns required by law for each precinct, to forward to the secretary of the Territory, by mail, immediately after the close of the election, a certified copy of the poll book containing the name of each person who has voted in the precinct and the number of votes polled for and against the adoption of this Constitution.

SEC. 21. The returns of said election for and against this Constitution, and for all state officers and members of the House of Representatives of the United States, shall be made, and certificates issued in the manner now prescribed by law for returning votes given for delegates to Congress; and the returns for all district officers, judicial, legislative or otherwise, shall be made to the register of deeds of the senior county in each district, in the manner prescribed by law, except as otherwise provided. The returns for all officers elected at large shall be canvassed by the governor of the Territory, assisted by Joseph R. Brown and Thomas J. Galbraith, at the time designated by law for canvassing the vote for delegates to Congress.

returns.

SEC. 22. If, upon canvassing the votes for and against the adoption of this Constitution, it shall appear that there has been polled a greater number of votes against than for it, then no certificate of election shall be issued for any State or district officer provided for in this Constitution, and no State organization shall have validity within the limits of the Territory, until otherwise provided for and until a Constitution for a State government shall have been adopted by the people.

ACT OF ADMISSION INTO THE UNION.

An Act for the admission of Minnesota into the Union.

[Passed May 11, 1858.]

WHEREAS, An act of Congress was passed February twenty-sixth, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government preparatory to their admission into the Union on an equal footing with the original states;" and, whereas, the people of said Territory did, on the twenty-ninth day of August, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, by delegates elected for that purpose, form for themselves a constitution and state government, which is republican in form, and was ratified and adopted by the people at an election held on the thirteenth day of October, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, for that purpose; therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the State of Minnesota shall be one, and is hereby declared to be one, of the United States of America, and admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states in all respects whatever.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That said State shall be entitled to two representatives in Congress, until the next apportionment of representatives among the several states.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That from and after the admission of the State of Minnesota, as hereinbefore provided, all the laws of the United States which are not locally inapplicable shall have the same force and effect within that State as in other States of the Union; and the said State is hereby constituted a judicial district of the United States, within which a district court, with like powers and jurisdiction as the district court of the United States for the district of Iowa, shall be established; the judge, attorney and marshal of the United States of the said district of Minnesota shall reside within the same, and shall be entitled to the same compensation as the judge, attorney and marshal of the district of Iowa; and in all cases of appeal or writ of error heretofore prosecuted and now pending in the supreme court of the United States, upon any record from the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, the mandate of execution or order of further proceedings shall be directed by the supreme court of the United States to the district court of the United States for the district of Minnesota, or to the supreme court of the State of Minnesota, as the nature of such appeal or writ of error may require; and each of those courts shall be the successor of the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, as to all such cases, with full power to hear and determine the same, and to award mesne or final process therein.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

THE UNANIMOUS DECLARATION OF THE THIRTEEN UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable and distant from the repository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time after such dissolutions to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large, for their exercise, the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our government:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind—enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in general congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE and INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as FREE and INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of DIVINE PROVIDENCE, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

THE ARTICLES OF CONFEDERATION.

IN CONGRESS, JULY 9, 1778.

Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union between the States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

ARTICLE 1. The style of this confederacy shall be "THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA."

ART. 2. Each state retains its sovereignty, freedom, and independence, and every power, jurisdiction, and right, which is not by this confederation expressly delegated to the United States in Congress assembled.

ART. 3. The said states hereby severally enter into a firm league of friendship with each other for their common defense, the security of their liberties, and their mutual and general welfare, binding themselves to assist each other against all force offered to or attacks made upon them, or any of them, on account of religion, sovereignty, trade, or any other pretense whatever.

ART. 4. § 1. The better to secure and perpetuate mutual friendship and intercourse among the people of the different states in this Union, the free inhabitants of each of these states (paupers, vagabonds, and fugitives from justice excepted) shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of free citizens in the several states, and the people of each state shall have free ingress and egress to and from any other state, and shall enjoy therein all the privileges of trade and commerce, subject to the same duties, impositions and restrictions as the inhabitants thereof respectively; provided, that such restrictions shall not extend so far as to prevent the removal of property imported into any state, to any other state, of which the owner is an inhabitant; provided, also, that no imposition, duties, or restriction shall be laid by any state on the property of the United States, or either of them.

§ 2. If any person guilty of, or charged with, treason, felony, or other high misdemeanor, in any state, shall flee from justice, and be found in any of the United States, he shall, upon the demand of the governor or executive power of the state from which he fled, be delivered up and removed to the state having jurisdiction of his offense.

§ 3. Full faith and credit shall be given in each of these states to the records, acts and judicial proceedings of the courts and magistrates of every other state.

ART. 5. § 1. For the more convenient management of the general interests of the United States, delegates shall be annually appointed in such manner as the legislature of each state shall direct, to meet in congress on the first Monday in November, of every year, with a power reserved to each state to recall its delegates, or any of them, at any time within the year, and to send others in their stead, for the remainder of the year.

§ 2. No state shall be represented in congress by less than two, nor more than seven, members; and no person shall be capable of being a delegate for more than three years, in any term of six years; nor shall any person, being a delegate, be capable of holding any office under the United States, for which he, or any other for his benefit, receives any salary, fees, or emolument of any kind.

§ 3. Each state shall maintain its own delegates in a meeting of the states, and while they act as members of the committee of these states.

§ 4. In determining questions in the United States in congress assembled, each state shall have one vote.

§ 5. Freedom of speech and debate in congress shall not be impeached or questioned in any court or place out of congress, and the members of congress shall be protected in their persons from arrests and imprisonments during the time of their going to and from, and attendance on, congress, except for treason, felony, or breach of the peace.

ART. 6. § 1. No state, without the consent of the United States in congress assembled, shall send any embassy to, or receive any embassy from, or enter into any conference, agreement, alliance or treaty with, any king, prince, or state; nor shall any person holding any office of profit or trust under the United States, or any of them, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state; nor shall the United States in congress assembled, or any of them, grant any title of nobility.

§ 2. No two or more states shall enter into any treaty, confederation, or alliance whatever, between them, without the consent of the United States in congress assembled, specifying accurately the purposes for which the same is to be entered into, and how long it shall continue.

§ 3. No state shall lay any imposts or duties which may interfere with any stipulations in treaties entered into by the United States, in congress assembled, with any king, prince, or state, in pursuance of any treaties already proposed by congress to the courts of France and Spain.

§ 4. No vessels of war shall be kept up in time of peace by any state, except such number only as shall be deemed necessary by the United States in congress assembled, for the defense of such state, or its trade; nor shall any body or forces be kept up by any state, in time of peace, except such number only as, in the judgment of the United States in congress assembled, shall be deemed requisite to garrison the forts necessary for the defense of such state; but every state shall always keep up a well regulated and disciplined militia, sufficiently armed and accoutered, and shall provide and constantly have ready for use, in public stores, a due number of field pieces and tents, and a proper quantity of arms, ammunition and camp equipage.

§ 5. No state shall engage in any war without the consent of the United States in congress assembled, unless such state be actually invaded by enemies, or shall have received certain advice of a resolution being formed by some nation of Indians to invade such state, and the danger is so imminent as not to admit of delay till the United States in congress assembled can be consulted; nor shall any state grant commissions to any ships or vessels of war, nor letters of marque or reprisal, except it be after a declaration of war by the United States in congress assembled, and then only against the kingdom or state, and the subjects thereof, against which war has been so declared, and under such regulations as shall be established by the United States in congress assembled, unless such state be infested by pirates, in which case vessels of war may be fitted out for that occasion, and kept so long as the danger shall continue, or until the United States in congress assembled shall determine otherwise.

ART. 7. When land forces are raised by any state for the common defense, all officers of or under the rank of colonel shall be appointed by the legislature of each state, respectively, by whom such forces shall be raised, or in such manner as such state shall direct, and all vacancies shall be filled up by the state which first made the appointment.

ART. 8. All charges of war, and all other expenses that shall be incurred for the common defense or general welfare, and allowed by the United States in congress assembled, shall be defrayed out of a common treasury, which shall be supplied by the several states, in proportion to the value of all land within each state, granted to or surveyed for any person, as such land and the buildings and improvements thereon shall be estimated, according to such mode as the United States in congress assembled shall, from time to time, direct and appoint. The taxes for paying that proportion shall be laid and levied by the authority and direction of the legislatures of the several states within the time agreed upon by the United States in congress assembled.

ART. 9. § 1. The United States in congress assembled shall have the sole and exclusive right and power of determining on peace and war, except in the cases mentioned in the sixth article; of sending and receiving ambassadors, entering into treaties and alliances; provided, that no treaty of commerce shall be made whereby the legislative power of the respective states shall be restrained from imposing such imposts and duties on foreigners as their own people are subjected to, or from prohibiting the exportation or importation of any species of goods or commodities whatsoever; of establishing rules for deciding in all cases what captures on land or water shall be legal, and in what manner prizes taken by land or naval forces in the service of the United States shall be divided or appropriated; of granting letters of marque and reprisal in times of peace; appointing courts for the trial of piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and establishing courts for receiving and determining finally appeals in all cases of captures; provided, that no member of congress shall be appointed a judge of any of the said courts.

§ 2. The United States in congress assembled shall also be the last resort on appeal in all disputes and differences now subsisting, or that may hereafter arise, between two or more states concerning boundary, jurisdiction, or any other cause whatever; which authority shall always be exercised in the manner following: Whenever the legislative or executive authority or lawful agent of any state in controversy with another shall present a petition to congress, stating the matter in question, and praying for a hearing, notice thereof shall be given by order of congress to the legislative or executive authority of the other state in controversy, and a day assigned for the appearance of the parties by their lawful agents, who shall then be directed to appoint, by joint consent, commissioners or judges to constitute a court for hearing and determining the matter in question; but if they cannot agree, congress shall name three persons out of each of the United States, and from the list of such persons each party shall alternately strike out one, the petitioners beginning, until the number shall be reduced to thirteen; and from that number not less than seven nor more than nine names, as congress shall direct, shall, in the presence of congress, be drawn out by lot; the persons whose names shall be so drawn, or any five of them, shall be commissioners or judges to hear and finally determine the controversy, so always as a major part of the judges who shall hear the cause shall agree in the determination; and if either party shall neglect to attend at the day appointed, without showing reasons which congress shall judge sufficient, or being present shall refuse to strike, the congress shall proceed to nominate three persons out of each state, and the secretary of congress shall strike in behalf of such party absent or refusing; and the judgment and sentence of the court, to be appointed in the manner before prescribed, shall be final and conclusive; and if any of the parties shall refuse to submit to the authority of such court, or to appear to defend their claim or cause, the court shall nevertheless proceed to pronounce sentence or judgment, which shall in like manner be final and decisive; the judgment or sentence and other proceedings being in either case transmitted to congress and lodged among the acts of congress, for the security of the parties concerned; provided, that every commissioner, before he sits in judgment, shall take an oath, to be administered by one of the judges of the supreme or superior court of the state where the cause shall be tried, "well and truly to hear and determine the matter in question, according to the best of his judgment, without favor, affection, or hope of reward;" provided, also, that no state shall be deprived of territory for the benefit of the United States.

§ 3. All controversies concerning the private right of soil claimed under different grants of two or more states, whose jurisdiction, as they may respect such lands, and the states which passed such grants are adjusted, the said grants or either of them being at the same time claimed to have originated antecedent to such settlement of jurisdiction, shall, on the petition of either party to the congress of the United States, be finally determined, as near as may be, in the same manner as is before prescribed for deciding disputes respecting territorial jurisdiction between different states.

§ 4. The United States in congress assembled shall also have the sole and exclusive right and power of regulating the alloy and value of coin struck by their own authority, or by that of the respective states; fixing the standard of weights and measures, throughout the United States; regulating the trade and managing all affairs with the Indians, not members of any of the states; provided, that the legislative right of any state, within its own limits, be not infringed or violated; establishing and regulating postoffices from one state to another, throughout all the United States, and exacting such postage on the papers passing through the same as may be requisite to defray the expenses of the said office; appointing all officers of the land forces in the service of the United States, excepting regimental officers; appointing all the officers of the naval forces, and commissioning all officers whatever in the service of the United States; making rules for the government and regulation of the said land and naval forces, and directing their operations.

§ 5. The United States in congress assembled shall have authority to appoint a committee, to sit in the recess of congress, to be denominated "A Committee of the States," and to consist of one delegate from each state; and to appoint such other committees and civil officers as may be necessary for managing the general affairs of the United States under their direction; to appoint one of their number to preside; provided, that no person be allowed to serve in the office of president more than one year in any term of three years; to ascertain the necessary sums of money to be raised for the service of the United States, and to appropriate and apply the same for defraying the public expenses; to borrow money or emit bills on the credit of the United States, transmitting every half year to the respective states an account of the sums of money so borrowed or emitted; to build and equip a navy; to agree upon the number of land forces, and to make requisitions from each state for its quota, in proportion to the number of white inhabitants in such state, which requisition shall be binding; and thereupon the legislature of each state shall appoint the regimental officers, raise the men, and clothe, arm and equip them, in a soldier-like manner, at the expense of the United States; and the officers and men so clothed, armed, and equipped shall march to the place appointed, and within the time agreed on by the United States in congress assembled; but if the United States in congress assembled shall, on consideration of circumstances, judge proper that any state should not raise men, or should raise a smaller number than its quota, and that any other state should raise a greater number of men than the quota thereof, such extra number shall be raised, officered, clothed, armed and equipped in the same manner as the quota of such state, unless the legislature of such state shall judge that such extra number cannot be safely spared, out of the same, in which case they shall raise, officer, clothe, arm and equip as many of such extra number as they judge can be safely spared, and the officers and men so clothed, armed, and equipped shall march to the place appointed, and within the time agreed on by the United States in congress assembled.

§ 6. The United States in congress assembled shall never engage in a war, nor grant letters of marque and reprisal in time of peace, nor enter into any treaties or alliances, nor coin money, nor regulate the value thereof, nor ascertain the sums and expenses necessary for the defense and welfare of the United States, or any of them, nor emit bills, nor borrow money on the credit of the United States, nor appropriate money, nor agree upon the number of vessels of war to be built or purchased, or the number of land or sea forces to be raised, nor appoint a commander-in-chief of the army or navy, unless nine states assent to the same; nor shall a question on any other point, except for adjourning from day to day, be determined, unless by the votes of a majority of the United States in congress assembled.

§ 7. The congress of the United States shall have power to adjourn to any time within the year, and to any place within the United States, so that no period of adjournment be for a longer duration than the space of six months, and shall publish the journal of their proceedings monthly, except such parts thereof relating to treaties, alliances, or military operations as in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the delegates of each state, on any question, shall be entered on the journal, when it is desired by any delegate; and the delegates of a state, or any of them, at his or their request, shall be furnished with a transcript of the said journal, except such parts as are above excepted, to lay before the legislatures of the several states.

ART. 10. The committee of the states, or any nine of them, shall be authorized to execute, in the recess of congress, such of the powers of congress as the United States in congress assembled, by the consent of nine states, shall, from time to time, think expedient to vest them with; provided, that no power be delegated to the said committee, for the exercise of which, by the articles of confederation, the voice of nine states, in the congress of the United States assembled, is requisite.

ART. 11. Canada acceding to this confederation, and joining in the measures of the United States, shall be admitted into and entitled to all the advantages of this Union; but no other colony shall be admitted into the same, unless such admission be agreed to by nine states.

ART. 12. All bills of credit emitted, moneys borrowed, and debts contracted by or under the authority of congress, before the assembling of the United States, in pursuance of the present confederation, shall be deemed and considered as a charge against the United States, for payment and satisfaction whereof the said United States and the public faith are hereby solemnly pledged.

ART. 13. Every state shall abide by the determination of the United States in congress assembled, on all questions which by this confederation are submitted to them. And the articles of this confederation shall be inviolably observed by every state, and the Union shall be perpetual; nor shall any alteration at any time hereafter be made in any of them, unless such alteration be agreed to in a congress of the United States, and be afterward confirmed by the legislature of every state.

And whereas, it has pleased the great Governor of the world to incline the hearts of the legislatures we respectively represent in congress to approve of and to authorize us to ratify the said articles of confederation and perpetual union, Know ye, that we, the undersigned delegates, by virtue of the power and authority to us given for that purpose, do by these presents, in the name and in behalf of our respective constituents, fully and entirely ratify and confirm each and every of the said articles of confederation and perpetual union, and all and singular the matters and things therein contained. And we do further solemnly plight and engage the faith of our respective constituents, that they shall abide by the determinations of the United States in congress assembled, on all questions which by the said confederation are submitted to them; and that the articles thereof shall be inviolably observed by the states we respectively represent, and that the Union shall be perpetual. In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands in congress.

Done at Philadelphia, in the State of Pennsylvania, the ninth day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-eight, and in the third year of the Independence of America.

OF

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Preamble. We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and a house of representatives.

SEC. 2. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states; and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every 30,000, but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose 3; Massachusetts, 8; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, 1; Connecticut, 5; New York, 6; New Jersey, 4;

Pennsylvania, 8; Delaware, 1; Maryland, 6; Virginia, 10; North Carolina, 5; South Carolina, 5; and Georgia, 3.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SEC. 3. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, chosen by the legislature thereof for six years; and each senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided, as equally as may be, into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year; so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The vice president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

The senate shall choose their own officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments.

When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

SEC. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meetings shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall, by law, appoint a different day.

SEC. 5. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same; excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SEC. 6. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SEC. 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives, but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the president of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and, if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of ad-jourment) shall be presented to the president of the United States, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SEC. 8. The Congress shall have power:

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes;

To establish an uniform rule of naturalization and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

To coin money, regulate the value thereof and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

To establish postoffices and post roads;

To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times, to authors and inventors, the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;

To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court;

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the laws of nations;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

To raise and support armies; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

To provide and maintain a navy;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;

To provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the states, respectively, the appointment of the officers and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress;

To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States; and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock yards, and other needful buildings; and

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SEC. 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight; but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder, or ex post facto law, shall be passed.

No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state. No preference shall be given, by any regulation of commerce or revenue, to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one state be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States, and no person holding any office of profit and trust under them shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign state.

SEC. 10. No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any state on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION 1. The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice president, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the Congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

[The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates; and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the president, if such a number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose, by ballot, one of them for president; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said house shall, in like manner, choose the president. But in choosing the president the vote shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the vice president.]*

The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president; and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the president and vice president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed, or a president shall be elected.

*The portion in brackets has been superseded by the 12th amendment.

The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

SEC. 2. The president shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur, and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the Congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The president shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SEC. 3. He shall, from time to time, give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers. He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

SEC. 4. The president, vice president, and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION 1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may, from time to time, ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SEC. 2. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more states, between a state and citizens of another state, between citizens of different states, between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state or the citizens thereof and foreign states, citizens, or subjects.*

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

SEC. 3. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attained.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other state. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SEC. 2. The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.

A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

No person held to service or labor in one state under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

*Sec the 11th amendment.

SEC. 3. New states may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state, nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states or parts of states, without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned, as well as of the Congress.

The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States, and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States or of any particular state.

SEC. 4. The United States shall guarantee to every state in the Union a republican form of government; and shall protect each of them against invasion, and, on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress; provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

All debts contracted and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution, as under the confederation.

This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land, and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the conventions of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

ARTICLES.

In addition to, and amendment of, the Constitution of the United States of America, proposed by Congress and ratified by the Legislatures of the several states, pursuant to the fifth article of the original Constitution.

ARTICLE I.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, or to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

ARTICLE II.

A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III.

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war and public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be witness against himself; nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI.

In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

ARTICLE VII.

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court in the United States than according to the rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII.

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishment inflicted.

ARTICLE IX.

The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

ARTICLE X.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states, respectively, or to the people.

ARTICLE XI.

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another state, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.

ARTICLE XII.

The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for president and vice president, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as president, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as vice president; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as president and of all persons voted for as vice president, and of the number of votes for each; which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate; the president of the senate shall, in presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for president shall be the president; if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three, on the list of those voted for as president, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the president. But in choosing the president the vote shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states; and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the house of representatives shall not choose a president whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the vice president shall act as president, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the president.

The person having the greatest number of votes as vice president shall be the vice president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have a majority, then, from the two highest numbers on the list, the senate shall choose the vice president; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice.

But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of president shall be eligible to that of vice president of the United States.

ARTICLE XIII.

SECTION 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

SEC. 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

ARTICLE XIV.

SECTION 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

SEC. 2. Representatives shall be appointed among the several states according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each state, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for president and vice president of the United States, representatives in Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a state, or the members of the legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such state, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such state.

SEC. 3. No person shall be a senator or representative in Congress or elector of president and vice president, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any state, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any state legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any state, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may by a vote of two-thirds of each house remove such disability.

SEC. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any state shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

SEC. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

ARTICLE XV.

SECTION 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or by any state, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

SEC. 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

NOTE—The Constitution was adopted Sept. 17, 1787, by the unanimous consent of the states present in the convention appointed in pursuance of the resolution of the Congress of the confederation, of the twenty-first of February, 1787, and was ratified by the conventions of the several states, as follows, viz: By convention of Delaware, Dec. 7, 1787; Pennsylvania, Dec. 12, 1787; New Jersey, Dec. 18, 1787; Georgia, Jan. 2, 1788; Connecticut, Jan. 9, 1788; Massachusetts, Feb. 6, 1788; Maryland, April 28, 1788; South Carolina, May 23, 1788; New Hampshire, June 21, 1788; Virginia, June 26, 1788; New York, July 26, 1788; North Carolina, Nov. 21, 1789; Rhode Island, May 29, 1790.

The first ten of the amendments were proposed at the first session of the First Congress of the United States, Sept. 25, 1789; and were finally ratified by the constitutional number of states Dec. 15, 1791. The eleventh amendment was proposed at the first session of the Third Congress, March 5, 1794, and was declared in a message from the president of the United States to both houses of Congress, dated Jan. 8, 1798, to have been adopted by the constitutional number of states. The twelfth amendment was proposed at the first session of the Eighth Congress, Dec. 12, 1803, and was adopted by the constitutional number of states in 1804, according to a public notice thereof by the secretary of state, dated Sept. 25, 1804.

The thirteenth amendment was proposed at the second session of the Thirty-eighth Congress, Feb. 1, 1865, and was adopted by the constitutional number of states in 1865, according to a public notice thereof by the secretary of state, dated Dec. 18, 1865.

The fourteenth amendment took effect July 28, 1868.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

Under the enabling act of Congress, approved March 3, 1857, a constitutional convention of one hundred and eight members (each council district to elect two for each councilman and representative it was entitled to) was authorized to meet at the capitol on the second Monday in July, to frame a state constitution, and submit it to the people of the territory. The election was held on the first Monday in June. On July 13th the delegates met, but, a disagreement arising in the organization, the Republican members organized one body, and the Democratic members organized separately. Each of these bodies, claiming to be the legal constitutional convention, proceeded with the work of forming an instrument to be submitted to the people. After some days an understanding was effected between them, and, by means of committees of conference, the same constitution was framed and adopted by both bodies. On being submitted to the people, October 13th, it was ratified.

PERMANENT RULES OF THE SENATE, 1905.

CALLING SENATE TO ORDER.

1. The president shall take the chair at the hour to which the Senate shall have adjourned, and shall immediately call the members to order, and, on the appearance of a quorum, shall proceed with the regular order of business.

DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT.

2. He shall preserve order and decorum; may speak on points of order in preference to members, and shall appoint all committees, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate. He shall also decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Senate by any member, but such appeal shall be decided by a majority vote of those present and voting thereon.

QUESTIONS—HOW STATED AND DECIDED.

3. He shall rise to put the question, but may state it sitting.
4. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to-wit: "As many as are of the opinion that (as the question may be), say Aye," and after the affirmative voice is expressed, "As many as are of the contrary opinion say No." The president shall declare all votes, but if any member rise to doubt a vote, he shall order a return of the number voting in the affirmative and in the negative, without any further debate.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM.

5. The president shall call some member into the chair when the Senate goes into committee of the whole. He shall also have the right to name a member to perform the duties of the chair; but substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment. In the absence of the president, except as above, the Senate shall appoint a president pro tem.

FURTHER DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT.

6. The president of the Senate shall sign all acts, memorials, addresses and resolutions; and all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by the Senate shall be signed by him and attested by the secretary.

7. The president is authorized to administer all oaths required in the discharge of his duties.

DISTURBANCE IN LOBBY.

8. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the lobby, the president or chairman of the committee of the whole shall have power to order the same cleared.

PRIVILEGES OF REPORTERS.

9. Reporters wishing to take down the debates may be admitted by the president, who shall assign them to such places on the floor or elsewhere to effect their object as shall not interfere with the convenience of the Senate. But any reporter of any newspaper who shall purposely misrepresent or misreport the proceedings of the Senate shall, during the remainder of the session, be denied admission to the senate chamber.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

10. The order of business shall be as follows, viz.:

- First—Presentation of letters, petitions, remonstrances and other communications.
- Second—Resolutions and motions.
- Third—Introduction of bills, memorials and joint resolutions.
- Fourth—Reports of committees.
 - A—From standing committees.
 - B—From select committees.
- Fifth—Messages and other executive communications.
- Sixth—Messages from the House of Representatives, and amendments proposed by the House to bills and resolutions from the Senate.
- Seventh—First reading of House bills.
- Eighth—Second reading of Senate bills.
- Ninth—Second reading of House bills.
- Tenth—Third reading of Senate bills.
- Eleventh—Third reading of House bills.
- Twelfth—General orders of the day.

PUBLIC BILLS TO HAVE PREFERENCE.

11. Public and joint resolutions of a public nature shall always have the preference of private bills.

REFERRING OF BILLS.

12. All bills shall be referred by the president of the Senate without motion to the proper standing committee, on the first reading, unless otherwise ordered. And all bills, providing for an appropriation of money, when referred to and reported by any other than the committee on finance, shall, before passage, be referred to the committee on finance.

OF ORDER IN DEBATE.

13. When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the Senate, he shall rise to his feet and respectfully address himself to "Mr. President," and shall confine himself to the question under debate and avoid personality. That in discussing any resolution senators shall be limited to five minutes each.

14. Whenever any member is called to order he shall sit down until it is determined whether he is in order or not, and if a member is called to order for words spoken in debate, the words excepted to shall be taken down in writing immediately.

15. When two or more members shall happen to rise at once, the president shall name the member who is to speak.

16. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question on the same day, nor more than once on a motion for commitment, without leave of the Senate.

CONDUCT DURING BUSINESS.

17. While the president is putting any question, or addressing the Senate, no one shall walk out or across the room; nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall entertain private discourse; nor whilst a member is speaking, shall pass between him and the chair. Every member shall remain uncovered during the session of the Senate. No member or other person shall proceed to or remain by the secretary's desk while the ayes and noes are calling or ballots counting.

18. Upon a division and count of the Senate on any question no member without the bar shall be counted.

SENATORS TO VOTE UNLESS EXCUSED.

19. Every member who shall be in the Senate when the question is put shall give his vote unless the Senate, for special reasons, shall excuse him. All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the Senate divides or before he gives his vote upon a call of the yeas and noes. Any member wishing to be excused from voting may make a brief statement of the reasons for making such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

MOTIONS.

20. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the president; or, being in writing, it shall be handed to the secretary, and read aloud for debate.

21. Every motion or amendment shall be reduced to writing if the president or any member desires it. In such case it must be signed by the member or committee offering the same.

22. After a motion is stated by the president or read by the secretary, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the Senate, but may be withdrawn at any time before decision or amendment.

23. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received, unless to adjourn or to lie on the table, for the previous question, to commit, to postpone to a day certain, to postpone indefinitely, or to amend; and these several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they stand arranged. A motion to postpone to a certain day, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, or to amend, being decided, shall not again be allowed on the same day, nor at the same stage of the bill or proposition. A motion to strike out the enacting words of a bill shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and, if carried, shall be equivalent to a rejection of a bill.

MOTION TO ADJOURN.

24. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order; that and the motion to lie on the table shall be decided without debate; but a motion to adjourn, when refused, shall not be renewed until further business shall have been had.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION.

25. The previous question shall be in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present, and its effect shall be to put an end to all debate, and bring the Senate to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, then upon all pending amendments in their order, and then upon the main question. On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the ordering of the same, a call of the Senate shall be in order, but after a majority shall have ordered such motion, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

26. On a previous question there shall be no debate. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

RECONSIDERATION.

27. When a motion or question has been once put and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for a reconsideration thereof, on the same day on which the vote was taken, or within the next two days of actual session of the Senate thereafter; and such motions shall take precedence of all other questions, except a motion to adjourn. A motion for reconsideration, being put and lost, shall not be renewed.

DIVISION OF QUESTION.

28. Any member may call for a division of the question, when the same will admit of it. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed to be indivisible. A motion to strike out being lost shall not preclude an amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

PETITIONS, ETC.—HOW TO BE PRESENTED.

29. In presenting a petition, memorial, remonstrance or other communication addressed to the Senate, the members shall only state the general purport of it.

30. Every petition, memorial, remonstrance, resolution, bill and report of committee shall be indorsed with its appropriate title, and immediately under the indorsement the name of the member presenting the same shall be written.

CALL OF THE SENATE.

31. Any member may make a call of the Senate, and require absent members to be sent for, but a call of the Senate cannot be made after the voting has commenced; and the call of the Senate being ordered and the absentees noted, the door shall be closed, and no member permitted to leave the room until the report of the sergeant-at-arms be received and acted upon, or further proceedings under the call be dispensed with.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

32. The standing committees of the Senate shall be as set forth in the following list: Each committee shall consist of nine (9) members, except the Committee on Municipal Corporations, the Committee on Banks and Banking, the Committee on Insurance, the Committee on Public Accounts and Expenditure, and the Committee on State Prison, which shall consist of eleven (11) members each; the Committee on Grain and Warehouse, which shall consist of thirteen (13) members; the Committee on Finance, which shall consist of eighteen (18) members; the Committee on Railroads, the Committee on Taxes and Tax Laws, which shall consist of seventeen (17) members each, and the Committee on Judiciary, which shall consist of nineteen (19) members.

1. A Committee on Agriculture.
2. A Committee on Banks and Banking.
3. A Committee on Census.
4. A Committee on Claims.
5. A Committee on Corporations.
6. A Committee on Deaf, Dumb and Blind.

49. A Committee on Temperance.
50. A Committee on Towns and Counties.
51. A Committee on University and University Lands.
52. A Committee on Public-Accounts and Expenditures.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

33. The rules observed in the Senate shall govern, as far as practicable, the proceedings of the committee of the whole, except that a member may speak more than twice on the same subject, and that a call for the yeas and nays, or for the previous question, cannot be made.

34. Amendments made in the committee of the whole shall be entered on a separate piece of paper, and so reported to the Senate by the chairman standing in his place, which amendment shall not be read by the president unless required by one or more of the members. The report having been first acted upon, the bill shall then be subject to debate and amendment before the question to engross it is taken.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS.

35. Bills, memorials and joint resolutions may be introduced by any member in his place, or by order of the Senate on a report of a committee. Each member so introducing such bill, memorial or joint resolution shall, at the time of such introduction thereof, furnish to the secretary of the Senate two copies thereof, which shall be endorsed "copies." Every bill, memorial or joint resolution shall have prefixed thereto the name of the person introducing it, and when reported from a committee the name of said committee shall be endorsed thereon. Every proposed amendment to any bill, memorial or joint resolution, and every committee report shall be in triplicate form. That hereafter all bills introduced in the Senate shall be so framed that when any section or subdivision or chapter of any existing law is to be amended, or when any section or subdivision or chapter of any existing law is to be repealed, or when any section or subdivision or chapter of any repealed law is to be revived, the said section or subdivision or chapter shall in each case be given in full as it is designed to read when enacted, and all new matter contained in any bill which proposes to amend any section or subdivision of any existing law by inserting or adding such new matter shall be underscored, and when the bill is printed it shall be italicized; and no bill not so framed shall be received or read by the secretary unless otherwise specially ordered by the Senate.

READING OF BILLS.

36. Every bill, memorial, order, resolution or vote requiring the approval of the governor shall receive three several readings previous to its passage; the first and third reading shall be at length; and no such bill, memorial, order or resolution shall be read twice on the same day.

COMMITMENT.

37. No bill or joint resolution shall be committed or amended until it has been once read at length. If objections are made to a bill on its first reading the question shall be: "Shall the bill be rejected?" If no objection be made or the question to reject be lost, the bill shall go on its second reading.

ALL BILLS, ETC., TO GO TO COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

38. All bills, memorials, orders, resolutions and votes requiring the approval of the governor shall, after a second reading, be considered in committee of the whole before they shall be finally acted upon by the Senate.

PRINTING OF BILLS.

39. All bills of a general nature, including all bills appropriating money or lands, shall be printed; provided, that no bills shall be printed until after the same shall have been reported upon favorably by the committee to whom the same shall be referred.

FINAL PASSAGE.

40. The final question upon a bill or other paper requiring action by both houses, after the first and second readings thereof and after the consideration in committee of the whole, shall be upon its final passage.

AMENDMENT ON THIRD READING.

41. No amendment shall be received on third reading except to fill blanks, without the unanimous consent of the Senate. In filling blanks, the largest sum, the longest time and greatest distance shall be first taken.

42. A bill or resolution may be committed at any time, previous to its passage, and if any amendment be reported on such commitment to any other than a committee of the whole, it shall be again read the second time, considered in committee of the whole, and the question for third reading and passage again put.

ENGROSSING AND TRANSMITTING BILLS, ETC., TO THE HOUSE.

43. Every bill, memorial, order or resolution originating in the Senate shall be carefully engrossed before being transmitted to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

44. Immediately after the passage of any bill or other paper to which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is to be asked it shall be the duty of the secretary to transmit the same to the House, unless some member of the Senate shall make a motion to reconsider the vote by which the Senate passed the said bill or other paper; in which case the secretary shall not transmit said bill or other paper until a motion to reconsider has been put; and on the concurrence of any bill or other paper of the House of Representatives by the Senate, or on the concurrence or disagreement in any vote of the House, it shall also be the duty of the Senate to notify the House thereof.

MEMORIALS TO CONGRESS.

45. Memorials to Congress, to the president of the United States or the heads of either of the departments shall be considered in committee of the whole before being adopted.

ANY SENATOR MAY DEMAND AYES OR NOES.

46. It shall be competent for any member, when a question is being taken, to call for the ayes or noes, which shall be entered on the journal. A call for the ayes or noes cannot be interrupted in any manner whatever.

COMMITTEE NOT TO BE ABSENT.

47. Committees shall not absent themselves from the Senate, by reason of their appointment, without special permission for that purpose be first obtained.

ENROLLMENT.

48. It shall be in order for the committee on enrollment to report at any time.

DUTIES OF SECRETARY.

49. The secretary shall keep a correct journal of the proceedings of the Senate, and shall perform such other duties as shall be assigned to him as such secretary. He shall permit no journal, records, accounts or papers to be taken from the table or out of his custody, other than in the regular mode of business. If any paper in his charge shall be missing, he shall report the fact to the president that inquiry may be made. He shall superintend the recording of the journal of proceedings, the engrossing, transcribing and copying of the bills and resolutions, and generally perform the duties of secretary, under the direction of the president. It shall be the duty of the secretary to keep the books to be called "Minute Books," in which he shall enter, under the appropriate marginal numbers, all Senate and House bills, and correct notes, with the dates thereof, of the state, condition and progress of each bill pending, until its final passage.

CERTIFICATE FOR MONEY.

50. No certificate authorizing the payment of any money appropriated by the legislature shall be issued by the secretary, by virtue of any motion or resolution, unless such motion or resolution shall be sanctioned by a majority of all the members elected to the Senate. And all motions or resolutions authorizing the issuing of certificates by the secretary for the payment of money shall be upon a call of the yeas and nays.

JOURNAL OF EXECUTIVE SESSION.

51. The proceedings of the Senate on executive business shall be kept in a separate book of record to be provided by the secretary of the Senate, and published with the proceedings of the Senate, unless the public good requires secrecy, which shall be determined by a vote of the Senate.

JEFFERSON'S MANUAL.

52. The rules of parliamentary practice comprised in Jefferson's Manual shall govern the Senate in all cases in which they are applicable, and in which they are not inconsistent with these rules and orders of the Senate, and the joint rules and orders of the Senate and House of Representatives.

HOURS OF MEETING.

53. The standing hour of the daily meeting of the Senate shall be 10 o'clock in the morning, unless the Senate direct otherwise.

ABSENCE OF SENATORS.

54. No senator or officer of the Senate, unless from illness or other cause he shall be unable to attend, shall absent himself from the session of the Senate during the entire day, without having first obtained leave of absence.

PERSONS PRIVILEGED TO FLOOR OF SENATE.

55. The governor and other state officers, judges of the supreme and district courts, members of congress, members and officers of the House of Representatives, ex-members of the Senate, and such persons as may be introduced by the president, or any senator, shall be admitted to the ante-rooms and floor of the Senate, and the sergeant-at-arms and his assistants shall exclude all others therefrom.

AMENDMENTS TO RULES.

56. No standing rule or order of the Senate shall be rescinded or changed without one day's notice being given of the motion therefor, nor shall any rule be rescinded, changed or suspended, except by a vote equal to two-thirds of the full Senate.

NOTICE TO DEBATE.

57. Upon any member giving notice of his intention to debate any resolution, the same shall lie over one day without debate or other action.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

58. When in executive session, the Senate may, in all cases, sit with closed doors, and the Senate chamber may be cleared of all persons except the officers and members of the Senate.

NO SMOKING.

59. No senator or officer of the Senate or other person shall be permitted to smoke in the Senate chamber.

SECRETARY MAY CORRECT ERRORS.

60. The secretary and engrossing clerk, in all proper cases, shall correct all mistakes in numbering the sections and reference thereto, whether such errors occur in the original bill or are caused by amendments thereto.

DUTIES OF THE SERGEANT-AT-ARMS.

61. It shall be the duty of the sergeant-at-arms to execute all orders of the president or Senate, and to perform all the duties they may assign to him connected with the police and good order of the Senate chamber; to exercise a supervision over the ingress and egress of all persons to and from the chamber; to see that messages, etc., are promptly executed; that the hall is properly ventilated and the temperature thereof properly regulated, and open for the use of the members of the Senate at the time fixed; and to perform all other services pertaining to his office.

REPORT ON ENROLLED BILLS.

62. No committee nor any member thereof shall report any substitute for any bill or bills referred to such committee, which substitute relates to a different subject, or is intended to accomplish a different purpose than that of the original bill for which it is reported, or which, if adopted and passed, would require a title essentially different from the title of the original bill; and every substitute bill so reported shall be rejected whenever the Senate is advised that the same is in violation of this rule.

GENERAL ORDERS OF THE DAY.

63. The secretary shall make a list of all bills, resolutions, reports of committees, and other proceedings of the Senate which are referred to the committee of the whole, and which are not made the order of the day, for any particular day, and to number the same; which lists shall be called the "General Orders of the Day;" and they shall be taken up in the order in which they are numbered, unless otherwise ordered by a majority of the committee.

Such general orders, together with all bills included therein required to be printed under the rules or orders of the Senate, shall be printed and placed upon the members' desks at least one day before the same shall be considered in committee of the whole.

64. That it shall be the duty of the secretary to make a list of all bills, resolutions and other matters coming before the Senate for final action and place the same upon the calendar in the order in which they may have been acted upon in committee of the whole, and such calendar shall be printed and placed upon the members' desks at least one day before the matters included therein shall be considered.

DUTIES OF LEGISLATIVE EXPENSE COMMITTEE.

65. All propositions for the appointment of employes of the Senate or for expenditures on account of the legislature, other than those provided by law, shall be referred to the committee on legislative expenses, without debate, and no appointment shall be made or expense incurred unless reported upon favorably by said committee, or unless their report be overruled by three-fourths ($\frac{3}{4}$) vote of the whole Senate. Said committee shall report to the Senate the amount of compensation that shall be paid to each employe whose appointment is recommended by it. All propositions for extra compensation or gratuity shall be referred to said committee, and no extra compensation or gratuity shall be paid to any officer, employe or other person unless reported upon favorably by said committee, or unless this report be reversed by a three-fourths ($\frac{3}{4}$) vote of the whole Senate.

SPECIAL ORDER.

66. When a time has been designated by the Senate, whether by the adoption of the report of a committee or otherwise, for a particular or special order, the Senate shall at such time proceed to the consideration of such order, and shall at such time so designated, after considering the bill, resolution or measure included therein, unless the same shall be then otherwise disposed of, or the special order postponed to a day certain, immediately proceed to the third reading and final passage of the same, and during the consideration of such special order, Rule No. 16 shall be suspended and the debate thereon and all proceedings thereunder, including amendments and substitutions, shall be, as nearly as applicable, that of the committee of the whole.

JOURNAL—HOW APPROVED.

67. The journal of each day's proceedings shall be open for correction at any time during the session of the succeeding day, and, unless corrected on that day, shall stand approved.

PRESIDENT'S AUTHORITY OVER EMPLOYES.

68. The president of the Senate shall have full and exclusive authority over, and charge of, all the employes, officers and clerks of the Senate, both elective and appointive. He shall have the sole and exclusive power and authority to assign them to such duties other than for which they were elected or appointed, as he shall see fit. He shall have power to appoint such of said employes, officers or clerks as he shall deem proper to exercise the powers to him granted by this rule. He may make such rules and regulations for the government of the employes, officers and clerks as he shall see fit and proper. In case of violation of any of the orders of the president of the Senate by any employe, officer or clerk, or in case of any violation of any such rule or regulation made by him by any such employe, officer or clerk, or in case of any misconduct or omission of any such employe, officer or clerk the president shall refer such complaint to the committee on rules, which shall have the final power to hear such complaint and to discharge any such employe, officer or clerk, or to impose such other punishment by way of fine or otherwise upon such employe, officer or clerk, as to the said committee may seem just and proper.

PERMANENT RULES OF THE HOUSE, 1905.

MEETING, ROLL CALL, ETC.

1. The speaker shall take the chair at the time at which the House stands adjourned, and the House shall then be called to order and the roll of members called, and the names of all members present and of those excused shall be entered upon the journal of the House.

READING OF THE JOURNAL.

2. Upon the appearance of a quorum, the journal of the preceding day shall be read by the clerk unless otherwise ordered, and any mistakes therein may be corrected by the House.

DUTIES OF SPEAKER.

3. The speaker shall preserve order and decorum, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House.

4. The speaker shall not vote on appeals from his own decisions.

DUTIES OF MEMBERS.

5. When the House adjourns, the members shall keep their seats until the speaker announces the adjournment.

6. Every member, before speaking, shall rise from his seat and respectfully address the speaker, but shall not proceed to speak further until recognized by the chair; and when two or more members rise at once the speaker shall designate which shall speak first.

ORDER IN DEBATE.

7. No member shall speak more than twice on the same subject without leave of the House, nor more than once until every member choosing to speak on the pending question shall have spoken.

MOTIONS.

8. No motion shall be debated or put unless the same be seconded. It shall be stated by the speaker before debate, and any such motion shall be reduced to writing if the speaker or any member desires it.

9. After a motion shall be stated by the speaker, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the House, but may be withdrawn by the mover at any time before amendment, or decision; but all motions, resolutions or amendments shall be entered in the journal, whether they are rejected or adopted.

PRECEDENCE OF MOTIONS.

10. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to lay on the table, or the previous question, to commit, to postpone to a day certain, to amend, or to postpone indefinitely; which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they stand arranged.

MOTION TO ADJOURN.

11. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order; that, and the motion to lay on the table, shall be decided without debate.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION.

12. The previous question shall be in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?"

It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present, and its effect shall be to put an end to all debate, and bring the House to a direct vote upon the amendments reported by a committee, if any; upon the preceding amendments, and then upon the main question. On a motion for the previous question and prior to the seconding the same by a majority of the House, a call of the House shall be in order, but after a majority shall have seconded such motion, no call shall be in order prior to a decision of the main question.

13. When the previous question is decided in the negative it shall leave the main question under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking a vote on the question, or in some other manner.

INCIDENTAL QUESTIONS OF ORDER.

14. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, during the pending of such motion or after the House shall have determined that the main question shall now be put, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

PETITIONS, ETC.—HOW PRESENTED.

15. Petitions, memorials and other papers presented to the House shall be presented by the speaker or by a member in his place, and a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made verbally and indorsed thereon, together with the name of the member introducing the same.

EVERY MEMBER TO VOTE UNLESS EXCUSED.

16. Every member who shall be present before the vote is declared from the chair, and no other, shall vote for or against the same, unless the House shall excuse him, or unless he is immediately interested in the question, in which case he shall not vote.

ORDER OF DOING BUSINESS.

17. When the speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk out or across the House; nor when a member is speaking shall any member entertain any private discourse, or pass between him and the chair.

DIVISION OF A QUESTION.

18. If the question in debate contains several points, any member may have the same divided. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible, but a motion to strike out being lost shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

19. A member called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the House, if appealed to, shall decide the case. If there be no appeal the decision of the chair shall be submitted to. On an appeal no member shall speak more than once without leave of the House, except when a member is called to order for offensive language, in which case there shall be no debate.

BILLS—HOW INTRODUCED.

20. Bills, memorials and joint resolutions may be introduced by an order of the House on the report of a committee, or by any member in his place, unless objected to by the House.

Every bill and resolution shall be introduced in duplicate and shall have prefixed thereto the name of the person introducing it, and when reported from a committee, the name of said committee and the name of the party introducing the bill shall be indorsed thereon.

That hereafter all bills introduced in the House shall be so framed that when any section or subdivision or chapter of any existing law is to be amended, or when any section or subdivision or chapter of any existing law is to be repealed, or when any section or subdivision or chapter of any repealed law is to be revived, the said section or subdivision or chapter shall in each case be given in full as it is designed to read when enacted, and all new matter contained in any bill which proposes to amend any section or subdivision of any existing law by inserting or adding such new matter shall be underscored, and when the bill is printed shall be italicized; and no bill not so framed shall be received or read by the chief clerk unless otherwise specially ordered by the House.

21. All bills introduced in the House shall be so framed that when any subdivision, section or chapter of any existing law is to be amended, or when any subdivision, section or chapter of any repealed law is to be revived, the said subdivision, section or chapter shall in each case be given in full as it is designed to read when enacted, and no bill not so framed shall be received or read by the clerk unless otherwise specially ordered by the House.

The title of every bill shall indicate the subject-matter thereof, not merely by reference to the page number or section of any existing law sought to be repealed or amended, but by such descriptive words as will indicate what subject the bill refers to.

FIRST READING AND REFERENCE OF BILLS.

22. All bills, memorials and joint resolutions shall be read at length, upon their introduction, unless objected to.

If objection is made, the question shall be: "Shall the bill be rejected?" If no objection is made, or the question to reject is lost, the bill shall go to its appropriate standing committee, except when introduced by such committee. In such case it shall be read a second time and referred to the committee of the whole.

Every bill introduced, except when introduced by a committee as above provided, containing an amendment to an existing law of this state, shall first be referred to the appropriate committee of the House appointed with reference to the subject matter contained in the law proposed to be amended.

All bills, whether emanating from the House or the Senate,⁴ carrying an appropriation, shall be referred to the committee on appropriations for action by that committee before the second reading of the bill.

SECOND READING OF BILLS.

23. All bills, memorials, orders, resolutions and votes requiring the approval of the governor shall, after a second reading, be considered in a committee of the whole, before they shall be finally acted upon by the House.

24. The final question, after consideration in the committee of the whole, of a bill or other paper originating in the House, shall be, "Shall it be engrossed and read a third time?" and upon every such bill or paper originating in the Senate, "Shall it be read a third time?"

25. No amendments shall be received on the third reading, except to fill blanks, without unanimous consent of the House, and all bills and resolutions may be committed at any time previous to their passage, and if any amendment be reported on such commitment by any other than a committee of the whole, it shall be again read a second time, considered in a committee of the whole and the question for third reading and passage then put.

BILLS ON THE THIRD READING.

26. All bills, memorials and joint resolutions on their third reading shall be read at length.

SUSPENSION OF RULES TO HASTEN A BILL.

27. Every bill shall be read on three different days, unless in case of urgency two-thirds of the House deem it expedient to dispense with this rule, and no bill shall be passed until it shall have been read twice at length.

PROCEEDINGS ON PASSAGE OF BILLS.

28. No resolution that involves the expenditure of money, or joint resolution, shall be declared passed until voted for by a majority of all the members elected to the House, to be determined by a roll call. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment.

No bill or resolution shall at any time be amended by annexing thereto or incorporating therewith any other bill or resolution pending before the House.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

29. In forming a committee of the whole House the speaker shall appoint a chairman to preside.

30. Bills committed to a committee of the whole House shall, in the committee of the whole thereon, be first read through, unless the committee shall otherwise order, and then read and debated by sections, leaving the title to be last considered. All amendments shall be noted in writing and reported to the House by the chairman.

ORDER OF PUTTING QUESTIONS.

31. All questions, whether in committee or in the House, shall be put in the order in which they are moved, except in the case of privileged questions, and in filling up blanks the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

SENATE BILLS—HOW PROCEEDED WITH.

32. A similar mode of proceeding shall be observed with bills which have originated in and passed the Senate, as with bills originating in the House.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION.

33. When a question has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof; but no action for the reconsidering of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion upon which the vote was taken shall have gone out of possession of the House announcing their decision; nor shall any motion for reconsideration be in order unless made on the same day on which the vote was taken or within the next two days of actual session of the House thereafter; and such motion shall take precedence of all other questions except the motion to adjourn; provided that when notice of the intention to move such reconsideration shall be given by such member, the clerk of the House shall retain the said bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion until after the expiration of the time during which such motion can be made, unless the same is previously disposed of. A motion for reconsideration being put and lost shall not be renewed.

RULES OF THE HOUSE TO APPLY TO COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

34. The rules of the House shall be observed in committee of the whole House so far as may be applicable, except that the yeas and nays shall not be called, the previous question forced, and speaking limited.

35. A motion that the committee rise shall always be in order and shall be decided without debate.

COMMITTEES.

36. Standing committees shall be appointed by the speaker, as follows:

1. Appropriations, 17 members.

55. Illuminating Oils, 5 members.

EMPLOYEES.

37. All propositions for appointment of employees of the House, other than those provided by law, shall be referred to the committee on rules, and no appointment shall be made unless reported favorably upon by said committee, or its report be overruled by three-fourths vote of the whole House, and said committee shall report to the House the amount of compensation that shall be paid each of said employees.

COMMITTEE ON ENGROSSMENT.

38. The committee on engrossment shall examine all bills after they are engrossed and report the same to the House correctly engrossed, before their third reading; said committee may report at any time.

COMMITTEE ON ENROLLMENT.

39. The committee on enrollment shall examine all House bills, memorials and joint resolutions which have passed the two houses, and when reported correctly enrolled, they shall be presented to the presiding officers of the House and Senate for their signatures, and, when so signed, to the governor for his approval; said committee may report at any time, but said committee shall not report any bill as correctly enrolled that has any words interlined therein, or when any words have been erased therefrom.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES.

40. Special committees, to whom reference shall be made, shall in all cases report a state of facts, and their opinion thereon, to the House.

NAME OF MEMBER OFFERING BILLS, ETC., TO GO ON JOURNAL.

41. In all cases where a bill, order, resolution or motion shall be entered on the journal of the House, the name of the member moving the same shall be entered on the journal.

WHO MAY BE ADMITTED ON THE FLOOR.

42. No person shall be admitted within the halls of the House but the executive or ex-governors of the State of Minnesota, members of the Senate, the heads of departments of the state government, judges of the supreme and district courts, and members of congress, and, when personally introduced by members of the House, those who have been members of congress or of the state legislature.

And it shall not be in order for the speaker to entertain a request for the suspension of this rule, or to present from the chair the request of any member for unanimous consent.

GENERAL ORDER OF THE DAY.

43. The speaker shall cause the chief clerk to make out a list of all bills, resolutions and reports of committees of the whole House, and which are not made the order of the day for any particular day, and to number the same, which list shall be called the "general orders of the day," and they shall be taken up in the order in which they are numbered, unless otherwise ordered by the majority. When a time has been designated by the House for a particular or special order the House shall at such time proceed to the consideration of such order, and the House at the time set, after considering such measure, shall immediately proceed to the third reading and final passage of the measure. Such general orders, together with all bills included therein required to be printed under the rules or orders of the House, shall be printed and placed upon the members' desks at least two days before the same shall be considered in committee of the whole.

Each member of this House shall leave on his desk or under his desk, each time the House adjourns for the day, his file binder for bills, and it shall be the duty of the clerk of this House to have placed in each binder one copy of each general order and of each bill required to be printed under the rules or orders of this House at least forty-eight hours before the same shall be considered in committee of the whole, and under the first order of business each day said clerk shall report to the House what bills he has placed in the binders, and each member shall then forthwith examine his binder and verify and correct, if necessary, the report of the clerk.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

44. On the meeting of the House, after reading the journal of the preceding day, the order of business of the day shall be as follows:

1. Presentation of petitions or other communications.
2. Reports of standing committees.
3. Second reading of House bills.
4. Reports of select committees.
5. Motions and resolutions.
6. Introduction of bills.
7. Consideration of messages from the Senate.
8. First reading of Senate bills.
9. Second reading of Senate bills.
10. Third reading of House bills.
11. Third reading of Senate bills.
12. General orders.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE.

45. A committee of conference may report at any time.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

46. When the House has arrived at the general orders of the day they shall go into committee of the whole upon such orders. No business shall be in order until they are considered or passed, or the committee arise. And, unless a particular bill is ordered up, the committee of the whole shall consider, act upon or pass the general orders, according to the order of their reference.

SPEAKER PRO TEM.

47. The speaker may leave the chair and appoint a member to preside, but not for a longer time than a day, except by leave of the House.

JEFFERSON'S MANUAL.

48. The rules of parliamentary practice embraced in Jefferson's Manual shall govern the House in all cases where they are applicable, and in which they are not inconsistent with the standing rules and orders of the House and the joint rules and orders of the Senate and House of Representatives.

VOTE REQUIRED TO SUSPEND RULES.

49. No rule of the House shall be suspended, altered or amended without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of the whole House, except rules 37, 49 and 62, which shall require the concurrence of three-fourths of the members of the whole House.

HOUR OF MEETING.

50. The hour of the daily meeting of the House shall be ten o'clock in the morning, until the House directs otherwise.

TEN MEMBERS MAY DEMAND AYES AND NAYS.

51. The ayes and nays shall not be ordered unless demanded by ten members, except upon the final passage of bills, joint resolutions and motions directing the payment of money; in which case the ayes and nays shall be had without any demand.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO DEBATE.

52. Upon any member giving notice of his intention to debate any resolution, the same shall lie over one day without debate or other action.

CALL OF THE HOUSE.

53. Any ten members may make a call of the House and require absent members to be sent for, but a call of the House cannot be made after the voting has commenced, and the call of the House being ordered and the absences noted, the doors shall be closed and no member permitted to leave the room until the report of the sergeant-at-arms be received and acted upon, or further proceedings under the call be suspended, and pending the call, no motion shall be in order except it pertains to matters incidental to the call or a motion to suspend further proceedings under the same. After the call of the House has been ordered and proceedings under the call are suspended, the speaker is authorized to instruct the sergeant-at-arms not to permit any member to leave the hall or the House unless excused by the speaker.

PRINTING OF BILLS.

54. All bills of a general nature, including all bills appropriating money or lands, shall be printed; provided, that no bill shall be printed until after the same shall have been reported upon favorably by the committee to whom the same shall have been referred, unless ordered printed by a majority vote of the House.

DISTURBANCE IN LOBBY.

55. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in lobby or gallery, the speaker or chairman of the committee of the whole shall have power to order the same to be cleared.

ABSENCE OF MEMBERS AND OFFICERS.

56. No member or officer of the House, unless from illness or other causes he shall be unable to attend, shall absent himself from the session of the House during the entire day without having first obtained leave of absence; and no one shall be entitled to draw pay while absent more than one day without leave.

DUTIES OF CHIEF CLERK AND ASSISTANTS.

57. Neither the chief clerk nor his assistants shall permit any records or papers belonging to the House to be taken out of their custody otherwise than in the regular course of business; the chief clerk shall report any missing papers to the speaker; shall have general supervision of all clerical duties appertaining to the business of the House; shall perform, under the direction of the speaker, all the duties pertaining to his office, and shall also keep a book showing the situation and progress of all bills, memorials and joint resolutions.

NO ONE TO REMAIN BY THE CLERK'S DESK.

58. No member or other person shall remain by the clerk's desk when the yeas and nays are being called.

SMOKING PROHIBITED.

59. No person shall be permitted to smoke in the hall of the House while in session.

SUBSTITUTION OF BILLS.

60. No standing or special committee, nor any member thereof, shall report any substitute for any bill or bills referred to such committee, which substitute relates to a different subject, or is intended to accomplish a different purpose than that of the original bill for which it is reported, or which, if adopted and passed, would require a title essentially different from the title of the original bill; and every substitute bill so reported shall be rejected whenever the House is advised that the same is in violation of this rule. This rule shall not be suspended without the unanimous consent of the House.

DUTY OF COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC ACCOUNTS AND EXPENDITURES.

61. It shall be the duty of the committee on public accounts and expenditures to examine into the state of the accounts and expenditures of the state auditor, state treasurer, and all other state officers intrusted with the custody or disbursement of any portion of the public moneys; to require and report particularly on or before the twentieth day of February next, whether the expenditures of each and all of said officers are justified by law; whether all claims from time to time satisfied and discharged by such officers are supported by sufficient vouchers, establishing their justice both as to character and amounts.

Whether all such claims have been discharged out of funds appropriated therefor, and whether all moneys have been disbursed in conformity with appropriation laws; whether all moneys reported to be on hand are so on hand and to the credit of various funds as reported; and the notes, bonds and securities in which any portion of the public moneys are reported to be invested are on hand as reported, and whether the same are proper and secure investments, and securely kept.

And it shall be, moreover, the duty of said committee to report from time to time whether any and what retrenchment can be made in the expenditure of any department or officer of the state without detriment to the public service, and to report from time to time such recommendations and bills as may be necessary to add to the economy and accountability of any officer of the state; and said committee shall make such recommendations as to the investment of public moneys and the exchange or sale of any of the bonds or securities held by the state as in their judgment the public interest requires.

EMPLOYES OF THE HOUSE.

62. The speaker shall appoint employes with compensation as follows:

Two janitors, $3.00 per day.
 Seven doorkeepers, $3.00 per day.
 Four gallery keepers, $3.00 per day.
 Two keepers of cloakrooms, $3.00 per day.
 One file clerk, $4.00 per day.
 One assistant file clerk, $3.00 per day.
 Seven pages, $2.50 per day.
 Five sergeants of committee rooms, $3.00 per day.
 One reading clerk, $7.00 per day.
 One clerk for judiciary committee, $10.00 per day.
 One assistant clerk for judiciary committee, $5.00 per day.

Clerks for the following named committees, at a compensation of $5.00 per day:

Appropriations, engrossment, enrollment, general legislation; one clerk to be assigned to committees on municipal corporations and corporations other than municipal. One clerk for the following committees: Railroads, taxes and tax laws and insurance.

Two additional clerks at $4.00 per day, such clerks to be assigned to remaining committees of the House under the direction of the speaker of the House.

One general clerk, who shall be under the direction of the speaker at a compensation of $5.00 per day.

Four stenographers, subject to assignments by the committee on rules, at a salary of $4.00 per day.

The postmaster shall appoint an assistant at a salary of $5.00 per day.

Rule 62 shall not be construed as authorizing the employment or appointment of any employe named therein, in case any employe has been appointed or authorized to be appointed, or engaged by this House for such position by any rule or resolution heretofore adopted. No clerk shall be appointed for any of the committees named in Rule 62 until the necessity for the same is recommended by the committee on rules; and no clerk of said committee and no employe of this House shall receive any pay for any time prior to the date of appointment.

MEETING OF COMMITTEES.

63. The chairman of the different standing committees shall lay on the clerk's desk, to be read previous to adjournment, notice of the time and place of meeting of such committees, and all members of such committee shall be required to attend the meeting of the same unless previously excused by the chairman.

JOINT RULES.

JOINT CONVENTIONS—HOW GOVERNED.

Rule 1. The speaker of the House shall preside at all conventions of the two branches of the legislature, and shall call the members to order; the chief clerk of the House shall be the secretary, and the sergeant-at-arms of the House shall be the sergeant-at-arms of the convention.

DUTIES OF PRESIDENT.

Rule 2. The president of the convention shall preserve order and decorum; may speak on points of order in preference to other members not heard; shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the convention by any member. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

QUESTIONS—HOW STATED.

Rule 3. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to-wit: "As many as are of the opinion that (as the question may be), say Aye," and after an affirmative voice is expressed, "As many as are of the contrary opinion say No." If the president doubts, or a division be called, the convention shall decide—those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise, and afterwards those in the negative.

PRESIDENT'S RIGHT TO VOTE.

Rule 4. The president shall have the right of voting in all cases except on an appeal from his decision; and on all questions he shall vote last.

OF ORDER IN DEBATE.

Rule 5. When any member is about to speak or deliver any matter to the convention, he shall rise and respectfully address himself to "Mr. President," and confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personalities.

Rule 6. Whenever any member is called to order he shall be seated until the point of order is determined; and if called to order for words spoken in debate, the exceptional words shall be reduced to writing immediately.

Rule 7. When two or more members rise at the same time, the president shall name the member who is in order.

Rule 8. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, without leave of the convention.

CALL OF THE CONVENTION.

Rule 9. Any five members may move a call of the convention, and require absent members to be sent for, but a call cannot be made after voting has commenced; and a call being ordered and the absentees noted, the doors shall be closed and no member be permitted to leave the hall until the report of the sergeant-at-arms be received and acted upon, or further proceedings under the call are suspended by a vote of a majority of all the members of the convention.

EITHER HOUSE MAY AMEND, ETC.

Rule 10. It shall be in the power of either house to amend any amendment made by the other to any bill or resolution.

BILLS—HOW ENROLLED AND SIGNED.

Rule 11. After a bill, memorial or resolution shall have passed both houses, it shall be duly enrolled by the enrolling clerk of the House in which it originated. The Senate and House committees on enrolled bills, acting jointly, shall then carefully compare the enrollment with the engrossed copies as passed by the two houses, and after correcting all errors that may be discovered in the enrollment, report the same as correctly enrolled to their respective houses. They shall then obtain the signatures and certificates of the proper officers to the enrolled copies, present the same to the governor for his approval, and report the date of such presentation to their respective houses.

ELECTIONS BY JOINT CONVENTION.

Rule 12. Whenever there shall be an election of any officer in joint convention, the result shall be certified by the president of the Senate and the speaker of the House, and by them announced to their respective houses, and shall be entered on the journal of each and communicated to the governor by the secretary of the convention.

COMMITTEES OF CONFERENCE.

Rule 13. In every case of difference between the two houses upon any subject of legislation, if either shall request a conference, and appoint a committee for that purpose, the other shall also appoint a committee, and such committees shall meet at a time and place to be agreed upon by their chairmen, and state to each other the views of their respective houses, and freely confer thereon; and they shall be authorized to report to their respective houses such modifications as they shall think advisable.

EITHER HOUSE MAY RECEDE, ETC.

Rule 14. It shall be in order for either house to recede from any subject or matters of difference existing between the two houses at any time previous to a conference, whether the papers upon which the difference has arisen are before it or not, and a majority shall govern, except in cases otherwise provided in the constitution; and the question having been put and lost, shall not be again put upon the same day, and a reconsideration thereof shall in all respects be regulated by the rules of the respective houses.

APPROPRIATIONS OF MONEY—HOW MADE.

Rule 15. The same bill shall not appropriate public money or property to more than one local or private purpose, and bills appropriating money for the payment of the officers of the government shall be confined to that purpose exclusively, and no certificate authorizing the payment of any money appropriated by the legislature shall be issued by the secretary of the Senate or the clerk of the House, by virtue of any motion or resolution, unless such motion or resolution shall have been carried by a majority of all the members of the house in which it was introduced; and no clause appropriating money for a local or private purpose shall be contained in a bill appropriating money for the state government or public institutions, and all resolutions authorizing the issuing of certificates by the secretary of the Senate or the clerk of the House for the payment of money shall be upon a call of the yeas and nays.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON PRINTING.

Rule 16. There shall be appointed at the commencement of the session a joint standing committee on printing, consisting of three members, one on the part of the Senate and two on the part of the House, to have general supervision and care of all printing done by order of a convention of both houses.

RULES OF JOINT CONVENTION.

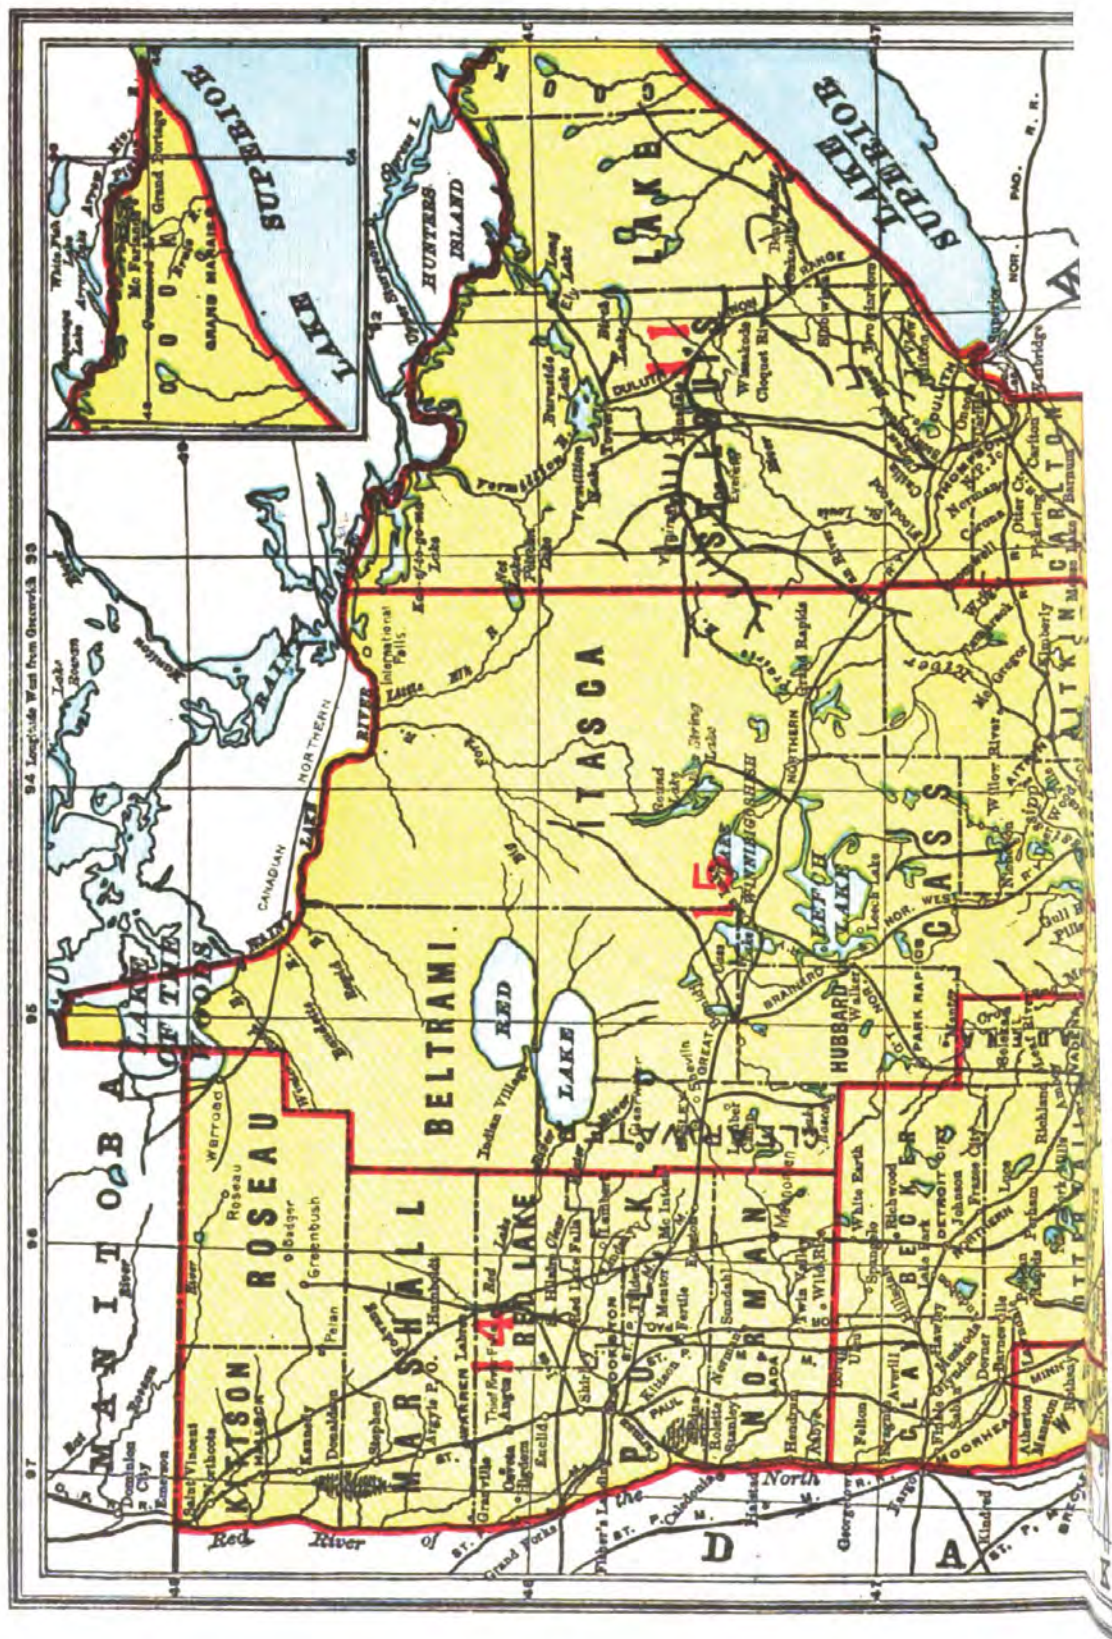

Rule 17. The rules of the House shall be the rules of the joint convention of both houses in all cases where the foregoing rules are not applicable.

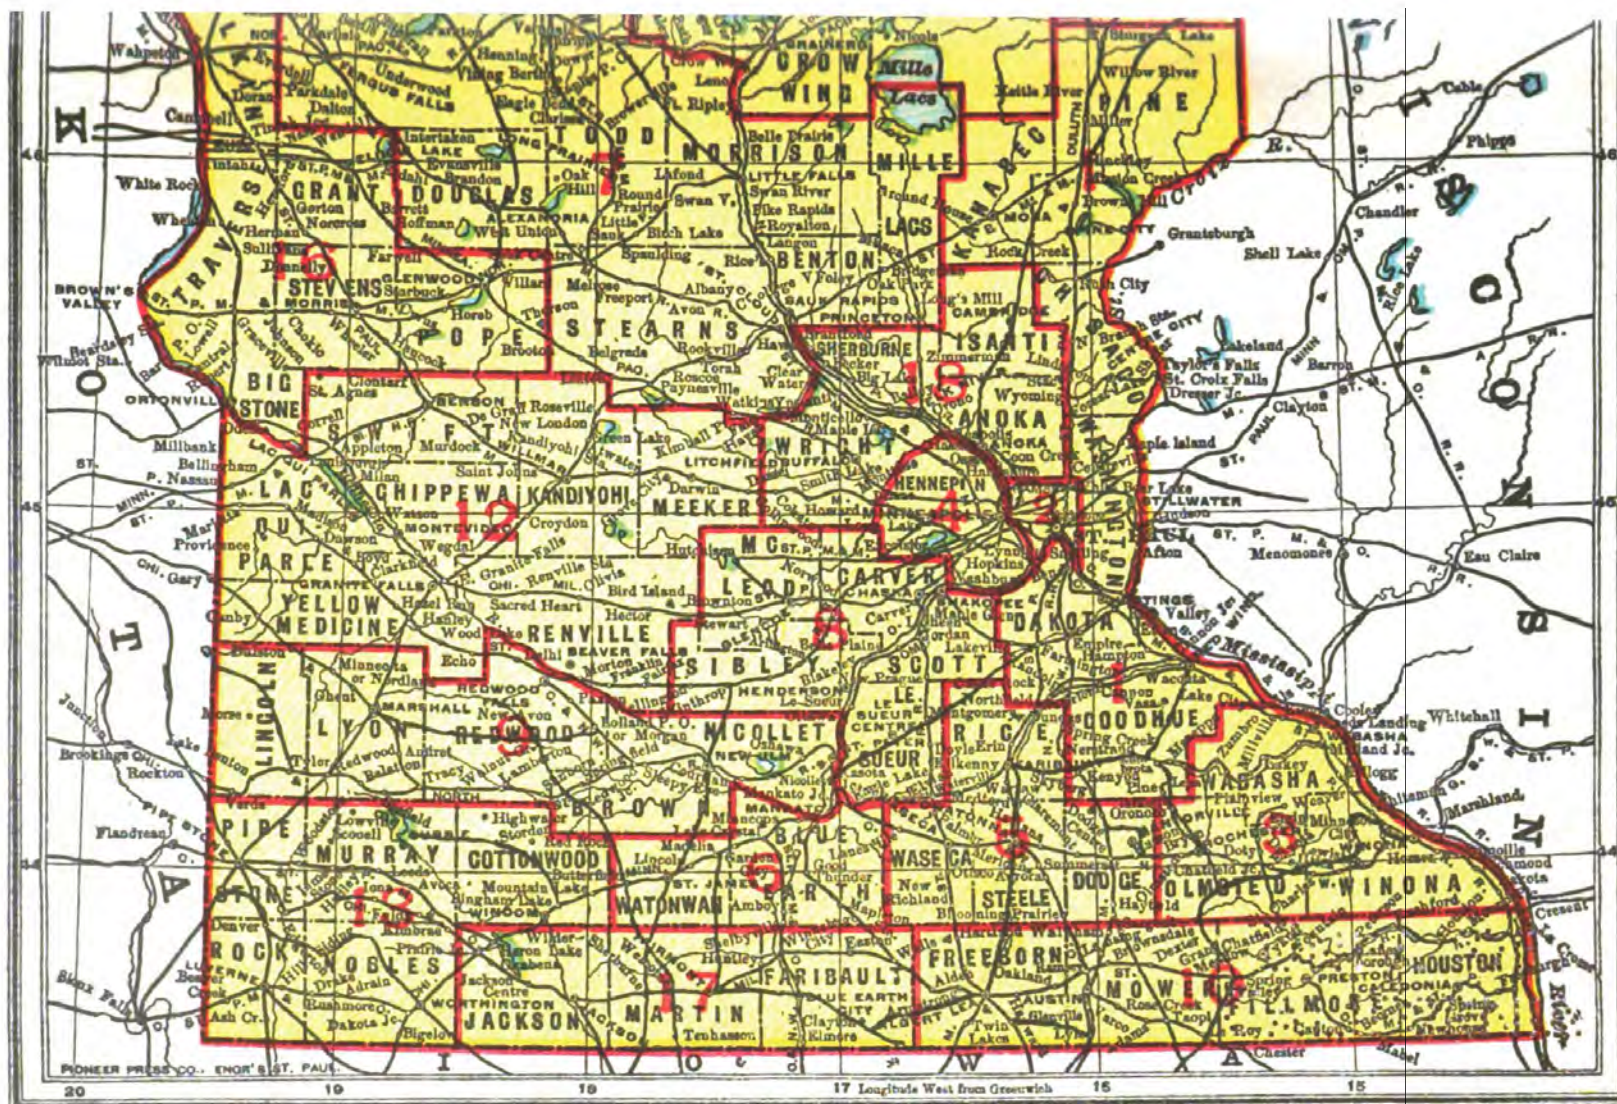

TITLE OF BILLS SHALL EXPRESS THEIR OBJECT.

Rule 18. The subject-matter of each bill shall be clearly expressed in its title, and when a bill is amendatory of an existing act, it shall not be sufficient to refer to the chapter, section or page, but the subject-matter thereof shall be clearly stated.

PART II.

HISTORY.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS.

MINNESOTA.

HISTORY, DESCRIPTION AND RESOURCES.

HISTORY.

The greater part, or about two-thirds, of the territory embraced within the boundaries of Minnesota was included in the Louisiana Purchase, ceded to the United States by France in 1803. The remainder of this state, comprising its northeastern third part, lying east of the Mississippi river, was included in the country surrendered from Great Britain by the treaty of 1783, at the end of the Revolutionary War. In 1805 a grant of land nine miles square, at the confluence of the Mississippi and St. Peter (now Minnesota) rivers, was obtained from the Sioux Indians. A military post was established on the grant in 1819, and in 1820 arrangements were made for the erection of a fort, which was completed in 1822, and named Fort Snelling, after the commanding officer, and the grant has ever since been known as the Fort Snelling Reservation. In 1823 the first steamboat ascended the Mississippi as far as Fort Snelling; and annually thereafter one or two trips of steamboats were made to this isolated post for a number of years.

This territory was held by the Chippewa or Ojibway, and the Dakota or Sioux Indians, but adventurous pioneers had penetrated into the country along the streams tributary to the Mississippi river, and in 1836 Wisconsin Territory was organized, comprising all the territory west of Lake Michigan, and including within its limits all the country west of the Great Lakes and north of Illinois, the west boundary of the Territory being the Mississippi river.

In 1837 two important treaties were made with the native tribes of Indians. The first one was made by Gov. Henry Dodge of Wisconsin, with the Chippewas, at Fort Snelling, on the twenty-ninth of July of that year, whereby the Chippewas ceded to the United States all their pine or agricultural lands on the St. Croix river and its tributaries.

On the twenty-ninth of September of the same year, at the city of Washington, a treaty was made by Joel R. Poinsett, a special commissioner representing the United States, and about twenty Indian chiefs, accompanied by Major Taliaferro, their agent, and Scott Campbell, an interpreter. Through the influence and by the direction of Governor Dodge, this delegation of chiefs had proceeded to Washington for the purpose of making this treaty, by which the Dakotas ceded to the United States all their lands east of the Mississippi river, including all the islands in the same. The Indians were to receive as consideration for the same $300,000, to be invested in five per cent stocks, the increase of which should be paid to them annually—$110,000 in cash, to be divided among the mixed bloods, and $90,000, in payment of debts owing by the tribes.

In 1848 Wisconsin adopted a state constitution, but ignored the enabling act, and made the northern part of the western boundary of the State along the line of the St. Louis and Rum rivers, which was not accepted by the United States government, and the boundary line from the Mississippi river to Lake Superior became fixed, as in the enabling act, on the line of the St. Croix river and in a direct line to the mouth of the St. Louis river.

After the acceptance of the Wisconsin constitution, in May, 1848, the territory north and west of the St. Croix and Mississippi rivers being practically without a government, the Hon. John Catlin, claiming to be still secretary and acting governor of Wisconsin Territory, issued a proclamation for a special election, to elect a delegate to Congress. The election was held October 30th, and Hon. H. H. Sibley was chosen delegate, and after some delay was admitted as such into the Congress of the United States.

On March 3, 1849, Congress passed an act to establish the territorial government of Minnesota. It fixed the seat of government at St. Paul, and established the southern boundary of the territory along the north and west boundary lines of the State of Iowa, from the Mississippi river to the Missouri river, the western boundary through the middle of the channel of the Missouri river to the mouth of the White Earth river, and up the middle of the channel of the White Earth river to the boundary line between the United States and Great Britain, the northern boundary running thence easterly and southeasterly on the international boundary line to Lake Superior, and the eastern boundary running thence in a straight line to the northernmost point of the State of Wisconsin, and following the north and west boundary of said state down the St. Croix and Mississippi rivers to the place of beginning. At this time the population of the Territory was mainly in the section east of the Mississippi river, and the settlers almost entirely engaged in lumbering. The territorial government was declared fully organized June 1, 1849, by Hon. Alexander Ramsey, who had been appointed first territorial governor. The year 1849 was noted as the year of excitement from the discovery of gold in California, and the eyes of many thousands of people throughout the east were turned westward, where opportunities were opening for the growth of new states. Although at the organization of the Territory there were scarcely a thousand people, within a year the census of 1850 gave to the Territory a population of 6,077. Of this number, however, 1,134 residents were credited to the northernmost part of the Territory on the Red River of the North, many of these being half-breeds, and the early pioneers engaged in the fur trade, brought there through the influence of the Hudson Bay Company.

The first territorial election was held on the first day of August, 1849.

The first session of the territorial legislature commenced in St. Paul, Sept. 3, 1849, during which counties were established and a code of laws enacted. The second session was commenced in January, 1851, at which time the capital was permanently located at St. Paul, the university at St. Anthony, and the state prison at Stillwater.

In 1851 three treaties were made with the Sioux and with the Chippewa bands of Indians, whereby large tracts of lands were relinquished to the United States.

In view of the great extent of country desired, and the importance of the transaction, and the long continued friendship of the Dakota nation, President Fillmore departed from the usual mode of appointing commissioners, and deputed the Hon. Luke Lea, the commissioner of Indian affairs, and Gov. Alexander Ramsey to meet the representatives of the Dakotas, and to conclude with them a treaty for such lands as they might be willing to sell.

On the twenty-seventh of June, 1851, Commissioner Lea arrived in St. Paul on the Steamboat Excelsior, and on the twenty-ninth he, in company with Gov. Ramsey, landed at Traverse des Sioux, where the great council was to be held, and the treaty consummated with the Sisseton and Wahpeton bands of Sioux. Great delay in the proceedings was caused by the non-arrival of certain Sioux chiefs from the upper country, and it was not until the eighteenth of July that the council convened, and the preliminaries to the treaty commenced. During this interval of about twenty days they all entertained themselves as best they could with races, dances, suppers, sham fights, and all sorts of fun.

On the eighteenth of July, all the chiefs having arrived, proclamation was made, and being convened in grand council and the pipe of peace having been passed around, the council was opened by an address from Gov. Ramsey. On the twenty-third of July the treaty was concluded and signed by the chiefs, by which they ceded to the United States all the lands claimed by these bands east of the Sioux Wood, or Bois des Sioux, and Big Sioux rivers and Lake Traverse to the Mississippi, excepting a reservation one hundred miles long by twenty miles wide, on the headwaters of the Minnesota river.

This sale included 21,000,000 acres of the finest land in the world. By this treaty the Indians were to remove within two years to the reservation; to receive from our government, after removal, $275,000, to enable them to settle up their affairs and to become established in their new home; $30,000 was to be expended in breaking land, erecting mills and establishing a manual labor school; and they were also to receive, for fifty years from that time, an annuity of $68,000, payable as follows: Cash, $40,000; civilization fund, $12,000; goods and provisions, $10,000; education fund, $6,000.

On the twenty-ninth of July, 1851, Gov. Ramsey and Commissioner Lea met the chiefs and leading men of the Med-ay-wakantoo and Wah-pay-koo-tay bands of Sioux at a grand council at Mendota, to negotiate another treaty for the sale of other lands, which treaty was concluded on the fifth of August, and signed by sixty-four chiefs, head men and warriors. By this treaty these bands of Indians ceded and relinquished all their lands in the Territory of Minnesota and State of Iowa, and in consideration thereof the United States was to reserve for them a home of the average width of ten miles on either side of the Minnesota river, and bounded on the west by the Tchay-tam-bay and Yellow Medicine rivers, on the east by the Little Rock river, and a line running due south from its mouth to the Waraju river; and to pay them the following sums of money: For settling debts and aid in removal, $220,000; for erection of buildings and opening farms, $30,000; civilization fund, to be paid annually, $12,000; educational fund, paid annually, $6,000; goods and provisions, annually, $10,000; cash, $30,000. The annuities were to continue for fifty years from date of treaty.

The commissioners, in their report of Aug. 6, 1851, to Hon. A. H. H. Stuart, secretary of the interior, say "the amount of land acquired by these treaties is computed at over thirty-five (35) millions of acres." Embraced in the articles of cession as part of the above purchase were 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 acres lying in the State of Iowa, between the line of the old "neutral ground" and the northern and western boundaries of the State. This tract of country, and generally all lands whatever in the State of Iowa claimed by the Sioux, were therefore embraced in the articles of cession of both treaties.

The Senate of the United States, on the twenty-third of June, 1852, ratified the treaties, with amendments to each, which amendments were subsequently accepted by the Indians, and on the twenty-fourth of February, 1853, President Millard Fillmore issued his proclamation accepting, ratifying and confirming each of the said treaties as amended. The total amount of land relinquished to the government by these two treaties amounted to over 28,000,000 acres in Minnesota.

The third treaty of 1851 was effected by Gov. Ramsey with the Red Lake and Pembina bands of Chippewas at Pembina, by which they ceded certain territory, sixty-five miles in width by one hundred and fifty miles in length, intersected by the Red River of the North. This treaty was not ratified by the government.

After the ratification of these treaties with the Sioux, a great wave of immigration set in from all the eastern states, and an era of speculation started which probably has never been excelled in any portion of the west. A census taken in 1857 gave a population of 150,037.

Notwithstanding there was an abundant supply of good land outside of the limits of the land ceded under these treaties, the adventurous spirit of the pioneers led many of them to settle on the extreme limits of the grant, and in immediate proximity to the Indian settlements. In the southwestern portion of the State, particularly, settlements were made close to the boundary line of Iowa and north and west of Spirit Lake. Some were in Iowa and some were in Minnesota, and all were within the jurisdiction of the Indian agent resident in the Territory of Minnesota. Although the Indians were living on the reservation lands west of these settlements, in their hunting expeditions they were accustomed to return to the ceded lands. In a general way the Indians were civil, and committed only petty depredations; but their visits were at times annoying. Among the Indians there was a single band, under the leadership of Ink-pa-du-ta, or the Scarlet Point, of about fifteen lodges, which had been for many years an independent band, and of a thieving, vagabondish character (really outlaws from the Sioux nation, and not represented in the treaties of 1851), who had taken possession of a strip of land running on both sides of the boundary lines of Iowa and Minnesota, and extending to the Missouri river. In March, 1857, a few of these Indians were hunting in the neighborhood of Rock river, and one of them was bitten by a dog belonging to a white man. The dog was killed by the Indian, and in return the owner of the dog made an assault upon the Indian, and afterward gathered his neighbors, and they went to the Indian camp and disarmed them. The arms were afterward returned to them, and the party moved northeast, arriving at the Spirit lake settlement about the sixth of March, where they massacred the men and took four women into captivity. Other settlements were attacked, and altogether forty-two settlers were killed. Two of the women were afterward rescued through the efforts of Hon. Charles E. Flandrau, then the Indian agent. An effort was made to punish this band of savages, but all escaped except the oldest son of Ink-pa-du-ta, who had ventured into the camp of other Sioux, near the agency, and was killed in an attempt to capture him.

In 1855 and 1856 town-site speculation became the absorbing thought; and when the panic of 1857 set in, Minnesota was soon in a deplorable condition. The demand for an extensive railroad system and a state government had originated in the flush times of 1856 and 1857, and on Feb. 26, 1857, Congress passed an act authorizing a constitutional convention, and granting a large amount of lands in aid of public schools. On March 3, 1857, an act of Congress was approved making a large grant of lands in aid of railroads.

The election of members of the constitutional convention was held June 1, 1857, and the result was an almost equal division representing the Democratic and Republican parties. So close was this division, and there being some contested seats, when the convention assembled, on July 13, two distinct organizations were made, each proceeding to frame a constitution, but finally, by conference committees, they united in one document, which was submitted to a vote of the people on October 13, and was adopted almost unanimously. By this constitution the boundaries of the State were changed on the west, making the Red River of the North the line, up to the Bois des Sioux, along that river and through Lake Traverse and Big Stone lake, and by a direct south line to the north boundary of Iowa.

This constitution provided for an election of State Officers at the same time of voting upon the adoption of the constitution, resulting, by a close vote, in the election of the Democratic nominees. The first State legislature was convened on the 2d of December, 1857, and continued in session until March 25, 1858, when a recess was taken until after the State should be admitted. Some doubts were raised as to the legality of the acts of the legislature previous to admission by Congress. The act of admission was passed and approved May 11, 1858. The legislature again assembled in June, and finally adjourned Aug. 12, 1858. During this prolonged session the embryo State was without funds, and a loan of $250,000 was authorized; but as the acts of the legislature before admission were somewhat irregular, the loan could not be readily negotiated. To tide over the difficulty State warrants were issued in the form of bank notes, and passed current, with more or less discount, until the summer of 1858, when they were redeemed from the proceeds of the loan consummated after the admission of the State.

The first legislature worked diligently in what they considered the best interest of the State, and as the grant of lands by the United States in aid of railroads within the State had to be turned over to companies, a large part of the session was devoted to railroad legislation. The scheme of further aid to companies who might be willing to undertake the building of railroads was originated, and commonly denominated the "Five Million Loan Bill," contemplating the loan of the credit of the State, to that amount, in such sums as would be paid upon the grading and final completion of certain miles of road. On a submission of this law to the people it was adopted by a large majority. The opposition at the time of the vote upon this measure was very bitter, and continued after bonds were being issued, and with the dissatisfaction arising from the small amount of work completed and the large amount of bonds issued, threatenings of repudiation advocated by leading men in the State caused a distrust in financial circles and a final collapse of the whole scheme, and the foreclosure of the mortgages taken by the State upon the railroad lands and franchises, and the abandonment of all railroad construction for the time being. The total amount of bonds issued under this provision of the constitution was $2,275,000. By the foreclosure proceedings the State acquired about 250 miles of graded road, the franchises of the companies and the lands, amounting to five millions of acres, as indemnity for this issue of bonds. Notwithstanding the State had acquired all the rights, including the improvements of the railroad companies, the feeling against any settlement of the bonds was strong enough to secure an amendment to the constitution in 1860 prohibiting the passage of any law levying a tax or making other provision for the payment of the principal or interest of these bonds without having the same submitted to a vote of the people and adopted.

The two years following the crash of 1857 were replete with financial disaster and a shrinkage of inflated values in town-sites; but the country was filling up with farmers, and the rich soil of the State was giving abundant harvests.

The political contest of 1859 was bitter, and resulted in the Republican party carrying the State, both for State officers and the legislature.

The census of 1860 gave the State a population of 172,023. During this year there was great hope of a largely increased immigration into the country; but the political situation in the Union, starting with the opening of the presidential campaign of that year, soon indicated a disturbing element throughout the country, and distrust and depression were manifest on all sides, which was not allayed by the result of the presidential election. The war period, commencing with the time of the president's proclamation in April, 1861, to the final close of the rebellion in 1865, did not permit any material growth in the State. About twenty-five thousand of her able-bodied citizens volunteered and were enlisted in the Union army.

The Indian reservation set apart by the treaties of 1851, a tract twenty miles wide on the upper part of the Minnesota river, embracing some of the finest lands in the State, was becoming a barrier to settlements in the upper Minnesota valley. Settlers had taken lands close up to the reservation, and there was considerable complaint that Indians were coming off the reservation and committing petty depredations, and the Indians had more or less complaints to make regarding the extortions practiced by the post traders. The encroachments of the whites were viewed with suspicion by the Indians, and sooner or later, from these causes alone, a conflict would probably have occurred. The War of the Rebellion, calling away so many of the able-bodied men of the State, left the frontier settlements almost defenceless, and doubtless caused the younger portion of the tribes to become more offensive to the settlers, and more exacting in their demands.

The lands embraced within the reservation under the treaties of 1851 were in the very heart of Minnesota, and, considering the forests and streams, were the choicest of farming lands. The settlers on the border were anxiously coveting this Garden of Eden. A sentiment was created throughout the State that the Indians should abandon the tribal relations and become civilized. To this end the head men of the Dakota nation were induced, in 1858, to go to Washington, under the charge of Hon. Joseph R. Brown, in whom they had great confidence, for the purpose of negotiating for the whole or a part of this reservation. Treaties were signed ceding the ten-mile strip on the north side of the river, upon the payment of $140,000, and the government provided that every head of a family or single person over the age of twenty-one years adopting a civilized life should secure in fee eighty acres of land. From some cause the payments of $140,000 were never made, and there was great dissatisfaction on account of this treaty among those of the tribes who were averse to accepting the condition of civilization; and from the fact that there was no money divided among them on account of this relinquishment, a bitter dissension arose between the older chiefs and the younger members, the latter claiming that they had been robbed either by the chiefs or by the government, and they proposed to have the settlement, peaceful or otherwise.

This internal strife was augmented from year to year by the withdrawal of families who were willing to accept the civilization fund, the number in three years succeeding the treaty amounting to one hundred and sixty persons. They were, however, still annuity Indians, and claimed the right to be heard in the councils. The annuity Indians, all told, numbered about six thousand two hundred, and the annual cash payment to each person amounted to about fifteen dollars. The Indians were treated as wards of the United States. Two agencies were established, around which were gathered storekeepers to sell the Indians goods in anticipation of the annuity payments; and, usually, the annual payment was simply a settlement of the claims of the traders, who took the risk of furnishing the goods in advance. That there was injustice practiced upon the Indians is doubtless true; probably not so great as the disaffected Indians imagined. There was enough, however, to make the time of the annual payment an anxious period, for fear of an outbreak. The failure of the government in its attempt to punish the Spirit lake murderers had a tendency to create a feeling among the leaders of the rebellious spirit that if they could only unite the whole body of Sioux in an uprising they could make a successful attack upon the settlers, and perhaps regain the lands formerly held by the Indians. The War of the Rebellion, starting in 1861, gave renewed energy to the discontent. The Indians were well aware of the reverses of the Union forces during the first year of the war. The calls for troops were taking the able-bodied men from the farms, and many of the half-breeds had volunteered for the army. All these conditions had a disquieting effect, and, added to this, in 1862 the June payment was not made; and as there was no satisfactory answer for the delay, the traders took advantage of the necessities of the Indians and insinuated that perhaps the government would go to pieces, and there would be no further payments. The missionaries endeavored to counteract these evil influences, and, with the aid of the civilized Indians, succeeded in averting deliberate outbreak. The delay in payment of annuities, however, tended to keep up the discontent, particularly among the younger braves, who were the hunters. Their vagabond life brought them into the settlements, and in contact with the whites; and their worthless, lazy habits made them offensive to the families, as beggars of meals or money, or anything that took their fancy.

These are, in brief, the circumstances which led up to the great massacre of 1862, which for a short time threatened the lives of all the settlers on the western boundary of the State. There was no concerted action for the massacre, and to some extent there is an uncertainty as to why the first murders were committed. Four young men or boys are believed to have commenced the massacre, in a spirit of bravado, making a threatening attack first upon a family, driving them from their home, and afterward following them to a neighbor's house, where, after an altercation with the families, they killed three men and two women. These occurrences took place on the seventeenth of August, in the township of Acton, twelve miles west of Litchfield. Realizing that if they remained in the vicinity punishment would soon overtake their murderous acts, they lost no time in going back to camp, relating what they had done, and asking protection. A hasty consultation was had between two of the chiefs; they realized that the murderers must be given up, or the annuities would be stopped, and a war of extermination would be inaugurated. They chose to stand by the murderers, and immediately following there was a general uprising of the entire Sioux bands. So swift were their movements, before any effective resistance could be brought against them, that about eight hundred of the settlers, men, women and children, were murdered within a few days. The prompt action of the State authorities, aided by the national government, resulted in the capture of about 2,000 of the belligerent Indians and the withdrawal of the remainder beyond the boundaries of the State, into the wilds of Dakota. Of the captured Indians 303 were found guilty of murder and rape, and were condemned to death by a military court martial. Of this number 265 were reprieved by President Lincoln, and the remainder, thirty-eight of the most prominent engaged in the massacre, were hung in Mankato on the 26th of December, 1862. The next year the general government authorized an expedition against the Indians who had escaped to the Dakota plains, because of their constant raids in small squads on the frontiers of the State for the purpose of horse-stealing and marauding upon adventurous settlers who might risk going back to their abandoned farms. After two decisive encounters, the Indians retreated beyond the Missouri river, and in 1864 another expedition was sent forward and a final settlement of the Sioux outbreak was accomplished, by a confiscation and surrender of the ponies and arms of most of the bands hostile to the government.

The several tribes of Sioux Indians were engaged in this massacre; and were the representatives of the tribes that had made the cession of lands in 1851, under the first and second treaties of that year. Under these treaties the government had set aside a trust fund of several millions of dollars, from which there was paid annually the sum of $150,000. Settlers who had lost property urged their claims for indemnity, and Congress promptly established a commission to receive all claims, and investigate the facts. The commission was duly organized and established headquarters in the city of St. Paul, and carefully examined all the claims presented. The total number filed was 2,940, with damages amounting to $2,458,795.16. The commission allowed 2,635 claims, and cut down the damages to $1,370,374. By act of Congress these claims were paid, and the annuities and all further payments to the tribes were stopped. The State was also reimbursed for extraordinary expenses incurred during the period of insurrection.

On the second of October, 1863, a treaty was concluded at the old crossing of Red Lake river, about twelve miles east of the present city of Crookston, by Alexander Ramsey and Ashley C. Morrill, and the chiefs and head men of the Red Lake and of the Pembina bands of Chippewa Indians, for the cession of a large tract of country, being the same land embraced in one of the treaties of 1851, but not ratified at that time, of which the boundaries are as follows: Commencing at the intersection of the national boundary with the Lake of the Woods; thence in a southwest direction to the head of Thief river; thence following that stream to its mouth; thence southeasterly in a direct line toward the head of Wild Rice river, and thence following the boundary of the Pillager cession of 1855 to the mouth of said river; thence up the channel of the Red river to the mouth of the Sheyenne; thence up said river to Stump lake, near the eastern extremity of Devil's lake; thence north to the international boundary; and thence east on said boundary to the place of beginning. It embraced all of the Red River valley in Minnesota and Dakota, except a small portion previously ceded, and was estimated to contain 11,000,000 acres. This treaty was ratified by the Senate, with amendments, March 1, 1864. The Indians, on the 12th of April, 1864, assented to the amendments, and President Lincoln, by his proclamation of the 5th of May, 1864, confirmed the treaty.

The close of the Civil war in the spring of 1865, and the return of the soldiers, and the assurance of no further depredations from the Sioux Indians, started a new era of prosperity and rapid growth. The legislature, in the meantime, had granted charters on the foreclosed roadbeds and lands to new railroad companies, and the construction of roads was furnishing abundant labor to all who were coming to the State. The population at this time was 250,099, and in 1870 the population had increased to 439,706, nearly doubling in five years. The railroad companies had within the same period constructed nearly 1,000 miles of railroad, and continued their building with even greater vigor until the financial crisis of 1873 brought all public enterprises again to a stand, and produced stagnation in all the growing towns. The farmers had been active in developing the country, and were adding largely to the productions of the State when the grasshopper raids, for the time being, destroyed the growing crops, and caused great financial distress for two or three years.

The census of 1875 gave the State a population of 597,407, still showing a fair increase, but small in comparison with the five years following the close of the rebellion. By 1878 the State had fairly recovered from the financial crash of 1873, but speculation has at no time since 1878 been so reckless as during the two periods ending in 1857 and 1873.

Along with the prosperity of the State, caused so largely by the rapid railroad building, the State pride began to assert itself with more force, and the prominent citizens continued to urge an adjustment of the dishonored railroad bonds. In 1877 a proposition setting aside the proceeds of 500,000 acres for internal improvement lands in settlement was by act of the legislature submitted to a vote at a special election called for the 12th of June, and was voted down by the decisive vote of 59,176 against, to 17,324 votes for, the proposition. This vote was largely owing to the fact that the State at that time had almost an entire new population that had come into the State long after the bonds were issued and had no definite knowledge of the history of the original indebtedness.

In 1881 the legislature enacted a law providing for the adjustment of these bonds, and designating the judges of the supreme court as a commission to make the settlement. The constitutionality of this law was questioned, a writ of injunction was served, and the final determination of the supreme bench was that the law was unconstitutional, as also the amendment of 1860, prohibiting any settlement without a vote of the people. This latter act had previously been determined unconstitutional by the supreme court of the United States. An extra session of the legislature was called in October of the same year, when the final adjustment was authorized by act of the legislature, on a basis of fifty per cent of the amount nominally due, and, after a careful examination of all the claims presented, the bond question was forever set at rest by the issue of adjustment bonds, to the amount of $4,282,000, to parties entitled to receive them. For the payment of these bonds the proposition of setting aside the proceeds of the 500,000 acres of internal improvement lands was again submitted at the general election in 1881, and by a vote of 82,435 votes in favor, and 24,526 votes against, the action of the legislature was ratified and the stigma of repudiation removed, which had been fastened upon the State by the popular vote of 1877.

In 1880 the national census gave us a population of 780,773, and the State census of 1885 swelled these figures to 1,117,798, indicating the extraordinary growth of forty-three per cent; but an examination of the figures shows us that the growth was mainly confined to the cities, being nearly eighty per cent of increase, while in the farming community and small towns the percentage of increase was only twenty per cent.

During the ten years between 1880 and 1890 there was a period of great activity in railroad building, and 2,310 miles of road were put in operation. This alone gave great energy to the business of the State, and caused a large increase in the population of the cities, and gradually culminated in a most extravagant real estate boom, and an era of the wildest speculation. In the country the growth was normal over the entire State, although large numbers of farmers in the southern half of the State were attracted to the plains of Dakota, where great activity was being developed by the pushing of railroads into different sections of the territory.

The settlement of the Dakotas and the consequent breaking up of the virgin land, after the year 1885, almost doubled the wheat yield of the north-western states, so that the farmers of Minnesota were soon confronted with the question whether wheat should continue to be their leading staple. In the southern part of the State the wheat return was not enough per acre to yield any profit to the farmer at the reduced prices; and gradually methods have changed, so that the leading agricultural industries now include dairying, stock raising, and a general diversified farming. It seems probable that Minnesota will long hold her place as the greatest wheat-producing state, and will also earn a greater reputation as the best all-round farming state in the Union.

The national census of 1890 gave us a population of 1,301,826, an increase of 184,028 in five years, of which amount about 70,000 increase went to the cities and 114,000 to the country districts, showing eighteen per cent increase in the cities and fifteen per cent increase in the country. The state census of 1895 showed an increase of 272,793, or 21.95 per cent, in the preceding five years, giving a total population of 1,574,619.

Minnesota was the first state of the Union to respond to the call of the president for volunteers at the beginning of the war with Spain, in April, 1898. Three regiments, designated as the Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth Regiments of Minnesota Volunteers, were mobilized at St. Paul, April 29th, and were mustered into the United States service May 7th and 8th. The Fifteenth Regiment was mustered into service July 18th. In total this State furnished 5,315 officers and enlisted men for the volunteer army. At the close of the war the Twelfth and Fourteenth Regiments returned to Minnesota, and were mustered out of service in November. The Fifteenth Regiment continued in service until March 27, 1899; and the Thirteenth Regiment, after more than a year of service in the Philippine Islands, was mustered out Oct. 3, 1899.

According to the last national census, the population of Minnesota June 1, 1900, was 1,751,394, showing an increase of 34.5 per cent during the preceding decade. The population of her five largest cities was as follows: Minneapolis, 202,718; St. Paul, 163,065; Duluth, 52,969; Winona, 19,714, and Stillwater, 12,318.

CHRONOLOGICAL.

- 1635. Jean Nicolle, an explorer from France, who had wintered in the neighborhood of Green Bay, brought to Montreal the first mention of the aborigines of Minnesota.
- 1659-60. Groseilliers and Radisson wintered among the Sioux of the Mille Lacs region, Minnesota, being its first white explorers. In a previous expedition, four years earlier, they are thought to have come to Prairie Island, west of the main channel of the Mississippi, between Red Wing and Hastings.
- 1661. Father Rene Menard left Keweenaw, on Lake Superior, to visit the Hurons, then in northern Wisconsin, and was lost near the sources of the Black and Chippewa rivers. His breviary and cassock were said to have been found among the Sioux.
- 1679. July 2d, Daniel Greysolon Du Lhut (Duluth) held a council with the Sioux at Kathio, their principal settlement on the shore of Mille Lacs. Du Lhut, in June, 1680, by way of the St. Croix river, reached the Mississippi, and met Hennepin.
- 1680. Louis Hennepin, after captivity in the village of the Mille Lacs Sioux, first saw the Falls of St. Anthony.
- 1689. May 8th, Nicolas Perrot, at his Fort St. Antoine, on the Wisconsin shore of Lake Pepin, laid formal claim to the surrounding country for France. He built a fort also on the Minnesota shore of this lake, near its outlet.
- 1695. Le Sueur built a fort or trading post on Isle Pelee, now called Prairie island, above Lake Pepin.
- 1700. Le Sueur established Fort L'Huillier, on the Blue Earth river (near the mouth of the Le Sueur), and first supplied the Sioux with firearms.
- 1727. The French established a third fort on Lake Pepin, with Sieur de La Perriere as commander.
- 1728. Great flood in the Mississippi.
- 1763. By the treaty of Versailles, France ceded Minnesota, east of the Mississippi, to England, and west of it to Spain.
- 1766. Captain Jonathan Carver visited St. Anthony falls and Minnesota river. He claimed to have made a treaty with the Indians the following spring, in a cave, afterward called "Carver's Cave," within the present limits of St. Paul, at which he said they ceded

- to him an immense tract of land, long known as "Carver's Claim," but never recognized by government.
1796. Laws of the Ordinance of 1787 extended over the Northwest Territory, including the northeastern third of Minnesota, east of the Mississippi river.
- 1798-99. The Northwestern Fur Company established itself in Minnesota.
1800. May 7th, that part of Minnesota east of the Mississippi became a part of Indiana by the division of Ohio.
1803. April 30th, that part of Minnesota west of the Mississippi, for the preceding forty years in possession of Spain as a part of Louisiana was ceded to the United States by Napoleon Bonaparte, who had just obtained it from Spain.
- 1803-04. William Morrison, the first known white man to discover the source of the Mississippi river, visited Elk lake and explored the streams entering into the lake forming the head of the river.
1805. Lieut. Z. M. Pike visited Minnesota to establish government relations there, and obtained the Fort Snelling reservation from the Dakotas.
1812. The Dakotas, Ojibways, and Winnebagoes, under the lead of hostile traders, joined the British during the war. Red river colony established by Lord Selkirk.
1819. Minnesota, east of the Mississippi river, became a part of Crawford county, Michigan. Fort Snelling established and a post at Mendota occupied by troops, under command of Col. Leavenworth. Maj. L. Taliaferro appointed Indian agent, arriving April 19th.
1820. Corner stone of Fort Snelling laid September 10th. Gov. Cass visits Minnesota and makes a treaty of peace between the Sioux and Ojibways at Fort Snelling. Col. Josiah Snelling appointed to the command of the latter post.
1823. The first steamboat arrived at Mendota, May 10th, Maj. Taliaferro and Beltrami being passengers. Maj. Stephen H. Long explored Minnesota river, the Red river valley, and the northern frontier. Beltrami explored sources of the Mississippi.
1826. Great flood on the Red river; a part of the colony driven to Minnesota, settling near Fort Snelling.
1832. Schoolcraft explored sources of Mississippi river, and named Lake Itasca (formerly called Elk lake).
1833. First mission established at Leech lake by Rev. W. T. Boutwell.
1834. The portion of Minnesota west of the Mississippi attached to Michigan. Gen. H. H. Sibley settled at Mendota.
1835. Catlin and Featherstonhaugh visited Minnesota.
1836. The territory of Wisconsin organized, embracing the part of Minnesota east of the Mississippi, the part on the west being attached to Iowa. Nicollet visited Minnesota.
1837. Gov. Dodge of Wisconsin made a treaty, at Fort Snelling, with the Ojibways, by which the latter ceded all their pine lands on the St.

- Croix and its tributaries; a treaty was also effected at Washington with a deputation of Dakotas for their lands east of the Mississippi. These treaties led the way to the first actual settlements within the area of Minnesota.
- 1838. The treaty ratified by Congress. Franklin Steele makes a claim at St. Anthony falls. Pierre Parrant makes a claim and builds a shanty on the present site of St. Paul.
 - 1839. St. Croix county established.
 - 1841. The "Chapel of St. Paul" built and consecrated, giving the name to the future capital of the State.
 - 1843. Stillwater settled.
 - 1846. August 6th, the Wisconsin enabling act.
 - 1847. The Wisconsin constitutional convention meets. The town of St. Paul surveyed, platted and recorded in St. Croix county register of deeds' office. First improvement of the water power at the Falls of St. Anthony.
 - 1848. May 29th, Wisconsin admitted, leaving the area of Minnesota without a government. August 26th, the "Stillwater convention" held, taking measures for a separate territorial organization, and asking that the new Territory be named Minnesota. October 30th, H. H. Sibley elected delegate to Congress.
 - 1849. January 15th, H. H. Sibley admitted to a seat. March 3d, the bill organizing Minnesota passed. March 19th, its territorial officers appointed. June 1st, Gov. Ramsey declared, by proclamation, the Territory organized. September 3d, the first territorial legislature assembled.
 - 1850. Great flood this year; highest water ever known. Minnesota river first navigated by steamboats. Census shows 6,077 inhabitants.
 - 1851. Permanent location of capital, university and penitentiary; another flood. July 23d, treaty of Traverse des Sioux completed, opening all the territory west of the Mississippi to settlers.
 - 1852. June 22d, the treaty ratified by the United States Senate.
 - 1853. Pierce's administration. W. A. Gorman appointed governor. The capitol building completed.
 - 1854. Celebration of the opening of the Rock Island railroad, the first road to the Mississippi river, by a mammoth excursion, reaching St. Paul June 8th. Large immigration this season and the three succeeding ones, and the real estate mania commences.
 - 1857. Enabling act passes Congress February 26th. Gov. Samuel Medary (appointed by Buchanan) arrives on April 22d. Legislature passes a bill to remove the capital to St. Peter, but it fails to accomplish the object. Ink-pa-du-ta massacre, April. Land grant act passes Congress. April 27th, extra session of the legislature to apportion land grant. July 13th, constitutional convention assembles. Real estate speculation reaches its height, and is checked by the financial panic, August 27th. Great revulsions and

- hard times. Census shows 150,037 population. October 13th, constitution adopted and State Officers elected.
1858. State loan of $250,000 negotiated. Five million loan bill passed by the legislature, March 9th; ratified by vote of the people, April 15th. Great stringency in money market. State admitted May 11th. State officers sworn in May 24th.
1859. Hard times continue to intensify. "Wright County War." "Glen-coe" and "Owatonna" money issued. Work on the land grant roads ceases. Collapse of the five million scheme. First export of grain this fall. Hard political struggle; the Republicans triumph.
1860. Another warm political canvas. Federal census, 172,023.
1861. April 15th, president's proclamation for troops received; the first regiment recruits at once; June 22d, it embarks at Fort Snelling for the seat of war.
1862. Call for 600,000 men. August 17th, massacre at Acton; August 18th, outbreak at Lower Sioux Agency; 19th, New Ulm attacked; 20th, Fort Ridgely attacked; 25th, second attack on New Ulm; 30th, Fort Abercrombie besieged; September 2d, the bloody attack at Birch Coulie. September 19th, first railroad in Minnesota in operation, between St. Paul and Minneapolis. September 23d, battle of Wood Lake; 26th, captives surrendered at Camp Release; military commission tries 321 Indians for murder, rape, etc.; 303 condemned to die; December 26th, 38 hung at Mankato.
1863. General Sibley's expedition to the Missouri river; July 3d, Little Crow killed; July 24th, battle of Big Mound; July 26th, battle of Dead Buffalo Lake; July 28th, battle of Stony Lake.
1864. Large levies for troops. Expedition to Missouri river, under Sully. Inflation of money market. Occasional Indian raids.
1865. Peace returns. Minnesota regiments return and are disbanded. In all 25,052 troops furnished by the State. Census shows 250,000 inhabitants.
- 1866-72. Rapid railroad building everywhere; immigration heavy; "good times" prevail, and real estate inflated.
1873. January 7th, 8th and 9th, polar wave sweeps over the State; seventy persons perish. September, the Jay Cooke failure creates another panic. Grasshopper raid begins and continues five seasons.
1876. September 7th, attack on bank at Northfield by a gang of armed outlaws from Missouri; three of the latter killed and three captured.
1877. Biennial session amendment adopted.
1878. May 2d, three flouring mills at Minneapolis explode; eighteen lives lost.
1880. November 15th, portion of the hospital for the insane at St. Peter destroyed by fire; eighteen inmates burned to death, seven died subsequently of injuries and fright, and six missing; total loss, $150,000.

1881. March 1st, the state capitol destroyed by fire.
1884. January 25th, state prison partially burned.
1886. April 14th, a tornado strikes the cities of St. Cloud and Sauk Rapids, demolishing scores of buildings and killing about seventy people.
1887. Important legislation regarding the liquor traffic, common carriers, and elections.
1889. The legislature enacts the Australian system of voting in cities of 10,000 and over. The first electric street railway started in the State at Stillwater.
1890. United States census shows a population of 1,301,826. July 13th, an excursor steamboat returning from Lake City encampment foundered on Lake Pepin, and 100 people were drowned. July 13th, a tornado swept across Lake Gervais, in Ramsey county, demolishing several buildings and killing six people.
1891. June 15th, a series of tornadoes started in Jackson county, near the town of Jackson, traversing Martin, Faribault, Freeborn, Mower and Fillmore counties, on a line nearly parallel with, but from five to fifteen miles north of, the Southern Minnesota division of the Milwaukee & St. Paul railway, doing a large amount of damage to farms and farm buildings, and causing death to about fifty people along the track of the storm.
1892. June 7th, national convention (Rep.) held at Minneapolis. The Australian system of voting used at the November general election.
1893. The legislature authorizes the appointment of a capitol commission to select a site for a new capitol, and providing a tax of two-tenths of a mill for ten years to pay for the site and the erection of a building. A great financial crisis causes the failure of several banks and many mercantile and manufacturing establishments in the larger cities of the State.
1894. September 1st, forest fires start in the neighborhood of Hinckley, in Pine county, carrying death and destruction over nearly four hundred square miles of territory, destroying the towns of Hinckley and Sandstone, causing the death of four hundred and seventeen people, and rendering homeless and destitute twenty-two hundred men, women and children, and entailing a property loss of about one million dollars.
1895. A census of the State was taken during the month of June, and the total population of the State was found to be 1,574,619.
1896. The Red Lake Indian reservation was diminished to about a quarter part of its former area, and on May 15th a large tract of agricultural and timber lands formerly belonging to that reservation was opened for settlement.
1897. July 2d, the monument at Gettysburg to the First Minnesota Regiment was dedicated.
1898. July 27th, the corner stone of the new capitol was laid. Minnesota supplied four regiments for service in the Spanish war, being the - first state, May 7th, to respond to the president's call. October 5th, the Pillager Indians attacked United States troops near Sugar Point, Leech lake.

1899. Semi-centennial of the Territory and State celebrated by the Old Settlers' Association, June 1st, and by the Historical Society, November 15th.
1900. Population of Minnesota, shown by the national census, 1,751,394. Death of Senator C. K. Davis, November 27th.
1901. In the Pan-American Exposition, at Buffalo, N. Y., the superior exhibits of wheat, flour, and dairy products of Minnesota caused her to be called "the Bread and Butter State."
1902. August 23d, the fortieth anniversary of the Sioux war celebrated at New Ulm. Monuments and tablets erected there and other places in Minnesota valley.
1903. Tide of immigration into Minnesota, particularly in northern and western sections. April 22d, death of Alexander Ramsey, first territorial governor, later governor of state, United States senator and secretary of war.
1904. Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Minnesota exhibits win many first prizes, for flour, butter, fruits, iron ores, work of pupils in schools, etc.
1905. January 3d, legislature convenes in the new capitol.

French forced keep to it, they ordered to stick by it also. We had not long waited for seeing that their arrows were almost spent and they must close together, and by that had an advantage by keeping themselves behind the trees: and so to fall upon we must be with our backs to it. I was much more our company that was foremost: we questioned them in spite of us, plain to show their hearts, so they did so all good; having come to the water and where their boats were, saw the French all in a row, who lay in an ambush to catch them, as they had done, if they had not been for us. For they thinking the canoe was at hand mistreated nothing to it contrary. The French that were in the wood, seeing the evident danger where their country men lay, encouraged the others: who took their arms again and followed the canoe, who not far off way, arrived safe! The French were appalled by good looks. One of the boys quite thinking his boat would be seen, goes quickly and puts it out of sight, and he covers himself. We warned the French to hinder them to go further upon that shore. Our women made a sound, and fell upon them suddenly. The French began a row, they saw the French that were upon the water come near, so reinforced them to take their boats with all haste and leave their booty behind. They saw that the French had thought, made that could catch but the very French, who were enough! The women notwithstanding did not go without their prey, as it was of three men heads that they killed at the first fight. But they left eleven of theirs in the place, besides many more that were wounded. They went straight to their country, which did a great service to the recovery of our sick men, and met with them all their journey, as we heard after words. They went away yesterday, and we stay at home at rest of years. My brother and I considered what we should discover what we have seen or no, and because we had not a full and whole discovery, so it was that we have not been in the bay of the North, not knowing anything but by report of of wild Indians, and would make no mention of it for fear that they wild men should tell us a lie: we would have made a discovery of it ourselves; and have an assurance of it: so should I discover anything of it.

The end of the Auxotiacan voyage or the third voyage

The spring following following we were in hopes to make with some company, having been so fortunate the year before. Now during the winter whether it was that my brother revealed to his wife what we had seen in our voyage, and what we further intended, or how it came to pass it was known, so much that the Indians were desirous to find out away how they might get down the coast from the bay of the North

He discovered the area of Minnesota on St. Croix River and at Mille Lacs.

DESCRIPTIVE.

NAME.

Minnesota derives its name from the river which was named "Minisota" by the Dakotas, pronounced "Min-nee-sotah," applied to the stream, in its natural state in the summer season, after the waters were cleared from the roiling caused by the spring floods. Mini, water; sotah, sky-colored. Apparently to secure the correct pronunciation in English letters, the convention called at Stillwater, in 1848, for the purpose of procuring a territorial organization, instructed their delegates to see that the name of the Territory should be written Min-ne-so-ta.

GEOGRAPHY.

Geographically, Minnesota occupies the exact center of the continent of North America, midway between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and also midway between Hudson Bay and the Gulf of Mexico. This state is bounded on the south by Iowa, on the west by South and North Dakota, on the north by Manitoba and Ontario, and on the east by Wisconsin. It extends from latitude 43 degrees 30 minutes to 49 degrees 24 minutes, and from 89 degrees 29 minutes to 97 degrees 15 minutes west longitude. From its southern boundary to the northern is about 400 miles, and from its most eastern to the extreme western point about 354 miles. In a foot-note on article 2 of the State constitution the boundaries are fully defined, including a history of the projecting point beyond the forty-ninth parallel, shown upon the map.

AREA.

Minnesota is, in area, the tenth state of the Union. It contains 84,287 square miles, or about 53,943,379 acres, of which 3,608,012 acres are water. In altitude it appears to be one of the highest portions of the continent, as the headwaters of three great river systems are found in its limits, those of streams flowing northward to Hudson bay, eastward to the Atlantic ocean, and southward to the Gulf of Mexico.

About half of this surface, on the south and west, consists of rolling prairie, interspersed with frequent groves, oak openings and belts of hardwood timber, watered by numberless lakes and streams, and covered with a warm, dark soil of great fertility. The rest, embracing the elevated district immediately west and north of Lake Superior, consists mainly of rich mineral ranges and of the pine forests which clothe the headwaters of the Mississippi, affording very extensive supplies of lumber. There is but a very small percentage of broken, rocky or worthless land in the State. Nearly all is arable.

RIVERS.

Numerous rivers and watercourses give it excellent drainage. But few states are so well watered as Minnesota. Its navigable rivers are the Mississippi, the Minnesota, the St. Croix, the St. Louis, the Red River of the North, and the Red Lake river, all of which, near their sources, have extensive water powers; while a number of smaller streams, such as Rum river and Snake river, both valuable for lumbering, the Cannon and Zumbro rivers, the Vermilion, Crow, Blue Earth, Des Moines, Cottonwood, Chippewa, Le Sueur, Root, Elk and Sauk rivers, etc., also furnish fine water powers. These with their tributaries and a host of lesser streams, penetrate every portion of the State. Some of the water powers furnished by these streams are among the finest in America, and many of them have been utilized for manufacturing purposes.

LAKES.

The lakes of Minnesota are more numerous and varied in form than in any other state in the Union. Bordering on the northeast corner of the State for one hundred and fifty miles, the waters of the great Lake Superior wash its shores. Within the State there are about ten thousand lakes, the largest of which is Red lake, in the extreme central northern part of the State, bordered partly by dense pine forests, with its overflow through Red Lake river, by a devious course, into the Red River of the North. On the same northern slope, in St. Louis county, is the beautiful Vermilion lake, with its tributaries, at the edge of the great Vermilion iron range, and flowing into Rainy lake, on the northern boundary, and then through Rainy Lake river into the Lake of the Woods, and thence into Lake Winnipeg, and finally into Hudson bay. On the southern slope of the State we have Itasca lake, as the source of the Mississippi, with Cass lake, Lake Winnibigoshish, Leech lake, and other innumerable lakes, all adding volume to the waters of the Mississippi, eventually flowing into the Gulf of Mexico. Then we have Mille Lacs, the source of Rum river, and the picturesque Lake Minnetonka. These are the largest lakes in the State. Of these, however, only Minnetonka, White Bear, Bald Eagle and Chisago lakes have so far been much utilized as summer resorts. The incomparable park region, traversed by the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads, is the paradise of summer idlers, of hunters and fishermen; but it is not in this portion alone that all the beautiful lakes are found. The northeastern and the southwestern sections each have numerous lakes to attract the summer visitor.

There is an undoubted modification of the climate of the State, caused by these numerous bodies of water, giving a most delightful summer temperature.

Fine varieties of fish are abundant in all these lakes; and the State expends annually several thousand dollars, through a game and fish commission, to improve the varieties, and to prevent their wanton destruction.

ELEVATION.

Surveys with leveling from the sea show that the shore of Lake Superior is the lowest land in the State, 602 feet above sea level. The waters of the northeastern part of the State south of the Mesabi iron range flow into Lake Superior, and are carried to the Atlantic ocean. The Mississippi river, having its chief source in Lake Itasca, at 1,466 feet elevation, runs in a southerly direction, leaving the State at 620 feet above sea level.

The Red River of the North, rising in the north, near Itasca lake, at a height of 1,600 feet above the ocean, after a circuitous route south and west to Breckenridge, in Wilkin county, and then flowing north along its great valley, leaves the State at an elevation of 750 feet. The average elevation of the State is given at about 1,275 feet. The highest elevation is the Misquah hills, in Cook county, 2,230 feet.

CLIMATE.

The elevation of Minnesota above the sea, its fine drainage, and the dryness of the atmosphere give it a climate of unusual salubrity and pleasantness. It has an annual mean temperature of 44 degrees, while its mean summer temperature is 70 degrees, the same as that of middle Illinois and Ohio, southern Pennsylvania, etc. The excessive heats of summer often felt in other states are here tempered by the cooling breezes. Its high latitude gives it correspondingly longer days in summer than states further south, and during the growing season there are two and one-half hours more sunshine than in the latitude of Cincinnati. This, taken in connection with the abundant rainfall of early summer, accounts for the rapid and vigorous growth of crops in Minnesota, and their early maturity. The cool breezes and cool nights in summer prevent the debilitating effects of heat often felt in low latitudes. The winter climate is one of the attractive features of the State. Its uniformity, and prevailing freedom from thaws and excessive spells of cold, severe weather or heavy snow storms, and its dryness, together with the bright sunshine and electrical condition of the air, all tend to enhance the personal comfort of the resident, and make outdoor life and labor a pleasure.

These features tend to make this climate the healthiest in the Union. It gives life and briskness to those performing manual labor, enabling them to do more work than in a damper or duller climate. Even live stock enjoy the winters, and are easily kept in good condition.

STATE PARKS.

ITASCA STATE PARK.

The Itasca State Park was established by the Legislature in 1891, the Government of the United States, by an Act of Congress, contributing that portion of the area which remained as a part of the public domain. There are two small additions to the Park, one on the north end at the outlet of Itasca Lake, containing about 160 acres, and a strip of land on the east side of the park area, known as the Three Mile Strip, three miles long and an eighth of a mile wide. The Park is beautifully timbered with evergreens and deciduous trees and wonderful mosses and flora of various kinds, including three species of the state flower; the purple, the yellow and an intermediate variety, which blooms in the month of May, about the size of a small silver coin.

GEOLOGY.

The geological formation at Itasca Basin has never been determined by scientific geological field research. The geological situation of the area of the Park in its various features is one of the most peculiar in the State of Minnesota.

Pieces of the encrustment of the cooling earth produced greenstones, the oldest known in the world, and formations of slate in situ is adjoining extensive granite deposits where neighboring quarries give indications of the deposit of lime stone and a formation of shale, extending to portions of northern Minnesota adjoining the Mississippi River, specialized generously at Little Falls, in Morrison County. In Kakabikansing, a small volume describing these formations, Prof. N. H. Winchell has given to the world a concise statement of the geology of that locality. From that statement many questions have been developed and considered, one of which is the formation of the clay ridges adjoining a sandy plain originally deposited, while the ice-sheet enveloping the northern area of Minnesota covered the present extent of Itasca State Park. There were undoubtedly numerous crevices in the melting ice, as it was disappearing from the surface of the region; boulders, cobbles, gravel and clay were drawn down into those crevices in quantities, which, at various points cover the surface more than 400 feet in depth. That condition of geological phenomena was extensive at the time Itasca Basin was formed. The hills on the west side of the

Basin extend north and south to a point near the southwest corner of the Park, where there is an abrupt continuance toward the east, forming an elbow-like area with a south-sloping exterior; the interior flanks extending to Itasca Lake at the pit of the Basin, the area of which being the comparative dip which ends at the elbow formation by the trending of hills. It is a problem whether the entire Basin was filled with water by an extensive lake, several miles long and three or four miles in width with an outlet southward through Two Inlet lakes creating Fishhook River, or whether the outlet was through one of these great crevices presumed to have been there located at the time that the ice was disappearing. Whatever may be the final determination of that question it is certain that there was a glacial lake located inside of the Basin at the time the ice was resting against the base of the hills, when recession took place, the waters of that lake having cut a channel following the disappearance of the ice, for the reason that the formation of the region was descending northward as the Mississippi River originally proceeded from that glacial body of water. It has been named Lake Winchell in honor of the distinguished geologist hereinbefore named. The channel was cut in an immediate northwest direction from the outlet of Itasca Lake, and as the waters receded from Kakabikans Rapids, Winchell Lake was divided by a lowering process so that we now have Hernando de Soto Lake at the crest of the Basin and Elk, Itasca, Mary, Deming and other lakes at the lower area of the locality. The Mississippi River then proceeds in its winding, meandering channel northward, north-eastward, eastward, southeastward and southward, several hundred miles to Aitkin where, by a tumultuous condition of nature, caused by the uplifting of the surface of the earth, the river was deflected sharply to the westward, thence southward and thence southeastward around the area covered by the Mille Lacs Basin; thence it takes its course southward to the Gulf of Mexico over 2,550 miles from Hernando de Soto Lake, the body of water which is at the head of the Mississippi River system without an outlet but with the natural power to furnish seepage for innumerable springs immediately below the shores of that lake, from which flows the head branches of the Mississippi River about one foot wide and one or two inches in depth.

The elevation of this Basin was determined three times; first by a surface course from the railroad system of the state in 1889, by J. V. Brower; second, from the top of the tie at Park Rapids, Minnesota, to Itasca Lake by the same authority; third, the Mississippi River Commission, under the direction of Col. A. T. Morrow. The results were as follows:

	Feet.
First Brower Line, March, 1889, Fosston branch survey.....	1,470
Second Brower Line, from Park Rapids.....	1,457
Third Line from Gulf of Mexico, by the Commission.....	1,466

The difference of 13 feet between the first two determinations was caused by a misunderstanding of the double bench mark at the crossing of the Mississippi River about 10 miles north from Itasca Lake, by the civil engineer who was directed to run that line. The elevation of 1,457 feet determined by the survey from the top of the tie at Park Rapids to the surface of the ice of Itasca Lake is absolutely correct. Whether the elevation of the top of the tie at Park Rapids is referable to a base different from the Gulf of Mexico or whether there is an error in the railroad surveys of the state based on the elevation of Lake Superior, has not been adjusted. It is probably best to adopt the precise line from the Gulf of Mexico to Itasca Lake as being the nearest correct, which final result, in 1900, indicated that the surface of the water at Itasca Lake is 1,466 feet above the sea.

By an undeveloped knowledge of a curious condition which exists at the southwestern extremity of the Itasca Basin, which is inside the state park, somewhere between Hernando de Soto Lake and the source of Otter Tail River, a few miles immediately to the west the Basin terminates. It will be impossible to ascertain the exact area of Itasca Basin until a trigonometrical survey is made extending the Mississippi River chart across the divide between the Itasca Basin and the basin at the head waters of Otter Tail River, the point of division being now unknown and unascertained, situated a short distance west from the west line of the park.

The original survey of the lake was by Henry R. Schoolcraft in 1832, when he spent a few hours in traversing its shore line while in camp on Schoolcraft Island with his party of explorers, under the guidance of O-zawin-dib (Yellow Head), an Indian residing at Cass Lake. Previous to the time Mr. Schoolcraft and his party visited Itasca Lake, it was known to exist by the early fur traders. Hon. Wm. Morrison was there in 1803 and 1812. It has been said, without giving the authority, in encyclopedias, that David Thompson, the astronomer, visited Itasca Lake in 1812. A search in the archives of Canada for the record said to have been made by Mr. Thompson in that year at Itasca Lake, did not result favorably. The old cellar pits of the Fur Company are situated on the bank of the Mississippi River six miles north from the outlet of Itasca Lake. It is probable that Mr. Morrison, and David Thompson (if he was there), made their headquarters at the buildings then covering those cellar pits. After the Schoolcraft survey, in 1836, Jean N. Nicollet, a French astronomer, visited Itasca Lake, giving Mr. Schoolcraft credit for his earlier survey of its shore. He extended that survey to the head branches of the largest affluent stream entering Itasca Lake, now called "Nicollet's Infant Mississippi," to a point where innumerable springs flow from the base of hills just below a body of water covering an area of about 500 acres at the crest of the hills above, now known as Hernando de Soto, Morrison, Whipple and other lakes. The pressure from those bodies of water, which lower the elevation of their surface areas quite rapidly and frequently, creates the seepage which causes those flowing springs to be a living water, creating the true source of the Mississippi River at this most remote branch from the Gulf of Mexico above Itasca Lake. Sentimental and scientific reasons give the honor to these natural springs, which in truth and in fact mean "source" or springing forth. The visitor still insists that Itasca Lake at the pit of the basin is the source of the Mississippi. It draws its supply from those springs, so that the sentimentalist and the scientist seem to have reached correct conclusions by each designating the source according to views which either may have attained in a visit to the locality.

The next visit to Itasca Basin of known importance was by Julius Chambers in 1872. He camped at the northern end of Itasca Lake, skirted its shores in his canoe, discovered a creek connecting that body of water with Elk Lake, proceeded up the creek with his boat and declared Elk Lake to be the source of the Mississippi River, named it Dolly Varden, and reported his discoveries and observations through the medium of the public press of the country.

The next visit to Itasca Lake was by the Zeigfried party of explorers, who also visited Elk Lake in 1879.

The next visit was by Rev. J. A. Gilfillan in 1880, when he preached the first sermon at the source of the Mississippi River at the southwestern extremity of Itasca Lake and within sight of Elk Lake; his congregation being one Ojibway Indian and one Vermont Professor. His address was half Ojibway and half English, addressed to the Indian part of the time and part of the time to the Professor.

The next visit was by Oscar E. Garrison taking the census of the United States in 1880, perfecting a botanical survey of the region adjoining the Mississippi to Pokegama and other points below.

The next visit was in 1881 by a party who then attempted to change geography and the source of the Mississippi by appropriating the results of the labors of others without credit. The attempt was an absolute failure.

In 1883, various settlers located homesteads within Itasca Basin for speculative purposes in pine timber. As soon as they proved up on their claims they removed from the locality, and sold their lands to pine land speculators. Their little shacks are now extant at various points throughout the region in a dilapidated condition showing their homes to have been only temporary in that locality.

In 1886, school book publishers entertained doubts regarding the source of the Mississippi and dispatched Hopewell Clarke to that point for the purpose of making a survey and ascertaining the true condition of hydrographic questions at Itasca Basin. Mr. Clarke failed to note the fact that Hernando de Soto and Morrison Lakes were within the basin, leaving the most prominent and most interesting feature at the source of the Mississippi an unknown question.

The next visit was in 1888, by the J. V. Brower party, when it was discovered in that year by that party that Elk Lake was not the real source of the Mississippi River as had been variously stated. A careful and painstaking exploration of the entire locality was commenced and continued until a fair map was constructed showing the peculiarities of the region not theretofore completely understood.

In 1889, Mr. Brower was sent to the Itasca Basin by the Minnesota Historical Society, under commission, to make a detailed survey of that region. He reported his map to the Society in 1892. On the basis of that survey, the Itasca Park was located by an act of the Legislature in 1891. Printed history of subsequent proceedings through the office of the Secretary of State was had in 1904, now ready for publication. It gives all the details of the proceedings had and taken subsequent to the establishment of Itasca Park. The first form of the park chart was made in 1890, which was adopted by statutory enactment April 20, 1891. Since that time various and numerous parties have visited Itasca Basin for the purpose of exploration and recreation, and many of them have reported the results of their observations in that region, the most important of which was the survey under Col. A. T. Morrow, representing the Mississippi River Commission in 1900. Gov. John Lind visited the park while he was Governor of the state. Finding the density of the forest so great that it was impossible to traverse the region with safety, he ordered the construction of a saddle trail. That saddle trail extends from the southeastern extremity of Itasca Lake westward to Elk Lake, around the north end of Elk Lake, up the Infant Mississippi River to Nicollet's Middle Lake, southward to Whipple Lake, and thence to Hernando de Soto Lake, thence eastward to Gilfillan Lake, thence northward to Deming Lake, thence down Mary Valley to the place of beginning, a distance of 13 miles. Mile posts designate the extension of the Lind saddle trail, which passes through a very picturesque region immediately in sight of the grand pine-covered hills and deep moss-covered savannas, which unite where remotest springs of the Mississippi River take their rise from the bases of massive glacial hills.

The nomenclature of the park is a very interesting question. Slowly and surely it has been evolved by the compilation based upon the original discoveries and subsequent observations and explorations made at the source of the Mississippi River. Different individuals have, from time to time, designated the names of the various localities, the final list having been made by the first park commissioner of Itasca Park, appointed in 1891, reporting the list of names in 1893, in Vol. VII, Minnesota Historical Society Collections, and additional names in a volume entitled "Itasca State Park," an illustrated history of 1904.

The following is the Brower compilation of nomenclatures: The first name attached to Itasca Lake was by the mound builders, who resided at the north end of that body of water. The name by which they knew the Lake has been lost to history. The earliest known name is said in two forms; one, Red Deer Lake and the other Elk, meaning about the same, called by the French, Lac la Biche. When Mr. Schoolcraft visited Itasca Lake with Rev. W. T. Boutwell, they joined in creating the name "Itasca," from two words, "veritas" and "caput." Mr. Boutwell gave the two words as being "truth" and "head," meaning the true head of the Mississippi River. Mr. Schoolcraft took the two last syllables of the first word and the first syllable of the second word, and evolved the word "Itasca," which has become known all over the civilized world. That party named Schoolcraft Island in honor of the chief of the party. Other names were added by piecemeal at various dates. The next one was by Julius Chambers when he produced the fanciful designation of the body of water which he designated in 1872 as Lake Dolly Varden.

Other names of the locality are as follows: Nicollet's Lower, Middle and Upper Lakes at Nicollet Valley, after Jean N. Nicollet.

Bear Point, named by Peter Turnbull, an early resident.

Turnbull Point, after Peter Turnbull.

O-za-win-dib Point, after Schoolcraft's guide.

Garrison Point, after O. E. Garrison.

Rhodes Hill, after an expert photographer of the Brower Expedition, 1889.

Mary Creek, after Mrs. Mary Turnbull, who gave birth to the first white child at Itasca Lake in 1884.

Chambers Creek, after Julius Chambers, its discoverer.

Boutwell Creek, after Rev. W. T. Boutwell, Schoolcraft's companion.

Mary Valley and Mary Lake after Mrs. Mary Turnbull.

Crescent Springs, a flow of water which has created a hill in the midst of the forest, westward from the southwestern extremity of Itasca Lake, near the head of Demary Creek.

Elk Lake, Elk Springs, Elk Creek, Elk Pool are names which were attached to different localities in the region about the Chambers discovery.

Clarke Creek was named after Hopewell Clarke.

Ziegfried Creek, named after Mr. A. H. Ziegfried, the leader of the expedition to Elk Lake in 1879.

Demary Creek, named after Mrs. Georgiana Demary, deceased daughter of Wm. Morrison.

Howard Creek, named after Mrs. Jane S. Howard, an Ojibway Indian quarter-cast, daughter of Henry R. Schoolcraft.

Mississippi Springs, named by the commissioner of Itasca State Park at the geographical end of the region where the Mississippi River takes its rise.

Danger Lake was named from the peculiarities of the region causing the water to flow upon the top of the ice at the southern boundary of that lake creating dangerous conditions in winter time. Later it was changed in its name to Deming Lake, after Hon. Portius C. Deming, a distinguished member of the Minnesota Legislature, during several terms, who ably, actively and successfully took up the work which pressed Itasca Park forward by Legislative enactment into a successfully established institution.

Ako Lake was named after Hennepin's companion, Accault.

Josephine Lake was named after Miss Josephine V. Brower, the only sister of Senator R. B. Brower.

Sibilant Lake was named to indicate its exterior bearing in the form of a letter S.

Clarke Lake was named after Hopewell Clarke.

Little Elk Lake was named as a sequence to Elk Lake. It stands at the head of Elk Creek.

Hall Lake was named after Edwin S. Hall, who subdivided the townships for the United States.

Groseilliers and Radisson Lakes are two small bodies of water named after the earliest discoverers of the area of Minnesota and of the upper Mississippi River west from Mille Lacs; Whipple Lake was named by Rev. J. A. Gilfillan after Rev. H. B. Whipple; Hernando de Soto and Morrison Lakes were discovered to be a part of the Mississippi River system by J. V. Brower in 1889. They were named for the earliest visitor to Itasca Lake and the original discoverer of the Mississippi River, namely, Wm. Morrison and Hernando de Soto.

Brower Island, in Hernando de Soto Lake was named by the Historical Society after its commissioner.

Mikenna Lake was named by Mr. Alfred J. Hill indicating the passage of the pathway past the lake.

Allen Lake was named after Lieut. Jas. A. Allen, U. S. A., sent by the War Department to accompany Schoolcraft to Itasca Lake.

Gaygwadosay Creek was named after an Ojibway Indian, who guided Jean N. Nicollet to Itasca Lake in 1836. He recently died at White Earth at the age of 115 years.

Ocano Springs are a beautiful series of natural flowing waters at the head of Ocano Creek. The name was given by the Ojibway Indians because at that creek for a long period of time they constructed birch bark canoes.

Spring Ridge is a hydrographic peculiarity where the pressure from the lakes above creates innumerable springs pressing the earth upward and outward to an extent which has built a ridge 15, 20 and 30 feet in height to three-quarters of a mile in length.

Gilfillan Lake was named after Rev. J. A. Gilfillan.

McKay Lake was named after Rev. Stanley A. McKay, who celebrated the first baptism of converts in the waters of Itasca Lake in 1891.

The new log structure erected at Itasca Lake for the benefit of the public at its park has been named Itasca Park Lodge. There are on the map of the Mississippi River Commission various other names, part of which is the following, originally agreed upon by conference between members of that commission and the first park commissioner, author of its history:

Comber Point and Bay after Mr. G. W. Comber.

Ray's Point and Bay after Mr. F. G. Ray.

French Creek after Mr. Geo. H. French.

Morrow Heights after Mr. A. T. Morrow, chief of the party.

First Base Point after the First Base, United States Survey, 1900.

Hubbard Ravine, after Hubbard county. It is a deep, extensive ravine through which Ocano Creek originally flowed from a small lake, now only a meadow; not far east from the east arm of Itasca Lake. Lashbrook Lake was named after Mr. J. J. Lashbrook, a resident who had charge of the construction of the Lind saddle trail.

Hays Lake after Mr. E. Hays, assistant surveyor in 1891.

Iron Corner Lake after the iron monument placed at the northeast corner of Becker county.

Budd Lake, a beautiful little gem, deep among the hills, after a family name in Ohio.

Comber Island after Mr. G. W. Comber.

Hill Point after Mr. Alfred J. Hill.

Brower Ridge, named by Dr. Elliott Coues after Mr. J. V. Brower.

Camp Brower is a name applied to a beautiful camping ground by Edw. C. Crampton in 1902, at Mary Creek, now the site of Itasca Park Lodge.

There are several obsolete designations which have not survived, some of which were scientifically applied by Dr. Coues in 1894.

McMullen Lake, near the northwest corner of Itasca Park, was named in honor of Wm. Macmullen, the first permanent settler at Itasca Lake, who was shot there for a deer Oct. 30, 1898. One of the beautiful spots on the west shore of the east arm of Itasca Lake has been named Chaney Point and Bay, after Mr. Josiah B. Chaney, the veteran newspaper collector who is now a member of the council of the Minnesota Historical Society.

There are various other names appearing upon the park chart, which have been from time to time extended to various localities, including O'Neill Point after Hon. J. H. O'Neill.

Little Man Trap Lake at the southeastern corner of the park after its impenetrable outlines.

Division Creek near the north line of the park was named because it drains a wide marsh at the top of the hills whence the waters flow both ways, partly into the Red River of the North and partly into the Mississippi, creating in case of high water a channel from the Gulf of Mexico up the Mississippi and up Division Creek, through the flooded marsh into Rice River, and thence down Rice River to the Red River of the North and to Hudson's Bay.

There are two state buildings at the park, one a mile south from the northern boundary, constructed by the state in 1896 at an expense of $1,000, with a small addition since that date costing a few hundred dollars more. That structure is now occupied by the Park Commissioner as a residence and hotel for the traveling public at $2.00 per day. It is situated on the immediate east shore of the north arm of the largest body of water at the park. The second building was provided for by the Legislature of 1903, which appropriated $5,000 additional for the construction of a log lodge at a most beautiful and picturesque site at the southeastern extremity of Itasca Lake overlooking the mouth of Mary Creek. It is surrounded by a magnificent forest of natural evergreens, consisting of white and Norway pine.

in thrifty growth, cedar, spruce, balsam fir and miscellaneous flora. The name of the building has been designated as "Itasca Park Lodge," and a small additional appropriation is necessary to finish the lodge, furnish it and prepare it for the accommodation of the traveling public. It has eighteen rooms, is two stories in height and has a large portico in front. The grounds have been renovated to an extent which will protect the building from fire. The main traveled road from Park Rapids northwest through the park to Bagley on the Great Northern road, west of Bemidji, passes the door of the lodge, and goes out of the park at the northern extremity. Unfortunately there is a small body of land within the outer limits of the park held by private individuals who are lumbermen, having acquired the property for lumbering purposes. Declarations in the laws passed by the Legislature provide that the state shall acquire these lands by condemnation proceedings, and a standing appropriation has been made to meet the expense of the same as they accrue. Quite a large body of land held by private ownership was converted to park uses in 1904.

A magnificent timber report to the governor concerning park property is on file with the attorney general.

INTERSTATE PARK. DALLES OF THE ST. CROIX.

A comprehensive idea of the part taken by the States of Minnesota and Wisconsin in acquiring the Dalles of the St. Croix for a public preserve, as well as a general description of the geological and scenic features of the Park, are given in the Manuals of 1899 and 1903. Since January, 1895, when this matter was brought to the attention of the legislatures of the States of Wisconsin and Minnesota and the public by Geo. H. Hazzard of St. Paul, now park commissioner, the interest has been continually increasing. In addition to the thousands of tourists last season, a special train load of university students with their professors spent a field day in the Park, several hundred from the University of Minnesota summer school were there for a day, and two classes from the University of Chicago with their instructors spent thirty days studying the geology of this section.

Mr. Warren H. Manning, the widely known landscape architect of Boston, Mass., after a two-day tramp with Commissioner Hazzard, writes in part: "In my hurried examination of the reservation I was much impressed with the richness of the flora, and the fact that the vegetation throughout the reservation was of such a character that it could be gradually developed to produce all desirable landscape effects without the necessity of artificial plantations. The only occasion for such plantations would be the introduction of species not represented in the existing flora, in the interests of science, just as native animals would be preserved and protected for the same purpose, as well as for stocking the adjacent country for the benefit of the hunters. The most conspicuous trees in the reservation are a few old white Norway pines, standing chiefly on inaccessible ledges and bluffs. With arbor vitae, red cedars and creeping junipers fringing the edges of the cliffs and growing out of the crevices of the ledges, and along the edges of boggy places also grows the red oak, hawthorn, pin cherry, aspen, bur oak, butternut, white hickory and sugar maple. The woods on the tops and faces of the bluffs are made up chiefly of black oak, red maple, white oak, canoe birch, aspen and shadbush, with the following trees appearing occasionally, either with others or along the river bank: Black cherry, pin cherry, rum cherry, mountain ash, American elm, slippery elm, brown ash, river maple, white hickory, nettle tree, yellow birch, box elder, scarlet oak, black spruce, sugar maple and balsam fir near buildings.

"The vines and shrubbery underneath these woods are made up chiefly of these: Climbing bitter sweet, moon seed, climbing Ionicera, Virginia creeper, beaked hazelnut, bush honey suckle, prickly gooseberry, round-leaved dogwood, red root, nine bark, wild gooseberry. In the open and more sunny places the common elder, staghorn sumach, sheep berry, pencil dogwood, common alder, dwarf blueberry, winterberry, bearberry, raspberry, wild rose, meadow sweet, arrow wood, snowberry (two forms), indigo shrub, smooth sumach, wild black current, high-bush cranberry, blackberry, thimbleberry, and, less frequently, alternate-leaved dogwood, swamp loosestrife, bladdernut and wild clematis. Of herbs growing in the dead shade, the most notably attractive, and therefore the ones needing protection, are: The showy lady slipper, yellow lady slipper, blood-root, blue phlox, pipsissewa, violet oxalis, large-flowered bellwort, bunchberry, maidenhair fern, beech fern, walking fern, grape fern, partridge berry, false Solomon seal, red baneberry, miter wort, blue cohosh, star flower and liver wort. Other species and shades, less attractive but more persistent, are: Wild lettuce, wild strawberry, sarsaparilla, wild oxalis, white eupatorium, spikenard, three-leaved bedstraw, wood violet, cordate astor, danthoria grass, infant's breath, polypody, ground nut, pilea, woodland meadow rue, tick seed, hone wort, yellow corydalis, wild sweet cicely, broad-leaved solidago, green-veined orchis, fragrant white violet, hog peanut, lady fern, cinnamon fern, wild columbine, hairbell, Solomon seal, great Solomon seal, long-leaved Houstonia, thorough wort, water leaf, Virginia anemone, aiurn root, jack-in-the-pulpit, carrion flower, woodland horsetail, ginger root, glauca corydalis, pig wort, Christmas fern, ostrich fern, parietaria, bladder fern. Growing in more open places are ninety-two other plants that space will not permit naming. Personal inspection would be necessary to any conception of the wonderful plant life of the park."

This has been explored and cleaned out under direction of Park Commissioner Geo. H. Hazzard to a depth of 65 feet without getting through the debris to the grinders. In those that have been cleaned out red clay, gravel and boulders, the natural home of which is on Lake Superior, have been found; in others a gray gravel, whose natural home is in the Red River Valley; in others blue gravel; and in still others promiscuous drift. The park contains the most noted geological features of this kind in the world.

Those interested in the geology of this section can secure the topographical sheet by sending five cents in money to the park commissioner, or to Chas. D. Walcott, director U. S. Geological Survey, Washington, D. C. This is a beautiful map in three colors. Prof. Chas. Berkey's thesis, "The Geology of the Dalles of the St. Croix," a pamphlet with maps and plates, is on sale at the University of Minnesota book store, Minneapolis. Two lectures, more particularly relating to the glacier period, and the "Giant's Kettles," being made by the erosion and molten streams of the glacier period, delivered before and published by the American Society of Geologists, Rochester, N. Y., sell at 60 cents. "Lectures, Laws, Pictures, Papers, Pointers, Interstate Park, Dalles of the St. Croix" (now out of print), compiled and published in 1896, by Geo. H. Hazzard, is to be found in many of the offices of the park commissioners of the different cities of the United States, and bound volumes in the Historical Society rooms of the States of Minnesota and Wisconsin, and in a number of the public libraries. In the geological reports of Wisconsin and Minnesota articles by Professors Strong, Winchell and others will be found indexed.

The St. Croix river, with its rapids known as St. Croix Falls and Taylors Falls, abounding in all kinds of game fish, with its upper and lower dalles of trap rock, the sandstone bluffs, and the beautiful valley below the dalles, the boulder deposit in the bed of the river for miles north of the gorge or dalles, the beautiful springs and brooks with their waterfalls and cascades feeding the river, the rock-bound lake in the Wisconsin lands, the mountain-like bluffs, can hardly be described in an article like this, as any printed description conveys little idea of the impressions to be had on personal inspection. For any detailed information, address the Commissioner, 664 Gilfillan Block, St. Paul, Minn.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

THE NEW CAPITOL.

As one approaches the new Capitol attention is called to the quiet, dignified lines of the building and to its broad terraces and approaches, adding greatly to the dignity of the building.

The architectural style of the exterior is Italian Renaissance. The building is surmounted by a dome of classic proportions, somewhat resembling the dome on St. Peter's in Rome.

The general plan of building is an oblong, with a wing in the center of the north side.

The dimensions are as follows:

	Feet.
Length over all, not including entrance steps.....	433
Average width of main portion.....	120
Width, through central portion, not including steps.....	228
Height to top of ball on dome from base of steps on south front elevation	220
Average height of outside walls from grade of terrace.....	69
Average depth of outside walls from grade of terrace to bottom of concrete	14
Total cubical contents.....	5,060,955

The corner stone was laid July 27, 1898, by Hon. Alexander Ramsey, the first territorial governor of Minnesota.

The grounds are to be laid out in harmony with the general character of the building. Shrubs, vines and flowers are to be used along the granite terraces to mask and enhance the beauty and artistic effect of these terraces.

The materials used on the exterior of the building are St. Cloud granite in steps, terraces and the ground story, and Georgia marble for the upper stories and dome. The dome is one of the largest masonry domes, and said to be the largest marble dome, in the world. It is self-supporting and not dependent on steel framing, except for the lantern, which rests upon an inner steel and masonry cone independent of the construction of the bell part of the dome. The materials of the state are used very largely in the construction of the building. The general foundations are of Winona stone, and Kettle River sandstone for the dome foundations. Minnesota brick are used entirely for backing of marble and for interior walls, and a large amount of fire-proofing material manufactured in the state is used in the building, although there is quite a considerable quantity of tile from out of the state used. The facing of dome corridors, main stair corridors and dome walls is of Kasota and Mankato stone, being the first instance where this stone has been used in the interior finish of a building. The use of this material was urged by Mr. Gilbert for several years before the quarry owners took any interest in the matter, and then, when samples were polished and tried, experienced men, who had handled this material for years, did not recognize the stone from their own quarries. It is thought that in using this stone for interior work a new and important industry has been created in our state. Mr. Garnsey, the mural decorator of the building, states that he considers it "the finest material to decorate to that he has ever seen," and he has made the color of the stone the foundation for the decorations throughout the building. Its soft colors are peculiarly suitable for an artistic and beautiful interior. The large granite columns at the second story level of dome on the north and south sides are Ortonville granite, a material resembling in color the antique Porphyry Egypt used and is fully as handsome. Those on the east and west sides are of Rockville granite. These latter are placed in this position for the reason that the darker and richer colored marble columns would accent too strongly and intercept the long vista between entrances to the Senate and Supreme Court through the dome and stair corridors, while the quieter colors of the Rockville granite harmonize and tend to extend the view uninterruptedly.

The spectator's attention is called to the beauty of the marbles used in the building, coming from almost all quarters of the globe. The columns in stair halls are of Breche Violette marble from Italy, and it is understood that these same quarries furnished material used in the ancient works of the Roman Empire. The marble in balustrades is called Skyros marble, from one of the islands in the Greek archipelago. The marble used in the Senate chamber is Fleur de Peche (Flower of the Peach) from France. This marble is considered the handsomest in the building, the colors varying from rich reds, violets and yellows to almost pure white. The bases of marble columns and the lower section of marble at floors in the upper stories is Hauteville marble imported from France. It is used in these places for the reason that its color is in harmony with the Mankato and Kasota stone and it is almost impervious to moisture and is not easily soiled. The marble columns used in the House of Representatives and Supreme Court are from quarries in Vermont. The square panels just under main cornice in the rotunda are of marble from the old convent quarries near Siena, Italy. The marble base in the governor's reception room is Levanto marble from Italy. Tennessee marble is used for borders of stone floors and is also used for steps in east, west and north vestibules, first story. The main body of the floors is Joliet stone. Echaillon marble is used for trim around doors opening on dome and corridors, colors being somewhat colder than Hauteville marble, and in structure this marble has the appearance of having imbedded in it an innumerable number of shells. The mantle-pieces in Senate retiring room and House retiring room, and the dark red marble in panels of floors is Numidian marble from the Nile. The pattern of marble floors of corridors, as a general thing, is very simple, but the proportion of border to the body of the floor will bear careful inspection. The marble used has been so placed that the floors have a very rich and beautiful effect. It is more "monumental" in scale than had mosaic or tile been used, and makes the floor of the same scale of design as the walls.

The general wood work of the building is simple, of oak, with but little ornament, mahogany being used in certain places; the more elaborate portions being House, Senate and Supreme Court retiring rooms and governor's reception room, entrance doors to House, Senate and Supreme Court, presiding officers' and clerks' desks, House and Senate, and judges' bench and rail in Supreme Court.

The legislative chambers are placed in the second story, with committee rooms adjacent, the Senate occupying the west wing, the House the north wing, and the Supreme Court the east wing. The governor's quarters are in the southwest corner of the west wing, first story. The other stories are given up to the general offices of the state officials. The House and Senate retiring rooms, judges' consultation room, also the café, are worthy of note as being among the handsomest rooms in the building.

As to sculpture, the building has not been forgotten. Six handsome figures stand over the main cornice of the south entrance, typifying Wisdom, Courage, Bounty, Truth, Integrity and Prudence, while above the attic of this entrance is to be placed a large Quadriga in bronze, typifying the Progress of Minnesota, all by Daniel Chester French.

The timbrel vaulting, a peculiar method of laying tile, executed by R. Guastavino Company, has been used in many places throughout the building for support of floors, taking the place of steel beams and tile arch construction. The principal points where this construction is used are in dome corridors and east, west and north corridors, ground and first story, the supports for a portion of the entrance steps and the inner canopy of dome, a portion of the work being exposed, with glazed surface, giving very pleasing effect. The construction is as follows: Light supports are placed with proper form, upon which is laid tile, in size about 8 inches wide by 16 inches long and 1 inch thick, joints and spaces between tile being absolutely filled with best portland cement, the tile being from three to six layers in thickness, according to the required strength. In the arrangement of lighting, handsome candelabra are used in the corridors and elegant bronze and gilded fixtures in main rooms, the center fixture in the rotunda being a large ball, about six feet in diameter, of cut glass crystals, containing 80 electric lamps, diffusing a soft, pleasing light.

The new Capitol has attracted considerable attention, and is classed among the very best buildings in the United States. The state has been peculiarly fortunate in letting contracts, the main ones having been awarded during the time when prices were at the very lowest known for years.

MURAL DECORATION IN THE MINNESOTA CAPITOL.

The mural decoration, or wall-painting, of the interior of the Minnesota Capitol, should be considered as an integral part of the architectural design. The architect has taken into consideration both color and texture in the selection of stone, marble, bronze, iron and wood for the interior finish of the various halls, corridors, staircases and rooms throughout the building, and the color and markings of these various materials, as well as the architectural lines and divisions of dome, vaulting, ceilings, walls and panels, have been important factors in the planning of the mural decoration.

In certain places, as the dome and rotunda, for example, the work of the painter has been the accentuation of architectural divisions by simple masses of color, and the enrichment of the modeled ornament by gilding. The colors used are variations of the color of the Kasota stone with blues and violets, complementary to the stone color.

The deep blue of the dome may recall the color of the sky, as the form of the dome is also suggestive of the vault of the firmament.

At the base of the dome, above the windows, a series of twelve lunettes, or semi-circular spaces, bear the signs of the zodiac, arranged in accordance with the course of the sun. The shields on which these symbols appear are supported by figures of children.

The four large spandrels, or spaces, which occur between the large arches of the rotunda are to be filled with paintings by Edward E. Simmons.

In the vaulted corridors around the rotunda, on the first floor and the principal halls leading therefrom, a scheme of painted arabesques has been applied to the ceiling vaulting, in which the stone and its complementary colors have been generally used, with occasional accents of richer color. The design follows the lines of the vaulting, emphasizing its axes and divisions. The arabesques are composed of fruit, grain and forms characteristic of the flora of the state, with conventional borders and color bands. The wall panels are in Pompeian red, with simple borders, in which the color of the stone is again recalled; the surface of the panels being polished to the same finish as the stone around them.

In the staircase halls, second story, the wall panels and their ornamentation are of more importance in serving as the background for the Breche Violette columns that carry the ceiling. Above the red panels appear a corresponding series of gilded panels, which bear inscriptions in red. The corridor ceilings are paneled, and here again the colors of stone and marble appear, with gilded moldings and rosettes.

DOME CORRIDOR.

ROTUNDA OF DOME, SECOND FLOOR.

At the base of the vaulted skylight, above the staircase, the lunettes are filled with figure paintings, illustrative of the industries of the State, the subjects being as follows: "Milling," "The Stone-cutter," "Winnowing," "Commerce," "The Miner," "Navigation," "The Dairy Maid," "The Logger," "Horticulture," "The Huntress," "The Pioneer," "Sowing."

These lunettes are arranged in groups of three, on each side of each staircase, and their colors recall the strong red of the wall below, with blues, greens and violets, complementary to the marble.

A background of blue sky is carried throughout the series.

Important paintings by Messrs. Kenyon Cox and H. O. Walker fill the large lunettes at the end of these staircase vaultings.

The vaulted ceilings of the dome corridors, third floor, are decorated with painted arabesques, in which Indian corn is used as a motive. Opposite each of the four great arches, a circular panel in the ceiling shows one of the four seasons, and the large lunettes on the north and south walls display figures of the Farmer, Shepherd, Woodman and Sailor, with conventional ornament and inscriptions.

The wall panels are in Pompeiian yellow, with conventional borders, and correspond horizontally with the gilded panels in staircase halls.

The decoration of the House of Representatives is primarily a matter of the translation into color of the architectural divisions of the room. Painted ornament on a gold ground fills the broad band immediately below the skylight, and the "pendatives" beneath this band.

Wheat, corn, oats, oak and maple leaves, and the initial "M" are interwoven in the designs, and the names of pioneers appear in small panels. The supporting piers are painted in stony grays, without ornamentation. The broad arch above the speaker's desk carries a band with inscriptions, supported by monumental figures at either end. One bears a tablet inscribed with the dates of the creation of the Territory of Minnesota, and the year of its admission to statehood; the other holds a book of records. The modeled ornament in this room is finished in dull gold and the wall panels in dull red.

The house corridors have vaulted ceilings, painted in gray blue, with bands of laurel carried along the groin lines. The lunettes on the side toward the house show views of old buildings and pioneer scenes of old St. Paul and vicinity. These are Governor Sibley's house at Mendota, the first chapel of St. Paul, and two views of old buildings at Fort Snelling; a Red river cart, a dog team with sled, a logging camp, and a view of the levee with typical old river steamers. The seals of the United States and of the State of Minnesota are displayed at the ends of these corridors.

The beamed ceiling of the House retiring room is richly decorated with color and dull gold. The wall above the high wainscot is covered with canvas, upon which is painted a continuous frieze of tree trunks, foliage and wood flowers. The panel above the fire-place bears this inscription: "Measure not despatch by the times of sitting, but by the advancement of business."

The dome of the Senate chamber is in old ivory and dull gold. The two large lunettes on the side walls are decorated by Mr. Blashfield's splendid canvasses. Above each of the four piers, which carry the dome, decorative compositions illustrate "Courage," holding a sword across the knees; "Equality," who balances crystal balls in her up-turned palms; "Freedom," who liberates birds from a cage, and "Justice," who holds the traditional scales and a fasces. A band of blue in the frieze bears the inscription, "Let us develop the resources of our land, call forth its powers, build up its institutions, promote all its great interests, and see whether we, also, in our day and generation, may not perform something worthy to be remembered." —Webster.

The four niches in the base of the piers show the moccasin flower, the floral emblem of the State, in gold, and simple borders in gold are carried around the wall panels. The panel behind the president's desk is covered with a gold pattern on old blue, and the color in the other wall panels recalls the lighter tones of the Fleur de Peche marble used in the finish of the room.

The Senate retiring room ceiling is in dull gold, with panels of gray blue, bordered with broad ribbons wreathed in oak, and with wreaths of laurel and oak intertwined. The wall panels are in deep crimson, covered with a Venetian pattern in dull gold.

The dome of the Supreme Court room is in gray stone color, with dull gold ornament. Upon the four pendentives below the dome are displayed oak wreaths, inclosing tablets bearing the word "Lex" (Law). The four lunettes are to be filled with paintings by Mr. John La Farge. The simplicity of the decorative scheme is in accordance with the severity of the architectural design, but the paintings in the lunettes will add a sober richness to the general effect of the room.

The judges' consultation room is somewhat more severe in character, though it has a beauty of its own. This room has been designed after the Supreme Court room in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, the detail being an exact copy.

The governor's reception room has a heavily gilded ceiling and cornice, with gray, blue and green in the cove. The elaborate carving and ornamentation, Venetian in character, which covers the woodwork, is in dull gold, with occasional color accents. This forms a rich setting for the historical paintings which will form a frieze above the wainscot.

GRAND STAIRWAY AND DOME CORRIDORS.

DESCRIPTION OF LUNETTE AT HEAD OF EASTERN STAIRCASE.

PAINTING BY KENYON COX.

THE EAST.

The intention is to symbolize the East as the land of contemplation and stability as contrasted with the progress and activity of the West. The composition is therefore made as grave and formal as possible. Enthroned in the center, with brooding wings, sits Contemplation, draped and hooded in deep blue. She is lost in thought and stares into space with unseeing eyes. On either side sit Letters and Law, both of Eastern origin. Letters is laurel crowned and reads from a great book. Law bears the sceptre of power and the bridle of control.

The composition as a whole is meant to form a fitting introduction to the decorations of the Supreme Court, which depict the development of law.

DESCRIPTION OF EDWARD E. SIMMONS' PICTURES.

1. The American Genius, guided by Wisdom, follows Hope.
2. Wisdom banishes Savagery.
3. Wisdom breaks the ground.
4. Wisdom, as Minnesota, gives her products to the four winds. American Genius as a male figure.

1. The American Genius is represented by a vigorous youth attended by Minerva, the symbol of Wisdom, and beckoned forward by Hope, the landscape being typical of the country, and very beautiful in color.

2. The youth advancing in the forest and beckoned by Minerva, the symbol of Wisdom, banishes Savagery, the denseness of the forest, animals retreating before him.

3. The youth, now more mature, breaks the ground, rolling back a huge stone at the base of the towering cliff, thus discovering the treasures of the earth, while from the soil arise the spirits of agriculture, mines and other sources of wealth to contribute to the new civilization of the empire.

4. The youth, now quite mature, having by experience acquired wisdom, is no longer accompanied by Minerva, but her shield and other symbols are placed at his feet, while he, seated within the halls of the Capitol, sends the products of a fully-developed civilization to the four winds—i. e., to all the four quarters of the globe—directing that the products of Minnesota agriculture, mines, forests, manufactures and arts shall be carried to all the world. In this last picture Mr. Simmons proposed to use the loggia of the Capitol as the setting of the scene looking out over the valley of the river as a background. The predominating color is to deep blue and gold, re-echoing the color of the dome.

Minerva is throughout presented in the conventional garment of red, with helmet, shield and spear, while the landscape is rich in verdure and sunlight.

THE TREATY OF THE TRAVERSE DES SIOUX—JULY 1851.

BY F. D. MILLET.

The ceremony took place under a large shelter of boughs which was built to protect the negotiators from the July sun. At one end of this shelter a platform was erected and behind it was hung a piece of canvas for the purpose of shade. Rough benches were arranged in front and on the sides for the accommodation of the chiefs. Quantities of blankets, miscellaneous articles, powder, etc., were heaped near the platform, and in the middle of the shelter stood a barrel of sugar and water, the favorite soft drink of the Indians.

Thirty-two white men were present, and a large number of chiefs, representing the two thousand Indians who had assembled to settle the question of the sale of twenty odd million acres of land.

The incident selected for illustration is the signing not only of the treaty, but of the agreement to assign a certain portion of the payment for the land to the traders, to satisfy their claims against the Indians furnished them on credit.

The United States Indian Commissioner, Colonel Luke Lea of Tennessee, and General Alexander Ramsey are standing on the platform behind a small table on which the treaty is spread to receive the signatures, the former shaking hands with a chief in token of amity, and the latter holding a medal to present to the chief after he had signed the document. Seated behind the two officials are various members of the party, and to the left, on the ground, the chiefs are about to sign the agreement, which is spread out on a table improvised out of a barrel and a board.

In the extreme left is a group of traders, missionaries and other white men, with the heap of blankets and other presents.

In the immediate foreground and in the shadow of the shelter on the right are benches crowded with seated Indians and behind them a mass of spectators.

In the distance, seen under the leafy fringe of the shelter, is a glimpse of the river and numerous wigwams, suggesting an extensive and populous encampment.

The warm July sun strikes the foreground figures, and, breaking through the canopy, touches here and there the figures in the shadow.

The Indians are dressed in all their barbarian finery and a great variety of colored blankets, ingeniously arranged head-dresses and ornaments, many of them with pipes or fans or other characteristic articles dear to the Indian's heart.

SENATE CHAMBER.

GOVERNOR'S RECEPTION ROOM.

There are between seventy-five and one hundred figures in the composition, and the details of costume and type have been studied from all available sources, from the correspondence in the "Pioneer," from Frank Mayer's diary and sketches, from the Department of Ethnology and the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, and from various data supplied through the courtesy of several artists who have made a study of the Indians of the plains. Every effort has been made to chronicle the scene with consistent accuracy, to avoid anachronisms, and at the same time to produce a picture agreeable to the eye and harmonious with the surroundings.

PAINTING BY H. O. WALKER.

The painting for the lunette over the entrance to the Senate Chamber has for its subject "The Progress of the Flame."

The composition is an arrangement of three draped female figures. The central and most important one is that of a mature and thoughtful woman, seated, bearing in her outstretched right hand a blazing torch, which she has lighted at a fire seen burning on the ground beside her. The fire is kept alive by an aged woman, half kneeling, who throws twigs upon it. The torch in the hand of the central figure is lighting a lamp held by a youthful, floating figure which appears to be passing onward to the left. The arrangement of the personages explains at a glance the idea of the painting, which is the transmission of a flame from the Past, by the Present, to the Future. The flame may be "Civilization," or "Thought," or "Knowledge," or even "Being" itself; perhaps the Sacred Flame of the Greeks and Romans. In fact, the central figure, called in this instance "The Present," bows her head in deep emotion at the seriousness of her task.

The figures are placed among rocks, apparently in a high place, and above them are clouds; below them, afar off, is a plain with towers, as of distant cities.

PAINTINGS BY JOHN LA FARGE.

In this painting, No. 1, "The Moral and Divine Law," Moses is represented receiving the law "in the mount." Joshua warns the people away. Aaron kneels in reverence and fear. Clouds and vapor cover parts of the scene. The mountain is smoking. Fire comes out of the rocks, and the wreaths of vapor crawl out of the crevices. Far below to the left the vapor wreaths ascend. The studies have been made from personal observation in a volcano and from photographs of the eruptions in the Caribbean Islands, (kindly loaned by Professor E. C. Hovey). The distance represents a portion of the actual mountain.

This subject has been treated in a realistic manner because of the other subjects requiring such treatment and to harmonize with them. There is no distinct archeology aimed at, but the costumes and types of character have been carried out in harmony with tradition. It is needless to remark that there are no documents extant.

This painting is one of four which are to decorate the Supreme Court room of the new Capitol, St. Paul, Minnesota. It is the first of the four subjects chosen, which are:

1. THE MORAL AND DIVINE LAW. Moses receives the Law on Mt. Sinai.
2. THE RELATION OF THE INDIVIDUAL TO THE STATE. Socrates and his friends discuss the Republic, as in Plato's account.
3. THE RECORDING OF PRECEDENTS. Confucius and his pupils collate and describe documents in their favorite grove.
4. THE ADJUSTMENT OF CONFLICTING INTERESTS. Count Raymond of Toulouse swears at the altar to observe the liberties of the city in the presence of the bishops, the representatives of religious orders, and magistrates of the city.

PAINTINGS BY EDWIN H. BLASHFIELD IN SENATE CHAMBER.

THE DISCOVERERS AND THE CIVILIZERS LED TO THE SOURCE OF THE MISSISSIPPI.

In the center of the lunette sits the Manitou or Great Spirit. By his side, the symbolical spouting urn shows him here in his character of River God, the Father of Waters.

At the right of the spectator the explorers are seen, led by the Spirit of Discovery, flying in the air above and holding in her hand the mariner's compass. The figures typify the early French explorers. One of them, at the extreme right corner of the lunette, is tying up one of the light boats, such as the pioneers dragged or carried over the portages, from stream to stream.

On the left side of the lunette the civilizers advance. These are the early colonists and are seen with their women and children, their guns and axes, and in the left-hand corner of the lunette, with a dog sledge, which balances the boat in the opposite end of the decoration. The boat and sledge show the two typical vehicles of the pioneers—the vehicles which opened the Northwest to the white man.

In the air, and leading the colonists, is seen flying the Spirit of Civilization. Just in front of the group of colonists a priest offers the crucifix to two Indian girls, who crouch at the feet of the Manitou, while at the other side of the Great Spirit an Indian, wearing the war bonnet, steps forward menacingly towards the explorers.

The background is of pine trees and rock, while a little water fall runs down the center of the foreground.

MINNESOTA.

In the center, riding upon wheat sheaves, drawn by white oxen, and escorted and crowned by winged geniuses, is a seated woman, typifying Minnesota. Before the oxen walks a child bearing an inscribed tablet, and on either side of the oxen a child holds the end of a decorative festoon of twisted wheat.

The right side of the lunette represents 1861—Minnesota as Preserver of the National Union. Soldiers hold regimental and national flags. An army nurse (a woman holding a basket of bandages and lint) typifies the sanitary commission, and next her is a drummer boy.

The left side represents 1900—Minnesota as Promoter of National Prosperity. A group of men, women and children suggest the great grain interests of the state, and the left-hand corner is closed by a man riding on a harvesting machine. Flying in the air on either side of the lunette are figures of Patriotism (at the right) and Agriculture (at the left); the latter figure holds in her hands a bunch of corn, oats, rye, etc.

Against the background of the left side will be seen the dome of the State Capitol faintly outlined against the sky as helping to suggest the Minnesota of 1900.*

*Descriptions of mural decorations are by Mr. Garnsey, the mural decorator, and of the paintings by the artists themselves.

THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

Article 5 of the State constitution provides that the executive department shall consist of a governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and attorney general, who shall be chosen by the electors of the State.

OFFICERS FOR 1905.

Governor—JOHN A. JOHNSON, Nicollet county.
Lieutenant Governor—RAY W. JONES, Hennepin county.
Secretary of State—PETER E. HANSON, Meeker county.
Auditor—SAMUEL G. IVERSON, Fillmore county.
Treasurer—JULIUS H. BLOCK, Nicollet county.
Attorney General—EDWARD T. YOUNG, Swift county.

The constitution of the State provides that these officers shall be elected for two years, except the state auditor, whose term of office is for four years.

The duties of the governor are prescribed by the constitution and the laws of the State. The office assistants of the governor are a private secretary, executive clerk, executive stenographer and executive messenger. Connected with the executive office is the appointment of notaries public.

The lieutenant governor is ex officio president of the senate, and has no other duties to perform, except in a protracted absence of the governor from the State he may be called to act, and in case of vacancy in the office he becomes governor during said vacancy.

The secretary of state is the recording officer of the State and the official custodian of official papers. All the private and public corporations of the State are recorded, and the official bonds of all county officers are filed in this office. He is the custodian of all the volumes of laws and journals and all the legislative records of whatever nature. The whole machinery of state elections and the final canvassing of votes is carried forward in his office. The preparation of the volumes of law for publication is part of his duty, and the care and disposition of all printed executive documents of the State. For the general purposes of the office, the clerical force is an assistant secretary, who, in addition to his duties as assistant, is also commissioner of statistics; a chief clerk, one record clerk, an assistant clerk and a document clerk.

The state auditor has charge of two departments of the government, the auditing department and the land department. The auditing department is to keep a record of all public accounts, audit all claims presented, and issue warrants in payment. These accounts are not only those of the state departments, but include the pay rolls of state institutions. He has charge of the tax law and prescribes the tax blanks, prepares the abstracts of taxes for the state board of equalization, makes all the drafts for state taxes, and keeps an account of the same, and is required to make a detailed and exhaustive report of the affairs of his office to the legislature, and for the performance of these duties he has a deputy and six clerks.

In the land department, of which the auditor is chief, he has the assistance of four clerks specially detailed. The duties of this department are the care and sale of school, university, agricultural, college and swamp lands, and the sale of grass, cranberries and maple sugar; and the leasing of mineral lands; and the making out and record of all deeds and conveyances for the disposition of lands, besides keeping a classified account of all money transactions connected with these lands.

The treasurer is the receiving and disbursing officer of the State, and has the assistance of a deputy treasurer, three clerks and stenographer to aid in the duties of the office. His duties are defined by law to keep an accurate account of the receipts and disbursements of the treasury, specifying the names of persons from whom received, to whom paid, on what account the same is received and paid out, and the time of such receipt and payment. And for all payments into the state treasury by county treasurers he issues two receipts, one to the treasurer and the other to the county auditor.

The attorney general is the legal adviser of all the departments of state, and counsel for the State or departments in all suits at law; prosecutes all official bonds of delinquent officers; prepares all forms of contracts; receives reports of criminal actions in all the counties of the State from the county attorneys, and makes a biennial report to the legislature. The force in the office is two assistant attorney generals and stenographer.

THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Commander-in-Chief,

His Excellency, JOHN A. JOHNSON, Governor.

Executive Officer of Department,

FRED. B. WOOD, Adjutant General.

The active military forces of the State are officially known as the Minnesota National Guard. In time of peace the National Guard is composed of three regiments of infantry and one battalion of artillery (the latter includes two batteries of artillery and one company of engineers), formed into one brigade under the command of a brigadier general. The commander-in-chief is authorized to increase this force in time of war. The volunteers furnished by Minnesota during the war with Spain were chiefly recruited from the ranks of the National Guard.

The adjutant general is the executive officer of the department and the custodian of all records relating to the National Guard and to the regiments furnished by this State during the Civil and Spanish wars. Under the commander-in-chief he has general supervision and control of the military forces of this State and of all military property.

It is also the duty of the adjutant general to act as claim agent, without pay or compensation, for all citizens of this State having claims against the government of the United States for pensions, bounty, arrears of pay, etc., arising out of military service for the national government. He also prosecutes the claims of the State of Minnesota against the national government for expenses incurred during the Spanish-American war.

The military storekeeper is the armorer and ordnance officer of the State, and keeps in order the arms and other public property necessarily connected with the ordnance department.

MINNESOTA SUPREME COURT.

THE JUDICIARY DEPARTMENTS.

THE SUPREME COURT.

The constitution provides that the judicial power shall be vested in a supreme court, district courts, courts of probate, justices of the peace, and such other courts inferior to the supreme court as the legislature may from time to time establish. This latter prerogative the legislature has exercised in the establishment of municipal courts in the larger cities of the State.

The supreme court consists of one chief justice and four associate justices, elected by the people, and holding office for six years, and until successors are elected and qualified. Two terms of court are held in each year, commencing on the first Tuesdays of April and October, at the capitol, in St. Paul. This court has original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity.

The clerk of the supreme court is an elective officer, the term of office being four years.

The reporter of the supreme court is an officer appointed by the supreme court to prepare the adjudicated cases for publication in official volumes, entitled "Minnesota Reports," of which ninety-one volumes have been published. The reports are now accumulating at the rate of four volumes annually. The present law regarding their publication limits them to a special size, and was passed in territorial times, when one volume was large enough for the opinions of two years. A modification of the law would be of advantage to the State and to attorneys.

Originally the reporter owned the exclusive copyright, and the reports were printed and bound at his expense, the State buying of him 200 copies of each volume at six dollars a volume. In 1881 an act was passed providing that the reporter should have no pecuniary interest in the reports, but that they should be published by contract under his supervision, the publisher to agree to sell the volumes at two dollars a volume and the State to agree to buy 200 copies at that price. The contract price is now $1. The copyright of the volumes already published vests in the secretary of the state for the benefit of the people of the State, but the publisher is permitted to continue the publication and sale of such volumes so long as he complies with the requirements of law as to character and price of volumes. The State now buys 425 copies of each volume at the price last named.

The secretary of state is charged with the distribution of the volumes, one copy to each of the several departments of state, to each judge of the supreme court, and of the several district, probate and municipal courts, and to the clerk of each district court, while the University of Minnesota receives 100 copies for the law department, and the state library receives a sufficient number for exchanges with other states and for the use of the library. The remaining copies stay in the custody of the secretary of state for future distribution by law.

THE LOWER COURTS.

The district courts are created by the legislature, the State being divided into eighteen judicial districts, with one or more judges in a district, as the exigencies of business may require, and the judges are elected for six years. The district courts have original jurisdiction in all civil cases, both in law and equity, where the amount exceeds $100, or the punishment shall exceed three months' imprisonment or a fine of more than $100. Also, in criminal cases where presentments are made by grand juries.

The municipal courts generally have the power of disposing of all criminal cases for infraction of city laws, and for hearing and committing for trial on arrests for violation of state laws. Chap. 146, G. L. 1891, "An act relating to villages of over 3,000 inhabitants, and providing for municipal courts therein." By the provisions of this act a municipal court has jurisdiction in civil actions where amount does not exceed $500; also, in all cases where a justice court has jurisdiction, and over certain criminal actions. Its jurisdiction is co-extensive with the limits of the county where located.

The probate courts are created by authority of the constitution, one for each county, and the judges to be elected by the people, for two years. The courts are now governed by a code adopted by the legislature in 1889. The probate court has jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons and persons under guardianship, and the examination and commitment of insane persons to the asylums. The salaries to probate judges are fixed by special law, or in lieu thereof a salary of $100 for the first 1,000 inhabitants and $50 for each additional 1,000 inhabitants, limiting the compensation, where by reason of population the sum would be larger, to $4,000 per annum.

THE STATE SCHOOL SYSTEMS.

The following scheme shows the elements of the school systems of the State:

DISTRICTS.	{ Common..... Independent..... Special..... }	Schools graded and ungraded.
STATE RURAL SCHOOLS.
STATE SEMIGRADED SCHOOLS.
STATE GRADED SCHOOLS.
STATE HIGH SCHOOLS.
NORMAL SCHOOLS.
UNIVERSITY.

A common school district is controlled by a board of three members; an independent by one of six members; a special by a board of six or more members.

Common schools are supervised by a county superintendent; independent and special districts have their own superintendents, and in the main are not subject to the county superintendents.

The state graded and state high schools are subject to a board of three members; the president of the State University and the superintendent of public instruction are ex officio members, the third member being a city superintendent or high school principal appointed by the governor.

The normal schools are controlled by a board of nine members; five of these are resident directors; three are appointed for the State at large, and one, the superintendent of public instruction, serves ex officio.

The university is controlled by a board of twelve regents; the governor, the president of the university and the superintendent of public instruction are ex officio members, and nine are appointed by the governor.

The public schools of the State are supported by a direct tax upon the property of the school districts, by a county one-mill tax, by a state mill tax, and by the income from the permanent school fund, together with small fines that are accredited to this fund.

In addition to these funds, the State of Minnesota distributes annually (provided they attain a high, prescribed standard of excellence) $125 to each rural school, $250 to each semigraded school of two or three departments, $550 to each graded school of four or more departments; also $1,500 to each high school that admits all qualified students free of tuition and prepares them for entrance to the State University. For the year ending July 31, 1904, 835 rural, 270 semigraded, 145 graded, and 151 high schools participated in this aid.

To encourage the establishment and maintenance of school libraries the legislature has appropriated $15,000 per annum. The State will aid any school district towards the purchase of a library to the amount of $20 on the first order for each school building, and $10 annually thereafter, provided that the district raises a like amount, purchases the books from the state contractor and orders from the list prepared by the State Library Board, which is composed of the state superintendent of public instruction and the presidents of the normal schools.

The normal schools are supported by appropriations of the legislature; the university by a direct tax of twenty-three hundredths of a mill upon all the property of the State, by special state appropriations, and by the federal government under the Morrill act.

The State provides a fund for teachers' institutes and training schools, to be held under the direction of the state superintendent of public instruction. In the year 1903, 39 institutes and training schools were held in different counties of the State, with an enrollment of 4,500 teachers. In 1904, 33 institutes and training schools were held, in which 5,000 teachers were enrolled.

Teachers' certificates are issued by the superintendent of public instruction upon examination or upon indorsement of a university or college diploma, or a diploma from a state normal school.

Certificates are of the following grades: Professional, first and second grade; teachers' state certificates, first and second grade; county certificates, issued in certain cases by the county superintendent and valid for a specified district. A diploma from a Minnesota state normal school is valid as a certificate to teach for two years immediately following graduation. At the expiration of the two years an elementary diploma may be indorsed by the president of the school and the superintendent of public instruction for five years, and an advanced diploma may be made a life certificate. Diplomas from the advanced course of a normal school outside of Minnesota, representing a course of study fully equivalent to the advanced course in Minnesota, may, upon evidence of successful teaching, be indorsed by the superintendent of public instruction for a limited time as a certificate.

Examinations for professional certificates are given twice each year. First, immediately after the close of the University summer school, and second, during the week of the State Teachers' Association. The first is held at the State University and the latter in St. Paul.

Examinations for teachers' state certificates are given at one or more places in each county in February and in August under the direction of the county superintendent. All manuscript for teachers' certificates is examined and marked under the direction of the superintendent of public instruction.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA.

The University of Minnesota is located in the city of Minneapolis. It was established by the constitution of the State and endowed by the general government, and is an integral part of the State system of public instruction. It is open to both sexes and comprises the following named colleges, schools and departments;

The Graduate Department.

The College of Science, Literature and the Arts.

The School of Analytical and Applied Chemistry.

The College of Engineering and the Mechanic Arts.

The School of Mines.

The Department of Agriculture, including the College of Agriculture, the School of Agriculture, the Dairy School, the Short Course for Farmers.

The College of Law.

The Department of Medicine, including the College of Medicine and Surgery, the College of Homeopathic Medicine and Surgery, the College of Dentistry, the College of Pharmacy.

The Regents of the University have also entrusted to their charge the Experiment Station, including the main station at St. Anthony Park, the sub-station at Crookston, the sub-station at Grand Rapids.

The Geological and Natural History Survey.

The Graduate Department—In each of the colleges, except those of medicine, dentistry and mines, there are advanced courses of study leading to second degrees. These courses are open to graduates of any reputable college upon presentation of diploma.

In the College of Science, Literature and the Arts there is a four-years course of study leading to the degree Bachelor of Arts. The work of the first year is elective within certain limitations as to the range of subjects from which the electives may be chosen. The remaining work of the course is entirely elective, with the provision that a certain number of long courses be selected. The course is so elastic that it permits the student to make the general scope of the course, classical, scientific or literary, to suit the individual purpose.

The School of Analytical and Applied Chemistry, leading to the degrees analytical chemist or chemical technologist offers two courses of study of four years each in analytical and applied chemistry.

A Summer School for Teachers—A six-weeks course of instruction is offered, in various University subjects, for those whose school duties prevent them from taking the regular University courses.

The College of Engineering and the Mechanic Arts offers courses of study, of four years each, in civil, mechanical, electrical and municipal engineering, leading to the degrees of civil, mechanical, electrical and municipal engineer. This college offers a four-years course of study in science and technology leading to the degree of bachelor of science, with an additional year leading to the engineer's degree in any one of the various lines offered in the college. This college also offers graduate work leading to the degree master of science.

The School of Mines offers a four-years course of study in mining and metallurgy, upon completion of which the degrees engineer of mines and metallurgical engineer are conferred.

The College of Agriculture offers a four-years course in agriculture. The degree of bachelor of science in agriculture is conferred on completion of the course. Students in this college may specialize along the line of forestry or home economics and secure the degree bachelor of science (in forestry or in home economics).

The School of Agriculture offers a three-years course of study, and is a training school for practical farm life and domestic economy. The college of agriculture is open to graduates of this school who have completed the fourth year of work required for admission to the college.

The Dairy School offers practical instruction in dairying to those who are actually engaged in the manufacture of butter and cheese.

The short course for farmers is designed to be of the greatest help possible to those actually engaged in farming.

The College of Law offers a three-years course of instruction leading to the degree of bachelor of laws. Graduate work leading to the degrees master of laws and doctor of civil law is offered. There is an evening class provided in this college.

The College of Medicine and Surgery and the College of Homeopathic Medicine and Surgery offer four-year courses of study of nine months each. Upon completion of either of the prescribed courses the degree doctor of medicine is conferred.

In the colleges of science, literature and the arts, of medicine and surgery, and homeopathic medicine and surgery, there has been established a combined course of six years leading to the degrees of bachelor of science and doctor of medicine.

The College of Dentistry offers a three-years course of study of nine months each. Upon completion of the prescribed course the degree of doctor of dental surgery is conferred.

The College of Pharmacy offers a two or three-years course of study leading to the degree of pharmaceutical chemist. This college also offers graduate work leading to the degrees master of pharmacy and doctor of pharmacy.

Special Courses—In each of the colleges students of an advanced age and adequate preparation are permitted to pursue, under the direction of the faculty, one or two distinct lines of study.

The University offers no correspondence courses.

HISTORICAL.

The University was organized by an act of the Territorial Legislature of 1851. In the period between that date and 1868, the date of final reorganization, and the date from which the University reckons its beginning, there were several reorganizations, and a limited amount of work was offered in preparatory branches. Rev. Elijah W. Merrill for several years conducted a school in a building near where the International Auditorium now stands.

A major portion of the present site was secured in 1854. The price paid for the twenty-five acres secured at that time was $6,000. In 1858 the Regents undertook the erection of that portion of the main building which is in the rear of the stairway leading to the third floor, and including the stairway. At the time the contract for this portion of the building was let, the Regents did not have any money in sight, save $15,000 of money borrowed and secured on the site, which had been purchased on such advantageous terms. There is no doubt but that the Regents would have been able to carry the building through to a successful completion and have instituted a course of instruction had it not been for the terrible financial panic the two following years. Before the site and building were finally paid for, they had cost the State about $125,000, a major portion of this being interest items.

For a number of years the Regents allowed various persons to use this building, which was standing idle, for the purpose of carrying on private schools, but all of these schools were short lived, and for many years this building stood with the east end closed up with rough boards, giving it a decidedly barn-like appearance, a sorry monument to mistaken judgment. In 1864 the legislature realized that something must be done, and they appointed a board of three Regents, giving them special power to sell certain specified University lands and stumpage to pay the debts of the University. This board consisted of Honorable John S. Pillsbury, "The MEDICAL HALL, STATE UNIVERSITY.

Father of the University," the Honorable O. C. Merriman, and the Honorable John Nichols. So faithfully and efficiently did they do their work that when the legislature met in 1867 they were able to report to the legislature that the debt of the University had been practically wiped out, and a considerable portion of the lands placed at their disposal to satisfy the creditors of the University remained unsold.

The legislature of that year voted $15,000 for the repair of the building and the commencing of a course of instruction. This act reorganizing the University was signed by the Governor Feb. 18, 1868, and is counted the real charter day of the University. On the 15th day of September, 1869, the University was formally opened by the calling of the first college classes. The total enrollment for that year, including preparatory students, was 212, divided as follows: 138 men and 74 women. A preparatory school had been carried on for two years prior to this date, but the beginning of the real college work is dated Sept. 15, 1869.

At about the same time of the completion of the "old main building," in the early seventies, the agricultural building was erected. The building contained the plant house, the chemical laboratory and recitation rooms for the college of agriculture. This building was burned in 1888. [The "old main" was totally destroyed by fire Sept. 24, 1904.]

By this time the legislature had begun to realize that a real University had come into existence, and provided for the organization of the new departments of medicine and law. The University in its original organization provided for all departments that have since been organized, but no attempt to give instruction in the line of law or medicine was made until the fall of 1888.

Dr. Folwell, who was president of the University from its beginning down to 1884, had labored wisely and well to lay the foundation of the institution of which the state is justly proud. Many of the triumphs of later days are monuments of his foresight and vigorous policy in those early days, when, in the face of obstacles that were almost insuperable, he labored for the good of the institution of which he was the head.

The year of 1884-85 was signalized by the accession of President Northrop to the presidency of the University. What he has done and what he is doing is a matter of current history. In the fall of 1883, the year preceding the coming of President Northrop, there were but two buildings on the campus, the "old main building" and the "agricultural building." The University at that time consisted of but one college, although the colleges of agriculture, engineering and mechanic arts were theoretically in existence. As a matter of fact they were courses of study affiliated with the courses in the college of science, literature and the arts. The total registration of that year was 289.

From that date to the opening of the year when instruction was first started in law and medicine, the growth was steady, but more than kept pace with the growth of the State. After the opening of the two new departments in 1888-89 the University entered upon a period of marvelous growth. From a registration of 491 of the previous year it has grown to the present year to have a total registration of 3,825, an average annual increase of 208. The buildings, which at that time numbered three—Pillsbury Hall being in the process of erection—have increased until now they number twenty on the campus, and about fifteen for the department of agriculture at the State Experimental Farm at St. Anthony Park—an average of about two buildings a year during that period. The campus has been added to from time to time until it now includes something like sixty acres. The Experimental Farm at St. Anthony Park, which was secured through the personal efforts of Governor Pillsbury, who advanced part of the money necessary to purchase it at the time it was secured, has added immensely to the value of the University plant. The cutting up of the old experimental farm and platting and selling it as city lots also brought in a considerable income to the University.

The faculty, which in the beginning numbered nine persons, now numbers two hundred and ninety. The campus, which in the early days was known as an eye-sore and the most disreputable looking spot within the confines of the city, has been made a thing of beauty. There is not within the limits of the city a more beautiful spot than the University campus at the present time.

The growth of universities during recent years has been one of the wonders of the age. Minnesota has had her share in this growth, and considering the fact that the state is but one of the younger states and has had unusual troubles to contend with, the growth of the University of Minnesota has been little less than miraculous.

If the attendance at the University had simply kept pace with the growth of the State, the attendance at the present time would be about 700 instead of 3,800. The growth of the University has been about fourteen times as rapid as the growth of the State. The total expense of providing for each student has decreased during the past twenty years, although on account of the rapid growth in the University, the total expense of providing instruction for students has increased from $70,000 to $450,000 a year. These figures are round numbers, but approximately correct.

Unless one has seen the growth of the University from year to year from an enrollment of less than 300 to an enrollment of more than 3,800, and has seen buildings springing up at the rate of two a year, during the past sixteen or eighteen years, one can hardly realize the smallness and comparative insignificance of those early days. Perhaps no other one thing brings this change so forcibly to mind as the fact that in those early days the University work was practically finished at noon. During the afternoon the building was practically deserted, and Monday was as quiet as Sunday is at the present time. Now, notwithstanding the fact that the number of buildings has increased eighteen fold, it is necessary to spread the work over six days and all day, in order to provide for the needs of the present day.

CAMPUS, HORTICULTURAL BUILDING AND CHEMICAL LABORATORY, UNIVERSITY FARM.

ADMISSION.

The admission to all of the colleges, save those of medicine, is based upon the completion of a full four-year high school course. Students who have not had this preparation are given a chance to prove their fitness for admission by means of an examination covering an equivalent amount of preparation.

Admission to the colleges of medicine and surgery and homeopathic medicine and surgery is afforded to those who, in addition to the foregoing, have completed one full year of a recognized college course.

Admission to the college of dentistry is based upon the completion of a full four-year high school course and the demonstration of mechanical ability.

The college of pharmacy requires a minimum of one full year in each of the following: English composition, Latin, physics, physiology or botany, algebra or geometry.

For admission to the school of agriculture, see statement under that department.

FEES.

For the college of science, literature and the arts and the college of agriculture residents of the State are charged an incidental fee of twenty dollars per year. Non-residents are charged double the fee required of residents.

For the college of engineering and the mechanic arts, the school of mines and the school of chemistry, residents are charged thirty dollars per year. Non-residents are charged double the fee required of residents.

In each of the above named colleges there are small fees for laboratory work covering the actual cost of material used.

For the college of law the fees are a matriculation fee of ten dollars, and an annual fee thereafter of sixty dollars.

For the college of medicine and surgery there is a level fee of one hundred dollars per year.

For the college of homeopathic medicine and surgery there is a level fee of one hundred dollars for each of the first two years and eighty dollars for each of the last two years.

For the college of dentistry there is a level fee of one hundred dollars per year.

For the college of pharmacy the fee, for the full course, is one hundred and sixty-five dollars, and the course may be divided so as to be taken in two or three years.

GROUNDS AND BUILDINGS.

The University grounds comprise about fifty acres lying between University avenue and the river and between Eleventh and Nineteenth Avenues Southeast. The grounds command a fine view of the falls and the city, but are sufficiently removed from the business center of the city to insure desirable quiet and retirement. The buildings upon the campus number twenty, and are valued at over $1,250,000. A special clinical building for the use of the department of medicine, located in the southern part of the city, where there is an abundance of clinical material, is within easy reach of the University. The campus is valued at about $450,000 and the equipment of the buildings at about $300,000.

The State Experimental Farm, upon which are located the buildings of the experiment station and the department of agriculture, consists of over two hundred and fifty acres of very valuable land half way between the twin cities and within a thirty minutes' ride of either city. The farm is valued at $400,000, and the sub-stations located at Crookston and Grand Rapids at $40,000 more. The buildings and equipment of the department of agriculture are valued at over $350,000.

INCOME.

The University was endowed by the general government by generous grants of land. The sale of these lands has given the University a permanent endowment of $1,375,000, bringing in an annual income of $53,750.00. The source of the University's income is as follows:

From the United States Government.

Permanent endowment	$53,752.55
Hatch bill	15,000.00
Morrill bill	25,000.00

From the State.

23-100 mill tax.....	142,029.68
Deficiency appropriation	45,000.00

From the University.

Fees from students.....	125,048.50
Fees and sales, school of agriculture.....	7,438.39
Sales, experiment station.....	7,532.91
Miscellaneous sources	12,030.37
From stumpage drafts and transfer from revenue fund..	819.21
Total income, 1903-04.....	$443,629.41

LIBRARIES.

The University libraries include something like 90,000 volumes. The public libraries of the twin cities, the state library, the state historical society library, and various law libraries are open to students for their use in investigating topics in connection with their University work. This brings several hundred thousand volumes within easy reach of the student body. About one hundred and twenty periodicals, not including the technical magazines and newspapers, are received regularly by the University. Technical magazines relating especially to instruction in the different departments are available for students in those departments and for others interested in those particular lines of work. Besides the general University library, there are a large number of departmental libraries, situated in the buildings with the department to which they are most closely related. The law library is provided with nearly all the English and Canadian reports. The reports from the various states are pretty nearly complete, and all reports of the United States supreme court and federal reports are in this library. It also contains a large number of digests of these reports, and an excellent collection of standard law text books and dictionaries.

MUSEUMS.

The museums of the University comprise a large amount of material that has been secured mainly with special reference to its use for illustrating the instruction in the various departments. These museums comprise geological, mineralogical, zoological and botanical collections; a museum of technology; also classical and English museums. There are museums maintained in the departments of civil, mechanical, electrical and mining engineering to illustrate the various processes and materials used in these departments.

ASTRONOMICAL OBSERVATORY.

The students' astronomical observatory contains a ten and one-half inch combined visual, photographic and spectroscopic refracting telescope, constructed by Warner Swasey and Brashear; a photographic measuring machine by Repsold; a spectrometer by Brashear; a three-inch transit circle and chronograph by Fauth; a Howard astronomical clock.

THE GYMNASIUM.

The gymnasium is well equipped with a variety of gymnastic appliances. Its purpose is to provide all students in the University an opportunity to secure needed exercise in order to maintain their general health. Special provision is made for the correction of physical defects and functional derangements. The gymnasium is in charge of a professional medical director, and all training is under his direct supervision. Students are offered a thorough physical examination, and are given advice as to what exercises are best, in the case of each particular student. The records which are kept by the department show that the physical training taken by the University students results in a marked improvement in the standard of health of the average student during the University course.

A DEMOCRATIC INSTITUTION.

The general spirit of the student body is entirely democratic. The University atmosphere is remarkably free from anything savoring of snobbishness, and a student making his own way is quite as likely to be a favorite with his classmates and a leader among them as the man who comes from a home of wealth and does not need to do anything to earn his living while attending the University.

THE UNIVERSITY YEAR.

The University year covers a period of thirty-eight weeks, beginning on the Tuesday before the first Thursday in September. Commencement day being always the first Thursday in June.

THE ONE MILE LIQUOR LAW.

A state law provides that "it shall be unlawful for any person to sell or dispose of any spirituous, vinous, or malt liquors within the distance of one mile of the main building of the University of Minnesota, as now located in the city of Minneapolis; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to that part of the city of Minneapolis lying on the west side of the Mississippi river."

PUBLICATIONS.

The University Bulletins are published by authority of the board of regents twelve times a year—every four weeks during the University year. Bulletins will be sent gratuitously, postage paid, to all persons who apply for them.

The Minnesota Alumni Weekly is published every Monday during the University year. The Weekly is published entirely in the interest of the alumni, and is devoted to alumni news and such University news as may be of special interest to the alumni.

The Minnesota Daily is published five times each week during the University year by an organization of University students.

The junior annual, called The Gopher, is a book published annually by the junior class of the University.

INTERIOR OF LIVE STOCK PAVILION, UNIVERSITY FARM.

The Minnesota Magazine is a monthly magazine devoted to the cultivation of literary taste and effort among the students of the University. It is managed by a board of editors chosen from the senior class.

The Year Book of the Society of Engineers. The book is published yearly by the students of the engineers' society. It is devoted to the publication of articles upon engineering subjects by professors and students in the college of engineering and the mechanic arts.

The publications of the State Geological and Natural History Survey are issued under the direction of professors of the University and are in a real sense University publications.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

The department of agriculture of the University of Minnesota comprises the experiment station, the college of agriculture, the school of agriculture, the farmers' short course and the dairy school.

The department has its home on University farm, a tract of 250 acres of land lying midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis, and adjoining the State Fair Grounds. The buildings occupy a prominent position on the highest ground between the two cities.

The experiment station, which was established in 1887, has for its object the conducting of investigations and experiments in all branches of agriculture and stock raising which are considered most useful to the farmers of the State; particular attention being given to the class of problems which would be too expensive or require too much expert service for the farmers to solve for themselves. Questions relating to crops, soils, farm animals, horticulture, forestry, dairying, feeding of live stock, entomology, human and animal foods and the business of farming have been studied and the results published in bulletin form. Bulletins giving results of experiments are issued in editions of fifteen thousand, and distributed gratis to the farmers of the state who ask to have their names placed upon the station mailing list.

In common with all the land grant colleges of the country the University of Minnesota has had an agricultural college connected with it since its foundation, but prior to the establishment of the school of agriculture the attendance was very small, and in fact varied for several years from two students to none at all. It was quite evident that in order to get the young farmers of the state into the college of agriculture there must be a connecting link between the college and the district school. This link was established in 1888 in the form of a school of agriculture, equal in grade to a high school, and having a course of study embracing instruction in the different lines of agriculture, horticulture, live stock, manual training, etc. Students were admitted without further preparation than that acquired in the ordinary district schools. The attendance the first year was a surprise even to the most ardent friends of the movement and it has since steadily grown, as shown in the table given herewith.

In 1897 girls were admitted to the school on the same terms as the boys, and, beside the high school subjects which are taken in common, they are given work in the special lines of cooking, sewing, laundering and home making.

The instruction throughout the course, which covers a period of three terms of six months each, is so given as to bring practice and theory into close relations and to show the reasons for and the most expedient ways of doing things.

The technical and practical training which students receive at such a school gives them the ability to study the problems of farm and home management which they are sure to meet at their own homes and makes them better able to cope with all conditions of soil, climate or whatever problems they are to meet in after life.

The school has graduated 570 students, over eighty per cent of whom are actually engaged in agricultural pursuits at the present time.

The college course in agriculture is a regular four-years course and graduates students with a degree of B. Agr. Graduates of state high schools may enter this course and take the technical work of the school of agriculture course and the college course at the same time.

The dairy school was organized in 1892 for the purpose of giving instruction in the management of creameries and cheese factories. A year's work in a creamery or cheese factory is required as a condition of entrance to the course. This school has been of vast help to the dairy interests and is highly thought of throughout the State.

The short course for farmers is an eight-weeks lecture course provided by the faculty of the college and school of agriculture for the benefit of farmers who are unable to attend the regular school course. The lectures cover the more important branches of agriculture, horticulture, live stock breeding, farm botany, farm chemistry, entomology, poultry, etc., and especial attention is given to the matter of judging horses, cattle, sheep, swine and grains, with a view of making the students familiar with the methods of judging at fairs and stock shows.

NORTHEAST EXPERIMENT FARM, GRAND RAPIDS.

NORTHWEST EXPERIMENT FARM, CROOKSTON.

It comprises a farm of 450 acres, 160 acres of which are under cultivation at the present time. Of the remaining about 200 acres have been partly cleared and are used for pasture, while the rest is still covered with the native forest.

The farm is quite representative of the different kinds of land of northeastern Minnesota. The early work of the station was largely given to clearing the land and drainage. This was followed by experimental work with the different kinds of small grains, grasses and root crops. The small grains, wheat, oats and barley, have been grown successfully. Numerous varieties have been tested and the kind best adapted for northern conditions determined.

For the growth of hay, clover and timothy the country has been found especially favorable. Clover has failed but once in eight years. Under ordinary conditions its yield is commonly two tons per acre.

All kinds of roots, especially potatoes, do very well. The same may be said of garden vegetables.

Corn, as a rule, will not mature, but as a fodder for live stock its yield is equal to the best corn-growing districts of the state.

In the line of fruit, apples are still in an experimental stage. Plums do well, but not always ripened before frost. All kinds of small fruit, especially strawberries and raspberries, do very well.

Northeastern Minnesota has many and varied conditions. While much of it is fitted only for forestry, there are also millions of acres well adapted to agriculture. It will require a different system of farming than that commonly practiced in prairie districts. Grain raising will not succeed unless connected with a system of stock raising and dairying, and then this may develop into one of the most prosperous farming districts of the state.

The immediate work of the Northeast Experiment Station in the future will be largely along the line of dairying and live stock.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOLS.

The normal school system of the state was inaugurated by the legislature of 1858, making provision for the organization of three schools, upon donations from localities desiring the schools, of five thousand dollars from each locality. Under this law schools were established at Winona, Mankato and St. Cloud; and in 1885 a fourth school was located at Moorhead; the fifth school opened at Duluth September, 1902.

The normal schools give scholastic and professional training to those who aspire to become teachers in the elementary schools of the state, and stand in relations of closest contact and sympathy with the rural schools. The majority of the students enter direct from the rural schools, and a large proportion support themselves by alternately teaching in the rural schools and attending the normal schools as means and circumstances permit. Thus they bring from their experience as actual teachers a devotion and zeal for professional studies which few other students possess, and in turn carry back to their teaching in rural schools a better preparation, newer methods, higher ideals and greater skill in their chosen work.

The normal department embraces the following courses of study:

An Elementary Course of Three Years, designed to fit teachers for work in common and lower grade schools.

An Advanced Course of Five Years, which gives the preparation needed by teachers of higher as well as lower grades.

A Professional Course of One or Two Years, for students who are graduates of approved high schools.

A Kindergarten Training Course of Two Years, for students who are graduates of high schools, and who desire to equip themselves especially for kindergarten or first primary work.

WINONA NORMAL SCHOOL.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

By an act of the legislature of 1858, less than four months after the state was admitted into the Union, provision was made for the establishment of three normal schools "to educate and prepare teachers for teaching in the common schools of this state." Under the provisions of this act the normal school at Winona was opened in September, 1860, with a principal and one assistant in a building having accommodations for forty students. This was the first normal school opened west of the Mississippi river, and it preceded by two years the establishment of a school system for the state. The school was continued through the year and part of the next, when, on account of the failure of the legislature to provide funds, it was closed.

In 1864 appropriations were renewed, and since September of that year the school has been in continuous operation. The citizens of Winona had from the beginning furnished free of charge a building for the school, and this benefaction was continued until 1869, when the main part of the present building was occupied. The original cost of the building and grounds was $134,000, of which the city and the citizens of Winona donated $32,450. From 1881 to 1891 appropriations aggregating $25,000 were made for the improvement of the building and grounds. The legislature in its sessions of 1893 and 1895 provided $62,000 for building and equipping the east and west wings, and in the fall of the latter year these splendid additions were occupied. The cost of the building and its furnishings has now reached $224,000.

As opportunities for securing better preparation to enter upon the work of the school have improved the standards of admission have risen and the character of the work has steadily advanced.

During the 70's it was not unusual for students after graduating from the normal school to finish their education at the high school. The procedure has since been so far changed that a large majority of those admitted are graduated from the high schools. The course of study from 1864 to 1878 required nominally two years for completion, but the reports show that in 1868 a "majority had completed their course in less than the prescribed time." Even at that time the authorities wished to make provision for a higher grade of instruction "to prepare teachers for high school work." Ten years later, in 1878, an important step in this direction was taken, when an elementary course of three years and an advanced course of four years was organized.

The catalogue of that year announces that "graduates of high schools and others who are fully prepared upon the academic studies take only the professional work and graduate in one year." In 1895, the advanced course was extended to five years and an additional year added to the professional, or graduate, course leading to the advanced diploma. A large proportion of the students of the school now pursue the longer course.

The first class of fourteen was graduated in 1866. Since that time the number of graduates has increased to about 2,300. An estimate made in 1892 showed the average length of teaching service to be between six and seven years. Besides those who have finished the respective courses about 8,000 undergraduates, most of whom have become teachers, have received instruction in this school for longer or shorter periods.

A model school of one grade was established at the time of the reopening in 1864. It was soon increased to three grades, later to eight, and by recent action of the normal board to nine grades. In 1880 a kindergar-ter and a kindergarten training course were organized and have since been maintained.

In the fall of 1900 manual training became a part of the curriculum of study in all grades of the training department. A few months later, by action of the State Normal Board, this subject was incorporated in the academic-professional courses of all the normal schools of the state.

The school has been very fortunate in experiencing few changes of administration. From 1864 to 1899 the office of principal and president was occupied by only three men.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL AT MANKATO.

This school, situated at the natural center of southwestern Minnesota, was opened in 1868. During its thirty-seven years it has given the complete normal training represented by a diploma to 1,600 persons, and a partial training to several times this number. Nearly all of these persons, graduates and undergraduates, have gone into the public schools of the state and have done successful work along the lines of the training given them in the normal school. The demand made upon the school for trained teachers is far greater than it can meet.

The courses include the five-years English and Latin courses, the one-year and two-years courses for high school graduates, the three-years elementary course for more mature students, and a kindergarten training course. The total number of normal students registered in the year 1903-1904 was 569, including 160 who secured normal credits at the summer school; the students in the elementary school numbered 302, making a total of 871.

The building is large and convenient, with ample laboratories, a museum, manual training and sewing rooms, a library of about 8,000 volumes, and the general equipment needed for the work of the school.

The president of the school is Charles H. Cooper, who has served since 1899.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL AT ST. CLOUD.

After the legislature in 1866 offered the third normal school to St. Cloud the citizens started a subscription, which in 1869 amounted to $5,000 in cash. The Stearns House, built for a hotel, was purchased, with six acres of land, for $3,000. The site is on the west bank of the Mississippi, seventy-five feet above the river; it is level and adorned with primitive oaks. The grounds are enlarged by the donation of one lot and the purchase of several, paid for by the citizens, adding to the value of the property about $350. The building was repaired and furnished at a cost of $3,281, and the school was opened in September, 1869, with Ira Moore as principal. The enrollment the first year was 125, and the appropriation for current expenses was $3,000. Mr. Moore resigned in 1875, and D. L. Kiehle was appointed to the principalship. In August, 1881, upon his appointment as superintendent of public instruction, Mr. Kiehle resigned, and the vacancy was filled by the appointment of Jerome Allen, who was succeeded, upon his resignation in 1884, by Thomas J. Gray, who closed his connection with the school in 1890. Joseph Carhart became president in 1890, and was succeeded in 1895 by Geo. R. Kleeberger. The present principal is W. A. Shoemaker.

The total number graduated from the school up to 1904 is 1,379.

THE STATE NORMAL SCHOOL AT MOORHEAD.

The fourth state normal school was located at Moorhead by act of the legislature in the year 1885. The site is a beautiful tract of six acres, and is a gift of Hon. S. G. Comstock. The legislature of 1887 appropriated $60,000 for a building and $5,000 for running expenses. The main building was commenced in the summer of 1887 and completed in the early autumn of 1888. It is 180 feet in length and about 70 feet in width, built of brick and stone, heated, ventilated and lighted by the most approved methods, and is the most commodious and handsome structure in the northwest. The legislature of 1889 appropriated nearly $10,000 for improving the grounds and heating plant. Wheeler Hall, a dormitory for young women, was built in 1892 at a cost of $25,000. The legislature of 1901 appropriated $40,000 for an addition to the main building. The addition was constructed the following year. In dimension it is 90 feet by 58 feet. The new addition contains a beautiful auditorium, library, biological laboratories, gymnasium and bath rooms.

The school was opened August 29, 1888, with a membership of 42, and since that time the growth of the school has been steady and continuous.

COURSES OF STUDY.

Five courses of study are offered, namely, a one-year graduate course, advanced graduate course of two years, Latin course of five years, English course of five years, elementary course of three years.

PRESIDENTS OF THE SCHOOL.

The first president of the school was Livingston C. Lord, who served from 1888 to 1899. He was succeeded by the present president, Frank A. Weld.

THE STATE NORMAL SCHOOL AT DULUTH.

This school is the fifth and youngest of the five state normal schools. It was established by an act of the legislature in 1895, said act containing a provision that no money should be expended for buildings prior to 1897, and, as in the case of the other four schools, that a suitable tract of land, six acres in extent, should be donated as a site. This last condition was complied with when the city of Duluth donated six acres of land lying between Colorado and Twenty-second avenues east and immediately north of Fifth street.

In 1897 the state legislature appropriated $5,000 for the construction of a basement. In 1899 an appropriation of $75,000 was made for the construction of the building. In February of 1901 the building, then well-nigh completed, was almost entirely destroyed by fire. Fortunately it was well protected by insurance and it was possible to begin the work of reconstruction at once and without assistance from the state.

It was expected that the school could be opened in the fall of 1901, and the state normal board had chosen E. W. Bohannon as president at a meeting in April of that year, but unforeseen delays in the work of reconstructing and equipping the building rendered it desirable to delay the opening until the year following.

The first session began Sept. 2, 1902. The enrollment for the first year was 127 in the normal department and 97 in the training department, a total of 224. For the year following, 1903-04, the numbers were 182 for the normal department and 143 for the training department, a total of 325. The enrollment for the present year, 1904-05, will show a satisfactory increase over the one preceding. The present principal is E. W. Bohannon.

MINNESOTA SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF AND THE BLIND.

Previous to the creation of the board of control one board of directors had charge of the Minnesota Institute for Defectives, which consisted of the School for the Deaf, the School for the Blind and the School for the Feeble-Minded.

The law establishing the board of control placed the School for the Feeble-Minded under the exclusive control of that board, and the schools for the deaf and blind partially under the management of the board of directors and partially under the board of control.

In 1902 these changes were completed by the law which gave these last named schools the combined title "Minnesota Schools for the Deaf and the Blind" and prescribed that they should hereafter be grouped and classed with the educational institutions of the state.

MINNESOTA SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF.

J. N. TATE, Superintendent.

The state legislature, at its first session in 1858, passed an act establishing the Minnesota state institute for the education of the deaf and dumb, to be located in the town of Faribault on condition that the citizens give forty acres of land for the use and benefit of the institution. The land was donated, but the school was not opened till 1863. The school occupied Major Fowler's store on Front street.

In March, 1866, the legislature made the first appropriation for building purposes. In the spring of 1868 the north wing was completed, furnished and occupied. This wing was planned to accommodate fifty pupils, and in five years it contained sixty-five deaf children.

In 1863, by an act of the legislature, a board of directors was appointed and was authorized to receive and educate the blind children of the state with the deaf. The board consisted of Geo. F. Batchelder, Rodney A. Mott and David H. Frost.

During the last two school years there have been enrolled 329 deaf children. This school has already been instrumental in preparing hundreds of deaf youth to be useful and self-reliant citizens in the state, and year by year a few are graduated, well prepared to take their places beside the hearing and speaking youth who leave the public schools.

The schools and industrial classes are well organized, and the pupils are under the care and instruction of experienced and competent officers and teachers. About one-third of the time is devoted to manual training and the rest to intellectual work in the school room.

Pupils receive instruction in the following trades and handicrafts: Baking, blacksmithing, cabinet-making, chair-caning, carpentry, cooking, drawing, dressmaking, fancy work, glazing, ironing, painting, printing, sewing, shoe-making, sloyd, wood carving, wood inlaying, and wood turning. A large part of the repairing to buildings and furniture is done by the pupils. So the trades are not only schools for the pupils, but are a means of revenue to the state, since what is done in them would otherwise cost a large sum of money. The industrial training in this institution is regarded as second in importance only to that done in the literary department.

The methods of instruction are eclectic. They admit of every known way. That in use at this institution is known as the combined system. The method is adapted to the child. Some pupils can make satisfactory progress by the oral method. Others, equally bright, progress best by the manual. The one object, the preparation of the pupil for life's battle, is never lost sight of. One central thought dominates from the time the pupil enters school till his course is completed, that is to give him a knowledge of the English language, in all cases written, and where possible also spoken. This is a tedious process. The pupil usually comes with no knowledge of any language. What he learns must be done largely in the school room. A child who cannot acquire spoken language may be just as bright as one who can learn to speak and read the lips, so much depends upon quickness of perception and ability to imitate. There is a happy mean. The aim is to give every pupil the opportunity to demonstrate his ability to be successfully educated orally. We have now eight classes taught orally and fifteen manually.

All pupils are taught drawing, and special lessons are given in painting to a number.

The duties of each day are agreeably divided between school exercises, industrial work and recreation.

The school is free to all deaf children whose parents or guardians are citizens of the state.

The proper age for admission is eight years. The regular school period is ten years, to which a special course of three years may be added.

The school has seventy acres of land, all beautifully located.

There are perhaps 200 deaf children in the state who have never attended the school. We try to make this a home for the pupils. They are very happy here. The state has provided this free school for all children in Minnesota of sound mind and too deaf to be educated in the public schools. Send the name and address of any such pupils to the superintendent of "The Minnesota School for the Deaf," Faribault.

THE SCHOOL FOR THE BLIND.

JAMES J. DOW, Superintendent.

The School for the Blind is located in Faribault about one mile from the School for the Deaf. Its only connection with the latter school is that it is under the educational management of the same board of directors, and is included with it in a combined title. Otherwise it is in its location, organization and administration entirely separate from it.

GENERAL VIEW.

The School for the Blind was established in 1866 and in 1868 it was combined with the School for the Deaf, but in 1874 it was finally separated from that school and placed in the location which it now occupies.

The school is open to all blind persons residing in the state of Minnesota who are between the ages of six and twenty-five years.

Board, care and instruction are furnished to all pupils without charge.

The school is organized on the basis of the school system of the state, with an elementary course of eight years and a secondary or high school course of four years. Manual and industrial training is given in sewing, knitting and fancy work, in sloyd, rattan and willow work, in hammock and net weaving, and in broom and whisk making.

A course of musical study is maintained, including instruction upon the piano and pipe organ, the violin and other orchestral instruments, in individual and class singing, in the theory and history of music, and in the art of piano tuning and repairing.

A well equipped library of books in raised print, numbering 1,200 volumes, is maintained in connection with the school. From it books are sent to all blind persons in the state who desire them, free of charge for transportation.

The attendance during the last school year was 91.

This school was established by an act of the legislature in 1885, upon the recommendation of Governor Hubbard, and was opened for the reception of children in December, 1886. The commission which selected the site and erected the first buildings was composed of Gov. L. F. Hubbard, ex-officio, C. S. Crandall of Owatonna, Anthony Kelly of Minneapolis, Wm. Morin of Albert Lea, John Byers of Hastings and B. B. Herbert of Red Wing.

In the construction of the buildings and organization of the school the board adopted the cottage plan, believing that cottage buildings, with home-like arrangements, would afford the best facilities for the proper classification and care of the children while in the school. The site selected adjoins the town site of Owatonna, Steele county, on the west, and then consisted of one hundred and sixty acres of good farm land, the gift of the city of Owatonna. To this has been added eighty acres, purchased by the state in 1897.

The present buildings, thirteen in number, comprise an administration building, six cottages, in each of which a family of children lives, a school house, hospital, superintendent's residence, laundry and heating plant, and two barns, all irregularly and attractively placed on an undulating plat overlooking the beautiful Straight river valley and city of Owatonna.

The cost of the property, including land, buildings and all improvements, is $237,083.85.

As the name indicates, the school is for dependent and neglected children. They are admitted in the first instance upon orders from the courts; the most of them from the probate court through proceedings begun by county commissioners, but some from the municipal and district courts, in which the parents or guardians are prosecuted for ill-treating their children and found to be improper guardians of them. Both boys and girls, otherwise eligible, are admitted at any age under fifteen, and are retained until they are fitted to be placed in homes and satisfactory homes are found. The statutory steps necessary to be taken to secure admission are simple and divested of every feature resembling a criminal proceeding. Homelessness, dependence or ill-treatment are the grounds upon which admittance may be secured. All children committed become wards of the State, but may be returned to their parents by the voluntary action of the board of control.

In the school the children are classified in families of from twenty to thirty each, each family occupying a cottage under the care of a matron and an assistant. The location in the country on a farm is fortunate. There are no unclean streets and filthy alleys, but there are extensive play grounds, beautiful hills, and broad acres which afford farm work and plenty of outdoor recreation.

A splendid herd of forty healthy cows affords good milk in abundance, and the farm yields vegetables in extensive variety, also fruits, including apples, plums, raspberries, strawberries and currants. The farm is a source of profit and a valuable means of education, classes of boys working and receiving instruction in the garden, greenhouse, orchard and on the farm.

A graded school is conducted in a fine, well furnished eight-room building on the premises a little distance from the cottage dwellings. When "school calls" at nine o'clock the children leave their cottage homes and go to school after the manner of children in the public schools. The library of about a thousand well-selected books in this building is a valuable aid in the school work.

The pupils are graded according to their educational status, as in the public schools. Six teachers are employed, and the several classes under their charge are instructed in sloyd, domestic science, kindergarten, vocal music, and the subjects in the primary, intermediate and grammar grades. These classes include all of the children in the school above four years of age, the kindergarten including those from four to six.

On Sunday chapel exercises are held in the forenoon at 10:30 and Sunday school in the afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. The teachers and state agents, who may be present, assist in these exercises, and the ministers and interested members of the several churches in Owatonna often come in and give valuable assistance.

Christmas, New Years, Fourth of July and Thanksgiving Day are appropriately and enthusiastically observed and thoroughly enjoyed by the children. Also Decoration Day and the birthdays of Washington and other national characters are observed with special exercises.

It is the purpose of the state to give every child his chance to grow up into a good citizen of this commonwealth, but this school is not to be his permanent home. Only a part of the care and training given is bestowed in the institution. The average time of residence of children in the school before being placed in homes is seven and one-half months. Thus the institutional care is not extended over a long period, and is preparatory to their going into suitable homes.

When the children are placed out a trial period of three months is given, during which the foster parents may return them at will. The indenture contract, which is signed when the child leaves the school, is so conditioned as to insure the child a speedy release from an unhappy or ill-chosen home. It requires the foster parents to receive him as a member of the family, to send him to school, to see that he attends church, to care for him in sickness and to have him taught some useful occupation. At the end of the indenture period, when the child is eighteen years old, he is to receive a small sum of money, usually $75.

But the duty of the state does not end when the children are placed in homes. Adequate supervision of them is necessary to secure the fulfillment of the indenture contracts. For this purpose state agents are employed, and it is the duty of such agents to visit the children in homes and see that they receive kind treatment and such advantages as they need. The agents are also charged with the duty of personally investigating applications from families desiring to receive children. Of such importance is this that a visit to every family is required before passing favorably upon its application. In 1904 about 46 per cent of the applications received were approved after investigation and an average of 26 children per month were placed in homes. Four agents are now employed in finding homes and placing out children and supervising them subsequently.

The census of the institution has varied in recent years, as the children have come and gone, from 182 to 297.

The average census for the year ending Dec. 31, 1904, was 208.

The 2,808 children received from the opening of the school to December 31, 1904, are thus accounted for:

Remaining in school.....	247
In families on indenture.....	1,121
In families on trial.....	56
In families adopted.....	98
Returned to parents.....	123
Self-supporting	961
Died in homes or in school.....	94
Returned to counties, being improper cases.....	108

The total cost of the work was, for the year 1904, $48,596.36. The average number of children that received care and supervision was 1,389. Cost per capita, $34.98.

STATE CORRECTIONAL AND CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

BOARD OF CONTROL OF STATE INSTITUTIONS.

By an act approved April 2, 1901, being Chapter 122, Laws of 1901, the governor was empowered to appoint a Board of Control of State Institutions, consisting of three members, whose powers and duties were prescribed in the act. Accordingly on April 3, 1901, the governor appointed such a board, the members to serve respectively for six, four and two years, and thereupon the board was duly organized. The law provides that the member having the shortest term to serve shall be chairman of the board.

The Board of Control thus established took the place and was charged with the duties of the following named boards, which were abolished: State Board of Corrections and Charities, the Board of Trustees of the Hospitals and Asylums for the Insane, the Board of Managers of the State Prison, the Board of Managers of the State Reformatory, the Board of Managers of the State Training School, the Board of Directors of the Minnesota Institute for Defectives so far as related to the school for feeble-minded, this latter institution having theretofore included three departments—school for blind, school for deaf, and school for feeble-minded. The Board of Control is also given the financial management of the following named institutions where the former boards were continued in charge of the educational work, viz., the State University, the State normal schools, the State public school at Owatonna, the school for the blind and the school for the deaf.

In addition to the general control of the public institutions above named, the board, as successor to the board of corrections and charities, has charge of the examination and approval of plans for jails and lockups; inspection and condemnation of jails and lockups; the deportation of non-resident dependents; the regulation of the importation of juvenile dependents; the appointment of probation officers, and various other matters not necessary here to enumerate. It has also the duty of passing upon applications for paroles and discharges from the State reformatory, the paroling of prisoners from the State prison and the paroling of inmates from the State training school, as well as the general supervision of all paroled inmates of said institutions.

Incidental to its general powers, the Board of Control has charge of the construction of all the buildings and betterments of all the foregoing institutions.

There were at the close of the biennial period under the care of the state in the several institutions 6,223 inmates, distributed as follows, viz.:

State asylum, Anoka.....	246
State asylum, Hastings.....	257
State hospital, Fergus Falls.....	1,368
State hospital, Rochester.....	1,103
State hospital, St. Peter.....	961
School for feeble-minded.....	808
State public school.....	194
State training school.....	372
State reformatory	280
State prison	634
Total	6,223

At the close of the school year, 1904, there were at the school for the deaf 274 and at the school for the blind 83, in all, 357, who are supported by the state while at these schools, but who return to their homes during the summer vacation. There were also absent on vacation from the school for feeble-minded 192 inmates on July 31st, which would make a total of about 1,000 inmates.

Visitations are made by the board, or some member thereof, at each of the five institutions for insane, the State training school, State reformatory and the State prison monthly, as well as other visits from time to time as occasion requires. At the prison, reformatory and training school a court is held each month for the purpose of hearing applications for discharge and parole and complaints on the part of inmates.

Books of account are kept at the office of the board which are duplicates of the books kept at each of the several institutions, the items for which are transmitted from the institutions, so that at all times the board has in its office an exact exhibit of the accounts of the several institutions. An account is kept with each item of supplies purchased, showing the amount purchased, amount consumed, and the balance which should be on hand at any given time. These books of account at the several institutions are frequently checked up by an accountant from the office of the board. Inventories of the supplies are taken every quarter and checked up to see that the same correspond with the balance which should be on hand.

The Board of Control appoints the superintendents of the several institutions, holding them responsible for the efficient management of their institutions respectively. The superintendents in turn appoint their subordinates, who are directly responsible to them.

All supplies are purchased on a system of competitive bids and upon estimates previously made by the heads of the several institutions, and all contracts for buildings and betterments are likewise awarded on competitive bids.

The details of the business being so considerable, require a large clerical force at the office of the board.

SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE-MINDED.

A. C. ROGERS, M. D., Superintendent.

In 1868 the attention of the board of directors of the institutions for deaf, dumb and blind was called to the fact that there were children finding their way into the school for deaf who were not bright enough to remain, and in 1877 Professor Noyes emphasized the necessity for special provision for this class. The state board of health took the same position, and the officers of the hospital for insane announced that many idiotic and feeble-minded persons were constantly being sent to them for the want of a more suitable place.

The concurrent movements caused the legislative committee on hospitals for insane, during the session of 1879, to take the matter of provision for idiots and imbeciles under advisement. The legislature, by an act "relating to the removal of insane and inebriate persons," created a commission whose first members were Dr. Geo. W. Wood of Faribault, Dr. H. A. Boardman of St. Paul, and Dr. W. H. Leonard of Minneapolis, and who were authorized to select from the patients at the hospital for insane such children as were feeble-minded or idiotic, and not properly belonging with the insane, and assign them to the care of the directors of the Faribault institution.

A large frame building situated about one-half mile south of the school for deaf was rented by the board of the "experimental" school, and a veteran specialist, Dr. H. M. Knight of Connecticut, was employed to organize the work, and his son, Dr. Geo. H. Knight, was placed in charge under the title of "acting superintendent," the nominal supervision resting with the superintendent of the school for the deaf till 1882, when a separation was made in name, as it had formerly existed in practice.

Dr. Knight resigned in 1885, and Dr. A. C. Rogers, formerly assistant physician to the Iowa institution for feeble-minded, at Glenwood, was appointed in his place.

The present main buildings were begun in 1881, are of blue lime stone, and, with annexes, laundry, bakery, etc., have cost about $230,000. There are two wings and a transverse center, the south being occupied by boys, the north by girls, and the center used for administration and office rooms, an assembly hall, school, industrial and training rooms, dining rooms, kitchen, store rooms, cold storage, etc.

There are two custodial buildings of brick—"Sunnyside," which, with an annex, provides accommodation for 230 boys, and "Skinner Hall," accommodating about 200 girls.

The epileptic department consists of two cottages for males, each accommodating thirty patients, and two dormitory cottages for girls, accommodating fifty patients each.

The building containing the heating plant, the electric and power machinery also contains a shop for boys, in which carpentering, brush making, turning, rug making, painting, etc., are taught.

A group of farm boys, housed about one-half mile from the main building, are engaged in farm, garden and dairy operations.

A hospital building, detached from the others, provides sixty beds for the sick and is equipped with modern conveniences for their care; also lecture room for nurses and attendants and laboratories for special pathological and other medical and professional work.

Total applications received to July 31, 1904: Males, 1,298; females, 986; total, 2,284.

Attendance July 31, 1904: Males, 539; females, 461; total, 1,000.

The state legislature, at its session in 1866, passed an act establishing the Minnesota Hospital for Insane, and appointed commissioners to locate the same. It was located at St. Peter, the citizens generously presenting the state with a fine farm of two hundred and ten acres, one mile south of the city. An appropriation of fifteen thousand dollars was made for temporary provision and support of the insane.

At the session of the legislature in 1867 forty thousand dollars were appropriated for a permanent building on the farm acquired. Plans were obtained and the building commenced. Temporary quarters had been provided and opened for the reception of patients in October, 1866, to which the patients, previously boarded at the hospital in Iowa, were brought. Dr. Samuel E. Shantz of Utica, N. Y., was elected by the trustees superintendent and physician. Under Dr. Shantz the temporary hospital was organized and directed until his death in August, 1868, when he was succeeded by Dr. C. K. Bartlett of Northampton, Mass.

Appropriations were made from year to year for building purposes until the plans were completed in 1876. The admission of patients and gradual increase kept the rooms constantly full, and since 1877 the accommodations have been crowded.

This hospital has accommodation for only seven hundred patients, and yet there have never been less than nine hundred and fifty for the past fifteen years. The buildings are handsome and imposing.

Dr. Bartlett remained in charge of the institution until January the first, 1893, when he was succeeded by the present superintendent. Since 1893 no additions have been made to the hospital buildings, but they have been enlarged and repaired whenever money could be obtained for the purpose, so that now, with the exception of the south wing and south detached ward, the buildings are in good condition.

During the past year the reconstruction of the administration building has been going on, with the object of making it a part of the hospital. The first floor will be used for offices, as heretofore, and the second and third floors are to be used for wards to accommodate twenty-five patients of each sex. These wards have been constructed, and will be carried on like the wards of a general hospital, except that special facilities will be supplied to meet the peculiar conditions present in the class of patients to be dealt with. On the fourth floor will be the operating room, diet kitchen, laboratory, clothes rooms, etc. This reconstruction makes the building entirely fire-proof and modern in its finish and furnishings, so that in future there will be presented to the general public the methods of the general hospital carried out in detail in the hospital for the insane; each patient having the same individual care and treatment that is given in the general hospital, by skilled nurses, under the direction of the medical staff.

The grounds about this institution are very beautiful, the lawns spacious and well kept, and there are numerous flower beds, as well as a great deal of ornamental shrubbery. There is a farm of over a thousand acres connected with the hospital, which not only supplies the institution with what is needed in the way of vegetables and for the feeding of the herd of milch cows and the horses, but also furnishes congenial occupation for a large number of the patients throughout the year. This is also supplemented by the work done by the patients in the green houses connected with the institution, in which flowers and plants are raised to make the wards cheerful during the winter. Patients are employed in the laundry, tailor shop, carpenter shop, sewing room and kitchen, and it is the intention, as soon as room can be found, to establish a regular industrial building, in which it is hoped to find some sort of occupation for all who are able to do anything.

This institution is located at Rochester, Olmsted county.

By a special law passed by the legislature of 1873, and amended in 1874, a tax of $10 on all liquor dealers was assessed to raise a fund for the establishment of a state inebriate asylum, and when completed it was to be maintained by a continuation of the same tax. As soon as a sufficient fund was accumulated the inebriate asylum board purchased a farm of 160 acres, within a mile and a half of the city of Rochester, for $9,000. They secured plans and began building in 1877. Later on it became apparent, and was admitted generally, that room was much more urgently needed for the care of the rapidly increasing insane of the state than for inebriates. The legislature of 1878, considering this point, and in view of the determined opposition to the inebriate asylum to be built and maintained on this plan, repealed the act levying the tax, and changed it to the Second Minnesota Hospital for Insane (since changed to the Rochester State Hospital), with the proviso, however, that inebriates should be admitted into the institution and cared for and treated at the expense of the state on the same basis as the insane.

Dr. J. E. Bowers, with over ten years' experience as first assistant physician at St. Peter, was elected superintendent, and the Rev. A. H. Kerr, who had been a trustee from the beginning of the hospital, was chosen steward. On January 1, 1879, the institution was opened for the reception of patients. Transfers were made from St. Peter and new cases were admitted, and the accommodations for one hundred men were soon filled.

The hospital farm contains 680 acres, with 700 acres adjoining rented.

In 1885 the legislature established a commission to locate a third hospital in the northern section of the state. The commission received several propositions from important towns in the section designated, and finally accepted the proposal from Fergus Falls. The state secured the title to 636 acres of land, and in 1887 the legislature formally located the hospital and established the same at Fergus Falls, appropriating $94,280 therefor, of which amount $24,280 was designated as payment for the land, $50,000 for building and furnishing a detached ward, and $20,000 for boiler house and engine, laundry, shops and stables, and for sewerage and water connections. The appropriation for buildings contemplated the erection of so much as would be necessary to accommodate 300 persons.

The various buildings contemplated in the original plan were all completed in 1900. The normal capacity of the institution is 1,300 patients. The total valuation of the hospital property is approximately $1,000,000.00. The hospital was first opened July 29th, 1890, at which time eighty patients were transferred from the St. Peter hospital. Since the opening of the institution 4,647 patients have been admitted for treatment, of which number 719 were transferred from other hospitals. 3,279 patients have been sent out of the hospital, leaving the present population 1,368.

The first superintendent was Dr. A. P. Williamson, who resigned in 1892.

The State Asylum at Anoka was opened March 14, 1900, with one hundred patients. This number has been increased from time to time until the inmates now number 271. The farm operated in connection with the asylum contains 648 acres, operated by the inmates under the direction of competent foremen. Since the opening of the asylum two modern barns have been built for the accommodation of the stock and farm machinery. These, together with a 30x60 brick and stone vegetable cellar, surmounted by a carpenter shop of same dimensions, just completed, will fully supply the needs of the institution for the present.

During the past year, a fire-proof cottage for females has been built, which is very handsome in design, and complete in all its appointments, and, when furnished, will accommodate fifty people. This building is connected with the main building and center power plant by a tunnel eight feet high and six feet wide. This tunnel will carry all the supply pipes for heat and water, and will also be used for communication between the different buildings.

The center power plant is built on the bank of the Rum river, is complete in all its appointments, and will furnish the steam for the new laundry, which is nearly completed; also the new cottage and the main building, and is to be used in connection with future buildings. It will also supply the new 50,000 gallon tank with water from artesian wells.

A system of sewerage for all the buildings has been completed, and is to work in connection with a septic tank and filter beds of the most approved design, which is located up the river from the main building 2,000 feet, all the work having been done by the inmates.

The state legislature at its session in 1899 passed an act locating the Second State Asylum for the Insane at Hastings.

This asylum is located on the Vermillion river about one and one-half miles south of town. There are 643 acres of land connected with the institution, of which 450 acres are under cultivation. The balance is woodland pasture.

The present building consists of center building and two transverse wings, two stories high, built of red brick.

There is in course of construction now the women's cottage, for which the legislature appropriated $40,000; also heating and lighting plant and waterworks, for which was appropriated $25,000. The above cottage, when completed, will accommodate 60 female patients. It is a fire-proof building, built of pressed brick, and located about 1,200 feet from the present building.

The institution was opened on April 26, 1900, at which time 100 patients were transferred from Rochester. Since then the west wing has been completed, and we have received from Rochester 175 patients and 30 from St. Peter, of which 19 have died and 28 have been paroled or discharged.

This institution is for the education and training of the delinquent and criminal children who may be committed to its guardianship by the courts of the state. Justice and municipal courts have authority to commit children, though commitment by the former must be approved by the judge of the district court. Children are committed between the ages of eight and seventeen years, and remain under the guardianship of the Institution until they are twenty-one years old.

The board of control of state institutions has authority to parole. Eligibility for parole, under the rules, is based upon the inmates earning by exemplary conduct a certain number of credits. Under this system it is possible for an inmate to become eligible for parole in twelve months. The average term of detention, however, is about eighteen months.

The institution is without doubt the most beautifully located of any of the institutions of the state, overlooking, as it does, the Mississippi river and surrounded by a range of majestic bluffs.

The buildings are the administration building, with the boys' dining hall and kitchen attached, three cottages, all alike, power house and shop building, greenhouses, cold storage, and a large building, about one thousand feet distant from the other buildings, for the girls' department.

Inmates are divided into "families," of which there are five of the boys and two of the girls.

A school house, patterned after the modern graded school building of six rooms and one large assembly room, houses the schools. Besides the common branches up to and including the eighth grade, drawing is taught, one room and one teacher being assigned to this work. All children go to school about four hours each day, one half going in the forenoon and the other half in the afternoon.

In the boys' department each family is organized as a military company, a captain, two lieutenants and five sergeants being appointed as cadet officers. Military drill and the setting-up exercises as prescribed in the regular army is carried on, thirty minutes daily being given to this training.

An opportunity to get a fair start in the following trades is afforded: Carpentry, blacksmithing, laundering, tailoring, printing, shoemaking, painting, cooking and floriculture. The smaller boys take the regular sloyd course. A number of boys are also employed on the farm and gardens.

The girls are employed in sewing, knitting, cooking, laundering and general house work. They also have a large garden, some small fruit and considerable poultry, which, together with their flower garden and lawns, keeps them reasonably busy.

Music is taught to some extent, all children having about thirty minutes instruction and practice daily in vocal music. A band is maintained in the boys' department and an orchestra in the girls' department.

The whole scheme and aim of the institution is to so train and teach the misguided and delinquent children that they may know how to live a useful and an honorable life.

On January 1, 1905, there had been committed to the institution since its establishment 2,703 boys and 419 girls. There were in the institution on that date 298 boys and 83 girls. Besides this there were on parole 569 boys and 60 girls.

To place out and supervise these paroled inmates three agents are employed, this being their sole duty. If they commit crime or their habits and associates are such that this is probable, the institution recalls them from parole. This is done only as a last resort, every effort being made to have them lead and live a proper life. While there are some failures there are many boys and girls in our state and elsewhere who can say that the State Training School has been to them a blessing.

On August 1, 1904, the population was 280, an increase of 88 in two years. All inmates are received on the indeterminate plan except United States prisoners and persons received on transfer from the State Training School.

The federal prisoners have fixed terms of sentence, and those transferred from the State Training School remain under the jurisdiction of the reformatory until they reach their majority. The age limits for inmates are sixteen and thirty years.

The institution is designed for the reception of first offenders in felony only, but persons are frequently committed to the reformatory who have been previously imprisoned in state prisons and other institutions for serious offenses because the trial courts are not in possession of accurate information concerning their past life.

STATE REFORMATORY, ST. CLOUD.

Inmates of the reformatory for sufficient cause may be transferred to the State Prison at Stillwater, and it has sometimes been found necessary to order their transfer.

Inmates are paroled whenever such a course seems best and proper employment can be procured.

No one may be detained in the reformatory beyond the maximum time for which he might, in the discretion of the committing judge, have been sentenced to the State Prison.

There are no accommodations for women, though occasionally a woman is received. The disposition of women is a serious problem. Some are placed in private homes and some are placed in jails. They cannot be kept in the institution on account of entire want of sleeping rooms, bath rooms, dining rooms, hospital or work shops.

Inmates lacking in education are placed in the institution schools, from which they may graduate with the completion of the eighth grade or grammar school.

Religious services are conducted in the chapel each Sunday morning by clergymen from St. Cloud. Attendance is not compulsory.

Moral instruction is given every second Tuesday evening throughout the year, and attendance is required.

Upon his entrance the denominational preference (if any) of each inmate is ascertained, classes are formed, and the local clergy are invited to minister to them. No money compensation is or may be allowed for the service, but there has been a charitable and cheerful response to the invitation for this missionary work.

Graduates of the reformatory are found in almost all walks of life, and many of them are not only self-supporting and self-respecting, but are esteemed in the communities in which they reside. Some of them are prosperous in business affairs, and many of them are heads of families and have accumulated comfortable holdings.

The principal work carried on is in connection with the construction of permanent buildings from the syenite which is quarried within the main inclosure, but farming and gardening are carried on to a considerable extent, and various trades are practically taught. The institution has furnished shoes, slippers, tin and iron ware, cattle and dairy products, and nursery stock to other state institutions.

When the weather permits the opening morning hour is devoted to military drill in the invalid yard.

The institution is under the management of the board of control of State institutions, who visit it once each month, remaining one or two days. At such times the members of the board thoroughly hear and consider all appeals that inmates may present to them and announce their decision; the policy being to individualize the cases and act for the best interests of the young men, which course is believed to comprehend and safeguard the welfare of society.

Changes in the roster of the institution are not favored and never have been. Quite a number of keepers and guards have been in the service at this place ever since the inception of the reformatory.

The total number of persons committed to and received at the reformatory up to August 1, 1904, was 1,686.

When the territory of Minnesota was organized in 1849 it was determined that the capitol should be located at St. Paul and the State University at St. Anthony's Falls. In the further distribution of state institutions Stillwater, then the third town of the territory in wealth and population, was assigned the Prison. Two years later the first prison was built upon the site occupied by the present one. It was a wooden structure, large enough to house about one hundred persons, and was cut off from the outside world by a wooden fence, upon which at regular intervals were platforms for armed guards. The old prison has long since passed away to make room for a more substantial structure. It, in turn, has been outgrown by the requirements of the state and soon will have to be replaced by a more modern structure.

The institution is located on Stillwater's main street, about in the center of the town, but its suggestive buildings are completely hidden from the busy world in a small box canon among the many hills that skirt the St. Croix river. The front gate is about one hundred yards from the margin of the stream. To the north, west and south the hills rise precipitously, and on these sides of the inclosure the walls are built into the banks. On the east side a stone wall thirty feet high frowns over the city street. There are in all nine and one-half acres in the inclosure.

The administration building of the prison fronts on the public thoroughfare. In it are located the warden's and business offices, board rooms, a few private apartments for such of the guards and employes as live on the premises, the officers' dining rooms and the female prison. Behind the administration building, separated from it only by the convict kitchen and bakery, is the main cellhouse, with hardly enough quarters for the 659 cells. Between the south wall of the inclosure and the cellhouse stands another building in which are located the bathroom, storeroom, laundry and the institution tailor shop. A wide street running east and west cuts the yard in two. On the south side of this street are the administration building, the cellhouse and the laundry, while on the north side are situated the factories, warehouses, etc. The hospital building and greenhouses are at the west end of the yard in the center of a small park, surrounded by shade trees and during the summer months by flowering shrubs. Numerous flower beds border the street on both sides, and from May to October the yard has the appearance of a well kept park. There are two gates opening from the street into the prison inclosure. One is for delivery wagons, while the other is a railroad gate, through which freight cars are switched to the twine and hemp warehouses. The warden's house is outside the walls, on a height commanding a view of the prison yard and buildings.

In former years the labor of the inmates was leased under contract to the Minnesota Thresher Company and others, but in 1895 the legislature passed a bill prohibiting contract labor in any state institution, and since then the prisoners have been employed in the manufacture of shoes under what is known as the "piece price" system and in the manufacture of binding twine on "State account." This twine is sold to Minnesota farmers at little more than actual cost of manufacture; and, as the price charged is from two to two and one-half cents per pound below the price charged by outside jobbers and manufacturers to dealers, and as it is just as good as any twine made by outside concerns, it is in great demand, the entire output being usually disposed of before the 1st of May. The plant has grown gradually until it now has a capacity of ten million pounds per annum. The shoe factory is operated by Messrs. R. H. and David Bronson of Stillwater and A. E. McCartney of St. Paul.

The twine factory is what is known to the trade as a "three system plant"; that is, it contains three complete sets of each of the machines necessary to convert the fibre into twine ready for shipment. The transformation is effected principally by a system of combing and drawings. From the moment the rush-plaited cover is removed and the bale is opened until the long strands of fibre reach the spinning machines to be twisted into cord, the material is constantly undergoing combing.

The binder twine fibre is unloaded from the cars inside the prison yard. It is weighed and stored in the warehouses until it is used. Adjoining the fibre warehouse is the opening room in which the bales are opened and spread out, the kinks shaken out of the long strands by hand and the fibre put through a machine called a "breaker." The breaker subjects it to the first course of breaking, and in order to toughen the material and make it more pliable distributes a limited amount of oil through it. After passing through the first breaker, it is sent to the second, where it is again cleaned and straightened. Then it is removed from the opening room to the next shop, where it is passed through first a coarse and then a fine "spreader." Like the breaker, the spreader is merely a steel comb on a belt.

After leaving the spreaders, the fibre is in long, straight and fairly clean strands, and one would think that it might at once be twisted into cord. But the combing is not through yet, for in the next room it is sent through first a coarse and then a fine "draw frame," and then it is given what is technically known as a "third working" in a still finer one. These draw frames not only comb the fibre, but they also regulate the sliver; that is, they determine how many strands of hemp will go to make up the finished twine. Next, the fibre is run through a "finisher," an almost human machine, which regulates more precisely than the draw frames the size of the sliver, and then it is ready for the spinning rooms. As it comes out of the spinner, it is wrapped on huge spools, which are piled on little carts and distributed among the men operating the balling machines. These latter wrap the twine into five-pound balls, tagged and ready for baling. In the balling shop the twine is weighed, tested as to its tensile strength, length and evenness, and packed in 50-pound bales, which are sent to the twine warehouses and stored there, roof high, until the harvesting commences.

The output of the twine factory up to 1902 was little more than 5,000,000 pounds. This year (1904) it exceeded 10,000,000 pounds—its maximum capacity. The output for the season of 1905 will be over 10,000,000 pounds. About 210 prisoners are regularly employed in the twine factory the year around.

Something over 225 inmates are employed in the shoe factory all the year around. The company pays a stated price for each piece of work turned out, and the per diem earnings of the prisoners is larger than in any other prison in the country. The volume of business of these two industries amounts annually to about $1,700,000. Of this total, returns from the twine factory, operated on "State account," amount to $1,000,000, while the shoe company, operated on the piece price system, does a business of about $700,000.

Convict labor is also employed in the tailor shop, where all the clothing worn by inmates is manufactured; in the repair shop of the state; in the laundry, the kitchens, dining rooms and cellhouse; in the warehouses, greenhouses, park and hospital, and in fact in every department of the institution.

According to modern ideas, a prison is not merely a place in which lawbreakers are punished indefinitely, but rather a place in which to confine them until such a time as they can be set at liberty without endangering public safety. In other words, a prison should be a place in which an opportunity is given them to reform. With this object in view, what is known as the "grade and merit system," with parole, has become a dominating feature of this institution, by means of which the prisoner can, to a large extent, work out his own salvation. Upon his own conduct depends not only his standing in prison, but the diminution of his sentence under the provisions of the parole and good time law. The discipline of the institution is strict but humane, and the rules are not difficult to live up to. The gist of them is that the inmate must mind his own business, attend strictly to his work, keep his cell and person neat and clean, and act always in a quiet and orderly manner. There is no disposition on the part of the management to degrade a prisoner, but the rules are so framed that he may degrade himself if he sees fit to do so.

Writing, visiting and smoking privileges are manifested by small tickets which are given the prisoner upon his entrance to the institution, and which must be produced when he desires to make use of them. The loss of these tickets, through a violation of the rules, entails the loss of the privileges they represent.

The grade system as an incentive to good conduct is powerfully seconded by the parole law, under the provisions of which any prisoner never having served a previous term in a penal institution may be paroled by the board of control at the expiration of one-half of the full time for which he was sentenced, provided he has preserved a good record in prison and has been in the first grade for six months or more. Since 1894, when the grading and parole system was inaugurated, 668 inmates have been released on parole, of whom about 12 per cent violated their agreement and have been returned to prison. The good time law is a still further incentive toward good behavior, as it is within the power of the board of control to refuse to grant any good time to an unruly prisoner.

In order that every inmate may be given an opportunity to acquire the foundation of a good education, there is in connection with the prison a night school in operation eight months in the year.

The better educated prisoners are privileged to join a branch of the Chautauqua Society which is located within the walls of the institution. This circle is officered and managed entirely by inmates, and, under the direction of the main organization, pursues the regular course of chautauqua study each year.

Another feature of the intellectual life of the institution is the Prison Mirror, a weekly paper owned and edited by inmates and published at the institution. This paper was established in 1886 and is the pioneer prison newspaper. It is read from end to end by all the inmates, and is a valuable reformatory agent. As the paper has a job department, in which all the printing of the prison is done, it is on a paying basis.

A fine library of some 6,000 volumes is a feature of the institution and is at the exclusive service of the inmates. The books are carefully selected and are of a high class and the library is of inestimable value as a reformatory agent. In addition to the library the State subscribes for all the best magazines and circulates them among the inmates. A portion of the money derived from visitors' fees is devoted to this purpose.

A brass band and orchestra have recently been organized among the inmates, under the direction of an experienced musical director. The band has attained a degree of efficiency which would be creditable to many outside organizations of a like nature, and it is predicted that before many years have passed it will be the equal of any in the state. The orchestra is also making rapid progress, and good music is now provided for chapel services on Sunday and for entertainments on holidays.

Good air, pure water, wholesome food and absolute cleanliness keep sickness at a minimum within the prison walls. There have been no epidemics in the past and the mortality list has been very small. The cellhouse is not all that could be desired. It is old and most of the cells are unsanitary, and it is hard to keep them clean.

Added to these disadvantages, it is too small for the population. The last legislature was petitioned to make an appropriation sufficiently large to build a more modern structure and to construct other buildings which are necessary for the welfare of the institution. About half the amount required was appropriated, and an addition was made to the cellhouse and a hospital for the insane prisoners was erected. These improvements, however, merely relieved the congestion temporarily and it is thought unwise to expend any more money on the present site, as many of the buildings are unsanitary and there is no room on which to build. Along with the enormous growth of the State is going a growth in the criminal population, and the present site is already entirely inadequate for the needs of the prison. What is needed is enough ground to farm. A farm could be worked at a profit to the State and would be of great benefit to the inmates.

The cellhouse is scrubbed and whitewashed daily, and great care is exercised to keep it free from germs and dirt of all kinds. The hospital is a modern building, well lighted and ventilated, with a physician always in attendance. During the summer months the pleasant, shady park is turned over to prisoners who are ailing. Contrary to most penal institutions, there is very little tuberculosis in the Minnesota State prison. Consumptives are located in an isolated wing of the cellhouse; their clothes are washed separately from the clothes of the rest of the inmates; their cells are disinfected daily, the bedding aired and sunned, etc., while they are provided with a special diet.

The institution is more than self-supporting. It is on a paying basis, and last year showed a net profit of eighty-six thousand ($86,000) dollars.

The growth of the prison industries has been enormous. The twine plant was established in 1891, at which time an appropriation of $150,000 as a revolving fund was provided by the legislature, and at intervals since that time $120,000 for machinery, making a total of $270,000. No other appropriation has ever been asked for or made. $20,000 realized from the sale of old twine machinery has been since returned to the state treasurer as an offset against the $270,000 appropriation, this leaving the total appropriation of $250,000 made by the state. This represents our total liabilities. Our assets are $781,634.26, leaving a net profit to the state of $531,634.26.

The Minnesota Soldiers' Home is located at Minnehaha Falls, on a tract of wooded land donated to the State for the purpose by the city of Minneapolis.

The object of the Soldiers Home is to provide a home for all honorably discharged ex-soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the army or navy of the United States during the War of the Rebellion, Mexican War or the war with Spain, who now are or who may hereafter become citizens of the State of Minnesota, who, by reason of wounds, disease, old age or infirmities, are unable to earn their living, and who have no adequate means of support. Its management is vested in a board of seven trustees, appointed by the governor, not more than four of whom can be members of the same political party.

Of the fifty-one acres comprising the home grounds, about ten acres are cultivated as a garden. This plat lies on the highest of three terraces, and at the northerly extremity of the tract. On this ground are raised each year large quantities of vegetables for the use of the institution, wholly by the labor of members. On the second or middle terrace have been built all the permanent structures except the hospital and the morgue. These latter occupy the lowest terrace at the extreme point of the bluff.

The permanent buildings of the Soldiers' Home have been erected in pursuance of a systematic plan adopted by the board in the beginning, and carried out as successive appropriations have become available. They are of generally uniform architectural design, though pleasantly varied in details. The materials are pressed brick, with brown stone trimmings, slate roofs and metal cornices. The woodwork is of oak, with maple floors; the windows are single panes. The construction of all is solid and substantial.

These permanent buildings consist of:

One administration building, one hospital, five cottages, one dining hall and kitchen, one laundry and heating plant, and one pavilion.

The administration building contains the offices of the institution; the library and reading room, also used for a chapel; the residence of the commandant, and (in the basement) storage room for clothing before issue to members.

The hospital contains, in five large wards and many smaller rooms, the quarters of the sick, residence of the surgeon, quarters of nurses and attendants, operating rooms, surgeon's office and dispensary, kitchen and dining room for the building, etc.

The dining hall contains the general kitchen and dining room of the home and residence of adjutant and quartermaster.

The cottages each contain quarters for about fifty members, mostly divided into rooms accommodating six to eight individuals. They are all furnished with bath rooms and all modern conveniences. In each cottage it is intended to have one general sitting room, but in winter it sometimes becomes necessary to fill these rooms with beds. There is additional room in the attics and in the high basements, which at times are utilized for sleeping apartments when the home is overcrowded.

All of the above buildings are thoroughly heated by steam radiators and plentifully lighted with incandescent electric lamps.

The laundry and heating plant, as its name implies, contains the battery of four large steam boilers; the laundry machinery, where is done all this class of work for the entire institution; the engines which furnish power; the electric dynamos which supply light for the buildings and grounds, and the pumps which keep the reservoir near by at all times filled with water.

The pavilion is intended for religious services, concerts, camp fires, and all public exercises and assemblages during the summer season. It is a large, light, cool, ornamental structure, from whose broad exterior promenade, overhanging the brink of the cliff, a magnificent view up and down the Mississippi river can be had, and within which all manner of diversions interesting to the veterans and their throngs of visitors can be comfortably conducted.

Every branch of the service, every department and nearly every army corps is represented in the home. Its members participated in all the decisive campaigns and battles of the Rebellion.

All the expenses of maintaining the Soldiers' Home, including not only food, clothing, fuel and medicine, but also salaries, furniture, fixtures, books, nursing, burials, and all repairs in excess of $2,000 a year, are paid from the "home support fund" in the State treasury. This fund consists (1) of an annual appropriation of $30,000, and (2) of the per capita allowance from the United States government of $100 a year for each inmate (average attendance), received quarterly.

THE INSURANCE DEPARTMENT.

THOMAS D. O'BRIEN, COMMISSIONER.

Minnesota was one of the first states in the Union to place upon its statute books a general insurance code creating an independent insurance department, said law being enacted in 1872, and provided for the appointment of a commissioner, clothed with power to enforce such laws respecting the business transactions of the various insurance companies operating in the state. Such supervision has afforded to the citizens of the state, since the creation of said department, substantial protection against the operations of irresponsible Minnesota companies, as well as those of other states, as only through strict compliance with all the laws, especially with respect to financial security, were corporations transacting an insurance business permitted to assume obligations involving indemnities arising through the various casualties or contingencies stipulated under their policy contracts issued to the residents of Minnesota.

The remarkable growth in the state of the insurance business since the original enactment of said insurance code is duly noted from year to year by the following amounts paid into the state treasury by the department:

1881.....	37,914.24	1894.....	157,328.91
1882.....	45,182.78	1895.....	157,315.65
1883.....	53,994.45	1896.....	163,300.00
1884.....	67,167.38	1897.....	170,774.86
1885.....	64,705.76	1898.....	174,386.24
1886.....	75,089.57	1899.....	182,861.21
1887.....	98,364.87	1900.....	212,440.50
1888.....	105,255.04	1901.....	227,018.19
1889.....	114,857.21	1902.....	247,034.01
1890.....	122,356.57	1903.....	280,021.42
1891.....	131,948.92	1904.....	303,755.94
1892.....	142,874.25

past twenty-five years, or from 1880 to 1904, inclusive, makes a grand total for said period of but $200,000, as against a total revenue during the same period, which has been turned into the state treasury, of about $3,500,000, as shown by the foregoing statement.

Of the tax heretofore collected from fire insurance companies, on account of fire premiums received in towns having fire departments, one-half has been turned over to the respective towns in question for the support and relief of injured or disabled firemen, or their families, in case of the existence of a duly incorporated relief association, or, in the absence of such an organization, for the direct maintenance of the fire department. Through the enactment of a law in 1903 a full two per cent, or practically the entire amount of such tax, will hereafter be received by the aforesaid respective fire department towns for the purposes above cited, which disbursement will hereafter be practically double the amount heretofore received.

The annual statements of insurance companies required by law to be made to the department cover the period ending with December 31st, the fire companies having until the first of February, and those of all other classes until the 15th of February, in which to file the same, which period, however, may be extended until a date not later than the first of March.

During the year 1903 (the last year which has been compiled at the date of this writing) the total fire and marine premiums paid by the citizens of this state amounted to $6,042,528, while the total losses incurred were $2,313,957. These figures cover marine and inland business, and likewise all the business transacted by the local township mutual companies.

The regular so-called old line or legal reserve companies have received in the way of premiums on policies carried by Minnesota citizens, during the year 1903, the sum of $6,183,783.11, an increase over the receipts of 1902 of $455,828. The amount of indemnities incurred by said class of companies in the state was $1,576,959.

The assessment life, fraternal societies and accident associations received during the year 1903 for premiums the sum of $1,677,026; total indemnities incurred and paid amounted to $1,031,826, these figures being a small increase over those of the same period a year previous.

The regular mutual hail and cyclone insurance companies, all of which are local or Minnesota corporations, received from members, in the way of premium payments or assessments, during the year 1903, $307,764; total losses paid, $202,776.

In addition to the classes of insurance covered by the foregoing figures, there are many corporations transacting the business of accident, employers' liability, fidelity and surety, plate glass, steam boiler, burglary and credit insurance. Classing these miscellaneous lines under one general head, it appears that the total premiums received by said companies in Minnesota during the year 1903 were $1,151,987; total losses incurred, $423,601.

The total number of companies authorized to transact business in the state as of the year ending Dec. 31, 1903, was 493, classified as follows:

American stock fire and marine companies.....	108
Foreign fire and marine companies.....	35
Mutual fire companies and Lloyds.....	19
Township mutual companies.....	141
Life insurance companies, old line and stipulated premium.....	42
Assessment life companies.....	13
Fraternal societies	63
Assessment accident companies.....	22
Accident and casualty and miscellaneous companies, stock.....	37
Mutual hail and cyclone companies.....	13

OFFICE OF PUBLIC EXAMINER.

The office of public examiner was created in 1878 (General Laws of 1878, chapter 83) by the appointment, to be made by the governor for the term of three years, of a competent person, who shall be a skillful accountant and well versed as an expert in the theory and practice of bookkeeping, and who is not an incumbent of any public office under the state, or any county, municipality or public institution therein, and who is not a stockholder, officer, trustee, assignee or employe of any banking, moneyed or savings institution or corporation created under the laws thereof. The duties of this officer, being of a fiduciary character, his bonds were fixed at $50,000 for their faithful discharge. The law gives him almost unlimited power in the examination of the accounts of public officers, state and county. He prescribes and enforces correct methods for keeping the financial accounts of state institutions, county offices and banking institutions; visits them twice annually, and makes an exhaustive inspection of their books and the detailed items of expenditure. With reference to county officers, it is his duty to enforce a correct and uniform system of bookkeeping by auditors and treasurers, so as to insure the thorough supervision and safety of the public fund. By chapter 53, act of 1891, the jurisdiction of the public examiner is made to embrace the financial officers of the city of St. Paul. The extra session of the legislature of 1902 enacted chapter 5, making it obligatory upon the public examiner to examine the books of all corporations paying a gross earnings tax to the state, viz., the railroad companies, the sleeping car companies and the telephone companies, and extending the general powers of the office to all of these corporations.

When complaint is made by firemen's relief associations, it is his duty to examine as to expenditures of such associations.

The public examiner has authority, without prior notice, to visit each of the banking, savings and other moneyed corporations created under the laws of this state, and thoroughly examine into their affairs and ascertain their financial condition at least once in each year. It shall be his duty to carefully inspect and verify the validity and amount of securities and assets held by such institutions, examine into the validity of the mortgages held by savings banks, and see that the same are duly recorded, and ascertain the nature and amount of any discount or other banking transactions which he may deem foreign to the legitimate and lawful purposes of savings institutions.

He is made ex-officio superintendent of banks (chapter 183, Gen. Laws 1887), and all reports required to be made by banks to the state auditor are transferred from the auditor's office to the examiner's office, and all future reports are to be made to the examiner.

The legislature of 1891 (chapters 27 and 131, Gen. Laws 1891) imposed additional duties upon this officer in the examination of building and loan associations, giving the same power and authority conferred upon him as over banks and other moneyed corporations.

The law also requires him to ascertain the financial standing of all bondsmen of state and county officials, and pass upon the sufficiency of such bonds.

DAIRY AND FOOD COMMISSION.

The great advancement of dairying in Minnesota during the biennial period just passed has been quite phenomenal, and the expansion along those lines has equaled, if not exceeded, that of any state of the Union. It is gratifying to note that no state produces butter of superior quality to our own, a fact so plainly demonstrated in the tests at the St. Louis Exposition and National Buttermakers' Association, where J. C. Joslin of Winsted was awarded the World's Fair championship for the highest average score, and L. S. Taylor of Glenville was awarded the grand prize in the October scoring of the National Buttermakers' Association, and Minnesotans also scored highest in dairy butter and on prints in the creamery class. The splendid record does not end here. Minnesota buttermakers have won four gold medals, eighty silver medals and twelve bronze medals in these tests. This record is not only one that every Minnesotan can be extremely proud of, but it will further herald our fame as a dairy state throughout the world. These facts should cause the vast territory in the northern and western portions of the state, which await the progressive dairyman, to be thickly dotted with creameries in the very near future. In the past two years one-hundred and eleven new creameries and seventeen new cheese factories have been built, and the number of patrons supplying milk to creameries has increased from 50,389 to 58,990; number of cows from 382,356 to 435,740; pounds of milk from 1,217,787,450 to 1,351,642,619; butter from 63,726,808 to 72,266,348 pounds, and the amount paid patrons from $10,941,466.38 to $12,988,682.21.

Results have justified the wisdom of conducting the monthly state educational butter and cheese contests, which were held from Nov. 1, 1903, to Oct. 1, 1904, under the supervision of this department. The educational features tempted the progressive butter and cheesemakers to send in samples of their products, and it is now conceded to have been the most beneficial of any similar contest ever held. All of the contestants, of which there were over one hundred, whose product scored ninety-one per cent or over, were awarded diplomas, and the one receiving the highest average score was presented with a beautiful silver loving cup, offered by Governor Van Sant to stimulate interest in the cause of dairying in our state. This cup was won by Albert Schroeder, Lafayette, whose average score was ninety-six and forty-three hundredths.

The milk supply of the great commercial centers of the state, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, has received the solicitous consideration of the commission. This work has resulted in a betterment of quality, and greater improvements are hoped for under a continued rigid enforcement of our laws.

To guard the public health and protect the masses in the purchase of food products, the department has been vigilant in gathering and analyzing samples. Nearly twelve thousand such articles, in daily use in every household, were collected, and, where violations were persisted in, prosecutions have followed, with wholesome effect.

BUREAU OF LABOR.

In 1887 the Minnesota legislature passed an act establishing a state bureau of labor. This law provides that the commissioner shall collect information upon the subject of labor, its relation to capital, the hours of labor, and the earnings of laboring men and women, setting forth the best means of promoting the social, intellectual and moral prosperity of the laboring classes; that he shall, through the police power conferred upon the factory inspectors, enforce all laws enacted for the protection of the wage earners; that he shall biennially make a report to the members of the legislature of all information by him collected and collated, together with such recommendation as he may deem calculated to promote the efficiency of the bureau.

Thirty-one states in the Union have established bureaus with similar powers and duties with those conferred in Minnesota. These bureaus are located at the capitols of the various states. Their publications are widely known for the valuable contributions made by them to the economic and sociological science of the labor question of the times. These bureaus are distinctly American in their character, although many of the European countries have established kindred offices, corresponding closely to those in our own country.

The bureau is looked to for aid and information by a large number of men connected with the labor organizations of our state, as well as by students and writers on subjects pertaining to capital and labor. The demands along these lines are growing continually from year to year, as the people become acquainted and familiar with its working.

Quite an extensive library has been collected by the department, composed principally of the annual and biennial reports of the bureaus from the other states, as well as from foreign countries.

RAILROAD AND WAREHOUSE COMMISSION.

RAILROAD DEPARTMENT.

The first legislation enacted in Minnesota for the regulation of railroads was the act providing for a railroad commissioner, approved March 4, 1871. This act provided for one commissioner to be appointed by the governor. The term of office was fixed at two years; the salary was made $3,000 per annum. Governor Austin appointed under this act A. J. Edgerton, who served until March, 1875. The powers of the commissioner were very limited, practically confined to inspecting the railways and reporting to the legislature his recommendations.

This was superseded by the law enacted March 6, 1874, creating a board of railroad commissioners consisting of three members, to be appointed by the governor for a term of two years. The powers of the board were largely increased, including authority "to make and establish a schedule of rates, said schedule or revisions of the same to be deemed and taken in all courts as prima facie evidence as reasonable maximum rates."

On March 8, 1875, a law was enacted repealing the law last mentioned, which provided for one commissioner and made the office elective. Under this law the powers of the commissioner were reduced to practically the limit of the 1871 law.

March 5, 1885, a law was enacted creating a commission styled the "Railroad and Warehouse Commission," to be appointed by the governor and to consist of three members, the commission to be non-partisan and the term of office to be two years. This law increased the powers of the commission; required the railroad companies to report in detail annually to the commission and to furnish sites for elevators on their right of way and provide cars to all shippers. The commission was, under Chapter 145, General Laws of 1885, also given supervision of the grain business at the terminals of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, with authority to appoint inspectors, weighers and other necessary employees.

By a law enacted March 7, 1887, which was amended in 1891, the board of railroad and warehouse commissioners was given further powers with reference to railroads, thereby increasing its general power and authority; it provided that the commission should be non-partisan and be appointed by the governor; the term of office was made three years; the first board to be appointed in January, 1889; one member for one year, one for two years and one for three years; thereafter appointments to be for three-year periods. The salary was fixed at $3,000 per annum.

In 1899 the legislature passed an act conferring full power on the commission to proceed on its own motion, without petition, to investigate the reasonableness of rates or other proper subjects of inquiry.

The legislature of 1899 changed the board of railroad and warehouse commissioners from an appointive to an elective one, providing that after the first election the term should be fixed at four years. At the general election in 1900 the following were chosen as commissioners: Ira B. Mills and Joseph G. Miller for a term of four years and Charles F. Staples for a term of two years from Jan. 1, 1901.

At the general election of 1902, Charles F. Staples was re-elected for a term of four years. At the last general election in 1904 Ira B. Mills was re-elected for the four-year term and W. E. Young was elected for a similar term to succeed Joseph G. Miller.

The names of the commissioners who have served since the year 1871 to date are as follows:

- 1871-1874—A. J. Edgerton.
- 1874-1875—A. J. Edgerton, W. R. Marshall, J. J. Randall.
- 1876-1881—W. R. Marshall.
- 1882-1884—J. H. Baker.
- 1885-1886—J. H. Baker, George L. Becker, S. S. Murdock.
- 1887-1888—Horace Austin, George L. Becker, John L. Gibbs.
- 1889-1890—George L. Becker, John L. Gibbs, John P. Williams.
- 1891-1892—George L. Becker, John P. Williams, W. M. Liggett.
- 1893-1896—*W. M. Liggett, George L. Becker, Ira B. Mills.
- 1897-1898—Ira B. Mills, George L. Becker, †Nathan Kingsley.
- 1899—Ira B. Mills, George L. Becker, P. M. Ringdal.
- 1900—P. M. Ringdal, George L. Becker, T. J. Knox.
- 1901-1904—Ira B. Mills, J. G. Miller, C. F. Staples.
- 1905—Ira B. Mills, C. F. Staples, W. E. Young.

The first secretary of the commission was Eli S. Warner, who served from January, 1885, till January, 1889. He was succeeded by Tams Bixby, who served until September, 1890, when he resigned. He was succeeded by A. K. Teisberg, who served until September, 1901. A. C. Clausen was appointed at that time and is the present secretary.

The work of the railroad and warehouse commission and its important bearing on the welfare and interests of the people clearly demonstrates the increasing importance and value of this branch of state administration. This work involves a vast amount of detail, embracing in its scope not only

*Resigned November 13, 1896, to accept appointment as dean of the State Agricultural School. Succeeded by Nathan Kingsley.

†Resigned November 26, 1898, to accept appointment as judge of the Tenth Judicial District. The term of Commissioner Mills being due to expire in January, 1899, he was appointed for the balance of Mr. Kingsley's term, to January, 1900.

matters pertaining to railway operation, but includes the administration of the grain service at terminal points, the supervision of commission merchants and the correction of abuses arising among buyers at the country elevators in the state.

During the course of each year hundreds of complaints are disposed of, involving rate questions, train service, erecting stations, improving station service, securing side tracks, elevator sites, platforms, and many complaints of a miscellaneous character embracing every conceivable question or grievance that may arise between the people and the common carriers. While all these matters require time and careful investigation before they can be properly disposed of, fully eighty per cent of them are adjusted and, for the most part, satisfactorily without the necessity of a formal hearing.

Considerable litigation of much importance pertaining to railroad questions has been brought to a successful conclusion, and the decisions of the commission in the many important cases disposed of in the past few years have, without exception, been affirmed by the courts of last resort whenever appeals have been taken by the railroad companies.

GRAIN DEPARTMENT.

The system of inspection, weighing and registration of grain has been in existence and operation in this state since June 1, 1885, a period of nearly twenty years. Previous to its establishment the control of grain inspection and weighing was vested in the boards of trade at St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, the members of these commercial bodies each year choosing the official inspectors and weighers by ballot.

The fact that the membership of these boards of trade was made up almost exclusively of the buyers of grain led to the belief that the grading of grain was arbitrary and unjust to the producer and country shipper, and altogether in the interest of the miller and terminal warehouseman, thus causing a great deal of dissatisfaction throughout the state, and resulting in the enactment, March 4, 1885, of the warehouse and grain law (chapter 144, General Laws 1885), under which the Minnesota inspection department was created and has, up to the present time, been operated.

The inspection department is under the supervision of a chief inspector, who is appointed by the railroad and warehouse commission, and it is divided into six districts, St. Paul, Minneapolis, St. Cloud, Duluth, New Prague and Sleepy Eye each comprising a district. In each of these districts a chief deputy inspector has direct control of the work, and has in charge as many deputies and helpers as the work requires. Each district except Sleepy Eye has a weighing department in charge of a state weighmaster, with such number of deputy weighmen as he may require.

At Minneapolis and Duluth, where the licensed public warehouses are located, registration officers are employed to enter and record in detail the transactions of all such warehouses, and to keep a constant supervision over the condition and management of these institutions.

All appointments are made by or with the approval of the commission. All employes are carefully selected, with due regard to age, character, intelligence and general fitness for the position to which they may be assigned.

Employes are divided into classes in accordance with their length of service, skill and experience. New appointees are placed in subordinate positions and promoted as opportunities offer and their progress and usefulness justifies.

A rigid examination on the civil service basis is used in the appointment of inspectors, and those who attain the highest degree of efficiency are first on the list.

Since the enactment of the warehouse and grain law the following named persons have successively acted as chief inspectors of grain:

R. C. Burdick, May, 1885, to November, 1886.

J. A. James, December, 1886, to July, 1889.

A. C. Clausen, August, 1889, to August, 1899.

E. S. Reishus, August, 1899, to August, 1901.

L. D. Marshall, August, 1901, to August, 1902.

F. W. Eva, August, 1902 (present incumbent).

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The Minnesota Historical Society was organized under an act passed by the first session of the territorial legislature, in 1849, and is therefore the oldest institution in the state. Its objects are the collection, preservation, and publication of materials relating to the history of this state and the development of its resources; to collect biographic sketches and portraits of its pioneers and prominent citizens; to record their work in settling the state and building up its towns, cities, and institutions; to preserve an account of its Indian tribes; to gather a museum of articles illustrative of the conditions of the settlement and later history of Minnesota, of the aboriginal people who built the thousands of prehistoric mounds in this state, and of the tribes who were living here when the first white men reached this region; to collect and maintain for the use of the public a reference library of books, pamphlets, maps and manuscripts on the local and general history, resources and development of Minnesota, of the United States and the world, and to promote the knowledge of these subjects among the citizens of the state.

During the early years of the territory and state the society made little progress beyond collecting a small library and publishing some pamphlets on historical subjects. In 1864 pecuniary aid from the state placed it on a more prosperous footing, and since that time it has steadily advanced, fulfilling important duties to the state. Its rooms are in the western half of the basement of the old capitol, and are open daily to the public from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The library is now one of the largest and most valuable in the Northwest, and deserves a visit from every citizen interested in the diffusion of knowledge. It contains 43,181 bound and 34,503 unbound volumes, in total 77,684, all of which have been carefully selected and are practically valuable, some being very rare. American history and biography, and documents and records furnishing material for them, are the specialties of the library, but it has good works on almost every subject. Its department on Minnesota (and the Northwest generally) is almost complete; and it also comprises many books and pamphlets on the history of each state in the Union. It has the full series of the United States government publications, one of these series that is much consulted being the reports of the patent office, which fill six cases.

In the newspaper department the society has complete files of all papers that have been and are being published in Minnesota excepting a few unimportant ones. The number of our state newspapers, daily, weekly and monthly, regularly received at the beginning of this year (1905) is 512, these being donated by the editors and publishers, who appreciate the importance of having them placed where they will be preserved for all coming time. On Jan. 1, 1905, the library had 6,526 bound newspaper volumes, a priceless treasury of materials for future historians, showing the development of the state and of its separate counties and townships from their beginning to the present date. The newspaper collection is kept in an extensive fire-proof vault, which is a part of the society's rooms in the old capitol. It is accessible to all who wish to consult it, and is so arranged that any paper of any date can be readily found.

Many portraits, historical pictures and framed documents, and the museum collections, are in the library rooms, and are of great interest to visitors. All the collections are free to the public for use and consultation, although books are not loaned away from the library.

The society has published eleven volumes of Historical Collections, relating chiefly to Minnesota and the Northwest, which can be obtained at cost. It solicits written contributions from early settlers and others who can furnish valuable facts worthy of publication.

Membership in the society is open to any citizen interested in its objects. The executive council comprises thirty, who are chosen from this membership, and, according to a statute of the state, the governor, lieutenant governor and the four other elective officers of the executive departments of the state government, who are ex officio councilors. The officers of the society are elected by the council for three years.

The society respectfully solicits contributions of everything relating to the history of the state and its people; books, pamphlets, files of newspapers, pictures, maps, manuscripts, articles for the museum; portraits of old settlers and their biographies; accounts of the settlement of every county and township of the state, etc. They should be addressed to the secretary.

THE LIMIT.

BOARD OF GAME AND FISH COMMISSIONERS.

The game and fish of Minnesota have made her famous all over the United States. There is not a citizen in any state in the Union who pays any attention to game and fish who does not know of Minnesota and her 10,000 lakes, teeming with the choicest kinds of fish, from the speckled brook trout to the lordly muskallonge.

In addition to fish, Minnesota has the finest large and small game hunting of any state in the Union.

Up to 1904 there was but one hatchery for the propagation of fish in Minnesota. The legislature in 1903 appropriated the sum of $20,000 for the establishment of a second fish hatchery to be located at Glenwood, Pope county. This hatchery is now completed, and fish are being hatched there. This will double the capacity, and will be a blessing to the citizens of the state in the increased supply of fish that will be available for our lakes and streams.

It is a duty that every citizen owes to the state to see that the gifts of nature that have been handed down to us are preserved and taken care of, not only for the present, but for the future.

It is claimed that the fish of Minnesota are worth today, as an asset, $100,000,000. That is surely worth preserving. They will be worth that for all time to come if the legislature enacts suitable laws and appropriates sufficient funds to see these laws enforced.

The value of the fish of Minnesota, from a standpoint of dollars and cents, is important, but of far greater importance is the recreation that the citizen gets from the taking of these fish.

The game supply is of equal importance. The legislature has adopted stringent laws for the protection of game birds and animals. The prairie chicken will disappear as civilization advances, but the quail will always be with us, and just now there is being introduced into Minnesota the ring-neck pheasant, which is a cross between the English and Chinese pheasants—a game bird of very fine plumage and which, like the quail, is a great insect destroyer. Our aquatic fowl, since spring shooting has been abolished, is on the increase, and with just and wise laws for the protection of these birds in the spring, during the mating season, Minnesota will enjoy the benefits of increased flights in the fall.

The tendency of all the states and also the national government is to set aside breeding grounds, where both the aquatic fowl and the large game can find shelter and be unmolested during the mating season. There are several such reserves in our state, and are being added to yearly. The Yellowstone National Park is a shining example of what these breeding places do for game, and it is wonderful how tame they become and what instinct will do in guiding them to these places when chased by man or dog. Itasca Park is now teeming with game of all kinds. When other parks are established and protection afforded the benefits will be seen in the large amount of game that will accumulate there and overflow to other parts of the state.

It is the aim of the present game and fish commission to preserve the game and fish of the state for the citizens who come after us. We see on every hand the effects of the destruction by man when not restrained. We have seen our wild pigeon disappear, and the buffalo almost wiped off the face of the earth. We see our forests disappearing every year, and it will be only a few years when there will be nothing left. With wise laws and suitable protection we can have all these for all time.

THE STATE LIBRARY.

The State Library is designed to be a comprehensive and fairly complete collection of books on the subject of law and legislation. As a "working library" it now ranks with the best in the country, and, if conducted along the lines that are now being developed, it will eventually, in every way, compare favorably with the best and oldest state libraries. The state library ministers as no other library can to the men who make and enforce laws, to the legislators and judges, to the "critical inquirer" and investigators throughout the state.

As at present constituted it is made up of material gathered principally since the capitol fire in 1881. A great many of the series of books now on hand are extremely valuable, many of which could not be duplicated at any cost should they be lost or destroyed. A fair valuation of the contents of the library at the present time would be about $140,000.

The librarian is appointed by the governor, and he in turn appoints his assistant. The judges of the supreme court exercise a general supervision over the library and direct the purchase of books and prescribe the rules governing the library. The supreme court and practicing attorneys of this state make use of the library to a very great extent; next to these come the members of the legislature and the state officers. Rarely does any one who is looking for information on the subject of law or legislation go away unsatisfied.

FORESTRY DEPARTMENT.

FOREST PROTECTION.

The act of April 18, 1895, "to provide for the protection of forests of this state and for the prevention and suppression of forest and prairie fires" constituted the state auditor as forest commissioner (without additional pay) and authorized him to appoint a deputy to represent his authority and to be known as chief fire warden. The supervisors of towns, mayors of cities and presidents of village councils are constituted fire wardens of their respective towns, cities and villages, and the chief fire warden may appoint fire wardens in unorganized territory. Fire wardens are to "take precautions" to prevent the setting of forest and prairie fires, including posting of warning notices. In case of fire they may call any able bodied person over eighteen years of age, and such helpers may be paid $1.50 a day, but not exceeding five days in a year. Fire wardens are paid $2 a day, but for not exceeding fifteen days in a year. The chairmen of town boards shall inquire into the cause of each forest and prairie fire within their district and report the same to the chief fire warden with the amount of property destroyed. During the more dangerous seasons of the year the chief fire warden may require frequent reports from said chairmen. County commissioners are to audit and the county pay for fire warden services, but no county to exceed more than $500 of public money in any one year under the act. The state reimburses the county for one-third of its expenditures. As warning placards an abstract of the penalties of the act are furnished to fire wardens, also to railroad companies, to be posted. County commissioners are to publish the same in their official paper. The penalty for carelessly causing a forest or prairie fire, which injures or endangers the property of another, is $100 or imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding three months. For maliciously causing such fire the penalty is not over $500 or imprisonment in the state prison for ten years or both such fine and imprisonment.

Any railroad company is liable to a penalty of $100 for failure to use effective spark arresters on their locomotives or for failure to keep its right of way to the width on each side of the center of the main track cleared of all combustible material. In seasons of drouth railroad companies shall give particular instructions to their employes for the prevention and prompt extinguishment of fires, and where fire occurs along the line of their road they shall concentrate such help and adopt such measures as shall be available to effectually extinguish it.

The chief fire warden is acting forest commissioner, and his duties and authority are: To enforce the fire warden law; divide into fire districts unorganized territory; appoint fire wardens in or near unorganized territory; have general charge of the fire warden force in the state; to mass the fire warden force at any point; appoint temporarily fire wardens; co-operate with police or military force of the United States; furnish warning notices to fire wardens and railroad companies; instruct fire wardens as to their duties; require reports from fire wardens; investigate and include in annual report information as to extent of the forests in the state; amounts and varieties of wood and timber growing therein; damages done by forest fires and causes of such fires; method used to promote regrowth of timber, and any other important facts relating to forest interests.

"Forest preservation" does not mean that mature trees in the forest shall be spared from the axe. It means preserving the forest from fire, from ruthless waste, and that a chance be given for natural forest regeneration. It means to administer forests so as to secure a sustained yield. During the six years the law has been in operation the damage caused by forest fires (according to the reports of the various fire wardens) has averaged only $31,000 a year.

FOREST RESERVES.

The act of April 13, 1899, "To encourage the growth and preservation of forests and to create boards and forest reserves and to appropriate money therefor," provided for the "Minnesota State Forestry Board" of nine members, serving without pay, and to be constituted as follows: The person who for the time being is chief fire warden as ex officio, the person who for the time being occupies the chair of horticulture in the University of Minnesota as ex officio; three persons to be recommended by the regents of the University; four others to be recommended as follows: One by the State Forestry Association, one by the management of the State Agricultural Society, one by the State Horticultural Society, and one by the State Game and Fish Commission.

All such tracts of land as shall be set apart from any state lands by the legislature for forestry purposes, or which shall be granted to the state for forestry purposes, are designated by the act as Forest Reserves and their management is confided to the State Forestry Board. The board shall ascertain the best method of reforesting cut-over and denuded lands, of administering the forests on forestry principles and the general conservation of the tracts around the head waters and on the watersheds of the water courses of the state; shall make reports of its doings, conclusions and recommendations to each session of the legislature, and from time to time publish for popular distribution such of its conclusions and recommendations as may be of immediate public interest.

The respective town boards of supervisors and county commissioners are constituted town and county forest boards.

The late ex-Governor John S. Pillsbury, having donated to the state for forestry purposes about 1,000 acres of cut-over pine lands in Cass county, and having designated the University of Minnesota as beneficiary to receive forever two-thirds of the revenue therefrom, the board employed Mr. T. L. Duncan to make a survey and examination of said lands and to furnish a temporary forest working plan for the same.

Congress, by an act approved April 28, 1904, granted to the state of Minnesota 20,000 acres of third or fourth rate vacant public land for experimental forestry, which lands have been selected in township 63, range 14, and township 64, range 13.

FORESTRY ASSOCIATION.

The Forestry Association, of which Mr. C. M. Loring of Minneapolis is president and Mr. Geo. W. Strand of Taylors Falls is secretary, was organized in 1876. Among its publications is Prof. S. B. Green's "Forestry in Minnesota."

STATE FAIR GROUNDS, HAMLINE.

MINNESOTA STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The Minnesota State Agricultural Society dates its corporate existence from the year 1868, although for many years previous to that date, even into the territorial days, a society had been in existence covering the main features of the present organization. By the law of 1867 (chapter 21, an act relating to the organization of agricultural societies) the state reorganized the state society by providing an annual appropriation of $1,000 for its encouragement. The constitution provided that its object should be the promotion of agriculture, horticulture and mechanic arts. The annual fairs of the society were held in different localities, with varying financial success, until 1885, when the county of Ramsey conveyed to the state of Minnesota 200 acres of land midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis for the purpose of exhibiting thereon, under the management of the State Agricultural Society, or its successors, annually, the agriculture, stock breeding, horticultural, mining, mechanical, industrial and other products and resources of the state of Minnesota, including proper exhibits of the arts, sciences and all other public displays pertinent to or attendant upon exhibitions and expositions of human art, industry or skill. The legislature met this munificent donation with the same liberal spirit that characterized the tender and appropriated $100,000 for permanent improvements. The board of managers proceeded at once to erect such buildings as were necessary for holding the first exhibition on the new grounds, but it was found that, despite the most careful management, the grounds could not be put in condition for the use of the society without a greater expense than had been anticipated. The total expenditures for improvements aggregated $131,319, and the amount beyond the $100,000 was advanced by public spirited citizens of St. Paul and Minneapolis. During 1886 further expenditures, equal to $34,074, were incurred, and the state was again appealed to, and in 1887 an appropriation of $50,000 was made. Further appropriations for permanent equipment have been made as follows: In 1889 for a water supply and fire protection, $12,000; in 1891 for an agricultural hall, $25,000; in 1903 for a manufactures building, $30,000.

The laws governing the society were codified, revised and amended by the legislature of 1903. Under this law the membership is composed as follows:

First—Three delegates from each of the county and district agricultural societies. In case such society fails or neglects to appoint such delegates, then the president, secretary and treasurer of such society shall be members of the said State Agricultural Society. If no county agricultural society exists in any county, or any such society fails to hold an annual fair, and any city therein maintains annually a street fair devoted to agricultural interests, then three delegates chosen by such street fair association, or, if such street fair association fails or neglects to choose such delegates, then the president, secretary and treasurer of such association shall be members of the said State Agricultural Society. If there be more than one such fair association in a county, the senior association shall be entitled to such membership; provided, that all such societies and associations shall maintain an active existence and hold annual fairs, and shall have paid out each year the sum of $300 in premiums and have an annual membership of twenty-five or more members.

Second—Honorary members who, by reason of eminent services in agriculture or horticulture, or in the arts and sciences connected therewith, or of long and faithful service in the society, or of benefits conferred upon it, may by a two-thirds vote at any of its annual meetings be elected as such.

Third—Two delegates selected by and the presidents of the following societies and associations: The State Horticultural Society, the State Amber Cane Society, the State Dairymen's Association, the State Forestry Association, the State Poultry Association, the State Bee-Keepers' Association and the Minnesota Stock Breeders' Association and any other state society or association within the state having for its object the promotion of any branch of agriculture, horticulture, stock raising or improvement or mechanics related to agriculture or horticulture.

The annual meeting of the society occurs in St. Paul on the second Tuesday in January each year and continues for three days, the election of officers occurring upon the last day of the session. A president and two vice presidents are elected to serve for one year and two managers to serve for three years at each annual meeting. The state appropriates $4,000 annually to aid in paying premiums. It should perhaps be stated in this connection that the state also appropriates $14,000 annually to aid in premium payments at county and other fairs and exhibitions complying with the provisions of the law.

The Minnesota State Agricultural Society is in a prosperous, growing condition. Minnesota is an agricultural state, and the management is giving as much prominence as possible to agricultural interests in the annual exhibitions. Large premiums are offered for live stock and for all classes of farm products. Each year there is marked increase in the variety and magnitude of exhibits, resulting in a largely increased interest and attendance at the fairs. The summary of the financial record of the society for 1904 is as follows:

MINNESOTA STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

This society, incorporated under the laws of the state, has for its work the gathering and dissemination of knowledge pertaining to forestry, fruit and vegetable growing, the culture of flowers, etc., adapted to the soil and climate of Minnesota. It is purely an educational institution and has no other purpose than as defined above.

The present working membership of the society consists of nearly two thousand of the most active and wide-awake professional and amateur horticulturists throughout the Northwest.

The society holds annual summer and winter meetings at which fruits, vegetables, flowers, etc., are exhibited, papers and reports on horticultural topics are read, and the personal opinions of the members secured in the discussions which follow.

Committees selected from the members have special charge of investigations in various branches of horticulture, and a number of trial stations in different parts of the state, under the charge of members, are making practical tests of things new and desirable. The reports made by these committees and by the superintendents of the trial stations, along with the papers and discussions, with other information of value, are compiled by the secretary and printed at the expense of the state. The society receives also from the same source a small annual appropriation to assist in carrying on its work.

Any person may become a member of this society for the year 1905 by payment of the annual fee of $1, which pays for the magazine for that year, a handsome cloth bound copy of the annual report of the society for the year 1904, sent postpaid, and all the other privileges of membership for the year.

The life membership fee is $10, payable in two annual installments of $5 each, if preferred. Life members are entitled to all the privileges of the society, including its publications, during life, and to a file of the back reports, as complete as possible, some twenty volumes, constituting an invaluable horticultural library.

The society issues a monthly magazine of forty pages, edited by the secretary, and entitled "The Minnesota Horticulturist." These magazines contain the material previously referred to and other matters of timely interest to members.

At the close of the year the twelve magazines, with the journal of the society's meetings, list of members, index, etc., are bound together, making the annual report of the society, and entitled "Trees, Fruits and Flowers of Minnesota."

Upon receipt of this volume the members are expected to distribute the magazines received during the previous year amongst those who are interested in horticulture, and in this way advance the work of the society.

The library contains at present about 1,500 volumes. It includes reports of similar associations, standard works on horticulture and bound horticultural periodicals.

A large number of horticultural journals and all the State Experiment Station reports of the country come to the library regularly.

One thousand dollars is offered as a premium by this society for a seedling apple tree "as hardy and prolific as the Duchess," with fruit equal to "the Wealthy in size, quality and appearance, and that will keep as well as the Malinda."

List of fruits for Minnesota planting recommended by the Minnesota State Horticultural Society:

APPLES.—Of the first degree of hardiness: Duchess, Hiberna, Chatham, Patten's Greening.

Of the second degree of hardiness: Wealthy, Tetofsky, Malinda, Okabena, Peerless, Northwestern Greening.

Most profitable varieties for commercial planting in Minnesota: Wealthy, Duchess, Patten's Greening, Okabena, Northwestern Greening.

Varieties for trial: Repka Malenka, Anisim, Yellow Sweet, Brett, Scott's Winter, University, Newell's, Lowland Raspberry, Estelline, Iowa Beauty, Jewell's Winter, Yahnke, Gilbert.

Valuable in some locations: Wolf River, McMahon, Yellow Transparent, Longfield.

CRABS AND HYBRIDS.—For general cultivation: Virginia, Whitney, Early Strawberry, Minnesota, Sweet Russet, Gideon No. 6, Briar Sweet, Florence, Transcendent.

Varieties for trial: Lyman's Prolific, Faribault, Shields.

PLUMS.—For general cultivation: De Soto, Forest Garden, Cheney, Wolf (freestone), Rollingsstone, Wyant, Surprise.

Most promising for trial: Ocheeda, New Ulm, Stoddard, Mankato, Aitkin, Brittlewood, Compass Cherry.

GRAPES.—In order of ripening: Beta, Moore's Early, Janesville, Brighton, Delaware, Worden, Agawam, Concord.

RASPBERRIES.—Red varieties: Turner, Marlborough, Cuthbert, Brandywine, Loudon, King.

Black and purple varieties: Ohio, Palmer, Nemaha, Gregg, Older, Columbian, Kansas, Cumberland.

BLACKBERRIES.—Ancient Briton, Snyder, Badger.

CURRENTS.—Red Dutch, White Grape, Victoria, Stewart, Long Bunch, Holland, North Star, Pomona, Red Cross.

GOOSEBERRIES.—Houghton, Downing, Champion, Pearl.

STRAWBERRIES.—Perfect varieties: Bederwood, Enhance, Lovett, Splendid, Mary, Clyde, Senator Dunlap.

Imperfect varieties: Crescent, Warfield, Haverland.

NATIVE FRUITS.—Valuable for trial: Dwarf Juneberry, sand cherry, buffalo berry, high bush cranberry.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY OF THE MINNESOTA STATE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The object of this society is to awaken and foster an active interest in horticulture among the women of the state. It wishes to encourage the formation of improvement clubs in the country and small villages. Constitution and by-laws printed, together with suggestions for a program for the first meeting, will be sent to all inquirers upon application. The object of these local clubs is to take up some practical work that will bring out the beautiful possibilities of country life.

Annual fee, 25 cents, but members of the State Horticultural Society become members upon application without further expense.

President, Miss Emma V. White, Minneapolis; secretary, Mrs. Anna B. Underwood, Lake City.

THE MINNESOTA DAIRYMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

The Minnesota Dairymen's Association (incorporated March 2, 1882) was organized Feb. 7, 1878, for the purpose of improving the Minnesota stock and dairy products by holding an annual meeting of the representatives of these interests and the distribution of literature on such subjects among the people of the state. The association is encouraged by a permanent appropriation of $2,000 annually for the publication of its proceedings and distribution of dairy literature and dairy instruction. There is no doubt that the work of this organization has been of inestimable value in building up our grand system of diversified agriculture, with dairying as the keystone. The State Agricultural Society admits two delegates, elected by the association, as members and officers ex officio.

The association holds one annual meeting, which is largely attended, and such other meetings as are deemed advisable, and at which good premiums are given for creamery and dairy butter and cheese.

MINNESOTA STATE BUTTER AND CHEESE MAKERS' ASSOCIATION.

This association was organized in the fall of 1894, and is incorporated under the laws of the state, its special object being to advance the dairy interests of the state and to improve the quality of Minnesota dairy products. It holds an annual meeting, and pays premiums on butter and cheese exhibited, and participates in the appropriation allowed by the state for the encouragement of such organizations. To become eligible to a full membership a person must be an active butter or cheese maker, having had at least a year's experience in the business. The State Agricultural Society admits two delegates, elected by the association, as members. All officers of the association are ex officio members of the State Dairymen's Association.

THE MINNESOTA STATE FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

The work of the State Farmers' Institutes has now been in existence for 18 years. The government is vested in a board of administration. This board has for a long time consisted of six members, three of whom are chosen from the board of regents of the State University, and the other three are the presidents of the State Agricultural Society, the State Horticultural Society and the State Dairymen's Association. The three officers last mentioned hold their places for three years and at the close of that period the party who may have been elected as president of their association then becomes a member of the board of administration, to continue for a period of three years.

This work has been under the direction of Mr. O. C. Gregg from its very beginning. The Farmers' Institute has won its way, so that at the present time it is received in all sections of the state with good will and hearty support. The audiences are larger at the present writing than ever before, and the interest shown in the topics discussed is greater than at any previous period.

During the year closing July 31, 1904, 139 institutes were held, with a total attendance of 46,070 people. During that year a new department was instituted in the organization of Women's Institutes. This department calls for local organizations, governed by constitutions and by-laws that may be adopted by them, with proper officers. The Women's Institutes hold meetings at such stated times as they agree upon. They have a membership fee of 25 cents per annum, which is used by them locally. Special instructors have been provided for this department, and will visit these organizations as a circuit separate and distinct from the other meetings of the Farmers' Institutes. The Women's Institutes do their own advertising and make proper provision for the reception of the instructors, who are sent to them by the state.

The sole aim of the institutes is to spread among the farmers such information as will be helpful to them in the work of agriculture. This information covers all phases of farm life. In selecting the various members of the institute corps it is and ever has been the aim of the administration to secure the best practical instructors. No one is ever chosen as a speaker for the institute platform unless he be recognized as an expert in his or her respective work. The Farmers' Institute in Minnesota is under a strict educational supervision. There is only one thing considered in the selection of instructors, namely, their fitness for that particular work.

The institutes are largely held during the winter months, commencing with some date in November and closing about the middle of March. During the past two years the tendency has been toward the holding of single day meetings, with evening sessions sometimes following, in lieu of the holding of two day sessions, as was the custom in the earlier history of the work. This change has been made because of the demands for these meetings, which compelled the board to provide for more meetings than the fund and time would allow when only two meetings of two days each were held in a week. Experience has taught the institute management that an institute corps cannot be kept upon the institute platform for six days in a week, with oftentimes nights of broken rest by reason of night travel, and in addition to the work which many have to do in connection with their engagements as members of the agricultural press.

The Farmers' Institute Annual is now issued in a standard size of about 400 pages. As the name indicates, it is published each year, and contains the latest and best practical information concerning agriculture in all its branches, which includes the work of the field, stock interests and horticulture. None but experts are asked to contribute to its pages, and every division of the book is supervised by an agricultural expert. This book is handsomely illustrated and over 30,000 copies are issued each year. A copy of the Annual is given to a member of every family represented in the institute audience at the first morning session. The institute platform is used in Minnesota for the main purpose of exciting interest and enthusiasm in the work of the field, stock and garden. The book is relied upon to leave with the farmers the best possible detail covering these same subjects.

The Farmers' Institute has now been long enough in the state to have proved its efficiency in advancing the standard of agriculture in Minnesota. The changes in agriculture have been so great during the past few years that it became needful to place in the field such a force as is represented by the Farmers' Institutes so as to rapidly and efficiently bring to the attention of the farmers those changes which are absolutely essential to success in agriculture at the present time.

The Farmers' Institute has been a great factor in building up the State Farm School, which is to-day one of the greatest departments of the University of Minnesota. The dairy interests also have been greatly aided by it. The dairy interests of Minnesota have been given a great impetus during the past few years by the hearty co-operation on the part of the Farmers' Institutes, the State Dairymen's Association, the dairy department of the School of Agriculture, and the dairy and food commission. In this connection the fact should also be recognized that the great body of butter-makers in Minnesota have also had much to do with this phenomenal growth of the dairy industry in Minnesota.

Diversified agriculture has come to be an important factor in the agriculture of the state since the time that the Farmers' Institute made its beginning. Horticulture has also been rapidly advanced by the combined efforts of the institutes and the State Horticultural Society. Great good has come to Minnesota from the active co-operation of all branches of her agricultural education. It is a pleasant fact to record that there is no one department that antagonizes another. Each and every organization unites heartily in assisting the one work of agricultural advancement. The agricultural department of the University, the State Farm School, the Dairymen's Association, the State Agricultural Society, the Horticultural Society, the Forestry Association and the State Farmers' Institutes work without friction and with mutual assistance to the end that the better agricultural conditions of Minnesota be advanced.

*AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

The following compilation demonstrates the agricultural wealth of Minnesota: The total number of farms in Minnesota is in round numbers 160,000, representing about 30,000,000 acres, of which 20,000,000 acres is improved land. The average number of acres to a farm is 169. The total value of all farm property is over $800,000,000, of which live stock, implements and farm machinery represent $125,000,000. The total value of Minnesota farm products is about $175,000,000. Domestic animals on Minnesota farms number: Cattle, 2,000,000; horses, 700,000; mules, 9,000; sheep, 600,000, and swine 1,500,000.

*MANUFACTURING.

Minnesota ranks first among the states in the manufacture of flouring and grist mill products; third in the manufacture of lumber and timber products and in linseed oils, the total number of manufacturing plants being over 11,000, representing an invested capital of $170,000,000, employing 80,000 people, who earn in wages annually over $36,000,000. The grand total of all manufactured products represents an annual value of $265,000,000, of which flouring and grist mill products represent $85,000,000 and lumber and timber $48,000,000. Lumber, sawed, exclusive of lath and shingles, amounts to over 2,000,000,000 feet.

The products of meat packing and slaughtering establishments is over $10,000,000. Probably the greatest advance in any line of industry in the state has been in the increased value of dairy products, Minnesota creameries producing annually butter to the value of $14,000,000.

MINNESOTA STATE BOARD OF HEALTH AND VITAL STATISTICS.

The work of the State Board of Health has been greatly increased during the past few years. In 1895 the entire work of the board was conducted by the secretary and two student assistants in a small laboratory at the University, and three clerical assistants in the office. In 1896 Dr. F. F. Westbrook was appointed bacteriologist of the board. Gradually skilled laboratory and clerical assistants have been added to the laboratory force until there are at present four bacteriologists, two clerks and three laboratory assistants. This force is not sufficient to meet the present demands made upon the laboratory.

Until 1903 the board had charge of both infectious diseases of men and of animals, and during the last two years of this period some excellent research work bearing upon the latter group of diseases was carried on in the laboratory.

Although the work relating to infectious diseases of animals was transferred to another department early in 1903, the rapidly increasing demands for investigation along other lines has occupied the full attention of all those engaged in the laboratory.

During the past few years questions relating to water supplies and sewage disposal have demanded much attention. With the growth of villages and cities and the introduction of modern improvements into many homes, the necessity for sewerage systems has become more general. With the discharge of sewage into the nearest accessible body of water the pollution of water supplies is constantly on the increase. This condition of affairs cannot be continued without working great and permanent injury to the entire state. It involves not only the village and the city, but also the rural population.

It has been the policy of this board to concentrate work so far as possible. It has been found that different organizations frequently require information bearing upon the same general questions. If such individual organizations endeavor to gain this information singly there is often a great duplication of work. On the other hand, two or more organizations working together may often at a greatly reduced expense gain the information each or all are seeking. Working along these lines, this board entered into an agreement with the United States Geological Survey in 1903 for a joint study of the waters of Minnesota. This agreement was renewed in 1904, and it is because of this fact that this board is now able to present an excellent report upon certain water problems. Without such an agreement this board could have done but little toward the study of water conditions, and in all probability the United States Geological Survey would have done nothing in this state in the study of those economical problems relating to water supplies that are of great commercial value. Through this joint arrangement data that are of great value at the present time have been collected, and this will be of still greater value as time passes.

In a comparison of the laboratory work of the board with the work of the executive department it might appear, both from the number employed and the expenditure, that the executive work is not keeping pace with the laboratory work. A careful study of facts will hardly bear this out. The executive officer may see much that should be done and at the same time be helpless because of the lack of sufficient assistance. The executive may think it important to push the study of certain conditions relating to the spread of such diseases as diphtheria, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, etc., but in order to carry out his wishes he must have the assistance of laboratory workers, of engineers, of physicians, of teachers, and, in fact, of all the citizens of the state. If certain workers are already carrying their maximum burden, the wishes of the executive of this board can avail nothing. The executive department has an interest and responsibility in all that is accomplished through the laboratory. The executive officer appreciates the necessity of such work as that which has recently been carried on at various places in the state in dealing with diphtheria in schools and in state institutions, but he is powerless unless there is a sufficient laboratory staff to carry out the necessary investigations. So, too, with the water and sewage problems. A personal inspection of local conditions by the executive officer of the board is of little value unless supplemented by the findings of the engineer, the bacteriologist and the chemist.

The present members of the board are:

Dr. W. H. Rowe, Vice President.....	St. James
Dr. J. B. McGaughey.....	Winona

THE STATE LIVE STOCK SANITARY BOARD.

The State Live Stock Sanitary Board was established by chapter 352, Laws of 1903. The board consists of five members appointed by the governor, each member to be a qualified elector of the state of Minnesota. Three members of the board are persons financially interested in the breeding and maintenance of live stock. The remaining two members are graduate veterinarians practicing in the state. The duties of the board are to protect the health of the domestic animals of the state, to determine and employ the most competent and practical means for the prevention, suppression, control and eradication of dangerous contagious and infectious diseases among domestic animals. For this purpose the board is authorized and empowered to make all such rules and regulations for conducting the business of the board as it may deem expedient.

The board is required to hold quarterly meetings in St. Paul on the Friday after the second Tuesday in January, April, July and October of each year. The annual meeting occurs at the regular quarterly meeting held in April.

The secretary and executive officer, together with the field veterinarian, are required to be graduate veterinarians, and are elected to their position for one year or until their successors are appointed. At present Dr. S. H. Ward is the secretary and executive officer and Dr. M. S. Whitcomb is the field veterinarian.

Minnesota is essentially a stock raising state, the value of its live stock being estimated at $75,000,000. There is no industry in the state of Minnesota that is of the same importance or one in which the people have such a direct interest in as that of the live stock industry. Upon the health of our domestic animals depends the stability of our resources, and it requires constant watchfulness on the part of the board to prevent the importation of disease into the state and to promptly control outbreaks of contagious diseases.

The membership of the board is such that these interests are carefully watched. Stockmen, knowing the nature and the needs of the interests they represent, are assisted and guided by the knowledge of the veterinarians. From this co-operation there results more intelligent control and a possible ultimate eradication of the diseases of our farm animals. Prohibitive measures against the moving of live stock or the presence of a widespread disease would be felt by citizens in every walk of life.

There are some diseases among our live stock, the causative factors of which are at present unknown. In order that intelligent rules may be formulated it is necessary that the requirements for existence, methods of reproduction, mode of spread and the tenacity of life of the germs, which we know to be the originators of these diseases, be investigated. Such investigations necessarily cover a long period of time and much hard work before any practical and accurate conclusion can be reached. This bacteriological work has been in charge of Dr. W. L. Beebe since Oct. 1, 1904, the investigations being carried on at the experiment station of the Agricultural College.

The officers of the board are:

THE STATE SANATORIUM FOR THE TUBERCULOUS.

This institution was definitely established by the act of the legislature of 1903, which also appropriated $25,000 with which to secure a site and prepare for building. The bill for this act was introduced by the late Senator A. F. Ferris of Brainerd. The sanatorium had received a favorable indorsement in Governor S. R. Van Sant's message and had been warmly recommended in the report of a special commission appointed by Governor S. R. Van Sant in accordance with the provisions of an act passed by the legislature of 1901 authorizing a commission to investigate the advisability of establishing a sanatorium for the tuberculous under state control and appropriating $1,000 for the expense of the investigation. The bill for this act was introduced by Senator F. B. Daugherty of Duluth.

Governor S. R. Van Sant appointed upon the original commission Dr. J. L. Camp of Brainerd, Dr. H. Longstreet Taylor of St. Paul, who was the chairman, and Dr. G. S. Wattam of Warren. This commission traveled through Canada and the eastern states, visiting the sanatoria in operation there, consulting with the officers of the Massachusetts state sanatorium for consumptives and with those of the New York state institution, at that time in course of construction. They also consulted the principal authorities upon the subject of tuberculosis in Montreal, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington. The commission visited a number of localities in the state and selected a location near Walker on Leech Lake. Its report recommended that the state build such an institution, which communication received the support of the governor and the favorable action of the legislature.

An advisory commission was created by this act to assist the board of control in the creation and conduct of the institution, upon which commission Governor S. R. Van Sant appointed the members of the old commission and also Dr. Geo. B. Weiser of New Ulm and Dr. A. P. Williamson of Minneapolis. Dr. A. P. Williamson resigned in the fall of 1904 and Dr. Geo. F. Roberts of Minneapolis was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The board of control purchased the site selected by the commission in Cass county. It consists of some 740 acres and is a beautiful, heavily wooded tract of land upon the southern extremity of Leech Lake. A high ridge runs from east to west through this tract, upon whose southern slope an ideal building site has been selected, and here forty acres have been cleared of underbrush and of all but a few selected trees. A fine kitchen garden can be made when necessary upon this southern slope, and to the west the milch herd can be pastured. A fine spring of pure water, which is estimated to discharge three gallons of water per second, is situated to the north of the ridge, and may be used as the water supply of the institution. The drainage is excellent and there are no marshes upon the property.

The Minnesota & International Railroad skirts the property and the management has agreed to establish a station upon the grounds for the use of the institution.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC PRINTING.

The public printing for the state of Minnesota is under the control of commissioners of printing, comprising the secretary of state, state auditor and state treasurer. Biennially the commissioners elect a superintendent of printing, whose duty it is to receive orders for all the printing, binding, and manufacture of blank books for the various departments of the state; place the same with contractors for the respective classes of printing; supervise the work; receive and audit accounts of contractors, and issue orders in settlement therefor; to keep an account of printing and binding with contractors, and with the various state departments.

The public printing is divided into five classes, and let by the commissioners of printing by contract to the lowest bidder, sufficient bonds being required of contractors for faithful performance of the work.

MINNESOTA SOCIETY FOR PREVENTION OF CRUELTY.

(GENERAL LAWS OF 1889, CHAPTER 224.)

The Minnesota Society for the Prevention of Cruelty was organized Oct. 21, 1869, for the purpose of preventing cruelty to animals throughout the state of Minnesota. It was recognized by the legislature of 1889 (chapter 209, Gen. Laws), amending the penal code, authorizing any agent or officer of this society to interfere to prevent the perpetration of any act of cruelty, and may use force therefor, and may summon bystanders to assist. He has also authority to destroy any animal found abandoned and not properly cared for, appearing in the judgment of two reputable citizens to be glandered, injured or diseased past recovery for any useful purpose. For the general purposes of prevention of cruelty the officers of this society have the powers of constables, sheriffs or police officers. The local societies, organized under the care of the parent society, are generally doing efficient work in the cities, and inhuman drivers of horses in the public streets have a wholesome dread of the officers.

Presidents of local co-operating societies are ex officio vice presidents of the state society.

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

The State Board of Equalization is composed of the governor, auditor of state and attorney general, with one qualified elector not a member of any county board of equalization, from each judicial district of the state, to be appointed by the governor. The board meets annually on the first day of September for the purpose of examining the returns of the assessment of personal and real property, and to equalize the same, so that all taxable property in the state shall be assessed at its true and full value.

BOARD OF PARDONS.

JOHN A. JOHNSON.....Governor
CHAS. M. START.....Chief Justice of the Supreme Court
E. T. YOUNG.....Attorney General

The Board of Pardons was created by chapter 23 of the General Laws of 1897, and consists of the governor, chief justice of the supreme court and the attorney general. Said board has the power to grant pardons and to commute the sentence of any person convicted of any offense against the laws of this state. The board holds regular meetings on the second Mondays of January, April, July and October of each year, and such other meetings as may be deemed expedient. All applications for clemency shall be made in writing, addressed to the Board of Pardons, and shall be signed by the convict or some person in his behalf. The governor's private secretary, or, in his absence, the executive clerk, shall be and act as clerk of the board.

STATE BOARD OF INVESTMENT.

The state board for the investment of the proceeds from sales of state lands consists of the governor, state auditor, state treasurer, chief justice of the supreme court, and the president of the board of regents of the State University. (Section 4005, Statutes of Minnesota, 1894, and section 10, chapter 163, General Laws 1895.)

This board controls the investment of the trust funds in the state treasury, and no purchase or disposition of securities can be made without its favorable action.

The governor, auditor and treasurer constitute a board that has entire charge of the loaning of school and university funds to counties, cities, villages, townships and school districts, as provided in chapter 83, General Laws 1897.

NOTARIES PUBLIC.

These are appointed by the governor, for the term of seven years, upon the payment of a fee to the private secretary of three dollars and the filing of a bond in the sum of $2,000. Each notary public must provide a seal with the words "Notarial Seal" and the name of the county for which he is appointed engraved thereon. The bond is filed with the secretary of state and the commission is recorded with the clerk of court. A notary public may administer oaths, take and certify depositions, acknowledgments of deeds, mortgages, liens, powers of attorney, and other instruments in writing, and make protests. The supreme court has decided that every signature of a notary must be attested by the impression of the seal.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

The legislature for the year 1905 is composed of sixty-three senators and one hundred and nineteen representatives. The legislature meets bien-nially, commencing on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January in odd numbered years. The session is limited to ninety legislative days by constitutional amendment, adopted at the general election in 1888. The legislative term of representatives is for two years and of senators for four years. The legislature has full power to make a new apportionment. The compensation to members of the legislature is mileage at the rate of fifteen cents a mile for going to and returning from the capitol, and five dollars per day for the legislative session, computed by including the first and last days of the session and every intervening day.

STATE LAWS.

The existing laws provide for 12,000 copies of the General Laws to be printed. Of the General Laws about 7,700 are distributed to the state and county officers, leaving only about 4,500 for general distribution. The law authorizing the number to be printed was passed in 1893, being an increase of 4,000 copies over act of 1874. The demand far exceeds the number printed.

PUBLICATION OF GENERAL LAWS IN NEWSPAPERS.

The early publication of laws in newspapers is for the purpose of giving information to the people as soon as possible after adjournment of the legislature. The printed volumes of laws are not ready for delivery until ninety days after the legislative sessions. The earlier publication of the laws by the newspapers is certified by the secretary of state. All legal newspapers of the state are used for such publication, and an appropriation of $40,000 is made therefor.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

In addition to the provisions of the constitution relating to the manner of submitting constitutional amendments the legislature (chapter 157 of the General Laws of 1887) has provided that the attorney general shall critically examine all proposed amendments, and prepare and furnish to the secretary of state, at least four months preceding any election, a synopsis thereof, containing the original article or section and the proposed amendment, and explaining the nature of the same.

The secretary of state is required to cause the same to be published in the newspapers at the capital, and in one newspaper in each county for three weeks immediately preceding such election. In addition to this public notice the secretary is obliged to forward to each county auditor at least six copies in handbill form for each polling place in the county.

STATE ELECTIONS.

The state elections are held on every even numbered year, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. The official year commences on the first Monday in January, and the terms of office terminate at that time. Women may vote for school officers, and are eligible as school officers, county superintendents of schools, and to appointments as deputies by county officers, provided they are citizens of this state.

The election law passed by the legislature of 1891 brought the entire state under the so-called Australian system of voting at general elections.

The qualifications of electors are defined by article seven of the constitution. The following amendment to said article was adopted at the general election of 1896:

What Persons Are Entitled to Vote.—Every male person of the age of twenty-one (21) years or upwards, belonging to either of the following classes, who has resided in this state six (6) months next preceding any election, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time have been for thirty (30) days a resident, for all officers that now are, or hereafter may be, elective by the people.

"First—Citizens of the United States who have been such for the period of three (3) months next preceding any election.

"Second—Persons of mixed white and Indian blood, who have adopted the customs and habits of civilization.

"Third—Persons of Indian blood residing in this state, who have adopted the language, customs and habits of civilization, after an examination before any district court of the state, in such manner as may be provided by law, and shall have been pronounced by said court capable of enjoying the rights of citizenship within the state."

Presidential electors meet on the second Monday in January following their election.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

The primary election is held on Tuesday, seven weeks preceding any election (except town, village or special elections), for the purpose of choosing candidates for all elective district, county and city officers and elective members of school, park and library boards in cities of over 50,000 inhabitants, and all officers chosen wholly within any subdivision of the state. State officers being exempt.

Primary election day constitutes the first day of registration for the ensuing election. All persons entitled to registration on such day are qualified to vote for candidates of the political party with which they affiliated and generally supported at the last general election, and with which they propose to affiliate at the next election.

First voters shall not be required to declare their past political affiliation, the intent of the law being that each voter shall vote for candidates of his own political affiliation and none other.

LEGAL HOLIDAYS.

The legal holidays of the state, established by law, are: New Year's Day, the 1st of January; Christmas Day, the 25th of December; Lincoln's birthday, February 12th; Washington's birthday, February 22d; Memorial Day, May 30th; Independence Day, the 4th of July; Labor Day, first Monday in September; the general election day, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in even numbered years. The statutes of the state indirectly recognize Sunday, Good Friday and Thanksgiving Day as legal holidays, by providing that maturing paper, bills of exchange, etc., falling due on those days shall be due and payable on the business day preceding. By an act approved March 3, 1899 (chapter 36, Gen. Laws 1899) the governor is authorized to designate a holiday to be known as "Arbor and Bird Day."

FISCAL YEAR OF THE STATE.

The first legislative enactment designating the fiscal year of the state was in the adoption of chapter 40 of the General Laws of 1861, in section 7, relating to the time when official reports shall be made to the governor. Previous to that time the officials had closed their reports for the year ending November 30th, as had been the practice under the territorial government. The law of 1861 officially recognized December 1st as the commencement of the state fiscal year. This enactment remained in force until 1883, when (chapter 124, General Laws of 1883) it was provided that the fiscal year of all official reports should commence on the first day of August and close on the thirty-first day of July, except the reports of the insurance commissioner and commissioner of statistics, which are made for the calendar year.

GENERAL TAXES.

General taxes become a lien upon real property from the first day of May of the year in which levied, but between grantor and grantee the lien does not attach until the next January. Tax sales by county auditor are made annually, on the second Monday in May, of the lands delinquent on the first Monday in January preceding June of the previous year.

Payment of real estate taxes must be made on or before the first day of June for the taxes of the previous year. After that date a penalty of ten per cent immediately attaches, which penalty carries it through the remaining seven months of the year. At the expiration of that time, if still unpaid, the tax is deemed delinquent, and an additional five per cent will be added. If still unpaid, the property for which the tax is delinquent will be sold on the second Monday of May.

Chapter 54 of the General Laws of 1897 provides "That if one-half of the amount of the tax on any real estate shall be paid before the first day of June of each year, then no penalty shall be charged or collected on the one-half remaining unpaid; provided, such one-half remaining unpaid shall be paid before the first day of November of each year; but if said remaining one-half of said tax shall not be paid before said first day of November, then a penalty of ten per cent shall immediately accrue, and thereafter be charged upon the one-half of any such real estate tax remaining unpaid."

After the tax sale, the amount of the judgment against the property and for which it was sold draws interest at the rate of one per cent per month until redeemed, whether the same has been purchased or is bid in by the state.

The redemption period extends for three years and until public notice of the time of expiration of such redemption has been made by the county auditor. The full period of redemption does not expire until sixty days after the proof of service of such notice has been filed with the county auditor.

Personal property, for purposes of taxation, includes all goods, chattels, moneys, credits and effects.

Personal property is listed and assessed annually on the first day of May in the county, town or district where the owner or agent resides. The capital stock and franchises of corporations and persons, with few exceptions, is listed and taxed in the county, town or district where the principal place of business of such corporation or person is located.

Personal property of express and transportation companies is listed and assessed in the county, town or district where usually kept.

The assessor determines and fixes the true and full value in money of personal property. All personal property taxes become delinquent on the first day of March next after they become due. Thereafter a penalty of ten per cent is attached and charged upon all such taxes.

THE RIGHT TO HOLD OFFICE.

Eligibility to hold office in this state is defined in section 7 of the constitution, which provides that any person entitled to vote may hold office. The limit of age does not apply, except for the offices of governor and lieutenant governor, where candidates must be over twenty-five years of age. Under the constitution of the United States a senator in congress must be thirty years of age, and nine years a citizen of the United States. A representative in congress must be twenty-five years of age, and seven years a citizen of the United States, if foreign born.

Under section 11 of chapter 6 of the state constitution judges of the supreme and district courts are prohibited from holding any other office; and all votes for either of them for any elective office under the constitution, except a judicial office given by the legislature or the people during their continuance in office, shall be void.

Section 9 of article 4 of the state constitution provides that no senator or representative of the state shall hold any other office under the state or United States, except that of postmaster, and that no state senator or representative shall hold an office under the state which has been created or the emoluments of which have been increased during the session of the legislature of which he was a member until one year after the expiration of his term of office in the legislature.

Women may be elected county superintendents of schools or members of town school boards or boards of education. Under chapter 40 of the General Laws of 1891 females may be appointed deputies in county offices.

RIGHTS OF WOMEN.

The constitution of the state of Minnesota, when originally adopted, made no special distinction between the sexes, except as to the right to vote and to hold office. An amendment, adopted in 1875, however, gave the right to vote for school officers. The territorial legislature, as early as 1852, had taken advanced ground in the recognition of the rights of married women over those granted by the common law. The real and personal property owned by her before marriage remained in her own right, and any property that she might acquire during marriage, but subjected the sale of the property to the consent of the husband.

In 1869 the law of 1852 was superseded by the more liberal privilege or proviso that property in her own right might be conveyed direct and without intervention of trustee, from husband or otherwise, and the rents, profits and increase, and her wages, should be held by her for her sole and separate use; with the same rights and powers, the same remedies and obligations, with power to sue and be sued for any contract or wrong, the same as if unmarried. In 1887 another act was passed, which declared that a woman shall retain the same legal existence and legal personality after marriage as before marriage, and shall receive the same protection of all her rights as a woman which her husband does as a man; and for any injury sustained to her reputation, person, property, character, or any natural right, she shall have the same right to appeal, in her own name alone, to the court of law or equity for redress and protection that her husband has to appear in his name alone; provided, that the act shall not confer upon the wife the right to vote or hold office, except as is otherwise provided by law.

A widow is entitled to one-third of the property of her deceased husband by natural descent unless she has previously assented in writing to a different division. A homestead goes direct to a widow without children. With children, the widow has a life interest in the homestead. As to personal property, a widow is entitled to the wearing apparel of her deceased husband; to household furniture not exceeding in value $500; other personal property not exceeding in value $500; and after a final settlement of the estate, if there is any personal property to divide, it follows the same division as real property.

Women in order to vote must be naturalized, and alien women married to citizens are eligible to vote.

Divorces are adjudged and decreed by the district courts on suit brought in the county where the parties, or either of them, reside. The complainant must have been a resident of the state at least one year immediately preceding the complaint. An action may be brought by a wife in her own name; and all actions must be commenced by summons and complaint in the county where the plaintiff resides. Pending the suit the court may require the husband to pay any sum necessary for the wife to carry on or defend the suit, and for support during pendency.

STATE DRAINAGE.

At a convention held in Crookston on the 2d day of July, A. D. 1886, it was decided to proceed at once to make a topographical survey of the Red River valley for the purpose of determining the feasibility of creating a drainage system for the whole valley, each county to bear a pro rata share of the cost of such survey.

Competent engineering service was employed and a complete survey of the valley made.

The engineers' reports showed the scheme to be perfectly feasible, and that the thorough drainage of the level lands of the northwestern part of the state could be accomplished at a moderate cost. The expense of the survey was borne in part by James J. Hill, and by appropriations made by a majority of the counties in the valley, and by individuals, who, foresighted and sufficiently interested in the development of the valley, saw the advantage that would accrue from a general and extended drainage system.

During the sessions of the legislature in the years 1887-1889 and 1891 attempts were made to secure a state appropriation for the purpose of drainage in the Red River valley, but not until 1893 were the friends of the drainage scheme successful in securing such appropriation.

In the year 1893 a bill was passed creating the Red River valley drainage commission and appropriating $100,000 for drainage purposes in the Red River valley. This amount was augmented to $125,000 by a contribution of $25,000 from James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway.

The drainage commission created by this act consisted of the governor, secretary of state, chief engineer of the Great Northern Railway, and Hon. Ezra G. Valentine.

Additional appropriations have been made by successive legislatures. The sum total expended for drainage under state supervision being $282,500, building 200 miles of state ditches in western and northern Minnesota.

These drainage canals have drained thousands of acres of state lands, making them valuable for agriculture, and returned to the state in enhanced price of land and increased assessable valuation manifold the cost of building. At the same time the practical demonstration of state drainage has given an impetus to county and private drainage work.

Polk county leads with 357 miles of ditches, completed or under way. Kittson, Marshall, Red Lake and Norman counties follow with a respectable number of miles to their credit. The total cost of contracted ditches in the above named counties is about $800,000.

The total length of ditches built, or contracted to be built, by state and counties in northwestern Minnesota is 800 miles, representing a cost of over $1,000,000.

The present drainage commission is composed of the governor, secretary of state and state auditor, ex officio; engineer, Geo. A. Ralph of Crookston.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF OIL INSPECTION.

The state inspector of illuminating oils is appointed by the governor for a period of two years at a salary of $2,400. All inspection fees collected are turned into the state treasury. The inspector may appoint one deputy in each county and two deputies in each of the counties of Ramsey and Hennepin. Following table shows inspection for the year 1904:

MINNESOTA PUBLIC LIBRARY COMMISSION.

The Minnesota public library commission was created by an act of the legislature in April, 1899. It consists of five members, two of whom are appointed by the governor, and three are members ex officio.

The purpose of the commission, as expressed in the law, is to maintain the Minnesota traveling library, through which books should be accessible to every community in the state, to "give advice and instruction to librarians and trustees of public libraries upon any matter pertaining to the organization, maintenance or administration of the libraries, and to promote and assist, by counsel and encouragement, the foundation of libraries where none exist."

The commission is anxious to promote the best interests of public libraries in Minnesota, and asks the co-operation of all who are interested in the library movement in our state.

The commission maintains a state circulating library, from which any town, village, or community in Minnesota may borrow books under the rules and regulations of the commission. These books are loaned in groups of 25 and 50 books, which are exchanged every six months, or oftener if desired. The only charge is the fee of 50 cents for 25 books, and $1 for 50 books, to cover cost of transportation.

The commission assists in organizing new libraries or reorganizing old ones, and will gladly respond to questions in regard to the establishment of a library, planning a building, matters of administration and the technical details of organization. Its librarian makes personal visits to meet with trustees for discussion of library problems or to assist the librarian in classifying, cataloguing and organizing the library for practical work.

The public libraries of the state are required by law to make an annual report to the commission, and these statistics are collected and published by the commission for the information of librarians and trustees. The commission also publishes a bulletin of library notes and news to record the progress of libraries in the state.

For the improvement of library service in Minnesota the commission conducts a six-weeks course in library training at the University Summer School.

The commission maintains a clearing house for periodicals to assist the public libraries of the state in completing their files of magazines. Many complete volumes and odd numbers are sent to the libraries without other expense than the freight charges, and the commission pays freight on all material sent by the libraries in exchange. Single numbers of magazines are also loaned to individuals desiring material on special subjects.

MINNESOTA STATE ART SOCIETY.

The Minnesota State Art Society came into existence in 1903 under the general laws of Minnesota of that year, chapter 119, entitled "An act to provide for the creation of a state art society, and prescribing its manner of appointment, powers and duties." Several years of discussion and agitation were spent by the promoters of the society in getting it before the people through the art committee of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the Minneapolis Society of Fine Arts, the Art Workers' Guild of St. Paul and kindred organizations. It originated from a deep-seated sense of need concerning the education of all the people of the state, so that in time they would come to have an intelligent interest in the fine arts and an appreciation of art handicraft as applied to the manufacture of things beautiful and at the same time useful. Its object is to advance the interests of the fine arts, to develop the influence of art in education and to foster the introduction of art in the manufactures.

To accomplish these objects it was the duty of this society to arrange exhibitions of art and art handicraft, prepare courses of popular lectures on art and kindred subjects, to award prizes and to acquire works of art and artistic manufacture for a permanent collection, to become the property of the State Art Society.

The law provides for the creation of a governing board consisting of nine members, seven of whom shall be appointed by the governor. Of these appointees four shall be artists or connoisseurs of art, one an architect, one a prominent educator and one a manufacturer. The governor of the state and the president of the University of Minnesota shall be ex officio members of this board. All members serve without compensation as such.

The first governing board was organized on the 14th of July, 1903, and was constituted as follows:

Mr. Robert Koehler, artist, Minneapolis, president.

Miss Margaret J. Evans, educator, Northfield, vice president.

Mrs. William E. Thompson, connoisseur, St. Paul, secretary and treasurer.

*Mr. David Ericson, artist, Duluth.

Miss Mary Moulton Cheney, designer, St. Anthony Park.

Mr. Harry W. Jones, architect, Minneapolis.

Mr. William Jungbauer, cabinet-maker, St. Paul.

Hon. Samuel R. Van Sant, governor of Minnesota, ex officio.

Dr. Cyrus Northrop, president University of Minnesota, ex officio.

The board has held regular monthly meetings during the year at the state capitol, and through various committees carried on the manifold work of the society. At the very beginning of its career it sent out 10,000 letters of greeting to all friends of the arts, in reply to which came many letters of congratulation and commendation from eminent artists, educators and business men.

The most important work of the society during the year 1904 was the arranging of the first annual exhibition, held in St. Cloud from April 4th to *Resigned on account of removal to New York. Mrs. Robert M. Seymour of Duluth, connoisseur, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

April 17th. It proved a most happy beginning of the work, encouraging alike as a purely artistic success and as a practical means of accomplishing its purpose, to interest large communities in the fine arts and artistic handicraft. The exhibition committee reports that the attendance during the two weeks was between 4,000 and 5,000 interested visitors. Concerning the exhibition one of the prominent citizens of St. Cloud wrote as follows:

"Such an exhibition as was given in this city by your society is valuable in affording the people an opportunity of studying in the concrete that of which they had only a superficial knowledge, such as would be gained by such ordinary reading as is done concerning the subject of art by the average citizen of a community. With some it deepened an interest already felt, while with others it created a new interest and gave it an impulse in the right direction. It was very generally observed how intelligent an interest was taken in the exhibition by the young people, and even by the children, who, while in the rooms, were quiet and orderly, being evidently attracted by what was to be seen, and not coming for a frolic. Another valuable feature of the exhibition was that it gave to the people of the community a new and improving topic for discussion. While this may not have continued for any great length of time after the exhibition closed, yet it was advantageous for that length of time at least, and it was not wholly lost with the disappearance of the art display.

"To my mind the department of crafts was the most important practically, and it also attracted the most interest, and to me seemed to be the most complete of the departments. It was something which was within the comprehension of almost every visitor and which appealed to them from its practical nature. There were many who came to the rooms from time to time who knew little of, and perhaps cared little for, sculpture and painting, but who would appreciate very fully the admirable work shown in the department of crafts. I am quite sure that this exhibit had an inspiring and stimulating influence on very many who saw it, and, in not a few instances, of a practical character.

"Your society is engaged in an excellent work, the full results of which can now be only foreshadowed. St. Cloud is much gratified at having been selected for the initial exhibition, although it is doubtless true that each succeeding exhibition will be larger, more complete, and more valuable."

The above is only a specimen of other appreciative letters received. More than $600 was awarded in prizes, and some valuable acquisitions made for the art collection of the society.

The society was honored by an invitation to transfer the St. Cloud exhibits to Minneapolis. The Minneapolis Society of Fine Arts extended the invitation and assumed the expense of removal to the art gallery of the public library. The invitation was promptly accepted and the Twin Cities gave their stamp of approval to the work of the society by an intelligent and sympathetic appreciation of the exhibition.

Another exhibition was held at the annual state fair in September. Although the space was limited, enough was shown to elicit the hearty commendation of thousands of visitors, some of whom expressed the opinion that at last an art display was to be seen at the state fair grounds worthy of the name.

The society, through its lecture committee, has also given lectures on art by eminent specialists at the Mankato State Normal School, the Winona State Normal School, the Carnegie Library at St. Cloud and before the Minnesota Educational Association twice, once in 1903 and again in 1904, at the annual meetings.

The society has begun the collection of artistic photographs of noted pictures in European galleries, as well as of Japanese prints. Mrs. George R. Metcalf, a member of the society, is now in Europe, and has been authorized during her travels to expend one hundred dollars in the purchase of unmounted photographs of works of the masters of Italian art. The society has also purchased in Boston and Chicago and imported from Brussels and Paris other unmounted photographs and mounted them after their reception here.

Indorsements of the work of the society have not come from the state of Minnesota alone, but also from the metropolitan art centers of the east.

Mr. Griffith, director of the Detroit Museum of Art, states in a letter to the president of the society:

"I will say that I think that it is a grand plan, and I am glad that the state is fostering and encouraging art by substantial help. The sooner every state and city recognizes this the better it will be for the fine arts and for the manufacturer. The two should go hand in hand. They have too long kept separated in their interests."

Mr. Harrison S. Morris, managing director of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, has this to say:

"I congratulate you heartily on the announcement of your state exhibition, which has arrived to-day. Not only is it handsomely planned and printed, but what it implies is worth far more. If you can interest the state authorities and keep them interested in an enterprise like this you will be doing national work."

The foregoing is a brief resume of the work of the society during the first year and a half of its existence since its organization. The members of the governing board have given many days of thought and labor to realize as far as possible the object of the society. This they have done without any hope or desire of pecuniary compensation. They have done the best that they could with the limited amount at their disposal. While a good beginning has been made, they feel that they have just begun, and hope for even better and more liberal support on the part of the state to make their work still more effective. From their room in the new capitol they hope to do for the fine arts and art handicraft of Minnesota what the beautiful building in which they are housed is silently but effectively doing for the proper appreciation and development of art in the state.

OLIVER MINE, MESABI RANGE.—BELONGING TO THE PUBLIC SCHOOL FUND OF MINNESOTA.

MINING.

Minnesota contains iron mining districts that furnish two-thirds of the ore mined in the United States, and whose product annually exceeds that of any single nation on the globe, other than Spain and Great Britain, and it is a close second to, and may shortly surpass, either. Minnesota—to be accurate, the single county of St. Louis—is the mainstay of the steel industry of the United States, and without it the splendid advance that the nation has made in metallurgy would be impossible.

It is less than twenty-one years since the first mining was done in St. Louis county, and but twelve years since the opening of the Mesabi range, a vaster storehouse of hidden wealth than has elsewhere been found. In northern St. Louis county, along the two iron districts, there live 75,000 people, directly supported by this industry. The iron they dig from the earth furnishes business to three great railroads that have spent for additional equipment, enforced by the growth of the industry in 1904, not far from $2,500,000. These three railroads employ about 5,000 men, and a similar number is engaged in the lake transportation of ore from Duluth, Two Harbors and Superior to the great furnaces of the east. It is not out of the way to estimate that about 250,000 people within the state of Minnesota derive their support from these mines.

The ultimate value of iron ore depends upon three characteristics: First, quality; second, accessibility, and third, quantity. In all these points the ores of northern Minnesota probably lead. Aside from other parts of the same Lake Superior region there is no ore mined in the United States that can compare with that of Minnesota. The great Spanish, British and German iron regions do not approach the purity of these ores. Nowhere in the world are there mines whose product can join that of suitable fuel fields at so low a gross charge as those of northern Minnesota. This is due in part to the ease and cheapness of mining; in part to the proximity of mines to deep water transportation; in part to the marvelous cheapness of that water transportation, resulting from automatic machinery and the able system of government improvement of waterways along the lakes; in part to the vast coal regions that lie south from Lake Erie, and contain a fuel suitable for smelting purposes.

There are in Minnesota two distinct iron ranges, the Vermilion and Mesabi. In trend they are approximately parallel and about 15 miles apart. On the west both ranges disappear under heavy drift covering and on the east they extend into Canada, where the general character of the ore suffers some change. The economically valuable portion of the Vermilion is at two points about twenty-three miles apart, and of the Mesabi about seventy-five miles long, but both may be extended materially by subsequent explorations.

Iron in northern Minnesota was first mentioned in 1852 and frequently since then, prior to the date of development. The first mining was done at Soudan in 1882, as soon as the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad had been built thereto. The road was aided by a state grant of swamp land, and the immense importance of these grants to roads building through an unknown and difficult region, on an errand more or less questionable, was never more clearly shown. The mines to which this road was built, through state aid, now furnish annually less than five per cent of its business, and if it still depended on them it would be merely "a streak of rust and a right of way." By reason of exploration, resulting from its construction, the mines of Ely were discovered, and the opening of the Mesabi was also, though in less direct measure, the result of search due to the building of the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad.

In 1886 this road and the mines it served were sold to the Minnesota Iron Company. Later this company itself was absorbed, first into the Federal Steel Company, and later into the United States Steel Corporation. The first mine opened on the Vermilion range, in addition to the original property at Soudan, was the Chandler at Ely in 1888, and there are now in the Ely basin five valuable mines.

The first important finds of merchantable ore on what is called the Mesabi range, which is the most important district so far opened on the face of the globe, were by the brothers Merritt of Duluth in the fall of 1890. This was near the present Mountain Iron mine; indeed, was a part of that great deposit. In two or three years ore had been found at various spots between the Biwabik, on the east side of 15—16, to the Lake Superior, at the west side of 58—20, a distance of thirty miles. Since that time the development of that range has been nothing short of phenomenal. By the close of 1893 there were three railways to the range, and its annual shipments have steadily gained in actual and relative importance, until at the close of 1904 the Mesabi had shipped 78,896,357 gross tons, and was producing at the rate of 12,000,000 to 13,000,000 tons a year. That year fifty-eight mines of the Mesabi produced 12,156,008 tons, as against seventy-eight mines on the remaining four ranges of the lake, the Menominee, Marquette, Gogebic and Vermilion, that produced 9,666,831 tons.

The Vermilion range mines are all operated by the Oliver Iron Mining Company, which is the mining branch of the United States Steel Corporation. Those of the Mesabi are in the hands of many steel making concerns and a few independent miners, who furnish ore for the dwindling list of those consumers who have no mines of their own. Nearly every steel-making company in the north and east is an owner of Mesabi range mines.

Mining methods employed in northern Minnesota include longitudinal back stoping and caving for the underground mines of the Vermilion range; slicing, square set and slicing and caving combined for the underground mines of the Mesabi, and open pit steam shovel, milling and steam shovel milling for the surface mines of the Mesabi.

With its ores lying comparatively near the surface and somewhat horizontal of dip, the Mesabi has extended open pit mining and made it virtually a new style. Last year fifty per cent of the ore taken from that range was mined by steam shovel, out of open pits of large size. In mining by this method the earth and rocks covering the ore is stripped off by great machines that bite out chunks, tons in weight, and move in a season hundreds of thousands of yards. Once stripped the actual mining in these open properties is in two ways, as enumerated above, by the steam shovel, which loads railway cars standing beside it upon the bed of ore, and by dropping or "milling" the ore down through underground openings from which it is hoisted to surface in the good old way. Either is of tremendous advantage over ordinary underground methods, as by either the tonnage that can be moved is greatly increased and the cost of getting out the ore is so lessened that grades otherwise useless may be sent to furnace, and the cost of making steel is reduced materially. The case of Mesabi mining is accentuated by the character of the ore itself, which is so soft that much of the opening can be done at a rate far more rapid than in any hard ores.

Minnesota iron ores reach the east by a system of transportation that is not surpassed for economy of operation and excellence of results. From the time the shovel of the open pit mine or the skip of the deep underground property drops its load of ore into a car, human hand does not touch it until lower lake ports are reached, and from the time ore leaves the mine till it comes from the steel finishing mills its passage is practically mechanical throughout. The cars carrying ore from mines to Lake Superior ports run onto elevated docks and are of hopper bottom construction, so that the ore is dropped from them into great triangular pockets. Here it lies until a ship comes alongside, when a chute is lowered into position, a gate in the lower point of the pocket is opened and the ore slides on by gravity into the hold of the great vessel. Her cargo loaded, the ship leaves port and in a few days arrives at some Lake Erie receiving port, where she is placed under a tremendous unloading machine. Some of these have now been perfected to such an extent that the entire cargo is taken out without human aid. Five and six thousand tons of ore are taken from a ship by two machines in four or five hours. The entire charge against ore from the time it leaves the most inaccessible mines on the most distant Lake Superior range till it is in cars or on stock pile at some Lake Erie port is less than $1.80 a gross ton, and this includes two handlings, more than 100 miles of rail haul and 1,000 miles of water transportation.

There seems no limit to the multiplying uses to which iron and steel may be put. Their consumption per capita in the United States has gradually increased until it is now about 450 pounds per annum. No other nation approaches this quantity except England. The average for the world is but 20 pounds per inhabitant. As the world becomes more of a consumer of iron, and as our own demands increase, the requirements of ore from Minnesota will gradually grow, and it is hard to predict where they will cease. Even now Minnesota mines furnish raw material for more than seventy per cent of the iron made in this country, and the state has increased its proportion of Lake Superior production from fifty per cent in 1900 to sixty-one and one-half per cent in 1904.

Total shipments of iron ore from the Lake Superior region for all time, since mining commenced, have been as follows, with the proportionate quantities of the several districts.

Range.	When Opened.	Total Shipments—Tons.	Per Cent of Total.
Mesabi	1893	78,796,357	30.3
Marquette	1850	72,590,112	27.3
Menominee	1877	49,071,986	18.2

POPULATION OF MINNESOTA.

The figures used in the compilation of this department of the Manual have been obtained from the twelfth census of the United States. From this census has been abstracted the population of the state by counties, cities and villages, and table giving population by congressional districts.

Minnesota was organized as a territory March 3, 1849, and admitted as a state May 11, 1858. Table I shows the population of Minnesota at each census from 1850 to 1900, inclusive, together with the increase by number and per cent during each decade.

TABLE I.
POPULATION OF MINNESOTA—1850 TO 1900.

CENSUS YEARS.	Population.	INCREASE.
		Number.	Per Cent.
1900	1,751,394	449,568	34.5
1890	1,301,826	521,063	66.7
1880	780,773	341,067	77.6
1870	439,706	261,683	155.6
1860	172,023	165,946	2,730.7
1850	6,077

The population of the state in 1900 was 1,751,394, as compared with a population in 1890 of 1,301,826, showing an increase since 1890 of 449,568, or 34.5 per cent. A part of this increase is due to the fact that there were 8,208 Indians and 249 other persons, or a total of 8,457 persons, on Indian reservations, etc., in Minnesota, who were specially enumerated in 1890 under the provisions of the census act, but were not included in the general population of the state at that census. The increase of 34.5 per cent, though materially less than that of earlier decades, represents, in fact, a large accession to the population of a state which has been distinguished for its rapid growth throughout its brief history. Attention is particularly arrested by the influx of population to this territory during the decade from 1850 to 1860, when the number of inhabitants increased from 6,077 to 172,023, or 2,730.7 per cent.

The population of Minnesota in 1900 is more than 288 times as large as that given for 1850, the first census in which the population of the territory, now comprising the state, was enumerated.

The total land surface of Minnesota is, approximately, 79,205 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the census of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 16.4; 1900, 22.1.

Table II shows the population of Minnesota by counties at each census from 1850 to 1900, inclusive, while Table III, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase by number and per cent during the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

Of the above-named 447 incorporated places, there are fifty-three which had a population in 1900 of over 2,000; and of these thirty-five had less than 5,000, eleven had more than 5,000 and less than 10,000, and six had more than 10,000, namely, Minneapolis, with 202,718; St. Paul, with 163,065; Duluth, with 52,969; Winona, with 19,714; Stillwater, with 12,318; and Mankato, with 10,599 inhabitants.

For the three cities with a population, in 1900, of more than 25,000, a summary is presented in Table V, showing the population of these cities at each census from 1850 to 1900, inclusive, so far as it is separately stated in the census reports at each decennial period, together with the increase by number and per cent during each of the ten-year periods.

(a) Includes Duluth village (population 2,645), set apart by act of legislature February 23, 1877, but which again became part of the city by the act of March 2, 1887.

St. Paul first appeared in the census returns in 1850, with only 1,112 inhabitants; Minneapolis in 1860, with 2,564; and Duluth in 1870, with 3,131. Subsequently the increase in population of all these cities, both in number and per cent, has been conspicuously rapid for each succeeding decade until the last, except that Duluth made only a nominal gain from 1870 to 1880. During the ten years from 1880 to 1890, however, the city made a phenomenal gain, increasing from 3,483 to 33,115, or 850.8 per cent. Within the same decade the population of Minneapolis increased from 46,887 to 164,738, or 251.4 per cent, and that of St. Paul from 41,473 to 133,156, or 221.1 per cent. As compared with this record the increase in the population of these cities during the last decade, as shown by the enumeration for 1900, is so small as to afford a noticeable contrast.

POSTAGE RATES.

THE CLASSES OF MAIL MATTER.

Domestic mail matter is divided into four classes, as follows:

First Class—Letters, postal cards and matter wholly or partially in writing, whether sealed or unsealed (except manuscript copy accompanying proof-sheets or corrected proof-sheets of the same), and all matter sealed or otherwise closed against inspection.

Rates of Postage—Two cents per ounce or fraction thereof. Postal cards one cent each. On "drop" letters, two cents per ounce or fraction thereof, when mailed at letter-carriers' office; and one cent per ounce or fraction thereof at other offices.

Second Class—Newspapers and publications issued at stated intervals as often as four times a year, bearing date of issue and numbered consecutively, issued from a known office of publication, and formed of printed sheets, without board, cloth, leather or other substantial binding. Such publications must be originated and published for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, art, or some special industry. They must have a legitimate list of subscribers, and must not be designed primarily for advertising purposes, or for free circulation at nominal rates.

Rate of Postage—One cent for each four ounces or fraction thereof, when sent by other than publishers.

Third Class—Books, circulars, periodicals, and matter wholly in print (not included in second class), proof-sheets, corrected proof-sheets and manuscript copy accompanying the same.

Rate of Postage—One cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

Fourth Class—Merchandise, namely, all matter not embraced in the other three classes, and which is not in its form or nature liable to destroy, deface, or otherwise damage the contents of the mail bag, or harm the person of any one engaged in the postal service, and not above the weight provided by law.

Rates of Postage—One cent per ounce or fraction thereof, but on seeds, cuttings, roots, scions and plants, one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

THE LIMIT OF WEIGHT.

A package must not exceed four pounds in weight, unless it be a single book.

PAYMENT OF POSTAGE.

On first-class matter the postage should be fully prepaid; but if two cents in stamps be affixed, the matter will be forwarded and remainder due collected and addressed before delivery.

(623)

On second-class matter the postage must be fully prepaid.

On third-class matter the postage must be fully prepaid.

On fourth-class matter the postage must be fully prepaid.

WHAT MAY BE WRITTEN OR PRINTED ON MAIL MATTER.

Second Class—The name and address of persons to whom the matter is to be sent; index-figures of subscription book printed or written; printed title of publication; printed or written name or address, without advertisement of publisher or sender; written or printed words or figures, or both, indicating date upon which subscription ends; correction of typographical errors; a mark except by printed or written words to designate a word or passage to which it is desired to call attention; the words, "Sample copy"; publishers' or news agents' bills, receipts and orders for subscriptions, but the same shall convey no other information than the name, place of publication, subscription price, and amount of subscription due. The number of copies inclosed may be indicated on wrapper or face of package.

Third Class—Sender's name and address, with the word "from"; marks other than by written or printed words to call attention to word or passage; correction of typographical errors; on the blank leaves or cover of any book may be placed a simple manuscript dedication or inscription not like a personal correspondence; upon the address side of wrapper, envelope, tag or label must be left space sufficient for legible address and necessary stamps.

Fourth Class—With matter of this kind may be inclosed any mailable third-class matter. On wrapper, cover, tag or label may be written name and address of sender with word "from"; marks, numbers, names or letters for purposes of description, or same may be printed; any printed matter not in nature of a personal correspondence. On address side must be left space sufficient for legible address and necessary stamps.

THE REGISTRY SYSTEM.

All mail matter, including drop letters, may be registered; but not matter addressed to fictitious names, initials or box numbers, or bearing vague and indefinite addresses. The registry fee is eight cents in addition to postage. It must be prepaid by stamps affixed.

THE POSTAL MONEY ORDER SYSTEM.

The following are the fees for domestic money orders:

For orders for sums of $2.50 or less.....	$0.03
For orders not exceeding $5.....	.05
For orders exceeding $5 and not exceeding $10.....	.06
For orders exceeding $10 and not exceeding $20.....	.10

EXECUTIVE.

STATE OFFICERS.

GOVERNOR.

JOHN A. JOHNSON (Democrat) was born in St. Peter, Minn., July 28, 1861. Attended the common schools of his native city. At the age of fourteen became employed in a drug store, where he remained for nearly ten years. For one year was paymaster for a railway construction company. In 1886 became one of the editors and publishers of the St. Peter Herald, with which publication he is still identified. Was a member of the Minnesota National Guard for eight years, having served as captain Company I, Second regiment. Was elected to state senate in 1899. In 1904 was the Democratic nominee for governor, and elected over Robert C. Dunn, the Republican nominee.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.

RAY W. JONES (Republican) was born at Remsen, Oneida county, New York, in 1855. In 1874 he came west, settling at Muskegon, Mich., where he entered the Muskegon National Bank as office-boy, leaving it ten years later as cashier. In 1888 he came to Minneapolis, organizing the H. C. Akeley Lumber Company, of which he was treasurer and manager for five years. He is at present president of the Commonwealth Lumber Company of Frazee, Minn., and resides in Minneapolis. In 1900 Mr. Jones was a delegate to the national convention, and was by the Minnesota delegation chosen a member of the notification committee, making the trip to Canton Ohio, to inform President McKinley of his nomination.

SECRETARY OF STATE.

PETER E. HANSON (Republican) is a resident of Litchfield, where he is engaged in farming, banking and real estate business. He was born in Sweden, and came to Minnesota in 1857, and has been a resident of Meeker county ever since. He is now fifty-nine years old and is married. Has been chairman of county commissioners of his county for three terms. Served as state senator in sessions of 1895 and 1897. Elected secretary of state, 1900.

STATE AUDITOR AND LAND COMMISSIONER.

SAMUEL G. IVERSON (Republican) was born in Rushford, Fillmore county, Minnesota, in 1859. Was appointed postmaster of his native city in 1881 by President Hayes. Held that position until September, 1886. In November, 1886, was elected a member of the legislature. Was auditor's accountant in state auditor's office from 1887 to 1891, deputy state treasurer from 1891 to 1895 and deputy state auditor from 1895 to 1903. Was elected state auditor in 1902. Mr. Iverson was married in 1900. He is a graduate of the law department of the University of Minnesota.

STATE TREASURER.

JULIUS H. BLOCK (Republican) was born in Galion, Ohio, March 30, 1860. He came to Minnesota with his parents in 1870, and lived on a farm in Le Sueur county, afterwards moving to Nicollet county. He spent the early years of his life on his father's farm, and attended school, obtaining an excellent common school education, both English and German. At the age of nineteen years he went to St. Peter, where he has since made his home. He was engaged as supervisor and storekeeper at the state hospital, and later was elected sheriff of Nicollet county, which office he held for a number of terms. He was also appointed and served four years as a member of the board of trustees of the state hospitals for the insane. He was also engaged for several years in the fire insurance business. In 1900 he was elected state treasurer on the Republican ticket.

ATTORNEY GENERAL.

EDWARD T. YOUNG (Republican) was born in Sibley county, Minnesota, Oct. 27, 1858. Was raised on a farm, and educated at the Minnesota State University. He was admitted to the bar in 1881, and located that year at Appleton, where he has resided ever since, engaged in the active practice of the law. He held local offices and served two terms in the house of representatives and two terms in the state senate, during the last term holding the office of chairman of the judiciary committee.

Came to Minnesota in 1880. Lived in Caledonia, Houston county, until 1881, when he moved to Norman county, where he engaged in teaching and business. Was appointed clerk of district court, December, 1888, and served until January, 1891, when he was appointed chief clerk to Secretary of State F. P. Brown. Was appointed assistant secretary of state by Albert Berg, then secretary, in December, 1895, and served until January, 1901. Was appointed chief clerk to Secretary of State P. E. Hanson, January, 1901, and assistant secretary January, 1903.

DEPUTY STATE AUDITOR.

ANDREW W. THOMPSON (Republican) was born in Newburg, Fillmore county, Minnesota, Jan. 25, 1862. He attended common school at Newburg and Breckenridge's Institute at Decorah, Iowa. In 1881 he moved to Preston, Minn. Was deputy clerk of court and deputy register of deeds until March 1, 1884. He then engaged in the abstract business, and still owns the only set of abstracts in the county. Was a member of the village council for four years, member of the high school board for three years, and mayor three terms. He organized the First National Bank of Preston, and was president of the same until removing to St. Paul in November, 1902. He was married Aug. 21, 1884, to Emelia J. Hatlestad. Was appointed deputy state auditor by State Auditor Iverson Jan. 5, 1903.

DEPUTY STATE TREASURER.

ELIAS S. PETTIJOHN was born at Pottsville, Ill., Feb. 1, 1848. He came to Minnesota with his parents in 1853, settling on a farm in Nicollet county. He attended the public schools, and then spent several years in teaching school, until Jan. 1, 1875, when he was appointed superintendent of schools of Nicollet county. He was elected county auditor in 1876, and served seven terms, until 1890, when he accepted the position of cashier of the First National Bank of St. Peter, which position he resigned to accept the appointment of deputy treasurer under State Treasurer J. H. Block Jan. 1, 1901.

ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL.

GEORGE T. SIMPSON, born at Winona, Minn., in 1867. Commenced the practice of law at Waterville, Minnesota, in April, 1895, and continued the practice of law at that place until Jan. 1, 1905. He was elected county attorney of Le Sueur county, and held that office for four years, commencing Jan. 1, 1897. He was city attorney for the city of Waterville for the years 1898-9.

PUBLIC EXAMINER.

PETER M. KERST (Democrat) was born in St. Paul, Minn., which has been his home continually since the date of his birth, March 4, 1864. Educated in parochial schools and business colleges of St. Paul, whereupon he engaged in the banking business, which he followed for eighteen years. Entered the public examiner's department Sept. 1, 1900, as special examiner. Was appointed chief deputy, March 1, 1902, and on Jan. 23, 1905, was appointed public examiner and superintendent of banks for a term of three years by Governor John A. Johnson.

DEPUTY PUBLIC EXAMINER.

FRANCIS N. STACY (Democrat), born in California March 4, 1861, has lived in Minnesota since 1866 and in Minneapolis, his present home, twenty-two years. He spent his early school days in Monticello, Wright county, and graduated at the University of Minnesota in 1888. In 1889 he was married to Ima C. Winchell, a University class-mate. His business has been journalism, with statistical investigation a specialty. In 1899 he was appointed by Governor Lind as special agent of the state railroad and warehouse commission. In 1903 he was engaged by the Minneapolis city council as expert accountant to investigate the city accounts, and recommended for the city a new accounting system, which was installed Jan. 1, 1904. During the congressional session of 1903-4 he served as private secretary to Congressman John Lind. In 1898 and 1904 he was the Democratic nominee for city comptroller of Minneapolis.

INSURANCE COMMISSIONER.

THOMAS D. O'BRIEN (Democrat) was born at La Pointe, Wis., Feb. 14, 1859. His father was Dillon O'Brien, who brought his family to Minnesota in 1863. He was admitted to the bar April 17, 1880; was assistant city attorney of St. Paul, under W. P. Murray, from 1883 to 1888; captain of First Battery, Minnesota National Guard, 1886-1887; county attorney of Ramsey county 1891-1892; member of the board of trustees for the hospitals of the insane, 1896-1897; member of the charter commission which framed the present charter of the city of St. Paul; member from Minnesota of the national Democratic committee from 1896 to 1904; appointed insurance commissioner of the state of Minnesota Jan. 12, 1905. Mr. O'Brien was married on April 24, 1888, to Miss Mary Cruice of Philadelphia. They have four children.

DEPUTY INSURANCE COMMISSIONER.

DAVID C. LIGHTBOURN (Republican), deputy insurance commissioner, was born in Dakota county, near St. Paul, Jan. 30, 1858. Was a printer by trade, and later general all-around newspaper man. Has been owner and publisher of the Index at Ada, Minn., since April, 1883. Was appointed judge of probate of Norman county in 1890. Elected to the same position in 1890. Resigned in January, 1892, to accept position of deputy insurance commissioner, a position he held until May, 1897. From June, 1896, to January, 1897, was acting insurance commissioner, during vacancy caused by the death of Insurance Commissioner Smith. After retiring from office in 1897, he conducted his paper, the Index, personally, until he was re-appointed as deputy insurance commissioner in January, 1901.

SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION.

JOHN W. OLSEN (Republican) was born in Denmark in 1864. Came to America at the age of seven years, and settled with his parents on a farm in Freeborn county. He attended the common schools and graduated from the Albert Lea high school, and received his B. S. degree from the Valparaiso College, Indiana, in 1887. He has been principal of the public schools at Alden, in this state, and of the public schools at Holton, Kansas. In 1890 he was elected county superintendent of Freeborn county, and served in this capacity until his appointment to his present position. Mr. Olsen is married, and his home is at Albert Lea, Minnesota.

In 1875 he settled in the town of Roseville, Grant county, this state, on a homestead. In 1883 he removed to Stephen, his present home. Besides his mercantile business, has actively engaged in farming. He has held various positions of trust, being president of the village council for three terms and chairman of the board of town supervisors five years. He is married. Was a member of the house in 1903.

CHIEF CLERK OF THE HOUSE.

JULIUS A. SCHMAHL, chief clerk of the house, is a Minnesota product, having been born in Traverse des Sioux, Nicollet county, in 1867. He moved with his parents to Redwood Falls in 1870, and there secured a common school education, herding cattle and working on farms in summer time until he was fourteen years old, when he commenced an apprenticeship in the printing office of the Redwood Gazette. Working there three years, he served two years in the Fargo Argus job printing office. Afterwards he reported for eight or more years on the daily papers of St. Paul and Minneapolis. In 1892 he returned to Redwood Falls, purchased an interest in the Redwood Gazette, and, with James Aiken, the senior member of the firm, owns one of the finest country newspaper plants in the state, the firm owning their own two-story and basement building. He was chief clerk of the house in 1901, at the extra session of 1902 and 1903 session.
