CYRUS NORTHROP

At the age of eighty-five years, yet with much of the bouyant and hopeful spirit of youth, President Northrop in the school year of 1919-20 wrote for the Minnesota Alumni Weekly a series of nine contributions, entitled "Reminiscences," which with much history present also a large wealth of auto-biography.

Of the first school under his teaching, when fifteen years old and in his native town, the "Reminiscences" contain the following comments: "This school was very helpful to me in all my subsequent work as a teacher. I learned that sweetness and light are more effective than noise and violence, and I acted accordingly. Most pupils can be led more easily and comfortably than they can be driven; and a teacher's loving interest in a pupil's progress is more inspiring than any other form of compulsion."

Cyrus Northrop was born September 30, 1834, in the little town of Ridgefield, Connecticut; and he died in his eighty-eighth year, April 3, 1922, at his home in Minneapolis. His father was a farmer, in the fifth generation of descent from Joseph Northrop, an immigrant from England to Boston in 1637, who in the next year came to New Haven.

He was graduated from Yale College in 1857, and from its Law School in 1859. During the presidential campaign of 1860 he made many addresses for the Republican Party, in towns and cities of Connecticut and New York. In 1861 he was assistant clerk of the Connecticut House of Representatives, was its clerk for the next year, and in 1863 was elected clerk of the Senate. During the last year of his service for the state legislature, he was editor of the New Haven Palladium, writing the editorials for both the morning and evening editions.

Through twenty-one years, from 1863 to 1884, he was professor of rhetoric and English literature in Yale College; and through the next twenty-seven years, to 1911, he was president of the University of Minnesota. He has been deservedly called by President Thwing, of the Western Reserve University, "the greatest citizen of his time in his adopted state."

The Board of Regents of the University, in a memorial resolution, noted his noble qualities of mind and heart, his gracious tact and grand efficiency, in part as follows: "The memory of President Northrop abides in all his works and in the lives he lifted to higher planes and nobler purposes. The clasp of his hand, the sound of his voice, the kindly smile, his word of commendation, have changed the course of countless human lives and directed them to better things. His work as president of the University of Minnesota is written in the history of its advance between 1884 and 1911, from a small college to a great and complex institution ministering to the varied educational needs of an imperial state. Wise in counsel, kindly in administration, high minded in the conception of aims, he unified all the agencies of the University into the creation of the greatest asset of a commonwealth, men and women of intelligence and character."

William Watts Folwell, closely associated with President Northrop since his coming to Minnesota, wrote: "To some of us he was especially endeared as neighbor, friend and counselor, brother in Christ, or professional colleague; he was loved and admired by all for his character, his nobly simple life, his extraordinary gifts as an orator, and his devotion to duty and service. His wisdom was consummate. He had no airy romantic schemes of education; but taking people, and especially young people, as he saw them with his unclouded vision, he strove to make the most of existing facilities as approved by experience. Taking regents and faculties as he found them, he planned no revolution, but with unerring sagacity secured the best of individual effort and general co-operation. He appreciated science, he appreciated literature and art, but what he most desired was to have the University remain a place of training for character, noble aspiration, and devotion to service. What he thus inspired by precept he taught by example."

Along the sidewalks of the streets, and on the University Campus, while the procession of the funeral of President Northrop passed from the church to the University Library and to the cemetery, were multitudes in silent reverence and affection, including the University students and hundreds of young school children, who had known and loved him as teacher, neighbor, and genial friend. We thank God for his useful life.

IRA B. MILLS

Born Jan. 14, 1851

Died May 3, 1921

Ira B. Mills was born at Scotchtown, N. Y., January 14, 1851. He was graduated from Albany Law school in 1872, and settled in Moorhead, Minn., in 1881 and practiced law until elected judge of the Fourteenth district court. Appointed assistant attorney general January 2, 1893 and as a member of Railroad and Warehouse commission later that year. He served from 1893 to 1899 and from 1901 to his death. Fidelity to the trust imposed by the people was always his first thought. Judge Mills' knowledge of railroad law gave him a nation-wide reputation and most of the laws affecting transportation enacted by the Minnesota Legislature were drafted by him.

Giving seventy odd years of service to his state, from the time he was elected a state senator in 1858 to the time of his death in 1922, Christopher C. Andrews carved a name for himself that stands for service, especially among the older generation. He was born in Hillsboro, N. H.; admitted to the bar of Massachusetts in 1850. Served as colonel of the Third Regiment, Minnesota volunteers, in the Civil War, and as brigadier general and brevet major general of volunteers; was United States minister at Stockholm, 1869-1877. SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the executive power and authority in and over said Territory of Minnesota shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States. The governor shall reside within said Territory; shall be commander-in-chief of the militia thereof; shall perform the duties and receive the emoluments of superintendent of Indian affairs. He may grant pardons for offenses against the law of said Territory, and reprieves for offenses against the laws of the United States until the decision of the president can be made known thereon: he shall commission all officers who shall be appointed to office under the laws of the said Territory, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That there shall be a secretary of said Territory, who shall reside therein, and hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States; he shall record and preserve all the laws and proceedings of the legislative assembly hereinafter constituted, and all the acts and proceedings of the governor in his executive department; he shall transmit one copy of the laws and one copy of the executive proceedings, on or before the first day of December in each year, to the president of the United States, and at the same time two copies of the laws to the speaker of the house of representatives, and the president of the senate for the use of Congress. And in case of the death, removal, resignation, or necessary absence of the governor from the Territory, the secretary shall be and he is hereby authorized and required to execute and perform all the powers and the duties of the governor during such vacancy or necessary absence, or until another governor shall be duly appointed to fill such vacancy.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power and authority of said Territory shall be vested in the governor and a legislative assembly. The legislative assembly shall consist of a council and house of representatives. The council shall consist of nine members having the qualifications of voters, as hereinafter prescribed, whose term of service shall continue two years. The house of representatives shall, at its first session, consist of eighteen members, possessing the same qualifications as prescribed for members of the council, and whose term of service shall continue one year. The number of councilors and representatives may be increased by the legislative assembly, from time to time, in proportion to the increase of population; provided, that the whole number shall never exceed fifteen councilors and thirty-nine representatives. An apportionment shall be made, as nearly equal as practicable, among the several counties or districts for the election of the council and representatives, giving to each section of the Territory representation in the ratio of its population, Indians excepted, as nearly as may be. And the members of the council and of the house of representatives shall reside in and be inhabitants of the districts for which they may be elected, respectively. Previous to the first election, the governor shall cause a census or enumeration of the inhabitants of the several counties and districts of the Territory to be taken, and the first election shall be held at such time and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct. and he shall, at the same time, declare the number of members of the council and house of representatives to which each of the counties and districts shall be entitled under this act.

And the persons thus elected to the legislative assembly shall meet at such place on such day as the governor shall appoint, but thereafter the time, place and manner of holding and conducting all elections by the people, and the apportioning of the representation in the several counties or districts to the council and house of representatives, according to the population, shall be prescribed by law, as well as the day of the commencement of the regular session of the legislative assembly; provided, that no one session shall exceed the term of sixty days.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That every free white male inhabitant above the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of said Territory at the time of the passage of this act, shall be entitled to vote at the first election, and shall be eligible to any office within the said Territory; but the qualifications of voters and of holding office at all subsequent elections shall be such as shall be prescribed by the legislative assembly; provided, that the right of suffrage and of holding office shall be exercised only by citizens of the United States and those who shall have declared on oath their intention to become such, and shall have taken an oath to support the constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power of the Territory shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation, consistent with the Constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act; but no law shall be passed interfering with the primary disposal of the soil; no tax shall be imposed upon the property of the United States; nor shall the lands or other property of non-residents be taxed higher than the lands or other property of residents. All the laws passed by the legislative assembly and governor shall be submitted to the Congress of the United States, and if disapproved shall be null and of no effect.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That all township, district and county officers, not herein otherwise provided for, shall be appointed or elected, as the case may be, in such manner as shall be provided by the governor and legislative assembly of the Territory of Minnesota. The governor shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the legislative council, appoint all officers not herein otherwise provided for, and, in the first instance, the governor alone may appoint all said officers, who shall hold their offices until the end of the next session of the legislative assembly.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That no member of the legislative assembly shall hold or be appointed to any office which shall have been created, or the salary or emoluments of which shall have been increased, while he was a member, during the term for which he was elected, and for one year after the expiration of such term; and no person holding a commission or appointment under the United States, except postmasters, shall be a member of the legislative assembly, or shall hold any office under the government of said Territory.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the judicial power of said Territory shall be vested in a supreme court, district courts, probate courts, and in justices of the peace. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and two associate justices, any two of whom shall constitute a quorum, and who shall hold a term at the seat of government of said Territory annually; and they shall hold their offices during the period of four years. The said Territory shall be divided into three judicial districts, and a district court shall be held in each of said districts by one of the justices of the supreme court, at such time and places as may be prescribed by law; and the said judges shall, after their appointment, respectively, reside in the districts which shall be assigned them. The supreme court, or the justices thereof, shall appoint its own clerk, and every clerk shall hold his office at the pleasure of the court for which he shall have been appointed. Writs of error and appeals from the final decisions of said supreme court shall be allowed, and may be taken to the supreme court of the United States, in the same manner and under the same regulations as from the circuit courts of the United States, where the value of the property or the amount in controversy, to be ascertained by the oath or affirmation of either party, or other competent witness, shall exceed one thousand dollars; and each of the said district courts shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction, in all cases arising under the constitution and laws of the United States, as is vested in the circuit and district courts of the United States; and the first six days of every term of said courts, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be appropriated to the trial of causes arising under the said constitution and laws; and writs of error and appeal in all such cases shall be made to the supreme court of said Territory, the same as in other cases. The said clerk shall receive in all such cases the same fees which the clerks of the district courts of the late Wisconsin Territory received for similar services.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed an attorney for said Territory, who shall continue in office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall receive the same fees and salary as the attorney of the United States for the late Territory of Wisconsin received. There shall also be a marshal for the Territory appointed, who shall hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall execute all processes issuing from the said courts, when exercising their jurisdiction as circuit and district courts of the United States; he shall perform the duties, be subject to the same regulations and penalties, and be entitled to the same fees as the marshal of the district court of the United States for the late

Territory of Wisconsin; and shall, in addition, be paid two hundred dollars annually as a compensation for extra services.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That the governor, secretary, chief justice and associate justices, attorney and marshal, shall be nominated and by and with the advice and consent of the senate, appointed by the president of the United States. The governor shall receive an annual salary of $1,500 as governor, and $1,000 as superintendent of Indian affairs. The chief justice and associate justice shall each receive an annual salary of $1,800. The secretary shall receive an annual salary of $1,800. The said salaries shall be paid quarter-yearly, at the treasury of the United States. The members of the legislative assembly shall be entitled to receive three dollars each per day during their attendance at the session thereof, and three dollars each for every twenty miles traveled in going to and returning from the said sessions, estimated according to the nearest usually traveled route. There shall be appropriated, annually, the sum of $1,000, to be expended by the governor to defray the contingent expenses of the Territory; and there shall also be appropriated, annually, a sufficient sum to be expended by the secretary of the Territory, and upon an estimate to be made by the secretary of the treasury of the United States, to defray the expenses of the legislative assembly, the printing of the laws, and other incidental expenses, and the secretary of the Territory shall annually account to the secretary of the treasury of the United States for the manner in which the aforesaid sum shall have been expended.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That the inhabitants of the said Territory shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities heretofore granted and secured to the Territory of Wisconsin and to its inhabitants; and the laws in force in the Territory of Wisconsin at the date of the admission of the State of Wisconsin shall continue to be valid and operative therein, so far as the same be not incompatible with the provisions of this act, subject, nevertheless, to be altered, modified or repealed by the governor and legislative assembly of the said Territory of Minnesota; and the laws of the United States are hereby extended over and declared to be in force in said Territory, so far as the same, or any provision thereof, may be applicable.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That the legislative assembly of the Territory of Minnesota shall hold its first session in St. Paul; and at said first session the governor and legislative assembly shall locate and establish a temporary seat of government for said Territory, at such place as they may deem eligible; and shall at such time as they shall see proper prescribe by law the manner of locating the permanent seat of government of said Territory by a vote of the people. And the sum of twenty thousand dollars, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, is hereby appropriated and granted to said Territory of Minnesota, to be applied by the governor and legislative assembly to the erection of suitable public buildings at the seat of government.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That a delegate of the house of representatives of the United States, to serve for the term of two years, may be elected by the voters qualified to elect members of the legislative assembly, who shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges as are exercised and enjoyed by the delegates from the several other territories of the United States to the said house of representatives. The first election shall be held at such times and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct; and at all subsequent elections the times, places and manner of holding the elections shall be prescribed by law. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected, and a certificate thereof shall be given accordingly.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That all suits, process and proceedings, civil and criminal, at law or in chancery, and all indictments and informations, which shall be pending and undetermined in the courts of the Territory of Wisconsin, within the limits of said Territory of Minnesota, when this act shall take effect, shall be transferred to be heard, tried, prosecuted and determined in the district courts hereby established, which may include the counties or districts where any such proceedings may be pending. All bonds, recognizances, and obligations of every kind whatsoever, valid under the existing laws, within the limits of said Territory, shall be valid under this act; and all crimes and misdemeanors against the laws, in force within said limits, may be prosecuted, tried, and punished in the courts established by this act; and all penalties, forfeitures, actions and causes of action may be recovered under this act the same as they would have been under the laws in force within the limits composing said Territory at the time this act shall go into operation.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That all justices of the peace, constables, sheriffs, and all other judicial and ministerial officers, who shall be in office within the limits of said Territory when this act shall take effect, shall be and they are hereby authorized and required to continue to exercise and perform the duties of their respective offices as officers of the Territory of Minnesota, temporarily, and until they or others shall be duly appointed and qualified to fill their places, in the manner herein directed, or until their offices shall be abolished.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That the sum of $5,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be expended by and under the direction of the said governor of the Territory of Minnesota, in the purchase of a library, to be kept at the seat of government for the use of the governor, legislative assembly, judges of the supreme court, secretary, marshal, and attorneys of said Territory, and such other persons and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That when the lands in said Territory shall be surveyed under the direction of the government of the United States, preparatory to bringing the same into market, sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in each township in said Territory shall be and the same are hereby reserved for the purpose of being applied to schools in said Territory, and in the state and territories hereafter to be erected out of the same.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That temporarily, and until otherwise provided by law, the governor of said Territory may define the judicial districts of said Territory, and assign the judges who may be appointed for said Territory to the several districts, and also appoint the times and places for holding courts in the several counties or subdivisions in each of said judicial districts, by proclamation to be issued by him; but the legislative assembly, at their first or any subsequent session, may organize, alter or modify such judicial districts, and assign the judges, and alter the times and places of holding the courts, as to them shall seem proper and convenient.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That every bill which shall or may pass the council and house of representatives, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the Territory; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated; which shall cause the objections to be entered at large upon their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall also be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law; but in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislative assembly, by adjournment, prevent it, in which case it shall not become a law.

MINNESOTA STATE SEAL

The state seal is similar in design to the territorial seal, although various other devices were proposed at different periods and even adopted by laws.

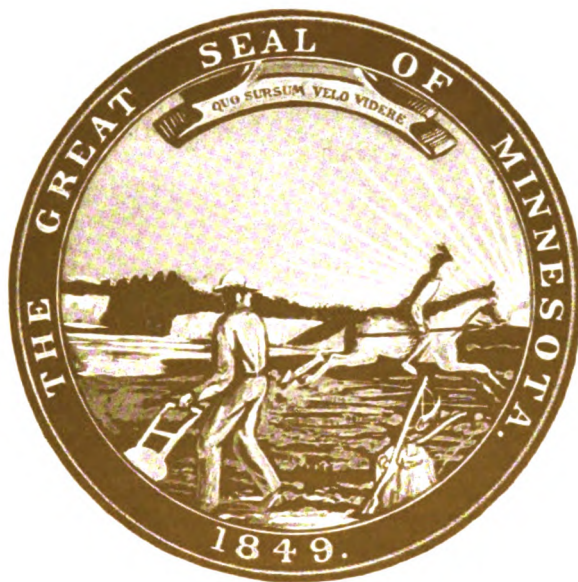

First official reference to the seal appears in the message of Governor Ramsey to the first territorial legislature, Sept. 9, 1849. An impression of a temporary seal and a design for a permanent seal were submitted with a request that the latter be approved, with any modifications desired, and adopted for use. A legislative committee, Oct. 31, recommended as a seal device, "an every-day scene, consisting of an Indian family with their lodge, canoe, etc., and a single white man visiting them, with no other protection than the feeling of hospitality and friendship existing between the two people. The white man is receiving from the Indian the pipe of peace." That seal was authorized by law but never used.

The new seal depicted instead a scene at St. Anthony Falls, as shown in the accompanying engraving. The earlier proposal may have influenced the design, but substitution of the musket and powderhorn for the pipe of peace may have had special significance. The motto, "Quo sursum velo videre," the third word a misprint for "volo," was selected by H. H. Sibley, while a delegate in congress. Governor Ramsey commissioned D. O. Hare of Washington to engrave the seal and the cost was $157.

Although ridiculed by journalists as representing "a scared white man and an astonished Indian," and "a man plowing one way and looking another," the territorial seal was used until the adoption of the state seal in 1858.

During the first session of the state legislature, assembled Dec. 2, 1857, Charles F. Lowe, a member of the convention of 1857 which drafted the state constitution, including a provision directing the legislature to provide for an appropriate device and motto for a state seal, procured from Mr. Buechner, a St. Paul artist, a design shown on page 658 of W. H. C. Folsom's "Fifty Years in the Northwest."

It seems to have failed of adoption, however, for the state government upon beginning operations in May, 1858, was without a state seal. Authorizing temporary use of the territorial seal, Governor Sibley brought up the subject at the adjourned legislative session in June and a special committee was named. W. H. C. Folsom, chairman, secured an elaborate design which on July 16 was adopted by joint resolution. When the new seal was delivered, however, it was found that legislative intent had failed again and in place of the elaborate design one resembling that of the territorial seal was used, as it appears in the illustration. The word "state" was added and the date of admission substituted for the territorial year. The motto was changed to "L'Etoile du Nord," translated "the North Star." The Minnesotian published articles ridiculing the French motto and declaring that Governor Sibley had chosen it simply because he spoke that language.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That in the event said convention shall decide in favor of the immediate admission of the proposed State into the Union, it shall be the duty of the United States marshal for said Territory to proceed to take a census or enumeration of the inhabitants within the limits of the proposed State, under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the secretary of the interior, with the view of ascertaining the number of representatives to which said State may be entitled in the Congress of the United States. And said State shall be entitled to one representative, and such additional representatives as the population of the State shall, according to the census, show it would be entitled to according to the present ratio of representation.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the following propositions be and the same are hereby offered to the said convention of the people of Minnesota for their free acceptance or rejection, which, if accepted by the convention, shall be obligatory on the United States, and upon the said State of Minnesota, to-wit:

MINNESOTA STATE FLAG.

The State Legislature of 1893, by Chapter 16, provided for the adoption of a state flag.

Mrs. Franklyn L. Greenleaf, Mrs. A. A. White, Mrs. Edward Durant, Mrs. F. B. Clarke, Mrs. H. F. Brown and Mrs. A. T. Stebbins were by this act named and designated a commission to select and adopt an appropriate design for a state flag.

Conformably to the provision of this act, this commission called for designs, and on Tuesday, Feb. 28, 1893, met, selected and adopted the design presented by Mrs. Edward H. Center, of Minneapolis.

Following is a description of the flag: "The ground is of white silk, and the reverse side of blue silk, bordered with bullion fringe. In the center is the state seal, wreathed with white moccasin flowers, on a blue ground. The red ribbon of the seal bearing the motto is continued through the wreath, entwining the blossoms and floating carelessly over the lower portion of the flag. It bears, in gold, the dates 1819, the time of the settlement of Minnesota, and 1893. Above, also in gold, is the date 1858, the time of the admission of Minnesota to the Union. Below the design, in gold letters, is wrought 'Minnesota.' Grouped around the seal are nineteen stars in the design of star points, with the North Star, significant of the North Star State, in a group of three at the top."

The choice of the number nineteen is a peculiarly happy one, as Minnesota was the nineteenth state, after the original thirteen, to be admitted to the Union. The standard to the flag was surmounted by a golden gopher, and tied with a gold cord and tassel. The execution of the design is entirely in needle work.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

Under the enabling act of Congress, approved March 3, 1857, a constitutional convention of one hundred and eight members (each council district to elect two for each councilman and representative it was entitled to) was authorized to meet at the capitol on the second Monday in July, to frame a state constitution, and submit it to the people of the territory. The election was held on the first Monday in June. On July 13th the delegates met, but, a disagreement arising in the organization, the Republican members organized one body, and the Democratic members organized separately. Each of these bodies, claiming to be the legal constitutional convention, proceeded with the work of forming an instrument to be submitted to the people. After some days an understanding was effected between them, and, by means of committees of conference, the same constitution was framed and adopted by both bodies. On being submitted to the people October 13th, it was ratified.

ARTICLE I.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

Object of government. SECTION 1. Government is instituted for the security, benefit and protection of the people, in whom all political power is inherent, together with the right to alter, modify or reform such government, whenever the public good may require it.

Rights and Privileges. SEC. 2. No member of this State shall be disfranchised, or deprived of any of the rights or privileges secured to any citizen thereof, unless by the law of the land, or the judgment of his peers. There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the State other wise than in the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

Liberty of the press. SEC. 3. The liberty of the press shall forever remain inviolate, and all persons may freely speak, write and publish their sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right.

Trial by jury. SEC. 4. The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, and shall extend to all cases at law without regard to the amount in controversy, but a jury trial may be waived by the parties in all cases in the manner prescribed by law; [and the legislature may provide that the agreement of five-sixths of any jury in any civil action or proceeding, after not less than six (6) hours' deliberation, shall be a sufficient verdict therein.]*

No excessive bail or unusual punishments. SEC. 5. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor shall excessive fines be imposed; nor shall cruel or unusual punishments be inflicted.

Rights of accused in criminal prosecutions. SEC. 6. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the county or district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which county or district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, to be confronted with the witnesses against him, to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defense. (a)

Further rights of accused—when bailable. SEC. 7. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law, and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require.

Redress of injuries or wrongs. SEC. 8. Every person is entitled to a certain remedy in the laws for all injuries or wrongs which he may receive in his person, property or character; he ought to obtain justice freely and without purchase; completely and without denial; promptly and without delay, conformable to the laws.

Treason defined. SEC. 9. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against the same, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

Right against unreasonable searches. SEC. 10. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the person or things to be seized.

*The clause in brackets was adopted Nov. 4, 1890.

(a) The jury contemplated by article 1, section 6, securing the right to jury trial in criminal cases, is a body of twelve men, and it is error to try a party charged with crime in a justice court, against his objection, with a jury of six. The fact that he may appeal to the district court, on entering into recognizance with sureties, does not change the rule. 14 Minn. 330.

Prohibits ex post facto laws, or laws impairing contracts. SEC. 11. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, nor any law impairing the obligation of contracts shall ever be passed, and no conviction shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate.

Imprisonment for debt—property exemption. SEC. 12. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in this State, (a) but this shall not prevent the legislature from providing for imprisonment, or holding to bail, persons charged with fraud in contracting said debt. A reasonable amount of property shall be exempt from seizure or sale for the payment of any debt or liability. The amount of such exemption shall be determined by law. [Provided, however, that all property so exempted shall be liable to seizure and sale for any debts incurred to any person for work done or materials furnished in the construction, repair or improvement of the same, and provided further, that such liability to seizure and sale shall also extend to all real property for any debt incurred to any laborer or servant for labor or service performed.]*

Private property for public use. SEC. 13. Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use without just compensation therefor, first paid or secured.†

Military power subordinate. SEC. 14. The military shall be subordinate to the civil power, and no standing army shall be kept up in this State in times of peace.

Lands declared allodial—leases, when void. SEC. 15. All lands within the State are declared to be allodial, and feudal tenures of every description, with all their incidents, are prohibited. Leases and grants of agricultural lands for a longer period than twenty-one years hereafter made, in which shall be reserved any rent or service of any kind, shall be void.

Freedom of conscience—no preference to be given to any religious establishment or mode of worship. SEC. 16. The enumeration of rights in this constitution shall not be construed to deny or impair others retained by and inherent in the people. The right of every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience shall never be infringed, nor shall any man be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship, or to maintain any religious or ecclesiastical ministry, against his consent; nor shall any control of or interference with the rights of conscience be permitted, or any preference be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of the State, nor shall any money be drawn from the treasury for the benefit of any religious societies, or religious or theological seminaries.

*The clause in brackets was adopted Nov. 6, 1888.

No religious test or property qualifications to be required. SEC. 17. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification for any office of public trust under the State. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification of any voter at any election in this State; nor shall any person be rendered incompetent to give evidence in any court of law or equity in consequence of his opinion upon the subject of religion.

No license to peddle. SEC. 18. Any person may sell or peddle the products of the farm or garden occupied and cultivated by him without obtaining a license therefor.*

ARTICLE II.

ON NAME AND BOUNDARIES.

Name and boundaries. SECTION 1. This State shall be called and known by the name of the State of Minnesota, and shall consist of and have jurisdiction over the territory embraced in the following boundaries, to-wit: Beginning at the point in the center of the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the boundary line between the United States and British Possessions crosses the same; thence up the main channel of said river to that of the Bois des Sioux river; thence up the main channel of said river to Lake Traverse; thence up the center of said lake to the southern extremity thereof; thence in a direct line to the head of Big Stone lake; thence through its center to its outlet; thence by a due south line to the north line of the State of Iowa; thence east along the northern boundary of said State to the main channel of the Mississippi river; thence up the main channel of said river and following the boundary line of the State of Wisconsin until the same intersects the St. Louis river; thence down the said river to and through Lake Superior, on the boundary line of Wisconsin and Michigan, until it intersects the dividing line between the United States and British Possessions; thence up Pigeon river and following said dividing line to the place of beginning.

*Adopted Nov. 6, 1906.

The northern boundary of the state at the Lake of the Woods is projected beyond the 49th parallel a distance of about twenty miles, making a wedge-shaped jog through the lake until it strikes firm ground on the west bank of the lake; thence in a due south line to the 49th parallel. The explanation of this jog is found in the subjoined paragraphs. In the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, section 19 reads as follows: Sec. 19. Resolved that the following described (also represented on said map as before mentioned), is, in the opinion of the commissioners, so far as the same extends, the true boundary intended by the before mentioned treaties, namely: * * * thence through the middle of the waters of this bay to the northwest extremity of the same; being the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods, and from a monument in this bay, on the nearest firm ground to the above northwest extremity of said bay, the courses and distances are as follows: 56° W. 1,565½ feet; 2d. N. 6° W. 861½ feet; 3d. N. 28° W. 615.4 feet; 4th. N. 27° 10' W. 495.4 feet; 5th. N. 5° 10' E. 1,322½ feet; 6th. N. 70° 45' W. 493 feet, the variation being 12° east. The termination of this 6th and last course and distance being the above said most northwestern point

Jurisdiction on bordering rivers. SEC. 2. The State of Minnesota shall have concurrent jurisdiction on the Mississippi and on all other rivers and waters bordering on the said State of Minnesota, so far as the same shall form a common boundary to said State, and any other state or states now or hereafter to be formed by the same; and said rivers and waters, and navigable waters leading into the same, shall be common highways and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said State as to other citizens of the United States, without any tax, duty, impost, or toll therefor.

Acceptance of propositions in enabling act. SEC. 3. The propositions contained in the act of Congress entitled, "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government, preparatory to their admission into the Union on equal footing with the original states," are hereby accepted, ratified and confirmed, and shall remain irrevocable without the consent of the United States; and it is hereby ordained that this State shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same, by the United States, or with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title to said soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and no tax shall be imposed on lands belonging to the United States and in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

Division of powers. SECTION 1. The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—legislative, executive, and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to or constituting one of these departments shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except in the instances expressly provided in this constitution. (a) of the Lake of the Woods, as designated by the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, and being in latitude 49° 23' 55" north of the equator, and in longitude 95° 14' 38" west from Greenwich. The second article of the convention of 1818 is as follows: Article 2. It is agreed that a line drawn from the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods along the 49th parallel of north latitude, or, if the said point shall not be in the 49th parallel of north latitude, then that a line drawn from the said point due north or south, as the case may be, until the said line shall intersect the said parallel of north latitude, and from the point of such intersection due west, along and with the said parallel, shall be the line of demarkation between the territories of the United States and His Britannic Majesty, and that the said line shall form the northern boundary of the said territories of the United States and the southern boundary of His Britannic Majesty, from the Lake of the Woods to the Stony Mountains. This boundary was re-established and determined by a commission authorized by congress, and the surveys embracing four years were made and reported to congress in 1877.

(a) Courts cannot control or interfere with an executive officer of the state in his official acts, even though they are such that the duty to perform them might have been entrusted to some other officer. 28 Minn. 50.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

Legislature meets biennially—length of session. SECTION 1. The legislature shall consist of the Senate and House of Representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the State, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety (90) legislative days; and no new bill shall be introduced in either branch, except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty (20) days of such sessions, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor.

Apportionment of members. SEC. 2. The number of members who compose the Senate and House of Representatives shall be prescribed by law, but the representation in the Senate shall never exceed one member for every 5,000 inhabitants, and in the House of Representatives one member for every 2,000 inhabitants. The representation in both houses shall be apportioned equally throughout the different sections of the State, in proportion to the population thereof, exclusive of Indians not taxable under the provisions of law.

Eligibility of members—quorum. SEC. 3. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and eligibility of its own members; a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to transact business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as it may provide.

Rules of government. SEC. 4. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, sit upon its own adjournment, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member; but no member shall be expelled the second time for the same offense.

Officers—journal of proceedings. SEC. 5. The House of Representatives shall elect its presiding officer and the Senate and House of Representatives shall elect such other officers as may be provided by law; they shall keep journals of their proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, and the yeas and nays, when taken on any question, shall be entered on such journals.

Length of adjournments. SEC. 6. Neither house shall, during a session of the legislature, adjourn for more than three days (Sundays excepted), nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be assembled, without the consent of the other house.

Compensation. SEC. 7. The compensation of senators and representatives shall be three dollars per diem during the first session, but may afterwards be prescribed by law. But no increase of compensation shall be prescribed which shall take effect during the period for which the members of the existing House of Representatives may have been elected.

Privileged from arrest. SEC. 8. The members of each house shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of their respective houses, and in going to or returning from the same. For any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Restriction as to holding office. SEC. 9. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he is elected, hold any office under the authority of the United States or the State of Minnesota, except that of postmaster, and no senator or representative shall hold an office under the state which has been created or the emoluments of which have been increased during the session of the legislature of which he was a member, until one year after the expiration of his term of office in the legislature.

Bills of revenue to originate in House. SEC. 10. All bills for raising a revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose and concur with the amendments as on other bills.

Approval of bills by Governor—action on non-approval. SEC. 11. Every bill which shall have passed the Senate and House of Representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the State. If he approves, he shall sign and deposit it in the office of secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment within that time, prevents its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law.

Governor may cut out items of appropriation bills and otherwise approve. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

Money appropriations, how made. SEC. 12. No money shall be appropriated except by bill. Every order, resolution or vote requiring the concurrence of the two houses (except such as relate to the business or adjournment of the same) shall be presented to the governor for his signature, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being returned by him with his objections, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the members of the two houses, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in case of a bill.

Majority vote of all members-elect to pass a law. SEC. 13. The style of all laws of this State shall be: "Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota." No law shall be passed unless voted for by a majority of all the members elected to each branch of the legislature, and the vote entered upon the journal of each house.

Impeachment powers. SEC. 14. The House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment, through a concurrence of a majority of all the members elected to seats therein. All impeachments shall be tried by the Senate; and when sitting for that purpose the senators shall be upon oath or affirmation to do justice according to law and evidence. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Exclusion from civil rights. SEC. 15. The legislature shall have full power to exclude from the privilege of electing or being elected any person convicted of bribery, perjury, or any other infamous crime.

Protest and dissent of members. SEC. 16. Two or more members of either house shall have liberty to dissent and protest against any act or resolution which they may think injurious to the public or to any individual, and have the reason of their dissent entered on the journal.

Vacancies in legislature. SEC. 17. The governor shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies as may occur in either house of the legislature. The legislature shall prescribe by law the manner in which evidence in cases of contested seats in either house shall be taken.

Punish for disorderly conduct. SEC. 18. Each house may punish by imprisonment, during its session, any person, not a member, who shall be guilty of any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in their presence, but no such imprisonment shall at any time exceed twenty-four hours.

Open sessions. SEC. 19. Each house shall be open to the public during the sessions thereof, except in such cases as in their opinion may require secrecy.

Reading of bills. SEC. 20. Every bill shall be read on three different days in each separate house, unless, in case of urgency, two-thirds of the house where such bill is depending shall deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and no bill shall be passed by either house until it shall have been previously read twice at length.

Legislature to prescribe general limits of charter—amendment of charter—upon application of 5 per cent of legal voters. Before any city shall incorporate under this act the legislature shall prescribe by law the general limits within which such charter shall be framed. Duplicate certificates shall be made setting forth the charter proposed and its ratification, which shall be signed by the chief magistrate of said city or village and authenticated by its corporate seal. One of said certificates shall be deposited in the office of secretary of state, and the other, after being recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county in which such city or village lies, shall be deposited among the archives of such city or village, and all courts shall take judicial notice thereof. Such charter so deposited may be amended by proposal therefor made by a board of fifteen commissioners aforesaid, published for at least thirty days in three newspapers of general circulation in such city or village, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city or village voting at the next election, and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the Constitution and laws of the State of Minnesota. This amendment is sometimes called the wide open tax amendment. No amendments have been adopted to take the place of the old sections 2, 3 and 4. There is therefore a gap in the numbering from 1 to 5.

Additional Routes.

Whenever, either by reason of the creation of a new county, or by reason of the change of the county seat of any existing county, any city or village not a county seat at the time of the adoption of this amendment is lawfully constituted the county seat of any county, the legislature is authorized to add to the trunk highway system such additional routes connecting such newly constituted county seats with other county seats and other points in the state.

When after at least seventy-five (75) per cent of the total number of the miles of the routes embraced in the trunk highway system hereinbefore specified shall have been constructed and permanently improved, the legislature shall have authority to add new routes to such trunk highway system; provided, however, that no such new routes shall be added until and unless the funds available for the construction, improvement and maintenance of such additional routes shall be sufficient therefor in addition to the construction, improvement and maintenance of the several routes hereinbefore specifically described.

Section 2. There is hereby created a fund which shall be known as the trunk highway sinking fund. Said fund shall consist of the proceeds of any tax imposed on motor vehicles as herein authorized. The moneys in said fund shall be used for the payment of the principal and interest of any bonds which may be issued under the authority of this article; and any moneys in excess of such requirements shall be transferred to a fund which is hereby created and which shall be known as the trunk highway fund. The trunk highway fund shall be used solely for the purposes specified in section 1 of this article, and when duly authorized by legislative enactment to reimburse any county for the money expended by it subsequent to February 1st, 1919, in permanently improving any road hereinbefore specifically described, in accordance with plans and specifications therefore approved by the commissioner of highways.

Section 3. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide, by law, for the taxation of motor vehicles, using the public streets and highways of this state, on a more onerous basis than other personal property; provided, however, that any such tax on motor vehicles shall be in lieu of all other taxes thereon, except wheelage taxes, so-called, which may be imposed by any borough, city or village. Any such law may, in the discretion of the legislature, provide for the exemption from taxation of any motor vehicle owned by a non-resident of the state, and transiently or temporarily using the streets and highways of the state. The proceeds of such tax shall be paid in to said trunk highway sinking fund.

Section 4. The legislature may provide by law for the issue and sale of the bonds of the state in such amount as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of section 1 of this article, provided, however, that the amount of bonds which may be issued in any one calendar year shall not exceed, in the aggregate, ten million dollars, par value, and provided, further, the total amount of such bonds issued and unpaid shall not at any time exceed seventy-five million dollars, par value. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the state and credited to the trunk highway fund. Any bonds so issued and sold shall be for a term not exceeding twenty (20) years. They shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest and shall not bear interest at a greater rate than five per cent per annum. In case the trunk highway sinking fund shall not be adequate to meet the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds authorized by the legislature as hereinbefore provided, the legislature may provide by law for the taxation of all taxable property of the state in an amount sufficient to meet the deficiency, or it may, in its discretion, appropriate to such sinking fund moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Section 5. Any and all provisions of the constitution of the state of Minnesota are hereby repealed, inconsistent with the provisions of this article, so far, but only so far, as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing or permitting the doing of the things hereinbefore authorized.

It shall be the duty of the judges and clerks of election, in addition to the returns required by law for each precinct, to forward to the secretary of the Territory, by mail, immediately after the close of the election, a certified copy of the poll book containing the name of each person who has voted in the precinct and the number of votes polled for and against the adoption of this Constitution.

Canvassing returns. SEC. 21. The returns of said election for and against this Constitution, and for all state officers and members of the House of Representatives of the United States, shall be made, and certificates issued in the manner now prescribed by law for returning votes given for delegates to Congress; and the returns for all district officers, judicial, legislative or otherwise, shall be made to the register of deeds of the senior county in each district, in the manner prescribed by law, except as otherwise provided. The returns for all officers elected at large shall be canvassed by the governor of the Territory, assisted by Joseph R. Brown and Thomas J. Galbraith, at the time designated by law for canvassing the vote for delegates to Congress.

SEC. 22. If, upon canvassing the votes for and against the adoption of this Constitution, it shall appear that there has been polled a greater number of votes against than for it, then no certificate of election shall be issued for any State or district officer provided for in this Constitution, and no State organization shall have validity within the limits of the Territory, until otherwise provided for and until a Constitution for a State government shall have been adopted by the people.

CYPRIPEDIUM.—THE MOCCASIN FLOWER.

STATE FLOWER OF MINNESOTA.

TO VINDI
APPROBATIO

MINNESOTA STATE FLOWER

The state flower is the showy pink and white moccasin flower, the largest blossom pictured in the accompanying illustration, and known as the Cypripedium Spectabile and the earlier name of Cypripedium Reginae.

The state legislature adopted a state flower or floral emblem during February, 1892, on a petition signed by Mrs. A. L. Stebbins of Rochester and other members of the Woman's Auxiliary, Board of World's Fair Managers, urging adoption of the "Wild Lady Slipper or Moccasin Flower," Cypripedium Calceolus, which was followed.

Women of the St. Anthony Study Circle, through Mrs. E. C. Chatfield of Minneapolis, announced later that the calceolus was not found in Minnesota and in February, 1902, the legislature changed the designation to the reginae.

Thus the Cypripedium Reginae became the Minnesota state flower. The name Cypripedium, from the Greek words meaning the shoe of Venus, published for this genus in 1737 by Linnaeus, and its common English and American popular names, as Lady's Slipper, Moccasin Flower and Indian Shoe, refer to the saccate and somewhat shoe-like form of the most conspicuous petal (in this Orchis family called the lip) of the flower. The plants grow preferably in cool and moist woods and in bogs, flowering from May to July. The reginae is one of six species found in Minnesota.

NOTE.—Minnesota has fourteen genera, including forty-one species, of the Orchis family, to which the Cypripediums belong. In total, 1,583 species of flowering plants, and sixty-eight ferns and their allies, making together 1,650 species, were tabulated, as known to grow without cultivation in this state, by Warren Upham in the Catalogue of the Flora of Minnesota, published in the Twelfth Annual Report of the Geological and Natural History Survey for the year 1883 (193 pages, with a map showing the areas of forest and prairie). Within the basin of the Minnesota river, according to the report in 1892 by Prof. Conway MacMillan, the state botanist, 1,174 species and varieties of flowering plants, including all our Cypripediums, are known and have been collected for the Herbarium of the State University. The State Flower is thus chosen from among more than a thousand others which bloom on our prairies, in the northern woods, in their cool bogs, and in our streams and lakes.

ACT OF ADMISSION INTO THE UNION.

An Act for the admission of Minnesota into the Union.
[Passed May 11, 1858.]

WHEREAS, An act of Congress was passed February twenty-sixth, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government preparatory to their admission into the Union on an equal footing with the original states;" and, whereas, the people of said Territory did, on the twenty-ninth day of August, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, by delegates elected for that purpose, form for themselves a constitution and state government, which is republican in form, and was ratified and adopted by the people at an election held on the thirteenth day of October, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, for that purpose; therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the State of Minnesota shall be one, and is hereby declared to be one, of the United States of America, and admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states in all respects whatever.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That said State shall be entitled to two representatives in Congress, until the next apportionment of representatives among the several states.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That from and after the admission of the State of Minnesota, as hereinbefore provided, all the laws of the United States which are not locally inapplicable shall have the same force and effect within that State as in other States of the Union; and the said State is hereby constituted a judicial district of the United States, within which a district court, with like powers and jurisdiction as the district court of the United States for the district of Iowa, shall be established; the judge, attorney and marshal of the United States of the said district of Minnesota shall reside within the same, and shall be entitled to the same compensation as the judge, attorney and marshal of the district of Iowa; and in all cases of appeal or writ of error heretofore prosecuted and now pending in the supreme court of the United States, upon any record from the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, the mandate of execution or order of further proceedings shall be directed by the supreme court of the United States to the district court of the United States for the district of Minnesota, or to the supreme court of the State of Minnesota, as the nature of such appeal or writ of error may require; and each of those courts shall be the successor of the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, as to all such cases, with full power to hear and determine the same, and to ward mesne or final process therein.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and a house of representatives.

SEC. 2. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every 30,000, but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose 3; Massachusetts, 8; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, 1; Connecticut, 5; New York, 6; New Jersey, 4; Pennsylvania, 8; Delaware, 1; Maryland, 6; Virginia, 10; North Carolina, 5; South Carolina, 5; Georgia, 3.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

*SEC. 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided, as equally as may be, into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year. *When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the Senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The vice president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

The senate shall choose their own officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments.

When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

SEC. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meetings shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall, by law, appoint a different day.

SEC. 5. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same; excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SEC. 6. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representatives shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SEC. 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives, but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the president of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and, if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the president of the United States, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representative, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SEC. 8. The Congress shall have power:

To provide and maintain a navy ;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces ;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions ;

To provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the Service of the United States, reserving to the states, respectively, the appointment of the officers and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress ;

To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States ; and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock yards, and other needful buildings ; and

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SEC. 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight ; but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when, in case of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder, or ex post facto law, shall be passed.

No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state. No preference shall be given, by any regulation of commerce or revenue, to the ports of one state over those of another ; nor shall vessels bound to or from one state be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law ; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States, and no person holding any office of profit and trust under them shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign state.

SEC. 10. No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any state on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION 1. The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice president, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the Congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

[The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates; and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be appointed, if such a number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose, by ballot, one of them for president; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said house shall, in like manner, choose the president. But in choosing the president the vote shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the vice president.]*

The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president; and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the president and vice president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed, or a president shall be elected.

The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

SEC. 2. The president shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur, and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the Congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The president shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

*The portion in brackets has been superseded by the 12th amendment.

SEC. 3. He shall, from time to time, give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers. He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION 1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may, from time to time, ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SEC. 2. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more states, between a state and citizens of another state, between citizens of different states, between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state or the citizens thereof and foreign states, citizens or subjects.*

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

SEC. 3. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attained.

*See the 11th amendment.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other state. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SEC. 2. The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states.

A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another state, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

No person held to service or labor in one state under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution, but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the conventions of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

4. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to-wit: "As many as are of the opinion that (as the question may be) say Aye," and after the affirmative voice is expressed. "As many as are of the contrary opinion say No." The president shall declare all votes, but if any member rise to doubt a vote, he shall order a division.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM.

5. The president shall call some member into the chair when the Senate goes into committee of the whole. 12. When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the Senate, he shall rise to his feet, and respectfully address himself to "Mr. President," and shall confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personality. A motion to postpone to a certain day, to commit, to postpone indefinitely, or to amend, being decided, shall not again be allowed on the same day, nor at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

MOTION TO ADJOURN.

On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the ordering of the same, a call of the Senate shall be in order, but after a majority shall have ordered such motion, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

25. On a previous question there shall be no debate. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

RECONSIDERATION.

26. When a motion or question has been once put and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for reconsideration thereof, on the same day on which the vote was taken, or within the next two days of actual session of the Senate thereafter; and such motion shall take precedence of all other questions, except a motion to adjourn. A motion for reconsideration being put and lost, shall not be renewed.

DIVISION OF QUESTION.

27. Any member may call for a division of the question, when the same will admit of it. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed to be indivisible. A motion to strike out being lost shall not preclude an amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

PETITIONS AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS.

A member or committee desiring to introduce a bill shall place the same in the hands of the Speaker before the opening of the session.

All memorials and joint resolutions shall be presented, received and considered in the same manner as bills; shall be bound in the regular House file binder, and take the same course as a bill.

No bill shall be introduced after the sixtieth (60th) legislative day of the session except its reception be authorized by two-thirds (2-3) vote of the House. This vote shall not apply to committee bills or bills introduced by request of the governor under the constitutional provision as provided for in Article 4, Section 1, of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota.

Any standing or special committee of the House may introduce a bill as a committee bill which shall be read the first time, laid over for one day, when it shall be read for the second time and placed upon General Orders.

Every bill and resolution shall be introduced in triplicate and shall have prefixed thereto the name of the member, members or committee introducing it.

4b. Bills—How Drafted.

The title of every bill must give its single subject and briefly state its purpose as far as practicable.

If the bill be for an amendment of a present statute, it shall contain the full text of the chapter or section or sub-division to be amended. Then in the proper place shall be inserted the words and characters constituting the new amending matter which shall be underscored, and when printed put in italics. The words and characters to be eliminated by the amendment shall be stricken out by a line drawn through the eliminated matter, and when the bill is printed such eliminated matter shall be capitalized and inclosed in brackets. The chairman of each committee to which such bill is referred shall see that the bill conforms to this rule before it is favorably reported to the House.

Bills should refer to session laws and statutes as follows:

"Laws 1913" (or other years after 1891).

"General Laws 1891" (or prior year).

"Special Laws 1891" (or prior year).

"General Statutes 1913" (Sec. 9421).

"Revised Laws 1905" (Sec. 5504).

All numbers in the titles should be expressed in figures. All numbers of sections or chapters of laws shall be in figures. In the body of the bill numbers in excess of 10 should be in figures except for a special reason they may be written, but when written they should not be followed by numbers in parentheses.

A copy of this rule shall be furnished the stenographers or others copying bills, and they are specifically enjoined to observe the same.

The author of a bill may attach thereto a memorandum of information headed "memorandum," which shall constitute no part of the bill, and shall not be printed in connection with the bill unless otherwise ordered by a vote of the House.

5. First Reading and Reference of Bills.

All bills, memorials and joint resolutions shall be read at length upon their introduction, unless objected to. If objection is made to the introduction of a bill, the question shall be:

"Shall the bill be rejected?"

A majority vote of the whole House shall be required for rejection. If no objection be made, or if the question to reject be lost, the bill shall after reading be referred by the Speaker to its appropriate standing committee, except when introduced by such committee. Every bill introduced, except when introduced by a committee as above provided, containing an amendment to an existing law of the state, shall first be referred by the Speaker to the appropriate committee of the House appointed with reference to the subject matter contained in the law proposed to be amended.

After a reference of a bill by the Speaker, a majority vote of the whole House shall be required for a re-reference or re-committal thereof by the House.

(b) The attendance of committee members at each meeting.

(c) The name of each person, except members of the House and Senate, appearing before the committee, with the name of the person or persons, association, firm or corporation in whose behalf the appearance is made.

(d) Any member of any committee may demand a roll call on any bill, resolution, or amendment before the committee and upon such demand being made and not otherwise the roll call shall be called on such bill, resolution or amendment, and a record of the vote of each member thereon made and kept; and the name of the member making such demands shall also be recorded.

Such record shall be approved at the next regular meeting of the committee.

Such record shall be filed with the Chief Clerk during the session of the Legislature and at the expiration thereof shall be filed with the Secretary of State; and such records shall be open to the public inspection at all times.

The chairman of a committee reporting the action taken by his committee upon bills submitted to it shall do so upon the form provided for such reports, stating the date of the meeting when such action was taken, and shall authenticate the same by his signature. Any number of bills may be embodied in one report; but at the request of any member the report may be divided by excepting any bill therefrom and if this be done the bill so excepted may be acted upon independently from the report as a whole.

The report of any committee, or any part thereof, may be laid upon the table for a day and printed in the Journal, if so ordered by the House.

In the event of a minority report, the majority and minority reports shall be made separately from the regular committee reports.

All bills, concurrence reports, memorials, orders, resolutions and votes requiring the approval of the governor, shall, after a second reading, be considered in a Committee of the Whole before they shall be finally acted upon by the House. Unless otherwise ordered bills, resolutions authorizing the expenditure of money, and joint memorials to Congress only, shall require a second and third reading.

9. Third Reading of Bills.

No amendment shall be received on the third reading except to fill blanks or amend titles, without the unanimous consent of the House; and all bills and resolutions may, at any time previous to their passage, be committed or re-committed only by majority vote of the whole House. If any amendment be reported upon such commitment or re-commitment by any other than a Committee of the Whole, it shall be read a second time, considered in the Committee of the Whole and the question for a third reading and passage again put.

10. Disposition of Senate Bills.

When a Senate file has been received by the House, with a message announcing that the same has passed the Senate, such bill shall be referred to the appropriate standing committee; provided, however, that when a Senate file is received the provisions of which are stated by a member to be identical with those of a House file, which has already been considered by one of the Committees of the House and is on General Orders or the Calendar, such Senate file shall be referred to the Committee on Engrossment and Enrollment, for comparison, which committee shall report forthwith whether the said Senate file is identical with the House file. And, if reported identical, such Senate file may, by a majority vote, be substituted for the House file (the latter in such case being considered withdrawn) and shall take the place of the House file; provided, however, that the fact that the bills are identical shall be entered on the Journal.

11. Committee of the Whole.

When the House has arrived at the General Orders of the Day, they shall go into a Committee of the Whole upon General Orders. And unless a particular bill is ordered up, the Committee of the Whole shall consider, act upon or pass the General Orders according to order of their reference.

In forming a Committee of the Whole House, the Speaker shall appoint a chairman to preside.

Bills committed to the Committee of the Whole House shall, in the Committee of the Whole thereon, be first read through, unless the Committee shall otherwise order, and then read and debated by sections, leaving the title to be last considered. All amendments shall be in writing, in duplicate, and reported to the House by the chairman.

12. Rules of the House to Apply to Committee of the Whole.

The Rules of the House shall be observed in the Committee of the Whole, so far as may be applicable, except that the yeas and nays shall not be called, the previous question forced, and speaking limited.

A motion that the committee arise shall always be in order and shall be decided without debate.

13. General Order of the Day.

The Speaker shall cause the Chief Clerk to make out a list of all bills, resolutions and reports of committees, and which are not made a Special Order, and to number the same. This list shall be called "General Orders of the Day;" and items listed thereon shall be taken up in the order in which they are numbered, unless otherwise ordered by a majority of the Committee. General Orders, together with all bills included therein required to be printed under the Rules or Orders of the House, shall be printed and placed upon the members' desks at least two days before the same are to be considered in the Committee of the Whole.

Each member of the House shall leave on or under the desk, each time the House adjourns for the day, his file binder for bills. It shall be the duty of the Clerk of the House to have placed in each binder one copy of each bill to be printed under the Rules or Orders of the House at least forty-eight hours before the same shall be considered in the Committee of the Whole, and under the first Order of Business each day, said Clerk shall report to the House what bills he has placed in the binders.

If progress is reported on a bill by the Committee for three days, such bill shall go to the foot of General Orders, unless otherwise ordered by a majority vote.

(d) He shall sign all acts, addresses, joint resolutions, writs, warrants and subpoenas of, or issued by order of the House; and he shall decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal by any member.

The Speaker shall not vote on appeals from his own decisions.

16. Speaker Pro Tempore.

The presiding officer may call a member to the chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment. In the absence of the presiding officer, one of the members shall be selected by a majority vote to preside temporarily, until the return of the regular presiding officer.

17. Duties of Members.

When the House adjourns, the members shall keep their seats until the Speaker announces the adjournment.

Every member, before speaking, shall rise from his seat and respectfully address the Speaker, but shall not proceed to speak further until recognized by the chair. When two or more members rise at once, the Speaker shall designate which shall speak first.

After a motion has been stated by the Speaker, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House, but may be withdrawn by the mover at any time before amendment or decision; but all motions, resolutions or amendments shall be entered in the Journal unless withdrawn the same day.

28. Motion to Adjourn.

A motion to adjourn shall always be in order except during roll call.

When a motion to adjourn is made and seconded it shall be in order for the Speaker, before putting the question, to permit any member to state any fact to the House, relative to the condition of the business of the House which would seem to render it improper to adjourn at that time. Such statement, however, shall not be debatable and shall not, in any case, occupy more than two minutes.

29. Precedence of Motions.

When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but:

1. To adjourn.
2. To lay on the table.
3. For the previous question.
(Which three motions shall be decided without debate.)
4. To commit.
5. To postpone to a day certain.
6. To amend.
7. To postpone indefinitely.

These several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order; but the previous question having been seconded, and the main question ordered, a motion to lay on the table shall not be in order.

30. The Previous Question.

(a) The previous question shall be in this form: "The Gentleman frommoves the previous question. Do ten members second the motion?" If the motion be properly seconded, the question shall be stated as follows: "As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say 'aye'; as many as are opposed will say 'no.'" There shall be a motion for the previous question, which, being ordered by a majority of all members present, shall have the effect to cut off all debate and bring the House to a direct vote upon the immediate question or questions upon which it has been ordered.

The previous question may be asked and ordered upon a single motion, a series of motions, allowable under the rules or an amendment or amendments; or it may be made to embrace all authorized motions or amendments and include the bill to its passage or rejection. b. On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the ordering of the same, a call of the House shall be in order, but after a majority shall have ordered such motion, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

(c) When the previous question is decided in the negative it shall leave the main question under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking a vote on the question or in some other manner.

31. Incidental Questions of Order.

34. Procedure in Excusing Member From Voting.

When a member declines to vote on a call of his name, he shall be required to assign his reasons therefor; and having assigned them, the presiding officer shall submit the question to the House, "Shall the member for the reasons assigned by him, be excused from voting?" which shall be decided without debate. And these proceedings shall be had after the roll call and before the result is announced, and any further proceedings in reference thereto, shall be after such announcement.

35. Order During Session.

36. Order of Putting Question.

All questions, whether in committee or in the House, shall be put in the order in which they are moved, except in the case of privileged questions, and in filling up blanks the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

37. Division of a Question.

If the question in debate contains several points any member may have the said question divided. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed invisible, but a motion to strike out being lost shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

38. Questions of Order.

If any member of the House in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules, the Speaker shall (or any member may) call him to order, in which case he shall immediately sit down unless permitted on motion of another member to explain, and the House, if appealed to, shall decide in either case without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed, but not otherwise; and if the case require it, he shall be liable to censure or such punishment as the House may deem proper.

39. Called to Order for Offensive Words in Debate.

If any member be called to order for offensive words in debate the person calling him to order shall report the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's desk and no member shall be held to answer, or be subject to the censure of the House, for language used in debate if any other member has spoken or other business has intervened after the words spoken and before exception to them shall have been taken.

40. Members May Demand Yeas and Nays.

The yeas and nays shall not be ordered unless demanded by ten members, except upon final passage of bills, joint resolutions, and motions directing the payment of money. In these cases yeas and nays shall be ordered without demand.

41. Notice of Intention to Debate.

Upon any member giving notice of his intention to debate any resolution, the same shall lie over one day without debate or any other action.

42. Call of the House.

Ten members may demand a call of the House and require absent members to be sent for; but a call of the House cannot be made after the voting has commenced, and such call being ordered, the doors shall be closed and no member permitted to leave the chamber until the call is suspended. And, pending the call, no motion shall be in order except it pertains to matters incidental to the call or motion to suspend further proceedings under the same, provided that the call shall not be suspended, until the calling of the roll has been completed. Thereafter the call may be suspended by majority vote of the entire House only when all members are present or at any time by a two-thirds vote of the entire House. After the call of the House has been ordered and proceedings thereunder are suspended, the Sergeant-at-Arms shall not permit any member to leave the chamber unless excused by the Speaker.

43. Suspension of Rules to Hasten a Bill.

Every bill shall be read on the three different days unless in case of urgency, two-thirds of the whole House deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and no bill shall be passed until it shall have been read at length twice, provided that no motion for suspension of the rules to advance a bill for consideration out of its regular order shall be made or entertained unless presented to the Speaker in writing stating the present position of the bill and then only under the order of business "Motions and Resolutions," as such order of business is reached under Rule 3. Unanimous consent must be first obtained by the member making the motion before the Speaker can entertain the motion to suspend the rules at any other time.

44. Proceedings of the Passage of Bills.

No resolution involving the expenditure of money out of the legislative expense fund or otherwise, or joint resolution, shall be declared passed until voted for by a majority of all members elected to the House, to be determined by a roll call. All resolutions involving the expenditure of money out of the legislative expense fund shall be referred to the Rules Committee before being acted upon by the House. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of its being an amendment. No bill or resolution shall at any time be amended by annexing thereto or incorporating therein any other bill or resolution pending before the House.

45. Amendments to Appropriation Bills.

No amendment increasing the amount or amounts carried by any appropriation bill shall be declared passed until voted for by a majority of all members elected to the House.

46. Motion for Reconsideration.

When a question has once been made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof; but no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion upon which the vote was taken shall have gone out of the possession of the House, announcing their decision. Nor shall any motion for reconsideration be in order unless made on the same day upon which the vote was taken, or within the next two days of actual session of the House thereafter.

Such motion shall take precedence over all other questions, except the motion to adjourn; provided that when notice of the intention to move such reconsideration shall be given by such member, the Clerk of the House shall retain the said bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion until after the expiration of the time during which such motion can be made, as hereinbefore provided, unless the same is previously disposed of. A motion for reconsideration having been put and lost shall not be renewed.

47. Authorized Manual of Parliamentary Practice.

The rules of parliamentary practice embraced in Roberts' Rules of Order shall govern the House in all cases where they are applicable and in which they are not inconsistent with the standing rules of the House and joint rules and orders of the Senate and House of Representatives.

If the committee fails to report, within three days, any member may at any time after the expiration of such three days, during the order of "Motions and Resolutions' demand the return forthwith to the House of the bill in question, which shall constitute the demand of the House, and the said bill shall at once be considered to be in possession of the House, subject, however, to such disposition as the House may determine. Provided, that the House can recall any bill from any committee at any time, give the same second reading and advance the same to General Orders by a majority vote of the members present.

PART II.

I.

HISTORY.

MINNESOTA.

Brief Historical Sketch of the North Star State.

The great and prosperous commonwealth now known as the State of Minnesota had earlier formed part of three great sovereignties: France, Spain and Great Britain. At different periods sections of it bore the names of the Northwest Territory, Louisiana, Missouri, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and finally "Minnesota," a name derived from two Sioux words meaning "sky-colored water," which was applied to its principal river.

The economic, political and institutional life of Minnesota can be traced back to the brilliant period of Louis XIV of France, and the French conquest of the territory furnishes one of the most fascinating chapters in American history. Whether this was effected by devoted priests under the direction of various religious orders or by intrepid adventurers encouraged in their undertakings by officials of the French government, makes little difference. The French were the pioneers in the development of the Northwest fur trade and it was the discovery of potential wealth in the large number of fur bearing animals in the territory that offered a promising field for white adventurous spirits from the settlements along the St. Lawrence river.

Thus it was that in the spring of 1655 traders, now indisputably identified as Medard Chouart, Sieur des Groseilliers, and Pierre Esprit Radisson, reached Minnesota, having crossed Wisconsin to the Mississippi river, and after more than a year's sojourn returned to Montreal laden with valuable pelts. They were the first white men to visit Minnesota.

Thereafter the possibilities of great wealth in the vast empire beyond the Great Lakes became known, and the commercial life of Minnesota may well be said to have commenced in the seventeenth century.

In 1679 Daniel Greysolon DuLhut (Duluth), a French officer, explored the region along the shores of Lake Superior and inland to Mille Lacs, where he held a council with the Indians. During the next summer he journeyed to the Mississippi river and there met Father Louis Hennepin, a missionary priest. Father Hennepin was on a voyage of discovery also, the object being to trace the source of the Mississippi. He reached the Falls of St. Anthony, the present site of the City of Minneapolis, in July, 1680.

The spirit of romance and adventure was ever present during this early period of Minnesota's history, in the latter part of the seventeenth century, but the aborigines did not always take kindly to the visitors. It was, therefore, a matter of self preservation that led to the erection by Nicholas Perrot of a fort on the shore of Lake Pepin in 1689, and of a similar means of defense by Pierre LeSueur, French explorer, on the Blue Earth river near its mouth, eleven years later.

When France lost her American dependencies in 1763, all that part of Minnesota east of the Mississippi river came under the control of Great Britain, and the result was that English trading enterprises began to supersede the French companies.

During the early years of this commercial warfare, there arrived in the territory Jonathan Carver, coming from Connecticut, who was the first "Yankee" to venture into the territory. With characteristic foresight, Carver established friendly relations with the Indians, and it is alleged that on May 1, 1767, he received a grant of land from the Sioux, including the present site of the city of St. Paul, but no government recognition of the grant, currently referred to as "Carver's Claim," has ever been obtained.

The battle for supremacy in the fur trade continued to occupy the attention of the French, British, and American companies, until the Northwest Company was organized in 1783, which ten to fifteen years later gained exclusive control of the trading region beyond the Great Lakes. This supremacy it practically maintained until 1808, when the American Fur Company came into existence. This latter company has been credited with being commercially and politically the greatest single force in the development of the territory of which Minnesota forms a part.

The section of this state west of the Mississippi had prior to 1803 been alternately possessed by Spain and France, but following the "Louisiana Purchase" in that year the southern and western area of Minnesota came under the jurisdiction of Missouri territory, and incidentally became a political division of the United States. In 1818 that part east of the Mississippi, which had been at first a section of the Northwest Territory and afterward successively of Indiana and Illinois, was included in Michigan Territory.

Geographers and scientific explorers were also taking an active interest in the territory, for in 1798 David Thompson traversed and mapped the Red Lake region, and the source of the Mississippi, later named Itasca lake, was visited in 1804 by William Morrison.

Two years after the Louisiana Purchase the Federal government sent an expedition here, commanded by Lieut. Zebulon M. Pike, who wintered near what is now Little Falls and visited the Indian trading posts which had been established at Leech and Cass Lakes.

Lieutenant Pike negotiated with the Sioux for the purchase of a tract of land extending from below the confluence of the Mississippi and St. Peter's (Minnesota) rivers, up the Mississippi to include the Falls of St. Anthony, extending nine miles on each side of the river. Another tract nine miles square at the mouth of the St. Croix river was included in the cession. In consideration of these grants the Government paid $2,000, the actual payment being made in the distribution of goods to the Indians by Major Forsyth in 1819; and in that year Fort St. Anthony, six years afterward renamed Fort Snelling, was located at the mouth of the Minnesota river.

Another Government expedition arrived in the territory in 1820, headed by General Lewis Cass, who then was governor of Michigan, which comprised all the territory between the Detroit river on the east and the Mississippi on the west. This expedition, coming by the way of Lake Superior, ascended the Mississippi river to Cass Lake, so named by the historian, Henry Schoolcraft, who accompanied it.

Three years later the country north and west of Fort St. Anthony was traversed by Major Stephen H. Long and a military escort. Italy was represented in this exploration but not officially, for with Major Long was Giacomo C. Beltrami, an Italian political exile. Beltrami left Long's expedition at Pembina and traveled alone, or with Indian companions, past Red Lake and down the Mississippi to the fort.

May 10, 1823, the first steamboat on the upper Mississippi, the little "Virginia," laden with supplies, picked its way slowly up the river to Fort St. Anthony, but almost a decade passed after the advent of soldiers at the fort before settlers began to arrive in any number.

Hon. Henry H. Sibley, afterward the first governor of the State of Minnesota, arrived at St. Peter's (Mendota) in 1834 from Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, as resident partner and manager of the American Fur Company; and the Anglo-Saxon influence, which had first manifested itself in the years following the treaty of Versailles in 1763, when the territory's allegiance was changed from France to England, began to take more definite shape.

The Sioux and Ojibway Indians had, up to the beginning of the nineteenth century, held the territory practically undisturbed, but the commercial spirit entered during this period, the Indians finding material advantage in many transactions with the fur traders. In exchange for peltries, they received guns, ammunition, blankets, calicoes, knives, tobacco and rum. Under this system of barter the traders were undoubtedly able to reap large profits, the Indians obtaining desired articles at the trading posts and being given credit according to their hunting and trapping ability.

The first permanent settlement of the present State of Minnesota followed as a result of treaties negotiated in 1837 with the Indians by Governor Dodge of Wisconsin at Fort Snelling, and by Joel R. Poinsett, a special commissioner, at Washington. By the first of these treaties the Ojibways ceded all their pine lands on the St. Croix and its tributaries, and by the Washington treaty the Dakota Indians ceded their lands east of the Mississippi and all its islands. The United States government thus gained possession of the land between the Mississippi and St. Croix rivers, south of a line drawn through the mouth of the Crow Wing river; and after the ratification of the treaties by Congress, in 1838, these lands were opened for settlement.

In the next few years small settlements were made at St. Paul, Mendota, Marine, and Dakota (Stillwater), at which latter place the "Stillwater Convention" was held August 26, 1848, whereby measures were adopted for separate territorial organization, and that the proposed new territory be named Minnesota. Henry H. Sibley was elected delegate to Congress, with the result that on March 3, 1849, the bill organizing Minnesota as an independent territory was passed. The territorial government was declared fully organized June 1, 1849, by Hon. Alexander Ramsey of St. Paul, who had been appointed governor.

With the creation of the territory of Minnesota, which extended to the Missouri river, a change took place in the industrial and commercial life of the people. The region was still mainly Indian country, and the magnificent opportunities for development brought negotiations with the tribal chiefs for approximately 24,000,000 acres of the finest agricultural land in the world, by the signing of the famous Traverse des Sioux and Mendota treaties. The first of these was signed July 23, 1851, in the presence of a large number of Sioux chiefs at a council presided over by Governor Ramsey, the United States government being represented by Hon. Luke Lea, Indian Commissioner; the second was negotiated at Mendota on the fifth of August. By the Traverse des Sioux treaty the chiefs ceded all the lands claimed by the Sisseton and Wahpeton bands of Sioux, east from the Bois des Sioux river and Lakes Traverse and Big Stone to the Mississippi, excepting a reservation about one hundred and thirty miles long by twenty wide, along the upper part of the Minnesota river and onward to Lake Traverse. The Indians, under the terms of the treaty, were to move within two years to the reservation; to receive from the Government, after removal, $275,000 to enable them to become established in their new domain; and $30,000 was to be expended in breaking land, establishing mills, and providing a manual labor school. They also were to receive an annuity of $68,000 for fifty years, payable $40,000 in cash, $10,000 in goods and provisions, a civilization fund of $12,000, and an education fund of $6,000.

By the Mendota treaty, which was signed by sixty-four chiefs of the Medawakanton and Wahpekuta bands of Sioux, all their lands in the territory of Minnesota and Iowa were ceded. In consideration for this the United States was to reserve for them a tract of an average width of ten miles on each side of the Minnesota river, between the Yellow Medicine river on the west and the Little Rock river on the east; to pay them $220,000, with which to settle debts and aid in their removal to the reservation; $30,000 to be used for the erection of buildings and opening farms; an annual civilization fund of $12,000; an annual education fund of $6,000; to provide $10,000 in goods and provisions annually, and $30,000 in cash. These annuities were to continue for fifty years. The treaties were ratified by Congress in June, 1852.

September 20, 1851, a treaty was effected by Governor Ramsey with the Red Lake and Pembina bands of Ojibways at Pembina, but it was not ratified by the Government. A second treaty with these Ojibway bands, by Governor Ramsey and Ashby C. Morrill, at a crossing of the Red Lake river near the later site of Crookston, on the second of October, 1863, was ratified by the United States Senate, March 1, 1864, and on May 5 President Lincoln by proclamation confirmed it. By this treaty 11,000,000 acres of land within and adjoining the Red river valley, in northwestern Minnesota and the present state of North Dakota, were added to the already large ceded tracts available for white settlement.

The United States census of 1850 showed that the white population of Minnesota numbered 6,077, but immigration increased rapidly after the negotiations and ratification of the Indian treaties, and by 1853 steamboats of the upper Mississippi and the Minnesota river trade carried capacity cargoes and passengers. Villages grew rapidly in the valley of the Minnesota, which was regarded as a veritable Eden, and farms appeared in all directions. A period of unprecedented immigration continued from 1853 to 1857, at which time the population of the territory was 150,037. During these years of prosperity Minnesota attracted the best class of men and women from the eastern states and from Europe. They were hardy frontiersmen indeed, with slender financial resources, a condition typical always of those who have been in the vanguard of settlement. As a class they were, in morality, education, and intelligence, far superior to the pioneers in many of the older territories. Many were farmers who came west in "prairie schooners," with their own stock. Southeastern Minnesota gained more from the incoming population than any other section, but the unusual success which attended the beginning of the lumber industry had its effect on every branch of trade and brought a rapid increase in the wealth of the newcomers.

The adventurous spirit, however, of many of the settlers led them to locate near the extreme limits of the land cessions and in immediate proximity to Indian settlements. Occasionally the younger Indians on hunting expeditions returned to the ceded lands in the southern section near the Iowa border. One band under the leadership of Inkpaduta, composed of about fifteen lodges, were particularly given to marauding. It was this band which caused the first serious trouble for the whites. Early in 1857 a few of these Indians hunting about forty miles south of Spirit Lake, Iowa, killed a dog belonging to a white settler. The owner of the dog assaulted one of the Indians, and then gathering a few neighbors went to the Indian camp and disarmed them. In revenge the Indians went to the white settlement at Spirit Lake, March 7, 1857, massacred the men, and took four women captives, two of whom were later rescued. Other settlements were attacked, including Springfield, on the later site of Jackson, Minnesota, and altogether forty-two settlers were killed. An expedition was dispatched by Hon. Charles E. Flandrau, the Indian agent, but all escaped across the prairies into the wilds of Dakota territory, except the eldest son of Inkpaduta who was killed in an attempt to capture him.

Prosperity of the years prior to 1857 resulted in a demand for an extensive railroad system, and for a state government for the territory; therefore Congress, on February 26, 1857, passed an act authorizing a constitutional convention and also granting lands in aid of public schools. In March of the same year, Congress enacted legislation making large grants of lands to railroad companies. But as the year 1857 advanced, financiers began to feel the effects of uncertain conditions in the East. Stringency in the money market caused business to be dull. Local bankers had little money for business loans, having invested heavily in real estate. The crash came August 27, when a telegram reached St. Paul, announcing the suspension of several eastern banking institutions. Within a week real estate transactions ceased; payments became slower, past due accounts began to accumulate; gold commanded a stiff premium and soon disappeared from general circulation, and money of any kind was scarce. Early in October St. Paul banks suspended specie payments, more banking firms went under, and instead of immigration an exodus from the territory had actually begun. Bankers held meetings and unsuccessfully urged Governor Samuel Medary to call an extra session of the territorial legislature. The Constitutional convention which had assembled at St. Paul July 13, acting on the demands of the people, incorporated into the fundamental laws of the proposed state the constitutional basis for a sounder financial policy, but it was not until after the Civil War that prosperity returned.

The proposed State Constitution also changed the western boundary of Minnesota, which heretofore had extended to the Missouri river. The Red River of the North, the Bois des Sioux river, and Lakes Traverse and Big Stone, with a line extending due south to the Iowa border, were the established western limits. The Constitution also provided for the election of state officers at the time of voting on the adoption of the Constitution. The first state legislature convened December 2, 1857, and continued in session until March 25, 1858, when a recess was taken, pending the admission of Minnesota to statehood by Congress. The act of admission was passed May 11, 1858, and the state's first governor, Henry H. Sibley, assumed office May 24. On June 3, the legislature having again assembled, Governor Sibley delivered his inaugural address and the state's law-making body continued in session until August 12, 1858, working diligently on financial and railroad legislation.

For securing the government land grant, a scheme was devised to aid companies willing to undertake the construction of railroads. This act came to be known as the "Five Million Loan Bill," under which the credit of the state could be loaned to that amount. It was proposed as an amendment to the constitution and was adopted by a large majority. There always was much opposition to the measure, however, and when the State Supreme Court later ruled that the constitutional provision did not require the railroads to give the state a prior lien on their property, the railroad bonds depreciated in value. Eastern financiers refused to buy the bonds, and finally the entire scheme collapsed, with the foreclosure of the mortgages which the state had taken upon railroad franchises and lands. The result was the abandonment of railroad construction temporarily. The total amount of bonds issued was $2,275,000, and by foreclosing the state acquired about 250 miles of graded road, the franchises and the lands, amounting to about five million acres indemnity.

Minnesota struggled desperately, in the period from 1858 to 1863, to overcome the financial disasters of 1857 and to regain the prosperity which, a few years before, had seemed the State's natural heritage. Abundant crops of 1859 and 1860 restocked the granaries, and it was hoped that the difficulties would be overcome. But the presidential campaign served only to develop the disturbing situation throughout the country, followed by the Civil War commencing in April, 1861, in which the young state not only contributed her full quota of men for the preservation of the Union, but also was forced to fight for her own existence through the worst Indian uprising ever witnessed in America.

Governor Alexander Ramsey was at Washington on the twelfth of April, 1861, when Fort Sumter was fired upon, and war, which so long had been a probability, became a reality. He hastened at once to the war department and offered one thousand men from Minnesota, the first tender of troops from any quarter after the attack on the Charleston fortress. On April 15th President Lincoln's war proclamation was published, and on the 16th Ignatius Donnelly, acting governor, issued a call for the first regiment of Minnesota volunteers, which was assembled and organized at Fort Snelling with amazing rapidity. Before Lee surrendered at Appomattox, thus ending the War of the Rebellion, Minnesota had furnished a total of 22,016 troops.

The war, calling so many able-bodied men from the State, left the frontiers almost defenseless. Although the Indians had more or less complaint to make regarding extortions practiced on them by post traders, no serious outbreak occurred during the first year and four months of the Civil War. They were, however, becoming more and more restless and coming off their reservations at increasingly recurring intervals.

A sentiment had grown among the whites that the Indians should adopt modes of civilization, that their splendid agricultural lands should not be left idle. Therefore the head chiefs were induced to go to Washington in 1858, in charge of Hon. Joseph R. Brown, for the purpose of negotiating for the transfer of the whole, or part, of the twenty-mile strip along the upper valley of the Minnesota river, which had been reserved for them by the treaties of 1851. The transfer was made and the ten-mile strip on the north side of the river was relinquished to the Government for an agreed price of $140,000. The Government also provided that every head of a family, or single person over 21, adopting civilization, should receive in fee eighty acres of land. When, however, for some cause, the payments were not made and no money was divided, on account of the relinquishment, the more hostile Indians became rebellious. Internal strife arose and was augmented from time to time by the withdrawal of families who were willing to sever tribal relations and accept the civilization fund provided in the treaties. These were, however, annuity Indians and had a right to be heard in councils. They numbered about six thousand two hundred and received an annual cash payment from the Government of about fifteen dollars each. They were treated as wards of the Government and handled little or no actual cash, agencies having been established, around which gathered storekeepers who sold goods to the Indians in anticipation of the annual payments.

The discontent increased, however, and the hostile feeling against the whites, intensified by injustices which crept in with the dealings at the agency stores, culminated in the great massacre of 1862.

On August 17, four young Indian hunters made a threatening attack upon a family in the township of Acton, twelve miles west of the later site of Litchfield. They drove the family to a neighbor's house, where, after an altercation, they killed three men and two women. They hurriedly returned to their villages on the Sioux reservation, at the south side of the Minnesota river, and reported what had happened. The Indians, after consultation, decided to stand by their fellows, and on the next day there was a general uprising by the entire Sioux bands. Their movements were so swift that before effective resistance could be brought, nearly four hundred men, women and children were massacred within a few days.

The number was even estimated to be about 800 and has been commonly so reported in histories and in former editions of this manual; but recent reliable search of all available records by Marion P. Satterlee to be published in Volume 2 of Dr. Folwell's History of Minnesota gives only 392 killed during the massacre in 1862 and twenty-one murdered by Sioux marauders in the state within the next three years. To these should be added sixty-one soldiers killed in Minnesota during the campaign against the Sioux in 1862 and thirty-one soldiers in Dakota during the expeditions of 1863 and 1864. Five hundred and five white people are thus known to have been killed in the Sioux massacre and war, including ninety-two men in the army service.

State and national authorities took prompt action, and a detachment of volunteers, under command of General Sibley, aided by Union troops, met the savages near Wood Lake, on September 23, overwhelmed them, and three days afterward released 269 women and children, who had been taken captive. The Indians captured were given a trial, and 303 were adjudged guilty of murder and rape and condemned to death by a military court martial. A reprieve by President Lincoln saved all but thirty-eight of the most prominent, who were hanged at Mankato on the 26th of December, 1862. Many of the Indians who escaped capture fled into Dakota, but two expeditions were sent after them, and in 1864 the final chapter of the Sioux outbreak was written, when the Indians surrendered their ponies and arms to the Government.

Settlers, who had lost property through the Indian raids, were compensated to the amount of $1,370,374, following an investigation by a commission appointed by the Government. This money was taken from the trust fund, which had been created for the Indians under the treaties of 1851, and which amounted, at that time, to $2,520,000. With the payments of the claims to settlers by act of congress, further annuities to the Indians were stopped.

Despite the drain of war upon the male population of the State, an increased acreage was sown during this period; and, with the beginning of Scandinavian immigration into Minnesota, the outlook appeared brighter for its future.

At the close of the Civil War, in 1865, with the return of the soldiers, and with no further outbreaks by Indians, a new era of prosperity loomed. New railroad companies had been granted charters on the road-beds taken in the foreclosure proceedings of 1858, and during the next five years the population increased to 439,706. The Government was making large expenditures for war claims, war bounties, payments to discharged soldiers, and the payment of other bills, which made money plentiful. Agriculture was given a great impetus by the steady influx of immigration, most notably from northern European countries, and in 1875 Minnesota's population was 597,407. An effort was made, during this era of prosperity, to meet the obligation of the dishonored railroad bonds; but it was not until 1881, at an extra session of the legislature, that an act was passed authorizing final adjustment on the basis of 50 per cent, payments to be made from the proceeds of 500,000 acres of internal improvement lands.

The million population mark was passed by the State between 1880, when the national census was 780,773, and 1885, when the figures of the state census were 1,117,798. The development of Dakota subsequent to 1885, and the breaking up of virgin soil in that territory, doubled the wheat yield of the Northwest; and the Minnesota farmer turned his attention more to diversified activities, with especial reference to dairying.

In 1890 the United States census gave Minnesota credit for 1,301,826 inhabitants, and in 1895 the state census showed a population of 1,574,619.

In April, 1898, the United States declared war on Spain, and Minnesota, following the example shown in the Civil War, was the first to respond to the call for troops, and furnished four regiments. They were designated the Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth. The first three were mustered into service at St. Paul, May 6-8, after being mobilized April 29. The Fifteenth Regiment was mustered into service July 18. A total of 5,315 officers and men were furnished by this state.

At the beginning of the present century Minnesota's population was 1,751,394; the state enumeration taken in 1905 showed 1,979,912; and the federal census in 1910 was 2,075,708, and in 1920 it was 2,387,125.

During the four years and three months from August, 1914, to November, 1918, the world was in a turmoil, and although President Wilson did not declare war on Germany until April 7, 1917, Minnesota troops had been in active service through a year prior to that date on the Mexican border.

For better enabling this state to do its share in the World War, the legislature of 1917 passed an act creating the Commission of Public Safety, to be composed of seven members, including the Governor and Attorney General, and appropriated $1,000,000 for its use. This commission had almost unlimited powers, and continued in existence for many months after the war ended. One of the first acts of the commission was to create the Minnesota Home Guard, comprising volunteers in practically every city and town in the State, and approximately 20,000 men became members. It also adopted and enforced other orders, notably the closing of saloons in certain sections of the State, and aided the Government in its "work or fight order," as well as by establishing standard minimum prices to be charged for commodities. In addition to these activities, the State co-operated fully with the National Government in bringing to bear every natural resource, including the output of the mines and forests.

DESCRIPTIVE

NAME.

This state derives its name from the river called "Minisota" by the Dakotas, pronounced "Min-nee-sotah" (Mini, water; sotah, whitishly clouded, sky-colored). For correct pronunciation, the convention held at Stillwater in 1848, to secure a territorial organization, instructed their delegates that the name of the Territory be written Minnesota.

GEOGRAPHY.

Minnesota includes the geographic center of North America. The state is bounded on the south by Iowa, on the west by South and North Dakota, on the north by Manitoba and Ontario, and on the east by Wisconsin. It extends from latitude 43 degrees 30 minutes to 49 degrees 23 minutes, and from 89 degrees 29 minutes to 97 degrees 13 minutes west longitude. It is about 406 miles long, and from its most eastern point to the extreme western point about 358 miles wide. In a foot-note on article 2 of the State constitution, the boundaries are fully defined, with explanation of the part projecting twenty-six miles north beyond the forty-ninth parallel, at the west side of the Lake of the Woods.

AREA.

In area Minnesota is the tenth state of the Union. It contains 84,286.53 square miles, or 53,943,379 acres, of which 3,608,012 acres are water. The headwaters of three great river systems are found in its limits, those of streams flowing northward to Hudson bay, eastward to the Atlantic ocean, and southward to the Gulf of Mexico. About a third of this surface, on the south and west, consists of rolling prairie. The district north and west of Lake Superior has rich iron ore ranges. On the northwest border of this state, reaching also west into North Dakota and north into Manitoba, is the very fertile and broad Red river valley, formerly the bed of the Glacial Lake Agassiz, famed for its great harvests of wheat.

RIVERS.

Few states are so well watered as Minnesota. Its navigable rivers are the Mississippi, the Minnesota, the St. Croix, the Rainy river, the St. Louis, the Red River of the North, and the Red Lake river, all of which, near their sources, have valuable water powers. Smaller streams include the Rum river and Snake river, the Cannon, Zumbro and Root rivers, the Vermilion, Crow Wing, Sauk and Elk rivers, the Blue Earth, Le Sueur, Des Moines, Cottonwood and Chipewa rivers.

LAKES.

Minnesota has about ten thousand lakes, the largest of which is Red Lake, with an area of 440 square miles, in the central northern part of the State. On the same northern slope, in St. Louis county, is the beautiful Vermilion lake. Adjoining the northeast part of the State for one hundred and fifty miles, the waters of the great Lake Superior wash its shores. On the southward slope of the State is Itasca lake, the source of the Mississippi, with Bemidji and Cass lakes, Lake Winnebagoishish, Leech Lake, and a multitude of others, all adding volume to the water of the Mississippi, eventually flowing into the Gulf of Mexico. There we have also Mille Lacs, about 200 square miles in area, the source of Rum river. The picturesque Lake Minnetonka, White Bear, Bald Eagle, the Chisago lakes, and very many more, have been much utilized as summer resorts. The northeastern and southwestern sections, likewise, have many lakes to attract the summer visitor.

ELEVATION.

The shore of Lake Superior is the lowest land in the State, 602 feet above sea level. The waters of the northeastern part of the State south of the Mesabi iron range, flow into Lake Superior, and are carried east to the Atlantic ocean. The Mississippi river, having its chief source in Lake Itasca, at 1,462 feet elevation, leaves the State at 620 feet above sea level.

The Red River of the North, beginning near Itasca, at a height of 1,500 feet above the ocean, leaves the State at an elevation of 750 feet. The average altitude of the State is about 1,250 feet. The highest elevations are the tops of the Misquah hills, near the center of Cook county, which rise about 1,630 feet above Lake Superior, or 2,230 feet above the sea.

CLIMATE.

Recorded observations through long series of years show that Minnesota has an annual mean temperature of 44 degrees, and its mean summer temperature is about 70 degrees, like that of middle Illinois, Ohio, and southern Pennsylvania. The high latitude gives longer days in summer than in states farther south, and during the middle part of the growing season there are two and a half hours more of sunshine than in the latitude of Cincinnati. The winters are not severe, and the rainfall during the summer is usually abundant.

Through all the eighty-five years since considerable agricultural settlements were first made within the area of this State, its temperature and rainfall, though showing marked contrasts in different years, have always been so favorable for farming that there has been no instance of failure to secure at least a generally remunerative harvest, while most of the years have yielded very abundantly.

Minnesota, "land of sky-blue waters," with thousands of clear lakes set in virgin pine and other great forests and noted for scenic beauties, is developing rapidly as a recreation state. Every summer brings increases in the numbers of tourists and vacationists from virtually all parts of the country to enjoy Minnesota's play-ground attractions.

Minnesota forests, counted an important asset, stretch over hundreds of thousands of acres and are unbroken save where lakes or hogbacks split the areas. They abound with wild life which with the fish found in the lakes attract thousands of sportsmen.

For the small boy who bobs for perch or sunfish in the shallow lake waters, or for the scientific angler who drops deep for pike or casts for the great muscallonge, bass or other game fish, there is sport galore. The black bass specialist finds good sport in the lakes in the southern and north central sections. Streams and lakes in the northeastern part abound in speckled and lake trout. Pike, crappies, sunfish and other varieties can be pulled out of the waters almost anywhere in Minnesota. Extensive commercial fisheries are located on the larger lakes in the north.

Big game is plentiful in northern districts; duck shooting is good on most lakes and marshes and every season in Minnesota furnishes sport for the man with gun or rod.

Accommodations ranging from modern hotels to mere hunting lodges and fishing camps, and including summer cottages and log cabins, are located less than a day's ride apart. Good roads are equipped with signposts to guide tourists and thousands find motoring in Minnesota a pleasure in the summer and fall months. Maps of roads, canoe routes and other like literature is easily procurable.

The state forest service has been engaged for years in exploiting Minnesota's recreational advantages. It is continuing the work and has been joined by the Minnesota Ten Thousand Lakes Association, St. Paul. Both are ready to assist tourists and vacation parties to make their visits in Minnesota most enjoyable.

Minnesota now has a number of state parks, acquired for their peculiar attractions, and there are also important federal reserves within its borders.

Itasca State Park of 30,000 acres of forest and lake area in the famous Lake Park region, has many kinds of fish, a herd of elk, colonies of beaver and much other wild life; embraces the headwaters of the Mississippi river; is noted for Douglas lodge, built from pine logs and offering ideal conditions for a healthful outing, and was established by the Legislature of 1891 and since has been enlarged by federal grants and acquisitions by the state. C. M. Roberts, superintendent.

Burntside Forest, a 20,000 acre tract of rocky, non-agricultural land containing 43 connected lakes and located 10 miles from Ely, near Burntside Lake, in a region famed for big game and good fishing, was granted to the state by an act of Congress, April 28, 1904, for tree propagation and play-ground purposes.

Pillsbury Forest, located in Cass county and near Gull Lake, comprises 1,000 acres of cut-over, non-agricultural land, donated in 1899 by the estate of the late John S. Pillsbury, and now is being replanted to Norway and white pine by the state forest service.

Interstate Park at the Dalles of the St. Croix, a tract of 150 acres at Taylors Falls, is opposite a 600-acre Wisconsin state park, with which it shares the scenic grandeur of a chasm with cliffs from 75 to 150 feet high through which flows the St. Croix River. It was set aside by the Legislature of 1895. Charles M. Truesdell is superintendent.

Minneopa State Park is a 60-acre tract four miles west of Mankato, with two water falls only a few rods apart over which the creek water drops 60 feet into a gorge surrounded by high hills. The name is the Indian word for "two falls," and to them are attached many Indian legends, the names of great Indian chiefs, pow-wows and the romantic wooing of the Indian maid. Established by the Legislature of 1905. John W. Roberts is superintendent.

Alexander Ramsey State Park, at the junction of Ramsey creek with the Redwood river, is in Redwood Falls and adjoins a city park. With winding streams and magnificent falls, it is one of the prettiest state reservations. It was named after Alexander Ramsey, first governor of the territory and second governor of the state of Minnesota. The park is surrounded by points of interest connected with the Indian outbreak of 1862.

Fort Ridgely State Park, in Nicollet county, near Alexander Ramsey park and on the field of the first engagement of the 1862 Indian uprising. Here are located the stone building which was the agency post and most important structure of frontier days and nearby are the sites of the early trading points, the Indian stone church, Birch Coulee battlefield, Brown's castle and several others marked by monuments.

The Fort Ridgely monument, built of granite and bronze with a legislative appropriation of $3,500, was dedicated Aug. 22, 1896, on the 34th anniversary of the defense of the fort against the Sioux. On the shaft, 12 feet square at the base and 42 feet high, is inscribed an account of the siege and attack with a list of the garrison of soldiers, the armed citizens, and the women who aided in the defense.

In the Fort Ridgely cemetery is a monument 16 feet high, dedicated Aug. 20, 1914, as a memorial to an Ojibway chief of the Mille Lacs band, Mou-zoo-mau-nee, who with other Ojibways persuaded that tribe of Northern Minnesota from joining the Sioux outbreak and massacre in 1862.

Camp Release State Park is located one mile southwest of Montevideo, in Lac qui Parle county. In it is located a granite monument, fifty-one feet high, dedicated July 4, 1894, and commemorating the release September 26, 1862, of 269 prisoners, mostly women and children, from captivity among the Sioux Indians.

Traverse des Sioux State Park is situated near a ford of the Minnesota river, whence Traverse village and township in Nicollet county also were named, and where a treaty with the Dakotas or Sioux was made in 1841 by Governor James D. Doty of Wisconsin, but failed of ratification in the United States Senate. Ten years later, on July 23, 1851, a treaty with the Wahpeton and Sisseton Sioux of the Minnesota Valley was concluded here by Governor Ramsey and Colonel Luke Lea, whereby the Indians ceded to the United States for white settlement, the greater part of their lands in southern Minnesota. This treaty with changes was duly proclaimed February 24, 1853, by President Fillmore. The park contains a commemorative tablet of bronze erected in 1914 by Captain Richard Somers chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, St. Peter. The signing of the treaty is depicted in a painting by Frank D. Millet, displayed in the governor's reception room at the capitol.

Sibley State Park, one of the newer state acquisitions, embraces about 355 acres located north of Lake Andrew, Kandiyohi county, and in the Monongalia game refuge. It is one of the most beautiful and picturesque places in the state. Virgin hardwood forests clothe the rugged moraines, including "Mount Tom," on which a tall flag staff has been erected. The legislature of 1919 appropriated $25,000 for the purchase of the property and placed it under the management of the state game and fish department.

The park was named in honor of the late Governor H. H. Sibley who found much pleasure in hunting and fishing in the district and frequently referred to it in his writings.

Horace Austin State Park is located at Austin and named in honor of the sixth governor of Minnesota. It consists of 50 acres on the Red Cedar river and includes a number of deeply wooded islands. The park marks the historical site where camped Companies B, H, and I, of the First U. S. Dragoons in 1835. The following year it was visited by a party of hunters from Fort Snelling, headed by Major Laurence Taliaferro and Dr. John Emerson, with whom was a slave, Dred Scott, who later became famous through the "Dred Scott" decision. In 1846, H. H. Sibley, Alexander Faribault, W. H. Forbes, John C. Fremont and a party of Sioux Indians camped here and in 1841 Sibley, as agent for the American Fur company, with Sioux Indians camped on the site and spent the winter trapping and hunting. Sibley's diary shows they got 2,000 deer, 50 elk, 50 bears and a few buffalo.

Jay Cooke State Park is in Carlton county. More than 3,200 acres have been secured through gifts and purchase. It is a remarkably beautiful place near Duluth. F. R. Paine is the superintendent.

Toqua Lakes State Park in Graceville has been platted and a landscape architect has prepared a plan for bringing out the natural beauties of the site. The Legislature of 1917 designated the governor, state auditor, secretary of state and R. A. Costello of Graceville a commission to acquire the park property, and voted an appropriation which was vetoed by the governor. The Legislature of 1919 appropriated $5,000 for the same purpose and the project was advanced. Parcels were given by the Keating and Hickey estates, and others acquired, and the boulevard is named "Keating," and a tract is called "Hickey park" in honor of the donors.

Whitewater State Park, established by the Legislature of 1919, is in Elbo township, Winona county. An appropriation of $10,000 for acquisition and expenses was made and the commission was made up of the governor, state auditor and A. C. Gooding of Rochester. The name is a translation of the Dakota or Sioux name, "Mini-ska."

Sleepy Eye State Park was created by the Legislature of 1921 by merely taking over the Sleepy Eye City park property within the city limits, which park property fronts on Lake Sleepy Eye. The park comprises only a few acres, but has been well equipped.

Scenic State Park was authorized by the 1921 Legislature and is located well to the north in Itasca county. In the park is included most of the shore line of two lakes—Sanwick and Coon—and about half of the shore line and park property is on state-owned lands.

Birch Coulee Monument, near Morton, is not a state park in reality, but is the site of two large, impressive monuments to commemorate one of the greatest battles of the Sioux Uprising of 1862, in which hundreds of white settlers in Minnesota lost their lives.

III.

EXECUTIVE AND ADMINISTRATIVE.

THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

OFFICERS IN 1923.

Hon. J. A. O. Preus, Minneapolis—Governor.
Hon. Louis L. Collins, Minneapolis—Lieutenant Governor.
Hon. Mike Holm, Roseau—Secretary of State.
Hon. Ray P. Chase, Anoka—State Auditor.
Hon. Henry Rines, Mora—State Treasurer.
Hon. Clifford L. Hilton, Fergus Falls—Attorney General.

The constitution of the state provides that these officers shall be elected for two years, except the state auditor, whose term of office is for four years. They constitute the executive department.

The Governor. The duties of the governor are prescribed by the constitution and the laws of the state. The office assistants of the governor are a private secretary, executive clerk, two stenographers and executive messenger. Connected with the executive office is the appointment of notaries public.

The Lieutenant Governor is ex-officio president of the senate, and has no other duties to perform, except in a protracted absence of the governor from the state he may be called to act. In case of vacancy in the office he becomes governor during said vacancy.

The Secretary of State is the recording officer of the state and the official custodian of official papers. All the private and public corporations of the state are recorded, and the official bonds of all state and county officers are filed in this office. He is the custodian of all the volumes of laws and journals and all the legislative records of whatever nature as well as the United States government surveys of Minnesota, recently turned over to the state. The whole machinery of state elections and the final canvassing of votes is carried forward in his office. The preparation of the volumes of law for publication is part of his duty, and the care and disposition of all printed executive documents of the state. His office is the place of registration of motor vehicles. For the general purposes of the office, the clerical force is an assistant secretary, a chief clerk, one record clerk, a clerk of government surveys, a document clerk, a general clerk, a motor vehicle license force and other employees.

The State Auditor has charge of two departments of the government, the auditing department and the land department. The auditing department is to keep a record of all public accounts, audit all claims presented, and issue warrants in payment. He has charge of the tax law, makes all the drafts for state taxes, and keeps an account of the same, and is required to make a detailed and exhaustive report of the affairs of his office to the legislature.

The duties of the land department are the care and sale of school, university, agricultural, college and swamp lands; the leasing of mineral lands; and the making out and record of all deeds and conveyances for the disposition of lands, besides keeping a classified account of all money transactions connected with these lands. He has supervision of the state parks.

The Treasurer is the receiving and disbursing officer of the state. His duties are defined by law to keep an accurate account of the receipts and disbursements of the treasury, specifying the names of persons from whom received, to whom paid, on what account the same is received and paid out, and the time of such receipt and payment. For all payments into the state treasury by county treasurers he issues two receipts, one to the treasurer and the other to the county auditor.

The Attorney General is the legal adviser of all the departments of state and counsel for the state or departments in all suits at law; prosecutes all official bonds of delinquent officers; prepares all forms of contracts; receives reports of criminal actions in all the counties of the state from the county attorneys, and makes a biennial report to the legislature. His staff is made up of a deputy attorney general, under a 1917 act, and a number of regular and special assistants.

ADMINISTRATIVE.

The Department of Public Examiner was created in 1878. The public examiner is appointed by the governor for the term of three years. It is required that he shall be a skillful accountant. The duties of this officer, being of a fiduciary character, his bonds were fixed at $25,000. The law gives him almost unlimited power in the examination of the accounts of public officers, state, county, city, village and school district and the prescribing of systems of accounting. He also examines railroad, express, sleeping-car and telephone companies on their earnings returns for taxation purposes. The law providing for the department of public examiner was re-enacted in 1913 with important amendments.

The Insurance Department was organized in 1872. The department has supervision of all classes of insurance companies, doing business in the state. The commissioner is required to examine each domestic company at least once in two years, and he may examine foreign companies whenever in his opinion such examination is necessary. By the provisions of a law passed in 1913 the commissioner is given authority to pass upon securities issued by insurance companies doing business in this state.

Department of Banking. By an act of the 1909 legislature the visitation of state banks, etc., was divorced from the public examiner's office, and a new department under the above caption created. By the act the superintendent of banks, or his deputies, is given authority to visit each of the banking, savings and other moneyed corporations created under the laws of this state, and thoroughly examine into their affairs and ascertain their financial condition at least twice in each year. His term is for three years.

The Dairy and Food Department is charged with the enforcement of the dairy and food laws, also special laws regulating the manufacture and sale of feeds for domestic animals, the sale of commercial fertilizers, the sale of cigarettes and prohibiting fraudulent advertising. Its aim is to prevent fraud and deception in the manufacture of food and drinks and of feeds for domestic animals. The commissioner and inspectors have access to all places where foods are manufactured, stored or kept for sale and is authorized to take all proper educational measures to foster and promote the manufacture and sale of pure food products.

The state oil inspection division in 1919 was placed in the dairy and food department. The act authorized the commissioner, with the approval of the governor, to appoint a chief oil inspector and extended the latter's term of office to four years from two years.

The Fire Marshal Department was established by the Legislature of 1905 to enforce laws relating to fire prevention, storage, sale and use of combustibles and explosives; adequacy of exits in buildings in which people congregate; to investigate fires of a suspicious nature and prosecute arson cases; and to compile statistics on the origins and circumstances of fires and resulting losses of life and property. The law was revised in 1913, the governor being authorized to appoint the fire marshal and first assistant. An effort to consolidate the fire marshal's office with the department of insurance failed in the 1917 session, but was practically effected by the governor. A 1919 revision provides that the fire marshal shall be appointed by the commissioner of insurance.

Hotel Inspection. All hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, lodging houses and places of refreshment in Minnesota are subject to inspection and licensing by the state hotel inspector, under a 1919 revision of the law creating that office. The inspector is appointed by the governor for a two-year term. He is required to inspect places under his regulation at least once a year and may enforce sanitary and other regulations relating to such places. License fees—$3.50 each—are turned into the state treasury and the inspector and his assistants receive salaries.

Apiary Inspection. An inspector of apiaries at a salary of $1,500 a year and such deputies as may be required, to be paid $5 a day, but not more than $500 in all in any one year, are provided for in Chap. 311, Laws 1911. The inspector has charge of the work of the suppression of contagious diseases among bees and is given large powers along that line.

State Library. The state library was originally established by an act of Congress creating the Territory of Minnesota in 1849. It is under the general supervision of the supreme court, and, though the scope of the library is not fixed by law, it has in fact been built up as a law and legislative reference library. It contains a fairly comprehensive collection of books of law, American, English, Canadian and Colonial. It also contains collections of Minnesota public documents and documents of other states and of the United States. It contains approximately 90,000 volumes. The state librarian is appointed by the governor for a term of two years.

The Department of Agriculture was created by the Legislature of 1919. It is in charge of a commissioner, appointed by the governor for a four-year term, and given a deputy and such other assistants as may be required. The duties of this department consist largely of regulatory work in connection with the agencies handling Minnesota farm products, the administration of the co-operate law, and the organization of co-operative marketing associations. It also administers the cold storage law. Agricultural statistics are collected, and it has power to establish grades for certain farm products. In co-operation with the federal bureau of markets it issues market reports and crop estimates, and in general encourages agricultural development in Minnesota. Under a special act it has conducted investigations relative to costs and trade practices in the necessities of life, issuing reports and recommendations relative to its findings. It has charge of weed inspection work.

COMMISSIONS AND BOARDS.

Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission is a state department exercising supervision over the rates and service of steam railroads, city street railways, suburban electric lines, express and telephone companies, also over weights and measures, grain inspection and weighing, commission merchants of grain and agricultural products, warehousemen in cities of the first class (other than grain and cold storage warehousemen), and public stock yards. The board is made up of three elective commissioners and its various departments have several hundred employees.

The first Minnesota legislation for the regulation of railroads was an act approved March 4, 1871, providing for a railroad commissioner to be appointed by the governor at a salary of $3,000 per annum for a two-year term. Governor Austin appointed A. J. Edgerton, who served until March, 1875. The first statute was superseded by an act of March 6, 1874, creating a board of three commissioners, appointive by the governor for two-year terms and vested with broader powers. In 1875 the office was made elective with only one commissioner, but on March 5, 1885, the three-member commission appointive by the governor was restored and continued until 1899. The commission was made elective again in 1900 and in November 1899, Ira B. Mills, Joseph G. Miller and Charles F. Staples were elected to the offices. Eli S. Warner, first secretary, served from 1885 to 1888, inclusive; was succeeded by Tams Bixby, who resigned in September, 1890, and then A. K. Teisburg was appointed. Ten years later, A. C. Clausen was named secretary and he continued to hold the office until his death in 1921, when Thomas Yapp succeeded him.

The authority of the commission has been extended from time to time to cover lines enumerated in the first paragraph.

Grain Inspection. Minnesota has had a system of inspection, weighing and registration of grain since June 1, 1885. The department is in charge of a chief inspector, appointed by the railroad and warehouse commission, employs about 415 deputies, weighers and other assistants and has supervision of county and terminal warehouses. The state is divided into three principal inspection districts—Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth—but inspection or weighing service or both are established at 28 other places within and five places outside of the state. Each main district has a chief deputy inspector with as many assistants and helpers as the work requires.

Boards of Grain Appeals. Two of these boards are maintained, one at Minneapolis and the other at Duluth. Each board consists of three members, appointed by the governor for three-year terms, one being named each year.

The boards are required to meet annually in joint session to establish grades of all grains to be known as "Minnesota Grades." Appeals may be taken to these boards from the decisions of the inspectors as to grades and dockage.

Weights and Measures. This department was created by the legislature of 1911, and placed under the railroad and warehouse commission. The commissioner of weights and measures and a corps of inspectors are employed. Weights and measures conform to the United States standards.

Telephones. The Legislature of 1915 conferred upon the railroad and warehouse commission powers over Minnesota telephone systems similar to those exercised by it over railroad and express companies. The telephone department is under a supervisor with a staff of seven aids. It concerns itself with the rates and service of about 2,000 telephone companies operating in the state. The commission through this department has completed a state-wide investigation and valuation to determine and establish reasonable rates and charges for all classifications of telephone service.

Stock Yards. Public stockyards in Minnesota were placed under the jurisdiction of the railroad and warehouse commission by an act of the Legislature of 1919. Authority was given to regulate rates and charges, require additional facilities and supervise weighing in all public yards and to license live stock commission merchants and control their trade practices. Employees include the chief supervisor, assistants and weighers and inspectors. Federal control in 1922 superseded the state control, but the state weighers were continued.

Commissioner of Highways. The State Highway Commission, as such, was abolished by the 1917 legislature and one commissioner was provided for, to be appointed by the governor and to be known as "Commissioner of Highways" upon whom devolved all powers, rights, duties, privileges and obligations theretofore imposed upon the State Highway Commission. The offices of "Secretary of the Highway Commission" and of "State Engineer" were likewise abolished.

The Minnesota Tax Commission, created in 1907, exercises general supervision over the administration of the assessment and taxation laws of the state, over assessors, town, county and city boards of review and equalization, and all other assessing officers. It is given power to issue instructions and directions to local assessors. All public officers are required to report to it as to the assessment of property and collection of taxes received from licenses and other sources.

Game and Fish Commissioner. The administration of the laws relating to wild animals is made the duty of a state game and fish commissioner, appointed for a term of four years by the governor. Other employees and officers of the department include a superintendent of fisheries, superintendents of the several hatcheries, and a force of wardens. The state game code was revised and re-enacted by the legislature of 1919.

Board of Inspectors of Steam Vessels and Boilers. It is the duty of the inspectors to inspect all steam vessels and steam boilers in use in the state and to grant certificates of license to steam engineers. The board meets once a year in St. Paul to establish regulations for the inspection of vessels and boilers, etc. Masters and pilots are examined and licensed by the inspectors. Inspectors retain 50 per cent of fees and turn the balance into the state treasury.

The Minnesota State Board of Immigration was created by an act of the legislature approved April 22nd, 1907. The act provides that the governor, auditor, and secretary of state shall be ex-officio members, and they are empowered to select two additional members to hold their offices for the term of two years. The duties of the board are to collect, arrange and disseminate statistics and other information in reference to the lands and general and special resources of the State of Minnesota, and the advantages of this state as a place of residence.

Printing Commission. The public printing of the State of Minnesota is under the control of commissioners of printing, comprising the secretary of state, state auditor and state treasurer.

State Forestry Board. The legislature at the 1911 session repealed all laws enacted prior to that time relating to a forest and fire commissioner, and placed an entirely new law on the statute books which makes provisions for a forestry board of nine members. The board elects a secretary and a state forester, and has general charge of the state forest service.

State Board of Timber Commissioners. The governor, treasurer, auditor, state forester and attorney general constitute this board. The governor is chairman of the board and the auditor secretary. Its duties are the care, conservation and sale of state timber.

Commissioner of Drainage and Waters. The legislature of 1919 abolished the state drainage commission, as such, and created the office of commissioner of drainage and waters, to be appointed by the governor. Upon the commissioner devolves all powers, rights and duties previously exercised by the commission, and other duties prescribed by the act creating the department.

The State Board of Investment consists of the governor, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney general, and president of the board of regents of the state university. This board controls the investment of the trust funds in the state treasury, and no purchase or disposition of securities can be made without its favorable action. The 1917 legislature provided for a permanent secretary.

State Board of Audit. The governor, secretary of state and attorney general constitute this board. It is required to audit the accounts of the state treasurer at least four times a year. A report of the examination is made to the legislature the third day of the session.

State Board of Deposit. The state treasurer, secretary of state, state auditor, attorney general and public examiner make up this board. The board is required to designate the banks in which state moneys are to be deposited, approve their bonds, and prescribe the maximum amount to be deposited in each.

State Board of Parole. This board was created by the 1911 session, with power to parole prisoners from the state penal institutions, after a certain portion of the time has been served. The same act provides for the indeterminate sentence plan. The board consists of a member of the board of control oldest in the point of service, the warden at the penitentiary, and a third to be appointed by the governor.

The Board of Pardons was created by Chapter 23 of the General Laws of 1897, and consists of the governor, chief justice of the supreme court and the attorney general. It has power to grant pardons and to commute the sentence of any person convicted of any offense against the laws of this state. The board meets quarterly, in January, April, July and October.

State Board of Law Examiners. This board consists of not less than five nor more than seven attorneys at law, appointed for a term of three years by the justices of the supreme court. Its officers are a president, secretary and treasurer. It is required to hold public examinations of persons desirous of being admitted to the bar and report to the supreme court at least three times a year. Certificates authorizing the holder to practice law are issued by the board upon an order by the court.

Board of Visitors. This board was created by the 1907 legislature. Meetings are held quarterly or oftener if required. The members are required to study the care and management of charitable and correctional institutions and visit those within the bounds of the state. The governor may order the board to investigate any penal or charitable institution. The report of any such investigation is to be made to the governor and transmitted to the legislature.

Board of Women Visitors for the Minnesota Home School for Girls. This is an advisory board appointed by the governor, and consists of five women. Return of 151st Field Artillery in Minneapolis, May 8, 1919, after World War Service.

THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT.

Commander-in-Chief,

His Excellency, J. A. O. Preus, Governor

Executive Officer of Department.

Walter F. Rhinow, Adjutant General.

The Minnesota National Guard is the official designation of the active military forces of the state.

At the outbreak of the war in April, 1917, Minnesota had three regiments of infantry, one of field artillery, and a naval militia,—the latter consisting of approximately six hundred officers and men. The Minnesota Naval Militia was the first to be called for Federal service, being mustered in on April 7, 1917; the other four regiments were summoned for Federal duty during August and September of 1917. A total of over 135,000 men was furnished the army, navy and marine corps by Minnesota during the World War; approximately 76,000 of this number having been secured by selective service.

Federal authorization was extended by the War Department for the organization of additional regiments of National Guard to replace those federalized in 1917. The 4th, 5th and 6th Regiments of Infantry were then organized. The 4th Regiment Infantry was later converted into an artillery regiment and now exists as the First Regiment Minnesota Field Artillery.

The National Guard of the state of Minnesota now comprises the following:

First Regiment Minnesota Field Artillery.

First Regiment Minnesota Infantry.

Fifth Regiment Minnesota Infantry.

Sixth Regiment Minnesota Infantry.

Minnesota Tank Corps (Co. M).

One Hundred and Ninth Observation Squadron. (Air.)

The latter unit was organized in 1921 and supplied with flying equipment as used by similar units in the United States Army, and will be an extraordinarily valuable addition to the Minnesota military forces for forest fire observation.

The military of Minnesota has been called upon to render unusual service during the natural catastrophes by which the state has been afflicted; it has preserved life and property during forest fires, cyclones and tornadoes; brought relief to stricken districts, and has answered with expeditious zeal every call of its state.

In the falls of 1921 and 1922 the National Guard units co-operated with the Forestry Department and fought forest fires.

THE JUDICIARY DEPARTMENTS.

THE SUPREME COURT.

The constitution provides that the judicial power shall be vested in a supreme court, district courts, courts of probate, justices of the peace, and such other courts, inferior to the supreme court, as the legislature may from time to time establish. This latter prerogative the legislature has exercised in the establishment of municipal and conciliation courts in the larger cities of the state.

The supreme court consists of one chief justice and four associate justices, elected by the people, and holding office for six years, and until successors are elected and qualified. The 1913 session of the legislature created two positions of commissioners of the court, these commissioners to be attorneys, and to perform such duties as the court should assign to them. Appointments to be made by the supreme court.

One term of court is held in each year, commencing on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January at the capitol in St. Paul. On the filing of the record of the court appealed from and of the appellant's brief, the case is set for argument or submission on briefs as the case may be and notice of the date thereof given the parties. This court has original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity.

The clerk of the supreme court is an elective officer, the term of office being four years.

The reporter of the supreme court is an officer appointed by the supreme court to prepare the adjudicated cases for publication in official volumes, entitled, "Minnesota Reports."

Originally the reporter owned the exclusive copyright, and the reports were printed and bound at his expense, the state buying of him 200 copies of each volume at six dollars a volume. In 1881, an act was passed providing that the reporter should have no pecuniary interest in the reports, but that they should be published by contract and this is now the law. The copyright of the volumes already published vests in the secretary of state for the benefit of the people of the state, but the publisher is permitted to continue the publication and sale of such volumes so long as he complies with the requirements of law as to character and price of volumes.

The secretary of state is charged with the distribution of the volumes, one copy to each of the several departments of state, to each judge of the supreme court, and of the several district, probate and municipal courts, and to the clerks of each district court, while the University of Minnesota receives 100 copies for the law department, and the state library receives a sufficient number for exchanges with other states and for the use of the library. The remaining copies stay in the custody of the secretary of state for further distribution by law.

THE LOWER COURTS.

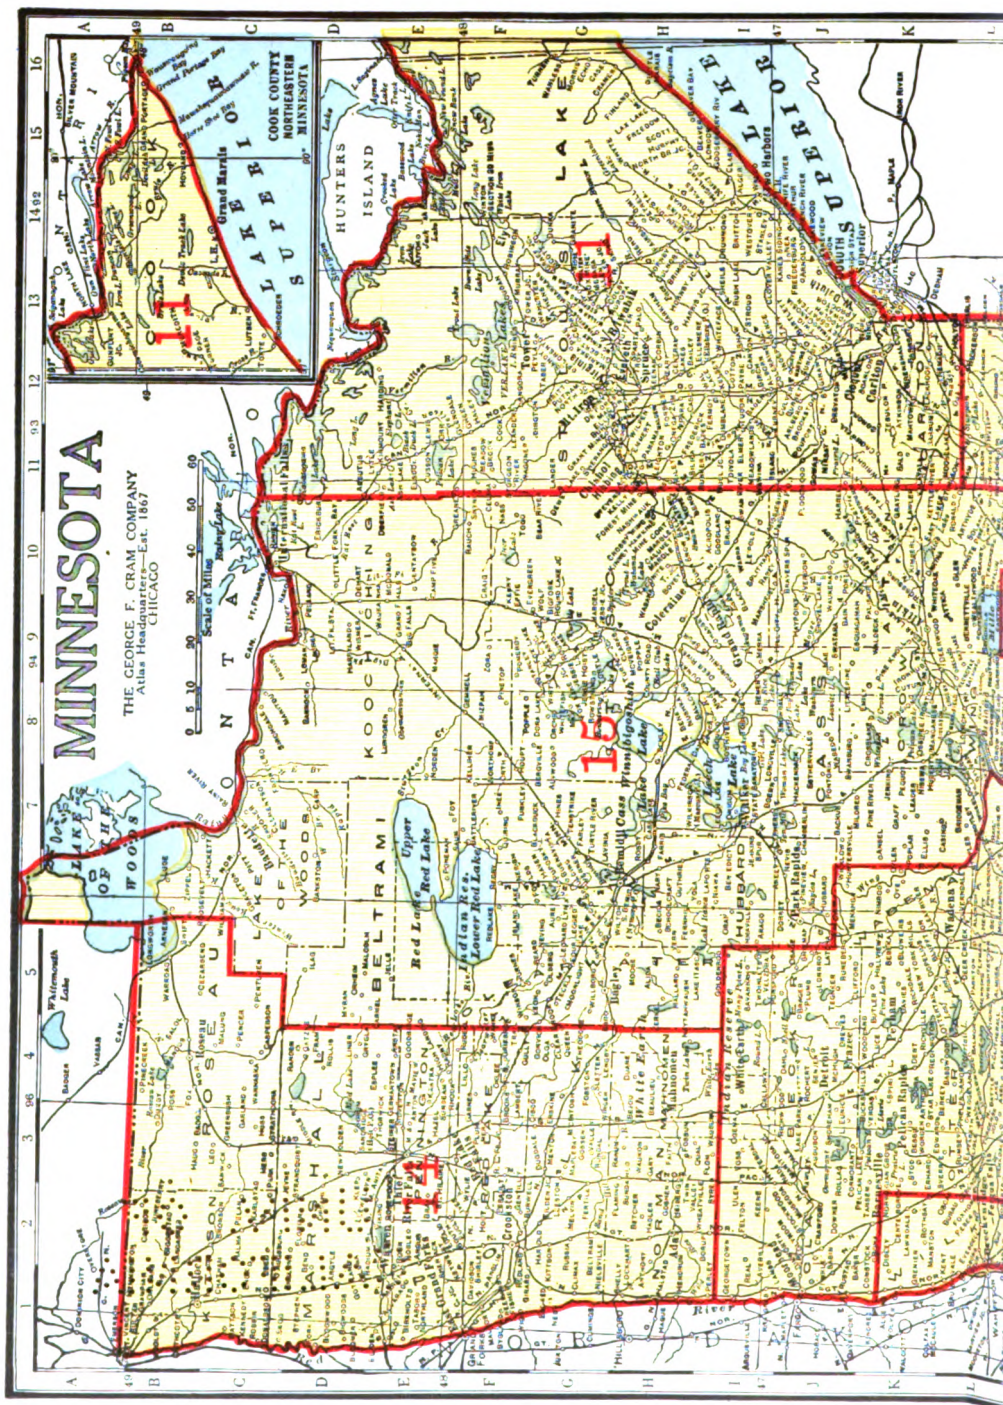

The district courts are created by the legislature, the state being divided into nineteen judicial districts with one or more judges in a district, as the exigencies of business may require, and the judges are elected for six years. The district courts have original jurisdiction in all civil cases, both in law and equity; also, in criminal cases where indictments or presentments are made by grand juries, or informations filed by the county attorney.

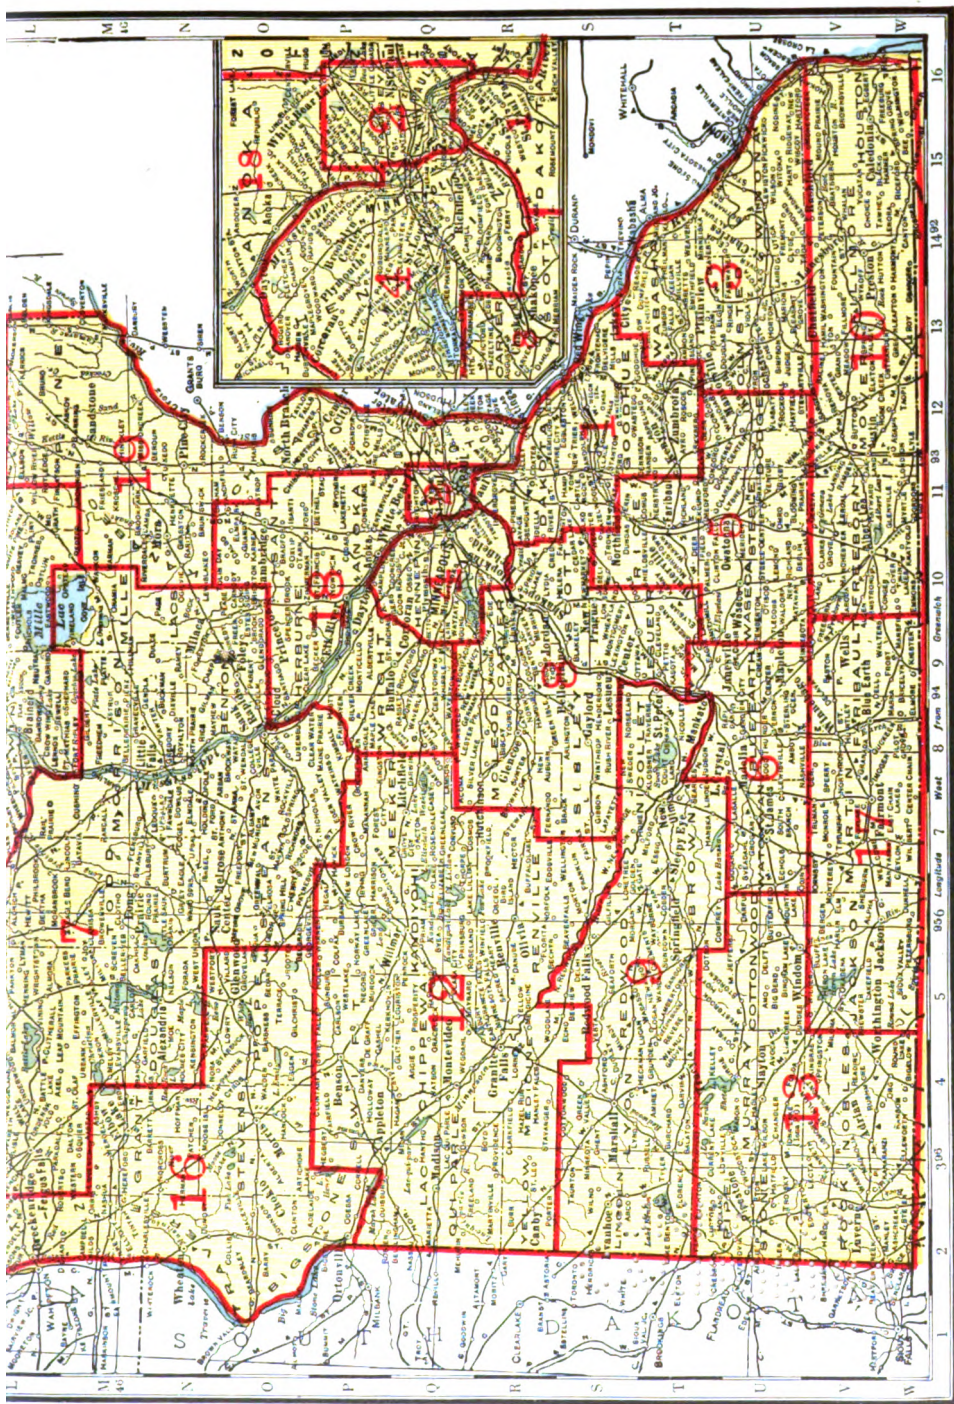

The municipal courts generally have the power of disposing of all criminal cases for infraction of city laws, and for hearing and committing for trial on arrests for violation of state laws. Chap. 146, G. L. 1891, "An act relating to villages of over 3,000 inhabitants, and providing for municipal courts therein." By the provisions of this act a municipal court has jurisdiction in civil actions where amount does not exceed $500; also, in all cases where a justice court has jurisdiction, and over certain criminal actions. Its jurisdiction is co-extensive with the limits of the county where located.

The probate courts are created by authority of the constitution, one for each county, and the judges to be elected by the people, for four years.* The probate court has jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons and persons under guardianship, and the examination and commitment of insane persons to the asylums. The salaries of probate judges are fixed by law.

*Amended by constitutional amendment in 1920.

STATE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Minnesota maintains a complete public school system from the kindergarten to the technical colleges of the university. The courses offered in the public schools are so varied that the youth of the state may receive the training necessary for economic production and effective citizenship. The system is so organized that students may progress from one school to another without loss of time and effort.

The State Department of Education has general charge of education in the rural, graded and high schools of the state. The department is organized and maintained under the direction of the state board of education composed of five representative citizens. The work of the department is directed by a commissioner of education, appointed by the board. The department of education is charged with the following responsibilities: Certification of teachers for all classes of schools; distribution of state funds under conditions prescribed by statute; supervision of schools, and promotion of sound policies of public education.

School activities authorized and encouraged with appropriations by the Legislature include:

1. State high schools maintaining a well-balanced four-year course.
2. Graded schools with four or more departments offering instruction in the eight grades.
3. High school departments for schools giving high school instruction but not meeting the requirements of a state high school.
4. Rural schools to encourage proper equipment and high standards of teaching in country districts.
5. Industrial departments of agriculture, home training, manual training and commercial training.
6. Vocational training to fit young men and young women to enter the industries.
7. Consolidation to encourage central schools in rural districts and to provide transportation for pupils and to promote the teaching of practical courses.
8. Libraries by assisting school districts in the selection and purchase of books.
9. Teacher training departments maintained in high schools of the state to prepare teachers for rural schools.
10. Placement of teachers through a teachers' employment bureau maintained in connection with the state department and at the service of local school officers and qualified teachers of any state.
11. Rehabilitation and placement of persons injured in industries.
12. Special classes for defectives, designed to furnish in the local communities training to those handicapped.

MS

13. Tuition paid by the state to districts for furnishing high school instruction to non-resident pupils.

14. Approval of plans for all school buildings by the department of education to insure proper sanitary and hygienic conditions in the schools.

15. Institutes to train and interest teachers in the service.

16. Supplemental aid for districts burdened with a high tax for schools.

Local school districts in Minnesota receive federal, state and local support.

Federal support consists of appropriations under the Smith-Hughes act for vocational and trade instruction, and appropriations for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry.

Federal support is given under the Smith-Hughes act for vocational and trade instruction and in additional appropriations for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry.

State support is from the income on the permanent school fund and one-half the income from the state swamp land fund, from revenue derived from a one-mill state tax, and from biennial appropriations by the legislature. The appropriated funds are distributed in the form of special state aid to schools and departments. Income from trust funds and the state tax, is distributed to the districts according to the number of pupils enrolled in the public schools and attending forty or more days in the year.

Local support consists of a local tax upon the property of the district, including a one-mill tax required by law to be levied in each district.

State Teachers' Colleges are six in number, established by law to train teachers for the public schools. These schools are controlled by a teachers' College board of nine members. The commissioner of education is ex-officio a member of this board. Other members are appointed by the governor for four-year terms. Each teachers' college is in the immediate charge of a president. The teachers' schools are maintained by direct appropriations made by the legislature. The teachers' colleges:

Location	Authorized	Opened
Winona	1858	1860
Mankato		1866
St. Cloud	1866	1869
Moorhead	1885	1888
Duluth	1895	1902
Bemidji	1913	1919

Each teachers' college maintains a model or training school for elementary pupils to give college students an opportunity for observation and practice teaching under the most favorable conditions. The professional courses are: Advanced course of two years, open to high school graduates; special three-year course with like entrance requirements, and a five-year course open to graduates of the eighth grade.

The University of Minnesota is the most widely known and most broadly serviceable institution maintained by the State of Minnesota.

Offering, as it does, the benefits of higher education and the consequent possibilities of advancement, to every boy and girl born in Minnesota who has the perseverance to complete a high school course or its equivalent, it holds out one of the great hopes for the future Minnesota, both to the young, who look forward to attendance there, and to the parents, who long to see further ambitions of their own fulfilled by the accomplishments of their children.

*Appointed U. S. Supreme Court, December of 1922.

Although its enrollment at the end of October, 1922, made the University of Minnesota one of the largest institutions of higher education in the entire world, and although its recognized high rank in scholarship and accomplishment has long made it one of the best known universities, education at Minnesota can be obtained at a cost much below that required by conditions at the great endowed institutions of the East. Government statistics show also that the cost of living in Minneapolis and St. Paul is consistently lower than it is in most of the other cities or towns where state universities, west or east, are established. Tuition charges at the University of Minnesota are well below those of endowed universities and colleges.

Official figures compiled by the registrar show that on October 28, 1922, a total of 13,180 men and women were studying in courses directed by the University of Minnesota. Of these 8,586 were students in the twelve schools and colleges that comprise the university proper. In the four schools of secondary grade, supported and supervised by the University, namely, the University High School, Central School of Agriculture, Northwest School of Agriculture, and West Central School of Agriculture, were another 1,075 students. Evening extension classes made up 2,621 of the total, members of classes taught by correspondence added 956, and at that particular time 9 students were attending one of the many short extension courses that are offered from time to time during each year.

Between October 29, 1921, and October 28, 1922, the increase in attendance at the twelve schools and colleges, which are the heart of the University, was from 7,838 to 8,586, or approximately 10 per cent. The increase in the preceding year, also, had been 10 per cent.

Briefly described, the twelve colleges which make up the University of Minnesota, are as follows:

College of Science, Literature, and the Arts (Academic College): This is the college in which students not specializing in a professional school study to obtain a liberal education in the broad cultural sense. Here also they take the preliminary work fitting them for admission to one of the professional or semi-professional colleges. (Four-year course.)

College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics: This college is to all intents and purposes described by its title. Men and women whose life work is to be agriculture, the allied profession of forestry, or the capable conduct of the home are here given the best possible opportunities to acquire expert knowledge based on the experience and research of generations. (Four-year course.)

Law School: A professional school to fit students for admission to the Minnesota bar and for the expert and ethical practice of law. Two years of work in the Academic College are required for admission. (Three-year course.)

Medical School: A professional school for training physicians and surgeons for service to the people of Minnesota. Three years of work in the Academic College are required for admission. (Four-year course.)

College of Dentistry: A professional school for training dentists and dental hygienists. One year of work in the Academic College is required for admission. (Four-year course.)

School of Mines: A four-year course of training in preparation for the profession of mining engineer.

School of Chemistry: A collegiate division of the University specializing in the science of chemistry.

College of Pharmacy: Devoted to the instruction of men and women who desire to become registered pharmacists under the laws of the State of Minnesota.

College of Education: A college specializing in the preparation of men and women to serve as teachers in Minnesota high schools, or as supervisors, principals or superintendents of Minnesota public schools.

School of Business: A collegiate division of the University in which are offered the courses in economics and allied subjects, together with specialized training that particularly fits the student to enter the business field.

Graduate School: The unit of the University of Minnesota in which students who have been granted the bachelor's degree at the completion of a four-year course can continue their studies along some specialized line, leading to the master of arts degree or to that of doctor of philosophy.

College of Engineering and Architecture: A college devoted to the technical education of those who desire to make a profession of engineering in any of several branches or of architecture.

Historically, the development of the various colleges has been outlined in the report of the survey commission, which is now available to citizens of Minnesota. This said:

"The University of Minnesota originally consisted of five departments, namely, the college of science, literature, and the arts, the law school, the school of medicine, the department of theory and practice of elementary instruction, and the department of agriculture. Actual instruction in some of these departments or colleges did not begin for many years after legal provision had been made for their establishment.

"The first charter of the University of Minnesota was provided by the territorial assembly of 1851. Changes were made in this from time to time until 1868, when the Legislature passed an amended act which constitutes the charter under which the University now is operating. The law school actually took form in 1888, the school of medicine in 1888, the college of dentistry in 1888, the school of mines in 1891, the college of pharmacy in 1891, the school of chemistry in 1897, the graduate school in 1905, the college of education in 1905, and the school of business in 1919. In the original plan of organization there were but five departments or colleges, now there are twelve.

"How the tiny school of the late sixties has grown to a great, cosmopolitan university cannot be told in a few words. The curriculum, the plant, the library, the faculty, the student body, the educational machinery, the administrative and business machinery, the finance, the experimental and research work, the publications of the University, each represents a large chapter in such a history.

"In the early days, the University consisted largely of an arts college. It provided general education. Training for the professions was secured through some modified form of the apprenticeship system which prevailed in that day, but gradually the knowledge in each of the professional fields was enlarged and the practitioners of the professions themselves began to set up standards for entrance, so that a certain amount of training was required of all recruits. Since then knowledge in the professional fields has grown more vast, more scientific and exact in character, the professional standards have been raised, and more and more training has been required of those desiring to enter the professions. The differentiation of the course of study into many different courses, the elaboration of these courses so as to provide satisfactory training and practice, are two explanations of the increased cost of the University, for professional schools must have laboratories if their work is to be carried on satisfactorily.

"The elaboration and expansion of various study courses and the establishment of professional schools have not taken place because of the whims or caprices of educators. They are the direct result in every case of pressure brought to bear upon the regents for the establishment of new units and the enrichment of the educational opportunities. In many cases the regents responded reluctantly to requests for the establishment of new units because they realized that new units always mean an added expense, but in every case the pressure was so insistent and the need so obvious, that it would have been unwise to have hesitated longer. A university is but the reflection of the people's desires. The fundamental desires of the people sooner or later find expression in the schools, particularly if they represent needs that emphasize justice, insure health, or are likely to increase wealth, improve citizenship, or advance knowledge."

In compliance with an act passed by the Minnesota Legislature on February 13, 1851, creating the University of Minnesota and making over to it the proceeds of all public lands that Congress might grant as an endowment, the institution was established "at or near the Falls of St. Anthony," a location which has long been a part of the City of Minneapolis.

The original site has been expanded until it extends for more than half a mile along the east bank of the Mississippi river. With the "old campus" as fully populated by university buildings as any pretense to beauty will justify, the regents have begun a policy of building on the more recently acquired property running from the center of the first campus, southward towards the Mississippi river across Washington avenue southeast. Here, with completion of the comprehensive building program already approved by the Minnesota Legislature, will be the new "mall" or central avenue of buildings.

An improvement of major importance which soon will be consummated in the removal of the Northern Pacific Railway's tracks from the center of the University campus. Negotiations with the railway company have been completed. Work is now going ahead on the construction of a new roadbed for the Northern Pacific paralleling the Great Northern tracks north of the campus. When this has been finished the tracks will be removed and the old right of way will be left for the University's disposal. Already the splendid new library building is going up on a site immediately adjoining the old right of way, utilizing the property which could not possibly have been devoted to that purpose with a continual steam railroad traffic rushing past.

The University Farm, a tract lying midway between Minneapolis and St. Paul, adjoining the State Fair Grounds, is the site of the College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics. It also is the headquarters for the Department of Agriculture.

Comprised in the Department of Agriculture are the following: The Central Experiment station, College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics, the Central School of Agriculture, and the Agricultural Extension Division, all at the University Farm; the Northwest School of Agriculture, with an experiment station, at Crookston; West Central School of Agriculture and Experiment Station, at Morris; North Central Experiment Station, at Grand Rapids; Northeast Demonstration Farm and Experiment Station, at Duluth; Southeast Demonstration Farm and Experiment Station, at Waseca; Forest Experiment Station at Cloquet, and the Fruit Breeding Farm and Station at Zumbra Heights. Activities at the Central station include the annual Farmers' Week, short courses, and the centralization of many extension services.

Important among the activities of the University of Minnesota is the General Extension Service, a major division of the University, with which has been combined the department for correspondence study. The extension service conducts night classes and maintains offices in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. Persons anywhere in the state who have met the requirements may enroll for the correspondence courses, which now number nearly 200. Credits attained by completing courses under the night extension or the correspondence instructors are equivalent, in most cases to those gained by attendance at regular classes. The extension division is maintained in part from the support funds of the University and in part from fees paid in by students who attend.

The University of Minnesota is governed by a board of 12 regents, among them three ex-officio members, the Governor of Minnesota, the state superintendent of public instruction, and the president of the University. The other nine members, appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the State Senate, hold office for six years.

The Board of Regents has absolute control over all University of Minnesota affairs, save the erection of new buildings and the purchase of fuel. These items are under the supervision of the State Board of Control. The president of the University of Minnesota is the administrative head, and the chief finance officer is the comptroller.

Internal affairs of the University of Minnesota are governed by the University Senate, composed of the president, deans, all professors, including associate and acting professors, the comptroller, certain other administrative officers, and the University librarian. Some others who do not devote full time to university work are members without power to vote. The registrar of the University is clerk of the Senate and custodian of its records.

Contrary to a widespread belief, the University of Minnesota receives but a small fraction of its support from the income from land grants, relatively little from Federal appropriations and less than 1 per cent from trust funds, which are comparable to the huge endowments some institutions enjoy. Of the total income in the past year 1.8 per cent was from land grants; 3.4 per cent from the Federal government, and 12.2 per cent from student fees. Service enterprises, such as cafeterias, dormitories, and the like, yielded 11.4 per cent of the income and are run practically at cost.

Sources of income were the following: 23/100 mill tax, 6.5 per cent; maintenance appropriation, 42.3 per cent; building fund appropriation, 8.2 per cent; special state appropriation, 2.4 per cent; student fees, 12.2 per cent; land grant income, 1.8 per cent; Federal aid, 3.4 per cent; sales, 5 per cent; service enterprises, 11.4 per cent; trust funds, .9 per cent; Mayo foundation, 1.8 per cent; Mayo donation, 4.1 per cent. The outlay was divided as follows: Salaries and wages, 57.4 per cent; supplies and general expense, 25 per cent; capital outlay, including buildings erected, 17.6 per cent. Capital outlay for the construction of buildings was 8.6 per cent of the University of Minnesota's total outlay in the year 1921-1922.

STATE BOARD OF CONTROL.

The Minnesota State Board of Control, created by Chapter 122, General Laws of 1901, succeeded the former State Board of Corrections and Charities, Board of Trustees for the Hospitals and Asylums for the Insane, Board of Directors of the Minnesota Institute for Defectives, Board of Managers of the State Training School for Boys and Girls, Board of Managers of the Minnesota Reformatory, and Board of Managers of the State Prison. In 1917 all powers and duties conferred by law on the Board of Directors of the Minnesota Schools for the Deaf and the Blind and the Board of Managers of the State Public School, were transferred to the Board of Control. The Legislature, in 1921, enlarged the personnel of the Board from three to five members, two of whom are women.

POWERS AND DUTIES

The Board has complete financial and general control over seventeen state institutions, viz: The Hospitals and Asylums for the Insane, School for Feeble-Minded, School for Blind, School for Deaf, State Public School, Training School for Boys, Home School for Girls, Reformatory, Reformatory for Women, Prison, Sanatorium for Consumptives, and Hospital for Crippled Children.

It has charge of the construction of buildings for the institutions under its full control, the University, Agricultural Schools and Stations, Normal Schools, Soldiers' Home, State Fair, and County Tuberculosis Sanatoria.

It purchases all supplies for the institutions under its jurisdiction and for all governmental departments of the state; fuel for the University, Agricultural Schools and Stations, Normal Schools, and Capitols; and equipment for County Tuberculosis Sanatoria.

It has charge of the state insurance fund, the appraisal of losses of state property by fire, and the repairing or rebuilding of the structures destroyed.

It acts as a board of parole and discharge for the State Training School for Boys and the Home School for Girls.

The member oldest in service is ex-officio chairman of the State Board of Parole for the State Reformatories and the State Prison.

It has charge of the manufacture and sale of binder twine and farm machinery at the State Prison; and the operation of a granite quarry, a rock crushing plant, a clothing factory, and a woodworking factory at the State Reformatory.

It collects the charge for maintenance of the insane; has supervision over paroled insane; and is charged with the deportation of non-resident insane.

It determines the legal residence of paupers.

It inspects jails, lockups, poorhouses, and infirmaries; examines all plans for new structures or for repairs; and has advisory supervision over all such institutions.

It appoints county child welfare boards.

It is the duty of the Board to promote the enforcement of all laws for the protection of defective, illegitimate, dependent, neglected, and delinquent children.

It inspects, investigates, and licenses maternity hospitals, infants' homes and agencies for receiving and caring for children or placing them in private homes.

It has powers of legal guardianship over the persons of all children committed by the courts to the care of the Board or to institutions under its management.

It is the duty of the Board to supervise and promote efficiency and uniformity in the administration of mothers' pensions.

It is charged with safeguarding the interests of illegitimate children; establishing their paternity; and securing for them the nearest possible approximation to the care, support, and education that they would be entitled to if born of lawful marriage.

It investigates all petitions for the adoption of children; and visits the children and the homes in which they have been placed.

MINNESOTA'S GOVERNMENT

Minnesota, known as The North Star State, because of the territory north of the Lake of the Woods being the northernmost land in the entire United States, has a government common to the other states

Like the national government, the State Constitution, adopted in 1857, changing the Minnesota territory, organized in 1849, to a real unit of the United States, provides for legislative, judicial and executive branches.

As conditions have changed in the past 65 years, it has been necessary to broaden the powers and branches of government, especially as to commissions to care for the ever-increasing state institutions and for regulating industries which have sprung into existence since the state was created, such as railroads, street car companies, telephone, heating, lighting and power systems. The Constitution, as amended, provides for the present form of government.

The legislative branch of the state government is the Minnesota Legislature, with its forty-third session in 1923. There are 67 legislative districts, each of which has one member in the State Senate and from one to four members per district in the House, making 67 state senators and 131 House members. Senators and representatives are paid $1,000 for each two-year period. The House members are elected every two years, while the state Senators are elected for four years each even year that is not a presidential election year.

The Legislature enacts the statutes, or laws which in no way conflict with the Constitutional provisions. In case it is considered necessary to pass laws not authorized by the Constitution, the Legislature submits an amendment to the Constitution to the people of the state, which must have a majority of all votes cast at that election. An example of this is the Trunk Highway system, known as the Babcock Good Roads' Law, adopted at the election November 2, 1920, and thereby made a part—Article XVI—of the Constitution.

The Legislature also makes appropriations for the support of schools, the University of Minnesota, state institutions, payments of bonuses or gratuities to soldiers, erection of state buildings and for other expenses. The Legislature delegates to the State Auditor power to fix the state tax rate and to levy a tax for state revenue purposes. No revenue tax was levied for 1921 for the first time, and again for 1922. The legislature meets every two years—in January of odd-numbered years.

The executive branch of the state government is headed by the Governor. The other state executives are the lieutenant governor, attorney general, state auditor, secretary of state and state treasurer. Their duties are fixed by the Constitution. An executive officer is not subject to the control or interference of the judiciary in the performance of duties belonging to him as an executive officer. The terms of the governor, secretary of state, treasurer and attorney general are for two years as is that of the lieutenant governor. The lieutenant governor is ex-officio president of the Senate and receives $2,000 per two-year term. In case of a vacancy in the governor's office the lieutenant governor becomes the state's chief executive. Before the close of each Senate session a president pro tempore is elected, who shall be lieutenant governor in case of a vacancy.

The judicial branch of the state government consists of the Minnesota Supreme Court, district courts, probate courts, municipal courts, conciliation courts, justices of the peace and other courts that the Legislature creates, inferior to the Supreme Court.

The Legislature first provided for one chief and two associate justices of the Supreme Court, but permitted an increase to four associate justices. The justices are elected for six years. The work of the court so increased that it was considered necessary to add to the Supreme Court. As the Constitution limited the number to five, two court commissioners were added. Their duties are practically identical and the commissioners write opinions, but do not have a vote. The two commissioners took office April 1, 1913. They receive salaries of the same amount as the associate justices. A clerk of the Supreme Court is elected for a four-year term.

The district courts have original jurisdiction in all civil cases, both law and equity, where the amount in controversy exceeds $100, and in criminal cases where the punishment exceeds three months. Justices of the peace and lower courts have jurisdiction in cases involving smaller amounts or less punishment. The Supreme Court has original jurisdiction in remedial cases as prescribed by law and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there is no trial by jury in the Supreme Court, which is assured all litigants in the district and lower courts. All judges are to be elected except where vacancies occur by resignation or death, in which case the Governor appoints a successor until the next election.

As times have changed, due to new inventions, discoveries and rapid forward strides in population, it has been necessary for the state government to expand and to create new departments and increase the number of officials to care for the work. Among these departments is the Railroad and Warehouse Commission of three members, elective, in charge of railroads, telephones, street railway systems, the stockyards, grain inspection and other affairs.

Practically all of the other commissioners are appointed by the Governor, with many for six-year terms. These include the State Board of Control, which directs the seventeen state institutions for the criminal, the insane and the unfortunates, acts as purchasing agent for the state departments and supervises construction of buildings; the tax commission, which serves as a sort of appellate board to which tax payers may bring complaints for re-assessments and corrections of inequalities and which assists to fix the tax rates for general purposes; the State Securities Commission, which attempts to prevent the sale of any except legitimate stocks and bonds and which passes on applications for bank charters, requiring applicants to prove good character, ability and does not allow a field to be overcrowded.

The Board of Control was composed of three members until 1921, when it was increased to five with two women members. The tax commission has three members and the securities' commission, three.

A new commission of three members was created in 1921, the State Industrial Commission, which investigates into causes of labor troubles, strikes, and acts as a board of arbitration to avoid labor disputes. In this department have been consolidated the former departments of labor, minimum wage for women, arbitration board and similar state agencies. It also deals largely with the administration of workmen's compensation insurance.

Other departments are: the public examiner's, which examines the accounts of all state departments and has power even to check up on the Governor's contingent fund; superintendent of banks, which is to see that all banks are maintained in a solvent condition and which places an examiner in charge of an institution to guard the interests of depositors if the bank fails to maintain the legal reserves and standards required; the department of insurance, which examines and regulates insurance companies and licenses no companies until it is satisfied that the policyholders will derive all the benefits promised; the department of agriculture, which supervises the expenditures of huge sums to assist co-operative groups of farmers to market their products and to advise and co-operate with them to help them raise two blades of grass where one grew before; the department of education, which apportions the millions of state aid distributed annually by the state, fixes the requirements necessary for schools to share in this state aid, establishes standards of education and standards for teachers, and supervises, directs and inspects high, rural, graded and consolidated schools.

The foregoing are the principal commissions. Most of these commissioners receive $4,500 a year, the same as the state executives except the Governor, who receives $7,000 and the attorney general at $6,000. The commissioner of highways, appointed, at $6,000, directs the state highway construction work, expending approximately $5,500,000 raised through the motor vehicle tax annually. Other important state departments are:

Department of weights and measures; state expert printer; state dairy and food department; oil inspection; state librarian; department of immigration; drainage and waters' department; game and fish commission; state board of investment; state hotel inspection; state fire marshal; state board of health and vital statistics; Minnesota forest service; department of public property.

In addition there are many boards, of which the Board of University Regents, in charge of the University of Minnesota, the state teachers' college board, boards of law examiners, medical examiners and board of grain appeals are the most important. These are appointed by the Governor.

The Ten Thousand Lakes of Minnesota Association is an important body which is working to develop the recreational advantages of the state's 10,000 lakes and thousands of acres of forests into the playground of the Northwest. There are other commissions and boards of minor importance, such as the voting machine commission.

The State Agricultural Society, in reality the State Fair Board, has charge of the Minnesota State Fair and for years it has been the greatest in America and has been of vast educational value. The Minnesota Historical Society also is an important state organization.

The county governments of the state are similar to those in other states with boards of county commissioners, auditors, treasurers, registers of deeds, county attorneys, judges of probate, surveyors, coroners, clerks of court, court commissioners and superintendents of schools in each county and some additional commissioners in Ramsey and St. Louis counties. Otherwise there are five commissioners in each county. The pay is not uniform, some of the larger counties paying more than the others.

Minnesota is one of the larger states, being ninth in area, about 350 miles from north to south and 240 miles from east to west, containing 84,286 square miles, including 5,637 square miles of lakes and rivers, 31,800 square miles of prairie and until recent years, more than 50,000 square miles of forest. It is from 602 to 2,200 feet above the sea level and Federal reports show Minnesota's larger cities to be near the head of the list as ideal for health. Minnesota was first explored by white people about 1560 and a trading post established at Red Wing in 1680.

In the matter of financing, Minnesota is probably the most fortunate state in the union, having the largest trust funds of any state in the country except Texas and a reported higher net total than all of the states east of the Mississippi combined.

The various trust funds approximate $45,000,000 in the school, internal improvement, swamp and other land funds. The United States gave outright to the state 8,445,961 acres, of which 2,976,454 acres were for the common schools and 91,524 for the University.

The state government has closely guarded this great heritage and every cent ever received from the sales of land, timber and iron ore royalties is still in these funds. The school fund at the start of the fiscal year 1922 was $32,670,710, and it is estimated that iron ore now under lease will add at least $30,500,000 more. Much state land also remains to be sold to further increase the funds. The university permanent fund is $2,079,217 and ore now leased will almost double it. The swamp land fund of $7,750,000 also will be about doubled, as well as the other trust funds.

There is one ore lease under a lake that will net about $1,500,000 for the state.

During the war as much as 45,990,000 tons of iron ore were shipped from the state in a year or 62 per cent of the nation's total output. Almost a billion tons have been shipped from the state and more than 1,300,000,000 tons remain. One state-owned mine, the Missabe Mountain, near Virginia, covering 160 acres, contains 55,000,000 tons of commercial ore. This mine alone will yield the state school fund $15,000,000. Minnesota has other considerable deposits of minerals, including copper in the extreme northeastern part of the state and there have been several gold rushes, only one—at Rat Root lake, which ever really paid.

While Minnesota is rich as a mineral state, its industries are diversified with agriculture the principal industry, although it has the greatest wheat flour mills in the world at Minneapolis, huge granite quarries, building stone, brick plants, sewer pipe and pottery works and raw materials for lime and cement. The commercial fisheries are no small item, producing millions of pounds of fish from Lake Superior and other lakes. Prof. E. K. Soper, formerly of the University of Minnesota, has estimated that there are more than 6,800,000,000 tons of peat, which might be made to serve the state as fuel.

The timber industry, while it has seen its best days in central and southern Minnesota, is still a large and important industry in the north, with the world's largest white pine mills at Virginia and others at Cloquet, International Falls, Bemidji and other places. The re-forestation program promises to keep Minnesota in the lumber-producing stage for an indefinite period.

Minnesota state taxes are lighter in comparison to the benefits received than most states—though taxes always are a sore point with the property owner, whether his taxes are low or high.

Minnesota taxpayers, taking the year ended 1921 for an example, paid in $11,271,650.08 in taxes, while $29,457,159.62 was returned directly or indirectly to the counties. The 1921 taxes—those collected in 1922—for the first time in the history of the state include no levy for state government purposes, the levy for the revenue fund having been waived by the state auditor.

The state taxes collected directly for the year 1921 total $11,271,650.08, while the indirect taxes totaled $11,473,040.31, made up of railroad gross earnings taxes of $8,617,663.04, telephone earnings' tax of $424,394.06, telegraph companies' taxes of $33,118.69, sleeping car companies' taxes of $244,520.22, express companies' taxes of $134,606.47, freight lines' taxes of $21,107, insurance companies' taxes of $1,066,014.25, inheritance taxes of $901,984.08 and vessel tonnage taxes of $29,632.50.

There are departmental fees and earnings of $28,253,236.55 in addition to the tax receipts, the largest of these being $5,616,113.60 from the motor vehicle taxes. Other earnings which exceed the million-dollar mark are:

earnings of state institutions, $1,358,116.13; university, $2,105,708.18; iron ore royalty, $1,050,890.85; principal paid on state loans, $1,200,266.07; prison twine and machinery plant, $2,521,231.88.

There are several departments which function with no expense to the taxpayers from direct taxation. In these departments the aim of the Legislature is to have the fees cover the costs. In the oil inspection department, for instance, a fee of 5 cents per 50-gallon barrel netted a profit of $70,000, so the oil inspector, under the authority of law, reduced the fee to 3 cents per 50-gallon barrel, effective March 1, 1922.

For the fiscal year 1920 the game and fish department earnings from licenses, fees, fines, etc., totaled $275,319.56, while the expenses were $165,290.93, leaving a profit of more than $110,000. Other earnings of interest, for the year ending December 31, 1921, follow:

Bonus on state loans, $93,737.23; University of Minnesota in tuition fees, etc., $2,105,708.18; state agricultural societies, $293,732.81; interest on daily bank balances, $620,214.64; interest on loan to state prison, $6,816.33; state test mill revolving fund, $17,858.62; mineral contracts, $2,500; timber on state lands, $454,217.81; grass on state lands, $206.70; sand and gravel, $11,516.16; principal paid on land contracts, $214,125.60; interest paid on land contracts, $252,045.59; interest paid on state loans, $1,093,596.63; teachers' insurance and retirement fund, $154,282.14; redemption of trust bonds, $80,000; interest on trust bonds, $218,907.30; Federal aid receipts for trunk highway funds, $80,673.98; miscellaneous, $8,475,045.15.

Departmental and commission fees and earnings for the calendar year 1921 follow:

Insurance commission, $126,583.14; dairy and food commission, $175,518.14; game and fish commission, $397,727.69; State Securities' commission, $55,589.87; State Athletic commission, $17,487.23; Public Library commission, $10,380.60; live stock weighing, $33,455.54; oil inspection, $173,488.17; state fire marshal, $61,622.66; examining financial offices, $6,907.47; re-assessment expenses, $2,352.88; seed potato inspection, $6,201.42; boiler inspection, $18,537.05; hotel inspection, $41,703.45; notarial commissions, $8,282; teachers' employment, $12,751.95; state banks, $68,730.96; secretary of state, $8,061.35; weights and measures, $5,812.21; incorporation fees, $107,705; medical examiners, $7,332.50; chiropractic examiners, $529; law examiners, $2,300; grain and hay inspection, $919,131.82; scaling fees, $31,807.88; supreme court, $5,537.17.

Property is classified for taxation purposes according to what is generally considered the fairest basis. Iron ore is assessed at 50 per cent of true value; city property and platted real estate, 40 per cent of true value; farm lands, unplatted real estate, live stock, merchandise, manufactured goods, tools and implements, $33\frac{1}{3}$ per cent, and household goods at 25 per cent.

The tax receipts for 1922 total $11,339,354.71, distributed as follows:

	Mill rate	Legislative levy
Schools	1.00	$2,084,311.78
University23	479,391.71
University buildings32	672,144.80

Forest fire relief25	525,113.14
	5.42	$11,339,354.71

While the state collected only about $11,000,000 in direct taxes, it returned to the counties $29,457,169.62, distributed as follows: University of Minnesota, $3,547,179; agricultural activities, $511,500; aid to public schools, $4,021,751.80; school apportionment, $3,645,792.61; soldiers' and sailors' tuition, $260,000; soldiers' bonus taxes, $3,667,201.35; forest fire relief, $262,717.44; State Board of Relief, $55,977.27; road and bridge tax, $2,024,067.70; trunk highway, $5,677,242.83; state charitable and penal institutions, $4,047,550, and the balance is returned to counties in the share of inheritance taxes, for state parks and monuments, National Guard armories, state teachers' colleges, aid to fire companies, wolf bounties and drainage assessments.

Taking the average tax dollar of 100 cents paid by the average taxpayer only 7 52/100 cents goes for state government; 21 35/100 cents for county government costs; 28 33/100 cents for city and village governmental costs; 8 71/100 cents for township government costs and 34 9/100—the largest share, for school costs.

That directing the affairs of the business of the state is a real business proposition probably can best be realized when one knows that the receipts and disbursements through the office of the state treasurer for the fiscal year 1921 exceeded $100,000,000.00. While the receipts exceeded the disbursements, they were quite equally divided.

The disbursements include the payments to schools, the University, agricultural development expenditures and many more items that really should be classed investments for the future benefit, rather than expenses.

The State of Minnesota annually expends hundreds of thousands of dollars to help develop new industries and to encourage present industries. The State Agricultural Society, which has charge of the Minnesota State Fair—the largest in the country—is the chief organization to assist in the aid to the state's basic industry. The state also assists to finance the State Horticultural society, the State Dairymen's association, the Bee Keepers, the Live Stock Breeders, the Field Crop breeders and other organizations.

It donates $140,000 annually to assist county fairs to pay premiums and also assists to pay the premiums at county and other poultry shows. It also assists to conduct farmers' institutes and like improvement organizations.

In Minnesota the state auditor is practically custodian of the state's greater resources. He has charge of the auditing and land departments. In the auditing department it is his duty to keep records of all public accounts, audit all claims and issue warrants in payment. He makes drafts for taxes. The duties of the land department are the care and sale of school, university, agricultural, college and swamp lands, the leasing of mineral lands, and the making out and recording of all deeds and conveyances of lands, in addition to keeping a classified account of all money transactions regarding these lands.

In analyzing the state tax payments and the distribution back to the counties by the state further, it is pointed out in the state auditor's report for the fiscal year 1921, that 53 counties pay to the state $11,152,253.22 and 33 counties pay to the state $1,155,807.41, a total of $12,708,060.63, while the same 53 counties receive $5,744,741.75 and the 33 counties receive $2,404,741.90, a total of $8,149,483.65. In this way, the 33 counties receive back from the state about twice as much as they have paid in.

In most cases, the counties rich in natural resources and wealth pay more taxes than they get back. For instance, St. Louis county of iron mining fame, pays $2,578,250.79 in taxes, or more than Ramsey and Hennepin together, while it gets back only $542,143.94. Hennepin county pays $1,569,234.27 and receives $673,722.33 back. Ramsey county pays $980,588.69 and receives $346,186.29.

The counties which received more back than they paid in state taxes in 1921, were Aitkin, Anoka, Becker, Beltrami, Benton, Big Stone, Carlton, Cass, Chisago, Clearwater, Cook, Cottonwood, Dodge, Hubbard, Isanti, Kanebec, Koochiching, Lake, LeSueur, Mahnommen, Marshall, Mille Lacs, Norman, Pennington, Pine, Pope, Red Lake, Roseau, Sherburne, Todd, Traverse, Wadena, Watonwan and Wilkin. All other counties pay more to the state in taxes than they receive directly from the state.

The Legislature of 1921 revised the election laws of Minnesota to restore the convention system of having parties endorse candidates for offices. Under the new election system the steps are as follows:

County delegate elections are held on the second Tuesday of March in each election district in the state to elect delegates to the county conventions. The county committee of each district shall determine the number of delegates and apportion them according to the vote for governor on the candidate of that party at the previous election. The candidate for delegate must file at least fifteen days before the delegate election. The county convention must be held within ten days after the delegate election. The various party county committees will designate the place of such convention. The county convention can adopt a platform or statements of principles and elect the number of delegates to the state convention that it is entitled to.

District conventions—to be called by the State Central committee of the political parties, at a time fixed by the state committees. Delegates to the district conventions are selected by the county conventions based on the previous vote for the candidate of the party for governor in the district. Candidates may be indorsed and the name filed with the proper officials.

State convention—to be called by the State Central committee of the political parties during the last seven days of March, other than a Saturday at a place the committee selects. The delegates to the state convention are to be elected by the county conventions. There are to be three delegates-at-large and the additional delegates as apportioned by the state central committee based on the previous vote for governor. The state convention shall indorse candidates for any office to be voted on by all of the voters of the state—that is, state officials and the United States senator.

The State Central committee is made up of two members from each congressional district selected at the state convention by the delegates from the district. Each candidate indorsed is entitled to select one member and the delegate appointed by the candidate for governor is chairman. Each candidate for Congress also is to select a member. The state convention is called by such State Central committee.

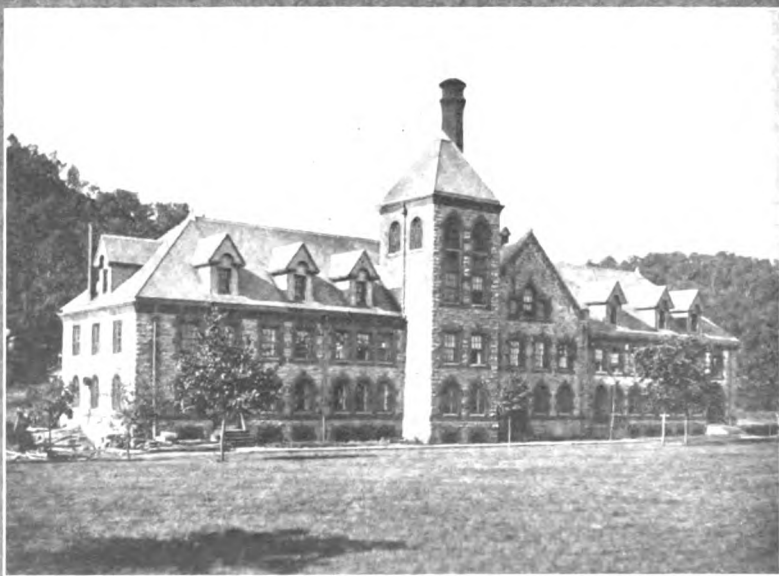

The general elections in the years when there is no presidential election are really the most important to Minnesota. As there are two United States senators for each state and they are elected for six years, there is an election of a United States senator at two of each three general elections.

Ten Minnesota congressmen, the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general, one railroad and warehouse commissioner, one or more Supreme Court justices and all members of the Minnesota House of the Legislature are elected every two years. The state auditor and the clerk of the supreme court, with four-year terms, are elected at every non-presidential general election, as also are the four-year-term members of the State Senate.

The non-presidential year also is the important year in county elections, as county officials are elected for four-year terms for most county officers in Minnesota, including the county offices of auditor, treasurer, register of deeds, sheriff, attorney, surveyor, coroner, court commissioner and superintendent of schools.

Some of the members of the boards of county commissioners and some of the district judges also are elected at each general election, the county commissioners for four-year terms and the district judges for six-year terms.

In order to have the right to vote, a person must be more than 21 years old and must have been a citizen of the United States for at least three months. The adult person must have lived in the state six months and in the county, city or town and precinct for at least thirty days. Persons convicted of treason or a felony and unpardoned, persons under a guardianship and uncivilized Indians are not allowed to vote.

STATE INSTITUTIONS

MANAGEMENT: STATE BOARD OF CONTROL

St. Peter State Hospital—This was the first institution established by the Minnesota Legislature for the treatment of the insane. The act creating it was passed in 1866 and carried an appropriation of $15,000. The site, a fine farm of 210 acres, was presented to the state by the citizens of St. Peter. The present land area is 864 acres, valued at $47,560. The total inventory, including personal property, is $1,613,502.77. The asylum and hospital for the criminal insane is attached to this institution. The present population is 1,436, of whom 614 are women. The official staff numbers 247 members.

Rochester State Hospital—Established in 1874, this institution originally was a hospital for persons addicted to the liquor habit and was maintained by a tax of $10 each on liquor dealers in the state. In 1878 it was converted into a hospital for the insane. The land area is 1,375 acres; total valuation, $1,400,912.40; population, 1,220, and employees number 224.

Fergus Falls State Hospital—In 1885 the Legislature placed in the hands of a commission to select a site for the location of a third hospital for the insane to be located in the northern part of the state. Fergus Falls was decided upon as the location and 636 acres of land was secured as a site. This institution is now the largest in the state devoted to the care and treatment of the insane. It has a land area of 1,076 acres, is valued at $1,518,785.85, and has a population of 1,618. The employees number 245.

Anoka State Asylum—The institution at Anoka is devoted to the care and treatment of insane persons regarded as practically incurable. No commitments are made direct to the asylum, but they are filled by transfers from the three insane hospitals. The asylum was opened March 14, 1900, and now houses 870 patients. The land area is 733 acres; the valuation of the property and land is $1,028,582.65, and 91 persons are employed.

Hastings State Asylum—The Legislature of 1899 authorized the Hastings institution, its location being the result of a strenuous contest between that city and Anoka for one of the many state institutions then contemplated. This institution, like the one at Anoka, is conducted largely on the cottage plan. The asylum is located on 749 acres of land, has a valuation of $1,176,518.08. The population is 978 and the staff numbers 100 persons.

Willmar State Asylum—This institution was opened in 1912, as a hospital for inebriates, and in 1917, as an asylum for the insane. Like the asylums at Anoka and Hastings, it is conducted on the cottage plan. A special ward for the treatment of inebriate cases is maintained. It has a land area of 706 acres, a total valuation of $893,898.40, and a population of 464. The staff is composed of 52 officers and employees.

State School for Feeble-Minded and Colony for Epileptics—This institution, located at Faribault, had its inception in the determination arrived at in 1879 to separate from the patients at the hospital for the insane such children as were feeble-minded or idiotic. The director of the school for the deaf and blind, a nearby institution, was placed in charge, but in 1882 a separation was made and the school has ever since been conducted and maintained as a distinct institution. In addition to the feeble-minded, the idiotic and those afflicted with epilepsy, the school cares for certain cases of incurable physical helplessness. The land area is 1,145 acres, nearly all of which is under cultivation. The inventories of real and movable property are $2,042,626.16. The present population is 1,904 children. The official staff consists of 300 persons.

School for the Deaf—In 1858 the legislature made provisions for the education of the deaf and dumb, but the school, which is located at Faribault, was not opened until 1863, and in 1866 the first appropriation for a building was made. The pupils receive instruction in numerous trades and handicrafts. A large part of the repairing to buildings and furniture is done by the pupils. The proper age for admission is eight years. The regular school period is ten years, to which a special course of three years may be added. The land area is 116 acres and the value of the institution $678,443.87. The enrollment is 260. The official staff numbers 8 officers, 34 teachers, 42 employees and a librarian.

School for the Blind—This institution, also located at Faribault, and which is one of the several state schools for defectives grouped in that city, is situated south of the School for the Deaf. It was established in 1866, and in 1868 it was combined with the School for the Deaf, but in 1874 it was finally separated from that school and placed in the location which it now occupies. The school is open to all blind persons residing in the state of Minnesota who are between the ages of six and twenty-one years. Board, care and instruction are furnished to all pupils without charge. The school has a land area of 50 acres, has a value of $291,768.24, an enrollment of 90, and an official staff of 48.

Minnesota State Prison—The greatest revenue producing public institution in the world is the Minnesota State Prison at Stillwater. It is the state's one penal institution. The new prison is also the last word in prison construction and management.

In 1890 the binding twine industry was established at the prison, and in 1908 the making of farm machinery was begun. Since the establishment of the binder twine industry over $37,000,000 of twine has been manufactured and sold. The machinery department has turned out over $6,000,000 of binders, mowers, rakes and repair parts for the same. The property has a valuation of over $5,000,000.

The lock-step was long since abolished. The checked and striped uniforms have been replaced with a khaki suit in summer and a cadet gray in winter; the grades being designated as follows: first grade, a white chevron on the left arm; second grade, plain suits; third grade by three diagonal black stripes on the left arm. The population is 961 and the official staff consists of 227 persons. The land area is 1,000 acres.

State Reformatory—The correctional institution for male first offenders and felony only is the State Reformatory at St. Cloud. The age limit of commitments ranges from 16 to 30 years. The Reformatory was established in 1889. Among the industries is stone cutting and stone crushing for the Highway Department, there being one of the finest granite quarries in the state located within the walls. There are 55 acres within the walls. Among other industries is that of garment making, woodworking factory, and various other shops. There are 1,600 acres in the farm, including some 60 acres of garden, 400 of which are rented and the value of the buildings and land is $1,416,238.31. The population on November 15, 1922, was 560.

State Reformatory for Women—This institution, created by the Legislature of 1915, located at Shakopee, on a beautiful site overlooking the Minnesota river, was opened February 2, 1920. At the present time, there are three buildings: the administration building called Isabel Higbee Hall and two cottages called, Anna Howard Shaw Cottage and Maria Sanford Cottage. The land area is 167 acres; total valuation, $280,195; population 60 and number of employes 11.

State Training School for Boys—The School is located two miles east of Red Wing on the banks of the Mississippi River and is for the education and training of delinquent boys who may be committed to its guardianship by the courts of the state. The lads are committed up to the age of eighteen years and remain under the guardianship of the institution until they are twenty-one unless they prove themselves worthy of discharge before reaching that age. The State Board of Control is the paroling authority, requiring both a good-conduct and an achievement record on the part of the boys paroled. The boys of the institution are divided into three groups: elementary, under thirteen years of age; pre-vocational, 13 to 15; vocational, 15 to 21. All boys under thirteen attend year-around school one-half day. The pre-vocational group attend school a half day and work a half day and are given experience in the shops one-half day each week. All boys above 15 who do not show exceptional aptitude in the school of letters take vocational training full time. Carpentering, blacksmithing, laundering, tailoring, printing, shoe-making, painting, plumbing and steam-fitting, auto-repairing, cooking, baking and agriculture are in the vocational training course. This course was organized by the Dunwoody Institute of Minneapolis. A school of letters with a principal and six teachers is maintained. There is a farm of 570 acres under cultivation. A dairy herd of fifty cattle supplies milk to the institution. Lands, buildings and equipment have a valuation of $750,000. Seventy-four persons are employed. The population July 1, 1922 was 325—there are now 512 on parole—total under care, 837.

Home School for Girls—This institution was located at Red Wing until its separation from the Boys' Training School was ordered by the legislature in 1907, when a new site of 162 acres was purchased at Sauk Centre. The institution was opened in 1911. The girls are employed in sewing, knitting, cooking, laundering, and general housework. They also have a large garden, some small fruit, and considerable poultry, which, together with their flower gardens and lawns, keep them reasonably busy. The care of cattle and dairy is of vital importance.

The School is conducted on a cottage plan.

The latest addition is a fine school building containing auditorium, class rooms and offices for parole and accountants.

The hospital is one of most modern arrangement. Population, 353; officers, 92; acreage, 372. Total inventory, $603,811.92.

Hospital for Crippled and Deformed Children—It is located on a beautiful tract of land of 23 acres in the suburbs of St. Paul, adjoining 400 acres public park. The first structure was built in 1910 to accommodate about 50 convalescent patients. The present structure provides for 210 patients with accommodation for 20 in the contagious wards. The children eligible for admission are orthopedic cases amenable to treatment, whose parents have been residents of Minnesota for one year previous to date of application and who are unable to provide proper medical and hospital care. Total inventory, including personal property, $313,518.56. Total number of staff and employees, 93. Present population, 108 boys and 110 girls. The land was a gift of certain St. Paul residents and commercial bodies. The surgical and medical staff is made up of 35 specialists, giving their services absolutely free to the care of children eligible for treatment.

State Public School for Dependent Children—Was established by the Legislature in 1885. It was located at Owatonna by a board of five commissioners appointed by the governor. The first buildings were completed and the school opened in December, 1886. Dependent, neglected, and ill-treated children are eligible to admission, and may be committed by the probate courts in counties having less than 30,000 population and by the juvenile division of the district courts in counties having more than 30,000 population. Children may also be transferred to the school from other institutions and associations in Minnesota. The campus, farm lands, orchards, pastures and buildings occupy 325 acres. Ten acres are used as an experimental station for the State School of Agriculture in the growing and testing of fruit trees. The children are divided into family groups, each family occupying a cottage with a matron and an assistant in charge. A graded school is maintained with instruction in agriculture, bench work, music, domestic science, and art. The aim of the institution is to place dependent children in normal relations to society and so they are transferred from the institution to private homes as soon as families suited to their individual needs and capacity and willing to take them are found. Some are returned to relatives whose improved circumstances enable them to provide properly for the children. Total inventory, including personal property, $581,383.82. Present population, 197 boys and 115 girls. Number of children in homes or under supervision, 1,177. Official staff, including teachers and five state agents for placing children in families, 98.

Minnesota State Sanatorium for Consumptives—This institution is located on a wooded tract of 661 acres overlooking Leech Lake, at Ah-Gwah-Ching, three and a half miles from Walker, and is devoted to the care and treatment of persons afflicted with incipient pulmonary tuberculosis. The total value of lands, buildings, and personal property is $523,065.23. It has a population of 260 and a staff of 111 officers and employees. It was opened in 1908. With the completion of an infirmary, now under construction, the capacity will be increased by 51 beds.

MINNESOTA SOLDIERS' HOME.

MANAGEMENT: BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Minnesota Soldiers' Home is located on land at the confluence of Minnehaha creek with the Mississippi river in Minneapolis.

It was established by the Legislature of 1887, acting on recommendations of a committee of the Department Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which made a study of two or more years' duration. Governor A. R. McGill approved the law and a board of seven trustees was appointed to locate and open the home. The site at Minnehaha Falls was chosen after a spirited contest. A temporary structure was erected to care for some twenty men who were the first to be admitted. Since that time, there have been 3,762 applications for admission to the home.

The Legislature of 1905 authorized the board of trustees to admit wives with their husbands, and mothers and widows. The present membership consists of 266 men, 233 of whom served in the Civil War, 30 of Spanish-American war service, and three who served in the Indian war. There are 122 women in the home and the women's building is filled, while many women applicants await admission.

The average age of men in the Home who served in the Civil War and the Indian War of 1862 is 82 years and in the Spanish-American War 57.

The two recent Legislatures have dealt generously in making appropriations for the Home and the Board of Trustees have been thus enabled to put the buildings and property in an excellent condition.

STATE SOCIETIES AND ASSOCIATIONS.

State Agricultural Society—Minnesota's chief organization in aid of its principal industry is the Minnesota State Agricultural Society, which dates its corporate existence from the year 1868. It was not the first, as even in territorial days societies existed, the object of which was the advancement of the state's natural resources, but it was the first concrete attempt at consolidation and so marked was its success that its annual exposition has continued unchallenged to this day. Out of it all came the annual Minnesota state fair, regarded as the greatest of its kind on the North American continent. Up to 1885 the annual fairs of the society were held in different localities with varying financial success. That year the county of Ramsey, through the efforts of public-spirited citizens, conveyed to the State of Minnesota for state fair purposes 200 acres of land, located midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis, the same to be under the management of the State Agricultural society. The Legislature of the same year met the donation with an appropriation of $100,000 for permanent improvements, which was supplemented by private subscriptions to the extent of over $31,000. This investment, together with the grounds, might be said to be the real beginning of the largest annual agricultural and industrial meet in the United States, which since, through bi-annual aid on the part of the Minnesota legislature and its own earnings, has reached proportions in respect to buildings and investment far beyond the wildest dreams of its organizers. Up to 1903 state control of both the society and the state fair only extended to such financial aid as was necessary, but the legislature of that year, recognizing the need of more intimate relations, together with a supervision that would place the two beyond the possibility of outside influence and petty interference with its internal affairs, enacted a law practically making both a department of the state government. In 1911 supplemental legislation was adopted defining and regulating membership in the State Agricultural society which was further amended in 1913, 1919 and 1921. This membership, together with the right to vote, includes three delegates to the annual meeting to be named by each county agricultural society, such honorary members as may be elected by a two-thirds vote at each annual meeting, one delegate from such counties having no county or district agricultural society and to be named by the county board, and two delegates and the president, ex-officio, representing the following societies and associations:

The state horticultural society, the state dairymen's association, the state beekeepers' association, the Minnesota live stock breeders' association, the Minnesota crop improvement association, the Minnesota swine breeders' association, the Minnesota sheep breeders' association, the Minnesota horse breeders' association, the Minnesota veterinary association, the Minnesota cattle breeders' association, the state poultry association, Minnesota implement dealers' association, the Minnesota florists' association, the Minnesota garden flowers' association, the Minnesota county exhibitors' association, the Minnesota federation of county fairs, the state forestry association, the Minnesota state grange association and the Minnesota farm bureau federation.

The following societies and associations shall be entitled to one vote each: Minneapolis market gardeners' association of Minnesota, the state growers' association, Minnesota Shorthorn breeders' association, Minnesota Guernsey breeders' association, Minnesota Jersey cattle club, Minnesota Holstein-Friesian breeders' association, the Minnesota Hereford breeders' association, Minnesota Aberdeen Angus breeders' association, Minnesota Red Polled breeders' association, Minnesota Ayreshire breeders' association, Minnesota Brown Swiss breeders' association, Minnesota Poland China breeders' association, Minnesota Duroc Jersey breeders' association, Minnesota Chester White breeders' association and Minnesota Berkshire breeders' association.

The members of the governing board of the State Agricultural society are entitled to one vote each. The annual meeting of the society occurs in St. Paul or Minneapolis on the Wednesday following the second Tuesday in January each year, and continues for three days, the election of officers occurring upon the last day of the session, when a president is elected for a term of one year; a vice president for a term of two years, and two or three managers, as the case may be, for a term of three years. The entire membership of the governing board is one president, two vice presidents and eight managers, one manager being elected from each of the following congressional districts: First, second, third, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth.

The state appropriates $140,000 annually to aid in the payment of premiums at county and other fairs and exhibitions complying with the provisions of the law.

State Horticultural Society has for its work the gathering and dissemination of knowledge pertaining to forestry, fruit and vegetable growing, the culture of flowers, etc., adapted to the soil and climate of Minnesota. The present working membership of the society consists of more than 3,600 professional and amateur horticulturists throughout the Northwest. The following societies are auxiliaries of the Horticultural Society: Minnesota Garden Flower Society, Minnesota State Florists' Association, State Vegetable Growers' Association, State Beekeepers' Association. A vegetable garden for each home, a shelter belt for each farm and trees for each school are sought.

The Minnesota Dairymen's Association (incorporated March 2, 1882) was organized February 7, 1878, for the purpose of improving the Minnesota stock and dairy products by holding an annual meeting of the representatives of these interests and the distribution of literature on such subjects among the people of the state. The association is encouraged by a permanent appropriation of $5,000 annually for the publication of its proceedings and distribution of dairy literature and dairy instruction.

Farmers' Institutes—The holding of farmers' institutes has been in vogue for 25 years or more. The government is vested in a board of administration. This board consists of six members, three of whom are chosen from the board of regents of the State University, and the other three are the presidents of the State Agricultural Society, the State Horticultural Society and the State Dairymen's Association. The institutes are largely held during the winter months, commencing with some date in November, and closing about the middle of March. The Farmers' Institute Annual is published each year, and contains the latest and best practical information concerning agriculture in all its branches, which includes the work of the field stock interests and horticulture.

The Minnesota State Art Society was created by the 1903 session of the legislature for the advancement of fine arts, etc. The governing board consists of the governor, president of the university and seven members to be appointed by the governor, qualifications being prescribed by the act. The officers and membership are prescribed by the act, and annual exhibits are provided for, prizes being offered and paid for by the state.

The Minnesota Society for the Prevention of Cruelty was organized October 21, 1869, for the purpose of preventing cruelty to animals throughout the State of Minnesota. It was recognized by the legislature of 1905 constituting the society a state bureau of child and animal protection. The governor, the superintendent of public instruction and the attorney-general are ex-officio members of the board of directors.

The Minnesota State Florists' Association is an organization incorporated under the laws of the state composed of professional florists, nurserymen and others interested in horticulture. The object of the association is to promote the interests of floriculture and horticulture in the state. The officers are Max Kaiser, President, St. Paul; R. A. Latham, Minneapolis, Vice-President; LeRoy Cady, St. Paul, Secretary, and A. Lauritzen, St. Paul, Treasurer. The Executive committee, Hans Rosacker, Minneapolis, Theo. Wirth, Minneapolis, Hugh Will, Minneapolis, O. J. Olson, St. Paul.

THE MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Incorporated less than two months after the convening of the first territorial legislature in 1849, the Minnesota Historical Society is the oldest institution in the state. It is supported mainly by legislative appropriation. By gift and purchase it has accumulated one of the largest and best historical libraries in the West, containing approximately 150,000 books and pamphlets. An important part of the library consists of materials on Minnesota history—the most complete collection of its kind in existence. In the society's manuscript division is a growing body of letters, diaries, and other documents left by men who have played some part in the making of Minnesota. Included in this unique collection are the papers of such men as Sibley, Ramsey, Taliaferro, Steele, Donnelly, and J. W. Taylor. Scarcely less important historically are the twelve thousand bound volumes of Minnesota and other newspapers. An historical museum, with varied displays, visualizes the external conditions of life in Minnesota's past.

In 1919 the legislature recognized the society in effect as a state department of archives. An act authorized the transfer of non-current records from state, county, city, and township offices, and made the society the official custodian of such transferred records. Since 1919 non-current archives from six state departments and five commissions have been received, including executive records, census schedules, and pension records from the offices respectively of the governor, the secretary of state, and the adjutant general.

The first volume of Dr. William W. Folwell's authoritative History of Minnesota was published by the society in 1921. This volume, which narrates the story of Minnesota from the earliest French explorations to the eve of statehood, is to be followed by three volumes on the later period. A quarterly magazine, the Minnesota History Bulletin, was begun in 1915. Seventeen volumes in a series of Collections have been issued, the last of which is Dr. Warren Upham's Minnesota Geographic Names, Their Origin and Historic Significance (vol. XVII, 1920). The publications are distributed to members as issued.

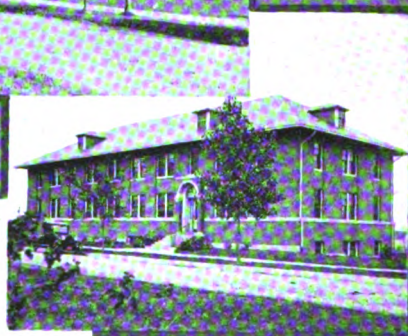

The society has a membership of about one thousand. Dues amount to two dollars for annual, five dollars for sustaining, and twenty-five dollars for life members. Membership may be had through application and a first payment of dues. The governing body is an executive council composed of thirty elected members and six state officers ex-officio.

The society occupies the Historical Building adjacent to the capitol. This building was erected by the state at a cost of $500,000 and was dedicated on May 11, 1918. The reading room, museum, and galleries are open to the public daily from 8:30 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

RE-ORGANIZED DEPARTMENTS

OFFICIAL NATIONAL GUARD DESIGNATIONS

The Minnesota National Guard and the Minnesota Naval Militia are the official designations of the active military and naval forces of the State, of which Adjutant General Rhinow is executive officer.

The passage of the Congressional Act of June 4, 1920, necessitated almost an entire new allotment of troops to the National Guard. With the exception of one regiment of Artillery and one regiment Infantry, Minnesota received a complete new allotment. This meant the re-organization of practically all forces in the state. The re-organization as contemplated by the Act of June 4, 1920, has been completed insofar as the War Department has authorized and the Military and naval forces of the state consist of the following organizations:

- 59th Field Artillery Brigade.
- 68th Infantry Brigade.
- 125th Field Artillery.
- 151st Field Artillery.
- 135th Infantry.
- 6th Infantry.
- 5th Infantry.
- 109th Squadron (Observation).
- 109th Squadron (Intelligence).
- 109th Squadron (Photo).
- 34th Company, Tank Corps.
- State Staff Corps.
- Quartermaster Detachment.

All the above units are completely organized and equipped with the exception of the 125th Field Artillery, only one Battery of which has received Federal recognition. The National Guard consists of seventy-three units, stationed in thirty-six cities and towns throughout the state. The training equipping and Armory Drill Pay are provided for by Federal appropriations.

During the past two years the National Guard has been called upon to render unusual services in connection with the emergencies in Northern Minnesota caused by forest fires in 1921 and 1922 and the tour of duty at South St. Paul in December, 1921. On these occasions the National Guard has responded with commendable promptness and rendered yeomen service. On page 228 the National Guard as it existed at the end of the World War is described.

Here is shown the Armory built at Stillwater for the First Battalion headquarters and Howitzer companies of the 135th Infantry at a cost of $52,000, the state furnishing $50,000 and the city the balance and the land. The state has authorized $650,000 for 23 armories to house 26 companies the past two years and $443,358 of building had been completed January 12, 1923.

Minnesota Highway Department. Improvement and maintenance of a 7,000-mile system of trunk highways is one of the most important and extensive state activities. Awakening to the importance of adequate highways, Minnesota in 1909 adopted a constitutional amendment providing for a one-twentieth mill general tax levy by the state to be apportioned as highway aid to the various counties, which with the townships and cities and villages then handled all road work. The rate later was increased to 1 mill and the state highway aid levy is still made.

With the creation of the state highway aid fund, was established the Minnesota Highway department for its administration. It was placed under a commission which some years later was changed to the single-commissioner plan of administration.

Charles M. Babcock, Elk River, a former member of the highway board, was retained in the new office of highway commissioner. He devised the so-called Babcock good roads plan, contemplating the designation of a system of trunk or arterial highways serving every district for improvement and maintenance by the state with the proceeds of a more onerous tax on motor vehicles and with federal highway aid. The plan was adopted in 1919 with the passage of Good Roads Amendment No. 1.

The new highway program brought rapid enlargement of the highway department and extension of its activities, marking the entry of the state into actual highway operations. During the first eighteen months under the new plan the state added nearly 2,500 miles each of grading and gravel-surfacing on the trunk system, more than double the mileages listed as so improved when the routes were transferred by the counties, and increased the paved mileage to 353 miles from 112 miles.

The Industrial Commission of three members at $4,500 a year was created by Chapter 81 of the Laws of 1921 as of March 15, 1921. The Departments of labor, arbitration, etc., were abolished and the work consolidated within the Industrial commission, which has charge of administration of workmen's compensation; former work of labor and industries department; conducting free employment agencies; promotion of arbitration, mediation and conciliation by hearings or otherwise; investigation of strikes, etc.; establishment of branch offices; minimum wage law administration, etc.

The State Securities Commission was created by Chapter 372 of the Laws of 1921. There had previously been a State Securities commission made up of a board of other state officials who employed an executive secretary. The new commission consists of three commissioners at $4,500 a year each, who have charge of administering the law with the object of preventing the floating of unsound securities or "selling the Blue Sky" in Minnesota. They license firms to sell stocks and bonds and issue warnings against frauds.

War Records Commission. Before the close of the World War, the work of gathering the records of Minnesota's part in that struggle was begun by the Minnesota Historical Society and continued by a special commission created by the Minnesota Commission of Public Safety in October, 1918. This special agency, the Minnesota War Records Commission, was established by law in April, 1919, and directed "to provide for the collection and preservation in state and local war records collections of all available material relating to Minnesota's participation in the World War" and "to provide for the preparation and publication, as a permanent memorial record, of a comprehensive documentary and narrative history of the part played by the state in the World War, including conditions and events within the state relating to or affected by the war."

In discharge of the first of these duties, the commission has assembled at its headquarters in the Historical Building, St. Paul, extensive files of records relating to the war services of citizens and organizations of the state—particularly of service men—including in many cases photographs, war letters, and mementoes, as well as written records. Through its county branches, also, the commission has been instrumental in building up a number of local war records collections—notably in Hennepin, Ramsey, Rice, Stevens, and St. Louis counties—intended for local preservation and use.

In 1921, before the second object of the commission—publication of a state World War history—was realized, the commission law was amended so as to call for the publication, first, of a history of Minnesota in the Spanish-American War and the Philippine Insurrection. The latter, comprising in one volume an historical narrative and a roster of Minnesotans in all branches of the service during the period indicated, was on the press in December, 1922, and was issued in 1923.

In the meantime the commission has commenced the preparation of an eight volume history of Minnesota in the World War, the first volume of which, a history of the 151st Field Artillery, by Lieutenant Governor Louis L. Collins, will follow the Spanish War history. Other volumes of the World War history, according to a plan tacitly approved by the Legislature, will comprise a roster of all Minnesota soldiers, sailors, and marines, and a narrative history of local war activities, events, and conditions.

The commission makes a standing appeal to all citizens of the state for contributions to the State War Records Collection of personal narratives, war letters and relics, and photographs, and to officers of local war agencies, for the custody of the wartime files of their organizations. Such material, wherever available, should be forwarded without delay to Franklin F. Holbrook, secretary, Minnesota War Records Commission, Historical Building, St. Paul.

VIEWS OF CROOKSTON AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

SCHOOLS OF AGRICULTURE.

The Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, a part of the University of Minnesota, is a state institution to serve the people of the north-western part of the state. It does not belong to a particular town or county, but to this section of the state as a whole.

It has four distinct lines of work:

1. As an institution of learning
2. As an experiment station and demonstration center
3. As an extension service center
4. As an organization center.

1. As a school, it is organized with a liberal variety of courses designed to meet the needs of the various classes of young men and women seeking a training for management of the home and the farm and for citizenship in rural communities. As an institution with experienced and sympathetic men and women in charge, its courses are especially planned to meet the needs of rural young men and women. Being located two miles from the city, it retains the healthful influence of the country, and still gives the advantages of the city, with a minimum chance of its temptations. Students are surrounded with a moral influence at all times. Nearly 2,000 students have attended the school since 1906, while the number of graduates has reached over 600.

2. The station farm of 476 acres, fully equipped with stock and machinery in charge of competent experts, is devoted to an extensive study of the various agricultural problems of this part of the state. Reports are issued annually. Special bulletins are also issued from time to time.

3. Community work with farmers is an important part of the institution's service. The members of the staff devote much time to this work, giving special attention to cooperative work in pure seed production among farmers and home project work among students, work in farm crops, live stock and farm management and in institute work. A monthly paper, the Northwest Monthly, is published regularly as a medium for spreading useful information.

The West Central School of Agriculture and Experiment Station was established in 1910 as a branch of the Department of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota. P. E. Miller has been Superintendent since 1917. The School and Station now comprise 300 acres of land and a group of 20 buildings. The Experiment Station is conducting experimental projects in the most important agricultural problems of the region. Annual reports of the Experiment Station work are published each year and distributed to farmers throughout the district. In the school courses of study are offered in all branches of agriculture and home economics. The student body has increased from a small number in the early years to an annual enrollment of 300 students. The student body comes almost entirely from farm homes throughout west central Minnesota. Approximately 85% of the graduates and former students are engaged in the business of farming and home making.

MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION.

LEGISLATURE

The legislature for the year 1921 is composed of 67 senators and 131 representatives.

The legislature meets biennially, commencing on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January of odd numbered years. The session is limited to 90 legislative days by the constitution.

The legislative term of representatives is for two years and for senators four years.

ELECTIONS

State elections are held in every even numbered year, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, and the terms of office terminate on the first Monday in January following.

The primary election to nominate candidates to be elected at the general election is held on the third Monday in June. The so-called Australian system of voting is used in both elections.

Two kinds of ballots are used in the primary election—a party ballot and a non-partisan ballot. All candidates for executive officers, including railroad and warehouse commissioners and federal representatives are nominated by means of a party ballot. The justices of the supreme court, members of the state legislature and all county officers, except county surveyor, are nominated on a non-partisan ballot.

Primary election day constitutes the first day of registration for the ensuing election, except in cities of the first class.

PROPERTY RIGHTS

Various property rights are given to women. Property owned prior to marriage remains in her own right, as well as property acquired during marriage. She is practically given the same property rights in her married state as the husband. A widow is entitled to one-third of the property of her demised husband, and the homestead goes direct to her in case of no children; with children she has a life estate in the same.

TAXATION

General taxes become a lien upon real property from the first day of May of the year in which levied, but between grantor and grantee the lien does not attach until the next January. One-half of the real estate tax must be paid before June 1; the second half before November 1, otherwise a penalty of ten per cent is added. If not paid before the first Monday in January following, the same become delinquent and a further penalty of five per cent is added. The redemption period extends for three years and until notice of the time of expiration of such redemption has been made by the county auditor.

TRUST FUNDS AND FINANCES

Minnesota now has the largest permanent trust fund of any state in the union. At the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1922, the total of cash and securities in possession of the state treasurer and belonging to the several state trust funds, amounted to $44,457,532.06, increasing $4,028,885.90 in two years.

State receipts from various sources for the fiscal year 1922 totaled $50,106,718.86. The greatest source was $11,271,650.08 from the state taxes, while gross earnings on railroads were second with $10,541,423.73; Motor Vehicle tax receipts, $5,616,113.60; sale of soldiers' certificates, $5,638,792.02; prison twine plant, $2,521,231.88; state institution earnings, $1,358,116.13; state mines, ore and timber income, $1,905,502.71; trust fund interest, $1,312,503.93; repayment of loans by municipalities, $1,280,266.07; trust fund bond sales, $1,229,676; inheritance tax, $901,984.08; State Fair receipts, $293,732.81; teachers' insurance fees, $154,282.14; Federal road aid, $80,673.98; Armory bonds, $321,535.75; vocational education aid, $59,116.05. Miscellaneous accounts make up the balance. Of this revenue, approximately $60 of $100 was returned directly or indirectly to the counties.

ASSESSED VALUATION

The assessed value of all real and personal property in Minnesota subject to ad valorem taxation for 1920, as equalized by the Minnesota Tax Commission, is $2,553,671,453.

Comparisons of valuation totals follow:

	1910	1915	1920
Real Estate	$1,012,449,518	$1,289,214,531	$1,751,315,456
Personal Property	{ 209,986,859 }	233,368,380	364,727,126
Moneys and Credits.....		212,134,901	437,628,871
Totals.....	$1,222,435,377	$1,734,717,812	$2,553,671,453

Personal property is assessed annually and real estate only in the even numbered years, except that new buildings are added.

It is to be understood that these figures do not include the value of railroad property in the state, nor the property of freight line, sleeping car, express, telephone and trust companies not doing a banking business, all of which are subject to a gross earnings tax. The value of this property has not been officially ascertained.

LEGAL HOLIDAYS

Legal holidays of the state, established by law, are: New Year's Day, the 1st of January; Christmas Day, the 25th of December; Lincoln's Birthday, February 12th; Washington's Birthday, February 22d; Memorial Day, May 30th; Independence Day, the 4th of July; Labor Day, first Monday in September; Good Friday, next preceding Easter Sunday; General Election Day, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November in even numbered years; Armistice Day, November 11. The statutes of the state indirectly recognize Sunday and Thanksgiving Day as commercial holidays, by providing that maturing paper, bills of exchange, etc., falling due on those days shall be due and payable on the business day following.

FISCAL YEAR

Chapter 165, G. S. 1919, designates the period of twelve months ending at midnight between June 30th and July 1st, as the fiscal year of the state of Minnesota. It provides further that the fiscal year of all official reports shall commence on the first day of July, except the reports of the insurance commissioner, which are made for the calendar year.
