DR. WILLIAM WATTS FOLWELL

PRESIDENT-EMERITUS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA

William Watts Folwell, to whom a unanimous public opinion gives the rank of first citizen of Minnesota, was elected to the presidency of the University of Minnesota on August 23, 1869. On the day this volume goes to press, more than 58 years later, the venerable president-emeritus of the state university was at work on the fourth volume of his splendid history of Minnesota, all of which he has written at an age few men attain. Dr. Folwell became ninety-three years of age on February 14, 1927.

When he came to Minnesota, a fairly generous lifetime ago, Dr. Folwell had already taught in two colleges, Hobart and Kenyon, had served three years with the 50th New York Engineers in the Civil War, winning brevet promotion for gallantry to the rank of Lieutenant-colonel, and had spent the four years, 1865-69, in business in Ohio.

He has since placed an indelible imprint on the state by his services as president of the University of Minnesota, 1869-84, professor of political science during his presidency and until 1907, and in those years and subsequently, as speaker, writer, thinker, and philosopher. He possesses the qualities that make him in one and the same breath "Uncle Billy" to the veteran alumni and an eminent scholar and preceptor, widely recognized for high scholarship and ability.

His public services as president of the Minneapolis Institute of Fine Arts, member of the park board, chairman of the state board of charities and correction, president of the Minneapolis Improvement League and acting president, in 1892, of the American Economic Association, have been no less distinguished than those he has rendered by leadership, scholarship, and example.

70 1001

The words of Dr. Folwell's inaugural address as president of the state university sounded in 1869 a doctrine of education that is modern today, after six decades, and many of his predictions then made, have come or are coming true.

During the twenty years that have elapsed since his retirement from teaching Dr. Folwell has enjoyed the use of a comfortable office, provided by the University for him as president-emeritus. There he has written the painstaking record of those chapters in the story of Minnesota which almost certainly could never have been recorded so ably had not one whose own experience reached back over many of the years seen fit to dedicate his strength to their telling. Regularly each day he goes to his office to perform his work.

Dr. Folwell is a familiar figure on the campus of the state university, and is seen occasionally in downtown Minneapolis or St. Paul. By virtue of splendid spiritual and physical endowments, he enters his ninety-fourth year with completed plans for writing a history of the University of Minnesota, now that his labors on the story of the state he loved and served are so nearly done.

ORGANIC ACT OF MINNESOTA

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the executive power and authority in and over said Territory of Minnesota shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States. The governor shall reside within said Territory; shall be commander-in-chief of the militia thereof; shall perform the duties and receive the emoluments of superintendent of Indian affairs. He may grant pardons for offenses against the law of said Territory, and reprieves for offenses against the laws of the United States until the decision of the president can be made known thereon; he shall commission all officers who shall be appointed to office under the laws of the said Territory, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That there shall be a secretary of said Territory, who shall reside therein, and hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States; he shall record and preserve all the laws and proceedings of the legislative assembly hereinafter constituted, and all the acts and proceedings of the governor in his executive department; he shall transmit one copy of the laws and one copy of the executive proceedings, on or before the first day of December in each year, to the president of the United States, and at the same time two copies of the laws to the speaker of the house of representatives, and the president of the senate for the use of Congress. The number of councilors and representatives may be increased by the legislative assembly, from time to time, in proportion to the increase of population; provided, that the whole number shall never exceed fifteen councilors and thirty-nine representatives. An apportionment shall be made, as nearly equal as practicable, among the several counties or districts for the election of the council and representatives, giving to each section of the Territory representation in the ratio of its population. Indians excepted, as nearly as may be. And the members of the council and of the house of representatives shall reside in and be inhabitants of the districts for which they may be elected, respectively. Previous to the first election, the governor shall cause a census or enumeration of the inhabitants of the several counties and districts of the Territory to be taken, and the first election shall be held at such time and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct, and he shall, at the same time, declare the number of members of the council and house of representatives to which each of the counties and districts shall be entitled under this act.

The number of persons authorized to be elected having the highest number of votes, in each of said council districts for members of the council, shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected to the council, and the person or persons authorized to be elected, having the greatest number of votes for the house of representatives, equal to the number to which each county or district shall be entitled, shall also be declared by the governor to be duly elected members of the house of representatives; provided, that in case of a tie between two or more persons voted for, the governor shall order a new election to supply the vacancy made by such tie. And the persons thus elected to the legislative assembly shall meet at such place on such day as the governor shall appoint, but thereafter the time, place and manner of holding and conducting all elections by the people, and the apportioning of the representation in the several counties or districts to the council and house of representatives, according to the population, shall be prescribed by law, as well as the day of the commencement of the regular session of the legislative assembly; provided, that no one session shall exceed the term of sixty days.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That every free white male inhabitant above the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of said Territory at the time of the passage of this act, shall be entitled to vote at the first election, and shall be eligible to any office within the said Territory; but the qualifications of voters and of holding office at all subsequent elections shall be such as shall be prescribed by the legislative assembly; provided, that the right of suffrage and of holding office shall be exercised only by citizens of the United States and those who shall have declared on oath their intention to become such, and shall have taken an oath to support the constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power of the Territory shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation, consistent with the Constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act; but no law shall be passed interfering with the primary disposal of the soil; no tax shall be imposed upon the property of the United States; nor shall the lands or other property of non-residents be taxed higher than the lands or other property of residents. All the laws passed by the legislative assembly and governor shall be submitted to the Congress of the United States, and if disapproved shall be null and of no effect.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That all township, district and county officers, not herein otherwise provided for, shall be appointed or elected, as the case may be, in such manner as shall be provided by the governor and legislative assembly of the Territory of Minnesota. SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That no member of the legislative assembly shall hold or be appointed to any office which shall have been created, or the salary or emoluments of which shall have been increased, while he was a member, during the term for which he was elected, and for one year after the expiration of such term; and no person holding a commission or appointment under the United States, except postmasters, shall be a member of the legislative assembly, or shall hold any office under the government of said Territory.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the judicial power of said Territory shall be vested in a supreme court, district courts, probate courts, and in justices of the peace. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and two associate justices, any two of whom shall constitute a quorum, and who shall hold a term at the seat of government of said Territory annually; and they shall hold their offices during the period of four years. The said Territory shall be divided into three judicial districts, and a district court shall be held in each of said districts by one of the justices of the supreme court, at such time and places as may be prescribed by law; and the said judges shall, after their appointment, respectively, reside in the districts which shall be assigned them. The jurisdiction of the several courts herein provided for, both appellate and original, and that of probate courts and justices of the peace, shall be as limited by law; provided, that the justices of the peace shall not have jurisdiction of any matter in controversy when the title or boundaries of land may be in dispute, or where the debt or sum claimed shall exceed one hundred dollars; and the said supreme and district courts, respectively, shall possess chancery as well as common law jurisdiction. Each district court, or the judges thereof, shall appoint its clerk, who shall also be the register in chancery, and shall keep his office at the place where the court may be held. Writs of error, bills of exception and appeals shall be allowed in all cases from the final decisions of said district courts to the supreme court, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, but in no case removed to the supreme court shall trial by jury be allowed in said court. The supreme court, or the justices thereof, shall appoint its own clerk, and every clerk shall hold his office at the pleasure of the court for which he shall have been appointed. Writs of error and appeals from the final decisions of said supreme court shall be allowed, and may be taken to the supreme court of the United States, in the same manner and under the same regulations as from the circuit courts of the United States, where the value of the property or the amount in controversy, to be ascertained by the oath or affirmation of either party, or other competent witness, shall exceed one thousand dollars; and each of the said district courts shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction, in all cases arising under the constitution and laws of the United States, as is vested in the circuit and district courts of the United States; and the first six days of every term of said courts, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be appropriated to the trial of causes arising under the said constitution and laws; and writs of error and appeal in all such cases shall be made to the supreme court of said Territory, the same as in other cases. The said clerk shall receive in all such cases the same fees which the clerks of the district courts of the late Wisconsin Territory received for similar services.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed an attorney for said Territory, who shall continue in office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall receive the same fees and salary as the attorney of the United States for the late Territory of Wisconsin received. There shall also be a marshal for the Territory appointed, who shall hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall execute all processes issuing from the said courts, when exercising their jurisdiction as circuit and district courts of the United States; he shall perform the duties, be subject to the same regulations and penalties, and be entitled to the same fees as the marshal of the district court of the United States for the late Territory of Wisconsin; and shall, in addition, be paid two hundred dollars annually as a compensation for extra services.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That the governor, secretary, chief justice and associate justices, attorney and marshal, shall be nominated and by and with the advice and consent of the senate, appointed by the president of the United States. The governor and secretary to be appointed as aforesaid shall, before they act as such, respectively, take an oath or affirmation, before the district judge, or some justice of the peace in the limits of said Territory, duly authorized to administer oaths and affirmations by the laws now in force therein, or before the chief justice, or some associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, to support the constitution of the United States, and faithfully to discharge the duties of their respective offices, which said oaths, when so taken, shall be certified by the person by whom the same shall have been taken, and such certificates shall be received and recorded by the said secretary among the executive proceedings; and the chief justice and associate justices, and all other civil officers in said Territory, before they act as such, shall take a like oath or affirmation, before the said governor or secretary, or some judge or justice of the peace of the Territory, who may be duly commissioned and qualified, which said oath or affirmation shall be certified and transmitted, by the person taking the same, to the secretary, to be by him recorded as aforesaid; and afterwards, the like oath or affirmation shall be taken, certified and recorded in such manner and form as may be prescribed by law. The governor shall receive an annual salary of $1,500 as governor, and $1,000 as superintendent of Indian affairs. The chief justice and associate justice shall each receive an annual salary of $1,800. The secretary shall receive an annual salary of $1,800. The said salaries shall be paid quarter-yearly, at the treasury of the United States. The members of the legislative assembly shall be entitled to receive three dollars each per day during their attendance at the session thereof, and three dollars each for every twenty miles traveled in going to and returning from the said sessions, estimated according to the nearest usually traveled route. There shall be appropriated, annually, the sum of $1,000, to be expended by the governor to defray the contingent expenses of the Territory; and there shall also be appropriated, annually, a sufficient sum to be expended by the secretary of the Territory, and upon an estimate to be made by the secretary of the treasury of the United States, to defray the expenses of the legislative assembly, the printing of the laws, and other incidental expenses, and the secretary of the Territory shall annually account to the secretary of the treasury of the United States for the manner in which the aforesaid sum shall have been expended.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That the inhabitants of the said Territory shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities heretofore granted and secured to the Territory of Wisconsin and to its inhabitants; and the laws in force in the Territory of Wisconsin at the date of the admission of the State of Wisconsin shall continue to be valid and operative therein, so far as the same be not incompatible with the provisions of this act, subject, nevertheless, to be altered, modified or repealed by the governor and legislative assembly of the said Territory of Minnesota; and the laws of the United States are hereby extended over and declared to be in force in said Territory, so far as the same, or any provision thereof, may be applicable.

And the sum of twenty thousand dollars, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, is hereby appropriated and granted to said Territory of Minnesota, to be applied by the governor and legislative assembly to the erection of suitable public buildings at the seat of government.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That a delegate of the house of representatives of the United States, to serve for the term of two years, may be elected by the voters qualified to elect members of the legislative assembly, who shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges as are exercised and enjoyed by the delegates from the several other territories of the United States to the said house of representatives. The first election shall be held at such times and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct; and at all subsequent elections the times, places and manner of holding the elections shall be prescribed by law. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected, and a certificate thereof shall be given accordingly.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That all suits, process and proceedings, civil and criminal, at law or in chancery, and all indictments and informations, which shall be pending and undetermined in the courts of the Territory of Wisconsin, within the limits of said Territory of Minnesota, when this act shall take effect, shall be transferred to be heard, tried, prosecuted and determined in the district courts hereby established, which may include the counties or districts where any such proceedings may be pending. All bonds, recognizances, and obligations of every kind whatsoever, valid under the existing laws, within the limits of said Territory, shall be valid under this act; and all crimes and misdemeanors against the laws, in force within said limits, may be prosecuted, tried, and punished in the courts established by this act; and all penalties, forfeitures, actions and causes of action may be recovered under this act the same as they would have been under the laws in force within the limits composing said Territory at the time this act shall go into operation.

If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall also be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law; but in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislative assembly, by adjournment, prevent it, in which case it shall not become a law.

MINNESOTA STATE SEAL

The state seal is similar in design to the territorial seal, although various other devices were proposed and even adopted as laws.

First official reference to the seal appears in the message of Governor Ramsey to the first territorial legislature, September 9, 1849. A legislative committee, October 31, recommended as a seal device, "an every-day scene, consisting of an Indian family with their lodge, canoe, etc., and a single white man visiting them, with no other protection than the feeling of hospitality and friendship existing between the two people. The white man is receiving from the Indian the pipe of peace." That seal was authorized by law but never used.

The territorial seal depicted instead a scene at St. Anthony Falls, as shown in the accompanying engraving. The earlier proposal may have influenced the design, but substitution of the musket and powderhorn for the pipe of peace may have had special significance. The motto, "Quo sursum velo videre," the third word a misprint for "volo," meaning "I wish to see what lies beyond," was selected by H. H. Sibley, while a delegate in Congress. Governor Ramsey commissioned D. O. Hare of Washington to engrave the seal and the cost was $157.

Although ridiculed by journalists as representing "a scared white man and an astonished Indian," and "a man plowing one way and looking another," this territorial seal was used until the adoption of the state seal in 1858.

During the first session of the state legislature, assembled December 2, 1857, Charles F. Lowe, a member of the convention of 1857 which drafted the state constitution, including a provision for a state seal, procured from Mr. Buechner, a St. Paul artist, a design shown on page 658 of W. H. C. Folsom's "Fifty Years in the Northwest."

The state government upon beginning operations in May, 1858, was without a state seal. Authorizing temporary use of the territorial seal, Governor Sibley brought up the subject at the adjourned legislative session in June and a special committee was named. W. H. C. Folsom, chairman, submitted the design mentioned, which on July 16 was adopted by joint resolution. When the new seal was delivered, however, it was found that the legislative intent had failed, and in place of that elaborate design one resembling the territorial seal was used, as it appears in the illustration. The word "state" was added and the date of admission substituted for the territorial year. The motto was changed to "L'Etoile du Nord," translated "The North Star," and this state seal has ever since been in official use. The Minnesotian published articles ridiculing the French motto and declaring that Governor Sibley had chosen it simply because he spoke that language.

Third—Ten entire sections of land to be selected by the governor of said State, in legal subdivisions, shall be granted to said State for the purpose of completing the public buildings, or for the erection of others at the seat of government, under the direction of the legislature thereof.

Fourth—That all salt springs within said State, not exceeding twelve in number, with six sections of land adjoining or as contiguous as may be to each, shall be granted to said State for its use; and the same to be selected by the governor thereof within one year after the admission of said State, and, when so selected, to be used or disposed of on such terms, conditions and regulations as the legislature shall direct; provided, that no salt spring or land the right whereof is now vested in any individual or in individuals, or which may be hereafter confirmed or adjudged to any individual or individuals, shall by this article be granted to said State.

Fifth—That five per centum of the net proceeds of sales of all public lands lying within said State, which shall be sold by Congress after the admission of said State into the Union, after deducting all the expenses incident to the same, shall be paid to said State for the purpose of making public roads and internal improvements as the legislature shall direct; provided, the foregoing propositions herein offered are on the condition that the said convention which shall form the constitution of said State shall provide, by a clause in said constitution, or an ordinance, irrevocable without the consent of the United States, that said State shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same by the United States, or with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title in said soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and that no tax shall be imposed on lands belonging to the United States, and that in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents.

MINNESOTA STATE FLAG

The State Legislature of 1893, by Chapter 16, provided for the adoption of a state flag.

Mrs. Franklyn L. Greenleaf, Mrs. A. A. White, Mrs. Edward Durant, Mrs. F. B. Clarke, Mrs. H. F. Brown and Mrs. A. T. Stebbins were by this act named and designated a commission to select and adopt an appropriate design for a state flag.

Conformably to the provision of this act, this commission called for designs, and on Tuesday, Feb. 28, 1893, met, selected and adopted the design presented by Mrs. Edward H. Center, of Minneapolis.

Following is a description of the flag: "The ground is of white silk, and the reverse side of blue silk, bordered with bullion fringe. In the center is the state seal, wreathed with white moccasin flowers, on a blue ground. The red ribbon of the seal bearing the motto is continued through the wreath, entwining the blossoms and floating carelessly over the lower portion of the flag. It bears, in gold, the dates 1819, the time of the settlement of Minnesota, and 1893. Above, also in gold, is the date 1858, the time of the admission of Minnesota to the Union. Below the design, in gold letters, is wrought 'Minnesota.' Grouped around the seal are nineteen stars in the design of star points, with the North Star, significant of the North Star State, in a group of three at the top."

The choice of the number nineteen is a peculiarly happy one, as Minnesota was the nineteenth state, after the original thirteen, to be admitted to the Union. The standard to the flag was surmounted by a golden gopher, and tied with a gold cord and tassel. The execution of the design is entirely in needle work.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

Under the enabling act of Congress, approved March 3, 1857, a constitutional convention of one hundred and eight members (each council district to elect two for each councilman and representative it was entitled to) was authorized to meet at the capitol on the second Monday in July, to frame a state constitution, and submit it to the people of the territory. The election was held on the first Monday in June. On July 13th the delegates met, but, a disagreement arising in the organization, the Republican members organized one body, and the Democratic members organized separately. Each of these bodies, claiming to be the legal constitutional convention, proceeded with the work of forming an instrument to be submitted to the people. After some days an understanding was effected between them, and, by means of committees of conference, the same constitution was framed and adopted by both bodies. On being submitted to the people October 13th, it was ratified.

ARTICLE I.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

Object of government. SECTION 1. Government is instituted for the security, benefit and protection of the people, in whom all political power is inherent, together with the right to alter, modify or reform such government, whenever the public good may require it.

Rights and Privileges. SEC. 2. No member of this State shall be disfranchised, or deprived of any of the rights or privileges secured to any citizen thereof, unless by the law of the land, or the judgment of his peers. There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the State otherwise than in the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

Liberty of the press. SEC. 3. The liberty of the press shall forever remain inviolate, and all persons may freely speak, write and publish their sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right.

Trial by jury. SEC. 4. The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, and shall extend to all cases at law without regard to the amount in controversy, but a jury trial may be waived by the parties in all cases in the manner prescribed by law; [and the legislature may provide that the agreement of five-sixths of any jury in any civil action or proceeding, after not less than six (6) hours' deliberation, shall be a sufficient verdict therein.]*

No excessive bail or unusual punishments. SEC. 5. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor shall excessive fines be imposed; nor shall cruel or unusual punishments be inflicted.

*The clause in brackets was adopted Nov. 4, 1890.

Rights of accused in criminal prosecutions. SEC. 6. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the county or district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which county or district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, to be confronted with the witnesses against him, to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defense. (a)

Further rights of accused—when bailable. SEC. 7. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law, and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require.

Redress of injuries or wrongs. SEC. 8. Every person is entitled to a certain remedy in the laws for all injuries or wrongs which he may receive in his person, property or character; he ought to obtain justice freely and without purchase; completely and without denial; promptly and without delay, conformable to the laws.

Treason defined. SEC. 9. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against the same, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

Right against unreasonable searches. SEC. 10. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the person or things to be seized.

Prohibits ex post facto laws, or laws impairing contracts. SEC. 11. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, nor any law impairing the obligation of contracts shall ever be passed, and no conviction shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate.

Imprisonment for debt—property exemption. SEC. 12. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in this state, (b) but this shall not prevent the legislature from providing for imprisonment, or holding to bail, persons charged with fraud in contracting said debt. A reasonable amount of property shall be exempt from seizure or sale for the payment of any debt or liability. The amount of such exemption shall be determined by law. [Provided, however, that all property so exempted shall be liable to seizure and sale for any debts incurred to any person for work done or materials furnished in the construction, repair or improvement of the same, and provided further, that such liability to seizure and sale shall also extend to all real property for any debt incurred to any laborer or servant for labor or service performed.]*

Private property for public use. SEC. 13. Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use without just compensation therefor, first paid or secured.†

(a) The jury contemplated by article 1, section 6, securing the right to jury trial in criminal cases, is a body of twelve men, and it is error to try a party charged with crime in a justice court, against his objection, with a jury of six. The fact that he may appeal to the district court, on entering into recognizance with sureties, does not change the rule. 14 Minn. 330.

(b) 23 Minn. 1; 23 Minn. 411.

*The clause in brackets was adopted Nov. 6, 1888.

†The words "destroyed or damaged" inserted by amendment adopted Nov. 3, 1896.

Military power subordinate. SEC. 14. The military shall be subordinate to the civil power, and no standing army shall be kept up in this State in times of peace.

Lands declared allodial—leases, when void. SEC. 15. All lands within the State are declared to be allodial, and feudal tenures of every description, with all their incidents, are prohibited. Leases and grants of agricultural lands for a longer period than twenty-one years hereafter made, in which shall be reserved any rent or service of any kind, shall be void.

Freedom of conscience—no preference to be given to any religious establishment or mode of worship. SEC. 16. The enumeration of rights in this constitution shall not be construed to deny or impair others retained by and inherent in the people. The right of every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience shall never be infringed, nor shall any man be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship, or to maintain any religious or ecclesiastical ministry, against his consent; nor shall any control of or interference with the rights of conscience be permitted, or any preference be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of the State, nor shall any money be drawn from the treasury for the benefit of any religious societies, or religious or theological seminaries.

No religious test or property qualifications to be required. SEC. 17. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification for any office of public trust under the State. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification of any voter at any election in this State; nor shall any person be rendered incompetent to give evidence in any court of law or equity in consequence of his opinion upon the subject of religion.

No license to peddle. SEC. 18. Any person may sell or peddle the products of the farm or garden occupied and cultivated by him without obtaining a license therefor.*

ARTICLE II.

ON NAME AND BOUNDARIES.

Name and boundaries. SECTION 1. This State shall be called and known by the name of the State of Minnesota, and shall consist of and have jurisdiction over the territory embraced in the following boundaries, to-wit: Beginning at the point in the center of the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the boundary line between the United States and British Possessions crosses the same; thence up the main channel of said river to that of the Bois des Sioux river; thence up the main channel of said river to Lake Traverse; thence up the center of said lake to the southern extremity thereof; thence in a direct line to the head of Big Stone lake; thence through its center to its outlet; thence by a due south line to the north line of the State of Iowa; thence east along the northern boundary of said State to the main channel of the Mississippi river; thence up the main channel of said river and following the boundary line of the State of Wisconsin until the same intersects the St. Louis river; thence down the said river to and through Lake Superior, on the boundary line of Wisconsin and Michigan, until it intersects the dividing line between the United States and British Possessions; thence up Pigeon river and following said dividing line to the place of beginning.

*Adopted Nov. 6, 1906.

The northern boundary of the state at the Lake of the Woods is projected beyond the 49th parallel a distance of about twenty miles, making a wedge-shaped jog through the lake until it strikes firm ground on the west bank of the lake; thence in a due south line to the 49th parallel. The explanation of this jog is found in the subjoined paragraphs. In the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, section 19 reads as follows: Sec. 19. Resolved that the fol

Jurisdiction on bordering rivers. SEC. 2. The State of Minnesota shall have concurrent jurisdiction on the Mississippi and on all other rivers and waters bordering on the said State of Minnesota, so far as the same shall form a common boundary to said State, and any other state or states now or hereafter to be formed by the same; and said rivers and waters, and navigable waters leading into the same, shall be common highways and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said State as to other citizens of the United States, without any tax, duty, impost, or toll therefor.

Acceptance of propositions in enabling act. SEC. 3. The propositions contained in the act of Congress entitled, "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government, preparatory to their admission into the Union on equal footing with the original states," are hereby accepted, ratified and confirmed, and shall remain irrevocable without the consent of the United States; and it is hereby ordained that this State shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same, by the United States, or with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title to said soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and no tax shall be imposed on lands belonging to the United States and in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

Division of powers. SECTION 1. The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—legislative, executive, and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to or constituting one of these departments shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except in the instances expressly provided in this constitution. (a)

ARTICLE IV

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

Legislature meets biennially—length of session. SECTION 1. The legislature shall consist of the Senate and House of Representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the State, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety (90) legislative days; and no new bill shall be introduced in either branch, except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty (20) days of lowing described (also represented on said map as before mentioned), is, in the opinion of the commissioners, so far as the same extends, the true boundary intended by the before mentioned treaties, namely: * * * thence through the middle of the waters of this bay to the northwest extremity of the same; being the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods, and from a monument in this bay, on the nearest firm ground to the above northwest extremity of said bay, the courses and distances are as follows: 56° W. 1,565½ feet; 2d. N. 6° W. 861½ feet; 3d. N. 28° W. 615.4 feet; 4th. N. 27° 10' W. 495.4 feet; 5th. N. 5° 10' E. 1,322½ feet; 6th. N. 70° 45' W. 493 feet, the variation being 12° east. The termination of this 6th and last course and distance being the above said most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods, as designated by the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, and being in latitude 49° 23' 55" north of the equator, and in longitude 95° 14' 38" west from Greenwich. The second article of the convention of 1818 is as follows: Article 2. It is agreed that a line drawn from the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods along the 49th parallel of north latitude, or, if the said point shall not be in the 49th parallel of north latitude, then that a line drawn from the said point due north or south, as the case may be, until the said line shall intersect the said parallel of north latitude, and from the point of such intersection due west, along and with the said parallel, shall be the line of demarkation between the territories of the United States and His Britannic Majesty, and that the said line shall form the northern boundary of the said territories of the United States and the southern boundary of His Britannic Majesty, from the Lake of the Woods to the Stony Mountains. This boundary was re-established and determined by a commission authorized by congress, and the surveys embracing four years were made and reported to congress in 1877.

(a) Courts cannot control or interfere with an executive officer of the state in his official acts, even though they are such that the duty to perform them might have been entrusted to some other officer. 28 Minn. 50.

such sessions, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor.

Apportionment of members. SEC. 2. The number of members who compose the Senate and House of Representatives shall be prescribed by law, but the representation in the Senate shall never exceed one member for every 5,000 inhabitants, and in the House of Representatives one member for every 2,000 inhabitants. The representation in both houses shall be apportioned equally throughout the different sections of the State, in proportion to the population thereof, exclusive of Indians not taxable under the provisions of law.

Eligibility of members—quorum. SEC. 3. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and eligibility of its own members; a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to transact business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as it may provide.

Rules of government. SEC. 4. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, sit upon its own adjournment, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member; but no member shall be expelled the second time for the same offense.

Officers—journal of proceedings. SEC. 5. The House of Representatives shall elect its presiding officer and the Senate and House of Representatives shall elect such other officers as may be provided by law; they shall keep journals of their proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, and the yeas and nays, when taken on any question, shall be entered on such journals.

Length of adjournments. SEC. 6. Neither house shall, during a session of the legislature, adjourn for more than three days (Sundays excepted), nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be assembled, without the consent of the other house.

Compensation. SEC. 7. The compensation of senators and representatives shall be three dollars per diem during the first session, but may afterwards be prescribed by law. But no increase of compensation shall be prescribed which shall take effect during the period for which the members of the existing House of Representatives may have been elected.

Privileged from arrest. SEC. 8. The members of each house shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of their respective houses, and in going to or returning from the same. For any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Restriction as to holding office. SEC. 9. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he is elected, hold any office under the authority of the United States or the State of Minnesota, except that of postmaster, and no senator or representative shall hold an office under the state which has been created or the emoluments of which have been increased during the session of the legislature of which he was a member, until one year after the expiration of his term of office in the legislature.

Bills of revenue to originate in House. SEC. 10. All bills for raising a revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose and concur with the amendments as on other bills.

Approval of bills by Governor—action on non-approval. SEC. 11. Every bill which shall have passed the Senate and House of Representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the State. If he approves, he shall sign and deposit it in the office of secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment within that time, prevents its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law.

Governor may cut out items of appropriation bills and otherwise approve. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

Money appropriations, how made. SEC. 12. No money shall be appropriated except by bill. Every order, resolution or vote requiring the concurrence of the two houses (except such as relate to the business or adjournment of the same) shall be presented to the governor for his signature, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being returned by him with his objections, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the members of the two houses, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in case of a bill.

Majority vote of all members-elect to pass a law. SEC. 13. The style of all laws of this State shall be: "Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota." No law shall be passed unless voted for by a majority of all the members elected to each branch of the legislature, and the vote entered upon the journal of each house.

Impeachment powers. SEC. 14. The House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment, through a concurrence of a majority of all the members elected to seats therein. All impeachments shall be tried by the Senate; and when sitting for that purpose the senators shall be upon oath or affirmation to do justice according to law and evidence. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Exclusion from civil rights. SEC. 15. The legislature shall have full power to exclude from the privilege of electing or being elected any person convicted of bribery, perjury, or any other infamous crime.

Protest and dissent of members. SEC. 16. Two or more members of either house shall have liberty to dissent and protest against any act or resolution which they may think injurious to the public or to any individual, and have the reason of their dissent entered on the journal.

Vacancies in legislature. SEC. 17. The governor shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies as may occur in either house of the legislature. The legislature shall prescribe by law the manner in which evidence in cases of contested seats in either house shall be taken.

Punish for disorderly conduct. SEC. 18. Each house may punish by imprisonment, during its session, any person, not a member, who shall be guilty of any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in their presence, but no such imprisonment shall at any time exceed twenty-four hours.

Open sessions. SEC. 19. Each house shall be open to the public during the sessions thereof, except in such cases as in their opinion may require secrecy.

Reading of bills. SEC. 20. Every bill shall be read on three different days in each separate house, unless, in case of urgency, two-thirds of the house where such bill is depending shall deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and no bill shall be passed by either house until it shall have been previously read twice at length.

Enrollment of bills. SEC. 21. Every bill having passed both houses shall be carefully enrolled, and shall be signed by the presiding officer of each house. Any presiding officer refusing to sign a bill which shall have previously passed both houses shall thereafter be incapable of holding a seat in either branch of the legislature, or hold any other office of honor or profit in the State, and in case of such refusal, each house shall, by rule, provide the manner in which such bill shall be properly certified for presentation to the governor.

Passage of bills on last day of session prohibited. SEC. 22. No bill shall be passed by either house of the legislature upon the day prescribed for the adjournment of the two houses. But this section shall not be so construed as to preclude the enrollment of a bill, or the signature and passage from one house to the other, or the reports thereon from committees, or its transmission to the executive for his signature.

Census enumeration — apportionment. SEC. 23. The legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of this State in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and every tenth year thereafter. At their first session after each enumeration so made, and also at their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe the bounds of congressional, senatorial and representative districts, and to apportion anew the senators and representatives among the several districts according to the provisions of section second of this article.

Senatorial districts — term of office of senators and representatives. SEC. 24. The senators shall also be chosen by single districts of convenient contiguous territory, at the same time that members of the house of representatives are required to be chosen, and in the same manner; and no representative district shall be divided in the formation of a senate district. The senate districts shall be numbered in a regular series. The terms of office of senators and representatives shall be the same as now prescribed by law until the general election of the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), at which time there shall be an entire new election of all the senators and representatives. Representatives chosen at such election, or at any election thereafter, shall hold their office for the term of two years, except it be to fill a vacancy; and the senators chosen at such election by districts designated as odd numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the second year, and senators chosen by districts designated by even numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the fourth year; and thereafter senators shall be chosen for four years, except there shall be an entire new election of all the senators at the election of representatives next succeeding each new apportionment provided for in this article.

Qualification of legislators. SEC. 25. Senators and representatives shall be qualified voters of the State, and shall have resided one year in the State and six months immediately preceding the election in the district from which they are elected.

Senators to Congress. SEC. 26. Members of the Senate of the United States from this State shall be elected by the two houses of the legislature in joint convention, at such time and in such manner as may be provided by law. [While still law, this is of no effect because of passage of Federal Constitution No. 17 in 1913.]

Laws to embrace only one subject. SEC. 27. No law shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title.

Divorces. SEC. 28. Divorces shall not be granted by the legislature.

Oath of office. SEC. 29. All members and officers of both branches of the legislature shall, before entering upon the duties of their respective trusts, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation to support the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of the State of Minnesota, and faithfully and impartially to discharge the duties devolving upon him as such member or officer.

Elections viva voce. SEC. 30. In all elections to be made by the legislature, the members thereof shall vote viva voce, and their votes shall be entered on the journal.

Prohibition of lotteries. SEC. 31. The legislature shall never authorize any lottery or the sale of lottery tickets.

Change of form of taxation of railroads to be voted upon. SEC. 32. Such charter shall be submitted to the qualified voters of such city or village at the next election thereafter, and if four-sevenths of the qualified voters voting at such election shall ratify the same it shall, at the end of thirty days thereafter, become the charter of such city or village as a city, and supersede any existing charter and amendments thereof; provided, that in cities having patrol limits now established, such charters shall require a three-fourths majority vote of the qualified voters voting at such election to change the patrol limits now established.

Legislature to prescribe general limits of charter—amendment of charter—upon application of 5 per cent of legal voters. Before any city shall incorporate under this act the legislature shall prescribe by law the general limits within which such charter shall be framed. Duplicate certificates shall be made setting forth the charter proposed and its ratification, which shall be signed by the chief magistrate of said city or village and authenticated by its corporate seal. One of said certificates shall be deposited in the office of secretary of state, and the other, after being recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county in which such city or village lies, shall be deposited among the archives of such city or village, and all courts shall take judicial notice thereof. Such charter so deposited may be amended by proposal therefor made by a board of fifteen commissioners aforesaid, published for at least thirty days in three newspapers of general circulation in such city or village, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city or village voting at the next election, and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the Constitution and laws of the State of Minnesota. The legislature may prescribe the duties of the commission relative to submitting amendments of charter to the vote of the people and shall provide that upon application of five per cent of the legal voters of any such city or village, by written petition, such commission shall submit to the vote of the people proposed amendments to such charter set forth in said petition. The board of freeholders above provided for shall be permanent, and all the vacancies by death, disability to perform duties, resignation or removal from the corporate limits, or expiration of term of office, shall be filled by appointment in the same manner as the original board was created, and said board shall always contain its full complement of members.

Articles of amendment may be submitted separately. The legislature may provide general laws relating to affairs of cities, the application of which may be limited to cities of over fifty thousand inhabitants, or to cities of fifty and not less than twenty thousand inhabitants, or to cities of twenty and not less than ten thousand inhabitants, or to cities of ten thousand inhabitants or less, which shall apply equally to all such cities of either class, and which shall be paramount while in force to the provisions relating to the same matter included in the local charter herein provided for. The principal of all funds arising from sales or other disposition of lands or other property, granted or entrusted to this State in each township for educational purposes, shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished; and the income arising from the lease or sale of said school land shall be distributed to the different townships throughout the State, in proportion to the number of scholars in each township, between the ages of five and twenty-one years; and shall be faithfully applied to the specific objects of the original grants or appropriations.

Investment of funds. Suitable laws shall be enacted by the legislature for the safe investment of the principal of all funds which have heretofore arisen or which may hereafter arise from the sale or other disposition of such lands, or the income from such lands accruing in any way before the sale or disposition thereof, in interest-bearing bonds of the United States, or of the State of Minnesota, issued after the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty (1860), or of such other state as the legislature may, by law, from time to time direct.

It shall be levied, collected and paid into the county and state treasuries in the same manner as state taxes, and any excess collected over the amount of such principal or interest accruing in any given year shall be credited to the general funds of the respective counties or school districts. No change of the boundaries of any school district after the making of any such loan shall operate to withdraw any property from the taxation herein provided for; nor shall any law be passed extending the time of payment of any such principal or interest, or reducing the rate of such interest, or in any manner waiving or impairing any rights of the State in connection with any such loan. Suitable laws, not inconsistent with this amendment, may be passed by the legislature for the purpose of carrying the same into effect. (a)

Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property, and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, as the legislature may determine: Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and, provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads.

The Legislature shall by law make the necessary provisions for carrying out the provisions of this section.

N. B.—Sections 2, 3 and 4 obsolete, because in 1906 there was adopted the section which now is Section 1 in this article. It supplanted Sections 1, 2, 3 and 4 and the unnumbered section of 1896. This amendment is sometimes called the wide open tax amendment. No amendments have been adopted to take the place of the old sections 2, 3 and 4. There is therefore a gap in the numbering from 1 to 5.

State debt limited—how contracted. *SEC. 5. For the purpose of defraying extraordinary expenditures, the state may contract public debts, but such debts shall never, in the aggregate, exceed two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; every such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single object, to be distinctly specified therein; and no such law shall take effect until it shall have been passed by the vote of two-thirds of the members of each branch of the legislature, to be recorded by yeas and nays on the journals of each house respectively; and every such law shall levy a tax annually sufficient to pay the annual interest of such debt, and also a tax sufficient to pay the principal of such debt within ten years from the final passage of such law, and shall specially appropriate the proceeds of such taxes to the payment of such principal and interest; and such appropriation and taxes shall not be repealed, postponed, or diminished, until the principal and interest of such debt shall have been wholly paid. The state shall never contract any debts for works of internal improvements, or be a party in carrying on such works, except as authorized by section 16 of Article 9, and by Article 16 of this Constitution, but it may levy an excise tax upon any substance, material, fluid, force or other means or instrumentality, or the business of dealing in, selling or producing any or all thereof, used or useful, in producing or generating power for propelling motor or other vehicles used on the public highways of this State, and shall place the proceeds of such tax in the Trunk Highway Fund provided for in Sec-

General banking law—provision and restrictions. SEC. 13. The legislature may, by a two-thirds vote, pass a general banking law, with the following restrictions and requirements, viz.:

First—The legislature shall have no power to pass any law sanctioning in any manner, directly, or indirectly, the suspension of specie payments by any person, association or corporation issuing bank notes of any description.

The state flower is the showy pink and white moccasin flower, the largest blossom pictured in the accompanying illustration, and known as the Cypripedium Spectabile and the earlier name of Cypripedium Reginae.

The state legislature adopted a state flower or floral emblem during February, 1892, on a petition signed by Mrs. A. L. Stebbins of Rochester and other members of the Woman's Auxiliary, Board of World's Fair Managers, urging adoption of the "Wild Lady Slipper or Moccasin Flower," Cypripedium Calceolus, which was followed.

Women of the St. Anthony Study Circle, through Mrs. E. C. Chatfield of Minneapolis, announced later that the calceolus was not found in Minnesota and in February, 1902, the legislature changed the designation to the reginae.

Thus the Cypripedium Reginae became the Minnesota state flower. The name Cypripedium, from the Greek words meaning the shoe of Venus, published for this genus in 1737 by Linnaeus, and its common English and American popular names, as Lady's Slipper, Moccasin Flower and Indian Shoe, refer to the saccate and somewhat shoe-like form of the most conspicuous petal (in this Orchis family called the lip) of the flower. The plants grow preferably in cool and moist woods and in bogs, flowering from May to July. The reginae is one of six species found in Minnesota.

NOTE.—Minnesota has fourteen genera, including forty-one species, of the Orchis family, to which the Cypripediums belong. In total, 1,583 species of flowering plants, and sixty-eight ferns and their allies, making together 1,650 species, were tabulated, as known to grow without cultivation in this state, by Warren Upham in the Catalogue of the Flora of Minnesota, published in the Twelfth Annual Report of the Geological and Natural History Survey for the year 1883 (193 pages, with a map showing the areas of forest and prairie). Within the basin of the Minnesota river, according to the report in 1892 by Prof. Conway MacMillan, the state botanist, 1,174 species and varieties of flowering plants, including all our Cypripediums, are known and have been collected for the Herbarium of the State University. The State Flower is thus chosen from among more than a thousand others which bloom on our prairies, in the northern woods, in their cool bogs, and in our streams and lakes.

ACT OF ADMISSION INTO THE UNION

An Act for the admission of Minnesota into the Union.
[Passed May 11, 1858.]

WHEREAS, An act of Congress was passed February twenty-sixth, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government preparatory to their admission into the Union on an equal footing with the original states"; and, whereas, the people of said Territory did, on the twenty-ninth day of August, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, by delegates elected for that purpose, form for themselves a constitution and state government, which is republican in form, and was ratified and adopted by the people at an election held on the thirteenth day of October, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, for that purpose; therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the State of Minnesota shall be one, and is hereby declared to be one, of the United States of America, and admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states in all respects whatever.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That said State shall be entitled to two representatives in Congress, until the next apportionment of representatives among the several states.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That from and after the admission of the State of Minnesota, as hereinbefore provided, all the laws of the United States which are not locally inapplicable shall have the same force and effect within that State as in other States of the Union; and the said State is hereby constituted a judicial district of the United States, within which a district court, with like powers and jurisdiction as the district court of the United States for the district of Iowa, shall be established; the judge, attorney and marshal of the United States of the said district of Minnesota shall reside within the same, and shall be entitled to the same compensation as the judge, attorney and marshal of the district of Iowa; and in all cases of appeal or writ of error heretofore prosecuted and now pending in the supreme court of the United States, upon any record from the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, the mandate of execution or order of further proceedings shall be directed by the supreme court of the United States to the district court of the United States for the district of Minnesota, or to the supreme court of the State of Minnesota, as the nature of such appeal or writ of error may require; and each of those courts shall be the successor of the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, as to all such cases, with full power to hear and determine the same, and to ward mesne or final process therein.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

THE UNANIMOUS DECLARATION OF THE THIRTEEN UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive to these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable and distant from the repository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time after such dissolutions to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large, for their exercise, the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our government:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has incited domestic insurrections among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind—enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in general congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of DIVINE PROVIDENCE, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

THE ARTICLES OF CONFEDERATION

IN CONGRESS, JULY 9, 1778.

Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union between the States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia.

ARTICLE 1. The style of this confederacy shall be "THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA."

ART. 2. Each state retains its sovereignty, freedom, and independence, and every power, jurisdiction, and right, which is not by this confederation expressly delegated to the United States in Congress assembled.

ART. 3. The said states hereby severally enter into a firm league of friendship with each other for their common defense, the security of their liberties, and their mutual, and general welfare, binding themselves to assist each other against all force offered to or attacks made upon them, or any of them, on account of religion, sovereignty, trade, or any other pretence whatever.

ART. 4. § 1. The better to secure and perpetuate mutual friendship and intercourse among the people of the different states in this Union, the free inhabitants of each of these states (paupers, vagabonds, and fugitives from justice excepted) shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of free citizens in the several states, and the people of each state shall have free ingress and egress to and from any other state, and shall enjoy therein all the privileges of trade and commerce, subject to the same duties, impositions and restrictions as the inhabitants thereof respectively; provided, that such restrictions shall not extend so far as to prevent the removal of property imported into any state, to any other state of which the owner is an inhabitant; provided, also, that no imposition, duties, or restriction shall be laid by any state on the property of the United States, or either of them.

§ 2. If any person guilty of, or charged with, treason, felony, or other high misdemeanor, in any state, shall flee from justice, and be found in any of the United States, he shall, upon the demand of the governor or executive power of the state from which he fled, be delivered up and removed to the state having jurisdiction of his offense.

§ 3. Full faith and credit shall be given in each of these states to the records, acts and judicial proceedings of the courts and magistrates of every other state.

ART. 5. § 1. For the more convenient management of the general interests of the United States, delegates shall be annually appointed in such manner as the legislature of each state shall direct, to meet in congress on the first Monday in November, of every year, with a power reserved to each state to recall its delegates, or any of them, at any time within the year, and to send others in their stead, for the remainder of the year.

§ 2. No state shall be represented in congress by less than two, nor more than seven, members; and no person shall be capable of being a delegate for more than three years, in any term of six years; nor shall any person, being a delegate, be capable of holding any office under the United States, for which he, or any other for his benefit, receives any salary, fees, or emoluments of any kind.

§ 3. Each state shall maintain its own delegates in a meeting of the states, and while they act as members of the committee of these states.

§ 4. In determining questions in the United States in congress assembled, each state shall have one vote.

§ 5. Freedom of speech and debate in congress shall not be impeached or questioned in any court or place out of congress, and the members of congress shall be protected in their persons from arrests and imprisonments during the time of their going to and from, and attendance on, congress, except for treason, felony, or breach of the peace.

ART. 6. § 1. No state, without the consent of the United States in congress assembled, shall send any embassy to, or receive any embassy from, or enter into any conference, agreement, alliance or treaty with, any kind, prince or state; nor shall any person holding any office of profit or trust under the United States, or any of them, accept any present, emolument, office, or title of any kind whatever from any king, prince, or foreign state; nor shall the United States in congress assembled, or any of them, grant any title of nobility.

§ 2. No two or more states shall enter into any treaty, confederation, or alliance whatever, between them, without the consent of the United States in congress assembled, specifying accurately the purposes for which the same is to be entered into, and how long it shall continue.

§ 3. No state shall lay any imposts or duties which may interfere with any stipulations in treaties entered into by the United States, in congress assembled, with any king, prince, or state, in pursuance of any treaties already proposed by congress to the courts of France and Spain.

§ 4. No vessels of war shall be kept up in time of peace by any state, except such number only as shall be deemed necessary by the United States in congress assembled, for the defense of such state, or its trade; nor shall any body or forces be kept up by any state, in time of peace, except such number only as, in the judgment of the United States in congress assembled, shall be deemed requisite to garrison the forts necessary for the defense of such state; but every state shall always keep up a well regulated and disciplined militia, sufficiently armed and accoutered, and shall provide and constantly have ready for use, in public stores, a due number of field pieces and tents, and a proper quantity of arms, ammunition and camp equipage.

§ 5. No state shall engage in any war without the consent of the United States in congress assembled, unless such state be actually invaded by enemies, or shall have received certain advice of a resolution being formed by some nation of Indians to invade such state, and the danger is so imminent as not to admit a delay till the United States in congress assembled can be consulted; nor shall any state grant commissions to any ships or vessels of war, nor letters of marque or reprisal, except it be after a declaration of war by the United States in congress assembled, and then only against the kingdom or state, and the subjects thereof, against which war has been so declared, and under such regulations as shall be established by the United States in congress assembled, unless such state be infested by pirates, in which case vessels of war may be fitted out for that occasion, and kept so long as the danger shall continue, or until the United States in congress assembled shall determine otherwise.

ART. 7. When land forces are raised by any state for the common defense, all officers of or under the rank of colonel shall be appointed by the legislature of each state, respectively, by whom such forces shall be raised, or in such manner as such state shall direct, and all vacancies shall be filled up by the state which first made the appointment.

ART. 8. All charges of war, and all other expenses that shall be incurred for the common defense or general welfare, and allowed by the United States in congress assembled, shall be defrayed out of a common treasury, which shall be supplied by the several states, in proportion to the value of all lands within each state, granted to or surveyed for any person, as such land and the buildings and improvements thereon shall be estimated, according to such mode as the United States in congress assembled shall, from time to time, direct and appoint. The taxes for paying that proportion shall be laid and levied by the authority and direction of the legislatures of the several states within the time agreed upon by the United States in congress assembled.

ART. 9. § 1. The United States in congress assembled shall have the sole and exclusive right and power of determining on peace and war, except in the cases mentioned in the sixth article; of sending and receiving ambassadors, entering into treaties and alliances; provided, that no treaty of commerce shall be made whereby the legislative power of the respective states shall be restrained from imposing such imposts and duties on foreigners as their own people are subjected to, or from prohibiting the exportation or importation of any species of goods or commodities whatsoever; of establishing rules for deciding in all cases what captures on land or water shall be legal, and in what manner prizes taken by land or naval forces in the service of the United States shall be divided or appropriated; of granting letters of marque and reprisal in times of peace; appointing courts for the trial of piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and establishing courts for receiving and determining finally appeals in all cases of captures; provided, that no member of congress shall be appointed a judge of any of the said courts.

§ 2. The United States in congress assembled shall also be the last resort on appeal in all disputes and differences now subsisting, or that may hereafter arise, between two or more states concerning boundary, jurisdiction, or any other cause whatever; which authority shall always be exercised in the manner following: Whenever the legislative or executive authority or lawful agent of any state in controversy with another shall present a petition to congress, stating the matter in question, and praying for a hearing, notice thereof shall be given by order of congress to the legislative or executive authority of the other state in controversy, and a day assigned for the appearance of the parties by their lawful agents, who shall then be directed to appoint, by joint consent, commissioners or judges to constitute a court for hearing and determining the matter in question; but if they cannot agree, congress shall name three persons out of each of the United States, and from the list of such persons each party shall alternately strike out one, the petitioners beginning, until the number shall be reduced to thirteen; and from that number not less than seven nor more than nine names, as congress shall direct, shall, in the presence of congress, be drawn out by lot; the persons whose names shall be so drawn, or any five of them, shall be commissioners or judges to hear and finally determine the controversy, so always as a major part of the judges who shall hear the cause shall agree in the determination; and if either party shall neglect to attend at the day appointed, without showing reasons which congress shall judge sufficient, or being present shall refuse to strike, the congress shall proceed to nominate three persons out of each state, and the secretary of congress shall strike in behalf of such party absent or refusing; and the judgment and sentence of the court, to be appointed in the manner before described, shall be final and conclusive; and if any of the parties shall refuse to submit to the authority of such court, or to appear to defend their claim or cause, the court shall nevertheless proceed to pronounce sentence or judgment, which shall in like manner be final and decisive; the judgment or sentence and other proceedings being in either case transmitted to congress and lodged among the acts of congress, for the security of the parties concerned; provided, that every commissioner, before he sits in judgment, shall take an oath, to be administered by one of the judges of the supreme or superior court of the state where the cause shall be tried, "well and truly to hear and determine the matter in question, according to the best of his judgment, without favor, affection, or hope of reward"; provided, also, that no state shall be deprived of territory for the benefit of the United States.

§ 3. All controversies concerning the private right of soil claimed under different grants of two or more states, whose jurisdiction, as they may respect such lands, and the states which passed such grants are adjusted, the said grants or either of them being at the same time claimed to have originated antecedent to such settlement of jurisdiction, shall, on the petition of either party to the congress of the United States, be finally determined, as near as may be, in the same manner as is before prescribed for deciding disputes respecting territorial jurisdiction between different states.

§ 4. The United States in congress assembled shall also have the sole and exclusive right and power of regulating the alloy and value of coin struck by their own authority, or by that of the respective states; fixing the standards of weights and measures, throughout the United States; regulating the trade and managing all affairs with the Indians, not members of any of the states; provided, that the legislative right of any state, within its own limits, be not infringed or violated; establishing and regulating postoffices from one state to another, throughout all the United States, and exacting such postage on the papers passing through the same as may be requisite to defray the expenses of the said office; appointing all officers of the land forces in the service of the United States, excepting regimental officers; appointing all the officers of the naval forces, and commissioning all officers whatever in the service of the United States; making rules for the government and regulation of the said land and naval forces, and directing their operations.

§ 5. The United States in congress assembled shall have authority to appoint a committee, to sit in the recess of congress, to be denominated "A Committee of the States," and to consist of one delegate from each state; and to appoint such other committees and civil officers as may be necessary for managing the general affairs of the United States under their direction; to appoint one of their number to preside; provided, that no person be allowed to serve in the office of president more than one year in any term of three years; to ascertain the necessary sums of money to be raised for the service of the United States, and to appropriate and apply the same for defraying the public expenses; to borrow money or emit bills on the credit of the United States, transmitting every half year to the respective states an account of the sums of money so borrowed or emitted; to build and equip a navy; to agree upon the number of land forces, and to make requisitions from each state for its quota, in proportion to the number of white inhabitants in such state, which requisition shall be binding; and thereupon the legislature of each state shall appoint the regimental officers, raise the men, and clothe, arm and equip them, in a soldier-like manner, at the expense of the United States; and the officers and men so clothed, armed and equipped shall march to the place appointed, and within the time agreed on by the United States in congress assembled; but if the United States in congress assembled shall, on consideration of circumstances, judge proper that any state should not raise men, or should raise a smaller number than its quota, and that any other state should raise a greater number of men than the quota thereof, such extra number shall be raised, officered, clothed, armed and equipped in the same manner as the quota of such state, unless the legislature of such state shall judge that such extra number cannot be safely spared out of the same, in which case they shall raise, officer, clothe, arm and equip as many of such extra number as they judge can be safely spared, and the officers and men so clothed, armed, and equipped shall march to the place appointed, and within the time agreed on by the United States in congress assembled.

§ 6. The United States in congress assembled shall never engage in a war, nor grant letters of marque and reprisal in time of peace, nor enter into any treaties or alliances, nor coin money, nor regulate the value thereof, nor ascertain the sums and expenses necessary for the defense and welfare of the United States, or any of them, nor emit bills, nor borrow money on the credit of the United States, nor appropriate money, nor agree upon the number of vessels of war to be built or purchased, or the number of land or sea forces to be raised, nor appoint a commander-in-chief of the army or navy, unless nine states assent to the same; nor shall a question on any other point, except for adjourning from day to day, be determined, unless by the votes of a majority of the United States in congress assembled.

§ 7. The congress of the United States shall have power to adjourn to any time within the year, and to any place within the United States, so that no period of adjournment be for a longer duration than the space of six months, and shall publish the journal of their proceedings monthly, except such parts thereof relating to treaties, alliances, or military operations as in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the delegates of each state, on any question, shall be entered on the journal, when it is desired by any delegate; and the delegates of a state, or any of them, at his or their request, shall be furnished with a transcript of the said journal, except such parts as are above excepted, to lay before the legislatures of the several states.

ART. 10. The committee of the states, or any nine of them, shall be authorized to execute, in the recess of congress, such of the powers of congress as the United States in congress assembled, by the consent of nine states, shall, from time to time, think expedient to vest them with; provided, that no power be delegated to the said committee, for the exercise of which, by the articles of confederation, the voice of nine states, in the congress of the United States assembled, is requisite.

ART. 11. Canada acceding to this confederation, and joining in the measures of the United States, shall be admitted into and entitled to all the advantages of this Union; but no other colony shall be admitted into the same, unless such admission be agreed to by nine states.

ART. 12. All bills of credit emitted, moneys borrowed, and debts contracted by or under the authority of congress, before the assembling of the United States, in pursuance of the present confederation, shall be deemed and considered as a charge against the United States, for payment and satisfaction whereof the said United States and the public faith are hereby solemnly pledged.

ART. 13. Every state shall abide by the determination of the United States in congress assembled, on all questions which by this confederation are submitted to them. And the articles of this confederation shall be inviolably observed by every state, and the Union shall be perpetual; nor shall any alteration at any time hereafter be made in any of them, unless such alteration be agreed to in a congress of the United States, and be afterward confirmed by the legislature of every state.

And whereas, it has pleased the great Governor of the world to incline the hearts of the legislatures we respectively represent in congress to approve of and to authorize us to ratify the said articles of confederation and perpetual union, Know ye, that we, the undersigned delegates, by virtue of the power and authority to us given for that purpose, do by these presents, in the name and in behalf of our respective constituents, fully and entirely ratify and confirm each and every of the said articles of confederation and perpetual union, and all and singular the matters and things therein contained. And we do further solemnly plight and engage the faith of our respective constituents, that they shall abide by the determinations of the United States in congress assembled, on all questions which by the said confederation are submitted to them; and that the articles thereof shall be inviolably observed by the states we respectively represent, and that the Union shall be perpetual. In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands in congress.

Done at Philadelphia, in the State of Pennsylvania, the ninth day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-eight, and in the third year of the Independence of America.

Ratified by the States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided, as equally as may be, into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year: of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year. *When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the Senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The vice president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

The senate shall choose their own officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments.

*Amendments ratified 1913. See Amendment No. 17.

SEC. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meetings shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall, by law, appoint a different day.

SEC. 5. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same; excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the president of the United States: if he approve, he shall sign it: but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and, if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the president of the United States, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

The president shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SEC. 3. He shall, from time to time, give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. MOTIONS

19. When a motion is made and seconded it shall be stated by the President; or, being in writing it shall be handed to the Secretary and read aloud for debate.

20. Every motion or amendment shall be reduced to writing if the President or any member desires it. In such case it must be signed by the member or committee offering it.

21. After a motion is stated by the President or read by the Secretary, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the Senate, but may be withdrawn by the author at any time before decision or amendment.

PRECEDENCE OF MOTIONS

22. When a question is under debate no motion shall be received, but

To adjourn.

To lay on the table.

For the previous question.

Which three motions shall be decided without debate.

To commit.

To postpone to a day certain.

To amend, or

To postpone indefinitely.

These and several motions have precedence in the foregoing order; but a motion for the previous question having been seconded, or the main question ordered, a motion to lay on the table shall not be in order.

A motion to postpone to a certain day, to commit, to postpone indefinitely, or to amend, being decided, shall not again be allowed on the same day, nor at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

23. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, and also a motion to adjourn to a time certain. The latter motion is debatable. When either motion is refused it shall not be renewed until further business shall be transacted.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

24. The previous question shall be in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present, and its effect shall be to put an end to all debate, and bring the Senate to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, then upon all pending amendments in their order and then upon the main question. On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the ordering of the same, a call of the Senate shall be in order, but after a majority shall have ordered such motion, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

25. On a previous question there shall be no debate. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

RECONSIDERATION

26. When a motion or question has been once put and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for reconsideration thereof, on the same day on which the vote was taken, or within the next two days of actual session of the Senate thereafter; and such motion shall take precedence of all other questions, except a motion to adjourn. A motion for reconsideration being put and lost, shall not be renewed.

DIVISION OF QUESTION

27. Any member may call for a division of the question, when the same will admit of it. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed to be indivisible. A motion to strike out being lost shall not preclude an amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

PETITIONS AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS

28. In presenting a petition, memorial, remonstrance or other communication addressed to the Senate, the members shall only state the general purpose of it.

29. Every petition, memorial, remonstrance, resolution, bill and report of committee, shall be indorsed with its appropriate title, and immediately under the indorsement the name of the member presenting the same shall be written.

CALL OF THE SENATE

30. Any member may make a call of the Senate, and require absent members to be sent for, but a call of the Senate cannot be made after the voting has commenced; and the call of the Senate being ordered and the absentees noted, the doors shall be closed, and no member permitted to leave the room until further proceedings under the call be dispensed with by a majority vote of all the members of the Senate and the matter or question, if any, under consideration at the time of the call be disposed of, or the Senate adjourns.

Then in the proper place shall be inserted the words and characters constituting the new amending matter which shall be underscored, and when printed put in italics. The words and characters to be eliminated by the amendment shall be stricken out by a line drawn through the eliminated matter, and when the bill is printed such eliminated matter shall be capitalized and inclosed in brackets. The chairman of a committee reporting the action taken by his committee upon bills submitted to it shall do so upon the form provided for such reports, stating the date of the meeting when such action was taken, and shall authenticate the same by his signature. Any number of bills may be embodied in one report; but at the request of any member the report may be divided by excepting any bill therefrom and if this be done the bill so excepted may be acted upon independently from the report as a whole.

The report of any committee, or any part thereof, may be laid upon the table for a day and printed in the Journal, if so ordered by the House.

And, if reported identical, such Senate file may, by a majority vote, be substituted for the House file (the latter in such case being considered withdrawn) and shall take the place of the House file; provided, however, that the fact that the bills are identical shall be entered on the Journal.

Each member of the House shall leave on or under the desk, each time the House adjourns for the day, his file binder for bills. It shall be the duty of the Clerk of the House to have placed in each binder one copy of each bill to be printed under the Rules or Orders of the House at least forty-eight hours before the same shall be considered in the Committee of the Whole, and under the first Order of Business each day said Clerk shall report to the House what bills he has placed in the binders.

If progress is reported on a bill by the committee for three days, such bill shall go to the foot of General Orders, unless otherwise ordered by a majority vote.

Any Special Order, or any part thereof, may be continued or postponed by two-thirds vote of the entire House at the time of such Special Order.

When the time arrives for the consideration of any Special Order, the House shall proceed to the consideration of the bill or bills upon the said Special Order in the order in which they are respectively listed; and after consideration they shall immediately be read the third time and placed upon final passage.

DUTIES OF MEMBERS

17. When the House adjourns, the members shall keep their seats until the Speaker announces the adjournment.

The Chief Clerk shall report any missing papers to the Speaker. He shall have general supervision of all clerical duties appertaining to the business of the House; shall perform under the direction of the Speaker all the duties pertaining to his office, and shall keep a book showing the situation and progress of bills, memorials, and joint resolutions.

CLERICAL CORRECTIONS TO BILLS

22. (a) Minor clerical errors in any bill, memorial or resolution, such as errors in orthography or grammar, or the incorrect use of one word for another (as "affect" for "effect") or wrong numbering of references, whether such errors occur in the original bill or any amendment thereto, shall be corrected by the Chief Clerk, as a matter of course, upon the approval of the Chairman of any committee to which the bill was referred.

(b) The Chief Clerk shall insert the enacting clause in any bill before its passage if the same shall have been omitted.

(c) Any corrections made by the Clerk under this rule shall be noted by him in the Journal.

23. No member or other person shall remain by the Clerk's desk when the yeas and nays are being called.

DUTIES OF THE SERGEANT-AT-ARMS

24. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms to execute all orders of the House or its presiding officer; to perform all duties that may, from time to time, be assigned to him, connected with the police and good order of the House; to exercise supervision over the ingress and egress of all persons to and from the Chamber; to see that all messages, etc., etc., are promptly executed; and that the hall is properly ventilated and open for the use of the members; and to perform all other services pertaining to the office of Sergeant-at-Arms.

SMOKING PROHIBITED

25. No person shall be permitted to smoke in the House Chamber while that body is in session. The Sergeant-at-Arms is charged with the duty of enforcing observance of this rule.

ORDER IN DEBATE

26. No member shall speak more than twice on the same subject without leave of the House, nor more than once until every other member wishing to speak on the pending question shall have spoken.

MOTIONS

27. No motion shall be debated or put unless the same be seconded. It shall be stated by the Speaker before debate, and any such motion shall be reduced to writing if the Speaker or any other member requires it.

After a motion has been stated by the Speaker, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House, but may be withdrawn by the mover at any time before amendment or decision; but all motions, resolutions or amendments shall be entered in the Journal unless withdrawn the same day.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

28. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order except during roll call.

When a motion to adjourn is made and seconded it shall be in order for the Speaker, before putting the question, to permit any member to state any fact to the House, relative to the condition of the business of the House, which would seem to render it improper to adjourn at that time. Such statement, however, shall not be debatable and shall not, in any case, occupy more than two minutes.

PRECEDENCE OF MOTIONS

29. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but:

- | | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| 1. To adjourn. | 4. To commit. |
| 2. To lay on the table. | 5. To postpone to a day certain. |
| 3. For the previous question. | 6. To amend. |
| (Which three motions shall be decided without debate.) | 7. To postpone indefinitely. |

These several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order; but the previous question having been seconded, and the main question ordered, a motion to lay on the table shall not be in order.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

30. (a) The previous question shall be in this form: "The Gentleman from..... moves the previous question. Do fifteen members second the motion?" If the motion be properly seconded, the question shall be stated as follows: "As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say 'aye'; as many as are opposed will say 'no'." There shall be a motion for the previous question, which, being ordered by a majority of all members present, shall have the effect to cut off all debate and bring the House to a direct vote upon the immediate question or questions upon which it has been ordered.

The previous question may be asked and ordered upon a single motion, a series of motions allowable under the rules or an amendment or amendments; or it may be made to embrace all authorized motions or amendments and include the bill to its passage or rejection.

(b) On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the ordering of the same, a call of the House shall be in order, but after a majority shall have ordered such motion, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

(c) When the previous question is decided in the negative it shall leave the main question under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking a vote on the question or in some other manner.

INCIDENTAL QUESTIONS OF ORDER

31. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, during the pendency of such motion, or after the House shall have determined that the main question now be put, shall be decided whether on appeal or otherwise without debate.

PETITIONS, ETC.—HOW PRESENTED

32. Petitions, memorials and other papers presented to the House shall be presented by the Speaker or member in his place, and a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made verbally and endorsed thereon, together with the name of the member introducing the same.

EVERY MEMBER TO VOTE UNLESS EXCUSED

33. Every member who shall be present before the vote is declared from the chair, shall vote for or against the matter before the House, unless the House shall excuse him, or unless he is immediately interested in the question, in which case he shall not vote.

PROCEDURE IN EXCUSING MEMBER FROM VOTING

34. When a member declines to vote on a call of his name, he shall be required to assign his reasons therefor; and having assigned them, the presiding officer shall submit the question to the House, "Shall the member, for the reasons assigned by him, be excused from voting?" which shall be decided without debate. And these proceedings shall be had after the roll call and before the result is announced, and any further proceedings in reference thereto shall be after such announcement.

ORDER DURING SESSION

35. When the Speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk out of or across the House, nor when a member is speaking shall any other member entertain any private discourse or pass between the speaking member and the chair.

ORDER OF PUTTING QUESTION

36. All questions, whether in committee or in the House, shall be put in order in which they are moved, except in the case of privileged questions, and in filling up blanks the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

DIVISION OF A QUESTION

37. If the question in debate contains several points any member may have the said question divided. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible, but a motion to strike out being lost shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

QUESTIONS OF ORDER

38. If any member of the House, in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules, the Speaker shall (or any member may) call him to order, in which case he shall immediately sit down unless permitted on motion of another member to explain, and the House, if appealed to, shall decide in either case without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed, but not otherwise; and if the case require it, he shall be liable to censure or such punishment as the House may deem proper.

CALLED TO ORDER FOR OFFENSIVE WORDS IN DEBATE

39. If any member be called to order for offensive words in debate the person calling him to order shall report the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's desk and no member shall be held to answer, or be subject to the censure of the House, for language used in debate if any other member has spoken or other business has intervened after the words spoken and before exception to them shall have been taken.

MEMBERS MAY DEMAND YEAS AND NAYS

40. The yeas and nays shall not be ordered unless demanded by ten members, except upon final passage of bills, joint resolutions, and motions directing the payment of money. In these cases yeas and nays shall be ordered without demand.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO DEBATE

41. Upon any member giving notice of his intention to debate any resolution, the same shall lie over one day without debate or any other action.

CALL OF THE HOUSE

42. Ten members may demand a call of the House and require absent members to be sent for; but a call of the House cannot be made after the voting has commenced, and such call being ordered, the doors shall be closed and no member permitted to leave the chamber until the call is suspended. And, pending to the call, no motion shall be made in order except it pertains to matters incidental to the call or motion to suspend further proceedings under the same, provided that the call shall not be suspended until the calling of the roll has been completed. Thereafter the call may be suspended by majority vote of the entire House only when all members are present or at any time by a two-thirds vote of the entire House. After the call of the House has been ordered and proceedings thereunder are suspended, the Sergeant-at-Arms shall not permit any member to leave the Chamber unless excused by the Speaker.

SUSPENSION OF RULES TO HASTEN A BILL

43. Every bill shall be read on the three different days, unless, in case of urgency, two-thirds of the whole House deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and no bill shall be passed until it shall have been read at length twice, provided that no motion for suspension of the rules to advance a bill for consideration out of its regular order shall be made or entertained unless presented to the Speaker in writing stating the present position of the bill and then only under the order of business "Motions and Resolutions," as such order of business is reached under Rule 3. Unanimous consent must be first obtained by the member making the motion before the Speaker can entertain the motion to suspend the rules at any other time.

PROCEEDINGS ON THE PASSAGE OF BILLS

44. No resolution involving the expenditure of money out of the legislative expense fund or otherwise, or joint resolution, shall be declared passed until voted for by a majority of all members elected to the House, to be determined by a roll call. All resolutions involving the expenditure of money out of the legislative expense fund shall be referred to the Rules Committee before being acted upon by the House. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of its being an amendment. No bill or resolution shall at any time be amended by annexing thereto or incorporating therein any other bill or resolution pending before the House.

AMENDMENTS TO APPROPRIATION BILLS

45. No amendment increasing the amount or amounts carried by any appropriation bill shall be declared passed until voted for by a majority of all members elected to the House.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

46. When a question has once been made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof; but no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion upon which the vote was taken shall have gone out of the possession of the House, announcing their decision. Nor shall any motion for reconsideration be in order unless made on the same day upon which the vote was taken, or within the next two days of actual session of the House thereafter.

Such motion shall take precedence over all other questions, except the motion to adjourn; provided that when notice of the intention to move such reconsideration shall be given by such member, the Clerk of the House shall retain the said bill, resolution, message, report, amendment or motion until after the expiration of the time during which such motion can be made, as hereinbefore provided, unless the same is previously disposed of. A motion for reconsideration having been put and lost shall not be renewed.

THE MOTION TO RESCIND

47. The motion to rescind shall not be in order at any time in any proceeding of the House or of any committee thereof.

AUTHORIZED MANUAL OF PARLIAMENTARY PRACTICE

48. The rules of parliamentary practice embraced in Robert's Rules of Order shall govern the House in all cases where they are applicable and in which they are not inconsistent with the standing rules of the House and joint rules and orders of the Senate and House of Representatives.

If the committee fails to report within three days, any member may at any time after the expiration of such three days, during the order of "Motions and Resolutions" demand the return forthwith to the House of the bill in question, which shall constitute the demand of the House, and the said bill shall at once be considered to be in possession of the House, subject however to such disposition as the House may determine. Provided, that the House can recall any bill from any committee at any time, give the same second reading and advance the same to General Orders by a majority vote of the members present.

PART II.

I.

HISTORY.

MINNESOTA.

Brief Historical Sketch of the North Star State.

The great and prosperous commonwealth now known as the State of Minnesota had earlier formed part of three great sovereignties: France, Spain and Great Britain. At different periods sections of it bore the names of the Northwest Territory, Louisiana, Missouri, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and finally "Minnesota," a name derived from two Sioux words meaning "sky-colored water," which was applied to its principal river.

The economic, political and institutional life of Minnesota can be traced back to the brilliant period of Louis XIV of France, and the French conquest of the territory furnishes one of the most fascinating chapters in American history. Whether this was effected by devoted priests under the direction of various religious orders or by intrepid adventurers encouraged in their undertakings by officials of the French government, makes little difference. The French were the pioneers in the development of the Northwest fur trade and it was the discovery of potential wealth in the large number of fur bearing animals in the territory that offered a promising field for white adventurous spirits from the settlements along the St. Lawrence river.

Thus it was that in the spring of 1655 traders, now indisputably identified as Medard Chouart, Sieur des Groseilliers, and Pierre Esprit Radisson, reached Minnesota, having crossed Wisconsin to the Mississippi river, and after more than a year's sojourn returned to Montreal laden with valuable pelts. They were the first white men to visit Minnesota, excepting a party from Scandinavia in the year 1362, made known by the Kensington rune stone, as narrated in Volume XV of the Minnesota Historical Society Collections.

Thereafter the possibilities of great wealth in the vast empire beyond the Great Lakes became known, and the commercial life of Minnesota may well be said to have commenced in the seventeenth century.

In 1679 Daniel Greysolon DuLhut (Duluth), a French officer, explored the region along the shores of Lake Superior and inland to Mille Lacs, where he held a council with the Indians. During the next summer he journeyed to the Mississippi river and there met Father Louis Hennepin, a missionary priest. Father Hennepin was on a voyage of discovery also, the object being to trace the source of the Mississippi. He reached the Falls of St. Anthony, the present site of the City of Minneapolis, in July, 1680.

The spirit of romance and adventure was ever present during this early period of Minnesota's history, in the latter part of the seventeenth century, but the aborigines did not always take kindly to the visitors. It was, therefore, a matter of self preservation that led to the erection by Nicholas Perrot of a fort on the shore of Lake Pepin in 1689, and of a similar means of defense by Pierre LeSueur, French explorer, on the Blue Earth river near its mouth, eleven years later.

When France lost her American dependencies in 1763, all that part of Minnesota east of the Mississippi river came under the control of Great Britain, and the result was that English trading enterprises began to supersede the French companies.

During the early years of this commercial warfare, there arrived in the territory Jonathan Carver, coming from Connecticut, who was the first "Yankee" to venture into the territory. With characteristic foresight, Carver established friendly relations with the Indians, and it is alleged that on May 1, 1767, he received a grant of land from the Sioux, including the present site of the city of St. Paul, but no government recognition of the grant, currently referred to as "Carver's Claim," has ever been obtained.

The battle for supremacy in the fur trade continued to occupy the attention of the French, British, and American companies, until the Northwest Company was organized in 1783, which ten to fifteen years later gained exclusive control of the trading region beyond the Great Lakes. This supremacy it practically maintained until 1808, when the American Fur Company came into existence. This latter company has been credited with being commercially and politically the greatest single force in the development of the territory of which Minnesota forms a part.

The section of this state west of the Mississippi had prior to 1803 been alternately possessed by Spain and France, but following the "Louisiana Purchase" in that year the southern and western area of Minnesota came under the jurisdiction of Missouri territory, and incidentally became a political division of the United States. In 1818 that part east of the Mississippi, which had been at first a section of the Northwest Territory and afterward successively of Indiana and Illinois, was included in Michigan Territory.

Geographers and scientific explorers were also taking an active interest in the territory, for in 1798 David Thompson traversed and mapped the Red Lake region, and the source of the Mississippi, later named Itasca lake, was visited in 1804 by William Morrison.

Two years after the Louisiana Purchase the Federal government sent an expedition here, commanded by Lieut. Zebulon M. Pike, who wintered near what is now Little Falls and visited the Indian trading posts which had been established at Leech and Cass Lakes.

Lieutenant Pike negotiated with the Sioux for the purchase of a tract of land extending from below the confluence of the Mississippi and St. Peter's (Minnesota) rivers, up the Mississippi to include the Falls of St. Anthony, extending nine miles on each side of the river. Another tract nine miles square at the mouth of the St. Croix river was included in the cession. In consideration of these grants the Government paid $2,000, the actual payment being made in the distribution of goods to the Indians by Major Forsyth in 1819; and in that year Fort St. Anthony, six years afterward renamed Fort Snelling, was located at the mouth of the Minnesota river.

Another Government expedition arrived in the territory in 1820, headed by General Lewis Cass, who then was governor of Michigan, which comprised all the territory between the Detroit river on the east and the Mississippi on the west. This expedition, coming by the way of Lake Superior, ascended the Mississippi river to Cass Lake, so named by the historian, Henry Schoolcraft, who accompanied it.

Three years later the country north and west of Fort St. Anthony was traversed by Major Stephen H. Long and a military escort. Italy was represented in this exploration but not officially, for with Major Long was Giacomo C. Beltrami, an Italian political exile. Beltrami left Long's expedition at Pembina and traveled alone, or with Indian companions, past Red Lake and down the Mississippi to the fort.

May 10, 1823, the first steamboat on the upper Mississippi, the little "Virginia," laden with supplies, picked its way slowly up the river to Fort St. Anthony, but almost a decade passed after the advent of soldiers at the fort before settlers began to arrive in any number.

Hon. Henry H. Sibley, afterward the first governor of the State of Minnesota, arrived at St. Peter's (Mendota) in 1834 from Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, as resident partner and manager of the American Fur Company; and the Anglo-Saxon influence, which had first manifested itself in the years following the treaty of Versailles in 1763, when the territory's allegiance was changed from France to England, began to take more definite shape.

The Sioux and Ojibway Indians had, up to the beginning of the nineteenth century, held the territory practically undisturbed, but the commercial spirit entered during this period, the Indians finding material advantage in many transactions with the fur traders. In exchange for peltries, they received guns, ammunition, blankets, calicoes, knives, tobacco and rum. Under this system of barter the traders were undoubtedly able to reap large profits, the Indians obtaining desired articles at the trading posts and being given credit according to their hunting and trapping ability.

The first permanent settlement of the present State of Minnesota followed as a result of treaties negotiated in 1837 with the Indians by Governor Dodge of Wisconsin at Fort Snelling, and by Joel R. Poinsett, a special commissioner, at Washington. By the first of these treaties the Ojibways ceded all their pine lands on the St. Croix and its tributaries, and by the Washington treaty the Dakota Indians ceded their lands east of the Mississippi and all its islands. The United States government thus gained possession of the land between the Mississippi and St. Croix rivers, south of a line drawn through the mouth of the Crow Wing river; and after the ratification of the treaties by Congress, in 1838, these lands were opened for settlement.

In the next few years small settlements were made at St. Paul, Mendota, Marine, and Dakota (Stillwater), at which latter place the "Stillwater Convention" was held August 26, 1848, whereby measures were adopted for separate territorial organization, and that the proposed new territory be named Minnesota. Henry H. Sibley was elected delegate to Congress, with the result that on March 3, 1849, the bill organizing Minnesota as an independent territory was passed. The territorial government was declared fully organized June 1, 1849, by Hon. Alexander Ramsey of St. Paul, who had been appointed governor.

With the creation of the territory of Minnesota, which extended to the Missouri river, a change took place in the industrial and commercial life of the people. The region was still mainly Indian country, and the magnificent opportunities for development brought negotiations with the tribal chiefs for approximately 24,000,000 acres of the finest agricultural land in the world, by the signing of the famous Traverse des Sioux and Mendota treaties. The first of these was signed July 23, 1851, in the presence of a large number of Sioux chiefs at a council presided over by Governor Ramsey, the United States government being represented by Hon. Luke Lea, Indian Commissioner; the second was negotiated at Mendota on the fifth of August. By the Traverse des Sioux treaty the chiefs ceded all the lands claimed by the Sisseton and Wahpeton bands of Sioux, east from the Bois des Sioux river and Lakes Traverse and Big Stone to the Mississippi, excepting a reservation about one hundred and thirty miles long by twenty wide, along the upper part of the Minnesota river and onward to Lake Traverse. The Indians, under the terms of the treaty, were to move within two years to the reservation; to receive from the Government, after removal, $275,000 to enable them to become established in their new domain; and $30,000 was to be expended in breaking land, establishing mills, and providing a manual labor school. They also were to receive an annuity of $68,000 for fifty years, payable $40,000 in cash, $10,000 in goods and provisions, a civilization fund of $12,000, and an education fund of $6,000.

By the Mendota treaty, which was signed by sixty-four chiefs of the Medawakanton and Wahpekuta bands of Sioux, all their lands in the territory of Minnesota and Iowa were ceded. In consideration for this the United States was to reserve for them a tract of an average width of ten miles on each side of the Minnesota river, between the Yellow Medicine river on the west and the Little Rock river on the east; to pay them $220,000, with which to settle debts and aid in their removal to the reservation; $30,000 to be used for the erection of buildings and opening farms; an annual civilization fund of $12,000; an annual education fund of $6,000; to provide $10,000 in goods and provisions annually, and $30,000 in cash. These annuities were to continue for fifty years. The treaties were ratified by Congress in June, 1852.

September 20, 1851, a treaty was effected by Governor Ramsey with the Red Lake and Pembina bands of Ojibways at Pembina, but it was not ratified by the Government. A second treaty with these Ojibway bands, by Governor Ramsey and Ashby C. Morrill, at a crossing of the Red Lake river near the later site of Crookston, on the second of October, 1863, was ratified by the United States Senate, March 1, 1864, and on May 5 President Lincoln by proclamation confirmed it. By this treaty 11,000,000 acres of land within and adjoining the Red river valley, in northwestern Minnesota and the present state of North Dakota, were added to the already large ceded tracts available for white settlement.

The United States census of 1850 showed that the white population of Minnesota numbered 6,077, but immigration increased rapidly after the negotiations and ratification of the Indian treaties, and by 1853 steamboats of the upper Mississippi and the Minnesota river trade carried capacity cargoes and passengers. Villages grew rapidly in the valley of the Minnesota, which was regarded as a veritable Eden, and farms appeared in all directions. A period of unprecedented immigration continued from 1853 to 1857, at which time the population of the territory was 150,037. During these years of prosperity Minnesota attracted the best class of men and women from the eastern states and from Europe. They were hardy frontiersmen indeed, with slender financial resources, a condition typical always of those who have been in the vanguard of settlement. As a class they were, in morality, education, and intelligence, far superior to the pioneers in many of the older territories. Many were farmers who came west in "prairie schooners," with their own stock. Southeastern Minnesota gained more from the incoming population than any other section, but the unusual success which attended the beginning of the lumber industry had its effect on every branch of trade and brought a rapid increase in the wealth of the newcomers.

The adventurous spirit, however, of many of the settlers led them to locate near the extreme limits of the land cessions and in immediate proximity to Indian settlements. Occasionally the younger Indians on hunting expeditions returned to the ceded lands in the southern section near the Iowa border. One band under the leadership of Inkpaduta, composed of about fifteen lodges, were particularly given to marauding. It was this band which caused the first serious trouble for the whites. Early in 1857 a few of these Indians hunting about forty miles south of Spirit Lake, Iowa, killed a dog belonging to a white settler. The owner of the dog assaulted one of the Indians, and then gathering a few neighbors went to the Indian camp and disarmed them. In revenge the Indians went to the white settlement at Spirit Lake, March 7, 1857, massacred the men, and took four women captives, two of whom were later rescued. Other settlements were attacked, including Springfield, on the later site of Jackson, Minnesota, and altogether forty-two settlers were killed. An expedition was dispatched by Hon. Charles E. Flandrau, the Indian agent, but all escaped across the prairies into the wilds of Dakota territory, except the eldest son of Inkpaduta who was killed in an attempt to capture him.

Prosperity of the years prior to 1857 resulted in a demand for an extensive railroad system, and for a state government for the territory; therefore Congress, on February 26, 1857, passed an act authorizing a constitutional convention and also granting lands in aid of public schools. In March of the same year, Congress enacted legislation making large grants of lands to railroad companies. But as the year 1857 advanced, financiers began to feel the effects of uncertain conditions in the East. Stringency in the money market caused business to be dull. Local bankers had little money for business loans, having invested heavily in real estate. The crash came August 27, when a telegram reached St. Paul, announcing the suspension of several eastern banking institutions. Within a week real estate transactions ceased; payments became slower, past due accounts began to accumulate; gold commanded a stiff premium and soon disappeared from general circulation, and money of any kind was scarce. Early in October St. Paul banks suspended specie payments, more banking firms went under, and instead of immigration an exodus from the territory had actually begun. Bankers held meetings and unsuccessfully urged Governor Samuel Medary to call an extra session of the territorial legislature. The Constitutional convention which had assembled at St. Paul July 13, acting on the demands of the people, incorporated into the fundamental laws of the proposed state the constitutional basis for a sounder financial policy, but it was not until after the Civil War that prosperity returned.

The proposed State Constitution also changed the western boundary of Minnesota, which heretofore had extended to the Missouri river. The Red River of the North, the Bois des Sioux river, and Lakes Traverse and Big Stone, with a line extending due south to the Iowa border, were the established western limits. The Constitution also provided for the election of state officers at the time of voting on the adoption of the Constitution. The first state legislature convened December 2, 1857, and continued in session until March 25, 1858, when a recess was taken, pending the admission of Minnesota to statehood by Congress. The act of admission was passed May 11, 1858, and the state's first governor, Henry H. Sibley, assumed office May 24. On June 3, the legislature having again assembled, Governor Sibley delivered his inaugural address and the state's law-making body continued in session until August 12, 1858, working diligently on financial and railroad legislation.

For securing the government land grant, a scheme was devised to aid companies willing to undertake the construction of railroads. This act came to be known as the "Five Million Loan Bill," under which the credit of the state could be loaned to that amount. It was proposed as an amendment to the constitution and was adopted by a large majority. There always was much opposition to the measure, however, and when the State Supreme Court later ruled that the constitutional provision did not require the railroads to give the state a prior lien on their property, the railroad bonds depreciated in value. Eastern financiers refused to buy the bonds, and finally the entire scheme collapsed, with the foreclosure of the mortgages which the state had taken upon railroad franchises and lands. The result was the abandonment of railroad construction temporarily. The total amount of bonds issued was $2,275,000, and by foreclosing the state acquired about 250 miles of graded road, the franchises and the lands, amounting to about five million acres indemnity.

Minnesota struggled desperately, in the period from 1858 to 1863, to overcome the financial disasters of 1857 and to regain the prosperity which, a few years before, had seemed the State's natural heritage. Abundant crops of 1859 and 1860 restocked the granaries, and it was hoped that the difficulties would be overcome. But the presidential campaign served only to develop the disturbing situation throughout the country, followed by the Civil War commencing in April, 1861, in which the young state not only contributed her full quota of men for the preservation of the Union, but also was forced to fight for her own existence through the worst Indian uprising ever witnessed in America.

Governor Alexander Ramsey was at Washington on the twelfth of April, 1861, when Fort Sumter was fired upon, and war, which so long had been a probability, became a reality. He hastened at once to the war department and offered one thousand men from Minnesota, the first tender of troops from any quarter after the attack on the Charleston fortress. On April 15th President Lincoln's war proclamation was published, and on the 16th Ignatius Donnelly, acting governor, issued a call for the first regiment of Minnesota volunteers, which was assembled and organized at Fort Snelling with amazing rapidity. Before Lee surrendered at Appomattox, thus ending the War of the Rebellion, Minnesota had furnished a total of 22,016 troops.

The war, calling so many able-bodied men from the State, left the frontiers almost defenseless. Although the Indians had more or less complaint to make regarding extortions practiced on them by post traders, no serious outbreak occurred during the first year and four months of the Civil War. They were, however, becoming more and more restless and coming off their reservations at increasingly recurring intervals.

A sentiment had grown among the whites that the Indians should adopt modes of civilization, that their splendid agricultural lands should not be left idle. Therefore the head chiefs were induced to go to Washington in 1858, in charge of Hon. Joseph R. Brown, for the purpose of negotiating for the transfer of the whole, or part, of the twenty-mile strip along the upper valley of the Minnesota river, which had been reserved for them by the treaties of 1851. The transfer was made and the ten-mile strip on the north side of the river was relinquished to the Government for an agreed price of $140,000. The Government also provided that every head of a family, or single person over 21, adopting civilization, should receive in fee eighty acres of land. When, however, for some cause, the payments were not made and no money was divided, on account of the relinquishment, the more hostile Indians became rebellious. Internal strife arose and was augmented from time to time by the withdrawal of families who were willing to sever tribal relations and accept the civilization fund provided in the treaties. These were, however, annuity Indians and had a right to be heard in councils. They numbered about six thousand two hundred and received an annual cash payment from the Government of about fifteen dollars each. They were treated as wards of the Government and handled little or no actual cash, agencies having been established, around which gathered storekeepers who sold goods to the Indians in anticipation of the annual payments.

The discontent increased, however, and the hostile feeling against the whites, intensified by injustices which crept in with the dealings at the agency stores, culminated in the great massacre of 1862.

On Sunday, August 17, six young Indian hunters attacked two families of white settlers in the township of Acton, twelve miles west of the later site of Litchfield, killing three men and two women. They hurriedly returned to their villages on the Sioux reservation, at the south side of the Minnesota river, and reported what they had done. The Indians, after consultation, decided to stand by their fellows, and on the next day there was a general uprising by the entire Sioux bands. Their movements were so swift that before effective resistance could be brought, nearly four hundred men, women and children were massacred within a few days.

The number was even estimated to be about 800, and has been commonly so reported in histories and in many editions of this manual; but recent reliable search of all available records, by Marion P. Satterlee, published in Volume 2 of Dr. Folwell's History of Minnesota, gives only 360 killed during the massacre in 1862, and twenty-one murdered by Sioux marauders in the state within the next three years. To these should be added sixty-one soldiers and twenty-nine citizen volunteers killed in Minnesota during the campaign against the Sioux in 1862, five others within the next three years, and thirty-one soldiers in Dakota during the expeditions of 1863 and 1864. Five hundred and seven white people are thus known to have been killed in the Sioux massacre and war, including ninety-seven men in the army service.

State and national authorities took prompt action, and a detachment of volunteers, under command of General Sibley, aided by Union troops, met the savages near Wood Lake, on September 23, overwhelmed them, and three days afterward released 269 women and children, who had been taken captive. The Indians captured were given a trial, and 303 were adjudged guilty of murder and rape and condemned to death by a military court martial. A reprieve by President Lincoln saved all but thirty-eight of the most prominent, who were hanged at Mankato on the 26th of December, 1862. Many of the Indians who escaped capture fled into Dakota, but two expeditions were sent after them, and in 1864 the final chapter of the Sioux outbreak was written, when the Indians surrendered their ponies and arms to the Government.

Settlers, who had lost property through the Indian raids, were compensated to the amount of $1,370,374, following an investigation by a commission appointed by the Government. This money was taken from the trust fund, which had been created for the Indians under the treaties of 1851, and which amounted, at that time, to $2,520,000. With the payments of the claims to settlers by act of congress, further annuities to the Indians were stopped.

Despite the drain of war upon the male population of the State, an increased acreage was sown during this period; and, with the beginning of Scandinavian immigration into Minnesota, the outlook appeared brighter for its future.

At the close of the Civil War, in 1865, with the return of the soldiers, and with no further outbreaks by Indians, a new era of prosperity loomed. New railroad companies had been granted charters on the road-beds taken in the foreclosure proceedings of 1858, and during the next five years the population increased to 439,706. The Government was making large expenditures for war claims, war bounties, payments to discharged soldiers, and the payment of other bills, which made money plentiful. Agriculture was given a great impetus by the steady influx of immigration, most notably from northern European countries, and in 1875 Minnesota's population was 597,407. An effort was made, during this era of prosperity, to meet the obligation of the dishonored railroad bonds; but it was not until 1881, at an extra session of the legislature, that an act was passed authorizing final adjustment on the basis of 50 per cent, payments to be made from the proceeds of 500,000 acres of internal improvement lands.

The million population mark was passed by the State between 1880, when the national census was 780,773, and 1885, when the figures of the state census were 1,117,798. The development of Dakota subsequent to 1885, and the breaking up of virgin soil in that territory, doubled the wheat yield of the Northwest; and the Minnesota farmer turned his attention more to diversified activities, with especial reference to dairying.

In 1890 the United States census gave Minnesota credit for 1,301,826 inhabitants, and in 1895 the state census showed a population of 1,574,619.

In April, 1898, the United States declared war on Spain, and Minnesota, following the example shown in the Civil War, was the first to respond to the call for troops, and furnished four regiments. They were designated the Twelfth, Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth. The first three were mustered into service at St. Paul, May 6-8, after being mobilized April 29. The Fifteenth Regiment was mustered into service July 18. A total of 5,315 officers and men were furnished by this state.

At the beginning of the present century Minnesota's population was 1,751,394; the state enumeration taken in 1905 showed 1,979,912; and the federal census in 1910 was 2,075,708, and in 1920 it was 2,387,125.

During the four years and three months from August, 1914, to November, 1918, the world was in a turmoil, and although President Wilson did not declare war on Germany until April 7, 1917, Minnesota troops had been in active service through a year prior to that date on the Mexican border.

For better enabling this state to do its share in the World War, the legislature of 1917 passed an act creating the Commission of Public Safety, to be composed of seven members, including the Governor and Attorney General, and appropriated $1,000,000 for its use. This commission had almost unlimited powers, and continued in existence for many months after the war ended. One of the first acts of the commission was to create the Minnesota Home Guard, comprising volunteers in practically every city and town in the State, and approximately 20,000 men became members. It also adopted and enforced other orders, notably the closing of saloons in certain sections of the State, and aided the Government in its "work or fight order," as well as by establishing standard minimum prices to be charged for commodities. In addition to these activities, the State co-operated fully with the National Government in bringing to bear every natural resource, including the output of the mines and forests.

DESCRIPTIVE

NAME.

This state derives its name from the river called "Minisota" by the Dakotas, pronounced "Min-nee-sotah" (Mini, water; sotah, whitishly clouded, sky-colored). For correct pronunciation, the convention held at Stillwater in 1848, to secure a territorial organization, instructed their delegates that the name of the Territory be written Minnesota.

GEOGRAPHY.

Minnesota includes the geographic center of North America. The state is bounded on the south by Iowa, on the west by South and North Dakota, on the north by Manitoba and Ontario, and on the east by Wisconsin. It extends from latitude 43 degrees 30 minutes to 49 degrees 23 minutes, and from 89 degrees 29 minutes to 97 degrees 13 minutes west longitude. It is about 406 miles long, and from its most eastern point to the extreme western point about 358 miles wide. In a foot-note on article 2 of the State constitution, the boundaries are fully defined, with explanation of the part projecting twenty-six miles north beyond the forty-ninth parallel, at the west side of the Lake of the Woods.

AREA.

In area Minnesota is the eleventh state of the Union. It contains 84,286.53 square miles, or 53,943,379 acres, of which 5,637 square miles, or 3,607,680 acres, are water. The headwaters of three great river systems are found in its limits, those of streams flowing northward to Hudson bay, eastward to the Atlantic ocean, and southward to the Gulf of Mexico. About a third of this surface, on the south and west, consists of rolling prairie. The district north and west of Lake Superior has rich iron ore ranges. On the northwest border of this state, reaching also west into North Dakota and north into Manitoba, is the very fertile and broad Red river valley, formerly the bed of the Glacial Lake Agassiz, famed for its great harvests of wheat. This ancient lake, also its large Beltrami island, are shown by the map on page 222.

RIVERS.

Few states are so well watered as Minnesota. Its navigable rivers are the Mississippi, the Minnesota, the St. Croix, the Rainy river, the St. Louis, the Red River of the North, and the Red Lake river, all of which, near their sources, have valuable water powers. Smaller streams include the Rum river and Snake river, the Cannon, Zumbro and Root rivers, the Vermilion, Crow Wing, Sauk and Elk rivers, the Blue Earth, Le Sueur, Des Moines, Cottonwood and Chipewewa rivers.

LAKES.

Minnesota has about ten thousand lakes, the largest of which is Red Lake, with an area of 440 square miles, in the central northern part of the State. On the same northern slope, in St. Louis county, is the beautiful Vermilion lake. Adjoining the northeast part of the State for one hundred and fifty miles, the waters of the great Lake Superior wash its shores. On the southward slope of the State is Itasca lake, the source of the Mississippi, with Bemidji and Cass lakes, Lake Winnebagoishish, Leech Lake, and a multitude of others, all adding volume to the water of the Mississippi, eventually flowing into the Gulf of Mexico. There we have also Mille Lacs, about 200 square miles in area, the source of Rum river. The picturesque Lake Minnetonka, White Bear, Bald Eagle, the Chisago lakes, and very many more, have been much utilized as summer resorts. The northeastern and southwestern sections, likewise, have many lakes to attract the summer visitor.

ELEVATION.

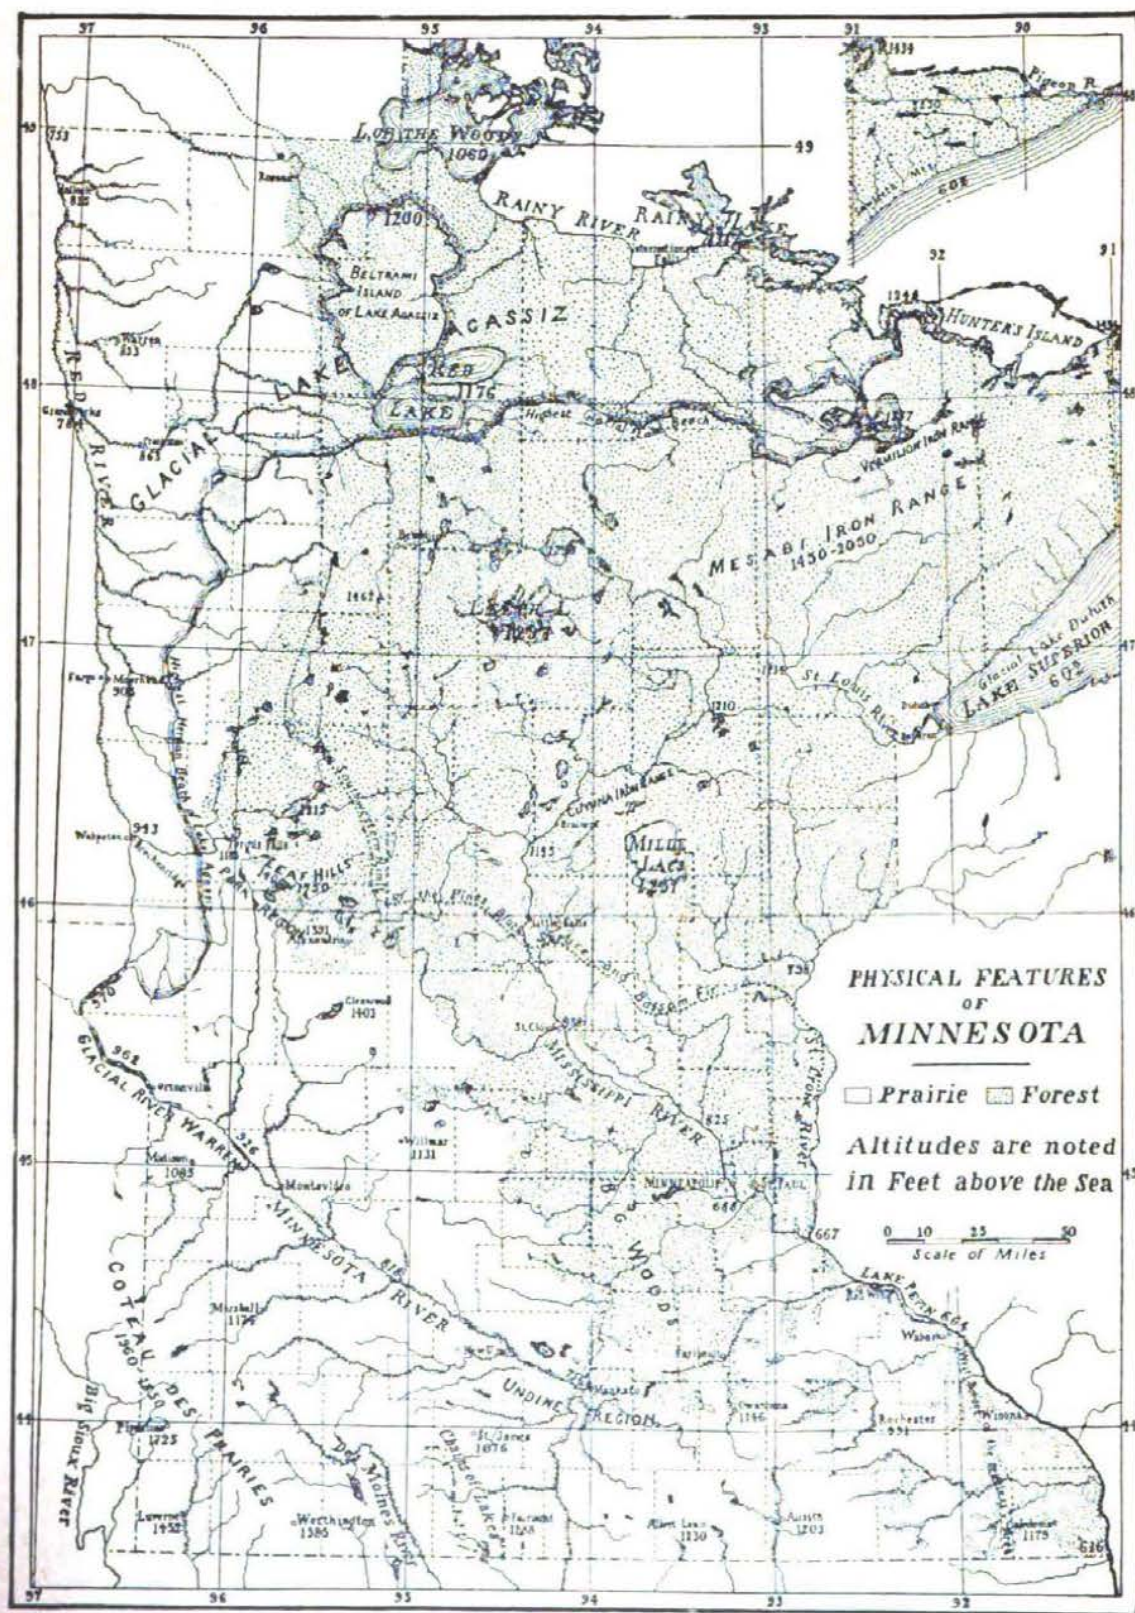

The shore of Lake Superior is the lowest land in the State, 602 feet above sea level. The waters of the northeastern part of the State south of the Mesabi iron range, flow into Lake Superior, and are carried east to the Atlantic ocean. The Mississippi river, having its chief source in Lake Itasca, at 1,462 feet elevation, leaves the State at 620 feet above sea level.

The Red River of the North, beginning near Itasca, at a height of 1,500 feet above the ocean, leaves the State at an elevation of 750 feet. The average altitude of the State is about 1,250 feet. The highest elevations are the tops of the Misquah hills, near the center of Cook county, which rise about 1,630 feet above Lake Superior, or 2,230 feet above the sea.

CLIMATE.

Recorded observations through long series of years show that Minnesota has an annual mean temperature of 44 degrees, and its mean summer temperature is about 70 degrees, like that of middle Illinois, Ohio, and southern Pennsylvania. The high latitude gives longer days in summer than in states farther south, and during the middle part of the growing season there are two and a half hours more of sunshine than in the latitude of Cincinnati. The winters are not severe, and the rainfall during the summer is usually abundant.

Through all the eighty-seven years since considerable agricultural settlements were first made within the area of this State, its temperature and rainfall, though showing marked contrasts in different years, have always been so favorable for farming that there has been no instance of failure to secure at least a generally remunerative harvest, while most of the years have yielded very abundantly.

Minnesota, "land of sky-blue waters," with thousands of clear lakes set in virgin pine and other great forests and noted for scenic beauties, is developing rapidly as a recreation state. Every summer brings increases in the numbers of tourists and vacationists from virtually all parts of the country to enjoy Minnesota's playground attractions.

Minnesota forests, counted an important asset, stretch over hundreds of thousands of acres and are unbroken save where lakes or hogbacks split the areas. They abound with wild life which with the fish found in the lakes attract thousands of sportsmen.

For the small boy who bobs for perch or sunfish in the shallow lake waters, or for the scientific angler who drops deep for pike or casts for the great muscullonge, bass or other game fish, there is sport galore. The black bass specialist finds good sport in the lakes in the southern and north central sections. Streams and lakes in the northeastern part abound in speckled and lake trout. Pike, crappies, sunfish and other varieties can be pulled out of the waters almost anywhere in Minnesota. Extensive commercial fisheries are located on the larger lakes in the north.

Big game is plentiful in northern districts; duck shooting is good on most lakes and marshes and every season in Minnesota furnishes sport for the man with gun or rod.

Accommodations ranging from modern hotels to mere hunting lodges and fishing camps, and including summer cottages and log cabins, are located less than a day's ride apart. Good roads are equipped with signposts to guide tourists and thousands find motoring in Minnesota a pleasure in the summer and fall months. Maps of roads, canoe routes and other like literature are easily procurable.

The state, through its state officials, has been engaged for years in exploiting Minnesota's recreational advantages. It is continuing the work and has been joined by the Minnesota Ten Thousand Lakes Association. All are ready to assist tourists and vacation parties to make their visits to Minnesota resorts most enjoyable.

Minnesota now has a number of state parks, acquired for their peculiar attractions and historical value, being improved and made available for recreational purposes, and there are also important federal reserves within its borders.

Itasca State Park of 32,000 acres of forest and lake area in the famous Lake Park region, has many kinds of fish, a herd of elk, colonies of beaver and much other wild life; embraces the headwaters of the Mississippi river; is noted for Douglas lodge, built from pine logs and offering ideal conditions for a healthful outing, and was established by the Legislature of 1891 and since has been enlarged by federal grants and acquisitions by the state. C. M. Roberts, superintendent.

Burntside Forest, a 20,000 acre tract of rocky, non-agricultural land containing 43 connected lakes and located 10 miles from Ely, near Burntside Lake, in a region famed for big game and good fishing, was granted to the state by an act of Congress, April 28, 1904, for tree propagation and playground purposes.

Pillsbury Forest, located in Cass county and near Gull Lake, comprises 1,000 acres of cut-over, non-agricultural land, donated in 1899 by the estate of the late John S. Pillsbury, and now is being replanted to Norway and white pine by the state forest service.

Interstate Park at the Dalles of the St. Croix, a tract of 150 acres at Taylors Falls, is opposite a 6,000-acre Wisconsin state park, with which it shares the scenic grandeur of a chasm with cliffs from 75 to 150 feet high through which flows the St. Croix River. It was set aside by the Legislature of 1895. Charles M. Truesdell is superintendent.

Minneopa State Park is a 60-acre tract four miles west of Mankato, with two waterfalls only a few rods apart over which the creek water drops 60 feet into a gorge surrounded by high hills. The name is the Indian word for "two falls," and to them are attached many Indian legends, the names of great Indian chiefs, pow-wows and the romantic wooing of the Indian maid. Established by the Legislature of 1905. John W. Ellis is superintendent.

Alexander Ramsey State Park, at the junction of Ramsey creek with the Redwood river, is at Redwood Falls. With winding streams and magnificent falls, it is one of the prettiest state reservations. It was named after Alexander Ramsey, first governor of the territory and second governor of the state of Minnesota. The park is surrounded by points of interest connected with the Indian outbreak of 1862.

Fort Ridgely State Park, in Nicollet county, 20 miles southeast of Alexander Ramsey Park and on the field of the first engagement of the 1862 Indian uprising. Between here and Alexander Ramsey Park is located the stone building which was the agency post and most important structure of frontier days and nearby are the sites of the early trading points, the Indian stone church, Birch Coulee battlefield, Brown's castle and several others marked by monuments.

The Fort Ridgely monument, built of granite and bronze, with a legislative appropriation of $3,500, was dedicated Aug. 22, 1896, on the 34th anniversary of the defense of the fort against the Sioux. On the shaft, 12 feet square at the base and 42 feet high, is inscribed an account of the siege and attack with a list of the garrison of soldiers, the armed citizens, and the women who aided in the defense.

In the Fort Ridgely cemetery is a monument 16 feet high, dedicated August 20, 1914, as a memorial to an Ojibway chief of the Mille Lacs band, Mou-zoo-mau-nee, who with other Ojibways persuaded that tribe of Northern Minnesota from joining the Sioux outbreak and massacre in 1862, and a monument to John S. Marsh and his party who were nearly annihilated at the lower agency.

Camp Release State Park is located one mile southwest of Montevideo, in Lac qui Parle county. In it is located a granite monument, fifty-one feet high, dedicated July 4, 1894, and commemorating the release September 26, 1862, of 269 prisoners, mostly women and children, from captivity among the Sioux Indians.

Traverse Des Sioux State Park is situated near a ford of the Minnesota river, whence Traverse village and township in Nicollet county also were named, and where a treaty with the Dakotas or Sioux was made in 1841 by Governor James D. Doty, of Wisconsin, but failed of ratification in the United States Senate. Ten years later, on July 23, 1851, a treaty with the Wahpeton and Sisseton Sioux of the Minnesota Valley was concluded here by Governor Ramsey and Colonel Luke Lea, whereby the Indians ceded to the United States for white settlement, the greater part of their lands in southern Minnesota. This treaty with changes was duly proclaimed February 24, 1853, by President Fillmore. The park contains a commemorative tablet of bronze erected in 1914 by Captain Richard Somers chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, St. Peter. The signing of the treaty is depicted in a painting by Frank D. Millet, displayed in the governor's reception room at the capitol.

Sibley State Park, one of the newer state acquisitions, embraces about 355 acres located north of Lake Andrew, Kandiyohi county, and in the Monongalia game refuge. It is one of the most beautiful and picturesque places in the state. Virgin hardwood forests clothe the rugged moraines, including "Mount Tom," on which a tall flagstaff has been erected. The legislature of 1919 appropriated $25,000 for the purchase of the property. The park was named in honor of the late Governor H. H. Sibley, who found much pleasure in hunting and fishing in the district and frequently referred to it in his writings.

Horace Austin State Park is located at Austin and named in honor of the sixth governor of Minnesota. It consists of 50 acres on the Red Cedar river and includes a number of deeply wooded islands. The park marks the historical site where camped Companies B, H and I, of the First U. S. Dragoons in 1835. The following year it was visited by a party of hunters from Fort Snelling, headed by Major Laurence Taliaferro and Dr. John Emerson, with whom was a slave, Dred Scott, who later became famous through the "Dred Scott" decision. In 1846, H. H. Sibley, Alexander Fairbault, W. H. Forbes, John C. Fremont and a party of Sioux Indians camped here and in 1841 Sibley, as agent for the American Fur Company, with Sioux Indians camped on the site and spent the winter trapping and hunting. Sibley's diary shows they got 2,000 deer, 50 elk, 50 bears and a few buffalo.

Jay Cooke State Park is in Carlton county. More than 3,200 acres have been secured through gifts and purchase. It is a remarkably beautiful place near Duluth. F. R. Paine is the superintendent.

Toqua Lakes State Park in Graceville has been platted and a landscape architect has prepared a plan for bringing out the natural beauties of the site. The Legislature of 1917 designated the governor, state auditor, secretary of state and R. A. Costello, of Graceville, a commission to acquire the park property, and voted an appropriation which was vetoed by the governor. The Legislature of 1919 appropriated $5,000 for the same purpose and the project was advanced. Parcels were given by the Keating and Hickey estates, and others acquired, and the boulevard is named "Keating" and a tract is called "Hickey Park" in honor of the donors.

Whitewater State Park, established by the Legislature of 1919, is in Elbo township, Winona county. An appropriation of $10,000 for acquisition and expenses was made and the commission was made up of the governor, state auditor and A. C. Gooding, of Rochester. The name is a translation of the Dakota or Sioux name, "Mini-ska."

Sleepy Eye Lake State Park was created by the Legislature of 1921 by merely taking over the Sleepy Eye City park property within the city limits, which park property fronts on Lake Sleepy Eye. The park comprises only a few acres, but has been well equipped.

Scenic State Park was authorized by the 1921 Legislature and is located well to the north in Itasca county. In the park is included most of the shore line of two lakes—Sanwick and Coon—and about half of the shore line and park property is on state-owned lands.

Birch Coulee Monument, near Morton, is not a state park in reality, but is the site of two large, impressive monuments to commemorate one of the greatest battles of the Sioux Uprising of 1862, in which hundreds of white settlers in Minnesota lost their lives.

Garvin Heights Park is a beautiful tract of land of about 12 acres situated on the high bluffs south of Winona Lake and is the nucleus of a high line drive and park affording a wonderful view of Winona and surrounding country. This was donated to the State by Hon. H. C. Garvin, of Winona, and has cost the State nothing.

John Latsch Park. This is a tract of land containing about 600 acres near the town of Minneiska and about 10 miles northwest of Winona on State Highway No. 3 and bordering on the Mississippi River. This is a magnificent tract of land and will prove to be a valuable addition to the State Park system. This was donated by the Hon. John Latsch, of Winona, and cost the State nothing.

Bemidji State Park on Lake Bemidji, Beltrami county, is a tract of forest land containing 421 acres and was recently purchased by act of the Legislature of 1923, appropriating $45,000 for the purpose.

Pillsbury Forest, a tract of approximately 1,000 acres in Cass county, southwest of Gull Lake, donated by the Pillsbury Estate. No expense to the State. No improvements yet made.

The Department of Agriculture is in charge of a commission appointed by the Governor. It also administers the cold storage law. Agricultural statistics are collected, and it has power to establish grades for certain farm products. In co-operation with the federal bureau of markets it issues market reports and crop estimates, and in general encourages agricultural development in Minnesota. Under a special act it has conducted investigations relative to costs and trade practices in the necessities of life, issuing reports and recommendations relative to its findings. It has charge of weed inspection work.

The Dairy and Food Department is charged with the enforcement of the dairy and food laws, also special laws regulating the manufacture and sale of feeds for domestic animals, the sale of commercial fertilizers, the sale of cigarettes and prohibiting fraudulent advertising. Its aim is to prevent fraud and deception in the manufacture of foods and drinks and of feeds for domestic animals. The commissioner and inspectors have access to all places where foods are manufactured, stored or kept for sale and are authorized to take all proper educational measures to foster and promote the manufacture and sale of pure food products. The Commissioner of Agriculture is also Dairy and Food Commissioner and both departments are operating as a unit.

Commissioner of Drainage and Waters. The legislature of 1919 abolished the state drainage commission, as such, and created the office of commissioner of drainage and waters, to be appointed by the governor. Upon the commissioner devolves all powers, rights and duties previously exercised by the commission, and other duties prescribed by the act creating the department.

domestic animals of the state. The board is required to hold quarterly meetings in St. Paul. The secretary and executive officer, together with the field veterinarians, are required to be graduate veterinarians.

It is under the general supervision of the supreme court, and, though the scope of the library is not fixed by law, it has in fact been built up as a law and legislative reference library. It contains a fairly comprehensive collection of books of law, American, English, Canadian and Colonial. It also contains collections of Minnesota public documents and documents of other states and of the United States. It contains approximately 90,000 volumes. The state librarian is appointed by the governor for a term of two years.

The commission is divided into three divisions, viz.: The Banking Division in charge of the Commissioner of Banks; an Insurance Division in charge of the Commissioner of Insurance; and a Securities Division in charge of the Commissioner of Securities.

The State Forestry Board was abolished by the reorganization act. The Conservation Commission is required to provide for the co-operation of the employees in each division of the Department of Conservation to the end that the natural resources of the state, placed in its charge, shall be properly conserved.

The Commissioner of Forestry and Fire Prevention is charged with the duty of enforcing the forestry and fire prevention laws of the state.

It is the duty of the Board to supervise and promote efficiency and uniformity in the administration of mothers' pensions.

It is charged with safeguarding the interests of illegitimate children; establishing their paternity; and securing for them the nearest possible approximation to the care, support and education that they would be entitled to if born of lawful marriage.

It investigates all petitions for the adoption of children, and visits the children and the homes in which they have been placed.

The board is made up of three elective commissioners, serving for six years, and its combined divisions have several hundred employees.

The Grain Inspection Department is in charge of a Chief Inspector. The state is divided into three principal inspection districts—Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth—the inspection and weighing service, or both, have been established at many other places within the state and at five places outside the state.

The Weights and Measures Department was created by the Legislature in 1911 and it is the duty of those in charge of this department to see that all weights and measures conform to the United States standards.

The Telephone Division exercises powers over the telephone lines of the state similar to those exercised by the Commission over railroads and express companies. Over two thousand telephone companies are supervised and a statewide investigation and valuation to determine and establish reasonable rates and charges for all classes of telephone services has been completed.

The Stock Yards Division regulates rates and charges and requires proper sanitary facilities, and supervises the weighing in all public yards; the licensing of livestock commission merchants and the control of their trade practices, subject to certain limitations imposed by the Federal control act of 1922.

The Boards of Grain Appeals at Duluth and Minneapolis consist of three members each, appointed by the Governor. The boards are required to meet annually in joint session and establish grades of all grains to be known as "Minnesota Grades." Appeals may be taken to these boards from the decision of inspectors of the Grain Inspection Department as to grades and dockage.

THE JUDICIARY DEPARTMENTS.

THE SUPREME COURT.

The constitution provides that the judicial power shall be vested in a supreme court, district courts, courts of probate, justices of the peace, and such other courts, inferior to the supreme court, as the legislature may from time to time establish. This latter prerogative the legislature has exercised in the establishment of municipal and conciliation courts in the larger cities of the state.

The supreme court consists of one chief justice and four associate justices, elected by the people, and holding office for six years, and until successors are elected and qualified. The 1913 session of the legislature created two positions of commissioners of the court, these commissioners to be attorneys, and to perform such duties as the court should assign to them. Appointments to be made by the supreme court.

One term of court is held in each year, commencing on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January at the capitol in St. Paul. On the filing of the record of the court appealed from and of the appellant's brief, the case is set for argument or submission on briefs as the case may be and notice of the date thereof given the parties. This court has original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity.

The clerk of the supreme court is an elective officer, the term of office being four years.

The reporter of the supreme court is an officer appointed by the supreme court to prepare the adjudicated cases for publication in official volumes, entitled, "Minnesota Reports."

Originally the reporter owned the exclusive copyright, and the reports were printed and bound at his expense, the state buying of him 200 copies of each volume at six dollars a volume. In 1881, an act was passed providing that the reporter should have no pecuniary interest in the reports, but that they should be published by contract and this is now the law. The copyright of the volumes already published vests in the secretary of state for the benefit of the people of the state, but the publisher is permitted to continue the publication and sale of such volumes so long as he complies with the requirements of law as to character and price of volumes.

The secretary of state is charged with the distribution of the volumes, one copy to each of the several departments of state, to each judge of the supreme court, and of the several district, probate and municipal courts, and to the clerks of each district court, while the University of Minnesota receives 100 copies for the law department, and the state library receives a sufficient number for exchanges with other states and for the use of the library. The remaining copies stay in the custody of the secretary of state for further distribution by law.

THE LOWER COURTS.

The district courts are created by the legislature, the state being divided into nineteen judicial districts with one or more judges in a district, as the exigencies of business may require, and the judges are elected for six years. The district courts have original jurisdiction in all civil cases, both in law and equity; also, in criminal cases where indictments or presentments are made by grand juries, or informations filed by the county attorney.

The municipal courts generally have the power of disposing of all criminal cases for infraction of city laws, and for hearing and committing for trial on arrests for violation of state laws. Chap. 146, G. L. 1891, "An act relating to villages of over 3,000 inhabitants, and providing for municipal courts therein." By the provisions of this act a municipal court has jurisdiction in civil actions where amount does not exceed $500; also, in all cases where a justice court has jurisdiction, and over certain criminal actions. Its jurisdiction is co-extensive with the limits of the county where located.

The probate courts are created by authority of the constitution, one for each county, and the judges to be elected by the people, for four years.* The probate court has jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons and persons under guardianship, and the examination and commitment of insane persons to the asylums. The salaries of probate judges are fixed by law.

*Amended by constitutional amendment in 1920.

STATE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Minnesota maintains a complete public school system from the kindergarten to the technical colleges of the university. The courses offered in the public schools are so varied that the youth of the state may receive the training necessary for economic production and effective citizenship. The system is so organized that students may progress from one school to another without loss of time and effort.

The State Department of Education has general charge of education in the rural, graded and high schools of the state. The department is organized and maintained under the direction of the state board of education composed of five representative citizens. The work of the department is directed by a commissioner of education, appointed by the board. The department of education is charged with the following responsibilities: Certification of teachers for all classes of schools; distribution of state funds under conditions prescribed by statute; supervision of schools, and promotion of sound policies of public education.

School activities authorized and encouraged with appropriations by the Legislature include:

1. State high schools maintaining a well-balanced four-year course.
2. Graded schools with four or more departments offering instruction in the eight grades.
3. High school departments for schools giving high school instruction but not meeting the requirements of a state high school.
4. Rural schools to encourage proper equipment and high standards of teaching in country districts.
5. Industrial departments of agriculture, home training, industrial training and commercial training.
6. Vocational training to fit young men and young women to enter the industries.
7. Consolidation to encourage central schools in rural districts and to provide transportation for pupils and to promote the teaching of practical courses.
8. Tuition by the state to districts for furnishing high school instruction to non-resident pupils.
9. Supplemental aid for districts burdened with a high tax for schools.
10. Libraries by assisting school districts in the selection and purchase of books.
11. Teacher training departments maintained in high schools of the state to prepare teachers for rural schools.
12. Placement of teachers through a teachers' employment bureau maintained in connection with the state department and at the service of local school officers and qualified teachers of any state.
13. Rehabilitation and placement of persons injured in industries.
14. Special classes for defectives, designed to furnish in the local communities training to those handicapped.
15. Approval of plans for all school buildings by the department of education to insure proper sanitary and hygienic conditions in the schools.
16. Institutes to train and interest teachers in the service.

Local school districts in Minnesota receive state, local and in some cases federal support.

Federal support consists of appropriations under the Smith-Hughes act for vocational and trade instruction, and appropriations for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry.

State support is from the income on the permanent school fund and one-half the income from the state swamp land fund, from revenue derived from a one-mill state tax, and from biennial appropriations by the legislature. The appropriated funds are distributed in the form of special state aid to schools and departments. Income from trust funds and the state one-mill tax, is distributed to the districts according to the number of pupils enrolled in the public schools and attending forty or more days in the year.

Local support consists of a local tax upon the property of the district, including a one-mill tax required by law to be levied in each district.

State Teachers' Colleges are six in number, established by law to train teachers for the public schools. These colleges are controlled by a teachers' college board of nine members. The commissioner of education is ex-officio a member of this board. Other members are appointed by the governor for four-year terms. Each teachers' college is in the immediate charge of a president. The teachers' colleges are maintained by direct appropriations made by the legislature. The teachers' colleges:

Location	Authorized	Opened
Winona	1858	1860
Mankato		1866
St. Cloud	1866	1869
Moorhead	1885	1888
Duluth	1895	1902
Bemidji	1913	1919

Each teachers' college maintains a model or training school for elementary pupils to give college students an opportunity for observation and practice teaching under the most favorable conditions. The professional courses are: Advanced course of two years, open to high school graduates, and special three-year course with like entrance requirements.

The University of Minnesota is the most widely known and most broadly serviceable institution maintained by the State of Minnesota.

Offering, as it does, the benefits of higher education and the consequent possibilities of advancement, to every boy and girl born in Minnesota who has the perseverance to complete a high school course or its equivalent, it holds out one of the great hopes for the future Minnesota, both to the young, who look forward to attendance there, and to the parents, who long to see further ambitious of their own fulfilled by the accomplishments of their children.

Although its enrollment at the end of December, 1924, made the University of Minnesota one of the largest institutions of higher education in the entire world, and although its recognized high rank in scholarship and accomplishment has long made it one of the best known universities, education at Minnesota can be obtained at a cost much below that required by conditions at the great endowed institutions of the East. Government statistics show also that cost of living in Minneapolis and St. Paul is consistently lower than it is in most of the other cities or towns where state universities, west or east, are established. Tuition charges at the University of Minnesota are but a fraction of those of endowed universities and colleges.

Official figures compiled by the registrar show that on December 18, 1926, a total of 17,936 men and women were studying in courses directed by the University of Minnesota. Of these 10,844 were students in the twelve schools and colleges that comprise the university proper. In the four schools of secondary grade, supported and supervised by the University, namely, the University High School, Central School of Agriculture, Northwest School of Agriculture, and West Central School of Agriculture, were another 1,107 students. Evening extension classes made up 4,417 of the total, members of classes taught by correspondence added 1,739, and at that particular time 24 students were attending one of the many short extension courses that are offered from time to time during each year.

Between December 19, 1925, and December 18, 1926, the increase in attendance at the twelve schools and colleges, which are the heart of the University, was from 10,244 to 10,844, or approximately 6 per cent. The increase in the preceding year was approximately the same.

Briefly described, the twelve colleges which make up the University of Minnesota, are as follows:

College of Science, Literature, and the Arts (Academic College): This is the college in which students not specializing in a professional school study to obtain a liberal education in the broad cultural sense. Here also they take the preliminary work fitting them for admission to one of the professional or semi-professional colleges. (Four-year course.)

College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics: This college is to all intents and purposes, described by its title. Men and women whose life work is to be agriculture, the allied profession of forestry, or the capable conduct of the home are here given the best possible opportunities to acquire expert knowledge based on the experience and research of generations. (Four-year course.)

Law School: A professional school to fit students for admission to the Minnesota bar and for the expert and ethical practice of law. Two years of work in the Academic College are required for admission. (Three-year course.)

Medical School: A professional school for training physicians and surgeons for service to the people of Minnesota. Two years of work in the Academic College are required for admission. (Five-year course.)

As a division of the Medical School, a school of Nursing is conducted for the training of both general and special nurses.

College of Dentistry: A professional school for training dentists and dental hygienists. One year of work in the Academic College is required for admission. (Four-year course.) A course for Dental Nurses is also maintained.

School of Mines: A four-year course of training in preparation for the profession of mining engineer.

School of Chemistry: A collegiate division of the University specializing in the science of chemistry.

College of Pharmacy: Devoted to the instruction of men and women who desire to become registered pharmacists under the law of the State of Minnesota.

College of Education: A college specializing in the preparation of men and women to serve as teachers in Minnesota high schools, or as supervisors, principals or superintendents of Minnesota public schools.

School of Business: A collegiate division of the University in which are offered the courses in economics and allied subjects, together with specialized training that particularly fits the student to enter the business field.

Graduate School: The unit of the University of Minnesota in which students who have been granted the bachelor's degree at the completion of a four-year course can continue their studies along some specialized line, leading to the master of arts degree or to that of doctor of philosophy.

College of Engineering and Architecture: A college devoted to the technical education of those who desire to make a profession of engineering in any of several branches or of architecture.

In addition to giving instruction in all the above schools and colleges, the University renders two very significant services to the people of the state. First, it conducts many instruction services off the campus. During 1925-26, there were 5,718 students received regular instruction in classes maintained by the University during the evening hours. Some of these were maintained in Minneapolis, others in St. Paul, others in Duluth, others in Hibbing, and so on throughout the more popular centers of the state. These courses were courses which give credit towards graduation in the University in most cases and students supplement their work which they get while on the campus with this work which they can get while they are employed in gainful occupations and spend their evenings in study.

In addition, there were 2,029 who took regular work by correspondence, and 1,422 others who took work in regularly organized short courses.

Finally, primarily in the interest of those students who desire to fit themselves for the pursuit of agriculture and yet have not finished high school and therefore are not entitled to enter the University classes, the University conducts work of less than college grade at four different centers. In these schools there were last year 1,582 students enrolled.

From the above figures, it will appear evident that the instruction which the University offers to the people of the state of Minnesota is in no wise confined to the students who attend regularly the schools and colleges organized on the campus.

Another aspect of this instruction service to people not on the campus, is that which is operated through boys and girls club work, through county agents, through home demonstration agents, through educational entertainment provided by the University, and in general, by offering the expert services of all the departments of the University to the people of the state at large. The campus is actually as wide as the boundaries of the state and no county of the state is without the direct influence of the University in its extension service.

A third distinct phase of University work in addition to campus instruction and extension instruction, is that rendered by the men and women of the University who are pushing forward the boundaries of knowledge. Anyone suffering from cancer, spending his weary days almost without hope, will not think it extravagant for the University to maintain at the Cancer Institute the equipment and the men necessary to search day in and day out for the cause and cure of that dreaded affliction. Farmers remember too well the old-time scourges of hog cholera to deplore the money spent to discover the serum which now so effectively prevents these losses. Hardier and more rust-resistant crops are the direct results of the patient search for new truth. Millions of dollars worth of Minnesota iron ore still await the answer of science to the question, "How can low grade ore be utilized in commerce?" Thousands of similar questions await the answer of the research departments of the University.

The University of Minnesota is governed by a board of thirteen regents, among them three ex-officio members, the Governor of Minnesota, the state superintendent of public instruction, and the president of the University. The other ten members, appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the State Senate, hold office for six years.

The Board of Regents has absolute control over all University of Minnesota affairs, save the erection of new buildings and the purchase of fuel. These items are under the supervision of the State Board of Control. The president of the University of Minnesota is the administrative head, and the chief finance officer is the comptroller.

Internal affairs of the University of Minnesota are governed by the University Senate, composed of the president, deans, all professors, including associate and acting professors, the comptroller, certain other administrative officers, and the University librarian. Some others who do not devote full time to university work are members without power to vote. The registrar of the University is clerk of the Senate and custodian of its records.

SCHOOLS OF AGRICULTURE

The Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, a part of the University of Minnesota, is a state institution to serve the people of the northwestern part of the state. It does not belong to a particular town or county, but to this section of the state as a whole.

It has four distinct lines of work:

1. As an institution of learning
2. As an experiment station and demonstration center
3. As an extension service center
4. As an organization center.

1. As a school, it is organized with a liberal variety of courses designed to meet the needs of the various classes of young men and women seeking a training for management of the home and the farm and for citizenship in rural communities. As an institution with experienced and sympathetic men and women in charge, its courses are especially planned to meet the needs of rural young men and women. Being located two miles from the city it retains the healthful influence of the country, and still gives the advantages of the city, with a minimum chance of its temptations. Students are surrounded with a moral influence at all times. Nearly 2,200 students have attended the school since 1906, while the number of graduates has reached over 721.

2. The station farm of 570 acres, fully equipped with stock and machinery in charge of competent experts, is devoted to an extensive study of the various agricultural problems of this part of the state. Reports are issued annually. Special bulletins are also issued from time to time.

3. Community work with farmers is an important part of the institution's service. The members of the staff devote much time to this work, giving special attention to cooperative work in pure seed production among farmers and home project work among students, work in farm crops, live stock and farm management and in institute work. A monthly paper, the Northwest Monthly, is published regularly as a medium for spreading useful information.

The West Central School of Agriculture and Experiment Station was established in 1910 as a branch of the Department of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota. P. E. Miller has been Superintendent since 1917. The School and Station now comprise 376 acres of land and a group of 20 buildings. The Experiment Station is conducting experimental projects in the most important agricultural problems of the region. Annual reports of the Experiment Station work are published each year and distributed to farmers throughout the district. In the school courses of study are offered in all branches of agriculture and home economics. The student body has increased from a small number in the early years to an annual enrollment of 350 students. The student body comes almost entirely from farm homes throughout west central Minnesota. Approximately 85% of the graduates and former students are engaged in the business of farming and home making.

The North Central School, Grand Rapids. The North Central School was opened in October, 1926. Its objectives are similar to those of the other schools. For a number of years an experiment station adapted to the agricultural needs of the region has been in operation at Grand Rapids. The soil treatment, the crop rotations, the cultural methods followed by the station, and the herds and flocks maintained for demonstration and experimentation are distinct assets to the School.

MINNESOTA'S GOVERNMENT

Minnesota, known as The North Star State, because of the territory north of the Lake of the Woods being the northernmost land in the entire United States, has a government common to the other states.

Like the national government, the State Constitution, adopted in 1857, changing the Minnesota territory, organized in 1849, to a real unit of the United States, provides for legislative, judicial and executive branches.

As conditions have changed in the past 69 years, it has been necessary to broaden the powers and branches of government, especially as to commissions to care for the ever-increasing state institutions and for regulating industries which have sprung into existence since the state was created, such as railroads, street car companies, telephone, heating, lighting and power systems. The Constitution, as amended, provides for the present form of government.

The legislative branch of the state government is the Minnesota Legislature, with its forty-fifth session in 1927. There are 67 legislative districts, each of which has one member in the State Senate and from one to four members per district in the House, making 67 state senators and 131 House members. Senators and representatives are paid $1,000 for each two-year period. The House members are elected every two years, while the state Senators are elected for four years each even year that is not a presidential election year.

The Legislature enacts the statutes, or laws which in no way conflict with the Constitutional provisions. In case it is considered necessary to pass laws not authorized by the Constitution, the Legislature submits an amendment to the Constitution to the people of the state, which must have a majority of all votes cast at that election. An example of this is the Trunk Highway system, known as the Babcock Good Roads' Law, adopted at the election November 2, 1920, and thereby made a part—Article XVI—of the Constitution.

The Legislature also makes appropriations for the support of schools the University of Minnesota, state institutions, erection of state buildings and for other expenses. The Legislature delegates to the State Auditor power to fix the state tax rate and to levy a tax for state revenue purposes. No revenue tax was levied for 1921 for the first time, and again for 1922. The legislature meets every two years—in January of odd-numbered years.

The executive branch of the state government is headed by the Governor. The other state executives are the lieutenant governor, attorney general, state auditor, secretary of state and state treasurer. Their duties are fixed by the Constitution. An executive officer is not subject to the control or interference of the judiciary in the performance of duties belonging to him as an executive officer. The terms of the governor, secretary of state, treasurer and attorney general are for two years as is that of the lieutenant governor. The lieutenant governor is ex-officio president of the Senate and receives $2,000 per two-year term. In case of a vacancy in the governor's office the lieutenant governor becomes the state's chief executive. Before the close of each Senate session a president pro tempore is elected, who shall be lieutenant governor in case of a vacancy.

The judicial branch of the state government consists of the Minnesota Supreme Court, district courts, probate courts, municipal courts, conciliation courts, justices of the peace and other courts that the Legislature creates, inferior to the Supreme Court.

The Legislature first provided for one chief and two associate justices of the Supreme Court, but permitted an increase to four associate justices. The justices are elected for six years. The work of the court so increased that it was considered necessary to add to the Supreme Court. As the Constitution limited the number to five, two court commissioners were added. Their duties are practically identical and the commissioners write opinions, but do not have a vote. The two commissioners took office April 1, 1913. They receive salaries of the same amount as the associate justices. A clerk of the Supreme Court is elected for a four-year term.

The district courts have original jurisdiction in all civil cases, both law and equity, where the amount in controversy exceeds $100, and in criminal cases where the punishment exceeds three months. Justices of the peace and lower courts have jurisdiction in cases involving smaller amounts or less punishment. The Supreme Court has original jurisdiction in remedial cases as prescribed by law and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there is no trial by jury in the Supreme Court, which is assured all litigants in the district and lower courts. All judges are to be elected except where vacancies occur by resignation or death, in which case the Governor appoints a successor until the next election.

As times have changed, due to new inventions, discoveries and rapid forward strides in population, it has been necessary for the state government to expand and to create new departments and increase the number of officials to care for the work. Among these departments in the Railroad and Warehouse Commission of three members, elective, in charge of railroads, telephones, street railway systems, the stockyards, grain inspection and other affairs.

Practically all of the other commissioners are appointed by the Governor, with many for six-year terms.

The county governments of the state are similar to those in other states with boards of county commissioners, auditors, treasurers, registers of deeds, county attorneys, judges of probate, surveyors, coroners, clerks of court, court commissioners and superintendents of schools in each county and some additional commissioners in Ramsey and St. Louis counties. Otherwise there are five commissioners in each county. The pay is not uniform, some of the larger counties paying more than the others.

Minnesota is one of the larger states, being the eleventh in area, with an average length of about 350 miles from north to south and an average width of 240 miles from east to west. It comprises 84,286 square miles, having 5,637 square miles of lakes and rivers, about 31,800 square miles of prairie, and, until largely cleared for farming, it had nearly 50,000 square miles of forest. It is from 602 to 2,230 feet above the sea level, and Federal reports show Minnesota's larger cities to be near the head of the list as ideal for health. The exploration of this area by white people was begun in 1655 to 1660, and a trading post was established near the outlet of Lake Pepin in 1689.

In the matter of financing, Minnesota is probably the most fortunate state in the union, having the largest trust funds of any state in the country except Texas and a reported higher net total than all of the states east of the Mississippi combined.

The various trust funds approximate 54 million. This includes approximately 9 million in land contracts bearing 4 per cent interest in the school, internal improvement, swamp and other land funds. The United States gave outright to the state 8,445,961 acres, of which 2,976,454 acres were for the common schools and 91,524 for the University.

The state government has closely guarded this great heritage and every cent ever received from the sales of land, timber and iron ore royalties is still in these funds. The school fund at the start of the fiscal year 1927 was $44,743,793.32, and it is estimated that iron ore now under lease will add at least $50,000,000.00 more. Much state land also remains to be sold to further increase the funds. The university permanent fund is $3,345,599.62 and ore now leased will almost double it. The internal improvement land fund is $376,901.40. The swamp land fund of $10,331,355.85 also will be about doubled, as well as the other trust funds.

The above permanent trust funds had a cash balance June 30, 1926, of $2,055,103.64 to be invested. The above corrected figures are the exact amount of securities in the custody of the state treasurer.

There are two ore leases under lakes that will net about $4,000,000 for the state.

During the war as much as 45,990,000 tons of iron ore were shipped from the state in a year or 62 per cent of the nation's total output. Almost a billion tons have been shipped from the state and more than 1,300,000,000 tons remain. One state-owned mine, the Missabe Mountain, near Virginia, covering 160 acres, contains 44,000,000 tons of commercial ore. This mine alone will yield the state school fund $15,000,000. Minnesota has other considerable deposits of minerals, including copper in the extreme northeastern part of the state and there have been several gold rushes, only one—at Rat Root lake, which ever really paid.

While Minnesota is rich as a mineral state, its industries are diversified with agriculture the principal industry, although it has the greatest wheat flour mills in the world at Minneapolis, huge granite quarries, building stone, brick plants, sewer pipe and pottery works and raw materials for lime and cement. The commercial fisheries are no small item, producing millions of pounds of fish from Lake Superior and other lakes. Prof. E. K. Soper, formerly of the University of Minnesota, has estimated that there are more than 6,800,000,000 tons of peat, which might be made to serve the state as fuel.

The timber industry, while it has seen its best days in central and southern Minnesota, is still a large and important industry in the north, with the world's largest white pine mills at Virginia and others at Cloquet, International Falls, Bemidji and other places. The re-forestation program promises to keep Minnesota in the lumber-producing stage for an indefinite period.

Minnesota state taxes are lighter in comparison to the benefits received than most states—though taxes always are a sore point with the property owner, whether his taxes are low or high.

Commitments to the institution cover incorrigibles up to the age of 18 years. All boys committed are under the care of the institution until they attain their majority unless their conduct is such as to warrant a full discharge at an earlier date.

The institution maintains a good sized farm, a dairy herd of 50 cows, and a school of letters with a principal and six teachers. Located on the extensive grounds is one of the finest granite quarries in the state. From this quarry has been taken practically all the stone used in the construction of the institution buildings, and the quarrying, cutting, and placing of the stone has been done entirely by the inmates.

The woodworking industry turns out sash, doors and blinds, screens and storm sash for state institutions. In the factory attached to the institution is made nearly all of the men's clothing used in the state institutions. There are various other shops.

An extensive farm is operated in connection with the institution and the establishment of a farm colony where some 50 men employed in the farm department are housed has proved a decided success.

The institution consists of an administration building containing offices and a chapel, five cell houses for inmates, hospital, central power plant, superintendent's residence, and additions including kitchens, bakery, dining rooms, shops and storerooms. The institution has a fine farm, a large portion of which is under cultivation. It is planned to interest the women in gardening, dairying, butter-making, etc. Women's and children's clothing for other state institutions is now being made by the inmates of this institution and it is planned to enlarge this industry.

The buildings are an administration building and reception hospital, known as Isabel Higbee Hall, which includes offices, hospital and medical section, industrial workrooms, kitchen, dining rooms for officers and inmates, officers' bedrooms, and 20 rooms for inmates; three cottages for inmates; and cottages for the farmer and the engineer. PRIMARY ELECTION RETURNS

OF ELECTION HELD

JUNE 21ST, 1926

The returns on the following pages show the votes cast by counties for the various candidates for state offices and Representatives in Congress on the Republican, Farmer-Labor and Democratic Tickets, and including Justices of the Supreme Court, and judges of the District Court, without party designation, at the state primaries on June 21, 1926. The amended primary law of 1913 provides that where a candidate for the nomination for a partisan office has no opposition his name is not to appear on the primary ballot, but he is to be deemed the unanimous nominee of his party. Hence, the names of some candidates do not appear in the tables.

MISCELLANEOUS BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS

State Board of Parole. This board was created by the 1911 session, with power to parole prisoners from the state penal institutions, after a certain portion of the time has been served. The same act provides for the indeterminate sentence plan. The board consists of a member of the board of control oldest in the point of service, the warden at the penitentiary, and a third to be appointed by the governor.

The Board of Pardons was created by Chapter 23 of the General Laws of 1897, and consists of the governor, chief justice of the supreme court and the attorney general. It has power to grant pardons and to commute the sentence of any person convicted of any offense against the laws of this state. The board meets quarterly, in January, April, July and October.

Board of Regents of State University. Chapter 429, Session Laws of 1923, vests the government and general educational management of the State University in this Board, consisting of the Governor, the Commissioner of Education, and the President of the University as ex-officio members, and one member from each congressional district, to be appointed by the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. No appointive member of the board shall hold any other office, elective or appointive, in the state of Minnesota.

State Board of Education. This Board was authorized by Chapter 334, Session Laws of 1919, and consists of five representative citizens of the state, who are appointed by the Governor, by and with the approval of the Senate, for a term of five years.

State Teachers' College Board. Section 2970, G. S. 1913, vests the educational management of the normal schools in a board of eight, who, with the State Superintendent, shall constitute this board. They are to be appointed by the Governor, subject to the confirmation of the Senate, for a term of four years. There shall be one director resident in each county in which a normal school is located and no two shall be residents of the same county.

The State Teachers' Insurance and Retirement Fund was organized under authority of Chapter 199 of the laws of 1915. The management of the Fund is vested in a Board of Trustees composed of the following persons: The state commissioner of education, J. M. McConnell; the state auditor, Ray P. Chase; the attorney general, Clifford Hilton and two members elected by the Fund Association, H. L. Merrill, whose term expires January 1, 1928, and Miss Mabel Pierce, whose term expires January 1, 1929.

Board of Visitors. This board was created by the 1907 legislature. Meetings are held quarterly or oftener if required. The members are required to study the care and management of charitable and correctional institutions and visit those within the bounds of the state. The governor may order the board to investigate any penal or charitable institution. The report of any such investigation is to be made to the governor and transmitted to the legislature.

Minnesota Soldiers' Home. Management: Board of Trustees. Executive Officer: The Commandant. The Minnesota Soldiers' Home is located on land at the confluence of Minnehaha Creek with the Mississippi river in Minneapolis. It was established by the Legislature of 1887, acting on recommendations of a committee of the Department Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which made a study of two or more years' duration. Governor A. R. McGill approved the law and a board of seven trustees was appointed to locate and open the home. The site at Minnehaha Falls was chosen after a spirited contest. A temporary structure was erected to care for some twenty men who were the first to be admitted. Since that time, there have been 4848 applications for admission to the Home, 4074 men and 774 women. On June 30, 1926, the average age of Civil War men was 82 years and 6 months, average service 2 years; the two Sioux War men average age 90 years, length of service 1½ months; 64 Spanish-American War men, average age 57 years 10 months, average service 9½ months; 9 World War men, average age 41 years 7 months, average service 1 year, three months; 1 Mexican Border man. The average membership of men for 1925 was 275, average in hospital 72. Average membership of men for 1926, 274, average in hospital 77. The average membership of women for 1925, 136. Average membership of women for 1926, 149. The total value of the property as in its going conditions, according to inventory, is $1,100,000. Constant endeavor is made to keep the buildings in first-class condition.

The Minnesota Historical Society. Incorporated less than two months after the convening of the first territorial legislature in 1849, the Minnesota Historical Society is the oldest institution in the state. It is supported mainly by legislative appropriation. By gift and purchase it has accumulated one of the largest and best historical libraries in the West, containing approximately 162,000 books and pamphlets. An important part of the library consists of materials on Minnesota history—the most complete collection of its kind in existence. The library is strong in the general field of Americana, particularly in the special fields of the West, Northwest, and Canada. It also has one of the largest collections of genealogical and biographical publications in the United States; and a very extensive collection of material relating to the Scandinavians in the United States. In the society's manuscript division is a growing body of letters, diaries, and other documents left by men and women who have played some part in the making of Minnesota. Included in this unique collection are the papers of such men as Sibley, Ramsey, Taliaferro, Steele, Donnelly, James W. Taylor, and Knute Nelson. Scarcely less important historically are the fourteen thousand bound volumes of Minnesota and other newspapers in the society's library, files which extend from the time of the first newspaper published in the territory down to the present. An historical museum, with varied displays, visualizes the external conditions of life in Minnesota's past. Of special interest is an exhibit, recently installed, of a log cabin illustrating life on the Minnesota frontier in the middle fifties.

In 1919 the legislature recognized the society in effect as a state department of archives. An act authorized the transfer of non-current records from state, county, city and township offices, and made the society the official custodian of such transferred records. Since 1919 non-current archives from eight state departments, and eight commissions have been received including executive records, census schedules, and pension records from the offices respectively of the governor, the secretary of state, and the adjutant general. Three volumes of Dr. William W. Folwell's History of Minnesota have been published by the society. These volumes, which narrate the story of Minnesota from the earliest French explorations down to the present, are to be followed by a final volume containing studies of the development of education in Minnesota, the conservation movement, and other special topics not included in the chronological narrative. A quarterly magazine, originally called the Minnesota History Bulletin and now entitled Minnesota History, was begun in 1915. Seventeen volumes in a series of Collections have been issued, the last of which is Dr. Warren Upham's Minnesota Geographic Names, Their Origin and Historic Significance (vol. XVII, 1920). In 1925 the Minnesota War Records Commission was absorbed by the society. Its work, continued as the war records division, will eventuate in a two-volume history of Minnesota in the World War. The publications of the society are distributed to members as issued. The society has a membership of about fifteen hundred. Dues amount to two dollars for annual, five dollars for sustaining, and twenty-five dollars for life members. Membership may be had through application and first payment of dues. The governing body is an executive council composed of thirty elected members and six state officers ex-officio.

The society occupies the Historical Building adjacent to the capitol. This building was erected by the state at a cost of $500,000 and was dedicated on May 11, 1918. The reading room, museum, and galleries are open to the public daily from 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

The Minnesota State Art Society was created by the 1903 session of the legislature for the advancement of fine arts, etc. The governing board consists of the governor, president of the university and seven members to be appointed by the governor, qualifications being prescribed by the act. The officers and membership are prescribed by the act, and annual exhibits are provided for, prizes being offered and paid for by the state.

Live Stock Sanitary Board. Section 4690, General Statute of 1913 authorized the appointment of this board, consisting of five members, each of which should be appointed for the term of five years. One is to be a person selected and recommended by the Minnesota Live Stock Breeders Association; two shall be persons financially interested in the breeding of livestock in the state, and the other two practicing veterinarians in the state and graduates of a regularly organized and recognized veterinary college.

State Agricultural Society—Minnesota's chief organization in aid of its principal industry is the Minnesota State Agricultural Society, which dates its corporate existence from the year 1868. It was not the first, as even in territorial days societies existed, the object of which was the advancement of the state's natural resources, but it was the first concrete attempt at consolidation and so marked was its success that its annual exposition has continued unchallenged to this day. Out of it all came the annual Minnesota state fair, regarded as the greatest of its kind on the North American continent. Up to 1885 the annual fairs of the society were held in different localities with varying financial success. That year the county of Ramsey, through the efforts of public-spirited citizens, conveyed to the State of Minnesota for state fair purposes 200 acres of land, located midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis, the same to be under the management of the State Agricultural society. The Legislature of the same year met the donation with an appropriation of $100,000 for permanent improvements, which was supplemented by private subscriptions to the extent of over $31,000. This investment, together with the grounds, might be said to be the real beginning of the largest annual agricultural and industrial meet in the United States, which since, through biennial aid on the part of the Minnesota legislature and its own earnings, has reached proportions in respect to buildings and investment far beyond the wildest dreams of its organizers. Up to 1903 state control of both the society and state fair only extended to such financial aid as was necessary, but the legislature of that year, recognizing the need of more intimate relations, together with a supervision that would place the two beyond the possibility of outside influence and petty interference with its internal affairs, enacted a law practically making both a department of the state government. In 1911 supplemental legislation was adopted defining and regulating membership in the State Agricultural society which was further amended in 1913, 1919 and 1921. This membership, together with the right to vote, includes three delegates to the annual meeting to be named by each county and district agricultural society, such honorary members as may be elected by a two-thirds vote at each annual meeting, one delegate from such counties having no county or district agricultural society and to be named by the county board, and two delegates and the president, ex-officio, representing the following societies and associations:

The state horticultural society, the state dairymen's association, the state beekeepers' association, the Minnesota live stock breeders' association, the Minnesota crop improvement association, the Minnesota swine breeder's association, the Minnesota sheep breeders' association, the Minnesota horse breeders' association, the Minnesota veterinary association, the Minnesota cattle breeders' association, the state poultry association, Minnesota implement dealers' association, the Minnesota florists' association, the Minnesota garden flowers' association, the Minnesota county exhibitors' association, the Minnesota federation of county fairs, the state forestry association, the Minnesota state grange association and the Minnesota farm bureau federation.

The following societies and associations shall be entitled to one vote each: Minneapolis market gardeners' association of Minnesota, the state growers' association, Minnesota Shorthorn breeders' association, Minnesota Guernsey breeders' association, Minnesota Jersey cattle club, Minnesota Holstein-Friesian breeders' association, the Minnesota Hereford breeders' association, Minnesota Aberdeen Angus breeders' association, Minnesota Red Polled breeders' association, Minnesota Ayreshire breeders' association, Minnesota Brown Swiss breeders' association, Minnesota Poland China breeders' association, Minnesota Duroc Jersey breeders' association, Minnesota Chester White breeder's association and Minnesota Berkshire breeders' association.

The members of the governing board of the State Agricultural society are entitled to one vote each. The annual meeting of the society occurs in St. Paul or Minneapolis on the Wednesday following the second Tuesday in January each year, and continues for three days, the election of officers occurring upon the last day of the session, when a president is elected for a term of one year; a vice president for a term of two years, and two or three managers as the case may be, for a term of three years. The entire membership of the governing board is one president, two vice presidents and eight managers, one manager being elected from each of the following congressional districts: First, second, third, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth.

The state appropriates $170,000 annually to aid in the payment of premiums at county and other fairs and exhibitions complying with the provisions of the law.

State Horticultural Society has for its work the gathering and dissemination of knowledge pertaining to forestry, fruit and vegetable growing, the culture of flowers, etc., adapted to the soil and climate of Minnesota. The present working membership of the society consists of more than 3,600 professional and amateur horticulturists, throughout the Northwest. The following societies are auxiliaries of the Horticultural Society: Minnesota Garden Flower Society, Minnesota State Florists' Association, State Vegetable Growers' Association, State Beekeepers' Association. A vegetable garden for each home, a shelter belt for each farm and trees for each school are sought.
