THE MINNESOTA CAPITOL

THE MINNESOTA CAPITOL

Minnesota's first capitol, which stood at Tenth, Cedar, Exchange, and Wabasha streets in St. Paul, served the territory and state from 1854 until 1881, when it was destroyed by fire. A second capitol was immediately erected on the site of the first, but before many years the increase in the activities of state government required a larger building. In 1893 the legislature authorized the appointment of a commission to select a site for and to construct a new building, and provided for the necessary taxation to pay for it.

The original commission appointed by Governor Knute Nelson consisted of Henry W. Lamberton, George A. Du Toit, Charles H. Graves, Eben E. Corliss, John De Laittre, and James McHench, with Channing Seabury as chairman. Vacancies resulting from deaths and resignations of commissioners were filled by Daniel Shell, Edgar Weaver, John Ludwig, and Henry M. Lamberton. Frank E. Hanson was secretary of the commission.

After holding two competitions for architects, the commission adopted the design submitted by Cass Gilbert, who began his career in St. Paul in 1883 and later removed to New York, where he won fame as the designer of many public and other buildings, among them the Woolworth Building. Ground for the new building was broken on May 6, 1896, by Channing Seabury, in the presence of a large gathering of citizens, and the cornerstone was laid on July 27, 1898, by Alexander Ramsey, the first governor of Minnesota Territory. The building, which was completed at a total cost of $4,500,000, including the site and the furnishings, was ready for occupancy by the legislature in 1905. The first governor inaugurated in the new Capitol was John A. Johnson.

Soon after the building was completed, the following statement was made in a leading architectural journal: "It is probable that no other structure in the United States of its size and stability cost as little money"—a tribute to the integrity, loyalty, and efficiency of the Capitol Commission.

SECRETARY OF STATE

THOMAS DAVID SCHALL

For twenty-one successive years the voters of the State of Minnesota sent to Washington as their representative, a blind man. That blind man was Thomas David Schall.

Tom Schall's rise to political eminence is an epic justification of the American principle of equality of opportunity; an heroic saga of the faith, courage, and determination of the pioneer stock from which he came.

Tom Schall was born in Reed City, Michigan in 1876. When Tom was five years old, the humble circumstances of his family were reduced to meagre poverty by the death of his father. The mother, in search of employment, came finally to the broad prairies of Minnesota where she and the six year old boy sought to homestead a farm. Foreclosure eventually evicted them from the sod shanty they had built. Tom was about eight; from this age on, Tom was his own man; his mother, on her return to Michigan, left him in Minneapolis where he hawked newspapers and shined shoes for a living—these two callings, interspersed with farm work here and there, carried him over most of the Southern part of Minnesota. At the age of fourteen, unschooled, ill-clad he found himself in Wheaton; his shoddy, ill-fitting clothes occasioned taunting remarks; one thing led to another, and eventually Tom found it necessary to clout the jeering louts with his shoe-shine box. He had felled three when finally subdued by the town constable. As a result of his arrest he was given the choice of going to jail or to school. He chose school, and from this tardy beginning, and by his own effort, Tom Schall put himself through common school, Hamline University, the University of Minnesota, and eventually obtained his degree in law.

These educational pursuits brought to light and developed his fine gift of oratory—an ability which carried him, in his senior year, to Chicago and first place in the Northern Oratorical League. While at the University of Minnesota, he met and subsequently married, Margaret Huntley.

Well started upon his career as an attorney, with the poverty which was his birthright almost overcome, young Schall was accidentally, suddenly struck blind. Recovering from the first terrible shock of the awful darkness that engulfed him, he set to work to rebuild his law practice with the help of his faithful wife. Slowly, gropingly, he re-established himself in his profession.

In 1914, successful in his practice, Tom Schall ran for Congress on the Progressive ticket in the tenth Congressional District—it was a long shot, but life had trained him well in attaining the impossible, and when the votes were counted, Tom Schall, born to adversity, blind withal, was a Congressman. He kept his seat in Congress for ten years, and gave it up in 1924 to represent Minnesota in the United States Senate. He served continuously in the Senate until December, 1935, when, still brimming with the courageous vigor that had carried him through adversity to his high office, he was struck and killed by a speeding auto.

It is impossible here to catalogue the important events of Tom Schall's public career, and in view of his own life struggle, it is scarcely necessary to record that his public life was devoted to the cause of under-dog; the defense of the common man. His great gift of oratory was ever at the use of the oppressed; his sharp-edged invective ever turned against the oppressor.

Theodore Roosevelt, some years ago, put all this more succinctly when he said, "I believe in Tom Schall with all my heart."

Throughout his turbulent life he carried a deep, unswerving, faith in God, the common people and himself. Above all, this simple faith gave to Tom Schall the courageous, fighting heart for which, long after the dust of time has dimmed the issues for which he fought, his name will be remembered.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the executive power and authority in and over said Territory of Minnesota shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States. The governor shall reside within said Territory; shall be commander-in-chief of the militia thereof; shall perform the duties and receive the emoluments of superintendent of Indian affairs. He may grant pardons for offenses against the law of said Territory, and reprieves for offenses against the laws of the United States until the decision of the president can be made known thereon; he shall commission all officers who shall be appointed to office under the laws of the said Territory, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That there shall be a secretary of said Territory, who shall reside therein, and hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States; he shall record and preserve all the laws and proceedings of the legislative assembly hereinafter constituted, and all the acts and proceedings of the governor in his executive department; he shall transmit one copy of the laws and one copy of the executive proceedings, on or before the first day of December in each year, to the president of the United States, and at the same time two copies of the laws to the speaker of the house of representatives, and the president of the senate for the use of Congress. And in case of the death, removal, resignation, or necessary absence of the governor from the Territory, the secretary shall be and he is hereby authorized and required to execute and perform all the powers and the duties of the governor during such vacancy or necessary absence, or until another governor shall be duly appointed to fill such vacancy.

The house of representatives shall, at its first session, consist of eighteen members.

An apportionment shall be made, as nearly equal as practicable, among the several counties or districts for the election of the council and representatives, giving to each section of the Territory representation in the ratio of its population, Indians excepted, as nearly as may be. And the members of the council and of the house of representatives shall reside in and be inhabitants of the districts for which they may be elected, respectively. Previous to the first election, the governor shall cause a census or enumeration of the inhabitants of the several counties and districts of the Territory to be taken, and the first election shall be held at such time and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct, and he shall, at the same time, declare the number of members of the council and house of representatives to which each of the counties and districts shall be entitled under this act.

And the persons thus elected to the legislative assembly shall meet at such place on such day as the governor shall appoint, but thereafter the time, place and manner of holding and conducting all elections by the people, and the apportioning of the representation in the several counties or districts to the council and house of representatives, according to the population, shall be prescribed by law, as well as the day of the commencement of the regular session of the legislative assembly; provided, that no one session shall exceed the term of sixty days.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That every free white male inhabitant above the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of said Territory at the time of the passage of this act, shall be entitled to vote at the first election, and shall be eligible to any office within the said Territory; but the qualifications of voters and of holding office at all subsequent elections shall be such as shall be prescribed by the legislative assembly; provided, that the right of suffrage and of holding office shall be exercised only by citizens of the United States and those who shall have declared on oath their intention to become such, and shall have taken an oath to support the constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That no member of the legislative assembly shall hold or be appointed to any office which shall have been created.

or the salary or emoluments of which shall have been increased, while he was a member, during the term for which he was elected, and for one year after the expiration of such term; and no person holding a commission or appointment under the United States, except postmasters, shall be a member of the legislative assembly, or shall hold any office under the government of said Territory.

Each district court, or the judges thereof, shall appoint its clerk, who shall also be the register in chancery, and shall keep his office at the place where the court may be held. Writs of error, bills of exception and appeals shall be allowed in all cases from the final decisions of said district courts to the supreme court, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, but in no case removed to the supreme court shall trial by jury be allowed in said court. The supreme court, or the justices thereof, shall appoint its own clerk, and every clerk shall hold his office at the pleasure of the court for which he shall have been appointed. Writs of error and appeals from the final decisions of said supreme court shall be allowed, and may be taken to the supreme court of the United States, in the same manner and under the same regulations as from the circuit courts of the United States, where the value of the property or the amount in controversy, to be ascertained by the oath or affirmation of either party, or other competent witness, shall exceed one thousand dollars; and each of the said district courts shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction, in all cases arising under the constitution and laws of the United States, as is vested in the circuit and district courts of the United States; and the first six days of every term of said courts, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be appropriated to the trial of causes arising under the said constitution and laws; and writs of error and appeal in all such cases shall be made to the supreme court of said Territory, the same as in other cases. The said clerk shall receive in all such cases the same fees which the clerks of the district courts of the late Wisconsin Territory received for similar services.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed an attorney for said Territory, who shall continue in office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall receive the same fees and salary as the attorney of the United States for the late Territory of Wisconsin received. There shall also be a marshal for the Territory appointed, who shall hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall execute all processes issuing from the said courts, when exercising their jurisdiction as circuit and district courts of the United States; he shall perform the duties, be subject to the same regulations and penalties, and be entitled to the same fees as the marshal of the district court of the United States for the late Territory of Wisconsin, and shall, in addition, be paid two hundred dollars annually as a compensation for extra services.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That the governor, secretary, chief justice and associate justices, attorney and marshal, shall be nominated and by and with the advice and consent of the senate, appointed by the president of the United States. The governor and secretary to be appointed as aforesaid shall, before they act as such, respectively, take an oath or affirmation, before the district judge, or some justice of the peace in the limits of said Territory, duly authorized to administer oaths and affirmations by the laws now in force therein, or before the chief justice, or some associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, to support the constitution of the United States, and faithfully to discharge the duties of their respective offices, which said oaths, when so taken, shall be certified by the person by whom the same shall have been taken, and such certificates shall be received and recorded by the said secretary among the executive proceedings; and the chief justice and associate justices, and all other civil officers in said Territory, before they act as such, shall take a like oath or affirmation, before the said governor or secretary, or some judge or justice of the peace of the Territory, who may be duly commissioned and qualified, which said oath or affirmation shall be certified and transmitted, by the person taking the same, to the secretary, to be by him recorded as aforesaid; and afterwards, the like oath or affirmation shall be taken, certified and recorded in such manner and form as may be prescribed by law. The governor shall receive an annual salary of $1,500 as governor, and $1,000 as superintendent of Indian affairs. The chief justice and associate justice shall each receive an annual salary of $1,800. The secretary shall receive an annual salary of $1,800. The said salaries shall be paid quarter-yearly, at the treasury of the United States. The members of the legislative assembly shall be entitled to receive three dollars each per day during their attendance at the session thereof, and three dollars each for every twenty miles traveled in going to and returning from the said sessions, estimated according to the nearest usually traveled route. There shall be appropriated, annually, the sum of $1,000, to be expended by the governor to defray the contingent expenses of the Territory; and there shall also be appropriated, annually, a sufficient sum to be expended by the secretary of the Territory, and upon an estimate to be made by the secretary of the treasury of the United States, to defray the expenses of the legislative assembly, the printing of the laws, and other incidental expenses, and the secretary of the Territory shall annually account to the secretary of the treasury of the United States for the manner in which the aforesaid sum shall have been expended.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That the inhabitants of the said Territory shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities heretofore granted and secured to the Territory of Wisconsin and to its inhabitants; and the laws in force in the Territory of Wisconsin at the date of the admission of the State of Wisconsin shall continue to be valid and operative therein, so far as the same be not incompatible with the provisions of this act, subject, nevertheless, to be altered, modified or repealed by the governor and legislative assembly of the said Territory of Minnesota; and the laws of the United States are hereby extended over and declared to be in force in said Territory, so far as the same, or any provision thereof, may be applicable.

And the sum of twenty thousand dollars, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, is hereby appropriated and granted to said Territory of Minnesota, to be applied by the governor and legislative assembly to the erection of suitable public buildings at the seat of government.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That a delegate of the house of representatives of the United States, to serve for the term of two years, may be elected by the voters qualified to elect members of the legislative assembly, who shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges as are exercised and enjoyed by the delegates from the several other territories of the United States to the said house of representatives. The first election shall be held at such times and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct; and at all subsequent elections the times, places and manner of holding the elections shall be prescribed by law. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected, and a certificate thereof shall be given accordingly.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That all suits, process and proceedings, civil and criminal, at law or in chancery, and all indictments and informations, which shall be pending and undetermined in the courts of the Territory of Wisconsin, within the limits of said Territory of Minnesota, when this act shall take effect, shall be transferred to be heard, tried, prosecuted and determined in the district courts hereby established, which may include the counties or districts where any such proceedings may be pending. All bonds, recognizances, and obligations of every kind whatsoever, valid under the existing laws, within the limits of said Territory, shall be valid under this act; and all crimes and misdemeanors against the laws, in force within said limits, may be prosecuted, tried, and punished in the courts established by this act; and all penalties, forfeitures, actions and causes of action may be recovered under this act the same as they would have been under the laws in force within the limits composing said Territory at the time this act shall go into operation.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That all justices of the peace, constables, sheriffs, and all other judicial and ministerial officers, who shall be in office within the limits of said Territory, when this act shall take effect, shall be and they are hereby authorized and required to continue to exercise and perform the duties of their respective offices as officers of the Territory of Minnesota, temporarily, and until they or others shall be duly appointed and qualified to fill their places, in the manner herein directed, or until their offices shall be abolished.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That the sum of $5,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be expended by and under the direction of the said governor of the Territory of Minnesota, in the purchase of a library, to be kept at the seat of government for the use of the governor, legislative assembly, judges of the supreme court, secretary, marshal, and attorneys of said Territory, and such other persons and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That when the lands in said Territory shall be surveyed under the direction of the government of the United States, preparatory to bringing the same into market, sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in each township in said Territory shall be and the same are hereby reserved for the purpose of being applied to schools in said Territory, and in the state and territories hereafter to be erected out of the same.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That temporarily, and until otherwise provided by law, the governor of said Territory may define the judicial districts of said Territory, and assign the judges who may be appointed for said Territory to the several districts, and also appoint the times and places for holding courts in the several counties or subdivisions in each of said judicial districts, by proclamation to be issued by him; but the legislative assembly, at their first or any subsequent session, may organize, alter or modify such judicial districts, and assign the judges, and alter the times and places of holding the courts, as to them shall seem proper and convenient.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That every bill which shall or may pass the council and house of representatives, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the Territory; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated; which shall cause the objections to be entered at large upon their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall also be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law; but in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislative assembly, by adjournment, prevent it, in which case it shall not become a law.

MINNESOTA STATE SEAL

The state seal is similar in design to the territorial seal, although various other devices were proposed and even adopted as laws.

First official reference to the seal appears in the message of Governor Ramsey to the first territorial legislature, September 9, 1849. A legislative committee, October 31, recommended as a seal device, "an every-day scene, consisting of an Indian family with their lodge, canoe, etc., and a single white man visiting them, with no other protection than the feeling of hospitality and friendship existing between the two people. The white man is receiving from the Indian the pipe of peace." That seal was authorized by law but never used.

The territorial seal depicted instead a scene at St. Anthony Falls, as shown in the accompanying engraving. The earlier proposal may have influenced the design, but substitution of the musket and powderhorn for the pipe of peace may have had special significance. The motto, "Quo sursum velo videre," the third word a misprint for "volo," meaning "I wish to see what lies beyond," was selected by H. H. Sibley, while a delegate in Congress. Governor Ramsey commissioned D. O. Hare of Washington to engrave the seal and the cost was $157.

Although ridiculed by journalists as representing "a scared white man and an astonished Indian," and "a man plowing one way and looking another," this territorial seal was used until the adoption of the state seal in 1858.

During the first session of the state legislature, assembled December 2, 1857, Charles F. Lowe, a member of the convention of 1857 which drafted the state constitution, including a provision for a state seal, procured from Mr. Buechner, a St. Paul artist, a design shown on page 658 of W. H. C. Folsom's "Fifty Years in the Northwest."

The state government upon beginning operations in May, 1858, was without a state seal. Authorizing temporary use of the territorial seal, Governor Sibley brought up the subject at the adjourned legislative session in June and a special committee was named. W. H. C. Folsom, chairman, submitted the design mentioned, which on July 16 was adopted by joint resolution. When the new seal was delivered, however, it was found that the legislative intent had failed, and in place of that elaborate design one resembling the territorial seal was used, as it appears in the illustration. The word "state" was added and the date of admission substituted for the territorial year. The motto was changed to "L'Etoile du Nord," translated "The North Star," and this state seal has ever since been in official use. The Minnesotian published articles ridiculing the French motto and declaring that Governor Sibley had chosen it simply because he spoke that language.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That on the first Monday in June next, the legal voters in each representative district then existing within the limits of the proposed state, are hereby authorized to elect two delegates for each representative to which said district shall be entitled according to the apportionment for representatives to the territorial legislature; which election for delegates shall be held and conducted, and the returns made, in all respects in conformity with the laws of said Territory regulating the election of representatives, and the delegates so elected shall assemble at the capitol of said Territory on the second Monday in July next, and first determine by a vote whether it is the wish of the people of the proposed State to be admitted into the Union at that time; and if so, shall proceed to form a constitution, and take all necessary steps for the establishment of a state government, in conformity with the Federal Constitution, subject to the approval and ratification of the people of the proposed State.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That in the event said convention shall decide in favor of the immediate admission of the proposed State into the Union, it shall be the duty of the United States marshal for said Territory to proceed to take a census or enumeration of the inhabitants within the limits of the proposed State, under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the secretary of the interior, with the view of ascertaining the number of reprerepresentatives to which said State may be entitled in the Congress of the United States. And said State shall be entitled to one representative, and such additional representatives as the population of the State shall, according to the census, show it would be entitled to according to the present ratio of representation.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the following propositions be and the same are hereby offered to the said convention of the people of Minnesota for their free acceptance or rejection, which, if accepted by the convention, shall be obligatory on the United States, and upon the said State of Minnesota, to-wit:

First—That sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in every township of public lands in said State, and where either of said sections, or any part thereof, has been sold or otherwise been disposed of, other lands, equivalent thereto, and as contiguous as may be, shall be granted to said State for the use of schools.

Second—That seventy-two sections of land shall be set apart and reserved for the use and support of a state university, to be selected by the governor of said State, subject to the approval of the commissioner at the general land office, and to be appropriated and applied in such manner as the legislature of said State may prescribe; for the purpose aforesaid, but for no other purpose.

Third—Ten entire sections of land to be selected by the governor of said State, in legal subdivisions, shall be granted to said State for the purpose of completing the public buildings, or for the erection of others at the seat of government, under the direction of the legislature thereof.

Fourth—That all salt springs within said State, not exceeding twelve in number, with six sections of land adjoining or as contiguous as may be to each, shall be granted to said State for its use; and the same to be selected by the governor thereof within one year after the admission of said State, and, when so selected, to be used or disposed of on such terms, conditions and regulations as the legislature shall direct; provided, that no salt spring or land the right whereof is now vested in any individual or in individuals, or which may be hereafter confirmed or adjudged to any individual or individuals, shall by this article be granted to said State.

Fifth—That five per centum of the net proceeds of sales of all public lands lying within said State, which shall be sold by Congress after the admission of said State into the Union, after deducting all the expenses incident to the same, shall be paid to said State for the purpose of making public roads and internal improvements as the legislature shall direct; provided, the foregoing propositions herein offered are on the condition that the said convention which shall form the constitution of said State shall provide, by a clause in said constitution, or an ordinance, irrevocable without the consent of the United States, that said State shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same by the United States, or with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title in said soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and that no tax shall be imposed on lands belonging to the United States, and that in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents.

MINNESOTA STATE FLAG

The State Legislature of 1893, by Chapter 16, provided for the adoption of a state flag.

Mrs. Franklyn L. Greenleaf, Mrs. A. A. White, Mrs. Edward Durant, Mrs. F. B. Clarke, Mrs. H. F. Brown and Mrs. A. T. Stebbins were by this act named and designated a commission to select and adopt an appropriate design for a state flag.

Conformably to the provision of this act, this commission called for designs, and on Tuesday, Feb. 28, 1893, met, selected and adopted the design presented by Mrs. Edward H. Center, of Minneapolis.

Following is a description of the flag: "The ground is of white silk, and the reverse side of blue silk, bordered with bullion fringe. In the center is the state seal, wreathed with white moccasin flowers, on a blue ground. The red ribbon of the seal bearing the motto is continued through the wreath, entwining the blossoms and floating carelessly over the lower portion of the flag. It bears, in gold, the dates 1819, the time of the settlement of Minnesota, and 1893. Above, also in gold, is the date 1858, the time of the admission of Minnesota to the Union. Below the design, in gold letters, is wrought 'Minnesota.' Grouped around the seal are nineteen stars in the design of star points, with the North Star, significant of the North Star State, in a group of three at the top."

The choice of the number nineteen is a peculiarly happy one, as Minnesota was the nineteenth state, after the original thirteen, to be admitted to the Union. The standard to the flag was surmounted by a golden gopher, and tied with a gold cord and tassel. The execution of the design is entirely in needle work.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

Under the enabling act of Congress, approved March 3, 1857, a constitutional convention of one hundred and eight members (each council district to elect two for each councilman and representative it was entitled to) was authorized to meet at the capitol on the second Monday in July, to frame a state constitution, and submit it to the people of the territory. The election was held on the first Monday in June. On July 13th the delegates met, but, a disagreement arising in the organization, the Republican members organized one body, and the Democratic members organized separately. Each of these bodies, claiming to be the legal constitutional convention, proceeded with the work of forming an instrument to be submitted to the people. After some days an understanding was effected between them, and, by means of committees of conference, the same constitution was framed and adopted by both bodies. On being submitted to the people October 13th, it was ratified.

ARTICLE I.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

Object of government. SECTION 1. Government is instituted for the security, benefit and protection of the people, in whom all political power is inherent, together with the right to alter, modify or reform such government, whenever the public good may require it.

Rights and Privileges. SEC. 2. No member of this State shall be disfranchised, or deprived of any of the rights or privileges secured to any citizen thereof, unless by the law of the land, or the judgment of his peers. There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the State otherwise than the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

Liberty of the press. SEC. 3. The liberty of the press shall forever remain inviolate, and all persons may freely speak, write and publish their sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right.

Trial by jury. SEC. 4. The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, and shall extend to all cases at law without regard to the amount in controversy, but a jury trial may be waived by the parties in all cases in the manner prescribed by law; [and the legislature may provide that the agreement of five-sixths of any jury in any civil action or proceeding, after not less than six (6) hours' deliberation, shall be a sufficient verdict therein.]*

No excessive bail or unusual punishments. SEC. 5. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor shall excessive fines be imposed; nor shall cruel or unusual punishments be inflicted.

*The clause in brackets was adopted Nov. 4, 1890.

Rights of accused in criminal prosecutions. SEC. 6. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the county or district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which county or district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, to be confronted with the witnesses against him, to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defense. (a)

Further rights of accused—when bailable. SEC. 7. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law, and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require.

Redress of injuries or wrongs. SEC. 8. Every person is entitled to a certain remedy in the laws for all injuries or wrongs which he may receive in his person, property or character; he ought to obtain justice freely and without purchase; completely and without denial; promptly and without delay, conformable to the laws.

Treason defined. SEC. 9. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against the same, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

Right against unreasonable searches. SEC. 10. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the person or things to be seized.

Prohibits ex post facto laws, or laws impairing contracts. SEC. 11. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, nor any law impairing the obligation of contracts shall ever be passed, and no conviction shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate.

Imprisonment for debt—property exemption. SEC. 12. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in this state, (b) but this shall not prevent the legislature from providing for imprisonment, or holding to bail, persons charged with fraud in contracting said debt. A reasonable amount of property shall be exempt from seizure or sale for the payment of any debt or liability. The amount of such exemption shall be determined by law. [Provided, however, that all property so exempted shall be liable to seizure and sale for any debts incurred to any person for work done or materials furnished in the construction, repair or improvement of the same, and provided further, that such liability to seizure and sale shall also extend to all real property for any debt incurred to any laborer or servant for labor or service performed.]*

Private property for public use. SEC. 13. Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use without just compensation therefor, first paid or secured.†

(a) The jury contemplated by article 1, section 6, securing the right to jury trial in criminal cases, is a body of twelve men, and it is error to try a party charged with crime in a justice court, against his objection, with a jury of six. The fact that he may appeal to the district court, on entering into recognizance with sureties, does not change the rule. 14 Minn. 330.

(b) 23 Minn. 1; 23 Minn. 411.

*The clause in brackets was adopted Nov. 6, 1888.

†The words "destroyed or damaged" inserted by amendment adopted Nov. 3, 1896

Military power subordinate. SEC. 14. The military shall be subordinate to the civil power, and no standing army shall be kept up in this State in times of peace.

Lands declared allodial—leases, when void. SEC. 15. All lands within the State are declared to be allodial, and feudal tenures of every description, with all their incidents, are prohibited. Leases and grants of agricultural lands for a longer period than twenty-one years hereafter made, in which shall be reserved any rent or service of any kind, shall be void.

Freedom of conscience—no preference to be given to any religious establishment or mode of worship. SEC. 16. The enumeration of rights in this constitution shall not be construed to deny or impair others retained by and inherent in the people. The right of every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience shall never be infringed, nor shall any man be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship, or to maintain any religious or ecclesiastical ministry, against his consent; nor shall any control of or interference with the rights of conscience be permitted, or any preference be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of the State, nor shall any money be drawn from the treasury for the benefit of any religious societies, or religious or theological seminaries.

No religious test or property qualifications to be required. SEC. 17. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification for any office of public trust under the State. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification of any voter at any election in this State; nor shall any person be rendered incompetent to give evidence in any court of law or equity in consequence of his opinion upon the subject of religion.

No license to peddle. SEC. 18. Any person may sell or peddle the products of the farm or garden occupied and cultivated by him without obtaining a license therefor.*

ARTICLE II.

ON NAME AND BOUNDARIES.

Name and boundaries. SECTION 1. This State shall be called and known by the name of the State of Minnesota, and shall consist of and have jurisdiction over the territory embraced in the following boundaries, to-wit: Beginning at the point in the center of the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the boundary line between the United States and British Possessions crosses the same; thence up the main channel of said river to that of the Bois des Sioux river; thence up the main channel of said river to Lake Traverse, thence up the center of said lake to the southern extremity thereof; thence in a direct line to the head of Big Stone lake; thence through its center to its outlet; thence by a due south line to the north line of the State of Iowa; thence east along the northern boundary of said State to the main channel of the Mississippi river; thence up the main channel of said river and following the boundary line of the State of Wisconsin until the same intersects the St. Louis river; thence down the said river to and through Lake Superior, on the boundary line of Wisconsin and Michigan, until it intersects the dividing line between the United States and British Possessions; thence up Pigeon river and following said dividing line to the place of beginning.

*Adopted Nov. 6, 1906.

The northern boundary of the state at the Lake of the Woods is projected beyond the 49th parallel a distance of about twenty miles, making a wedge-shaped jog through the lake until it strikes firm ground on the west bank of the lake; thence in a due south line to the 49th parallel. The explanation of this jog is found in the subjoined paragraphs. In the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, section 19 reads as follows: Sec. 19. Resolved that the fol-

Jurisdiction on bordering rivers. SEC. 2. The State of Minnesota shall have concurrent jurisdiction on the Mississippi and on all other rivers and waters bordering on the said State of Minnesota, so far as the same shall form a common boundary to said State, and any other state or states now or hereafter to be formed by the same; and said rivers and waters, and navigable waters leading into the same, shall be common highways and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said State as to other citizens of the United States, without any tax, duty, impost, or toll therefor.

Acceptance of propositions in enabling act. SEC. 3. The propositions contained in the act of Congress entitled, "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government, preparatory to their admission into the Union on equal footing with the original states," are hereby accepted, ratified and confirmed and shall remain irrevocable without the consent of the United States; and it is hereby ordained that this State shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same, by the United States, or with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title to said soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and no tax shall be imposed on lands belonging to the United States and in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

Division of powers. SECTION 1. The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—legislative, executive, and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to or constituting one of these departments shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others; except in the instances expressly provided in this constitution. (a)

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

Legislature meets biennially—length of session. SECTION 1. The legislature shall consist of the Senate and House of Representatives, which shall meet biennially at the seat of government of the State, at such time as shall be prescribed by law, but no session shall exceed the term of ninety (90) legislative days; and no new bill shall be introduced in either branch, except on the written request of the governor, during the last twenty (20) days of lowing described (also represented on said map as before mentioned), is, in the opinion of the commissioners, so far as the same extends, the true boundary intended by the before mentioned treaties, namely: * * * thence through the middle of the waters of this bay to the northwest extremity of the same; being the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods, and from a monument in this bay, on the nearest firm ground to the above northwest extremity of said bay, the courses and distances are as follows: 56° W. 1,565½ feet; 2nd, N. 6° W. 861½ feet; 3rd, N. 28° W. 615.4 feet; 4th, N. 27° 10' W. 495.4 feet; 5th, N. 5° 10' E. 1,322½ feet; 6th, N. 70° 45' W. 493 feet, the variation being 12° east. The termination of this 6th and last course and distance being the above said most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods, as designated by the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, and being in latitude 49° 23' 55" north of the equator, and in longitude 95° 14' 38" west from Greenwich. The second article of the convention of 1818 is as follows: Article 2. It is agreed that a line drawn from the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods along the 49th parallel of north latitude, or, if the said point shall not be in the 49th parallel of north latitude, then that a line drawn from the said point due north or south, as the case may be, until the said line shall intersect the said parallel of north latitude, and from the point of such intersection due west, along and with the said parallel, shall be the line of demarkation between the territories of the United States and His Britannic Majesty, and that the said line shall form the northern boundary of the said territories of the United States and the southern boundary of His Britannic Majesty, from the Lake of the Woods to the Stony Mountains. This boundary was reestablished and determined by a commission authorized by congress, and the surveys embracing four years were made and reported to congress in 1877.

(a) Courts cannot control or interfere with an executive officer of the state in his official acts, even though they are such that the duty to perform them might have been entrusted to some other officer. 28 Minn. 50.

such sessions, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor.

Apportionment of members. SEC. 2. The number of members who compose the Senate and House of Representatives shall be prescribed by law, but the representation in the Senate shall never exceed one member for every 5,000 inhabitants, and in the House of Representatives one member for every 2,000 inhabitants. The representation in both houses shall be apportioned equally throughout the different sections of the State, in proportion to the population thereof, exclusive of Indians not taxable under the provisions of law.

Eligibility of members—quorum. SEC. 3. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and eligibility of its own members; a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to transact business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as it may provide.

Rules of government. SEC. 4. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, sit upon its own adjournment, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member; but no member shall be expelled the second time for the same offense.

Officers—journal of proceedings. SEC. 5. The House of Representatives shall elect its presiding officer and the Senate and House of Representatives shall elect such other officers as may be provided by law; they shall keep journals of their proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, and the yeas and nays, when taken on any question, shall be entered on such journals.

Length of adjournments. SEC. 6. Neither house shall, during a session of the legislature, adjourn for more than three days (Sundays excepted), nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be assembled, without the consent of the other house.

Compensation. SEC. 7. The compensation of senators and representatives shall be three dollars per diem during the first session, but may afterwards be prescribed by law. But no increase of compensation shall be prescribed which shall take effect during the period for which the members of the existing House of Representatives may have been elected.

Privileged from arrest. SEC. 8. The members of each house shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of their respective houses, and in going to or returning from the same. For any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Restriction as to holding office. SEC. 9. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he is elected, hold any office under the authority of the United States or the State of Minnesota, except that of postmaster, and no senator or representative shall hold an office under the state which has been created or the emoluments of which have been increased during the session of the legislature of which he was a member, until one year after the expiration of his term of office in the legislature.

Bills of revenue to originate in House. SEC. 10. All bills for raising a revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose and concur with the amendments as on other bills.

Approval of bills by Governor—action on non-approval. SEC. 11. Every bill which shall have passed the Senate and House of Representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the State. If he approves, he shall sign and deposit it in the office of secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment within that time, prevents its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law.

Governor may cut out items of appropriation bills and otherwise approve. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

Money appropriations, how made. SEC. 12. No money shall be appropriated except by bill. Every order, resolution or vote requiring the concurrence of the two houses (except such as relate to the business or adjournment of the same) shall be presented to the governor for his signature, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being returned by him with his objections, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the members of the two houses, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in case of a bill.

Majority vote of all members-elect to pass a law. SEC. 13. The style of all laws of this State shall be: "Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota." No law shall be passed unless voted for by a majority of all the members elected to each branch of the legislature, and the vote entered upon the journal of each house.

Impeachment powers. SEC. 14. The House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment, through a concurrence of a majority of all the members elected to seats therein. All impeachments shall be tried by the Senate; and when sitting for that purpose the senators shall be upon oath or affirmation to do justice according to law and evidence. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Exclusion from civil rights. SEC. 15. The legislature shall have full power to exclude from the privilege of electing or being elected any person convicted of bribery, perjury, or any other infamous crime.

Protest and dissent of members. SEC. 16. Two or more members of either house shall have liberty to dissent and protest against any act or resolution which they may think injurious to the public or to any individual, and have the reason of their dissent entered on the journal.

Vacancies in legislature. SEC. 17. The governor shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies as may occur in either house of the legislature. The legislature shall prescribe by law the manner in which evidence in cases of contested seats in either house shall be taken.

Punish for disorderly conduct. SEC. 18. Each house may punish by imprisonment, during its session, any person, not a member, who shall be guilty of any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in their presence, but no such imprisonment shall at any time exceed twenty-four hours.

Open sessions. SEC. 19. Each house shall be open to the public during the sessions thereof, except in such cases as in their opinion may require secrecy.

Reading of bills. SEC. 20. Every bill shall be read on three different days in each separate house, unless, in case of urgency, two-thirds of the house where such bill is depending shall deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and no bill shall be passed by either house until it shall have been previously read twice at length.

Enrollment of bills. SEC. 21. Every bill having passed both houses shall be carefully enrolled, and shall be signed by the presiding officer of each house. Any presiding officer refusing to sign a bill which shall have previously passed both houses shall thereafter be incapable of holding a seat in either branch of the legislature, or hold any other office or honor of profit in the State, and in case of such refusal, each house shall, by rule, provide the manner in which such bill shall be properly certified for presentation to the governor.

Passage of bills on last day of session prohibited. SEC. 22. No bill shall be passed by either house of the legislature upon the day prescribed for the adjournment of the two houses. But this section shall not be so construed as to preclude the enrollment of a bill, or the signature and passage from one house to the other, or the reports thereon from committees, or its transmission to the executive for his signature.

Census enumeration — apportionment. SEC. 23. The legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of this State in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and every tenth year thereafter. At their first session after each enumeration so made, and also at their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe the bounds of congressional, senatorial and representative districts, and to apportion anew the senators and representatives among the several districts according to the provisions of section second of this article.

Senatorial districts — term of office of senators and representatives. SEC. 24. The senators shall also be chosen by single districts of convenient contiguous territory, at the same time that members of the house of representatives are required to be chosen, and in the same manner; and no representative district shall be divided in the formation of a senate district. FINANCES OF THE STATE AND BANKS AND BANKING.

Power of taxation—legislature may authorize. SECTION 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine: Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads.

Occupation tax. *SEC. 1A. Every person, co-partnership, company, joint stock company, corporation, or association however or for whatever purpose organized, engaged in the business of mining or producing iron ore or other ores in this State, shall pay to the State of Minnesota an occupation tax on the valuation of all ores mined or produced, which tax shall be in addition to all other taxes provided by law, said tax to be due and payable from such person, co-partnership, company, joint stock company, corporation, or association however or for whatever purpose organized, on May first of the calendar year next following the mining or producing thereof. The Legislature shall by law make the necessary provisions for carrying out the provisions of this section.

N. B.—Sections 2, 3 and 4 obsolete, because in 1906 there was adopted the section which now is Section I in this article. It supplanted Sections 1, 2, 3 and 4 and the unnumbered section of 1896. This amendment is sometimes called the wide open tax amendment. No amendments have been adopted to take the place of the old Sections 2, 3 and 4. There is therefore a gap in the numbering from 1 to 5.

State debt limited—how contracted. SEC. 5. For the purpose of defraying extraordinary expenditures, the state may contract public debts, but such debts shall never, in the aggregate, exceed two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; every such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single object, to be distinctly specified therein; and no such law shall take effect until it shall have been passed by the vote of two-thirds of the members of each branch of the legislature, to be recorded by yeas and nays on the journals of each house respectively; and every such law shall levy a tax annually sufficient to pay the annual interest of such debt, and also a tax sufficient to pay the principal of such debt within ten years from the final passage of such law, and shall specially appropriate the proceeds of such taxes to the payment of such principal and interest; and such appropriation and taxes shall not be repealed, postponed, or diminished, until the principal and interest of such debt shall have been wholly paid. The state shall never contract any debts for works of internal improvements, or to be a party in carrying on such works, except as authorized by Section 16 of Article 9, and by Article 16 of this Constitution, but it may levy an excise tax upon any substance, material, fluid, force or other means or instrumentality, or the business of dealing in, selling or producing any or all thereof, used or useful, in producing or generating power for propelling motor or other vehicles used on the public highways of this State, and shall place two-thirds of the proceeds of such tax in the Trunk Highway Fund provided for in Section 2

Nor shall there be any further issue of bonds denominated "Minnesota State Railroad Bonds," under what purports to be an amendment to Section ten (10) of Article nine (9) of the Constitution, adopted April 15th, 1858, which is hereby expunged from the Constitution, saving, excepting and reserving to the State, nevertheless, all rights, remedies and forfeitures accruing under said amendment. Provided*, however that for the purpose of developing the agricultural resources of the state, the State may establish and maintain a system of rural credits and thereby loan money and extend credit to the people of the State upon real estate security in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by law, and to issue and negotiate bonds to provide money to be so loaned. The limit of indebtedness contained in Section 5 of this Article shall not apply to the provisions of this Section, and the purposes for which the credit of the State or the aforesaid municipal subdivisions thereof may be given or loaned as herein provided are declared to be public purposes.

General banking law—provision and restrictions. SEC. 13. The legislature may, by a two-thirds vote, pass a general banking law, with the following restrictions and requirements, viz.:

In case the trunk highway sinking fund shall not be adequate to meet the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds authorized by the legislature as hereinbefore provided, the legislature may provide by law for the taxation of all taxable property of the state in an amount sufficient to meet the deficiency, or it may, in its discretion, appropriate to such sinking fund moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Upon the second Tuesday, the thirteenth day of October, 1857, an election shall be held for members of the House of Representatives of the United States, governor, lieutenant governor, supreme and district judges, members of the legislature, and all other officers designated in this Constitution, and also for the submission of this Constitution to the people, for their adoption or rejection.

Voters at the first election. SEC. 17. Upon the day so designated as aforesaid every free white male inhabitant over the age of twenty-one years, who shall have resided within the limits of the State for ten days previous to the day of said election, may vote for all officers to be elected under this Constitution at such election, and also for or against the adoption of this Constitution.

Vote on the constitution. SEC. 18. In voting for or against the adoption of this Constitution, the words, "For Constitution," or "Against Constitution," may be written or printed on the ticket of each voter, but no voter shall vote for or against the Constitution, on a separate ballot from that cast by him for officers to be elected at said election under this Constitution; and if upon the canvass of the vote so polled it shall appear that there was a greater number of votes polled for than against said Constitution, then this Constitution shall be deemed to be adopted as the Constitution of the State of Minnesota, and all the provisions and obligations of this Constitution, and of the schedule thereunto attached, shall thereafter be valid to all intents and purposes as the Constitution of said State.

Election—how conducted. SEC. 19. At said election the polls shall be opened, the election held, returns made, and certificates issued, in all respects as provided by law for opening, closing and conducting elections and making returns of the same, except as hereinbefore specified, and excepting also that polls may be opened and elections held at any point or points in any of the counties where precincts may be established as provided by law, ten days previous to the day of election, not less than ten miles from the place of voting in any established precinct.

Returns of election. SEC. 20. It shall be the duty of the judges and clerks of election, in addition to the returns required by law for each precinct, to forward to the secretary of the Territory, by mail, immediately after the close of the election, a certified copy of the poll book containing the name of each person who has voted in the precinct and the number of votes polled for and against the adoption of this Constitution.

Canvassing returns. SEC. 21. The returns of said election for and against this Constitution, and for all state officers and members of the House of Representatives of the United States, shall be made, and certificates issued in the manner now prescribed by law for returning votes given for delegates to Congress; and the returns for all district officers, judicial, legislative or otherwise, shall be made to the register of deeds of the senior county in each district, in the manner prescribed by law, except as otherwise provided. The returns for all officers elected at large shall be canvassed by the governor of the Territory, assisted by Joseph R. Brown and Thomas J. Galbraith, at the time designated by law for canvassing the vote for delegates to Congress.

SEC. 22. If, upon canvassing the votes for and against the adoption of this Constitution, it shall appear that there has been polled a greater number of votes against than for it, then no certificate of election shall be issued for any State or district officer provided for in this Constitution, and no State organization shall have validity within the limits of the Territory, until otherwise provided for and until a Constitution for a State government shall have been adopted by the people.

CYPRIPEDIUM.—THE MOCCASIN FLOWER.

STATE FLOWER OF MINNESOTA.

TO THE LIBRARY

MINNESOTA STATE FLOWER

The state flower is the showy pink and white moccasin flower, the largest blossom pictured in the accompanying illustration, and known as the Cypripedium Spectabile and the earlier name of Cypripedium Reginae.

The state legislature adopted a state flower or floral emblem during February, 1892, on a petition signed by Mrs. A. L. Stebbins of Rochester and other members of the Woman's Auxiliary, Board of World's Fair Managers, urging adoption of the "Wild Lady Slipper or Moccasin Flower," Cypripedium Calceolus, which was followed.

Women of the St. Anthony Study Circle, through Mrs. E. C. Chatfield of Minneapolis, announced later that the calceolus was not found in Minnesota and in February, 1902, the legislature changed the designation to the reginae.

Thus the Cypripedium Reginae became the Minnesota state flower. The name Cypripedium, from the Greek words meaning the shoe of Venus, published for this genus in 1737 by Linnaeus, and its common English and American popular names, as Lady's Slipper, Moccasin Flower and Indian Shoe, refer to the saccate and somewhat shoe-like form of the most conspicuous petal (in this Orchis family called the lip) of the flower. The plants grow preferably in cool and moist woods and in bogs, flowering from May to July. The reginae is one of six species found in Minnesota.

NOTE—Minnesota has fourteen genera, including forty-one species, of the Orchis family, to which the Cypripediums belong. In total, 1,583 species of flowering plants, and sixty-eight ferns and their allies, making together 1,650 species, were tabulated, as known to grow without cultivation in this state, by Warren Upham in the Catalogue of the Flora of Minnesota, published in the Twelfth Annual Report of the Geological and Natural History Survey for the year 1883 (193 pages, with a map showing the areas of forest and prairie). Within the basin of the Minnesota river, according to the report in 1892 by Prof. Conway MacMillan, the state botanist, 1,174 species and varieties of flowering plants, including all our Cypripediums, are known and have been collected for the Herbarium of the State University. The State Flower is thus chosen from among more than a thousand others which blossom on our prairies, in the northern woods, in their cool bogs, and in our streams and lakes.

ACT OF ADMISSION INTO THE UNION

An Act for the admission of Minnesota into the Union.
[Passed May 11, 1858.]

WHEREAS, An act of Congress was passed February twenty-sixth, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government preparatory to their admission into the Union on an equal footing with the original states"; and, whereas, the people of said Territory did, on the twenty-ninth day of August, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, by delegates elected for that purpose, form for themselves a constitution and state government, which is republican in form, and was ratified and adopted by the people at an election held on the thirteenth day of October, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, for that purpose; therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the State of Minnesota shall be one, and is hereby declared to be one, of the United States of America, and admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states in all respects whatever.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That said State shall be entitled to two representatives in Congress, until the next apportionment of representatives among the several states.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That from and after the admission of the State of Minnesota, as hereinbefore provided, all the laws of the United States which are not locally inapplicable shall have the same force and effect within that State as in other States of the Union; and the said State is hereby constituted a judicial district of the United States, within which a district court, with like powers and jurisdiction as the district court of the United States for the district of Iowa, shall be established; the judge, attorney and marshal of the United States of the said district of Minnesota shall reside within the same, and shall be entitled to the same compensation as the judge, attorney and marshal of the district of Iowa; and in all cases of appeal or writ of error heretofore prosecuted and now pending in the supreme court of the United States, upon any record from the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, the mandate of execution or order of further proceedings shall be directed by the supreme court of the United States to the district court of the United States for the district of Minnesota, or to the supreme court of the State of Minnesota, as the nature of such appeal or writ of error may require; and each of those courts shall be the successor of the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, as to all such cases, with full power to hear and determine the same, and to ward mesne or final process therein.

THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

THE UNANIMOUS DECLARATION OF THE THIRTEEN UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive to these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present king of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable and distant from the repository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time after such dissolutions to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large, for their exercise, the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our government:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has incited domestic insurrections among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind—enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in general congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of DIVINE PROVIDENCE, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

§ 2. The United States in congress assembled shall also be the last resort on appeal in all disputes and differences now subsisting, or that may hereafter arise, between two or more states concerning boundary, jurisdiction, or any other cause whatever; which authority shall always be exercised in the manner following: Whenever the legislative or executive authority or lawful agent of any state in controversy with another shall present a petition to congress, stating the matter in question, and praying for a hearing, notice thereof shall be given by order of congress to the legislative or executive authority of the other state in controversy, and a day assigned for the appearance of the parties by their lawful agents, who shall then be directed to appoint, by joint consent, commissioners or judges to constitute a court for hearing and determining the matter in question; but if they cannot agree, congress shall name three persons out of each of the United States, and from the list of such persons each party shall alternately strike out one, the petitioners beginning, until the number shall be reduced to thirteen; and from that number not less than seven nor more than nine names, as congress shall direct, shall, in the presence of congress, be drawn out by lot; the persons whose names shall be so drawn, or any five of them, shall be commissioners or judges to hear and finally determine the controversy, so always as a major part of the judges who shall hear the cause shall agree in the determination; and if either party shall neglect to attend at the day appointed, without showing reasons which congress shall judge sufficient, or being present shall refuse to strike, the congress shall proceed to nominate three persons out of each state, and the secretary of congress shall strike in behalf of such party absent or refusing, and the judgment and sentence of the court, to be appointed in the manner before described, shall be final and conclusive; and if any of the parties shall refuse to submit to the authority of such court, or to appear to defend their claim or cause, the court shall nevertheless proceed to pronounce sentence or judgment, which shall in like manner be final and decisive: the judgment or sentence and other proceedings being in either case transmitted to congress and lodged among the acts of congress, for the security of the parties concerned; provided, that every commissioner, before he sits in judgment, shall take an oath, to be administered by one of the judges of the supreme or superior court of the state where the cause shall be tried, "well and truly to hear and determine the matter in question, according to the best of his judgment, without favor, affection, or hope of reward"; provided, also, that no state shall be deprived of territory for the benefit of the United States.

§ 3. All controversies concerning the private right of soil claimed under different grants of two or more states, whose jurisdiction, as they may respect such lands, and the states which passed such grants are adjusted, the said grants or either of them being at the same time claimed to have originated antecedent to such settlement or jurisdiction, shall, on the petition of either party to the congress of the United States, be finally determined, as near as may be, in the same manner as is before prescribed for deciding disputes respecting territorial jurisdiction between different states.

§ 4. The United States in congress assembled shall also have the sole and exclusive right and power of regulating the alloy and value of coin struck by their own authority, or by that of the respective states; fixing the standards of weights and measures, throughout the United States; regulating the trade and managing all affairs with the Indians, not members of any of the states; provided, that the legislative right of any state, within its own limits, be not infringed or violated; establishing and regulating postoffices from one state to another, throughout all the United States, and exacting such postage on the papers passing through the same as may be requisite to defray the expenses of the said office; appointing all officers of the land forces in the service of the United States, excepting regimental officers; appointing all the officers of the naval forces, and commissioning all officers whatever in the service of the United States; making rules for the government and regulation of the said land and naval forces, and directing their operations.

§ 6. The United States in congress assembled shall never engage in a war, nor grant letters of marque and reprisal in time of peace, nor enter into any treaties or alliances, nor coin money, nor regulate the value thereof, nor ascertain the sums and expenses necessary for the defense and welfare of the United States, or any of them, nor emit bills, nor borrow money on the credit of the United States, nor appropriate money, nor agree upon the number of vessels of war to be built or purchased, or the number of land or sea forces to be raised, nor appoint a commander-in-chief of the army or navy, unless nine states assent to the same; nor shall a question on any other point, except for adjourning from day to day, be determined, unless by the votes of a majority of the United States in congress assembled.

§ 7. The congress of the United States shall have power to adjourn to any time within the year, and to any place within the United States, so that no period of adjournment be for a longer duration than the space of six months, and shall publish the journal of their proceedings monthly, except such parts thereof relating to treaties, alliances, or military operations as in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the delegates of each state, on any question, shall be entered on the journal, when it is desired by any delegate; and the delegates of a state, or any of them, at his or their request, shall be furnished with a transcript of the said journal, except such parts as are above excepted, to lay before the legislatures of the several states.

ART. 10. The committee of the states, or any nine of them, shall be authorized to execute, in the recess of congress, such of the powers of congress as the United States in congress assembled, by the consent of nine states, shall, from time to time, think expedient to vest them with; provided, that no power be delegated to the said committee, for the exercise of which, by the articles of confederation, the voice of nine states, in the congress of the United States assembled, is requisite.

ART. 11. Canada acceding to this confederation, and joining in the measures of the United States, shall be admitted into and entitled to all the advantages of this Union; but no other colony shall be admitted into the same, unless such admission be agreed to by nine states.

ART. 12. All bills of credit emitted, moneys borrowed, and debts contracted by or under the authority of congress, before the assembling of the United States, in pursuance of the present confederation, shall be deemed and considered as a charge against the United States, for payment and satisfaction whereof the said United States and the public faith are hereby solemnly pledged.

ART. 13. Every state shall abide by the determination of the United States in congress assembled, on all questions which by this confederation are submitted to them. And the articles of this confederation shall be inviolably observed by every state, and the Union shall be perpetual; nor shall any alteration at any time hereafter be made in any of them, unless such alteration be agreed to in a congress of the United States, and be afterward confirmed by the legislature of every state.

And whereas, it has pleased the great Governor of the world to incline the hearts of the legislatures we respectfully represent in congress to approve of and to authorize us to ratify the said articles of confederation and perpetual union, Know ye, that we, the undersigned delegates, by virtue of the power and authority to us given for that purpose, do by these presents, in the name and in behalf of our respective constituents, fully and entirely ratify and confirm each and every of the said articles of confederation and perpetual union, and all and singular the matters and things therein contained. And we do further solemnly plight and engage the faith of our respective constituents, that they shall abide by the determinations of the United States in congress assembled, on all questions which by the said confederation are submitted to them; and that the articles thereof shall be inviolably observed by the states we respectively represent, and that the Union shall be perpetual. In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands in congress Done at Philadelphia, in the State of Pennsylvania, the ninth day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-eight, and in the third year of the Independence of America.

Ratified by the States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia.

Preamble. We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and a house of representatives.

SEC. 2. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every 30,000, but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose 3; Massachusetts, 8; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, 1; Connecticut, 5; New York, 6; New Jersey, 4; Pennsylvania, 8; Delaware, 1; Maryland, 6; Virginia, 10; North Carolina, 5; South Carolina, 5; Georgia, 3.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

*SEC. 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided, as equally as may be, into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year. *When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the Senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The vice president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

The senate shall choose their own officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments.

When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

*Amendments ratified 1913. See Amendment No. 17.

SEC. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meetings shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall, by law, appoint a different day.

SEC. 5. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same; excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SEC. 6. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SEC. 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives, but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the president of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and, if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the president of the United States, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SEC. 8. The Congress shall have power:

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform through the United States;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

 To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court;
 To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses, against the laws of nations;
 To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;
 To raise and support armies; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;
 To provide and maintain a navy;
 To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;
 To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;
 To provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the Service of the United States, reserving to the states, respectively, the appointment of the officers and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress;
 To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States; and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock yards, and other needful buildings; and
 To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SEC. 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight; but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when, in case of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder, or ex post facto law, shall be passed.

No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.

No preference shall be given, by any regulation of commerce or revenue, to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one state be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States, and no person holding any office of profit and trust under them shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign state.

SEC. 10. No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any state on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION 1. The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice president, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the Congress; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

[The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates; and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be appointed, if such a number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose, by ballot, one of them for president; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said house shall, in like manner, choose the president. But in choosing the president the vote shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the vice president.]*

The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president; and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the president and vice

The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

SEC. 2. The president shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur, and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the Congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The president shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SEC. 3. He shall, from time to time, give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers. SEC. 2. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more states, between a state and citizens of another state, between citizens of different states, between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state or the citizens thereof and foreign states, citizens or subjects.*

*See the 11th amendment.

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution, but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

PERMANENT RULES OF THE SENATE

1939

CALLING SENATE TO ORDER

1. The President shall take the chair at the hour to which the Senate shall have adjourned, and shall immediately call the members to order, and, on the appearance of a quorum, shall proceed with the regular order of business. He shall preserve order and decorum; may speak on points of order in preference to members, and shall also decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Senate by any member but such appeal shall be decided by a majority vote of those present and voting thereon.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES

2. All committees of the Senate and members of commissions to be appointed by the Senate authorized by rule, statute, resolution or otherwise, shall be appointed by a Committee on Committees, subject to confirmation by the Senate, and all such appointments made by such Committee on Committees shall likewise be subject to confirmation by the Senate.

QUESTIONS—HOW STATED AND DECIDED

3. He shall rise to put the question, but may state it sitting.

4. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to-wit: "As many as are of the opinion that (as the question may be) say Aye," and after the affirmative voice is expressed, "As many as are of the contrary opinion say No." The President shall declare all votes, but if any member rise to doubt a vote, he shall order a division.

CONFIRMATIONS

When nominations or appointments made by the Governor which require confirmation by the Senate have been transmitted to the Senate, the final question on every nomination shall be, "Will the Senate advise and consent to this nomination?" which question shall not be put on the same day on which the nomination is received, nor on the day on which it may be reported by a committee unless by unanimous consent.

Every such nomination shall, upon request of any senator, be referred to a committee, and if a question shall arise as to the proper committee, the same shall be referred without debate to the Committee on Rules to report the proper reference thereof and upon adoption of the report of such committee it shall be referred accordingly.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM.

5. The President shall call some member to the chair when the Senate goes into Committee of the Whole. In the absence of the President the President Pro Tem. shall preside, and in the absence of both the President and President Pro Tem. a member may be called to perform the duties of the chair; but substitutions shall not extend beyond adjournment.

FURTHER DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT

6. The President of the Senate shall sign all acts, memorials, addresses and resolutions; and all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by the Senate shall be signed by him and attested by the Secretary.

7. The President is authorized to administer all oaths required in the discharge of his duties.

DISTURBANCE IN LOBBY

8. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the lobbies or galleries, the President or chairman of the Committee of the Whole shall have power to order the same cleared.

PRIVILEGE OF REPORTERS

9. Because of the limited space available on the floor of the Senate, the Associated Press, United Press, The St. Paul Pioneer Press, the St. Paul Dispatch, the Minneapolis Journal, the Minneapolis Tribune, the Minneapolis Star, the Duluth News-Tribune, and the Duluth Herald, shall each be permitted representation at the press table by one regular reporter whose credentials are approved by the Rules Committee. Any person wishing to report proceedings of the Senate may apply to the Rules Committee for assignment to suitable, available space.

ORDER OF BUSINESS

10. The order of business shall be as follows:

1. Petitions, letters, remonstrances.
2. Executive and official communications.
3. Introduction and first reading of Senate bills.
4. Messages from the House of Representatives.
5. First reading of House bills.
6. Reports of committees.
 - (a) From standing committees.
 - (b) From select committees.
7. Second reading of Senate bills.
8. Second reading of House bills.
9. Motions and resolutions.
10. Third reading of Senate bills.
11. Third reading of House bills.
12. General orders of the day.

REFERRING OF BILLS

11. All bills shall be referred by the President of the Senate without motion to the proper standing committee, on the first reading, unless otherwise referred by the Senate; and all bills providing for the appropriation of money, or obligating the State to pay or expend money, when referred to and reported by any other than the Committee on Finance, shall, before passage, be referred to the Committee on Finance, provided that when any question shall arise concerning the proper reference of a bill the bill shall be referred without debate to the Committee on Rules to report the proper reference thereof, and upon adoption of such report it shall be referred accordingly.

ORDER IN DEBATE

12. When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the Senate, he shall rise to his feet, and respectfully address himself to "Mr. President," and shall confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personality. In discussing any resolution, senators shall be limited to five minutes each.

13. When any member is called to order he shall sit down until it is determined whether he is in order or not, and if a member is called to order for words spoken in debate, the words excepted to shall be taken down in writing immediately.

14. When two or more members shall happen to rise at once, the President shall name the member who is to speak.

15. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question on the same day without leave of the Senate.

CONDUCT DURING BUSINESS

16. When the President is putting any question, or addressing the Senate, no one shall walk out of, or cross the room; nor when a member is speaking shall anyone pass between the member speaking and the chair. No member, or other person, shall proceed to or remain by the Secretary's desk while the ayes and nays are being called or counted.

17. Upon a division and count of the Senate on any question no member without the Senate chamber shall be counted.

SENATORS TO VOTE UNLESS EXCUSED

18. Every member who shall be in the Senate when the question is put shall give his vote unless the Senate for special reasons shall excuse him. All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the Senate divides or before he gives his vote upon a call of the ayes and nays. Any member wishing to be excused from voting may make a brief statement of the reasons for making such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

MOTIONS

19. When a motion is made and seconded it shall be stated by the President; or, being in writing it shall be handed to the Secretary and read aloud for debate.

20. Every motion or amendment shall be reduced to writing if the President or any member desires it. In such case it must be signed by the member or committee offering it.

21. After a motion is stated by the President, or read by the Secretary, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the Senate, but may be withdrawn by the author at any time before decision or amendment.

PRECEDENCE OF MOTIONS

22. When a question is under debate no motion shall be received, but

To adjourn.

To lay on the table.

For the previous question.

Which three motions shall be decided without debate.

To commit.

To postpone to a day certain,

To amend, or

To postpone indefinitely.

These and several motions have precedence in the foregoing order; but a motion for the previous question having been seconded, or the main question ordered, a motion to lay on the table shall not be in order.

A motion to postpone to a certain day, to commit, to postpone indefinitely, or to amend, being decided, shall not again be allowed on the same day, nor at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

23. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, and also a motion to adjourn to a time certain. The latter motion is debatable. When either motion is refused it shall not be renewed until further business shall be transacted.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

24. The previous question shall be in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present, and its effect shall be to put an end to all debate, and bring the Senate to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, then upon all pending amendments in their order and then upon the main question. On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the ordering of the same, a call of the Senate shall be in order, but after a majority shall have ordered such motion, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

25. On a previous question there shall be no debate. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

RECONSIDERATION

26. When a motion or question has been once put and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for reconsideration thereof, on the same day on which the vote was taken or within the next two days of actual session of the Senate thereafter; and such motion shall take precedence of all other questions except a motion to adjourn. A motion for reconsideration being put and lost, shall not be renewed.

DIVISION OF QUESTION

27. Any member may call for a division of the question when the same will admit of it. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed to be indivisible. A motion to strike out being lost shall not preclude an amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

PETITIONS AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS

28. In presenting a petition, memorial, remonstrance or other communication addressed to the Senate, the members shall only state the general purpose of it.

29. Every petition, memorial, remonstrance, resolution, bill and report of committee, shall be indorsed with its appropriate title, and immediately under the indorsement the name of the member presenting the same shall be written or printed.

CALL OF THE SENATE

30. Any member may make a call of the Senate, and require absent members to be sent for, but a call of the Senate cannot be made after the voting has commenced; and the call of the Senate being ordered and the absentees noted, the doors shall be closed, and no member permitted to leave the room until further proceedings under the call be dispensed with by a majority vote of all the members of the Senate and the matter or question, if any, under consideration at the time of the call be disposed of, or the Senate adjourns.

A motion that the committee arise shall always be in order and shall be decided without debate.

GENERAL ORDERS OF THE DAY

13. The Speaker shall cause the Chief Clerk to make out a list of all bills, resolutions and reports of committees, which have not been made a Special Order, and to number the same. This list shall be called "General Orders of the Day"; and items listed thereon shall be taken up in the order in which they are numbered, unless otherwise ordered by a majority of the Committee. General Orders, together with all bills included therein required to be printed under the Rules or Orders of the House, shall be printed and placed upon the members' desks at least two days before the same are to be considered in the Committee of the Whole.

Each member of the House shall leave on or under the desk, each time the House adjourns for the day, his file binder for bills. It shall be the duty of the Clerk of the House to have placed in each binder one copy of each bill printed under the Rules or Orders of the House at least forty-eight hours before the same shall be considered in the Committee of the Whole, and under the first Order of Business each day said Clerk shall report to the House what bills he has placed in the binders.

If progress is reported on a bill by the committee for three days, such bill shall go to the foot of General Orders, unless otherwise ordered by a majority vote.

SPECIAL ORDERS

14. Bills may be made the Order of the Day for a special time. Such bills shall be entered upon a separate list known as "Special Orders." Bills may be made a Special Order by a two-thirds vote of the whole House upon two days' notice. The motion pursuant to said notice may be made only by the member giving the same or another member designated by him in writing in possession of the Speaker. Such notice shall state the House File number or Senate File number, as the case may be, and the title of the bill to be made a Special Order and shall specify the day upon which the motion for such Special Order is to be made and that such Special Order will be set for a day certain. The time within which said motion may be made pursuant to said notice shall not be extended and if the member giving such notice or the person so designated by him, as the case may be, shall fail to make the motion for a Special Order on the day specified therein, his right to make the same pursuant to said notice shall expire. Appropriation bills introduced by the Appropriations Committee of the House, or by the Finance Committee of the Senate coming into the possession of the House during the last ten days of the Session, may be made a Special Order without notice. A motion to make a bill a Special Order when made as heretofore prescribed, shall be a privileged motion, shall take precedence over all other motions except the motion to fix the time to adjourn, the motion to adjourn and questions of personal privilege, and may be made at any time on the day designated in the notice and shall not be suspended except by a three-fourths vote of the whole House.

Any Special Order, or any part thereof, may be continued or postponed by two-thirds vote of the whole House at the time of such Special Order.

When the time arrives for the consideration of any Special Order, the House shall proceed to the consideration of the bill or bills upon the said Special Order in the order in which they are respectively listed; and after consideration they shall immediately be read the third time and placed upon final passage.

DUTIES AND PRIVILEGES OF OFFICERS AND MEMBERS DUTIES OF THE SPEAKER

15. (a) The Speaker shall preside over the House, and be charged with all the powers and duties pertaining to such presiding officer.

(b) He shall preserve order and decorum, and in case of disorderly conduct or disturbance in the galleries or the lobby, he or the Chairman of the Committee of the Whole may order the same to be cleared.

(c) He shall have general control, except as provided by rule or law, of the hall of the House and of the corridors and the passages and of the rooms assigned to the use of the House, until further ordered.

(d) He shall sign all acts, addresses, joint resolutions, writs, warrants and subpoenas of or issued by order of the House and all vouchers for the payment of money out of the legislative expense fund of the House, and except as otherwise ordered by the House, money shall be paid out of said fund only upon voucher signed by the Speaker.

The Speaker shall not vote on appeals from his own decisions.

SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

16. The presiding officer may call a member to the chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment. In the absence of the presiding officer, one of the members shall be selected by a majority vote to preside temporarily, until the return of the regular presiding officer.

DUTIES OF MEMBERS

17. When the House adjourns, the members shall keep their seats until the Speaker announces the adjournment.

Every member, before speaking, shall rise from his seat and respectfully address the Speaker, but shall not proceed to speak further until recognized by the Chair. When two or more members rise at once, the Speaker shall designate which shall speak first.

EXPLAINING OR CHANGING VOTE

18. No member shall be allowed to explain his vote or discuss the question while the yeas and nays are being taken; and no member shall be allowed to change his vote after the same is announced from the Chair.

NAME OF MEMBER OFFERING BILLS, ETC., TO GO ON JOURNAL

19. In all cases where a bill, order, resolution or motion shall be entered on the Journal of the House, the name of the member offering the same, shall be entered on the Journal.

ABSENCE OF MEMBERS AND OFFICERS

20. No member or officer of the House shall, unless from illness or some other sufficient cause he be unable to attend, absent himself from any session of the House during the entire day without having first obtained leave of absence from the Speaker.

DUTIES OF THE CHIEF CLERK AND ASSISTANTS OR EMPLOYEES

21. Neither the Chief Clerk nor his assistants or employees shall permit any records or papers belonging to the House to be taken out of their custody otherwise than in the regular course of business. The Chief Clerk shall report any missing papers to the Speaker. He shall have general supervision of all clerical duties appertaining to the business of the House; shall perform under the direction of the Speaker, all the duties pertaining to his office, and shall keep a book showing the situation and progress of bills, memorials, and joint resolutions.

CLERICAL CORRECTIONS TO BILLS

22. (a) Minor clerical errors in any bill, memorial or resolution, such as errors in orthography or grammar, or the incorrect use of one word for another (as "affect" for "effect"), or wrong numbering of references, whether such errors occur in the original bill or any amendment thereto, shall be corrected by the Chief Clerk, as a matter of course, upon the approval of the Chairman of any committee to which the bill was referred.

(b) The Chief Clerk shall insert the enacting clause in any bill before its passage if the same shall have been omitted.

(c) Any corrections made by the Chief Clerk under this rule shall be noted by him in the Journal.

(d) Webster's New International Dictionary shall be the standard authority in matters falling under the above rules.

NO ONE TO REMAIN BY THE CLERK'S DESK

23. No member, or other person, shall remain by the Clerk's desk when the yeas and nays are being called.

DUTIES OF THE SERGEANT-AT-ARMS

24. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms to execute all orders of the House or of its presiding officer; to perform all duties that may, from time to time, be assigned to him connected with the policing and good order of the House; to exercise supervision over the ingress and egress of all persons to and from the Chamber; to see that all messages, etc., are promptly executed; and that the hall is properly ventilated and open for the use of the members; and to perform all other services pertaining to the office of Sergeant-at-Arms.

MOTIONS TO RECESS

25. All motions to recess for the purpose of granting the privilege to any person or persons to appear before the House during said recess shall be referred to the Committee on Rules, and no such motion shall be acted upon without a favorable report from said committee.

ORDER IN DEBATE

26. No member shall speak more than twice on the same subject without leave of the House, nor more than once until every other member wishing to speak on the pending question shall have spoken.

MOTIONS

27. No motion shall be debated or put unless the same be seconded. It shall be stated by the Speaker before debate, and any such motion shall be reduced to writing if the Speaker or any other member requires it.

After a motion has been stated by the Speaker, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House, but may be withdrawn by the mover at any time before amendment or decision; but all motions, resolutions or amendments shall be entered in the Journal unless withdrawn the same day.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

28. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order except during roll call.

When a motion to adjourn is made and seconded it shall be in order for the Speaker, before putting the question, to permit any member to state any fact to the House, relative to the condition of the business of the House, which would seem to render it improper to adjourn at that time. Such statement, however, shall not be debatable and shall not, in any case, occupy more than two minutes.

PRECEDENCE OF MOTIONS

29. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but:

1. Fix time to which to adjourn.
2. To adjourn.
3. To lay on the table.
4. For the previous question.
(Which four motions shall be decided without debate.)
5. To commit.
6. To postpone to a day certain.
7. To amend.
8. To postpone indefinitely.

These several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order; but the previous question having been seconded, and the main question ordered, a motion to lay on the table shall not be in order.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

30. (a) The previous question shall be in this form: "The Gentleman from..... moves the previous question. Do fifteen members second the motion?" If the motion be properly seconded, the question shall be stated as follows: "As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say 'aye'; as many as are opposed will say 'no'." There shall be a motion for the previous question, which, being ordered by a majority of all members present, shall have the effect to cut off all debate and bring the House to a direct vote upon the immediate question or questions upon which it has been ordered.

The previous question may be asked and ordered upon a single motion, a series of motions allowable under the rules or an amendment or amendments; or it may be made to embrace all authorized motions or amendments and include the bill to its passage or rejection.

(b) On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the ordering of the same, a call of the House shall be in order, but after a majority shall have ordered the previous question, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

(c) When the previous question is decided in the negative it shall leave the main question under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking a vote, on the question or in some other manner.

INCIDENTAL QUESTIONS OF ORDER

31. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, during the pendency of such motion, or after the House shall have determined that the main question now be put, shall be decided whether on appeal or otherwise without debate.

PETITIONS, ETC.—HOW PRESENTED

32. Petitions, memorials and other papers presented to the House shall be presented by the Speaker or member in his place, and a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made verbally and endorsed thereon, together with the name of the member introducing the same.

EVERY MEMBER TO VOTE UNLESS EXCUSED

33. Every member who shall be present before the vote is declared from the chair, shall vote for or against the matter before the House, unless the House shall excuse him, or unless he is immediately interested in the question, in which case he shall not vote.

PROCEDURE IN EXCUSING MEMBER FROM VOTING

34. When a member declines to vote on a call of his name, he shall be required to assign his reasons therefor; and having assigned them, the presiding officer shall submit the question to the House, "Shall the member, for the reasons assigned by him, be excused from voting?" which shall be decided without debate. And these proceedings shall be had after the vote has been taken and before the chair has announced the vote, and any further proceedings in reference thereto shall be after such announcement.

ORDER DURING SESSION

35. When the Speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk out of or across the House, nor when a member is speaking shall any other member entertain any private discourse or pass between the speaking member and the chair.

ORDER OF PUTTING QUESTION

36. All questions, whether in committee or in the House, shall be put in the order in which they are moved, except in the case of privileged questions, and in filling up blanks the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

DIVISION OF A QUESTION

37. If the question in debate contains several points any member may have the question divided. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible, but a motion to strike out being lost shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

QUESTIONS OF ORDER

38. If any member of the House, in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules, the Speaker shall (or any member may) call him to order, in which case he shall immediately sit down unless permitted on motion of another member to explain, and the House, if appealed to, shall decide in either case without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed, but not otherwise; and if the case require it, he shall be liable to censure or such punishment as the House may deem proper.

CALLED TO ORDER FOR OFFENSIVE WORDS IN DEBATE

39. If any member be called to order for offensive words in debate the person calling him to order shall report the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's desk and no member shall be held to answer, or be subjected to the censure of the House, for language used in debate if any other member has spoken or other business has intervened after the words spoken and before exception to them shall have been taken.

MEMBERS MAY DEMAND YEAS AND NAYS

40. The yeas and nays shall not be ordered unless demanded by 15 members, except upon final passage of bills, joint resolutions, and motions directing the payment of money. In these cases yeas and nays shall be ordered without demand.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO DEBATE

41. Upon any member giving notice of his intention to debate any resolution, the same shall lie over one day without debate or any other action. This notice of intention to debate may be given at any time before the vote is taken on the resolution.

CALL OF THE HOUSE

42. Ten members may demand a call of the House and require absent members to be sent for; but a call of the House cannot be made after the voting has commenced, and such call being ordered, the doors shall be closed and no member permitted to leave the chamber until the call is suspended. And, pending the call, no motion shall be in order except it pertains to matters incidental to the call or motion to suspend further proceedings under the same, provided that the call shall not be suspended until a record of those present has been completed. Thereafter the call may be suspended by majority vote of the whole House only when all members are present or at any time by a two-thirds vote of the whole House. After the call of the House has been ordered and proceedings thereunder are suspended, the Sergeant-at-Arms shall not permit any member to leave the chamber unless excused by the Speaker.

SUSPENSION OF THE RULES TO HASTEN A BILL

43. Every bill shall be read on three different days, unless, in case of urgency, two-thirds of the whole House deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and no bill shall be passed until it shall have been read at length twice, provided that no motion for suspension of the rules to advance a bill for consideration out of its regular order shall be made or entertained unless presented to the Speaker in writing stating the present position of the bill and then only under the order of business "Motions and Resolutions," as such order of business is reached under Rule 3. Unanimous consent must be first obtained by the member making the motion before the Speaker can entertain the motion to suspend the rules at any other time.

A motion to suspend the rules together with the subject matter to which it pertains shall be open to debate but the previous question may be applied thereto.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO MAKE A MOTION

44. Whenever unanimous consent to make a motion is requested by a member, the member as a part of such request shall state briefly the purpose of such motion and the subject matter involved.

PROCEEDINGS ON THE PASSAGE OF BILLS

45. No resolution involving the expenditure of money out of the legislative expense fund or otherwise, or joint resolution, shall be declared passed until voted for by a majority of all members elected to the House, to be determined by a roll call. All resolutions and motions involving the expenditure of money out of the legislative expense fund shall be referred to the Rules Committee before being acted upon by the House. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of its being an amendment. No bill or resolution shall at any time be amended by annexing thereto or incorporating therein any other bill or resolution pending before the House.

AMENDMENTS TO APPROPRIATION BILLS

46. No amendment increasing the amount or amounts carried by any appropriation bill shall be declared passed until voted for by a majority of all members elected to the House.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

47. When a question has once been made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof; but no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, or other official action upon which the vote was taken shall have gone out of the possession of the House, announcing their decision. Nor shall any motion for reconsideration be in order unless made on the same day upon which the vote was taken, or within the next two days of actual session of the House thereafter.

Such motion shall take precedence over all other questions, except the motion to adjourn; provided, that when notice of intention to move such reconsideration shall be given by a member, the Clerk of the House shall retain the said bill, resolution, message, report, or other official action, until after the expiration of the time during which such motion can be made, as hereinbefore provided, unless the same is previously disposed of. Such notice of intention to move reconsideration shall have precedence over the motion to reconsider, except that it shall be in order for any member who voted on the prevailing side to make the motion to reconsider on the last day allowed for the making thereof, unless the same has been previously disposed of. A motion for reconsideration having been put and lost shall not be renewed.

THE MOTION TO RESCIND

48. The motion to rescind shall not be in order at any time in any proceeding in the House or of any committee thereof.

AUTHORIZED MANUAL OF PARLIAMENTARY PRACTICE

49. The rules of parliamentary practice comprised in Jefferson's Manual shall govern the House in all cases in which they are applicable and in which they are not inconsistent with these rules and orders of the House, and the joint rules and orders of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Before making purchases, however, it shall be his duty to consult with and get prices from the Commissioner of Purchases of the State of Minnesota and then submit the same to the Rules Committee together with a list of necessary supplies, and the prices for which the same can be secured, which supplies shall then be purchased by the Chief Clerk upon the approval of the Rules Committee.

COMMITTEE ON ENGROSSMENT AND ENROLLMENT

52. The Committee on Engrossment and Enrollment shall examine all bills after they are engrossed, and report the same to the House "correctly engrossed" before the third reading. The said Committee may report at any time, and all bills shall be engrossed in typewriting.

The Committee on Engrossment and Enrollment shall examine all House bills, memorials, and joint resolutions which have passed the two houses and when reported "correctly enrolled" they shall be presented to the presiding officers of the two houses for their signatures; and when so signed, to the Governor for his approval. The said Committee may report at any time, but it shall not report any bill as correctly enrolled which has the words interlined therein; or when any words have been erased therefrom and all bills shall be enrolled in typewriting. The Chairman of said Committee shall keep, or cause to be kept, a record showing the hour and date of the receipt by it of each bill and its return to the House and all bills shall be returned in the same order as that in which they are received.

55. The Chief Clerk of the House after conference with the chairmen of the various committees of the House shall prepare a schedule of committee meetings, fixing as far as practicable the date and hour which will be the regular meeting time of each committee to be first approved by a majority of the House. Should it be necessary to hold a special meeting or for any reason change temporarily the regular meeting of the committee, the notice by the chairman of said committee of such change shall be read from the desk at least one day in advance thereof, and also posted upon the bulletin board at the same time, or on a majority vote of the House, fixing the time therefor at any time. Any committee shall have the right to change the time of its meeting.

TIME LIMIT FOR CONSIDERATION OF BILLS

56. Fifteen legislative days after a bill has been referred to committee (other than a bill for appropriations or claims) and no report has been made upon the same by such committee, the author thereof may request that such bill be returned to the House and such request shall be entered in the Journal for the day. Such committee shall then have seven calendar days thereafter in which to report back the bill requested. If the committee shall fail to report such bill back within such seven days, such author may at any time during a legislative session within five calendar days after the expiration of such seven days in writing presented to the Speaker, demand the return forthwith to the House of the bill in question, which demand shall forthwith be entered in the Journal for the day and shall constitute the demand of the House and thereupon such bill shall at once be considered to be in possession of the House and shall be placed at the foot of General Orders for the following day in the manner prescribed by Rule 13 subject to re-reference by the House. A motion for such re-reference if made on the day of such demand or within one legislative day thereafter shall take precedence over all other motions except privileged motions and shall be in order at any time.

The House may recall any bill from any committee at any time, give the same its second reading and advance the same to General Orders by a majority vote of the whole House.

SUBSTITUTIONS OF BILLS

57. No standing or special committee, nor any member or members thereof, shall report any substitute for any bill or bills referred to such committee, which substitute relates to a different subject or is intended to accomplish a different purpose from that of the original bill for which it is reported or which, if adopted and passed, would require a title essentially different from the title of the original bill; and every substitute bill so reported shall be rejected whenever the House is advised that the same is in violation of this rule. This rule shall not be suspended without the unanimous consent of the House.

But the Committee on Rules may report at any time and any rule so reported may be adopted by the majority of the House.

PRINTING OF BILLS

60. All bills of general nature, including all bills appropriating money or lands shall be printed, provided that no bill shall be printed until after the same shall have been favorably reported by the committee to which it shall have been referred unless ordered printed by a majority vote of the House.

In case of bills received from the Senate which have been amended in the Senate after having been printed by that body, it shall be the duty of the Committee of the House to which the same are referred to make a report to the House as to the advisability or inadvisability of having the same printed. TOPICAL INDEX

65. The Chief Clerk shall prepare a topical card index, in which bills may be indexed by number, author, subject, section of the code amended, the committees and any other subject that will make it a complete and comprehensive index, and to be made a permanent file to be used by all succeeding Chief Clerks. The topical index shall be filed with the Secretary of State after the expiration of the session of the Legislature and the cards constituting the record shall be retained open for public inspection at all times.

VISITING PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS

66. No leave of absence shall be granted any committee, special or standing, to visit any public institution of the state, or for any other purpose. Whenever any committee shall report to the House that it is desirable that such committee receive information concerning a public institution, the House may, by a majority vote of the whole House, grant a leave of absence to not more than three members of such committee, to be designated by the chairman thereof. Application for a leave of absence of such members of a committee shall be made to the House in writing, by the chairman thereof, and such application shall give the name of the institution or institutions to be visited and to briefly recite the occasion and necessity for visiting the same, together with the names of the committee-men designated for that purpose and the name of the stenographer to accompany such committee-men if one is necessary. Such application shall immediately and without debate be referred to the Committee on Rules, with instructions to report upon the same on the next legislative day. Said members and their stenographers, if any, shall be allowed their actual expenses.

AUTHORIZING ELECTRICAL DEVICE

67. Unless otherwise ordered any vote, except upon elections and upon the overriding of a Governor's veto, may be taken by means of the electrical voting system which shall be under the control of the Speaker of the House.

JOINT RULES OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE

JOINT CONVENTIONS—HOW GOVERNED

1. The Speaker of the House shall preside at all conventions of the two branches of the Legislature, and shall call the members to order. The Chief Clerk of the House shall be the Secretary, and the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House shall be the Sergeant-at-Arms at the convention.

DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT

2. The President of the convention shall preserve order and decorum, may speak on all points of order in preference to other members; shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the convention by any member. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

QUESTIONS—HOW STATED

3. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to-wit: "As many as are of the opinion that (as the question may be), say 'Aye,'" and after an affirmative vote is expressed, "As many as are of the contrary opinion, say 'No.'" If the President doubts, or a division be called, the convention shall decide—those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise and afterwards those in the negative.

PRESIDENT'S RIGHT TO VOTE

4. The President shall have the right of voting in all cases except on an appeal from his decision, and on all questions he shall vote last.

ORDER OF DEBATE

5. When any member is about to speak or deliver any matter to the convention, he shall rise and respectfully address himself to "Mr. President," and confine himself to the question under debate and avoid personalities.

6. Whenever any member is called to order he shall be seated until the point of order is determined; and if called to order for words spoken in debate the exceptional words shall be reduced to writing immediately.

7. When two or more members rise at the same time, the President shall name the member who is in order.

8. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, without permission of the convention.

CALL OF THE CONVENTION

9. Any five members may move a call of the convention, and require absent members to be sent for, but a call cannot be made after voting is commenced; and a call being ordered and the absentees noted, the doors shall be closed and no member permitted to leave the hall until the report of the Sergeant-at-Arms be received and acted upon, or further proceedings under the call are suspended by a vote of the majority of all the members of the convention.

EITHER HOUSE MAY AMEND, ETC.

10. It shall be in the power of either House to amend any amendment made by the other to any bill or resolution.

BILLS—HOW ENROLLED AND SIGNED

11. After a bill, memorial or resolution shall have passed both Houses, it shall be duly enrolled in typewriting by the enrolling clerk of the House in which it originated. The Senate and House Committees on Enrolled Bills, acting jointly, shall then carefully compare the enrollment with the engrossed copies as passed by the two Houses, and after correcting all errors that may be discovered in the enrollment, report the same as correctly enrolled to their respective Houses. They shall then obtain the signatures and certificates of the proper officers to the enrolled copies, present the same to the Governor for his approval, and report the date of such presentation to their respective Houses.

ELECTIONS BY JOINT CONVENTIONS

12. Whenever there shall be an election of any officers in Joint Convention, the result shall be certified by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, and by them announced to their respective Houses, and shall be entered on the Journal of each and communicated to the Governor by the Secretary of the convention.

COMMITTEES OF CONFERENCE

13. In all cases of disagreement between the Senate and House on amendments, adopted by either House to a bill, memorial or resolution passed by the other House, a Committee of Conference, consisting of not less than three members, nor more than five members from each House, may be requested by either House, and the other House shall appoint a similar committee. The manner of procedure shall be as follows: The Senate, for instance, passes a bill and it is duly transmitted to the House, which body adopts an amendment to the bill and passes the bill as amended, returning the same with the record of the actions of the House, to the Senate; the Senate refuses to concur in the House amendment, asks for a Committee of Conference, appoints such a committee on the part of the Senate, and with a record of the action of the Senate, returns the bill to the House; if the House adheres to its amendment, a like committee is appointed on the part of the House. The joint committee shall at a convenient hour agreed upon meet and state to each other, verbally or in writing, the reason of their respective Houses for or against the disagreement, and confer thereon, and shall report to both Houses such agreement as they may arrive at, if any—and if not, the fact of a disagreement. The House last having possession of the bill before the conference commences shall first act upon such report, if an agreement is reported, and duly transmit the same with the record of its action thereon to the other House together with the bill.

EITHER HOUSE MAY RECEDE, ETC.

14. It shall be in order for either House to recede from any subject or matter of difference existing between the two Houses at any time previous to a conference, whether the papers upon which the difference has arisen are before it or not, and a majority shall govern, except in cases otherwise provided in the constitution; and the question having been put and lost, shall not be again put upon the same day, and a reconsideration thereof shall in all respects be regulated by the rules of the respective Houses.

APPROPRIATIONS OF MONEY—HOW MADE

15. The same bill shall not appropriate public money or property to more than one local or private purpose.

A bill for legislative expense shall be passed in both branches of the Legislature in the same manner as other bills carrying an appropriation are passed, and approved by the Governor, and the fund provided by such appropriation shall be designated as the "Legislative Expense Fund" from which money shall be paid out by the Secretary of the Senate or the Chief Clerk of the House as herein provided.

Payment out of the Legislative Expense Fund for all supplies for the Senate shall be made upon proper certification by the Secretary of the Senate, upon approval of the Senate Committee on Rules.

Payment out of the Legislative Expense Fund for all supplies for the House of Representatives shall be made upon proper certification by the Chief Clerk of the House upon approval of the House Committee on Rules.

The Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House with the approval of the Speaker of the House, are each hereby authorized and empowered to employ from the stenographic and clerical force of the Senate and House respectively, for not to exceed five days after the close of the Session, such employees as may be necessary to finish the business of the Legislature for such Session, at salaries not to exceed the salaries paid such employees under the rules of the Senate or House, as the case may be.

Persons so employed by the Secretary of the Senate shall upon proper certification by the Secretary of the Senate, and persons so employed by the Chief Clerk of the House shall upon proper certification by the Chief Clerk of the House, be paid for such services out of the Legislative Expense Fund of the Legislature for such Session.

No certificate authorizing the payment of any money appropriated by the Legislature shall be issued by the Secretary of the Senate or by the Clerk of the House by virtue of any motion or resolution, unless such motion or resolution shall have been carried by a majority of all members of the House in which it was introduced.

No cause appropriating money for a local or private purpose shall be contained in a bill appropriating money for the state government or public institutions, and all resolutions authorizing the issuing of certificates by the Secretary of the Senate or the Chief Clerk of the House for the payment of money shall be upon the call of the "yeas" and "nays".

Within sixty legislative days after the convening of the Legislature in regular session and at least twenty days prior to the adjournment thereof, the Committee on Finance of the Senate and the Committee on Appropriations of the House shall report to their respective Houses six separate appropriation bills as follows:

1. A bill appropriating money for the general administrative and judicial expenses of the state government for the succeeding two fiscal years including salaries, office expenses and supplies and other necessary expenses connected therewith.

2. A bill appropriating money for the support and maintenance of all state penal and charitable institutions, and other institutions of the state except educational for the two succeeding fiscal years.

3. A bill appropriating money for the support and maintenance of all state educational institutions for the two succeeding fiscal years.

4. A bill covering all appropriations providing for the payment of claims against the State of Minnesota which may have been allowed by the Finance Committee of the Senate or the Appropriations Committee of the House.

5. A bill covering all appropriations made to aid in the maintenance of state or county fairs including parks, fish hatcheries and other semi-state activities.

6. A bill covering all appropriations relating to public welfare.

No other appropriations shall be contained in any of said bills but all other appropriations shall be contained in separate bills.

RULES OF JOINT CONVENTION

16. The rules of the House shall be the rules of the Joint Convention of both Houses in all cases where the foregoing rules are not applicable.

TITLE OF BILLS SHALL EXPRESS THEIR SUBJECT

17. The subject of each bill shall be clearly expressed in the title and when a bill is amendatory of an existing act, it shall not be sufficient to refer to the chapter, section or page, but the subject thereof shall be clearly stated.

PART II.

I. HISTORY

MINNESOTA

A BRIEF SKETCH OF MINNESOTA HISTORY*

The development of Minnesota has been conditioned to no slight degree by the glaciers that in the ice ages covered most of its area. Their story is written in the thousands of lakes left in their wake; in the terminal moraines that rise as bluffs and mounds to give a varied aspect to the scenery; and in the deep rich soil, ground fine by the age-long passage of ice rivers. Glacial action may even explain the presence in eastern and northern Minnesota of splendid pine and hardwood forests; and it may account for the absence of trees on the prairies that stretch away to the south and west.

French, English, and American explorers found their way into the region at surprisingly early dates through the innumerable waterways left as glacial imprints. By the main highways of water that lead into the heart of Minnesota—the Red, the St. Louis, the Pigeon, and the Mississippi and its tributaries, the Minnesota and the St. Croix—came traders in their light birch canoes, lured by the treasures of furs and skins that brought fortunes in distant European and Asiatic markets; explorers to seek the elusive Northwest Passage or to set up claims to an inland empire; and settlers who were to build the foundations of a commonwealth. These lakes and streams not only have influenced the course of Minnesota's history, but they have also by their beauty entered into the very concept of "Minnesota," an Indian name probably meaning "cloud-tinted water."

Scarcely were the Pilgrim Fathers settled on their rocky shore when the exploration of the Minnesota region began. Who the white man was that first trod its soil may never be known, but Radisson and Groseilliers seem to have been the first to leave written records of their visits. Radisson's narratives of his "voyages" into the "upper country" not long after the middle of the seventeenth century record vividly the life of the native tribes at the beginning of their contacts with the white men and before the clashes between the Sioux and Chippewa Indians that pushed the former back from Lake Superior and from the region of Wisconsin. The Chippewa, armed with guns and ammunition, forced the Sioux to retreat continually toward the west and south, until, when British and American traders reached the headwaters of the Mississippi after the close of the French régime in 1763, the Chippewa were living in the former habitat of the Sioux, and the latter had become a prairie tribe with an inveterate hatred for their Chippewa aggressors.

Best known among the many Frenchmen who made their way into the Northwest after the visits of Radisson and Groseilliers were Nicolas Perrot, who in 1686 built a fort on the shores of Lake Pepin and took possession of the region in the name of the king of France; Du Lhut, who between 1679 and 1689 explored the country between the Kaministiquia, the Mississippi, and the St. Croix rivers and exercised a wise restraint over the savage tribes of the region; Michel Accault and Father Hennepin, who explored the upper Mississippi in 1680, when Hennepin discovered and named the Falls of St. Anthony; Le Sueur, a companion of Perrot at Lake Pepin in 1686, who built a post on Prairie Island in 1695 and Fort L'Huillier on the Blue Earth River in 1700; and the knightly La Vérendrye, who with his sons and his nephew, La Jemeraye, opened the great canoe route from Lake Superior to Lake Winnipeg between 1731 and 1743.

Peace between Great Britain and France in 1763 brought eastern Minnesota under the British flag. It brought also freer trade with the Indians, and as a result many traders built their palisaded forts on Minnesota rivers and lakes. Two interesting figures of the British régime were Jonathan Carver and Peter Pond. Carver spent the winter of 1766-67 on the Minnesota River and during the following summer journeyed from Prairie du Chien to Grand Portage with Captain James Tute's expedition, which, inspired by Robert Rogers of Mackinac, intended to cross the continent in quest of the Northwest Passage. The plan had to be given up, but Carver later wrote and published an account of his travels which became a "best seller" of its day and gave to thousands on both sides of the Atlantic their first information about the Minnesota country. Pond, a Connecticut Yankee, spent two successive winters as a fur trader on the Minnesota River, beginning in 1773. Other traders operating in Minnesota during the British period were Jean Baptiste Perrault, who from 1783 to 1800 was an almost constant sojourner in this promised land of the fur traders; and Jean Baptiste Cadotte, who is believed to have opened to British traders the contested territory between the Sioux and the Chippewa in central and western Minnesota. Through northern Minnesota from the Red River to Lake Superior in the winter of 1797-98 passed David Thompson, a trader for the Northwest Company, who was also employed in determining scientifically the location of the forty-ninth parallel. His travels for the combined purpose of trade and exploration resulted in a great map of north-western North America, and the diaries in which he recorded his observations are the earliest scientific data known to be extant on Minnesota topography.

The peace of 1783 granted to the United States the region between the Mississippi and Lake Superior, but British traders continued to ply their trade and to maintain their forts in the area until after the War of 1812, when Congress passed an act prohibiting foreigners from serving as chief traders in the fur trade of the United States. After 1816 the Northwest Company passed from the Minnesota scene, and the American Fur Company, which had been incorporated by John Jacob Astor in 1808, took up the business of exploiting Minnesota's fur resources.

To protect American traders in the region a military post originally known as Fort St. Anthony and later called Fort Snelling was established in 1819 as part of a broad scheme of frontier defense. The land on which this fort was built was obtained from the Sioux in a treaty made in 1805 by Lieutenant Zebulon M. Pike. After the Louisiana Purchase had made Minnesota west of the Mississippi American territory, Pike was sent into the region to explore the headwaters of the Mississippi, conciliate the Indians, and obtain fort sites. His selection of the site at the mouth of the Minnesota River was approved in 1817 by Major Stephen H. Long while engaged in a government reconnaissance.

With the establishment of Fort Snelling a new era began for the Minnesota country. Trade relations were opened with the Selkirk colony on the lower Red River in Canada; steamboats appeared on the Mississippi in 1823, making possible communication with the settlements to the south and east; an Indian agent, Lawrence Taliaferro, settled at the fort and exercised a wise influence over the savage tribes for twenty years; and explorers made the fort the objective or point of departure for their expeditions. Among the explorers who stopped at Fort Snelling may be mentioned Governor Lewis Cass, who attempted to find the source of the Mississippi in 1820; Giacomo C. Beltrami, an Italian explorer, who three years later sought the same objective; Major Long, whose second Minnesota journey in 1823 took him up the Minnesota and down the Red River; Henry R. Schoolcraft, who discovered Lake Itasca, the source of the Mississippi, in 1832; George Catlin, whose journey of 1836 took him to the famous pipestone quarry; Joseph N. Nicollet, whose tours in the late thirties resulted in the first scientifically accurate map of the present area of Minnesota; and Major Samuel Woods, who marched with dragoons through the Red River country in 1849.

Just at the time of the founding of the fort missionaries began to appear among the Sioux and Chippewa Indians. The Catholics, Dumoulin and Edge, were at Rainy Lake and Pembina as early as 1818. They were followed in 1829 by the Presbyterians, Coe and Stevens, and in 1831 and 1833 by the Congregationalists, Ayer, Ely, and Boutwell. In 1836 three Swiss Protestants, Gavin, Dentan, and Rossier, began a mission station at Red Wing's village; and the following year the Methodist elder, Brunson, opened a station at Kaposia. Other prominent missionaries were Dr. Williamson, Stephen Riggs, Father Ravoux, and Gideon and Samuel Pond, who labored among the Sioux; and Father Pierz, who established a church and school at Grand Portage in 1838.

For some years before the arrival of Father Ravoux at St. Peter's, settlers had been collecting about the fort. Many of them were old voyageurs, and others were colonists from the Red River settlements. Hither in 1834 came a man who was destined for an important role in Minnesota history—Henry H. Sibley, the agent of the great American Fur Company. The Reverend Lucian Galtier came as priest to the Catholic populace in 1840 and built a little log church across the river from St. Peter's, by that time called Mendota. This chapel he dedicated in 1841 to the great missionary apostle, and from the church the settlement round about took the name St. Paul.

Meanwhile other settlements of whites had begun. In 1837 the United States government had purchased from the Indians the triangle of land between the lower St. Croix and the Mississippi, and at once lumbering camps began to dot the pine forests. Settlements began at Dakota (Stillwater), Marine, and St. Croix Falls; and in 1848 a land boom started at St. Paul. Within a year immigration had increased the population to the number requisite for a territory; and in 1849 this region, which, in whole or in part, had been successively a portion of the French, English, and Spanish empires, the Northwest Territory, and the territories of Louisiana, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Iowa, and Wisconsin, came into the Union as Minnesota Territory, with Alexander Ramsey of Pennsylvania as its first governor.

From 1849 to 1858 Minnesota remained a territory. This period witnessed the establishment of counties, the building of roads, the survey and sale of large tracts of the public domain, the extensive development of the lumber industry, and, in general, the laying of the foundations of a frontier state. One of the usual prerequisites for such a foundation is land, and until 1851 most of the land in Minnesota had not been secured from the Indians. In that year the treaties of Traverse des Sioux and Mendota opened for settlement a large tract of land in the southern and western portions of the territory, which had been occupied by the Sioux; and in 1854 and 1855 the Chippewa Indians likewise yielded up a large area in the northeastern and north central parts of the territory. The former region was wanted by settlers, the latter by lumber interests.

After 1851 the settlement of southeastern Minnesota was rapid, especially along the valleys of the Mississippi and Minnesota rivers. The majority of settlers in the years before the Civil War were native Americans, largely New Englanders, New Yorkers, and Pennsylvanians. Many of them came in colonies or townsites parties, and the new hamlets had much of the tone of eastern villages. Education was stressed from the start, both by the territorial legislature, which in its first session evolved a comprehensive system of free public schools and in 1851 passed an act to incorporate the University of Minnesota, and by religious bodies like the Methodists and the Benedictine monks, who in 1854 and 1857, respectively, established Hamline University and St. John's University. Another characteristic of these frontier settlements was the prevalence of lyceums, reading circles, and lecture programs. A high standard was set for journalism by the early newspapers, particularly by the first newspaper, the Minnesota Pioneer, established in 1849 at St. Paul by James M. Goodhue.

Immigration was stimulated by the territorial government, which appointed a board of immigration, and by transportation agencies. This was the heyday of steamboats on the upper Mississippi, which brought settlers up the river from Galena, Dunleith, or St. Louis. A great desire for railroads was felt and expressed, but the panic of 1857 and the Civil War retarded the early movement in this direction. Even before the war, however, the immigration of Irish, Germans, Norwegians, Swedes, and other nationalities had begun, and the movement increased for many years.

By 1857 settlement had progressed so far that statehood was a possibility. The desire for land grants, which Congress could be expected to make only to states, and the need of representatives in Congress to urge the building of a Pacific railroad through Minnesota led in that year to a demand for statehood. The story of the rival conventions, Democratic and Republican, that met in St. Paul in July, 1857, held separate sessions, and produced two constitutions almost identical in phrasing is a dramatic one. Even more so is that of how Congress kept Minnesota standing before the portals until "Bleeding Kansas" had been ministered unto, despite all Stephen A. Douglas' efforts in Minnesota's behalf. Finally, after almost a year of waiting, on May 11, 1858, Minnesota took its place among the states.

Immigration from the East and from Europe went on apace, even after the outbreak of the Civil War, but in 1862 a rude setback was experienced. In August of that year the Sioux Indians, goaded by the lack of food, the tardiness of their annual payment, and other causes, rose against the whites and massacred scores of helpless settlers in the Minnesota Valley. Fort Ridgely and New Ulm were besieged and many cabins and settlements were attacked. Two important engagements with soldiers sent out from St. Paul under General Sibley were necessary before the Sioux were quelled. Most of the Indians who did not escape to the plains or to Canada were captured and sent to a reservation beyond the boundaries of the state. Thirty-eight of those found guilty of gross offenses were hanged. Many of the newer settlements were almost depopulated as a result of this uprising and it was many years before the hysteria and hatred of the Indian to which it gave rise were obliterated.

The settlement of Minnesota continued until the early 20th century. First the southeast and middle sections of the state were settled, then the south and west, and, finally, the northeast, which still remains sparsely populated. Earlier immigrants came from northern Europe; in the later period there were added to Minnesota's population Finns, Poles, Czechs, Slovaks, Russians, Italians, Greeks, and other nationalities.

The building of railroads in the state began with ten miles of road completed between St. Paul and St. Anthony in 1862. This line was constructed by the St. Paul and Pacific, the road that was reorganized under the leadership of James J. Hill in 1879 and eventually became the Great Northern. The first road to connect Minnesota with the Pacific coast, the Northern Pacific, was completed under the guidance of Henry Villard in 1883.

During the years following the Civil War the lumber resources of the state were intensively exploited. Minneapolis and Duluth owed their rapid growth during the seventies and eighties in part to the milling and shipping of lumber. In 1905 the production of lumber reached its peak with the cutting of two billion feet of timber.

In the early sixties agriculture in Minnesota emerged from the frontier subsistence type of farming and in the next two decades developed into commercial farming, devoted largely to a single crop. The state became one of the world's great wheat-producing centers. Beginning in 1880, however, wheat gradually gave way to corn as the staple produce, and agriculture became diversified. Dairying did not become an important industry in Minnesota until the early eighties, but its development since then has been rapid, especially during the last two decades. Minnesota now produces more butter than any other state, and there has been a remarkable growth of marketing through farmers' co-operative creameries. The rise and decline of wheat raising in Minnesota are reflected in the story of the Minneapolis flour mills. Between 1870 and 1890 they gained a position of undisputed leadership in the milling industry, a rank that they held until 1915. Since that time, however, the output of the mills has declined.

Rich beds of iron ore were discovered in the northeastern section of the state in the last decades of the nineteenth century. In 1884 the first shipment of ore was made from the Vermilion Range, finding its way to Lake Superior and eastern markets by way of Two Harbors. Later Duluth developed into an important lake port for the shipment of ore from the Mesabi Range, discovered by the Merritt brothers in 1890, and the Cuyuna Range. Minnesota became a national center for iron mining.

In the years following the Civil War the state gradually assumed increased responsibility for the care of poor, sick, and defective citizens. The first of six hospitals for the insane was opened at St. Peter in 1866; since then colonies for epileptics, hospitals for consumptives, and schools for feeble-minded, deaf, blind, dependent, and indigent crippled children have been established. The organization of a state board of health in 1872 was followed by the passage of laws compelling quarantine for contagious diseases, establishing a bureau of vital statistics, setting standards for pure foods, and in other ways meeting the requirements of new social points of view.

Cultural and educational transition and development have marked the state's progress. The University of Minnesota opened its doors in 1869 and in the decades that followed sought to meet and serve the changing needs of the state in higher education under such leaders as Folwell, Northrop, Vincent, Burton, Coffman, and Guy Stanton Ford. Musical organizations became active in St. Paul as early as the sixties, and the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra can trace its beginnings to a musical society of the seventies. Free libraries appeared in the cities in the eighties, and the Minneapolis Society of Fine Arts was incorporated in 1883. The woman's movement had reached the state about 1870, when women's clubs began to appear and the state suffrage association had its origin. Athletics and outdoor sports attracted increasing interest in the eighties and nineties. In the field of literature Minnesota has produced noted authors and critics. Rölvaag, Lewis, and others have pictured Minnesota scenes in novels that have won wide acclaim; Firkins and Upson have won distinction in criticism and poetry; and Neill and Folwell have contributed outstanding historical studies.

The first Minnesota state governor was a Democrat, Henry H. Sibley. The Republican party, which put Ramsey in the governor's chair in 1860, was dominant for a generation after the Civil War, giving the state such governors as Miller, Marshall, Austin, Davis, Pillsbury, Hubbard, McGill, Merriam, Nelson, and Clough. Challenges from the Democrats and third parties increased toward the end of the century and in 1898 John Lind won the governorship. The Republicans, with Van Sant, then held the office for two terms, when John A. Johnson, Democrat, appeared and carried the state three times. Eberhart, Republican, was followed by Hammond, Democrat, and he in turn by Burnquist, Preus, and Christianson, Republicans. Donnelly was a leader of the agrarian movement in its early years; the nonpartisan league, with the elder Charles A. Lindbergh among its leaders, appeared in the World War years; and the Farmer-Labor party, organized after the war, elected Floyd B. Olson governor in 1930. Governor Olson's career was cut short by his death in office on August 22, 1936, and his position was filled by Hjalmar Petersen until Elmer A. Benson took office in 1937. The Republican party returned to power in the state elections of 1938. Governor Harold E. Stassen was inaugurated as the state's chief executive in 1939. United States senators from Minnesota have included such men as Rice, Shields, Ramsey, Windom, Washburn, Nelson, Clapp, Kellogg, and the present incumbents, Henrik Shipstead and Ernest Lundeen.

No brief sketch can gather up the many forces that have played parts in developing the commonwealth of Minnesota or call the long roll of its distinguished sons and daughters. The people of the state naturally have been influenced by all the factors that have been fundamental in modern American life generally. To the national life, too, the state and its people have made notable contributions both in wars—Civil, Spanish-American, and World—and in the pursuits of peace—statesmanship, the church, with Bishop Whipple and Archbishop Ireland notable figures, science, invention, the arts, and the professions. From the day of the explorers to the present time, Minnesota has been intimately bound to the larger world in which its transition from wilderness to commonwealth has had its setting.

MINNESOTA CHRONOLOGY

1635. Jean Nicolet, a French explorer, spent the winter in the neighborhood of Green Bay on Lake Michigan. He took back to Montreal the first information about the Minnesota Indians.
- 1654-60. Radisson and Groseilliers, two French traders, made two expeditions into the West, reaching the Wisconsin region and possibly the Minnesota country. In 1654-56 some suppose that they went as far west as Prairie Island, in the Mississippi River between Red Wing and Hastings. In 1659-60 they again traveled in the West and came in contact with Sioux Indians.
1665. Father Claude Allouez, a Jesuit, established a mission at La Pointe, near Ashland, Wisconsin.
1679. July 2, Daniel Greysolon DuLhut (Duluth) held a council with the Sioux at their principal settlement on the shore of Mille Lacs. DuLhut, in July, 1680, by way of the St. Croix river, reached the Mississippi and met Hennepin.
1680. Louis Hennepin, after being held as a captive in a village of the Mille Lacs Sioux, discovered the Falls of St. Anthony, which he named in honor of his patron saint.
1689. May 8th, Nicholas Perrot, at his Fort St. Antoine, on the Wisconsin shore of Lake Pepin, laid formal claim to the surrounding country for France. He built a fort also on the Minnesota shore of this lake, near its outlet.
1695. Le Sueur built a fort or trading post on Isle Pelee, now called Prairie Island, above Lake Pepin.
1700. Le Sueur established Fort L'Huillier, on the Blue Earth river (near the mouth of the Le Sueur).
1727. The French established Fort Beauharnois near the site of Frontenac on Lake Pepin, with the Sieur de La Perriere as commander.
1728. Great flood in the Mississippi.
- 1731-32. La Vérendrye, his sons, and his nephew, La Jemeraye, established on the present north boundary of Minnesota two trading posts, Fort St. Pierre, near the mouth of Rainy lake, and Fort St. Charles, on Lake of the Woods, within the present area of Minnesota.

DESCRIPTIVE

NAME

This state derives its name from the river called "Minisota" by the Dakotas, pronounced "Min-nee-sotah" (Mini, water; sotah, whitishly clouded, sky-colored). For correct pronunciation, the convention held at Stillwater in 1848, to secure a territorial organization, instructed their delegates that the name of the Territory be written Minnesota.

GEOGRAPHY

Minnesota includes the geographic center of North America. The state is bounded on the south by Iowa, on the west by South and North Dakota, on the north by Manitoba and Ontario, and on the east by Wisconsin. It extends from latitude 43 degrees 30 minutes to 49 degrees 23 minutes, and from 89 degrees 29 minutes to 97 degrees 13 minutes west longitude. It is about 406 miles long, and from its most eastern point to the extreme western point about 358 miles wide. In a foot-note on article 2 of the State constitution, the boundaries are fully defined, with explanation of the part projecting twenty-six miles north beyond the forty-ninth parallel, at the west side of the Lake of the Woods.

AREA

In area Minnesota is the eleventh state of the Union. It contains 84,286.53 square miles, or 53,943,379 acres, of which 5,637 square miles, or 3,607,680 acres, are water. The headwaters of three great river systems are found in its limits, those of streams flowing northward to Hudson bay, eastward to the Atlantic ocean, and southward to the Gulf of Mexico. About a third of this surface, on the south and west, consists of rolling prairie. The district north and west of Lake Superior has rich iron ore ranges. On the northwest border of this state, reaching also west into North Dakota and north into Manitoba, is the very fertile and broad Red river valley, formerly the bed of the Glacial Lake Agassiz, famed for its great harvests of wheat. This ancient lake, also its large Beltrami island, are shown by the map on page 149.

RIVERS

Few states are so well watered as Minnesota. Its navigable rivers are the Mississippi, the Minnesota, the St. Croix, the Rainy river, the St. Louis, the Red River of the North, and the Red Lake river, all of which, near their sources, have valuable water powers. Smaller streams include the Rum river and Snake river, the Cannon, Zumbro and Root rivers, the Vermilion, Crow Wing, Sauk and Elk rivers, the Blue Earth, Le Sueur, Des Moines, Cottonwood and Chippewa rivers.

LAKES

Minnesota has about ten thousand lakes, the largest of which is Red Lake, with an area of 440 square miles, in the central northern part of the State. On the same northern slope, in St. Louis county, is the beautiful Vermilion lake. Adjoining the northeast part of the State for one hundred and fifty miles, the waters of the great Lake Superior wash its shores. On the southward slope of the State is Itasca lake, the source of the Mississippi, with Bemidji and Cass lakes, Lake Winnebagoishish, Leech lake, and a multitude of others, all adding volume to the water of the Mississippi, eventually flowing into the Gulf of Mexico. There we have also Mille Lacs, about 200 square miles in area, the source of Rum river. The picturesque Lake Minnetonka, White Bear, Bald Eagle, the Chisago lakes, and very many more, have been much utilized as summer resorts. The northeastern and southwestern sections, likewise, have many lakes to attract the summer visitor.

ELEVATION

The shore of Lake Superior is the lowest land in the State, 602 feet above sea level. The waters of the northeastern part of the State south of the Mesabi iron range, flow into Lake Superior, and are carried east to the Atlantic ocean. The Mississippi river, having its chief source in Lake Itasca, at 1,462 feet elevation, leaves the State at 620 feet above sea level.

The Red River of the North, beginning near Itasca, at a height of 1,500 feet above the ocean, leaves the State at an elevation of 750 feet. The average altitude of the State is about 1,250 feet. The highest elevations are the tops of the Misquah hills, near the center of Cook county, which rise about 1,630 feet above Lake Superior, or 2,230 feet above the sea.

CLIMATE

Recorded observations through long series of years show that Minnesota has an annual mean temperature of 44 degrees, and its mean summer temperature is about 70 degrees, like that of middle Illinois, Ohio, and southern Pennsylvania. The high latitude gives longer days in summer than in states farther south, and during the middle part of the growing season there are two and a half hours more of sunshine than in the latitude of Cincinnati. The winters are not severe, and the rainfall during the summer is usually abundant.

Through all the ninety-three years since considerable agricultural settlements were first made within the area of this State, its temperature and rainfall, though showing marked contrasts in different years, have always been so favorable for farming that there has been no instance of failure to secure at least a generally remunerative harvest, while most of the years have yielded very abundantly.

II. STATE FORESTS AND PARKS.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF MINNESOTA STATE PARKS AND STATE RECREATIONAL RESERVES, WAYSIDES AND MONUMENTS

Minnesota, with its many lakes, rivers, water falls, rock formations, and virgin timber has been blessed by nature with many opportunities for the enjoyment of outdoor life. Because of its many natural attributes it was one of the pioneers in State Park development.

The people of our state might have taken for granted that the state's primitive beauties would always be available and that there could be little need for preserving a portion of our "Original Minnesota" in order that future generations might have the same privileges for enjoying nature as have our forebears. However, as a measure of conserving outstanding scenic areas and memorializing historic events and characters, the people of Minnesota provided state parks as early as 1889 when Birch Coulee and Camp Release were established by the legislature.

STATE PARKS

Alexander Ramsey State Park was purchased by the state in 1911 and comprises 185.38 acres of land adjacent to Redwood Falls in Redwood County. Included is a section of the Redwood River Valley and the Valley of Ramsey Creek which has its junction with the Redwood River within the park boundary. The slopes of the valley are quite precipitous and in some cases take the form of vertical cliffs. Ramsey Creek tumbles over a falls in a rock gorge, which scenic attraction, together with the panoramic views, from an elevation above them, are the principal natural attractions of the area.

Many points of historical interest, concerning the Indian Outbreak of 1862, are in the neighborhood of the park. Picnicking and hiking are the principal forms of recreation, and a zoo, which includes numerous small animals, as well as elk, deer and buffalo creates much public interest.

Beaver Creek Valley State Park contains 325.17 acres and is located in Houston County near Caledonia. It derives its name from a trout stream which rises from artesian springs within the park and threads its way to the pool of the "Old Schech Mill" constructed in 1896, which is still operating, thence to the Root and Mississippi Rivers. The park extends for approximately two miles through the narrow valley flanked by hills some three hundred feet high with numerous outcroppings of sandstone topped with limestone all profusely covered with many species of deciduous plants and red cedar. The valley is very picturesque and accordingly the outstanding scenic value was the prime justification for acquiring this pristine area.

The park, undeveloped as yet, will serve principally as a scenic picnic spot for the people of the southeastern corner of the state. Hiking will be an added form of recreation.

Buffalo River State Park with an area of 280 acres is located approximately one-half mile south of U. S. Highway No. 10, 32 miles west of Detroit Lakes and 12½ miles east of Moorhead. It was acquired in 1936, and has, as its primary purpose, active physical recreation, including picnicking, swimming and hiking.

The area commemorates the Muscoda Townsite and prehistoric Campbell Beach of Lake Agassiz. The area is approximately one mile long and is divided by the Buffalo River. It is covered with elm, basswood, oak, poplar and other deciduous trees and shrubs native to the river bottoms of north-western Minnesota. The development of complete picnic facilities and a bathhouse and swimming pool are underway at the present time.

Camden State Park was acquired by the state in 1934 and embodies 469.96 acres of hilly country through which the Redwood River flows. It is located in Lyon County, a few miles south of Marshall. The western plains section of Minnesota suddenly becomes rugged in topography as one approaches this unusually scenic oasis in a countryside that is flat for many miles, a countryside that is intensively cropped and almost devoid of tree growth. The hillsides are covered with dense stands of deciduous trees which have been badly damaged by drouth the last few years.

Facilities for camping and picnicking provide a shelter, comfort stations, camp stoves, swimming pool with bathhouse, refectory and pure drinking water. Trails wind through the densely wooded areas and along the crest of the valley where hikers may view the many points of interest.

Cottonwood River State Park embodies 836.48 acres purchased by the state in 1934 adjacent to the south boundary of the city of New Ulm in Brown County. The area comprises a portion of the river valley including the tops of the bluffs which rise from the valley floor. The hills are covered with many species of deciduous trees.

A concrete dam has been constructed across the river to impound water over an area of 209 acres, thus creating a lake which will afford canoeing, boating, swimming and fishing. A modern bathhouse and refectory, a fine sand beach, camping and picnic facilities will be provided.

Gooseberry Falls State Park consists of 637.83 acres acquired in 1933 because of its exceptionally high scenic value and its strategic position in the state from a recreational angle. The Gooseberry River, a highly turbulent stream, with two water falls of approximately thirty feet in height, flows through the area to Lake Superior. The park is located forty miles northeast of Duluth on U. S. Highway No. 61, Minnesota's famous Lake Superior North Shore drive. Igneous volcanic rock void of any cover is prevalent on the shore of the lake and the river. The remainder of the area is covered for the most part with second-growth deciduous birch, poplar and alder mingled with black spruce.

The picnic ground and the camp ground are segregated along the shore of the lake. They are completely developed with modern toilets, pure drinking water, shelter buildings and refectories.

A highway concourse at the river has been accorded a physical treatment in architecture and landscape design, conforming in scale with the spectacular area of the river and water falls.

Gooseberry Falls is an ideal place to spend a day, a week, or even a month with plenty to see and do. It is but a few hours' trip to lakes where those not interested in trout fishing can get their limit of pike, bass and crappies. It affords wonderful relief for hay fever sufferers.

Interstate Park consists of 154 acres of St. Croix River valley extending from Taylors Falls down the river for a distance of 1.1 miles. It was acquired in 1895 by purchase. The river is a highly turbulent stream in a rock gorge which rises perpendicularly in places two hundred feet from the water's edge.

The park, which is of glacial origin, is divided into two distinct types of areas. The upper part, known as the "Glacial Gardens," consists of stratified and precipitous igneous rock formations, in which are spectacular examples of pot holes. These were created after the "Ice Age" by the whirling and surging motion of rotating water and boulders which set up a grinding action in depressions, and over a lapse of thousands of years created these large kettle holes, one of which is sixty feet deep. Ripple marks of a glacial stream are also in evidence. Vegetative cover is sparse, consisting mainly of white pine and many types of deciduous trees.

The lower area consists of about sixteen acres of grassy, heavily deciduous wooded bottom land rising at a more gentle grade from the water's edge. For the upper area a parking space and a combination concession and shelter building have been provided adjacent to the pot holes, and in the lower section complete facilities pertinent to picnicking and camping have been supplied.

The area provides an opportunity for hiking, study of natural phenomena such as the pot holes, study of archaeology, petroglyphs, and opportunity for boating, fishing and swimming.

Itasca State Park is located in Hubbard, Clearwater and Becker Counties, midway between Bemidji and Park Rapids on U. S. Highway No. 71. It consists of 31,816 acres, a portion of which was acquired in 1891. It was established primarily to preserve for posterity an exceptionally fine scenic piece of northern Minnesota, unaltered from its natural state.

Topographically, the area is an undulating, glacial moraine dotted with 157 lakes, foremost of which is Lake Itasca, the source of the Mississippi River. In the area are large stands of virgin Norway and white pine.

This park lies in a belt of most agreeable weather conditions. Days are sufficiently warm to permit activities such as swimming, and nights in turn are pleasantly cool. The area has an added interest in that it enfolds the source of the Mississippi River, which was the objective of a number of frontier expeditions, accomplished finally by Schoolcraft in 1832.

A newly developed camp ground on the east shore of Lake Itasca provides complete modern facilities for three hundred cars. Limited cabin accommodations are available in this area.

Douglas Lodge, a dignified hotel and cabin development, located at the south end of Lake Itasca among tall virgin pines, is state-owned. It is operated on the American plan by a concessionaire. Canoeing, boating, horseback riding, pitch-and-putt golf, foot trails and other recreational facilities are available for the enjoyment of guests.

A State Forestry School and Biological Station is operated by the University of Minnesota for summer school students. It provides housing units, laboratories, an arboretum and recreational facilities.

The picnic ground, near the Headwaters of the Mississippi River, is completely developed. Ample parking space, tables, benches, fireplaces and well-water are available for public use. Modern toilets and an interesting museum complete the development.

Itasca State Park is nationally famous. Approximately 125,000 people enjoy its scenery and facilities each season.

Jay Cooke State Park, an area of 3,375 acres, was established in 1915 and is one of Minnesota's most popular state parks. It extends from the limits of the village of Thomson in Carlton County for a distance of seven miles downstream on both sides of the St. Louis River to the limits of the village of Fond du Lac in St. Louis County. The river runs through a very picturesque gorge of basaltic rock formation. The terrain is exceedingly spectacular because of the ruggedness of slope from the shore of ancient Lake Duluth to the present river bed. The glacial drift, which mantels portions of the rock, is covered with mixed deciduous and coniferous plant life. A scenic highway runs through the entire length of the park connecting with the City of Duluth's Skyline Parkway.

Camp and picnic grounds are equipped with tables, stoves, pure drinking water, shelters, and comfort stations.

John A. Latsch State Park lies along one of Minnesota's most scenic recreational routes, U. S. Highway No. 61. It is located a few miles north of the city of Winona, which makes it an important entrance, from the south, to the Minnesota state park system. It was established in 1925 and comprises 350.2 acres. Three limestone bluffs, which rise abruptly nearly 450 feet above the highway, are old landmarks along the Mississippi River.

The Whitman Dam and Locks, contiguous with the park, play an important part in navigation on the Mississippi River and afford much interest to park visitors. A large portion of the park area is inaccessible because of rough topography but trails have been constructed which allow access to one of the bluffs from which a visitor can obtain a broad panoramic view of the Mississippi Valley.

Small areas for picnicking have been developed provided with fire-places, water supplies and toilet facilities.

Kaplan Woods State Park is located in Steele County, two miles south of Owatonna on State Trunk Highway No. 65. It is 180 acres in area and was acquired by the state in 1935. The park is of unusual scenic beauty because of the fine mature stand of mixed deciduous trees and the deep ravines through which the Straight River and tributary creeks flow. It comprises one of the few remaining remnants of the hardwood forest that once covered this section of Minnesota. Although the park has not been developed, hiking and picnicking will be the eventual forms of recreation.

Lake Bemidji State Park, established in 1923, embodies 205.48 acres of lakeshore land, about six miles northeast of Bemidji. Within the virgin Norway pine forest are found many natural locations for picnicking. A public camp ground is being constructed to provide complete facilities for this type of recreation and the picnic grounds have been completely developed for public use, including a bathhouse.

Lake Carlos State Park is located ten miles north of Alexandria on the north end of Lake Carlos. Its 403.56 acres were acquired in 1937 and are located in rolling topography covered with sugar maple and other deciduous trees on the higher portions and dense tamarack swamps in the lower area. Deer and other wild life are plentiful. The park is being developed at the present time to provide complete picnic facilities.

Lake Shetek State Park comprises 184.62 acres, located six miles north of Slayton on the shores of Lake Shetek, one of the few lakes in southwestern Minnesota. Three islands, Keeley, Valhalla and Loon, are within the park area, and on the portion known as the east mainland is located the Lake Shetek Monument which commemorates the massacre of a white family during the Indian uprising of 1862.

Fishing, bathing, boating, picnicking, hiking and camping are the chief forms of recreation. Complete picnic facilities are now being developed on the east mainland and a complete camp for organization use will be available on Keeley Island.

Middle River State Park, consisting of 285 acres, was purchased by the state in 1937 and is located seventeen miles northeast of Warren on State Highway No. 3. The area is bisected diagonally by a winding river, which gives the park its name. The area is partially covered with poplar, box-elder, elm and other deciduous stock common to this part of the state. The remnants exist of an old water-power operated flour mill, constructed originally in 1780. The original grindstones, which were shipped from France to Fargo, North Dakota, and from there hauled to the site by ox-carts, are still in preservation. This park is in the process of development, and when finished will afford swimming, picnicking and hiking.

Minneopa State Park has as the principal natural attraction Minneopa Creek which tumbles over two water falls into a deep-cut gorge covered with a dense mature stand of mixed deciduous timber. The name "Minneopa" is an Indian word meaning "Two Falls" and it is this feature that makes the park an unusual beauty spot. Its 110.24 acres are located in Blue Earth County six miles west of Mankato on U. S. Highway No. 60. It was acquired in 1905 and now affords excellent picnic facilities including a water system, a modern comfort station, picnic kitchen and shelter, and refectory.

Scenic State Park consists of 2,121.3 acres, located forty miles north of Grand Rapids and six miles east of Big Fork, was acquired by the state in 1921. This area is the most primitive of all Minnesota state parks and comprises large stands of virgin Norway pine, the most outstanding of which is located on Chase Point, a long peninsula which separates Coon and Sandwich Lakes. Both of these lakes are widely known for their beauty and for their abundance of many species of game fish.

Boating, swimming, fishing, hiking, and nature study provide diversified recreation. Camp and picnic grounds are completely developed and afford modern comfort to park visitors, as do the limited cabin accommodations. Those who love the wilderness should certainly visit Scenic State Park.

Sibley State Park, established by the 1919 legislature, contains 378.83 acres along the north shore of Lake Andrew in Kandiyohi County, seven miles west of New London and twenty-two miles north of Willmar.

Virgin hardwoods and red cedar cover the morainic hills of kettle and knob type topography. Mount Tom, the highest point in the county, is, however, barren at its crest except for grasses. Lake Andrew provides excellent boating, fishing and swimming, and a fine sand beach and bathhouse are available. Interesting foot trails radiate from the completely developed picnic and camp grounds and afford recreation for hikers who wish to view the beautifully wooded areas and the panorama from Mount Tom.

Two Rivers State Park has an acreage of 711.76 acres, of which 327 are located in a lake area which was created by impounding the south branch of Two Rivers. The park is located about two miles east of the village of Bronson on U. S. Highway No. 59. The lake is very irregular in shoreline thus creating many beautiful landscape pictures.

A bathhouse and sand beach provide swimming facilities, and picnicking, boating, fishing, camping and hiking are the more important additional forms of recreation.

Whitewater State Park is the most beautiful of developed park areas in southern Minnesota. It is located in Winona County about midway between the cities of Winona and Rochester. It was acquired by the state in 1919 and now has an acreage of 688.28 acres. The surrounding territory is typical rolling agricultural land but the park itself includes a wide deep ravine through which the Whitewater River and secondary creeks flow. The Whitewater River, although normally a small stream, becomes a roaring river after each heavy rain. It derives its name from the Indians who were impressed with the white surging water at flood time. Unusual escarpments and formations of limestone resemble towers and other unusual shapes, some of which contain caves high above the valley floor, all of which add to the picturesqueness of the park. Except for a portion in the valley, the park is covered with a dense growth of mature timber containing a limited amount of red cedar and occasional groups of white pine. Foot trails lead to promontories where inspiring vistas over the valley are afforded. A distinctive feature, and attraction in this park, is the naturalistic swimming pool. The bathhouse with life-guard service is invaluable to the section of the state where natural lakes suitable for swimming are infrequent. Picnic and camp grounds, equipped with modern structures, and overnight cabins provide facilities for the comfort and enjoyment of the park users.

STATE MEMORIAL PARKS

Birch Coulee State Memorial Park containing eighty-two acres was established in 1889, and is located 1½ miles north of Morton. One of the hardest fought battles of the 1862 Indian uprising took place on this site and several suitable markers indicate the locations of the battle. Complete picnicking facilities are provided.

Charles A. Lindbergh State Memorial Park, an area of 110.42 acres along the Mississippi River, two miles south of Little Falls, was established in 1931 as a memorial to Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the "Flying Colonel." It includes the boyhood home of the famous flyer which has been preserved and contains many objects intimately connected with his childhood.

Across the road from the residence is a large wooded tract available for picnicking. A picnic shelter and kitchen, water system, comfort station, and foot trails have been provided for public enjoyment.

Fort Ridgely State Memorial Park is located just west of State Trunk Highway No. 4 seven miles south of Fairfax in Nicollet County. The park was created by the state legislature in 1911. It consists of 214 acres and is divided, naturally, into two distinct areas by an abrupt change in topography. The lower area, through which the Fort Creek runs, is rugged and heavily wooded with deciduous trees and provides an ideal area for picnics. A complete development is under way in this area to provide facilities for picnic use.

The upper area contains the site of old Fort Ridgely, built in 1853, around which occurred some of the fiercest battles with the Sioux Indians in 1862. One of the old fort buildings, the commissary, has been restored to provide museum space and a meeting-hall for historical gatherings. The foundations of the remaining fort buildings have been rebuilt to a natural grade so that it is easy to visualize the complete picture of the Fort layout.

Foot trails have been constructed through the park, and from these, in the upper area, beautiful views of the Minnesota River valley may be obtained. A golf course adds to the recreational facilities of the area.

Monson Lake State Memorial Park commemorates the massacre of a white family in the Sioux uprising of 1862. The park is located in Swift County four miles west of Sunberg and about twenty-five miles from the principal towns of Benson and Willmar. This area, of 198.85 acres, was acquired by the state in 1935. Picnic tables and benches, a shelter and picnic kitchen building, comfort station, well, and ample parking space have been provided for public use.

STATE RECREATIONAL RESERVES

Mound Springs State Recreational Reserve, of 195.7 acres, is located seven miles north of Luverne in Rock County and one mile east of U. S. Highway No. 75. Mound Creek, a tributary of the Rock River, runs through the park and two dams have been constructed within the area impounding lakelets totalling about eight acres. The stream tumbles over a rocky gorge, composed of beautifully colored Sioux quartzite, in a portion of the park that is unusually picturesque with hardwood trees growing close to the rock outcropping.

Work is now in progress to provide picnic facilities for this park, and a bathing beach and bathhouse are planned for future developments.

Pomme De Terre State Recreational Reserve, of 363.51 acres, acquired by the state in 1936 is adjacent to the town of Morris in Stevens County. A dam has been constructed across the Pomme de Terre River forming a lake. The bathing beach has been improved, and a bathhouse is under construction. A comfort station and well have been provided for picnic use.

Split Rock Creek State Recreational Reserve is located one mile east of Ihlen in Pipestone County a few miles from Pipestone, the county seat. The area contains 227.64 acres. A dam across Split Rock Creek provides a small lakelet and the outcropping of beautifully colored Sioux quartzite adds to the landscape picture. The area is undeveloped for park purposes.

STATE WAYSIDES

Camp Release State Memorial Wayside, purchased by the state in 1889, includes 17.3 acres, located in Lac qui Parle County, just west of the city of Montevideo on U. S. Highway No. 212. A granite shaft, located near the center of the park, commemorates the release, on September 26, 1862, of 269 prisoners to General Sibley. At this site stood the Sioux Village of Red Iron, friendly chief during the outbreak of 1862. His opposition checked the hostile retreat and allowed other friendly Indians to gain possession of white captives. Remnants of General Sibley's entrenchments still remain on the east side of the area. A well, picnic tables and benches, and toilets have been provided for public pleasure.

Chippewa Mission State Historical Wayside is located about eight miles northwest of Montevideo on the east bank of the Minnesota River near the junction of the Lac qui Parle River. The park established in 1931, comprises 17 acres, commemorating the first Protestant Mission in Minnesota erected in 1835 under the leadership of Reverend Riggs. This mission had the first church bell, and manufactured the first cloth in Minnesota. Facilities are available for picnicking only.

Garvin Heights State Scenic Wayside, of seventeen acres, overlooks the city of Winona. The area lies 575 feet above the parkway which runs between the foot of the bluff and Winona Lake. The view from the heights is outstanding and includes the lake at the base, the city beyond, and a broad panorama of the Mississippi Valley in the distance.

Its principal use is scenic but a few picnic tables and two shelters have been provided for picnic use.

Horace Austin State Scenic Wayside comprises fifty acres located adjacent to the City of Austin just above the power dam on the Red Cedar River. On this spot several companies of the first United States Dragons camped in 1835. The developments are principally of a city park type with bathhouse, beach, camping, and picnic facilities.

Inspiration Peak State Scenic Wayside, an area of 82 acres, was acquired by the state in 1931. It is located in Ottertail County just north of the Douglas County line, and west of the village of Urbank. It consists of a wooded hill from the summit of which is afforded a spectacular view over a number of lakes and into parts of three counties. The hillsides, except at the peak, are covered chiefly with oak, and a small picnic ground has been developed, with fireplaces, tables, water supply and toilets.

Joseph R. Brown State Memorial Wayside, of three acres, was donated to the state in 1937. The ruins of the Brown Mansion still exist on the site. Major Brown was an Indian Agent representing the Government in the middle of the 1800's and built the elaborately furnished mansion overlooking the Minnesota Valley seven miles south of Sacred Heart in Renville County. The building was burned by the Indians during the uprising of 1862 and it is now planned to restore this historically important structure.

Old Crossing Treaty State Historical Wayside, of 8.8 acres, was established in 1932. It is situated between County Highway No. 45 and Red Lake River, a few rods west of the village of Huot. It embodies the site of the old Pembina Trail ford and more important, the site of a historic peace conference between the white-man and the red-man. Here a treaty was signed which ceded to the United States the north half of the Red River Valley. A beautiful bronze statue of an Indian, extending his hand with a peace-pipe, commemorates this event. The area has received very limited development.

Oronoco State Scenic Wayside is located on Shady Lake near U. S. Highway No. 52, seven miles north of Rochester in Olmstead County, and adjacent to the west edge of the small town of Oronoco. The artificial lake is created by a dam which impounds the water of the Zumbro River. A scattering of deciduous trees over a high knoll, with an open plain at the base breaking into a dry-run provides a very interesting landscape. The park is being developed to provide facilities for picnickers.

Sleepy Eye State Scenic Wayside, of 40 acres, is located at the edge of the town of Sleepy Eye bordering a lake of the same name. The area is wooded with deciduous trees. The park was named after Chief Sleepy Eye an Indian leader who camped on the shore of the lake each year, and in whose memory a monument has been erected a short distance from the park. The area is provided with the necessary facilities for picnicking.

Toqua Lakes State Scenic Wayside is an area of 40 acres just south of Graceville in Bigstone County and adjacent to State Highway No. 28. The lakes, which originally added much beauty to the area, are now dry, but the wooded park area makes a pleasant picnic spot. A well, toilets, picnic tables, and extensive playground apparatus have been provided for public recreation.

Traverse des Sioux State Historical Wayside is a 2.27 acre tract which lies along the west side of U. S. Highway No. 169 just north of St. Peter in Nicollet County. At the "Crossing of the Sioux" the Indian and Red River trails running up the Minnesota Valley crossed to the bank of the river and cut across the bend on the bank of the Cottonwood. Here, among the fur trade and mission posts, the treaty of Traverse des Sioux was signed, July 23, 1851.

This historical wayside was created by the Legislature in 1896. A hewed log cabin with a rough slab roof exists on the area together with a well and toilets which allow a limited amount of picnicking.

STATE MONUMENTS

Acton State Monument was erected in 1909 to commemorate the spot where the first blood was shed in the Sioux uprising of 1862. It is located on a one-tenth acre tract, four miles south of Grove City near State Highway No. 4.

Brook Park Monument was erected on October 11, 1915, on an area of .25 acres adjacent to the village of the same name in Pine County. It commemorates the many who lost their lives in the Hinckley fire.

Hinckley State Monument is a marble shaft erected on one-tenth of an acre in the Village of Hinckley Cemetery along State Highway No. 48. The area was acquired in 1899 and the monument was erected in memory of a large number of people who lost their lives in the great forest fire of 1898.

Milford State Monument is located on a one-acre tract about three miles north of Essig. The monument consists of a rough cut cross of granite with a beautifully designed statue of a young woman on the steps of the approach to the cross, erected in memory of the many who lost their lives in the Indian massacre near that place.

Moose Lake State Monument is a marble shaft erected, on one-tenth of an acre, in 1929, for the purpose of suitably memorializing the 183 victims of the Moose Lake fire of 1918. The area adjoins the limits of the village of Moose Lake and U. S. Highway No. 61.

Sam Brown State Monument is located on the west edge of the town of Browns Valley. On the one-acre tract is located the old log home of the Brown family, and beside the building stands a bronze plaque, set in masonry, in memory of Samuel Jerome Brown's ride on April 19, 1866, to warn the people of the frontier and Fort Sisseton of an Indian uprising. The old Brown cabin now serves as a museum which is open to the public.

Schwandt State Monument was erected on a one-tenth acre tract in 1915 in memory of the Schwandt family who were murdered by the Sioux Indians on August 18, 1862. It overlooks the Minnesota River Valley some 12 miles south of the town of Renville.

Wood Lake State Monument is reached by traveling south several miles from Granite Falls on State Highway No. 67 to the Wood Lake County Road, thence one-quarter mile west. The monument is erected on a one-acre tract and commemorates the battle of Wood Lake where on September 23, 1862, during the Sioux outbreak, Little Crow's warriors ambushed General Sibley's troops. The Indians were defeated by the Whites, and the area was purchased by the state in 1907 to commemorate this event.

It contains a fairly comprehensive collection of books of law, American, English, Canadian and Colonial. It also contains collections of Minnesota public documents and documents of other states and of the United States. It contains approximately 139,000 volumes. The state librarian is appointed by the governor for a term of two years.

The Commission of Administration and Finance was created by the Legislature in 1925 and has supervision and control over all state expenditures except certain expenditures made by the Board of Control. The University is exempted from supervision by reason of certain provisions of the State Constitution. The Commission consists of a Comptroller who succeeds to all the duties of the Public Examiner, which office was abolished by the reorganization act, a Budget Commissioner and a Commissioner of Purchases.

The Commission of Administration and Finance pre-audits all bills and approves requests for expenditures of all state departments except the University of Minnesota. The powers and duties of the former state printing commission have been transferred to this Commission. It has supervision over the construction of all State buildings, including those erected for the State Board of Control. It buys coal for all State institutions but has not supervision of supplies and ordinary repairs of the Board of Control. It determines the classes, grades, titles, and fixes the salary scale, for State employees. The Commission designates one of its members to serve as Director of Personnel, usually the Budget Commissioner.

The act abolished the Securities Commission and a part of the duties of such commission was conferred upon the Commissioner of Securities and the remainder upon the Commerce Commission. The Commission has authority to grant charters to state banks and other financial corporations; also to authorize insurance companies to do business in this state. The commission is divided into three divisions, viz.: The Banking Division in charge of the Commissioner of Banks; an Insurance Division in charge of the Commissioner of Insurance; and a Securities Division in charge of the Commissioner of Securities.

The Department of Banking has supervisory powers over all state banks, savings banks, building and loan associations, state trust companies, credit unions and other financial corporations. The Commissioner of Banks is statutory liquidator of all closed state banks. This department is obliged by law to examine periodically those institutions under its supervision.

The Insurance Department was organized in 1872. The department has supervision of all classes of insurance companies doing business in the state. The commissioner is required to examine each domestic company at least once in three years, and he may examine foreign companies whenever in his opinion such examination is necessary. The commissioner is given authority to pass upon securities issued by insurance companies doing business in this state.

The State Fire Marshal. By the reorganization act of 1925 the office of state fire marshal was abolished and the commissioner of insurance was appointed ex-officio state fire marshal. The duty of this division is to enforce the laws relative to fire prevention, storage, sale and use of combustibles and explosives, the licensing of theatres and dry cleaning establishments, the investigation of suspicious fires, and the institution of prosecutions for arson.

The Division of Securities makes all investigations relative to applications for licenses to sell securities, brokers and dealers' licenses and with the Commissioners of Banking and Insurance, who compose the Department of Commerce, act on the same, together with all applications for Bank charters and Insurance Companies requesting authority to do business in Minnesota.

The Liquor Control Commissioner enforces the Minnesota Liquor Control Act and Tax Law and collects liquor, beer and wine revenue through the sale of tax stamps. He issues licenses to liquor, wine and beer wholesalers, rectifiers and manufacturers and approves "off sale" store licenses. He checks and approves all liquor, wine and beer imports legally shipped into the state.

The Department of Conservation was created by Chapter 186, Laws of 1931, which established the five-man Conservation Commission. The Legislature of 1937, under Chapter 310, reorganized the Department of Conservation by eliminating the five-man commission and created the office of the Commissioner of Conservation, to be appointed by the Governor for a term of six years, removable for cause only. The Commissioner of Conservation appoints a Deputy Commissioner and a Director for each of the divisions of Game and Fish, Forestry, Lands and Minerals, State Parks, Drainage and Waters and the Tourist Bureau. Each Division Director appoints a deputy, subject to the approval of the Commissioner. Chapter 310 also provides for the establishment of a merit system for all employes of the department other than directors and deputies. The Commissioner of Conservation is responsible for the formulation and adoption of policies governing the six divisions and for the administration thereof.

The Department of Labor and Industry embraces ten organized divisions, each of which is under the immediate direction of a chief, as follows: Accident Prevention, Boiler Inspection, The Deaf, Employment, Painting Standards, Statistics, Steamfitting Standards, Unemployment Compensation, Women and Children, and Workmen's Compensation. There is also a Division of Mediation and Arbitration, which is organized when application is made for its services. The department is administered by the Industrial Commission, which consists of three members, who are appointed by the Governor for terms of six years, expiring two years apart. The commission also serves in a quasi judicial capacity in acting as an appellate body in hearing and determining appeals from decisions of referees in workmen's compensation cases and from decisions of an appeal tribunal in matters arising under the unemployment compensation law.

The Railroad and Warehouse Commission is made up of three (3) elective Commissioners who serve for six year terms. The Commission has general jurisdiction over railroad rates and service and suburban electric lines; a jurisdiction over rates and certain security issues of street railways; a general jurisdiction over rates and service of express companies; the sampling, inspection and weighing of grain at country and terminal points; the licensing and bonding of hay, grain, and straw commission merchants; the inspection and weighing of hay and straw; the weighing of commercial coal in carload lots at Duluth; the inspection and sealing of terminal elevator scales; full jurisdiction of weighing and measuring devices; the licensing, bonding and general regulation of local and terminal grain warehouses; the regulation, licensing and bonding of public storage, warehousemen (other than grain and cold storage) in cities and villages of 5,000 population and over; the regulation as to rates and service of more than 2,000 telephone companies in the state; the weighing of livestock at the South St. Paul market; the regulation of common carrier motor vehicle operation where the same is afforded between fixed termini and over a regular route; and also the regulation of contract carriers who perform special services and irregular route common carriers who may carry property any place in the state but not between fixed termini and over a regular route; the regulation of the construction, operation and maintenance of telephone lines and the lines of other utilities to prevent induction from one set of wires to another; the inspection of electric meters outside of cities of the first class, and many other incidental matters of importance to the public.

The various departments carrying out the powers of the Commission are the Grain Inspection and Weighing Division, the Live Stock Weighing Department, the Department of Scales, Weights and Measures, in addition to the Engineering, Telephone, Statistical, Railroad Rate and Auto Transportation Company Divisions, a part of the General Office of the Commission. The Grain Inspection and Weighing Division, and the Live Stock Weighing Department are self-supporting from fees derived from the service performed.

The Grain Inspection Division is in charge of a Chief Inspector. The state is divided into three principal inspection districts—Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth—the inspection and weighing service, or both, have been established at many other places within the state.

The Weights and Measures Division was created by the Legislature in 1911 and it is the duty of those in charge of this department to see that all weights and measures conform to the United States standards.

The Telephone Division exercises powers over the telephone lines of the state similar to those exercised by the Commission over railroads and express companies. Over two thousand telephone companies are supervised.

The Stock Yards Division regulates rates and charges and requires proper sanitary facilities, and supervises the weighing in all public yards; the licensing of livestock commission merchants and the control of their trade practices, subject to certain limitations imposed by the Federal Control Act of 1922.

The Boards of Grain Appeals at Duluth and Minneapolis consist of three members each, appointed by the governor. The boards are required to meet annually in joint session and establish grades of all grains to be known as "Minnesota Grades." Appeals may be taken to these boards from the decision of Inspectors of the Grain Inspection Department as to grades and dockage. The board is entirely independent of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission, but its salaries and expenses are paid from the Grain Inspection fund.

The Department of Rural Credit was originally established under the Minnesota Rural Credit Bureau by Chapter 225, Laws of 1923, for the purpose of making loans upon improved farms in the state to owner-occupants. The stated objectives for the establishment of the system were the promotion of agriculture, dairying, and livestock raising, and the development of farm lands in the state. Chapter 429, Laws of 1933, stopped the loaning activities of the department, abolished the Rural Credit Bureau, and placed the disposition of the affairs of the department under a conservator who is charged with the responsibility of husbanding the assets of the department and meeting its indebtedness in a manner that will result in the smallest possible loss to the state.

The Minnesota Tax Commission, created in 1907, exercises general supervision over the administration of the assessment and tax laws of the state, over assessors, town, village, city and county boards of review and equalization. It administers the laws governing the occupation tax on the mining industry, royalty taxes, and the gross earnings taxes of railroads, express, freight line, sleeping car, trust, telegraph and telephone companies and income and chain store taxes. It is given power to issue instructions and directions to assessors and other public officers administering the tax laws. County auditors are required to report to it as to the assessment of property and levying of taxes, and such other information as may be required affecting taxation generally.

The Minnesota Aeronautics Commission. This commission was created by chapter 430—S.F. No. 1684, Laws of 1933, and consists of five members, appointed by the governor. It is the duty of the commission to foster air commerce, assist in aviation development and has supervision over the aeronautical activities and facilities within the state. It is also authorized to issue licenses to airports, landing fields and certificates of registration to pilots and aircraft owners.

MISCELLANEOUS BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS

State Board of Parole. This board was created by legislative enactment in 1911. It is given power to parole prisoners from the state penal institutions, except such prisoners who have a life sentence for murder. The act creating the board also incorporates the indeterminate sentence law. By this law the board is given power to release on parole prisoners at our state penal institutions when they are fit to take their place in society. By a statute enacted in 1933, Courts were authorized to place persons convicted of crimes on probation to the Board of Parole. The board as now constituted, under the act of 1931, consists of a full time chairman and two citizens or part time members, all appointed by the Governor for six year terms so arranged that only one term expires every two years.

This act cannot be repealed or amended by the Legislature.

The management of the association is vested in a State Retirement Board of seven members, consisting of the State Auditor, State Treasurer, Commissioner of Insurance, and four state employees to be chosen one each year from the association membership.

Minnesota Soldiers' Home. Management: Board of Trustees. Resident Manager: The Commandant. The Minnesota Soldiers' Home is located on land at the confluence of Minnehaha Creek with the Mississippi river in Minneapolis. It was established by the Legislature of 1887, acting on recommendations of a committee of the Department Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which made a study of two or more years' duration. The present estimated value of the property as in its going conditions, according to inventory, is $1,750,000.

The Minnesota Historical Society. Incorporated less than two months after the convening of the territorial legislature in 1849 and chartered by it, the Minnesota Historical Society is the oldest institution in the state. It is supported mainly by legislative appropriation. By gift and purchase it has accumulated one of the largest and best historical libraries in the West, containing approximately 197,000 books, pamphlets, and newspaper volumes. An important part of the library consists of materials on Minnesota history—the most comprehensive collection of its kind in existence. The library is strong in the general field of Americana, particularly in the subjects of the West, the Northwest and Canada. It has also one of the largest collections of genealogical and biographical publications in the United States; and an extensive collection of material relating to the Scandinavians in the United States, which is supplemented by the special library of the Swedish Historical Society of America, on permanent deposit with the state society. In the society's division of manuscripts is a constantly growing body of letters, diaries, and other documents left by men and women who have played some part in the making of Minnesota. Included in this unique collection are about a dozen farmers' diaries and the papers of such men as Sibley, Ramsey, Taliaferro, Donnelly, Bishop Whipple, Knute Nelson, John Lind, Dr. William W. Folwell, and Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh. Scarcely less important historically are the 19,500 bound volumes of Minnesota and other newspapers in the society's library, files extending from the first newspaper published in the territory down to the present. A historical museum, with varied displays, visualizes the external conditions of life in Minnesota's past. Of special interest are a series of miniature models of scenes and situations illustrative of life on the Minnesota frontier.

In 1919 the legislature recognized the society in effect as a state department of archives, and since that date non-current archives have been received for custody and administration from ten state departments and eleven commissions and boards. These materials include executive records, census schedules, and pension papers from the offices respectively of the Governor, the Secretary of State, and the Adjutant General.

The society publishes a quarterly magazine, Minnesota History, which was established under a slightly different title in 1915. Among its other publications are Dr. William W. Folwell's four-volume History of Minnesota, a two-volume history of Minnesota in the War with Germany, and seventeen volumes in a series of Collections. The Mayer Diary, issued in 1932, the first in a new series, Narratives and Documents, was followed in 1934 by the letters of Jane Grey Swisshelm, militant woman editor. A series of Special Bulletins was inaugurated in 1935 with a Guide to the Personal Papers in the Manuscript Collections of the society. A monthly clip sheet, the Minnesota Historical News, makes available to newspapers short articles on Minnesota history.

The society holds an annual meeting in January and conducts each summer a historical tour and convention. It promotes the organization of local history work, co-operates with county historical societies (now 55 in number), sponsors a survey of historic sites in the state, encourages the teaching of Minnesota history in the schools, conducts an "Information Bureau" which has prepared hundreds of reports in response to questions put before it, supplies speakers from its staff for many meetings, and in other ways supplements this program of public education. It has co-operated with the Minnesota highway department in the erection of more than a hundred historical markers along state highways, and has engaged in a number of recent archaeological investigations.

The society has a membership of nearly sixteen hundred. Dues amount to three dollars for annual, ten dollars for sustaining, and fifty dollars for life members. Membership, which is open to all, may be secured through application and payment of dues. The governing body is an executive council composed of thirty elected members and six state officers ex-officio.

The society occupies the Historical Building adjacent to the Capitol. This building was erected by the state at a cost of $500,000 and was dedicated on May 11, 1918. The reading rooms, manuscript division, and museum are open to the public daily from 9:00 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Live Stock Sanitary Board. Section 4690, General Statutes of 1913 authorized the appointment of this board, consisting of five members, each appointed for the term of five years. One is to be a person selected and recommended by the Minnesota Live Stock Breeders Association; two shall be persons financially interested in the breeding of livestock in the state, and the other two practicing veterinarians in the state and graduates of a regularly organized and recognized veterinary college.

State Agricultural Society. Organized in 1854 as the Minnesota Territorial Agricultural Society, it was incorporated, in 1860, as the Minnesota State Agricultural Society, its function being the operation of the Minnesota State Fair. In 1903 the legislature confirmed and established the society as a public corporation and a department of state.

The society's voting membership comprises three delegates from each county agricultural society in the state; one delegate from each county in the state in which no county agricultural society exists; individuals who have been elected honorary life members of the society; two delegates elected by, and the president, ex-officio, of each of twenty-five statewide organizations affiliated with agriculture and kindred pursuits; one delegate from each of seventeen similar statewide organizations; and the incumbent members of the governing board.

At the annual meeting of the society, held three days beginning the Wednesday first following the second Tuesday in January, are elected the members of the governing board, which body directly manages and operates the State Fair. The membership of this board comprises a president at large, for a term of one year; two vice-presidents, one from the fourth, the other from the fifth, congressional district, both for terms of two years; and seven managers, representing, respectively, for terms of three years, the first, second, third, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth congressional districts. The terms of the vice-presidents overlap, as do those of the managers, so that at any annual meeting not more than one vice-president nor more than three managers are elected. The governing board in turn elects a secretary and a treasurer, both for terms of one year.

From 1854 to 1884, the Fair, unanchored, moved periodically about the state, being held, with varying degrees of success, at Fort Snelling, Minneapolis, Owatonna, Red Wing, Rochester, St. Paul.

By virtue of Ramsey county's gift to the state, in the early spring of 1885, of a 200-acre tract lying in Rose town, midway between St. Paul and Minneapolis, that year marked the permanent location of the State Fair grounds on its present site and it also noted, for the Fair, the beginning of an era of unprecedented growth.

The period from 1885 to the present has witnessed a phenomenal expansion in the educational activities of the Fair and has seen the construction of improved facilities not only for proper presentation of the myriad competitive and industrial exhibits annually on display but also for the comfort and convenience of the Fair patrons. Especially during the five years beginning with 1934, a planned development program has brought forth several substantial, spacious, well equipped new exhibition buildings of modern architectural design, as well as greatly augmented automobile parking areas and general improvements to streets and other utilities on the Fair grounds, all of which has been accomplished with funds from earnings in operation of the Fair and from contributions made by the federal government, the Minnesota legislature and the Minnesota state executive council.

The record attendance to date was set in 1937, when the outside gate turnstiles registered 637,025 admissions in the eight days of operation of the Fair.

The Minnesota State Fair today occupies, among expositions of its kind, a place second to none as an educational institution, its curriculum embracing a diversity of subjects vital to the welfare of the people of Minnesota, principally, agriculture, live stock raising, home-making, the arts and, probably of farthest reaching importance and value, boys' and girls' 4-H Club work, the beneficent influences of which find their way into nearly fifty thousand farm homes of the state.

State Horticultural Society, organized in 1866, gathers and disseminates knowledge pertaining to fruit, flowers, tree, and vegetable growing and prepares lists of suitable varieties recommended for planting in Minnesota.

The society is composed of 600 life members and more than 4,894 annual members.

The Minnesota Horticulturist is the official publication and in it is published the reliable information gathered by the society. The society encourages the organization of local societies or garden clubs throughout the state in order to interest more people in home and community gardening. The following societies are affiliated: Minnesota Beekeepers Association, Minnesota State Florists Association, Minnesota Garden Flower Society, Minnesota Peony and Iris Society, Garden Club of Ramsey County, Duluth Garden Flower Society, Minnesota Nurserymen's Association, Goodhue County Horticultural Society, Minnesota Gladiolus Society, Minnesota Fruit Growers Association, Rochester Garden and Flower Club, Minnesota Dahlia Society, Minnesota Greenkeepers Association.

A few of the many interests of the society are: a fruit, flower and vegetable garden for every home; a shelter belt for every farm, and school grounds and highways suitably planted with trees and flowers.

THE JUDICIARY DEPARTMENTS

The Judiciary

The constitution vests the judicial power of the state in a supreme court, district courts, courts of probate, justices of the peace, and such other courts, inferior to the supreme court, as the legislature may from time to time establish by a two-thirds vote. Pursuant to this power the legislature has established municipal and conciliation courts.

The Supreme Court

The supreme court consists of a chief justice and six associate justices, each elected for a term of six years.

The supreme court has original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and has appellate jurisdiction in all cases both in law and in equity. Appeals may be taken to it from all district courts and from some municipal courts.

One term of court is held in each year, beginning on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January and continues to the end of the year, with such recesses as the court may order.

The clerk of the supreme court, elected for a term of four years, keeps such dockets, journals and other records as may be required.

The reporter of the supreme court is appointed by the court to report all cases decided by it and prepare for publication, in volumes known as "Minnesota Reports," the opinions of the court and appropriate data incident to them.

The Lower Courts

The district courts are divided by the legislature into 19 judicial districts, each having one or more judges elected for a term of six years, and holding terms as provided by law. They are courts of general jurisdiction and have jurisdiction of all civil actions and criminal prosecutions, including appeals from probate courts, municipal courts, and from justices of the peace.

There is a probate court established in each county, presided over by a judge elected for a term of four years. It has exclusive jurisdiction over the estates of deceased persons and persons under guardianship, but no other jurisdiction.

Justices of the peace are elected in cities, villages and towns. A justice of the peace has jurisdiction over actions at law arising within his county where the amount involved does not exceed $100, and over criminal prosecutions where the punishment prescribed does not exceed a fine of $100 or imprisonment for not more than three months.

Municipal courts are established in cities and villages, and generally have jurisdiction in civil actions at law where the amount involved does not exceed five hundred dollars, and in criminal prosecutions where the punishment does not exceed a fine of one hundred dollars or imprisonment for not more than three months. The jurisdiction of a municipal court is coextensive with the county wherein it is located. Appeals may be taken direct to the supreme court from the judgments of the municipal courts in some of the larger cities.

STATE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

Article VIII of the State Constitution makes it "the duty of the legislature to establish a general and uniform system of public schools," establishes the permanent school fund, and requires the legislature to "make such provisions, by taxation or otherwise as, with the income arising from the school fund, will secure a thorough and efficient system of public schools in each township in the State."

The whole area of the state is organized into school districts ranging from the small rural district maintaining a single one-room school or transporting its children to a school in a neighboring district, to the unorganized territory of several counties such as St. Louis and Koochiching, the county school district of Lake County and the school districts of the larger municipalities in which kindergarten, elementary, secondary, higher and adult education are provided. Each school district is under the direction of a school board elected by the people, with the exception of a few special districts in which direction of the schools is vested in some other municipal or county body.

County superintendents of schools, elected by the voters of the county for a four year term, have administrative and supervisory powers in relation to the rural ungraded schools. Certain official reports are made by all local districts through the county superintendent's office.

Chapter 334, Laws of 1919, created a State Department of Education under the direction of a non-salaried board of five representative citizens, appointed for overlapping five-year terms by the governor with the consent of the Senate. The powers and duties of the former Superintendent of Education, High School Board and State Library Commission were transferred to this Board. The Board of Education also serves as the State Board for Vocational Education for the purpose of State co-operation in the Federal programs of vocational preparation and training. The Board is required by law to hold an annual meeting the first Tuesday in August and to hold regular meetings quarterly. For the personnel of the State Board of Education see page 475.

The secretary and executive officer of the State Board of Education is the Commissioner of Education, elected by the Board for a statutory term of six years. The Commissioner is ex officio a member of the State Teachers Retirement Fund Board and a member and secretary of the State Teachers College Board. He is "responsible for the efficient administration and discipline of the various offices and divisions in the organization of the department of education," and has authority to propose plans for organization of the department and to nominate persons to carry on its work, subject to approval by the Board.

The schools of the State derive support from both local and state sources, and local supervision is supplemented by the work of the State Department of Education.

The state's share in school support approximates from year to year a third of the cost of school maintenance. There are four state funds for the support of schools as follows:

(1) The Endowment Fund which consists of the income from the Permanent School Fund.

(2) The Current School Fund which is the amount derived from a one-mill tax.

(3) The Special State Aid Fund which consists of the sums appropriated biennially by the legislature from the general revenue fund of the state for purposes designated in law.

(4) The Income Tax School Fund.

The first two funds together make up the General School Fund and are apportioned to districts on the basis of school attendance.

The purposes of the Special State Aid Fund and the basis for determining the sums to be paid the several districts are found in the state aid laws.

The first purpose is to equalize educational opportunities, including (a) payment of reimbursement aid for transportation or board of resident pupils in consolidated school districts; high school pupils residing in districts not maintaining high schools; crippled children who cannot walk to school with the exercise of normal effort; and isolated elementary pupils, (b) payment of tuition in high schools for nonresident pupils, and (c) aid in the purchase of library books.

The second purpose is to aid in establishing minimum standards. An amount fixed by law is paid for each school which meets classification standards established by the State Board of Education.

The third purpose is to stimulate educational progress. This aid is designed to encourage (a) the establishment and maintenance of special classes in the public schools for children who are handicapped by blindness, deafness, defective speech, subnormal mentality, or physical impairment, (b) the establishment and maintenance in the high schools of special departments for training in agriculture, home economics, industrial and commercial work, (c) the maintenance of evening schools for adults. Federal aid is also provided for vocational training in agriculture, home economics, trade and industrial education and the distributive occupations. Aid for the evening schools assists local communities in providing instruction for illiterates, preparation of aliens for citizenship, and general adult education. A part of the Federal Aid for vocational training is also used in support of part-time and evening vocational classes.

The fourth purpose stated in the law is to assist school districts with a high tax levy. Under this provision the state supplements the amounts districts with low valuation are able to raise, in order to maintain satisfactory schools. This is, in effect, another equalization of educational opportunity, and the amounts distributed as "supplemental aid" constitute the largest part of the Special State Aids.

The fifth purpose is the maintenance in high schools of departments for the training of teachers for the rural schools.

In 1935 the legislature authorized the transfer of $500,000 annually from the Current School Fund to the Special State Aid Fund if the sums appropriated were insufficient to pay the Special State Aids in full. Even with this transfer, however, funds have been inadequate for these aids and certain of them have been prorated, in 1936-37 at 64.7 per cent and in 1937-38 at 60.7 per cent.

From the receipts of the State Income Tax the districts are apportioned $10.00 per year for each child six to sixteen years of age and in addition $10.00 for each child sixteen to seventeen years of age attending school. Except in cities of the first class school districts must use the fund to retire outstanding indebtedness if such exists.

The State Department of Education directs the distribution of these aids according to law. It also exercises general supervision over the public schools of the state and advises superintendents and school boards. When necessary it secures the advice of the attorney general on problems affecting the administration of the schools.

As a part of its supervisory work the Department needs to make studies of the curriculum, organization and management of the schools, to publish bulletins and manuals on these subjects, and to report and make recommendations to the Legislature, all of which it is authorized by law to do. In so far as funds permit studies of an administrative and supervisory nature are carried on, both through the Division of Statistics established in the Department and by the various other Divisions with relation to their special fields of work. Funds available for this service have been seriously curtailed during recent years.

The Directors of the High and Graded School Division are required by law to visit each high and graded school each year and to make a written report on such visits. The Directors assist local school boards, superintendents and teachers with their professional problems and give advice in matters of curriculum, supervision and management. They co-operate with the local schools to maintain minimum standards and proper use of state funds. Through this division the Department exercises the same supervision over the public Junior Colleges as over the High Schools of the State.

The Rural School Division conducts institutes for rural teachers in each county in the state, conducts meetings for rural school board members, assists in establishment of consolidated schools, supervises transportation of pupils, supplies record books and forms needed by rural boards, supervises instruction in the High School Teacher Training Departments, and under an agreement with the Federal Government supervises approximately forty schools attended by Indian children.

The Vocational Education Division supervises the programs of training in agriculture, home economics, trade and industrial education and distributive occupations under agreements with the United States Office of Education and assures that these departments maintain standards entitling them to reimbursement from the Federal and Special State Aid Funds.

A Division of Vocational Rehabilitation provides vocational advisement and training for physically handicapped persons through the use of state and federal funds. This Division is concerned directly with persons of employable age. It operates in co-operation with the State Department of Labor and Industry, the Division of Services for Crippled Children and the Division for the Blind in the State Board of Control, the public schools, and various other public and private agencies which work with the handicapped. In close co-operation with this Division the state supervises the special classes for handicapped children in the public schools.

The Division of Health and Physical Education, in addition to supervising the school programs in these fields, aids in planning community recreation programs in which the schools participate under the state recreation law passed by the 1937 legislature.

A Division of School Buildings and Business Administration examines the plans and specifications for the erection, enlargement, and change of school buildings and advises with local school officials and architects in the planning and improvement of school plant facilities, in relation to such matters as heating, ventilation, lighting, etc. Standard blueprints and specifications for one and two-room school buildings are offered free of charge to public schools. Rules for schoolhouse construction including the rules of the State Board of Health relating to sanitary standards are prepared and distributed by this Division. It also assists public school officials with local problems in fiscal accounting, management, insurance programs, protection of school funds and other phases of public school business administration.

Under a Division of Teacher Personnel the Department issues certificates which are evidence of qualification to teach in the public schools of the state and examines the qualifications of the teachers employed by the local districts. The Teachers Employment Bureau is also maintained as a part of this division to secure employment for teachers in the public schools of the state and to furnish information to school boards and other proper authorities regarding the experience, qualifications and character of teachers seeking employment.

The Department has jurisdiction over library development in the state through its Library Division which serves as a clearing house on all library problems, publishes a quarterly bulletin, and aims to give impetus to library development in the state. It operates a state circulating library from which rural communities may borrow reading material from the open shelves or from the traveling library collection. The Library Division keeps statistics of school and public libraries of the state, secures regular reports from them, and publishes these statistics annually in Library Notes and News. The Division is also charged with the general supervision of school libraries, the maintenance of standards of service, certification of librarians, and the administration of school laws and regulations relating to the libraries.

The State Department of Education sponsors a large number of W. P. A. activities including adult education, recreation, nursery schools, art projects, writers projects and research studies. Over 1,600 persons are employed on such projects.

STATE TEACHERS COLLEGES

At the first session of the State Legislature, in 1858, provision was made for three state normal schools "to educate and prepare teachers for teaching in the common schools." These were established at Winona in 1860, Mankato in 1868 and St. Cloud in 1869. As population extended west and north additional schools were provided and opened, at Moorhead in 1888, at Duluth in 1902, and at Bemidji in 1919. In 1921 the Legislature designated all of these schools as Teachers Colleges and gave the State Teachers College Board authority to grant appropriate degrees to students who complete prescribed four-year curriculums.

The Teachers Colleges devote themselves primarily to the preparation of teachers for the elementary and secondary schools. Each maintains two-year courses to prepare teachers for the rural and graded elementary schools. Each maintains four-year courses for more advanced training of elementary teachers, for the training of supervisors and teachers of special subjects, and for the training of secondary school teachers. The degree of Bachelor of Education is conferred upon those who complete a four-year course. The diplomas of the Teachers Colleges are accepted by the State Department of Education as basis for the issuance of appropriate certificates which qualify teachers for employment in the public schools. Each Teachers College maintains a demonstration school for observation and practice teaching and has co-operative relationships with neighboring rural, graded and high schools for the same purpose.

Each of the colleges is required to conduct a summer term under the same standards of instruction as apply to the regular term. These summer terms are especially designed to give opportunity for the further training of rural teachers.

The Teachers Colleges are supported by appropriations made biennially by the legislature and by the proceeds of nominal tuition and fees charged the students.

All of the colleges are under the direction of the State Teachers College Board. Eight members of the Board are appointed by the governor with the consent of the Senate, one "resident director" from each county in which a Teachers College is located and two from the other counties of the state at large. The board members serve without compensation for four-year terms, half the terms expiring each two years. The Commissioner of Education serves as the ninth member and secretary of the Board. The president of the Board is elected by the Board at an annual meeting which is held on the first Tuesday in June. For personnel of the State Teachers College Board see page 475.

The Teachers College Board is charged by law with responsibility for the appointment of all presidents, teachers and other employes, the general management, supervision and control of the several colleges, inspection of the school plants and methods of instruction, biennial reports on the condition, wants and prospects of each school, and recommendations for improvement.

The presidents of the Teachers Colleges are required to make annual reports.

The presidents of the colleges in the current year are:

Winona—Guy E. Maxwell, appointed in 1904 (Deceased, January 3, 1939) Acting President—Arthur T. French
Mankato—Frank D. McElroy, appointed in 1930

GENERAL INFORMATION

The University of Minnesota is the most widely known and most broadly serviceable institution maintained by the State of Minnesota.

Offering, as it does, the benefits of higher education and the consequent possibilities of advancement, to every boy and girl born in Minnesota who has the perseverance to complete a high school course or its equivalent, it holds out one of the great hopes for the future Minnesota, both to the young, who look forward to attendance there, and to the parents, who long to see further ambitions of their own fulfilled by the accomplishments of their children.

Although its enrollment makes the University of Minnesota one of the largest institutions of higher education in the entire world, and although its recognized high rank in scholarship and accomplishment has long made it one of the best known universities, education at Minnesota can be obtained at a cost much below that required by conditions at the great endowed institutions of the East. Government statistics show also that cost of living in Minneapolis and St. Paul is consistently lower than it is in most of the other cities or towns where state universities, west or east, are established. Tuition charges at the University of Minnesota are well below those of most endowed universities and colleges.

Official figures compiled by the Registrar show that on December 3, 1938, a total of 26,452 students, omitting all duplications, were receiving instruction in courses directed by the University of Minnesota. Of these, 15,510 were enrolled in the sixteen schools and colleges which comprise the University proper. In the five schools of secondary grade supported by the University namely, the University High School, Central School of Agriculture, Northwest School of Agriculture, West Central School of Agriculture, and North Central School of Agriculture, were 2,073 students. The Nursery School and Kindergarten had an enrollment of 53 students. Evening extension class students totaled 6,567, members of the correspondence classes numbered 2,436. Three hundred and nine persons were attending the various short courses offered by the University.

COLLEGES AND DEPARTMENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY

University Administration: The University of Minnesota is governed by a board of twelve regents whose terms of office are six years. The president of the University of Minnesota is the administrative head, and the chief business and finance officer is the comptroller.

Internal affairs of the University of Minnesota are governed by the University Senate, composed of the president, deans, all professors, including associate and acting professors, the comptroller, certain other administrative officers, and the University Librarian. Some others who do not devote full time to university work are members without power to vote. The registrar of the University is clerk of the Senate and custodian of its records.

College of Science, Literature, and the Arts (Academic College): This is the college in which students not specializing in a professional school study to obtain a liberal education in the broad cultural sense. Here also they take the preliminary work fitting them for admission to the professional or semi-professional colleges. (Four year course.)

The Zoological Museum: A department of the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts devoted to the recording and preserving of data and specimens of Minnesota animal life and to the instruction of the public with respect to birds, animals, and fish.

Minnesota Geological Survey: A department of the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts, which, as a continuous state investigation allotted to the University, annually conducts an intensive study of some important phase of the state's mineral resources, water, soils, or topography.

Institute of Technology: The Institute of Technology which was established November 1, 1935, embraces the College of Engineering and Architecture, the School of Chemistry and the School of Mines and Metallurgy.

College of Engineering and Architecture: A division of the Institute of Technology devoted to the technical education of those who desire to make a profession of engineering or of architecture. (Four year course.)

Engineering Experimental Laboratories: A department of the Institute of Technology concerned with various engineering problems. The Minnesota State Highway Department maintains its division of tests and inspections in this station.

School of Chemistry: A department of the Institute of Technology specializing in the science of chemistry. (Four year course.)

School of Mines and Metallurgy: A department of the Institute of Technology offering a four year course in preparation of the profession of a mining engineer.

School of Mines Experiment Station: A department of the Institute of Technology which as a state supported research institution works on the problems of extraction and treatment of the mineral resources of Minnesota. An office of the United States Bureau of Mines is maintained at the station.

College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics: This college is to all intents and purposes described by its title. Men and women whose life work is to be agriculture, the allied profession of forestry, or the capable conduct of the home are here given the best possible opportunities to acquire expert knowledge based on the experience and research of generations. (Four year course.)

Medical School: A professional school for training physicians and surgeons for service to the people of Minnesota. Two years of work in the Academic College are required for admission. (Five year course.)

School of Nursing: As a division of the Medical School, the school of Nursing is conducted for the training of both general and special nurses. A course for Medical Technicians is also maintained. (Three to five year course.)

The University of Minnesota Hospitals: Under the act creating the Minnesota General Hospital, the hospitals on the University campus are available for the care and treatment of indigent patients from any Minnesota community, thousands of whom are treated each year. A certificate signed by a county commissioner will warrant admission. Half of the expense of hospitalization is then paid by the state and half by the county.

Minnesota Hospital and Home for Crippled Children: This is a unit of the University Hospitals, created and endowed by the gifts of the late William Henry Eustis of Minneapolis. It consists of a hospital for the care of children disabled by crippling or other afflictions, and a convalescent home in which these children may be cared for and instructed during the period when it is necessary to keep them under special care after they leave the hospital.

College of Dentistry: A professional school for training dentists and dental hygienists. Two years of work in the Academic College are required for admission. (Three year course.) A course for Dental Hygienists is also maintained.

Law School: A professional school to fit students for admission to the Minnesota bar and for the expert and ethical practice of law. Two years of work in the Academic College are required for admission. (Two, three and four year courses.)

College of Pharmacy: Devoted to the instruction of men and women who desire to become registered pharmacists under the law of the State of Minnesota which now includes graduation from a recognized college of pharmacy. (Four year course.)

College of Education: A college specializing in the preparation of men and women to serve as teachers in Minnesota high schools, as supervisors, principals or superintendents of Minnesota public schools, or as college teachers. (Two and three year courses.)

Graduate School: The unit of the University of Minnesota in which students who have been granted the bachelor's degree at the completion of a four year course may continue their studies along some specialized line, leading to graduate degrees.

School of Business Administration: A collegiate division of the University in which are offered the courses of economics, accounting, marketing and allied subjects, together with specialized training that particularly fits the student to enter the business field. (Two year course.)

Library Instruction: In 1929 a Division of Library Instruction was instituted, under the direction of the University Librarian, to train workers for duties in high school, college, and public libraries. (One year course.)

University College: This is a college for students who have special objectives not provided for in the regular college curricula. With the advice and sanction of the University College Committee these students may be permitted to pursue programs of work best adapted to their individual needs and purposes. As a rule students enter this college only after one or more years of attendance at the University. The degree of B.A. or B.S. is granted upon the satisfactory completion of an approved course of study.

General College: This college is made up in its curriculum entirely of broad, survey courses of the various fields of man's knowledge and activity. It is designed to give a two year general education, a foundation in the humanities at the university level which is terminated by the Associate in Arts degree for those who cannot take a longer course. It is, also, purposed that this college shall serve to give a broad foundation of knowledge for further specialized work and to help students arrive at an understanding of themselves and their capacities so that they can make out a reasonable future educational and vocational plan. (Two year course.)

Center for Continuation Study: A center in which students live and work together under one roof during their period of residence on the campus. It is a continuation school designed to provide further education over relatively short periods of time for those who have already received the usual professional, technical, and general instruction in the regular schools and colleges.

University Extension: In addition to giving instructions in the above school and colleges, the University renders two very significant services to the people of the state. First, it conducts many instruction services off the campus. During 1937-38 9,116 students received regular instruction in classes of the General Extension Division maintained by the University during the evening hours. Some of these were maintained in Minneapolis, others in St. Paul, others in Duluth, others in Hibbing, and so on throughout the more populous centers of the state. These courses provide credit toward graduation from the University to students who have complied with the entrance requirements.

In addition, there were 2,949 students who took regular work by correspondence, 612 who enrolled in general extension short courses, and 2,551 others who took work in agricultural short courses.

Finally, primarily in the interest of those students who desire to fit themselves for the pursuit of agriculture and yet have not finished high school and therefore are not entitled to enter the University classes, the University conducts work of less than college grade at five different centers. In these schools there were last year 1,811 students enrolled.

Besides the phases of instruction off the campus already mentioned, which carry the University's services throughout the state by means of short courses, extension and correspondence work, visual instruction, community service, and the like, the work of the Four-H clubs and the Home Demonstration agents of the Department of Agriculture serves further to extend the institution's effectiveness throughout Minnesota.

Institute of Child Welfare: Under a ten-year grant from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial, a foundation, the Institute of Child Welfare is conducting an effective and practical series of investigations into the habits, abilities, and methods of training and educating young children, and is publicizing these findings through extension classes, lectures, and bulletins.

Research: Continuous researches that extend the boundaries of knowledge and solve, or help find solution for, urgent problems of health, agriculture, education, business and the like, are conducted by University specialists. Examples of the effectiveness of research may be found in the development of new crop varieties, fruits and berries; in discovering means to resist plant disease, ways of planting areas with peculiar soils; remedies for animal diseases such as mineral deficiency or contagious abortion, black-leg or hog cholera, or the diseases of fowls. Contributions of research workers under the Medical School and Mayo Foundation are nationally recognized, as are many of the contributions to educational science produced at Minnesota. Researches looking to the solution of the problem of marketing low-grade iron ore as commercial material will eventually add hundreds of millions of dollars to the state's resources.

Special Services: The Minnesota tax commission employs the expert services of members of the University staff in valuing ore deposits and in placing valuation on the properties of public service corporations of some kinds. The University also provides laboratory space on the campus for the State Highway Department. It conducts at Excelsior, Minnesota, the state fruit breeding station, operates a Forest Experiment Station at Cloquet and a State Experimental Creamery at Albert Lea. It supervises the work of county agents, wherever situated in the state, and pays their salaries in part. It conducts numerous annual short courses in agriculture, chief among them being Farmers and Homemakers Week, and the yearly short course for Editors. On the main campus short courses are conducted for physicians, dentists, morticians, and the like. The secretary of the League of Minnesota Municipalities is a member of the University staff. Schoolmen's Week, conducted annually by the College of Education, with the co-operation of the State Department of Education, offers special opportunities for teachers, principals, supervisors, and superintendents to hear the ideas of national leaders in education. Statewide athletic events are conducted by the Department of Physical Education and Athletics. The Statewide High School Music Contest has been an event of recent years.

MINNESOTA'S GOVERNMENT

Minnesota, known as the NORTH STAR STATE because of the fact that the Northwest Angle is the northernmost land in the United States, has a government similar to the other States of the Union.

The territory of Minnesota was organized in 1849. By adoption of the State Constitution in 1857, territorial government was changed to State government and, in conformity with the National Constitution, the Legislative, Judicial, and Executive branches were established. The Legislative to make the laws, the Judicial to interpret the laws, and the Executive to enforce the laws.

As conditions have changed in the past 79 years, Minnesota, being a liberal state, has broadened and extended the powers and duties of its government toward the regulation of public and private industry to the common good and to the giving of additional opportunity to the veterans of all wars and their dependents, to the mentally and physically handicapped, to the aged, to the destitute and needy, and to the youth of the State.

The State Constitution, as amended, provides for the present form of government. Amendments are submitted by the State Legislature to a State-wide referendum which requires a majority of all votes cast at that election to become in force and effect.

The Legislative branch of government is composed of two houses . . . the Senate and the House of Representatives. There are 67 Legislative Districts, each of which elects one member to the State Senate and from one to four members to the House, making a total of 67 State Senators and 131 House Members.

Both Senators and Representatives are paid $1,000.00 each for each two year period; the Senators being elected for four years and the Representatives for two.

There have been 50 regular sessions of the State Legislature; the 51st will convene in the first week of January, 1939, in the State Capitol, St. Paul, with succeeding sessions every two years.

No session of the Legislature shall exceed the term of ninety Legislative days. All bills having to do with the raising of a revenue must originate in the House of Representatives.

Each House provides the rules for its own conduct and no member can be questioned for any speech or debate in either house.

Special sessions are called on extraordinary occasions by the Governor.

The Legislature makes all appropriations for the expenses of the various State Departments and their activities, and, usually as its last act before adjournment, establishes the rate of taxation for State purposes and authorizes the State Auditor to certify it to the various county auditors.

The executive branch of government is headed by the Governor and composed of the Lieutenant Governor, the Attorney General, the State Auditor, the Secretary of State, and the State Treasurer. Their duties are fixed by the Constitution and by statute.

An executive officer is not subject to the control or direction of the judiciary in the performance of his duties.

All of the members of the executive branch of government serve for two years, excepting the State Auditor whose term is four years.

All are elected by popular election, as is the Clerk of the Supreme Court, who serves for a four year term.

The Lieutenant Governor is President of the Senate and receives the same salary as a State Senator. In case of a vacancy in the Governor's office the Lieutenant Governor becomes Chief Executive.

The Senate at each session chooses a president pro tempore who, should a vacancy occur, becomes Lieutenant Governor.

The Judicial Branch of the State government consists of the Supreme Court and District Courts. The counties and municipal sub-divisions have their own Probate Courts, Municipal Courts, Conciliation Courts, and Justices of the Peace. The duties and functions of the courts are established by the Constitution and by statute. The judges are elective.

Minnesota's Railroad and Warehouse Commission, consisting of three members, all chosen by popular vote, has administrative authority over regulations governing railroads, telephone, street railway systems, stockyards, grain inspection, and associated activities.

Five constitutional officers—the Governor, the Attorney General, the State Auditor, the Secretary of State, and the State Treasurer constitute the State Executive Council, which exercises duties delegated by the State Legislature such as the transfer of title to State lands, the extension of State benefits under Social Security Legislation and the distribution of relief necessitated by calamities such as fire, flood, drouth, and famine.

The same group, with the substitution of the President of the University Board of Regents for the Secretary of State, constitutes the State Investment Board which handles the investment of all State funds, including the public trust funds, most of which is loaned to the secondary sub-divisions of Government within the State.

The Governor, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and the Attorney General constitute the State Pardon Board.

The heads of all other State Departments, such as Highway, Rural Credits, Conservation, Education, Administration and Finance, Tax Commission, and Board of Control are appointed by the Governor.

The Department of Motor Vehicle Licenses is under the Secretary of State and the Highway Patrol under the Commissioner of Highways.

The Highway Commissioner, the State Treasurer, and the State Auditor constitute the State Board of Allotment which apportions, according to Legislative instruction, the income from Motor Vehicle and Gasoline taxes to the various counties and to the Highway Department.

Minnesota has 87 counties, all of which have a Board of County Commissioners, an Auditor, a Treasurer, a Register of Deeds, a County Attorney, a Surveyor, a Coroner, a Judge of Probate, a Clerk of Court, a Superintendent of Schools, and in most counties, Court Commissioners. The pay of these county officers is not uniform and varies according to the county.

Minnesota is a large State, the eleventh in size in the Union. It has an average length of about 350 miles from north to south and an average width of 240 miles. It comprises 84,286 square miles and has a total land acreage of almost exactly 51,750,000 acres, divided on a ratio of three to five between native prairie and native forest land. It contains 5,637 square miles of lakes and rivers, or one-tenth of its entire acreage. It lies from 600 ft. to 2,300 ft. above sea level and possesses, according to Federal health reports, an ideal climate.

The original exploration of the State was begun in the middle of the 17th century and the first settlement was made at the outlet of Lake Pepin in 1689.

Its public domain was received through eight separate trust grants from the Federal Government comprising more than 8½ million acres, as follows:

For Public Schools.....	2,976,454 acres
For College of Agriculture.....	120,000 acres
For the State University.....	91,524 acres
For Internal Improvements.....	496,482 acres
For Public Buildings.....	6,400 acres
For Educational and Charitable purposes.....	4,709,038 acres
For a Geological Survey	23,000 acres
For an Experimental Forest.....	20,000 acres

The income from the sale and lease of these lands and Occupation Tax on iron ore gives to Minnesota a Public Trust Fund, as of June 30, 1938, in the vast sum of $97,967,089.78.

With the exception of Texas and its wealth of oil it is the largest public trust fund of any State in the Union. It is reasonable to expect that it will increase yet another $35,000,000.00. Under the Constitution, the principal of this fund is forever inviolate and undiminished. The interest is used for the purposes of the original trust. As a result Minnesota has the nation's second largest State University, a nationally known Agricultural School, six complete and well-equipped teachers' training colleges and a public school system recognized to be the finest in America and represented by more than 9,000 separate public school buildings. There still remains in the public domain 2,048,785.12 acres of land.

Minnesota produces 60% of the iron ore of the United States. Average production for several years was more than 45,000,000 tons and in 1929 the tonnage was 47,484,316 tons. The fundamental source for the iron and steel industry of America is found on the great Mesabe and Cuyana Iron Ranges of Minnesota.

On State owned land Minnesota has 27 opened mines. One of these, the Mesabe Mountain, covering 160 acres, still contains nearly 20,000,000 tons of commercial ore. It has already yielded to the permanent school fund more than $15,000,000.00.

There are approximately 12,760,000 tons of low-grade ore in stock piles awaiting concentration. Already 39 plants have been erected for the treatment of low-grade ores with the result that about 35% of Minnesota's iron ore is first beneficiated.

From the deposits of manganiferous ores of the Cuyana Range alone may be satisfied the nation's need for manganese.

Evidence of gold, silver, and copper is found on many State owned lands.

The quarries of Minnesota produce granite, marble, limestone, jasper, sandstone, and travertine equal in quality, variety, color and texture to any in the United States.

The clay and shale deposits produce high-grade pottery, tile and brick of many classifications, as well as cement.

The "Northwest Angle" contains large deposits of high-grade feldspar and mica.

It has been estimated that there are more than six and three-quarter billion tons of fuel peat in Minnesota, a large portion of which is found on State Trust Fund Lands.

Minnesota has 21 State Parks and 10 Monument Sites, 31 State Forests, and three Federal Forests. Here more than 10,000 lakes provide some of the best fishing and recreational facilities in the United States. Canadian boundary waters provide the finest canoe country in America, through the only remaining wilderness east of the Rocky Mountains.

Minnesota's highway system is composed of 2,643.98 miles of pavement, 3,262.64 miles of other types of hard surfacing (bituminous), 4,765.3 miles of gravel, and 106,101 miles of secondary roads (14,290 miles State Aid; 16,241 miles County Aid; and 75,570 miles Township Aid).

Minnesota is the greatest butter producing State in the Union.

Minnesota is the leader in co-operative marketing, having some 4,000 farmers' co-operative associations.

Within the State are churches and cathedrals of all denominations numbering 5,132.

Minnesota manufactures more flour than any other State. The largest flour mills in the world are at the Falls of St. Anthony in Minneapolis.

From the standpoint of tonnage, Duluth is the second largest port in America.

The third largest stockyards in the United States are at South St. Paul.

The country's largest State Fair is at Hamline between Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Minnesota has more than 250,000 farms and despite drouth or other unnatural conditions, has never known a complete crop failure.

The timber industry, which has seen its best days in the Midwestern States, is still important in Minnesota. One of the world's finest utilization plants is located at Cloquet. Minnesota's reforestation program promises to keep the State in the lumber producing stage for an indefinite period.

Minnesota's wealth of natural resources, her agricultural, business and educational opportunities makes Minnesota a leader in homes and farms, in education and roads, and provides a veritable Paradise for him who seeks outdoor recreation.

The liberality of her laws and her government makes her a leader in humanitarian democracy.

MINNESOTA STATE INSTITUTIONS

Willmar State Hospital. This institution was established by the legislature of 1907 as a hospital farm for inebriates. In order to provide funds for the purchase of land and the construction of buildings, the act provided for the levying of a tax of two per cent upon all license fees for the sale of intoxicating liquor. The original institution was opened in 1912. In 1917 the act was amended to provide for the care of the chronic insane, and the same year 91 patients were transferred to the institution from the Fergus Falls, Rochester and St. Peter state hospitals. In 1919 the name of the institution was changed to the Willmar State Asylum, and, again, in 1937 to the Willmar State Hospital. The treatment of inebriates has been continued, but the larger part of the population is composed of insane patients. The buildings include an administration building with two wings for patients, seven cottages for men, six cottages for women, superintendent's cottage, service building and assembly hall, power house, laundry, farm buildings and cottages for the farmer and the engineer. Inmate population, 1,431; land area, 706 acres; officers and employees, 137; value of land and buildings, $1,649,072. Superintendent, M. C. Petersen, M.D.

Rochester State Hospital. This institution was created by an act of the legislature in 1875 as the Asylum for Inebriates. Two years later the law was amended and the name changed to the Second State Hospital for the Insane. The amendment provided for a special department for the treatment of inebriates. This department was abolished by the legislature in 1897. The hospital was opened in 1879 with 68 patients transferred from the St. Peter State Hospital. The buildings comprising the institution include an administration building with wings for patients, two detached ward buildings for patients, detention or psychopathic hospital, isolation hospital, nurses' homes for men and women, laundry, storehouse, industrial pavilion, and a central power plant. The farm group consists of barns, garages, slaughter house, piggery, poultry plant, granary, blacksmith shop, greenhouse and cottages for employes. Inmate population, 1,594; land area, 1,360 acres; officers and employes, 244; value of land and buildings, $1,282,248. Superintendent, B. F. Smith, M.D.

St. Peter State Hospital. This is the oldest state institution for the insane. The legislature in 1863 authorized the Governor to place in the Iowa State Hospital not to exceed 25 destitute insane persons. Later on a few patients were sent to St. Vincent's Institution for Insane, St. Louis. In 1866 the legislature enacted a law providing for the establishment and location of a hospital for the insane. A farm of 210 acres was purchased by citizens of St. Peter and conveyed to the state. In order to provide temporary care for the patients, the state purchased an old building that had been used as a hotel in St. Peter. Nineteen patients, previously sent to the Iowa State Hospital, were transferred to St. Peter in December, 1866. The contract for the first building of the present institution was awarded in 1867. The hospital consists of a main building with two wings, detached ward buildings for men and women patients, cottage for women patients, cottage for male workers, detention or psychopathic hospital, tuberculosis hospital, industrial building, three dormitories for men and women employes, superintendent's cottage, steward's building, a complete set of farm buildings, and cottages for the farmer, engineer and assistant engineer. The Asylum for the Dangerous Insane, with accommodations for 287 dangerous and criminal insane, is operated in conjunction with this institution. Inmate population, 1,926; land area, 865 acres; officers and employes, 330; value of land and buildings, $1,970,105. Superintendent, Geo. H. Freeman, M.D.

School for Feeble-Minded and Colony for Epileptics, Faribault. The legislature in 1879 authorized the Board of Directors of the Minnesota Institute for Deaf, Dumb and Blind to open an experimental department for feeble-minded children. In July of that year a small class was organized with 15 children transferred from the Rochester and St. Peter state hospitals. In 1881 the legislature directed that the School for Idiots and Imbeciles be connected with the Minnesota Institute for Deaf, Dumb and Blind, and granted an appropriation of $25,000 for the erection of a building. This building was occupied the following year. In 1887 the school was made a department of the Minnesota Institute for Defectives. The present name was adopted in 1905. The buildings include an administration building with wings, several custodial buildings for boys and girls, a cottage for working boys, a cottage for boys employed at the dairy, Hillcrest Cottage for boys, Riverview Cottage for girls, general hospital, central kitchen and bakery, laundry, power house, superintendent's cottage, and building for women employes. The farm group includes modern dairy barns with accommodations for 120 cows. It is the largest state institution. Inmate population, 2,414; land area, 1,183 acres; officers and employes, 352; value of land and buildings, $2,982,091. Superintendent, E. J. Engberg, M.D.

School for the Blind, Faribault. The school was created by the legislature in 1864 as a department of the Minnesota Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind. The first class was organized in 1866. A separate building for the blind was authorized in 1874. In 1887 the legislature provided that the school be maintained as a department of the Minnesota Institute for Defectives. The name of the institution was changed to the Minnesota School for the Blind in 1902. It is located on a high bluff overlooking the river and the city, with spacious grounds, pleasant walks and abundant shade trees. Its opportunities are free to all blind persons, or those who have not sufficient sight to pursue their studies in the public schools, who are residents of the state, between the age of six and 21 years, and who are capable of profiting by instruction. The school year extends from September to June. Schools for adult blind men and women are maintained during the summer months. In these schools the principal emphasis is placed upon industrial and vocational training. The school cooperates with the Division of the Blind of the Board of Control in its work of aiding and assisting the blind of the state. The main building includes the administrative offices, schoolrooms, quarters for employes, kitchen and dining rooms, and dormitories for girls. There are two cottages for boys, a superintendent's cottage, an industrial building, a hospital, and a laundry. Population, 115; land area, 50 acres; officers and employes, 62; value of land and buildings, $265,700. Superintendent, J. C. Lysen.

School for the Deaf, Faribault. This institution was established by act of the legislature in 1858 under the name of the Minnesota State Institute for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb. It was opened in 1863, with eight pupils in attendance the first year. In 1864 the name was changed to the Minnesota Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind. The first class for the blind was organized in 1866. In 1879 the legislature authorized the board of directors to open an experimental department for feeble-minded children. Fifteen children were transferred from the Rochester and St. Peter hospitals to Faribault in July, 1879. In 1887 the name of the institution was changed to the Minnesota Institute for Defectives, the act providing for the maintenance of separate departments for the blind, deaf and feeble-minded. Separate buildings were provided for the blind in 1874 and for the feeble-minded in 1882. The present name of the institution, Minnesota School for the Deaf, was adopted in 1902.

Minnesota has a compulsory education law for the deaf, and all children of the state between six and 20 years of age, too deaf or too dumb or defective of speech to be materially benefited by the methods of instruction in vogue in the public schools, and who are not taught in a private school or in a school having a special teacher for the deaf, are required to attend the School for the Deaf until discharged by the superintendent upon approval of the Board of Control. As in the case of the School for the Blind, the only expense is for clothing, postage and transportation.

The buildings are an administration building with wings (known as Tate Hall), Barron Hall, Noyes Hall (consisting of an auditorium, school building and library), gymnasium, service building, bakery, hospital, trades building, power house and the farm group. Population, 305; land area, 116 acres; officers and employes, 104; value of land and buildings, $756,879. Superintendent, Leonard M. Elstad.

Colony for Epileptics, Cambridge. The legislature in 1919 authorized the State Board of Control to select from the public lands of the state sites for a colony for feeble-minded and a colony for epileptics. In 1923 the law was amended to permit the purchase of a site for a colony for epileptics. Land was secured at Cambridge and the institution opened in 1925. It is the newest state institution. The buildings are an administration center group, consisting of the front main center building for administrative offices and quarters for officers and employes, a rear center building, including dining rooms for patients and employes, kitchen, bakery and quarters for employes, and ward buildings at either side of the front main center for sleeping quarters, day rooms, etc., for inmates; ten cottages for patients; central power plant; garage; root cellar; and cottages for the head farmer and the steward. The first unit of a dairy barn has been completed. Inmate population, 1,104; land area, 359 acres; officers and employes, 156; value of land and buildings, $1,631,483. Superintendent, D. E. McBroom, M.D.

State Public School, Owatonna. This school, created by the legislature in 1885, was opened at Owatonna in 1886. Dependent, neglected and ill-treated children under 15 years of age, who are normal mentally and free from disease, are eligible to admission on order of the probate and juvenile courts and by transfer from private institutions which are authorized by the Board of Control to receive and find homes for children. The main building consists of a central section with north and south wings and enlarged dining rooms. There are 14 cottages (including a nursery for babies and younger children), a service building, schoolhouse, gymnasium, superintendent's residence, laundry, power house, cottages for employes, greenhouse and sundry farm buildings. Population, 433; children in homes or under supervision, 728; land area, 329 acres; officers and employes, 131; value of land and buildings, $981,976. Superintendent, M. R. Vevle.

Training School for Boys, Red Wing. This institution was created by an act of the legislature in 1867. It was first located in St. Paul, but was moved to Red Wing in 1890. It occupies a beautiful site overlooking the Mississippi river. Prior to 1911 both boys and girls were sent to this school. Commitments to the institution cover incorrigibles up to the age of 18 years. All boys committed are under the care of the institution until they attain their majority unless their conduct is such as to warrant a full discharge at an earlier date. The institution maintains a good-sized farm, a dairy herd of 50 cows, and a school of letters with a principal and six teachers. Vocational training, under competent instructors, is given in blacksmithing, carpentry and cabinet-making, baking, cooking, and meat-cutting, painting, plumbing and pipe-fitting, printing, truck-driving, and maintenance. The buildings consist of an administration building which houses the offices, storerooms and two families of boys, six cottages for inmates, school house, auditorium and gymnasium, industrial building, hospital, cottages for the superintendent, the steward and the head farmer, and the farm group. A new cottage for boys, authorized by the 1937 Legislature, will be opened in August, 1938. Inmate population, 445; paroled inmates, 442; land area, 560 acres; officers and employes, 80; value of land and buildings, $758,618. Superintendent, H. E. Hegstrom.

Home School for Girls, Sauk Center. This institution was established by the legislature in 1907. It was opened in 1911. Prior to that time it was conducted in connection with the Training School for Boys at Red Wing. It is admirably located on a tract of wooded and farm land, with Sauk lake, a beautiful body of water, in proximity. Though custodial in character, the institution is a home in every sense of the word. A large farm is operated in connection with the institution. Farming, gardening, dairying, canning of fruits and vegetables, butter-making and cheese-making are extensively carried on by the girls. The buildings include an administration building, receiving cottage and hospital, numerous cottages for girls, chapel, a modern school building containing rooms for regular and special courses, offices and a large auditorium, and adequate farm buildings to house the large dairy herd. The hospital is one of most modern arrangement. Inmate population, 288; inmates on parole, 154; land area, 512 acres; officers and employes, 80; value of land and buildings, $707,580. Superintendent, Inez B. Patterson.

State Reformatory, St. Cloud. The legislature in 1885 appointed a commission to find a location for a second state prison. The site of the present institution, near St. Cloud, was selected. The legislature in 1887 enacted a law creating the Minnesota State Reformatory and providing that only first offenders between the ages of 16 and 30 years should be committed to this institution. It was opened in 1889. Located on the extensive grounds is one of the finest granite quarries in the state. From this quarry has been taken practically all the stone used in the construction of the institution buildings, and the quarrying, cutting and placing of the stone have been done entirely by the inmates. The woodworking industry turns out sash, doors, blinds, screens, storm sash and furniture for state institutions. In the factory attached to the institution is made nearly all of the men's clothing used in the state institutions. There are various other shops. An extensive farm is operated in connection with the institution, and the establishment of a farm colony where some 50 men employed in the farm department are housed has proved a decided success. The institution consists of an administration building containing offices and a chapel, six cell houses for inmates, hospital, central power plant, superintendent's residence, and additions, including kitchens, bakery, dining rooms, shops and storerooms. The grounds are enclosed by a wall of granite. The walled enclosure, containing 55 acres, is one of the largest in America. Inmate population, 995; inmates on parole, 428; land area, 1,057 acres; officers and employes, 154; value of land and buildings, $1,994,453. Superintendent, H. B. Whittier.

State Reformatory for Women, Shakopee. The State Reformatory for Women, created by the legislature in 1915, and located at Shakopee on a beautiful site overlooking the Minnesota river, was opened in 1920. At that time all women inmates of the State Prison were transferred to this institution. It serves as a reformatory and as a prison for women offenders. The institution has a fine farm, a large portion of which is under cultivation. It is planned to interest the women in gardening, dairying, buttermaking, and so on. Women's and children's clothing for other state institutions is now being made by the inmates of this institution, and it is planned to enlarge this industry. The buildings are an administration building and reception hospital, known as Isabel Higbee Hall, which includes offices, hospital and medical section, industrial workrooms, kitchen, dining rooms for officers and inmates, officers' bedrooms, and 20 rooms for inmates; three cottages for inmates; and cottages for the farmer and the engineer. Inmate population, 79; inmates on parole, 23; land area, 167 acres; officers and employes, 19; value of land and buildings, $296,933. Superintendent, Estelle Jamieson.

State Prison, Stillwater. The Minnesota State Prison at Stillwater, the oldest state institution, was originally founded in 1851. The new prison, built on the most approved lines of prison architecture and stated by experts to be the most modern institution of its kind in the world, was opened in 1912. The buildings consist of an administration building and connecting corridors containing offices of the warden and assistants, an office for use of the boards of control and parole, reception room, barber shop, telephone exchange, rooms for officers and guests, officers' kitchen and dining rooms, schoolrooms and lecture halls, library, printing office where the "Mirror," the newspaper published by the inmates, is printed, and space for the Bertillon and fingerprint systems used in the identification of criminals; two large cell houses, each containing 512 cells; a modern prison hospital, chapel, central power plant, greenhouse, and residences for the warden and other officers. Space is provided for two subsidiary cell houses, one of which has been completed, thus providing accommodations for 1,224 inmates. The industrial group includes the twine factory, a three-story and basement building 360 feet in length; a warehouse, 360 feet long, for the storage of raw material and manufactured twine; a main factory building of the same size for the farm machinery plant, containing machine shop, woodworking and assembling departments; foundry, 180 feet by 100 feet; blacksmith shop, steel storage house, and three large warehouses for storage of manufactured machines. Inmate population, 1,398; inmates on parole, 309; land area, 1,000 acres; officers and employes, institution proper, 178; and industries, 118; value of land and buildings, $3,153,399. Warden, L. F. Utecht.

Sanatorium for Consumptives, Ah-Gwah-Ching. This state institution, created by the legislature in 1903, admitted its first patient on December 28, 1907. It is situated on a beautiful wooded tract overlooking Leech lake. In 1922 the Board of Control authorized the purchase of 200 acres located about 10 miles from the sanatorium to be used for farm and garden purposes. The buildings consist of a main or administration building, infirmary, service building (including kitchen, bakery, dining rooms and quarters for employes), recreation building, numerous cottages for patients, cottages for the superintendent and the assistant superintendent, nurses' home, greenhouse, cottage for head carpenter, and sundry farm buildings. In August, 1935, an Indian Annex was added to the present property. The bed capacity of the Sanatorium has grown from an original 55 beds in 1907 to 480 beds at the present time. Number of patients, 360; land area, 881 acres; officers and employes, 214; value of land and buildings, $1,091,988. Superintendent, H. A. Burns, M.D.

Gillette State Hospital for Crippled Children, St. Paul, Minnesota has the distinction of being the first of the states to attempt the treatment of indigent crippled and deformed children at public expense. The legislature in 1897 granted an appropriation of $5,000 to be used for this purpose. Arrangements were made to have the children cared for at the City and County Hospital, St. Paul. The present institution was authorized by act of the legislature in 1907, and was opened in 1911. The medical and surgical staff is made up of the foremost specialists of St. Paul and Minneapolis. These men are on call at all times, and the services given these poor children are entirely gratuitous and unlimited. The resident medical and surgical staff is composed of students from the University of Minnesota graduate and undergraduate schools. The buildings are the main building with large additions, power plant and laundry, and a service building containing central kitchen, bakery, dining room, root cellar, storerooms, steward's office and rooms for 22 employes. A school building, known as the Michael J. Dowling Memorial Hall, is used for the education and training of indigent crippled and deformed children of the state of Minnesota. The sum of $50,000, representing one-half the cost of this building, was donated by the Minnesota Editorial Association and the Minnesota Bankers Association. Number of patients, 236; land area, 23 acres; officers and employes, 171; value of land and buildings, $607,272. Superintendent, Elizabeth McGregor.

Moose Lake State Hospital, Moose Lake. The Legislature, in 1935, enacted a law authorizing the appointment of a commission of five members to select, in northeastern Minnesota, a site for a fourth state hospital for the insane. The commission selected land adjacent to the village of Moose Lake. The legislature, at its special session of 1935-36, confirmed the location, and directed the State Board of Control to purchase the land and proceed with the construction of buildings. The institution, located on a beautiful site overlooking Moosehead Lake and the village of Moose Lake, is planned for an ultimate capacity of 2,000 patients; the administration, medical center, receiving wards for men and women, kitchen, bakery, laundry, powerhouse, and sewage disposal units, at present being sufficiently large to care for this number. In addition to these buildings, there have been erected four dormitories for patients, a nurses' home and a superintendent's residence. A large dairy barn is under construction. A penal camp, with 40 to 50 inmates from the State Reformatory, has been established on the institution property. At this camp is a horse barn, dairy barn, blacksmith shop, and the camp building. There are five farm dwellings in good condition, one of which houses the farm superintendent; the others, the guards at the camp. The inmates of this camp are engaged in clearing and improving the land for farm purposes. The first patients were received by transfer from other institutions for the insane in May, 1938. Direct commitment of patients from fourteen counties located in northeastern Minnesota has been authorized, beginning August 15, 1938. Inmate population, 175; land area, 1,605 acres; officers and employes, 45; value of land and buildings, $1,561,572. Superintendent, M. W. Kemp, M.D.

PRIMARY ELECTION RETURNS

OF ELECTION HELD

JUNE 20TH, 1938

The returns on the following pages show the votes cast by counties for the various candidates for the several State Officers, Representatives in Congress on the Farmer-Labor, Republican and Democratic Tickets, and Chief and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court, Judges of the District Court and Senators and Representatives in the Legislature, without party designation, at the State Primaries on June 20, 1938. The amended primary law of 1913 provides that where a candidate for the nomination for a partisan office has no opposition, or where there are only two candidates for an office without party designation, the name shall not appear on the Primary Ballot and that they shall be deemed to be the nominees. This is the reason that the names of some candidates do not appear in the tables.
