DEDICATION

Not unmindful of the gallant service of all Minnesotans in the armies of the United States in the Civil War and Indian Wars, I take special pleasure in dedicating the 1963-1964 Legislative Manual to the First Minnesota Regiment, reciting the praise given by Governor Stephen Miller in his communication to the Senate and House of Representatives on February 11, 1864:

"No regiment in the army of the union has participated in a greater number of battles, achieved a more honorable distinction, or reflected a brighter reputation upon the State which it represented, and I respectfully suggest the adoption of such measures by your honorable bodies as will give to these returning veterans such a reception as is due to their deeds and renown upon a score of bloody fields."

The century that has passed since the First Regiment covered itself with glory at Gettysburg and elsewhere has not dimmed the grateful memory of the people of this State and the Nation for their bravery and sacrificial losses in the cause of freedom and national unity.

FOREWORD

The 1963-1964 Legislative Manual continues the story of Minnesota.

Over the years the manual has evolved from a pocket-sized handbook for legislators to a modern reference book on Minnesota state government. The statutes require that this issue follow the same general pattern as previous ones, but within that broad directive an effort has been made to expand the current book's basic information about the state. To a great extent this expansion has been influenced by the many requests for information that have come to my attention since the last issue was published.

The objective of the Legislative Manual is to make available impartial and accurate information about the state to its citizens. The materials in this issue have been revised (including changes brought about by new legislation) and in some cases reorganized to make them more accessible to persons not familiar with the structure of government in Minnesota. New feature articles have been included and basic materials have been revised and expanded in an attempt to interest and inform all types of users.

In a very real sense this volume represents the cooperation of many persons and agencies. I wish to acknowledge my indebtedness to all of them and, in particular, to thank the authors of the special articles and Mr. Edward A. Howe, who compiled the manual under my supervision.

Minnesota and Its People

Physiographic Features

Minnesota is a big state. It is twelfth largest of the fifty and second largest of those east of the Mississippi River. Enclosed within its borders are some 84,068 square miles and 53,803,520 acres. From the tip of the Northwest Angle, protruding into Canada, to the Iowa border its north-south extent is some 405 miles. Its broadest east-west line is one of 350 miles running from the tip of the Arrowhead in Cook County to the Red River of the North on the North Dakota border. It is narrowest along a line of some 180 miles reaching from Wisconsin to the South Dakota border.

Within those 84,068 square miles lies a domain remarkable for variations of topography, soil composition, vegetation, and human adaptation of nature which makes this state remarkable among the many. The mental picture of Minnesota possessed by most of the citizens of the nation is that which originated from the geography texts of another day. Those books illustrated and told of great bonanza farms on which were planted and harvested immense fields of wheat through the use of giant machines. While at one time true of a portion of Minnesota, that of our fertile Red River Valley, it is no longer accurate as to there or to the state as a whole.

Minnesota is now rapidly developing into an economic and social complex much different from an area distinguished by almost total dependence upon agriculture for the economic well being of its people.

It still is true that the fertility of our farm acres constitutes one of the major resources of the state. That fertility is so marked as to place our state in second or third in the nation with regard to the number of acres of good or excellent soil. It was this fertility which brought to us the largest proportion of our early settlers, which constitutes the solid backbone of our economy today, and which promises a stable livelihood for our people in the future.

That fertility had its origin in varied causes. Most dominant was the impact of the glaciers which came down from the north, leveling off many high points of land, and, when receding, depositing from a few inches to many feet of top soil.

Over much of the state the receding glaciers left large bodies of water, much larger and more numerous than the state now has. Vegetation growing and decaying in them resulted in rich black soil being deposited inch by inch over the ages. Not least important was the grass and other plant life which grew on Minnesota's land during the same and subsequent periods. Year after year, roots and stems and leaves took all the gifts which Nature here afforded them and translated them into nutrient soil elements, which gave Minnesotans a giant bank on which they drew large dividends during the first century of their agricultural use of the land.

One of the current problems of greatest importance, one which Minnesotans are just beginning to appreciate as requiring concerted action, is that of conserving that bank account of fertility so that it may provide continued dividends in the future.

Not all of Minnesota possesses this fertile soil. In fact, there are northeastern portions of the state which had their top soil stolen by the glaciers for subsequent deposit to the south. Sometimes bare rock protrudes in this area. Sometimes sand and gravel constitute most of the surface of the land.

Nature hates a vacuum. The result has been that, where grass did not grow readily, trees found their place in which to thrive. So it was that many of the early immigrants came not with seed and a plow but with an ax and a peavey. The tall pine which covered better than a third of the state waved an invitation to Paul Bunyan and his crew with the result that from 1835 to 1935 billions of board feet of pine lumber moved out of this region into other parts of the state and nation.

Now, in place of the Norway and White pine trees there are birch and aspen, spruce and fir, willow and jack pine. This seems a loss to the state's subsequent generations. In part it is, and because such is the case reforestation in terms of hundreds of millions of pine seedlings is under way, to replace those trees man has removed. That work has only well begun.

Even as the replanting process has been instituted, large investments of time and money have been made to cause the smaller and faster growing trees, which have grown up among the pine stumps, to serve the use of man. The paper pulp plant has in large degree replaced the great band saw mills of 1900. Wood is ground to fiber, mixed with chemicals, and so reconstituted as to serve multiple applications in an ever changing market. Timber growth continues, as it will for sometime to come, to be the dominant surface feature of northeastern Minnesota.

Applying to both soil and forest and their uses is the availability of water. Minnesota is quite unique among the states in its claim to being a continental divide. Not far from Hibbing, Minnesota, the National Geologic Survey has found a point at which some of the rainwater which falls, flows north to the Hudson Bay and Arctic area, some flows east to the Atlantic via the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River, and some south to the Mississippi and the Gulf of Mexico.

This location at the headwaters offers both advantages and disadvantages. An advantage is that Minnesota's streams are not so large as to possess the same threat of highly destructive floods as is true of the same waters farther downstream. A disadvantage is that they do not contain sufficient body to furnish the power and carrying capacity which larger rivers do have.

From the point of view of the early explorers and fur traders, these streams with their many liquid fingers stretching over the surface of the land, supplied a virtue of exceeding value. They gave these early travelers a water highway by which nearly all parts of the state could be reached with paddle and canoe. The sportsman and recreation seeker of today rejoice in the streams for quite other reasons. They put them to good use for hunting, fishing, and just a way to use a boat.

With respect to topography, more outstanding than Minnesota's streams are its lakes. They are variously numbered from 10,000 to 22,000. No one knows for sure how many there are because the state is still not completely mapped and one man's definition of what constitutes a lake varies from that of another. There is only one other state in the nation which can truthfully contest Minnesota's dominance in the number of lakes possessed or the proportion or acreage of surface within her borders covered by lake water.

These lakes, particularly dominant in that portion of the state formerly noted for its pine trees, are notable for their clear, cool waters, their sandy beaches, their forest clad shores, and their sportive wild life found on, near, and under their surfaces. Should any ten Minnesotans be asked to identify the outstanding feature of the geography of their state, eight of the ten would quite probably name the lakes as being that feature.

However, Minnesota waters are by no means limited to rivers and lakes. Probably of equal importance are the waters found underground. While the supply varies greatly both as to depth, amount, and quality according to what part of the state is drilled for water, most of Minnesota has, within ready reach of the well driller's tools, good water, cool, clean, and in great quantity. This supply has done much in the past and will do much more in the future to assure the state of healthy people, thriving trade, and expanding industry.

Minnesota's climate is relatively warm in summer, cold in winter, marked by frequent change due to cyclonic storms (not to be confused with tornados) with precipitation varying from about twenty to thirty inches of rainfall a year. Most of the precipitation comes to the state airborne from the Gulf of Mexico. This results in the southeastern portion of the state having considerably heavier rainfall than the northwestern portion.

Minnesota's climate is the cause of more conversation, discussion, and debate than any of its other features. That is because both those living in Minnesota, and those who have only heard of it, have some very interesting ideas concerning that climate. Minnesotans know that the climate is the sum of the weather which takes place from day to day through the course of the years. They have learned that the weather is most changeable from day to day, season to season, and from one year to another. Extremes of temperature can be as much as 35° below zero to 110° above zero in the same year, but such variations probably occur only about once in a century. About the only certainty which applies to Minnesota's weather is that it will be different from what it is now a short time from now, and that over the course of several years the climate will average out to about 14.6° in January in the Twin Cities region and about 74.1° in July in the same area, with annual rainfall in the 24 to 26 inch range.

More remarkable by far than anything the records show about Minnesota's climate is what folks who know little about it have come to believe. Writers of pioneer tales and novelists of vivid imagination have often such a fabric of fancy about Minnesota blizzards as to convince those living in other regions of the land that the earth's coldest area is not at the poles but someplace in northern Minnesota. Geographers know that New York has more snow and Colorado lower temperatures than does Minnesota.

The state's early and continued reputation for extremely low temperatures and brutal winter storms is greatly overexaggerated. Although some of our cities actually vie for the title "Icebox of the Nation," superlatives are probably undeserved in this respect. At any rate, there is evidence to substantiate the fact that a climate so variable as to temperature, snowfall, wind, humidity, and other characteristics brings benefits in the provision of energy, health, and longevity.

Minnesota's mineral wealth is more significant in terms of quantity than variety. Perhaps because we are still lacking a comprehensive and intensive geologic survey, Minnesota is as yet unable to claim any great number of minerals of merchantable value. The state has no precious metals, no coal, no petroleum or natural gas, no salt, sulphur, or other raw material for chemical operations.

What Minnesota does have, however, is an almost unlimited supply of iron, commonly considered civilization's most essential element. When the glaciers scraped off the surface of northern Minnesota, they uncovered great deposits of iron ore on the Mesabi Range. The extraction of that ore, in terms of billions of tons, has done much more to change the history of the state, nation, and humanity in general, than is commonly appreciated.

Modern civilization is based upon steel. Steel is made through the use of coal, limestone, and various other elements of which iron ore is the most important. Minnesota has only the iron ore, but this it has in almost limitless amount.

Fortunately for the nation, the state's best ore was found just when it was most needed to supply that period of growth, and military necessity, extending from 1880 to the present. Most of the known deposits of the best ore have now moved down the Great Lakes to the steel mills in the eastern United States.

Remaining in the state, however, are unmeasured billions of tons of low grade ores, much of which is termed taconite. The latter is now in the process of being made merchantable through the billion dollar beneficiation plants erected on or near the shores of Lake Superior. Due to many factors such as the discovery of iron ore in other states and nations, tax considerations, market changes, and costs involved in processing the low grade ore, Minnesota no longer dominates the iron ore market to the extent that it once did. Something like forty to fifty per cent of the steel mills' demands are now satisfied by Minnesota ore rather than the seventy per cent of a previous day. However, the capital investment involved, labor employed, and assurance of long continued availability of supply do much to make this low grade ore of future value to the state and nation comparable to the higher grade ore already sold.

In addition to iron ore, the state possesses an even larger volume of sand and gravel, as much peat as is claimed by all the other forty-nine states combined, and unknown quantities of titanium, manganese, anorthosite, and other elements. Most of these require further time and research to make them of significant consequence to Minnesota's people.

Founding Pioneers

The poet has said of those who came first to learn from the Indians who lived here in prehistoric times, "The cowards never started and the weak died on the way." Certainly they possessed qualities of courage and competence to make them truly a highly selective group.

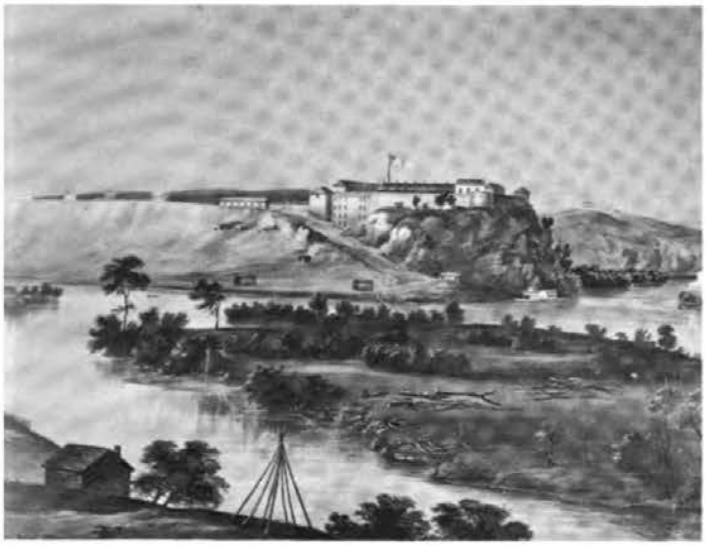

First came the French voyageurs, a happy-hearted, somewhat boisterous, and pretentious people. With indomitable confidence and perseverance they penetrated the wilderness which was, brought metal tools and weapons, new diseases and ruin to the Indians who commonly welcomed them, and established trading posts which later grew into cities long before some of the English colonies on the Atlantic seacoast were even named.

The romance of these French and their half-breed descendants has never been adequately told. They were more heroic by far than the cowboys of the Old West. They made trails where there were none before. They brought tall tales as well as furs to ocean ports in the east. They wrote no books but they guided the missionaries and explorers and engineers who did, and so played a mighty part in opening the state to those who came for purposes other than getting animal skins from which beaver hats could be made. To the extent that any rule existed, they ruled this land from 1680 until the early part of the nineteenth century.

Names such as Radisson, La Verendrye, Lac qui Parle, LeSueur, Duluth, Hennepin, and Nicollet are only a few of the many which sprinkle the early pages of Minnesota history during this period of French dominance. While it is true they destroyed a great many fur bearing animals which have never been fully replaced, they left much behind them of permanent value.

Fort Snelling — 1846

Voyageurs crossing Lake Superior

No land as rich in romance, in surface values, and in natural resources as Minnesota's was reported to be by the fur traders and early explorers could be left undeveloped indefinitely. Beginning with the establishment of Minnesota as a territory in 1847, as a state in 1858, and with the passage of the federal Homestead Act in 1862 a new and giant influx of people was noted.

The wave of people on the march consisted of three major types. The first, and largest in number, were the farmers from the states to the east, and in increasing degree from the countries of northern Europe, particularly Germany and the Scandinavian nations. Second, there were the lumberjacks who came from Maine, Michigan, and Wisconsin to harvest our pine. Third, there were the "Yankee Traders," the newspaper editors, lawyers, doctors, artisans, and storekeepers who came to serve the interests of the farmers and woodsmen.

The farmers tended to settle in southern and western Minnesota. The wood cutters went to the pine lands in the northeastern half of the state. The tradesmen and those in the professions went wherever their services were called for. Wherever they went, those who came here to help create a state out of what was a wilderness area found reason to write back to the folks living in their former homes and thereby do a good job of recruiting.

By reputation, Minnesota is not only a land of snow and cold but also of the Swedish. It is an undeserved reputation in both cases. Our immigrants did include uncounted numbers of people of Swedish descent, but also almost as many Norwegians, and a large number of Danes. There were however, more Germans than any other single nationality and, not entirely lost in the mass, there was a liberal sprinkling of Irish, English, Welsh, Belgians, Icelanders, and perhaps a score of other nationalities. In the last half of the nineteenth century Minnesota became one of the most, if not the most, cosmopolitan of all the states.

They were all welcomed, even to the extent that the vote was given to some who had not completed their applications for United States citizenship. While those who tilled the land showed a stronger inclination to stay put than did the other two types previously referred to, the common characteristic of all three was that of patient and persistent industry. As a group they realized that what they found here gave them reason to believe that, for them, they had reached their Shangri La. Here they found no gold but they did find other natural resources of such abundance and quality as to cause them not only to stay but to apply with diligence and fervor their very considerable talents to the creation of homes, business enterprises, and government institutions.

They and their descendants have given of themselves more than they have taken from this land. The sturdy energy of the Germans, the love of learning of the Scandinavians, the laughter of the Irish, the song of the Welsh, the shrewdness of the English, and the driving force of the Yankees have combined to make of the Minnesota melting pot a cauldron of purpose and progress.

Those who constitute the make-up of Minnesota's present population show by the names of their communities, as well as by their own family names, the background from which they came. Names of municipalities such as Askov, Finland, Halstad, Hanska, Karlstad, Lindstrom, Mora, Oslo, and Upsala bespeak of Scandinavia, as Hamburg, New Germany, New Ulm, and Pierz do of Germany. Grand Marais, Duluth, LaCrescent, Laporte, Roseau, St. Cloud, St. Peter, and our capital city of St. Paul testify to the French influence as Bemidji, Biwabik, Calumet, Mahtomedi, Shakopee, Sleepy Eye, Wabasha, and Winona evidence the Indian tradition.

Minnesota takes pride in this inheritance knowing that the amalgam of nationalities represents an element of strength just as other metals added to iron and copper and gold give quality to the pure metal no matter how worthy the pure metal is in itself.

Minnesota's Economy

The pictures of Minnesota which adorned the pages of the school geography texts of an earlier generation no longer give a true representation of Minnesota today. Those pictures were of puffing steam tractors pulling a gang of a dozen plows through the stubble of giant wheat fields.

While agriculture rates high in Minnesota industry, most of our people live and work, not on farms but in cities of various size. Nearly one half of our people live in the urbanized area of the Twin Cities. Here 1,513,023 of our 3,413,864 citizens, according to the 1960 census, make their homes and win their daily bread, usually in employment not directly associated with agriculture. Cities of 2,500 or more, not in the immediate Twin City region, contain some 609,543 residents. Our rural population is still considerable, 1,291,298, but only a declining fraction of these actually farm the land. Many of them live in municipalities of less than 2,500 where one of the principal functions is that of servicing the interests and needs of farm families.

Changing times and their effect on the occupation of Minnesota's wage earners is shown by employment figures. These show that approximately 958,400 Minnesotans are employed in nonagricultural pursuits, with 228,400 in manufacturing, 53,400 in construction, 28,900 in mining and quarrying, 25,000 in public utilities, 53,900 in transportation, 238,000 in trade, 49,500 in finance and real estate, 142,300 in services and 152,700 in government. Those regularly occupied in farming number some 155,600. Recent trends indicate a fairly rapid increase in those engaged in trades, services and manufacturing and a continuing decrease in farm workers.

The impact of the transfer of emphasis on other than agricultural activity is represented by other census figures. The value added by industry totals some $2.5 billion a year while cash farm receipts are over billion dollars less, at 1.4 billion dollars.

It must not be concluded that agriculture is becoming of relatively little importance to our people. Chief among the products of industry are those such as meat, butter, canned, frozen, and otherwise processed vegetables, and scores of other items which owe their origin to Minnesota's fertile acres.

The state ranks fifth among the fifty in the value of her agricultural products and is at or near the top in the production of foods as varied as honey, cheese, flax, milk, corn, soybeans, oats and peas. Minnesota ranks first in the nation in the production of butter, dry milk, Christmas trees and oats; second in honey production, turkeys raised and sweet corn processing; third in milk and egg production and in green pea processing; and fourth in cheese.

Other than processed foods, our manufacturing plants operate extensively in the production of machinery of various types, particularly of agricultural application, and in scientific instruments, printing and publishing, beer, electrical machinery, and plastics. The Twin City area was first known for the lumber which came from the saw mills, then for flour, and is now taking high and rising rank in the field of electronics, presently ranking fourth in the nation.

There would appear to be a clear cut pattern in process with respect to the economic trends of the state. That pattern involves fewer but larger and more productive and valuable farms, the increasing size of our cities, more in the way of service trades and professions, which supply their benefits to farm and city folk alike, and the processing of goods for the markets of the nation. In this processing, there is emphasis on and expansion in those end products which, such as electronic and plastic goods, call for and provide a high proportion of labor investment in contrast with the value of the raw material and with the weight and size of the end product being low in relation to its market price. By concentrating in these fields it is possible to supply remunerative employment to the well educated, stable, and healthy folk who make up our labor force, and whose superiority in these respects make it possible to meet the competition of other areas located closer to the larger centers of population.

The ability of Minnesota's labor and management to compete in highly finished and complicated equipment has only recently been discovered. In the last fifteen years massive progress has been recorded. The billions of dollars now being invested in such types of enterprise is the result of many factors. Not least among these is the conscious effort being made by hundreds of the state's small communities to engage in effective self-help programs of an economic nature. Just as they at one time extended themselves to invite the best of farm folks to settle on their vacant acres, they now establish business development corporations to foster the growth of community industrial enterprise.

The Forward March of Minnesota

The social and economic well being of Minnesota's people, which has been reflected in previous pages, has originated from many causes, some of which, such as the state's natural resources and the character and competence of its people, have been briefly noted. Not to be overlooked is the influence of Minnesota's educational institutions which have served as stimulants to that progress.

When our pioneer forefathers came to the state they lived in homes made of logs or of blocks of sod cut from the tough prairie turf. Money was hard to come by, for taxes or any other application. One expense they authorized at the earliest possible date. That was a frame school house which could be used as church, town hall, and social center as well as the seat of learning.

In the century since these small rectangular schools began to dot the landscape of the new state, startling advancements have been made. Each succeeding generation has resolved that it both must and would, supply to the generation following a better education than they had themselves received. It has not been easy to maintain that resolution. Sometimes incomes have decreased, disaster of some nature has struck, and educational costs have risen to what have seemed prohibitive heights. Through it all, a consistent policy of providing Minnesota youth with the tools of learning required to make them competitive wage earners and intelligent citizens has been maintained.

As a result, nearly every Minnesotan, young or not so young, now has within his reach and grasp, primary, secondary, and higher education. He can fit himself, if he will, for what he wishes to do and is capable of doing, regardless of the nature of his interests and aptitudes. If he lives in the country, a motor bus takes him to high school. Should he wish to operate a resort, become a doctor, learn to be an artist, print a newspaper, specialize in electronics or ballistics or nearly any other means of usefully applying his talents, there is an institution or course of study provided for him. He may have to pay part of the cost of that education but it is made available to him by private schools or by tax-supported public schools.

The University of Minnesota is regarded as one of the better institutions of its kind in the nation as it certainly is one of the largest, ranking third in the nation in number of bachelor's degrees conferred. Private colleges, considerable in number, are of equal value to our youth. The biggest, newest, and most used buildings in most of our villages and cities are the schools which our primary and teenage boys and girls attend. Those schools, and the youth attending them, represent the hope and faith of Minnesotans in themselves and their land.

One of the recent developments noted in Minnesota has been the purposeful and planned efforts, on a community level, to provide an opportunity for these young people to continue to live in their home area should they wish to do so. They cannot continue to live there or in any part of Minnesota if there are not enough jobs. As has been previously noted, the realization of community responsibility has moved hundreds of our municipalities to set up business development corporations in which much volunteer time and effort and some money is invested in the encouragement of industrial or other type of economic growth.

Perhaps the most distinctive feature of Minnesota life today is the extent and degree to which those living in the state enjoy the out-of-doors. More fishing licenses, well over a million a year, are sold in Minnesota than in any other state. In proportion to population, Minnesotans own the most boats. The Friday afternoon, and Saturday morning exodus from the state's cities suggests a mass migration. While commercial forms of recreation such as major league baseball and football, bowling and other forms of organized sport have participation at least equal to that found elsewhere, the unorganized enjoyment of outdoor life in fishing, swimming, skating, boating, picnicking, hunting, and hiking definitely marks Minnesotans apart.

Minnesota Chronology

Duluth at the head of the lakes – 1679

1654—Radisson and Groseilliers, French traders, made an expedition into the West, reaching the Wisconsin region and possibly the Minnesota country.

1679—July 2, Daniel Greysolon DuLhut (Duluth) held a council with the Sioux on the shore of Mille Lacs. DuLhut, in July, 1680, by way of the St. Croix River, reached the Mississippi and met Father Louis Hennepin.

1680—Father Hennepin, after being held captive in a village of the Mille Lacs Sioux, discovered the Falls of St. Anthony, which he named for his patron saint.

1689—May 8, Nicolas Perrot, at his Fort St. Antoine, on the Wisconsin shore of Lake Pepin, laid formal claim to the surrounding country for France. He also built a fort on the Minnesota shore of this lake, near its outlet.

1695—Pierre Charles Le Sueur built a fort or trading post on Isle Pelee, now Prairie Island, above Lake Pepin.

1700—Le Sueur established Fort L'Huillier, on the Blue Earth River near the mouth of the Le Sueur.

1727—The French established Fort Beauharnois near the site of Frontenac on Lake Pepin, with the Sieur de La Perriere as commander.

1731—Pierre de Varennes La Vérendrye established on the present north boundary of Minnesota two trading posts, Fort St. Pierre, near the mouth of Rainy Lake, and Fort St. Charles, on Lake of the Woods, within the present area of Minnesota.

1736—June 6, the eldest son of La Verendrye, Father Aulneau, and nineteen French voyageurs were massacred by a war party of Sioux on an island in Lake of the Woods.

1745—The Chippewa won the most decisive battle in the war with the Sioux at the great Sioux village of Kathio on the western shore of Mille Lacs. The Sioux were eventually driven west onto the Great Plains by the Chippewa.

1750—Joseph Marin and his son started the last French post on the upper Mississippi. It was on Lake Pepin near the present site of Frontenac.

1763—By the Treaty of Versailles, France ceded the part of Minnesota east of the Mississippi to England, the country west of the river having been ceded to Spain the previous year.

1766—Englishman Jonathan Carver visited the Falls of St. Anthony and the Minnesota River.

1784—The Northwest Company was conducting extensive fur-trading operations in the Minnesota country with headquarters at Grand Portage.

1797—David Thompson, a trader for the Northwest Company, mapped the Minnesota Area.

1800—May 7, Minnesota east of the Mississippi became part of Indiana as a result of the division of Ohio.

1803—April 30, Minnesota west of the Mississippi, for the preceding forty years in possession of Spain as a part of Louisiana, was ceded to the United States by Napoleon Bonaparte, who had just obtained it from Spain.

1805—Lieutenant Z. M. Pike, who later discovered Pikes Peak, visited Minnesota to select a site for a military post.

1809—Minnesota east of the Mississippi became part of Illinois Territory.

Grand Portage on Lake Superior — 1815

1812—The Sioux, Chippewa, and Winnebago, under the leadership of hostile traders, joined the British during the war. The Red River colony was established by Lord Selkirk. June 4, Minnesota west of the Mississippi was included in Missouri Territory.

1817—The American Fur Company, under the leadership of John Jacob Astor, began trading operations in the Minnesota country.

1819—Minnesota east of the Mississippi became a part of Crawford County, Michigan. Fort St. Anthony (renamed Fort Snelling in 1825) was established, beginning as a post at Mendota under the command of Colonel Henry Leavenworth. Major L. Taliaferro was appointed Indian agent at the new post.

1820—The cornerstone of Fort St. Anthony was laid September 10. Governor Cass visited Minnesota and made a treaty of peace between the Sioux and Chippewa at Fort St. Anthony. Colonel Josiah Snelling took command of the fort on August 1.

1823—The first steamboat arrived at Fort Snelling on May 10. Major Stephen H. Long explored the Minnesota River, the Red River Valley, and the northern frontier. Giacomo C. Beltrami explored the region near the source of the Mississippi.

1825—The dividing line between the Chippewa and Sioux was agreed upon at Prairie du Chien.

1826—A great flood on the Red River forced part of the Selkirk colony to move to Fort Snelling.

1832—Henry R. Schoolcraft discovered the source of the Mississippi and named it Lake Itasca. It had been known earlier to Indians and traders as Elk Lake.

1834—Minnesota west of the Mississippi was attached to Michigan.

1836—The territory of Wisconsin was organized, embracing the whole area of Minnesota. Joseph N. Nicollet began his explorations in Minnesota.

1837—Governor Dodge of Wisconsin made a treaty at Fort Snelling with the Chippewa, by which they ceded all their pine lands on the St. Croix and its tributaries. A treaty was also signed at Washington, D. C. with representatives of the Sioux for their lands east of the Mississippi. These treaties led the way to the first settlements within the area of Minnesota.

1838—Franklin Steele established a claim at the Falls of St. Anthony Pierre Parrant built a shanty and settled on the present site of St. Paul, then called "Pig's Eye."

1841—The "Chapel of St. Paul" was built and consecrated, giving the name to the future capital of the State.

1848—May 29, Wisconsin was admitted to the Union, leaving the area of Minnesota east of the Mississippi without a government. August 26, the "Stillwater convention" took measures for a separate territorial organization, and asked that the new territory be named Minnesota. October 30, H. H. Sibley was elected delegate to Congress.

1849—The bill organizing Minnesota Territory passed March 3. Territorial officers were appointed March 19. Governor Ramsey proclaimed the Territory organized June 1. The first territorial legislature assembled September 3. The Minnesota Historical Society was organized November 15.

1850—Commercial steamboating was inaugurated on the Minnesota river. Population of Minnesota, 6,077.

1851—Locations for the capitol, university and penitentiary were at St. Paul, St. Anthony and Stillwater. By the treaties of Traverse des Sioux and Mendota, in July and August, the territory west of the Mississippi was open to settlers.

1852—The first county agricultural society in Minnesota was formed in Benton County. In the 1850s a number of such organizations were established to encourage the importation of blooded stock and the introduction of choice seeds, grains and fruit trees into the territory.

1853—W. A. Gorman was appointed governor. The first capitol building was completed and construction of Fort Ridgely begun.

1854—The Rock Island Railroad, the first road to the Mississippi River, was opened. Commercial flour milling began in what is now

Minneapolis with the establishment of the "Minnesota" mill on Hennepin Island. Large scale immigration began. The real estate boom commenced.

1855—On January 23 a suspension bridge between Minneapolis and St. Anthony, the first bridge to span the main channel of the Mississippi River anywhere along its length, was officially opened.

1857—The Minnesota Enabling act was passed by Congress February 26. Governor Samuel Medary (appointed by President James Buchanan) arrived April 22. The legislature passed a bill to remove the capitol to St. Peter, but failed to accomplish the object. The constitutional convention assembled July 13. Real estate speculation reached its height, and was checked by the financial panic of August 27. The constitution was adopted and state officers elected on October 3. Population of Minnesota, 150,037.

1858—A five million dollar loan for railroads was authorized by the legislature and ratified by a vote of the people. Minnesota was admitted to the Union on May 11 and state officers were sworn in May 24.

1859—Hard times continued. Work on the land grant railroads ceased as the five million dollar loan scheme collapsed. Wheat was exported from Minnesota for the first time.

1860—Population of Minnesota, 172,023.

1861—Fort Sumter was fired upon April 12, and the Civil War began. On April 13, President Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers to serve three months. Ramsey telegraphed Lt. Gov. Ignatius Donnelly in St. Paul to call for volunteers. That night the St. Paul Pioneer Guards met and Josias R. King was the first to sign up. This gave him claim to being the first volunteer in the U. S. service in the Civil War. Governor Alexander Ramsey offered President Lincoln a thousand men on April 14, giving Minnesota the distinction of being the first state to offer troops. The first Minnesota regiment left Fort Snelling on June 22.

1862—On July 2, the first railroad in Minnesota opened between St. Paul and Minneapolis. During August and September the Sioux attacked several settlements. A military commission tried 392 Indians for murder, rape, etc., and 303 of them were condemned. On December 26, thirty-eight Indians were hanged at Mankato.

1863—On July 2 the First Minnesota Regiment made its famous charge in the bloody battle of Gettysburg. Within fifteen minutes 215 of the 262 men of the First were killed or wounded. On July 3, Chief Little Crow, Sioux leader of the tragic Sioux Uprising, was killed near Hutchinson.

Symbols of Statehood

Minnesota State Flag

The new Minnesota state flag was adopted by act of the 1957 legislature, replacing the old state flag which was adopted in 1893. The design on the old flag, though beautiful and artistic, was too expensive to reproduce by modern manufacturing methods.

The new flag retains the basic symbol of the 1893 flag — the state seal. Nineteen stars, which symbolized the fact that Minnesota was the nineteenth state to be admitted to the union after the original thirteen, were outside the center emblem on the 1893 flag. They are now included within the center emblem. The uppermost star is the largest and represents the north star state.

Minnesota State Flower

Cypripedium Reginae, meaning the shoe of Venus, the queen, is the botanical name for Minnesota's state flower. Its common names are pink and white lady's-slipper and showy lady's-slipper.

In Minnesota the pink and white lady's-slipper grows best in the damp shady places provided by tamarack and spruce marshes. It cannot grow without the presence of a tiny fungus which helps the flower's roots get food from the soil. The plant grows so slowly it takes from ten to twenty years before it is old enough to bear blossoms. If it reaches full growth, from two to three feet tall, it may live to be fifty years old.

The pink and white lady's-slipper has become one of the state's rarest flowers, because the plant does not reproduce easily.

Minnesota State Tree

The Red Pine, more commonly known as the Norway Pine, a majestic evergreen, was adopted as the official state tree by act of the legislature in 1953 to symbolize Minnesota's history, background and physical characteristics.

The mature Norway Pine is easy to recognize. The lower two-thirds of its 60- to 140-foot straight trunk is bare of branches. On the upper third the branches grow straight out from the trunk, and form a cone-shaped crown to the tree. The brownish red bark of the tree accounts for the origin of one of its names, the Red Pine.

The tree is free from disease and insect attack and it is long-lived, often living up to 300 years. The Norway Pine has been planted extensively under the Minnesota reforestation program.

Minnesota State Seal

The Great Seal of the State of Minnesota is placed on all official state documents. Its design is similar to the design of the territorial seal which was used from 1849 until the adoption of a state seal in 1858. The picture on the seal is apparently a scene near St. Anthony Falls. A white man is plowing in the foreground while an Indian is riding into the sunset in the background. Henry H. Sibley, the first governor of Minnesota, is credited with selecting the motto which appears on the seal, "L'Etoile du Nord," which translated is "The North Star."

The Secretary of State is the custodian of the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota.

MINNESOTA'S STATE BIRD — THE COMMON LOON

The Loon became the official State Bird on March 13, 1961 (Laws 1961, Chapter 76). It is a magnificent bird about 33 inches long and weighs from 8½ to 10 pounds. The Loon, whose technical name is "Gavia Immer," ranges northward from the Twin Cities to the Canadian border and west to Marshall and Kittson counties. The head is small and jet black. The slender neck is black and ribbed with a white collar. The back and wings are checkered with white and the breast and belly are white. The black bill is straight and pointed. The legs are thin and the feet webbed. It feeds on fish, insects, and frogs. Considered by many to be the most showy of inland water birds, the Loon is characterized by its instantaneous dive into the water, from the surface of a lake, with a sudden reappearance several yards away. It has the power to alter the specific gravity of its body, and can remain in water with only its head exposed. The Loon lives almost entirely in the water and is awkward on land. The shrill, weird, musical call of the bird is the sound that most vividly symbolizes Minnesota's northern lake country.

THE MINNESOTA STATE SONG

Hail Minnesota

In 1945 the Minnesota Senate and House of Representatives adopted a joint resolution naming "Hail! Minnesota" as the state song. The bill to designate the song was sponsored by the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Hail! Minnesota" had long been the song of the University of Minnesota. The music and two original stanzas were written as a class song by Truman E. Rickard, who graduated in 1904. The second stanza was a tribute to Cyrus Northrop, then president of the university. President Northrop suggested that the stanza written to him be dropped and another put in its place, and he asked a young poet of the class of 1905 to write a new second stanza. This man was Arthur Upson who later became a well-known poet.

The copyright for "Hail! Minnesota" was held by the alumni association of the university until 1945 when the association gave permission to the state to use the words and music as the state song. The association also gave permission for a change in the second line of the first stanza. This line which read, "Hail to thee our college dear," was changed to "Hail to thee our state so dear."

Here are the two present stanzas of the song:

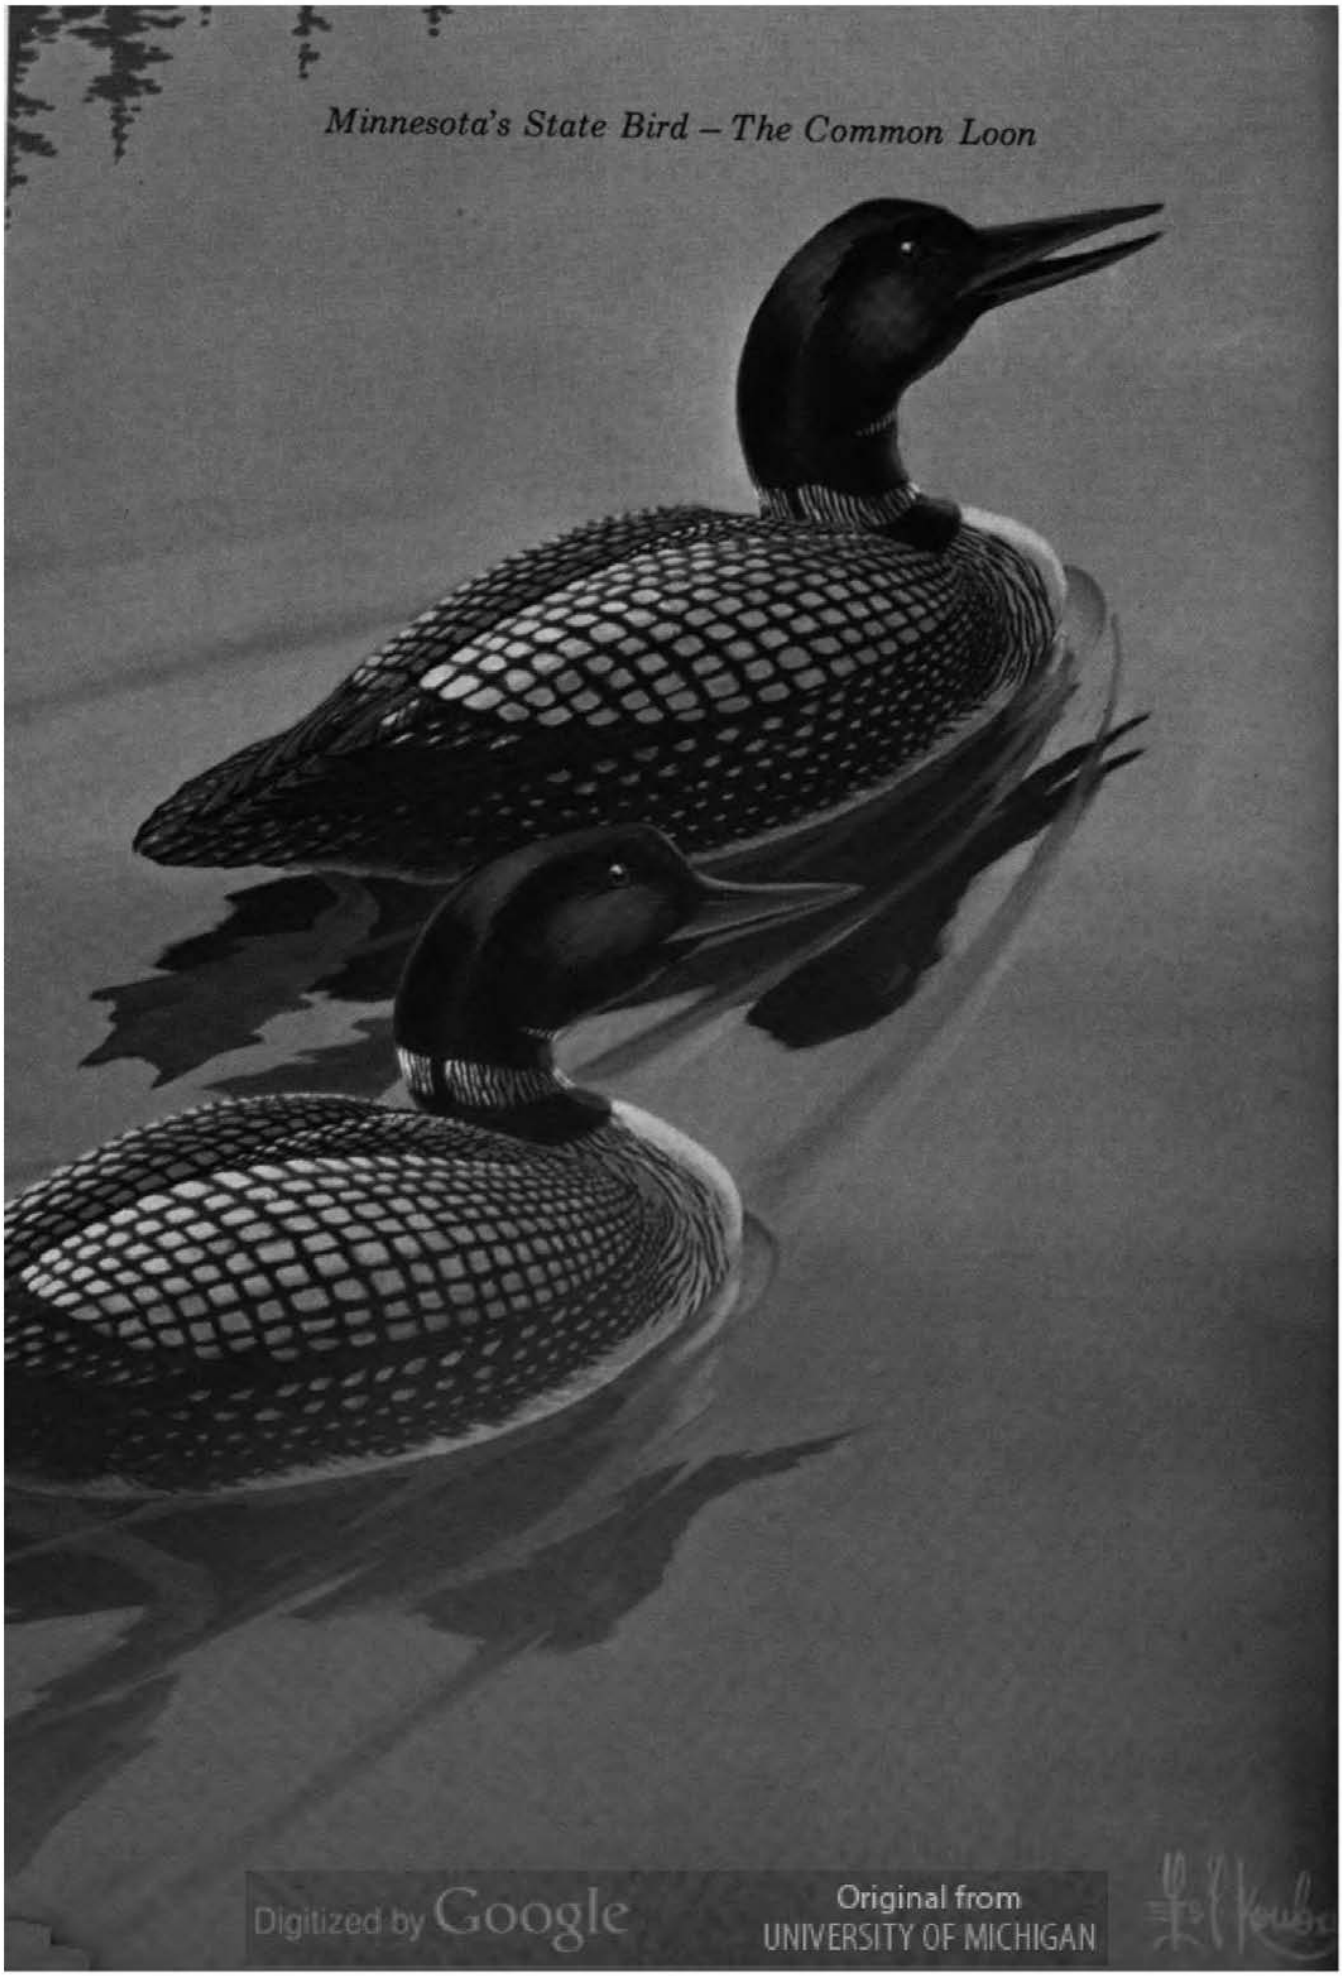

HAIL! MINNESOTA

Minnesota, hail to thee!
Hail to thee, our state so dear!
Thy light shall ever be
A beacon bright and clear;
Thy sons and daughters true
Will proclaim thee near and far;
They shall guard thy fame
And adore thy name;
Thou shalt be their Northern Star.

Like the stream that bends to sea,
Like the pine that seeks the blue,
Minnesota, still for thee,
Thy sons are strong and true.
From thy woods and waters fair,
From thy prairies waving far,
At thy call they throng,
With their shout and song,
Hailing thee their Northern Star.

Minnesota State Capitol

The Minnesota Capitol

This is Minnesota's third capitol, completed January 1, 1905. It has proved an enduring and sturdy structure for housing the legislature, the constitutional officers and the supreme court.

It has also provided a good setting for governmental functions. The varicolored limestone and marble used in the interior of the capitol provide design of unending interest. The historical and symbolic murals, the arabesques of Minnesota flora, the sculptures of past statesmen are not only an integral part of the building's architectural design, but are also a source of inspiration for office holders.

The largest unsupported marble dome in the world—this is the distinction accorded Minnesota's capitol. The exterior of the capitol is of Georgia marble, the base of St. Cloud granite.

Just below the marble dome is the quadriga, a statue symbolizing the progress of the State of Minnesota. The quadriga consists of four chariot horses with the women who lead them. In the chariot drawn by the four horses stands Minnesota, with the horn of plenty held in his right arm. The horn contains fruits, grains and vegetables which are abundant in this state.

Above the main entrance to the capitol are six statues representing the six virtues which support and assist the progress of the state. They are Wisdom, Courage, Bounty, Truth, Integrity and Prudence, the underlying virtues of good citizenship.

The interior of the capitol dome is painted deep blue to suggest the color of the sky. Its shape suggests the vault of the heavens. At the base of the dome is a series of twelve lunettes, each of which bears a sign of the zodiac in sequence with the course of the sun.

The circular area of the dome provides a spacious rotunda by extending down to the main floor. Above the cornice of the rotunda is a series of paintings which symbolize the process by which civilization was brought to Minnesota.

One of the most impressive pieces of sculpture in a building that abounds with sculpture is the beautiful Pioneer Group located immediately behind and above the Speaker's platform in the House of Representatives. This sculpture forms a perfect balance to the vast House chamber. It also symbolizes early Minnesota history and bears the inscription, "The Trail of the Pioneer Bore the Footprints of Liberty."

Minnesota Vital Statistics

Minnesota became the 32nd state in 1858.

Name — Derived from the Dakota Indian word "Minisota" meaning sky tinted waters. Therefore, Minnesota has become known as The Land of Sky Blue Waters.

Capitol — St. Paul.

Motto — L'Etoile du Nord (The North Star).

State Flower — Pink and white lady's-slipper.

State Bird — Gavia Immer (the Common Loon).

State Tree — Red Pine.

State Song — "Hail! Minnesota."

Area — 84,068 square miles or 51,033,448 acres exclusive of water area.

Population — 3,413,864 (U.S. Census, 1960).

Length — 406 miles.

Width — 358 miles.

Highest Point — 2,230 feet above sea level at the summit of Misquah Hills in Cook County.

Lowest Point — 602 feet above sea level on the shore of Lake Superior.

Average Mean Temperature — 44 degrees.

Summer Mean Temperature — 70 degrees.

Number of Lakes — More than 10,000.

Largest Lake — Red Lake (440 square miles).

Navigable Rivers — Mississippi, Minnesota, St. Croix, Rainy, St. Louis, Red River of the North and Red Lake River.

Income — Personal income totaled $7,458,000,000 in 1961.

Industry — Minnesota's annual value added by manufacture was $2,470,838,000 in 1961.

Natural Resources — Minnesota supplied 61% of United States iron ore shipments in 1961. The state's annual forest industries production was estimated to be $188,349,231 in 1961.

Agriculture — Minnesota's 152,000 farms produced $1,492,307,000 worth of food and fibre products in 1962.

THE LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

POSITION OF THE LEGISLATURE—It is the legislature which, in most cases, determines the laws under which we live. Despite this fact, most voters at election time center their interest on the races for the executive offices, such as Governor, rather than on the legislative contests. The election of executive officers is very important but so is the election of legislators. The platforms of legislative candidates are extremely important, for the Governor, as well as the other executive officers, cannot carry out their programs without the cooperation of the legislature.

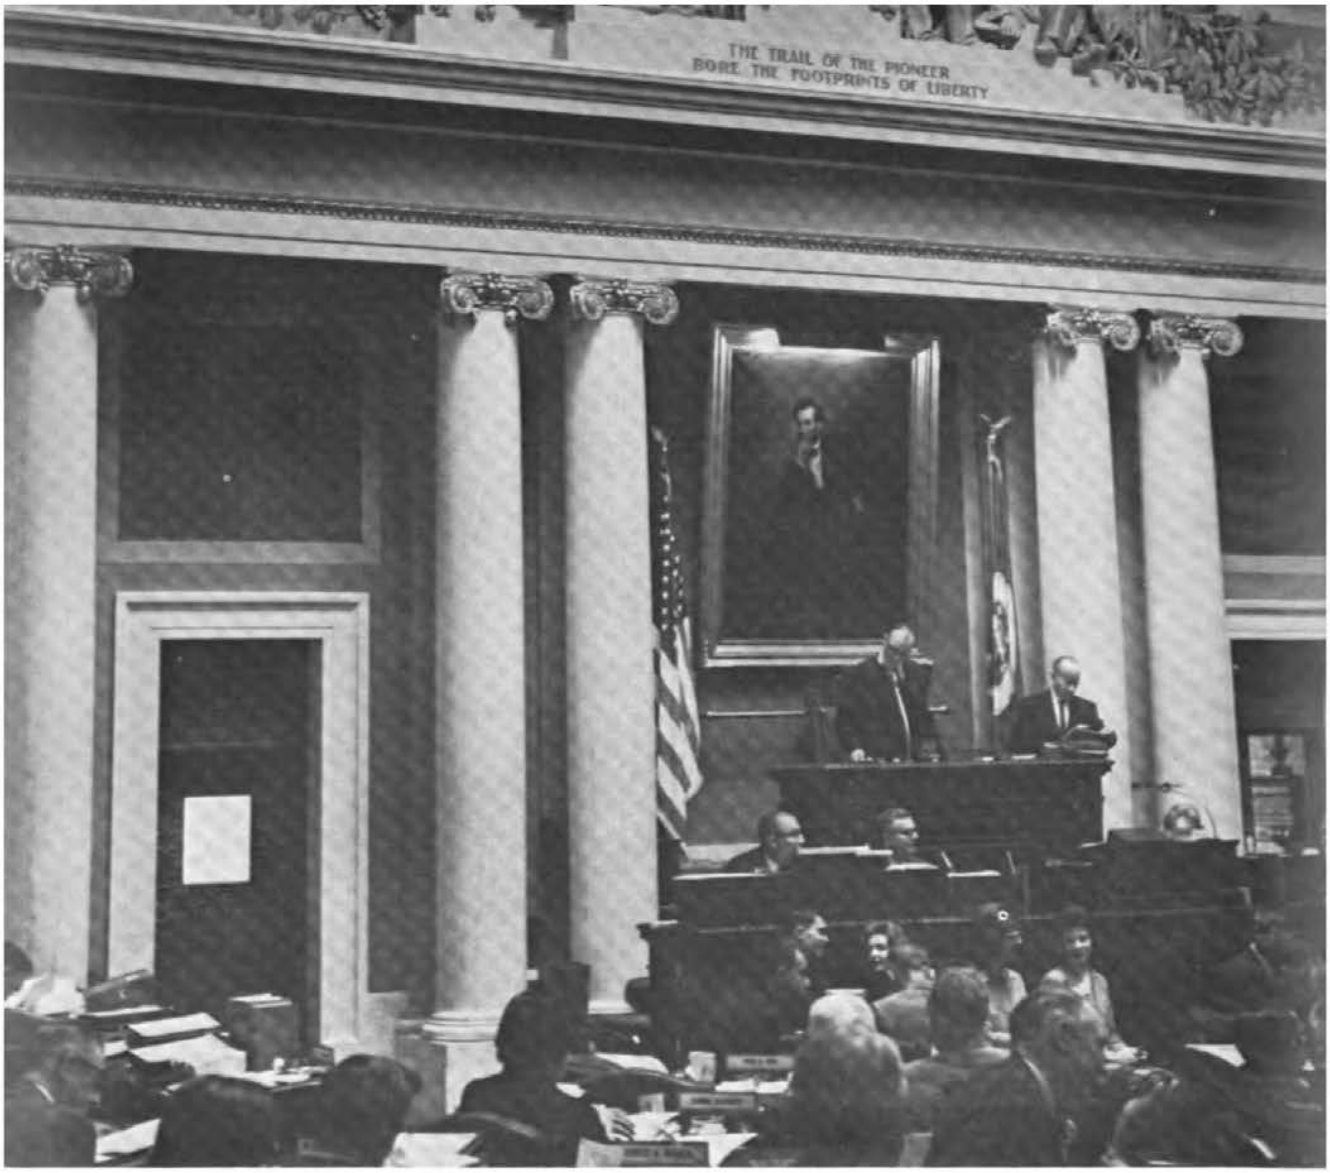

Historically, the United States has witnessed a steady growth of executive power at the expense of the legislative. This has certainly been true on the Federal level. In Minnesota, however, this trend has not been evidenced to the same degree, primarily because of the legislature's reluctance to delegate power to the executive. What's more, the attitude of the courts toward the separation of powers has served to prevent the legislature from delegating power to the executive branch.

As a result, the legislature remains a powerful body. Its operation intimately concerns the citizens of the state. It is very important, then, for all citizens of Minnesota to achieve a basic understanding of the structure, functions, and work of the legislature as well as an appreciation of the legislator's position.

FUNCTIONS AND POWERS—The first power of the legislature is the most obvious one, that of law-making or the determination of policy for the state. The legislative body passes laws, the most of which deal with such subjects as taxation, contracts, property, businesses, public health, morals, safety, education, and recreation.

Front of House of Representatives, including Speaker's Desk

In addition to the law-making power, the legislature possesses administrative and executive power. Many gubernatorial appointments are made with the advice and consent of the Senate. The legislature sets up the administrative boards and commissions, defines their functions, appropriates the money for their support, and exercises general supervision and control over the entire administrative organization.

The legislature also possesses judicial power. It can remove officers of the executive branch of state government on the grounds of misbehavior in office. In the case of legislative impeachment of an executive officer, the House of Representatives institutes the proceedings (acts as the grand jury) and the Senate tries the officer (serves as the trial jury).

A fourth power exercised by the legislature is constituent power. There are two facets to this power. First, only the legislature can initiate amendments to the state constitution, there being no provision in Minnesota for popular initiative. Second, only by a two-thirds vote of the members of both the House and the Senate can a constitutional convention be called. However, ratification by the voters of the state is required in both cases. Subject to popular ratification, then, the amendment and revision of the constitution remains solely in the hands of the legislature.

A fifth power of the legislature is an electoral one. The legislature has the power to reapportion and to draw the boundary lines of the districts from which the state senators and representatives are elected. It also has the power to change the boundaries of Minnesota's Congressional Districts.

Finally, a function possessed by the legislature which is often overlooked is that of organizing public opinion. In any democracy the legislature has an obligation to advise the public as to the nature of the social problems that affect it and the alternative courses of action that might be taken to resolve those problems. The legislature as the chief agency for representing the people has a clear responsibility in this area. Legislators attempt to fulfill this responsibility by publicly discussing proposed legislation.

MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE—The Minnesota Legislature is a bicameral body consisting of a Senate and a House of Representatives. One senator and from one to three representatives (depending upon the population of the area) are elected from each of 67 legislative districts in the state. Senators are elected for four and representatives for two year terms at the November General Election, which is held in even numbered years. Both representatives and senators are nominated at state primary elections. Legislators are nominated and elected on a non-partisan ballot.

The 1959 Legislature enacted reapportionment legislation which changed the numbers and boundaries of many of the districts and set the number of Senators at 67 and Representatives at 135. This reapportionment act became effective in 1962 when the members of the 1963 Legislature were elected. Maps of the legislative districts are shown later in this chapter.

Legislators' salaries are presently set at $4,800 for a two year term. Representatives, then, receive $4,800, their term of office being two years. Senators, having four year terms, receive $9,600. Each legislator is entitled to one round trip (per session) from his home to the Capitol at the rate of 15¢ per mile. In addition, he receives a per diem allowance for living expenses. Members are paid $25 per day for each day of a special session plus per diem living expenses.

representative he must be a qualified voter of the state, a resident of Minnesota for one year, and a resident of the legislative district from which he aspires to be elected for six months immediately preceding the election.

A legislator is not eligible to hold any office, state or national, except that of postmaster, during his term of office in the legislature. In addition to this, he may not hold an office which was created or had its remuneration increased during a legislative session of which he was a member, until one year after the expiration of his term of office. Each house is the judge of the qualifications and election of its members.

Certain privileges and immunities are granted legislators in recognition of the importance of their position. The first is that in all cases except treason, felony, or breach of the peace legislators are privileged from arrest while going to and returning from legislative sessions. Another is that a legislator cannot be sued for any debate he engages in or any speech he makes in either house of the legislature.

ORGANIZATION—Members of both houses are elected without party designation on the ballot. This does not mean, however, that party preferences play no role in the Minnesota Legislature. Although the members in each house divide into Liberal and Conservative groups for purposes of organizing the legislature, Democratic-Farmer-Laborites generally join the Liberal group and Republicans the Conservative group.

In each house, the group having the majority of members proceeds to organize the body and assumes the responsibility for carrying forward a legislative program. Both the Liberal and Conservative groups attempt to secure a majority of the members in each house in order to be in a position to control the election of officers and to make certain that a majority of its adherents are placed on all standing committees.

The Liberals and the Conservatives in each house caucus before the beginning of the session in order to make nominations for positions of leadership, particularly for Speaker of the House and President Pro Tempore of the Senate.

In 1963 there were 54 Liberals, 80 Conservatives, and one independent in the House, 24 Liberals and 43 Conservatives in the Senate.

ORGANIZATION OF THE HOUSE—The Speaker of the House is a powerful figure. As presiding officer he determines who shall speak on the floor and sees that speakers keep to the subject under consideration. He also assigns bills to appropriate committees. More important than these powers, however, is his power to appoint the chairman and members of standing committees, those groups which largely determine the subject matter and form of legislation. It is common practice for the Speaker to consult with majority group leaders and the individual members of the House regarding their preferences. In most cases, consideration is given to incumbents in making up the lists.

Since there has never been any formal recognition of the caucus as an instrument for organizing the legislature, there is no recognition of a minority per se, nor of minority rights. The result is that the minority group does not assign members to its allotted share of seats as is done in Congress. The number of minority members assigned to the various committees is determined by the majority.

ORGANIZATION OF THE SENATE—The Senate is organized somewhat differently than the House. The Lieutenant Governor (in his absence the President Pro Tempore) acts as presiding officer and as such possesses the power of recognizing speakers and keeping them to the subject at hand. He also refers bills to committees, as does the Speaker of the House. However, he does not have the power he once held, that of appointing chairmen and members of committees. Since 1931 this task has been assumed by a majority group committee on organization, composed of one member from each congressional district. Again, as in the House, the majority group decides how many seats on each committee will be given to the minority, a Committee on Committees formally making the appointments.

STANDING COMMITTEES—Standing committees do much of the work of the legislature since neither house, as a body, would have time to examine carefully all bills that are introduced. This being the case, committees are set up according to the subject matter of the various bills. The purpose of these committees is to get all the bills dealing with one general subject before the same committee so that detailed information can be available to committee members and better cooperation can be obtained.

In the 1963 regular session, the House had 36 committees which varied in size from 6 to 29 members. The Senate had 23 committees, ranging in size from 7 to 27 members.

One of the most important and powerful committees in the legislature is the Rules Committee. It directs legislative procedures in each house. The state constitution, the rules adopted by each body, and the joint rules of the Senate and House govern the proceedings. Adopted rules cannot be altered, amended, or suspended except by a two-thirds vote of the entire body involved.

The Senate includes all of its committee chairmen on the Rules Committee. The House includes some chairmen on its rules council, too, but congressional district distribution as well as seniority is also considered.

Standing committee chairmen are generally the most influential members of the majority group. Chairmanships usually hold over from session to session through seniority. Each member of the House and Senate seeks to be assigned to committees which will give him the opportunity to deal with legislation in which he is especially interested.

REGULAR SESSIONS—Regular sessions of the legislature convene every two years in odd-numbered years. Each session opens on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January, with the length of the session limited by the Constitution to 120 legislative days.

Growth of the state and a parallel increase in the number and complexity of the problems facing each legislature has made it increasingly difficult for the legislature to finish its work within the prescribed time limit.

The Constitution gives the Governor three days after adjournment of the legislature to sign bills. By covering the clock, a device to extend the time, the legislature in cooperation with the Governor can use three days to pass bills. When this is done the Journals of the House and Senate—the official records of their proceedings—show all actions which took place after the legal bill-passing deadline as having taken place on the "last day."

SPECIAL SESSIONS—The Governor may call the legislature into special or extra session to meet emergencies or to enable the legislature to finish what it could not do in regular session. Although the governor is the only person empowered to call a special session, he has no power to limit the scope of activities during the special session. However, the legislators usually adopt special rules restricting the subjects to be considered during a special session.

The 1961 special session, the main purpose of which was to deal with tax and appropriations measures, lasted 34 legislative days, adjourning on June 8, 1961.

CONVENING THE LEGISLATURE—At noon on the day the legislature convenes, the Secretary of State calls the House to order and the Lieutenant Governor performs the same function in the Senate. Each designates a member as temporary clerk who calls the roll. A Justice of the Supreme Court then administers the oath of office to the members of each house in a body.

The House then elects its Speaker, the Senate its President Pro Tempore. At the 1963 regular session, candidates for Speaker of the House were Representative E. J. Chilgren of Littlefork, Liberal, and Representative Lloyd L. Duxbury, Jr. of Caledonia, Conservative. Representative Duxbury was elected. In the Senate, candidates for President Pro Tempore were Senator Gordon Rosenmeier of Little Falls, Conservative, and Senator Thomas Vukelich of Gilbert, Liberal. Senator Rosenmeier was elected.

Both houses then elect staff members. Chief of the Senate staff is the secretary. The chief clerk is the top staff member in the House.

When standing committees have been named and permanent rules adopted, each house formally notifies the other house and the Governor that it is ready for business—the consideration and passing of bills.

How a Bill Becomes a Law

The formal steps in making a law are few and simple. They include drafting the idea for a new law in the form of a bill, introducing the bill in the legislature and obtaining committee approval, passage by majority vote in both houses, and signature of the Governor.

Despite the formal simplicity of the legislative process some measures have been presented in as many as 15 sessions of the legislature before being enacted into law. Others have become law the same day they were introduced because the normally slow legislative procedures were suspended. Such suspension of the rules requires a two-thirds vote of each house.

Every new law starts with an idea. These ideas come from many sources. The members of the legislature themselves are the principal source. Other sources include: the Governor, who usually presents his ideas for new laws in his inaugural address or in special messages to the legislature; state departments, villages, cities and counties which must come to the legislature for permission to do certain things; lobbyists representing special interest groups; political parties; and interested citizen groups and individuals.

Interim commissions established by the legislature to study specific problems also usually make recommendations for legislation as the result of their findings.

DRAFTING BILLS—The first step in making an idea into law is drafting a bill for an act. Drafting bills is a specialized field within the practice of law.

The Attorney General and the Revisor of Statutes provide bill-drafting services for members of the legislature and state departments. Usually a member of the Attorney General's staff prepares bills to carry out the Governor's recommendations. Lay groups often employ private attorneys to draw bills for them.

Each bill may deal with only one subject, which must be clearly expressed in its title. A bill may be as short as a single line—in the case of a repealer—or it may run more than 100 pages as was true of the 1959 Election Code. Where an existing law is to be amended, the bill must include both existing language in the law and the proposed new language.

INTRODUCTION—Only members of the legislature may introduce bills. The Governor may recommend measures but he must find a member or members of the legislature to introduce and sponsor them.

House rules limit the number of authors on each bill to five; the Senate limit is three. Any member of either House may introduce a bill, with the exception of bills to raise revenue which must be originated in the House of Representatives.

Persons experienced in the legislative process have found that it is wise to select as authors of a bill influential legislators (of the majority group in each house) who are interested in and willing to work hard for the bill.

Bills prepared for introduction in the House are deposited each day in the office of the Speaker and those for presentation in the Senate are delivered to the Lieutenant Governor's office.

Actual introduction takes place when the Lieutenant Governor hands a bill to the Secretary of the Senate or when the Speaker of the House hands one to the Chief Clerk of the House and the proposal is given its first reading and a Senate File or House File number. It is thereafter referred to by number. Both House and Senate maintain index departments which record the progress of bills and can tell the location of any given bill at any time. Anyone may secure this information about a bill by inquiring as to its subject or number.

FIRST READING—REFERRAL TO COMMITTEE—At the time of introduction a bill is given the first of the three readings required by the Constitution. After the first reading, the presiding officer refers the bill to an appropriate standing committee for consideration.

It is advantageous to have a bill one is interested in referred to the committee whose members are known to be friendly to it. Therefore, persons working for the passage of a certain piece of legislation often enlist the support of committee leaders before the bill is introduced.

The chief author of a bill is permitted to indicate to which committee he would prefer to have his bill assigned. If the request is reasonable and logical the presiding officer will very likely follow it. However, the Speaker in the House and the Lieutenant Governor in the Senate are generally supreme in deciding to which committee a bill will be assigned.

IN COMMITTEE—This is the first stage where a bill may be amended or killed and is the most important stage of all. Most committees meet regularly but they are also subject to call for special meetings. Interested persons check the bulletin boards near the entrance to the House and Senate chambers for announcements of regular and special meetings. Announcements are posted each day of the session.

No committee attempts to study all bills referred to it, since some are unimportant and the time for consideration of bills is limited. Common practice is to set up subcommittees to study controversial or complicated bills as well as to study a subject on which several bills have been submitted. After studying the bill or bills before it, the subcommittee makes its report to the committee proper.

Committees in both houses are very powerful. They may recommend that a bill pass in the form in which it was drafted, pass as amended in committee, be indefinitely postponed (which means it is killed), be ignored (commonly referred to as pigeon-holing), be returned to its author (which politely kills the bill), be passed out without any recommendation, or be reported unfavorably. Out of every 100 bills submitted to Senate committees in the 1961 regular session approximately 60 were not reported out, that is they died in committee. In the House about 58 percent died in committee.

The most favorable action a committee can take, of course, is to send a bill to the floor of its house as a committee bill. This means that the bill is a measure of some importance on which there is unanimous agreement in committee. Many legislators vote according to the committee's recommendation, since it is impossible for them to study in detail the numerous bills before them. Approximately 75 percent of all bills reported favorably by committees in both houses during the 1961 regular session were passed.

When a committee does not agree unanimously on a bill, each side brings in a recommendation (a majority and a minority report). A split committee, of course, means divided committee action on the floor, a fact which poses danger for a bill's prospects.

COMMITTEE HEARINGS—Everyone is entitled to be heard at a committee hearing. Each committee sets a day and sets aside a certain amount of time for the hearing. Authorities and interested lay people are gathered to explain and speak for the bill at that time. Opponents of the bill also line up persons to speak against it. Most prominent among those who appear before committees are the legislative lobbyists, or representatives of special interest groups.

All committee sessions are open to the public and where proposals are of sufficiently general interest public hearings are held.

The committee generally takes no action at the hearing. Therefore, supporters of a bill usually attempt to have the bill taken up again at the next committee meeting. They interview members of the committee in order to determine their positions on the measure and keep a record of each member's inclination.

It is at this stage of the legislative process that supporters of a particular bill make their greatest attempts to convince legislators of the rightness of their bill.

When a bill stalls in committee in either house, a member may move that it be recalled. If a majority of the members vote to recall the bill, it is so ordered.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE—SECOND READING—Reports of committee actions are subject to approval by the full Senate or House. Usually such approval is routine, but where considerable opposition has developed an attempt may be made at this stage to reject the committee report, if it is favorable, and so kill the bill.

When a bill is reported favorably by a committee, and that report has been accepted, the bill is given its second reading. The bill is then printed and placed on a list known as General Orders.

At some time on most days, each house resolves itself into a Committee of the Whole to consider bills on the General Orders list. At this time a member other than the regular presiding officer usually serves as chairman.

The meeting of the Committee of the Whole is a less formal proceeding than regular sessions. It is intended to give all members an opportunity to become familiar with a bill's provisions, to offer amendments and to debate it. No record is kept of the debate nor of the numerical results of any voting that may take place except in the House when voting on amendments appropriating money or increasing appropriations. The report of the Committee of the Whole shows only which proposals have been approved and those which have been rejected.

This is another crucial stage in the life of a bill. The Committee of the Whole has the same options and powers in connection with a bill as do the standing committees. Members in favor of a particular bill must be prepared to speak for it. A bill can be so amended at this time as to have the effect of killing it. The bill may also be sent back to committee for further study, a move which late in the session also has the effect of killing the measure.

At the end of a session of the Committee of the Whole, a report on its decision is submitted to the entire House or Senate for acceptance or rejection. The report may be either a recommendation that the bill "advance to the Calendar," which indicates that it is ready for its third reading and final action, or "progress." When the committee ends its session before the consideration of a bill is concluded, "progress" is reported. If this occurs for three days the bill goes to the foot of General Orders, unless otherwise ordered by a majority vote. A motion that "progress" be reported is generally made when opposition develops in the Committee of the Whole and the bill's sponsors want time to try to win over the opposition, or when friends of the measure are not present.

The house then votes on whether to accept the committee's report in its entirety or in part. Acceptance or rejection requires only a majority vote.

SUSPENSION OF THE RULES—When a bill has had its first or second reading, the rules may be suspended to secure its immediate consideration. This may dispense with consideration by the Committee of the Whole and speeds up the passage of many noncontroversial and local bills, or important bills that require immediate passage. In the House of Representatives, it is done by obtaining the unanimous consent of the members to entertain a motion to suspend the rules and approval of that motion requires a two-thirds vote of the whole House. In the Senate, unanimous consent is not required. As in the House, the motion to suspend requires a two-thirds vote of the whole body.

THE CALENDAR—THIRD READING—Successfully past the Committee of the Whole, the bill is given a place on the Calendar and is ready for final action.

In the House bills usually are debated both in Committee of the Whole and when they come up for final passage. Most Senate debate usually takes place in Committee of the Whole and a final vote often is taken, except on major bills, without discussion.

A bill is given its third reading, just before the final vote. Every bill requires a majority vote of the full membership to pass, regardless of how many members may be absent when the vote is taken. The minimum favorable vote to pass a bill in the House is 68, in the Senate 34.

When a major bill is up for final vote, it is customary for its sponsor to move for a Call of the House or a Call of the Senate. Such a move requires all present to vote and, in extreme cases, the mover may require the body to wait until all absent members, unless excused prior to call, have been called in, wherever they may be.

The first house to pass a bill sends it to the other. There it is referred to the Committee on Engrossment and Enrollment, unless other action is taken, where it is checked to find if there is a companion bill.

If there is no companion bill, or if the original companion is amended, the measure is referred to the proper standing committee for amendment or whatever other action may be necessary. If there is an identical bill in the committee, it generally substitutes the bill which has already passed the other house for the one it is considering. This is done in order to speed up the bill's progress. Furthermore, if an identical bill is already on General Orders or on Special Order in the house receiving the bill, that house may, by a majority vote, substitute the bill that has already passed the other house. A substituted bill comes up for discussion at the same time as the original bill would have.

CONSENT CALENDAR—SPECIAL ORDERS—Besides General Orders and the Calendar, each body has another calendar on which non-controversial and local bills are listed when they are reported out by committees. In the House this is called the Consent Calendar, in the Senate the Calendar of Ordinary Matters.

Bills on this calendar, since they are presumed to be non-controversial, are considered and passed, after brief explanation but without debate, in rapid fire order. Any which provoke debate are shifted to General Orders.

As the session progresses, as many as 200 or more bills may be listed on General Orders. This means that those near the end of the list may never be reached.

To make sure no important bill not otherwise entitled to priority dies because it cannot be reached by normal procedures, legislative rules provide a device known as the Special Order, in addition to the provision for suspension of the rules.

Under this rule the sponsor of a bill may, after two days' notice, move that the bill be made a Special Order of Business for a certain time. A motion for a Special Order requires a two-thirds vote.

When a bill is made a Special Order, it is taken up for debate and passage at the time specified regardless of what other business may be before the body at the time. In this procedure a bill skips the Committee of the Whole.

Placing a bill on Special Order assures its consideration and gives ample notice of the time it will come up for debate to both its proponents and opponents.

Because of their special importance, bills coming from the Finance and Appropriations Committees and from the Rules Committees receive special priority without Special Orders.

Tax bills providing for raising revenue must originate in the House. The logic of this requirement is that House members are elected every two years and therefore presumably represent the most recent expression of the voters' thoughts and wishes.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEES—Often the two houses pass major controversial bills in very different forms. This is especially true when Liberals control one body and the Conservatives the other, in which case appropriations and tax bills almost always are passed in different forms.

When this occurs a conference committee of from three to five Senators and an equal number of Representatives is named. This group meets and tries to compromise the differences in the two bills.

If the members of the committee can reach a successful compromise, they bring their report back in identical form to each house, and the house either accepts it without amendment or rejects it. If the report is accepted by both houses, the bill is ready for engrossing and the Governor's signature. If either house rejects the report and then does not ask for a new conference committee, the bill dies.

TO THE GOVERNOR—When a bill has been passed by both houses in the same form, it is enrolled—that is, copied carefully and accurately—by members of the staff of the Engrossment and Enrollment Committee of the house in which it is originated, signed by presiding officers of both the House and Senate, and sent to the Governor.

The Governor has several courses open to him. He signs the bill, if he wants the bill to become law. If he objects to a bill as passed, he may refer it back to the house in which it originated along with his objections. If he does not sign a bill within three days or fails to return it to the house in which it originated, it becomes a law, unless the legislature prevents its return (by adjournment). If the legislature has adjourned before the three days expire, the Governor may "pocket veto" a bill simply by refusing to sign it within three days after adjournment of the legislature.

In the case of veto, the Governor sends a message to the legislature explaining his reasons for refusing to approve the bill. The message and the bill are returned to the house in which the measure originated.

The bill may be passed over the Governor's veto by a two-thirds vote in each house.

Some bills include a provision stating the date on which they will become effective. If there is no such provision, they become effective the day next following their signature by the Governor. However, an appropriation act, or an act having appropriation items, takes effect on the following first day of July, unless a different date is specified.

THE LAST STEP—All measures written into law by the joint action of the House, the Senate and the Governor are filed with the Secretary of State, who is designated as permanent custodian.

PERMANENT RULES OF THE SENATE

CALLING SENATE TO ORDER

1. The President shall take the chair at the hour to which the Senate shall have adjourned, and shall immediately call the members to order, and, on the appearance of a quorum, shall proceed with the regular order of business. He shall preserve order and decorum; may speak on points of order in preference to members, and shall also decide all questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Senate by any member but such appeal shall be decided by a majority vote of those present and voting thereon.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES

2. After the organization of the Senate, all committees of the Senate and the members of commissions to be appointed by the Senate authorized by rule, statute, resolution or otherwise, shall be appointed by a Committee on Committees, unless otherwise provided, subject to confirmation by the Senate. In the appointment of members of conference committees between the two houses, the Committee on Committees of the Senate shall appoint those who are in accord with the position of the Senate, and whenever practical, give preference to authors of bills in dispute and to members of standing committees in which the bills were considered.

QUESTIONS—HOW STATED AND DECIDED

3. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to-wit: "As many as are of the opinion that (as the question may be) say Aye," and after the affirmative voice is expressed, "As many as are of the contrary opinion say No." The President shall declare all votes but if any member rise to doubt a vote, he shall order a division.

CONFIRMATIONS

4. When nominations or appointments made by the Governor which require confirmation by the Senate have been transmitted to the Senate, the final question on every nomination shall be, "Will the Senate advise and consent to this nomination?" which question shall not be put on the same day on which the nomination is received, nor on the day on which it may be reported by a committee unless by unanimous consent.

Every such nomination shall, upon request of any senator, be referred to a committee, and if a question shall arise as to the proper committee, the same shall be referred without debate to the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense to report the proper reference thereof and upon adoption of the report of such committee it shall be referred accordingly.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM

5. In the absence of the President the President Pro Tem shall preside over the Senate and in the absence of both the President and President Pro Tem, the Chairman of the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense or in his absence a member may be selected by the Senate to perform the duties of the chair; but substitutions shall not extend beyond adjournment. The President shall call some member to the chair when the Senate goes into Committee of the Whole.

FURTHER DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT

6. The President of the Senate shall sign all acts, memorials, addresses and resolutions; and all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by the Senate shall be signed by him and attested by the Secretary.

7. No introduction of a visitor or visitors in the galleries shall be made from the floor or rostrum of the Senate.

DISTURBANCE IN LOBBY

8. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the lobbies or galleries, the President or chairman of the Committee of the Whole shall have power to order the same cleared.

PRIVILEGE OF REPORTERS

9. Because of the limited space available on the floor of the Senate, the Associated Press, United Press, the St. Paul Pioneer Press, the St. Paul Dispatch, the Minneapolis Star, the Minneapolis Morning Tribune, the Duluth News-Tribune and the Duluth Herald, KSTP, and WCCO, shall each be permitted representation at the press table by one regular reporter whose credentials are approved by the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense. Any person wishing to report, broadcast, or televise proceedings of the Senate may apply to the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense for assignment to suitable, available space.

ORDER OF BUSINESS

10. The order of business shall be as follows:

1. Petitions, letters, remonstrances.
2. Executive and official communications.
3. Introduction and first reading of Senate bills.
4. Messages from the House of Representatives.
5. First reading of House bills.
6. Reports of committees:
   (a) From standing committees.
   (b) From select committees.
7. Second reading of Senate bills.
8. Second reading of House bills.
9. Motions and resolutions.
10. Third reading of Senate bills.
11. Third reading of House bills.
12. Calendar of ordinary matters.
13. General orders of the day.
14. Announcements of Senate Interest.

REFERRING OF BILLS

11. All bills shall be referred by the President of the Senate without motion to the proper standing committee, on the first reading, unless otherwise referred by the Senate; and all bills appropriating money, or obligating the State to pay or expend money, or establishing a policy which to be effective will require expenditure of money, when referred to and reported by any other than the Committee on Finance, shall, before passage, be referred to the Committee on Finance, provided that when any question shall arise concerning the proper reference of a bill the bill shall be referred without debate to the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense to report the proper reference thereof, and upon adoption of such report it shall be referred accordingly.

ORDER IN DEBATE

12. When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the Senate, he shall rise to his feet and respectfully address himself to "Mr. President," but shall not proceed to speak further until recognized by the Chair. He shall confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personality. In discussing any resolution, senators shall be limited to five minutes each.

13. When any member is called to order he shall sit down until it is determined whether he is in order or not, and if a member is called to order for words spoken in debate, the words excepted to shall be taken down in writing by the Secretary immediately.

14. When two or more members shall rise simultaneously, the President shall name the member who is to speak.

15. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question on the same day without leave of the Senate.

CONDUCT DURING BUSINESS

16. When the President puts a question, or addresses the Senate, no one shall walk out of, or cross the room; nor when a member is speaking shall anyone pass between the member speaking and the Chair. No member, or other person, shall proceed to or remain by the Secretary's desk while the ayes and nays are being called or counted.

17. Upon a division and count of the Senate on any question, only members present in the Senate chamber shall be counted.

SENATORS TO VOTE UNLESS EXCUSED

18. Every member of the Senate who has not been excused who shall be in the Senate when the question is put shall give his vote unless the Senate for special reasons shall excuse him. All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the Senate divides or before he gives his vote upon a call of the ayes and nays. Any member wishing to be excused from voting or any other member for him, may make a brief statement of the reasons for making such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

MOTIONS

19. When a motion is made it shall be stated by the presiding officer; or, being in writing it shall be handed to the Secretary and read to the members.

20. A motion or amendment shall be written if the presiding officer or any member so requests. In such case it must be signed by the member or committee offering it.

21 After a motion is stated by the presiding officer, or read by the Secretary, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the Senate, but may be withdrawn by the author at any time before decision or amendment.

PRECEDENCE OF MOTIONS

22. When a question is under debate no motion shall be received, but

To adjourn.
To lay on the table.
For the previous question.

Which three motions shall be decided without debate.

To commit.
To postpone to a day certain.
To amend, or
To postpone indefinitely.

These several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order; but a motion for the previous question having been seconded, or the main question ordered, a motion to lay on the table shall not be in order.

A motion to postpone to a day certain to commit, to postpone indefinitely, or to amend, having been decided, shall not again be put on the same day, nor at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

23. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, and also a motion to adjourn to a time certain. The latter motion is debatable. When either motion is rejected it shall not be renewed until further business has been transacted.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

24. The previous question shall be in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present, and its effect shall be to put an end to all debate, and bring the Senate to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, then upon all pending amendments in their order and then upon the main question. On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the ordering of the same, a call of the Senate shall be in order, but after a majority shall have ordered such motion, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

25. On a previous question there shall be no debate. All incidental questions of order, arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

RECONSIDERATION

26. When a motion or question has been once put and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing side to move for reconsideration thereof, on the same day on which the vote was taken or within the next two days of actual session of the Senate thereafter; and such motion shall take precedence over all other questions except a motion to adjourn. When a motion to adjourn is adopted prior to the disposition of the motion for reconsideration, a motion for reconsideration shall lie over until the next succeeding day except as hereinafter provided. During the last five legislative days of the session a notice of intention to move for reconsideration shall not be in order, but a motion to reconsider may be made and have priority over other business except a motion to adjourn.

DIVISION OF QUESTION

27. Any member may call for a division of the question when the same will admit of it. A motion to strike out and insert is indivisible. A motion to strike out being lost shall not preclude an amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

PETITIONS AND OTHER COMMUNICATIONS

28. In presenting a petition, memorial, remonstrance or other communication addressed to the Senate, a member shall only state the general purpose of it.

29. Every petition, memorial, remonstrance, resolution, bill and report of committee, shall have an appropriate title, and the name of the member presenting it written thereon.

CALL OF THE SENATE

30. Any member may make a call of the Senate, and require absent members to be sent for, but a call of the Senate cannot be made after the voting has commenced; and the call of the Senate being ordered and the absentees noted, the doors shall be closed, and no member permitted to leave the room until further proceedings under the call be dispensed with by a majority vote of all the members of the Senate and the matter or question, if any, under consideration at the time of the call be disposed of, or the Senate adjourns.

COMMITTEES

31. The Standing Committees of the Senate are as follows:

Agriculture, 27
Cities of the First Class, 23
Civil Administration, 18
Commerce, 20
Committee on Committees, 7
Education, 22
Elections and Reapportionment, 19
Finance, 21
Game and Fish, 20
General Legislation, 18
Judiciary, 25
Labor, 19
Liquor Control, 15
Military Affairs and Civil Defense, 11
Municipal Affairs, 15
Public Buildings, 10
Public Domain, 16
Public Highways, 25
Public Welfare, 22
Rules and Legislative Expense, 22
Taxes and Tax Laws, 19
Towns and Counties, 16
Transportation and Communications, 18

The Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense has authority to constitute a standing subcommittee on Engrossing and Enrolling, the report of which within its jurisdiction has the effect of a report of the main committee on Rules and Legislative Expense, and the reference under Rule 77 is made directly to this subcommittee.

Each standing committee of the Senate, including any subcommittee of any such committee, is authorized at any time to sit and act, to require by subpoena or otherwise the attendance and testimony of such witnesses and the production of such correspondence, books, papers, and documents, and to take such testimony as it deems advisable. Each such committee may make investigation into any matter within its jurisdiction, may report such hearings as may be had by it, and may make such expenditures as shall be authorized from time to time by the standing Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

32. The rules observed in the Senate shall govern, as far as practicable, the proceedings of the Committee of the Whole, except that a member may speak more than twice on the same subject, and that a call for the ayes and nays, or for the previous question cannot be made.

33. The recommendations of the Committee of the Whole shall be reported to the Senate by the chairman standing in his place. If the recommendation contains a proposed amendment of any bill, that amendment shall be noted on a separate piece of paper but when reported need not be read by the President unless required by one or more of the members. The question shall be on the adoption or rejection of the report, and no other question shall be admitted. The question may be divided to permit separate Senate action on the report as to any bill. On adoption of the report of the Committee of the Whole all bills recommended to pass shall be placed upon the calendar.

INTRODUCTION OF BILLS

34. Bills, memorials, concurrent or joint resolutions may be introduced by any member or by order of the Senate on a report of a committee. An original and three copies so identified shall be required for introduction. The number of authors shall not exceed three.

The name of the author or authors shall be prefixed to each bill, memorial, concurrent or joint resolution; and the name of a committee reporting a bill, memorial or resolution shall be endorsed thereon.

A committee report or a proposed amendment to a bill, memorial, concurrent or joint resolution shall be in triplicate and written only on one side of the paper.

A bill for an amendment of a statute shall contain the full text of the chapter, section, or subdivision to be amended. The words and characters constituting the amending matter shall be inserted in the proper place in the text and underscored. When the bill is printed, the amending matter shall be inserted in italics. The words and characters to be eliminated by the Amendment shall be stricken by drawing a line through them. A printed bill shall capitalize words and characters to be stricken and enclose them in brackets. The text of the new section or subdivision shall also be underscored when a bill amends an existing chapter, section, or subdivision, by adding a new section or subdivision. When such bill is printed the amending matter, including the new section or subdivision shall appear in italics. Before a committee favorably reports upon such a bill, the chairman of the committee shall see that the bill conforms to this rule. A bill drafted by the Revisor of Statutes for the purpose of correcting errors in Minnesota Statutes need not comply with the provisions of this paragraph if the bill is labeled, immediately below the title "(REVISOR'S BILL)" and if there is attached thereto a memorandum of information explaining the reasons for the bill.

Bills shall refer to the session laws as follows: "Laws_____, Chapter_____, Section_____."

Bills shall refer to Minnesota Statutes as follows:

"Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section. . . .".

Reference shall be made to Minnesota Statutes 1961 for the provisions appearing therein, unless reference to previous session laws is required for some special reason.

If the bill is for an original law and not for an amendment of an existing law, the sections and subdivisions shall be arranged, subdivided, and numbered in like manner as Minnesota Statutes 1961. If such bill assigns to the sections thereof headnotes or identification by the decimal system of numbering used in Minnesota Statutes, such headnotes and decimal identification may be submitted by standing committee chairmen to the Revisor of Statutes for his examination. Any such headnotes shall be in capital letters enclosed in brackets, and shall be subject to the provisions of Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 648.36.

If the bill is for an amendment of a statute, all statutory references shall be to Minnesota Statutes 1961, and it shall contain the full text of the section or subdivision to be amended as it appears in Minnesota Statutes 1961.

The title of each bill shall state its subject and briefly state its purpose.

When a law is sought to be amended or repealed the title of the amendatory act shall contain a proper reference to the law to be amended or repealed and briefly express its subject matter.

All numbers in titles shall be expressed in figures. All numbers of section or chapter of laws shall be in figures. In the body of a bill numbers in excess of ten shall be in figures, except for a special reason they may be written, but when written they should not be followed by numbers in parentheses.

READING OF BILLS

35. Every bill, memorial, order, resolution or vote requiring the approval of the Governor shall receive three separate readings previous to its passage; the first and third readings shall be at length; and no such bill, memorial, order or resolution shall be read twice on the same day.

COMMITMENT

36. No bill or joint resolution shall be committed or amended until it has been once read at length. If objections are made to a bill on its first reading the question shall be: "Shall the bill be rejected?" If no objection be made or the question to reject be lost, the bill shall be referred in accordance with Rule 11.

ALL BILLS TO GO TO COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

37. All bills, memorials, orders, resolutions and votes requiring the approval of the Governor shall, after a second reading, be considered in Committee of the Whole before they shall be finally acted upon by the Senate, except as provided for in Rule 79.

PRINTING OF BILLS

38. Unless otherwise ordered by the Senate in respect to a bill, all bills which have been reported upon favorably or without recommendation by the committee to whom the same shall have been referred shall be printed; and any bill shall be printed when ordered by a majority vote of the Senate.

FINAL PASSAGE

39. The final question upon a bill or other paper requiring action by both Houses after the first and second reading thereof, and after the consideration in Committee of the Whole, shall be upon its final passage.

AMENDMENT ON THIRD READING

40. No amendment shall be received on third reading except to fill blanks without the unanimous consent of the Senate. In filling blanks, the largest sum, the longest time and the greatest distance shall be first taken.

41. A bill or resolution may be committed at any time prior to its passage, and if any amendment be reported on such commitment to any other than a Committee of the Whole, it shall be again read the second time, considered in Committee of the Whole, and the question for third reading and passage again put. If the commitment be to the Committee of the Whole it shall be placed at the head of the general orders, except when the commitment is under Rule 79.

ENGROSSMENT

42. Every bill, memorial, order or resolution originating in the Senate shall be carefully engrossed before being transmitted to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

TRANSMITTING OF BILLS TO THE HOUSE

43. Immediately after the passage of any bill or other paper to which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is to be asked it shall be the duty of the Secretary to transmit the same to the House, unless some member of the Senate shall make a motion to reconsider the vote by which the Senate passed the said bill or other paper; in which case the Secretary shall not transmit said bill or other paper until a motion to reconsider has been put; and on the concurrence of any bill or other paper of the House of Representatives by the Senate, or on the concurrence or disagreement in any vote of the House it shall also be the duty of the Senate to notify the House thereof.

MEMORIALS TO THE UNITED STATES OR ANY OTHER STATE OR FOREIGN GOVERNMENT

44. Memorials or petitions to the President or the Congress of the United States, or any branch or member thereof, or any department or officer of the United States, or any state or foreign government, including all motions, resolutions, joint or concurrent resolutions in relation thereto, shall follow the same procedure as bills before being adopted.

ANY SENATOR MAY DEMAND AYES AND NAYS

45. It shall be competent for any member, when a question is being taken, to call for the ayes and nays, which shall be entered in the Journal. A call for the ayes and nays cannot be interrupted except as provided in Rule No. 18.

COMMITTEE NOT TO BE ABSENT

46. Committees shall not absent themselves from the Senate, by reason of their appointment, without special permission of the Senate.

ENROLLMENT

47. All bills shall be carefully enrolled under the supervision of the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense, which committee may report to the Senate at any time on the enrollment of bills.

DUTIES OF SECRETARY

48. The Secretary shall keep a correct Journal of the proceedings of the Senate and shall perform such other duties as shall be assigned to him as such Secretary. He shall permit no Journal records, accounts or papers to be taken from the table or out of his custody, other than in the regular mode of business. If any paper in his charge shall be missing, he shall report the fact to the President, that inquiry may be made. He shall superintend the recording of proceedings in the Journal, the engrossing, transcribing and copying of the bills and resolutions, supervise the assistants, clerks and stenographers under the direction of the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense, and generally perform the duties of Secretary, under direction of the President. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep the books to be called "Minute Books" in which he shall enter under the appropriate marginal numbers, all Senate and House bills, and correct notes, with the dates thereof, of the state, condition and progress of each bill pending, until its final passage.

CERTIFICATE FOR MONEY

49. No certificate authorizing the payment of any money appropriated by the Legislature shall be issued by the Secretary, by virtue of any motion or resolution, unless such a motion or resolution shall be voted for by a majority of all members of the Senate. All motions or resolutions authorizing the issuing of certificates by the Secretary for the payment of money shall be upon a call of the ayes and nays.

JOURNAL OF THE EXECUTIVE SESSION

50. The proceedings of the Senate on executive business shall be kept in a separate book of record to be provided by the Secretary of the Senate, and published with the proceedings of the Senate, unless the public good requires secrecy, which shall be determined by a vote of the Senate.

JEFERSON'S MANUAL

51. The rules of parliamentary practice comprised in Jefferson's Manual shall govern the Senate in all cases in which they are applicable, and in which they are not inconsistent with these rules and orders of the Senate, and the joint rules and orders of the Senate and House of Representatives.

HOUR OF CONVENING

52. The Senate shall convene daily at 10 o'clock a. m. unless the Senate directs otherwise.

ABSENCE OF SENATORS

53. No Senator or officer of the Senate shall absent himself from any session of the Senate unless excused by the Senate.

PERSONS PRIVILEGED TO THE FLOOR OF THE SENATE

54. No person shall be admitted within the Senate chamber, but a Senator, the executive or ex-Governors of the State of Minnesota, members of the House, heads of departments of the state government, judges of the Supreme and District Courts and members of Congress and, when personally admitted by a member of the Senate, those who have been members of Congress or of the State Legislature who are not interested in any claim or directly in any bill pending before the Legislature, but an employee of either house may be admitted at the request of a member or an officer of the Senate and when the Senate is not meeting, a person not a member may be admitted at the request of a member or officer to the floor. No public hearings shall be held in the Senate Chamber; and the Senate coat room and the retiring room of the Senate shall be reserved for the exclusive use of the members of the Senate at all times. The Sergeant-at-Arms is charged with the duty of strict enforcement of this rule.

AMENDMENTS, RULES AND SUSPENSION OF RULES

55. Every proposition to amend any rule of the Senate shall be referred to the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense, and shall not be acted upon until the report of such committee is received by the Senate; nor shall any rule be suspended except by at least two-thirds vote of the whole Senate; provided that a motion to suspend the rules for the purpose of advancing a bill shall be made only under the order of business, "Motions and Resolutions."

AMENDMENTS TO BILLS

56. In drawing any amendment to any bill or resolution reference shall be made therein, first to the number of the bill, then to the section, and then to the line or lines from which matter is to be stricken or in which new matter is to be inserted.

NOTICE TO DEBATE

57. Upon any member giving notice of his intention to debate any resolution, the same shall lie over one day without debate or other action, except that upon the request of any Senator, any resolution shall be referred to the proper committee, provided that whenever any question shall arise concerning the proper reference thereof the procedure provided by Rule No. 11 shall apply. This rule shall not apply to any resolution offered by the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

58. When in executive session, the Senate may, in all cases, sit with closed doors, and the Senate chamber may be cleared of all persons except the officers and members of the Senate.

NO SMOKING

59. No Senator or officer of the Senate, or other person, shall be permitted to smoke in the Senate chamber during a Memorial Service. There shall be no smoking in the galleries.

SECRETARY MAY CORRECT ERRORS

60. The Secretary and Engrossing Clerk, in all proper cases, shall correct all mistakes in numbering the sections and reference thereto, whether such errors occur in the original bill or are caused by amendments thereto.

DUTIES OF THE SERGEANT-AT-ARMS

61. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms to execute all orders of the President of the Senate, and to perform all duties they may assign to him connected with the police and good order of the Senate chamber; to exercise a supervision over the ingress and egress of all persons to and from the chambers; to see that messages, etc., are promptly executed; that the hall is properly ventilated and the temperature thereof properly regulated, and open for the use of members of the Senate at the time fixed; and to perform all other services pertaining to his office.

REPORT ON AMENDED BILLS

62. No committee nor any member thereof shall report any substitute for any bill or bills referred to such committee, which substitute relates to a different subject, or is intended to accomplish a different purpose than that of the original bill for which it is reported, or which, if adopted and passed, would require a title essentially different from the title of the original bill; and every substitute bill so reported shall be rejected whenever the Senate is advised that the same is in violation of this rule.

GENERAL ORDERS

63. The Secretary shall make a list of all bills, resolutions, reports of committees, and other proceedings of the Senate, which are referred to the Committee of the Whole, and which are not the order of the day, for any particular day, and to number the same, which lists shall be called the "General Orders of the Day" and they shall be taken up in the order in which they are numbered unless otherwise ordered by a majority of the committee.

Such general orders, together with all bills included therein required to be printed under the rules or orders of the Senate, shall be printed and placed upon the members' desks at least one day before the same shall be considered in Committee of the Whole.

CALENDAR

64. The Secretary shall make a list of all bills, resolutions and other matters coming before the Senate for final action and place the same upon the calendar in the order in which they have been acted upon in Committee of the Whole, and such calendar shall be printed and placed upon the members' desks at least one day before the matters included therein shall be considered.

EMPLOYEES AUTHORIZED IN THE SENATE

65. The Senate shall employ for the session, at the compensation of $12 per day, unless otherwise specified, the following:

Three assistant secretaries of the Senate: First Assistant Secretary at $19.50 per day, Second and Third Assistant Secretaries each at $18.00 per day.

Chaplain of the Senate.

One bill clerk at $15.00 per day.

One daily index clerk at $16.00 per day.

One assistant daily index clerk at $15.00 per day.

One accountant to the Finance Committee at an undetermined salary.

One clerk to the Finance Committee at $17.50 per day.

One assistant clerk to the Finance Committee at $16.00 per day.

One clerk to the Judiciary Committee at $22.50 per day.

One clerk to the Committee on Taxes and Tax Laws at $20.00 per day.

One clerk to the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense at $18.50 per day.

One clerk to the Secretary of the Senate at $22.00 per day.

One account clerk and two assistant clerks to the Secretary of the Senate at $16.00 per day.

One property, equipment and file clerk at $15.50 per day.

One Journal index clerk at $18.50 per day.

One assistant Journal index clerk at $16.50 per day.

Eight special clerks at $15.50 per day.

Three comparison clerks at $14.50 per day.

Twenty (20) general committee clerks to be assigned to their respective positions and duties by the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense.

One stenographer to the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense at $18.50 per day.

One stenographer to the Committee on Taxes and Tax Laws at $17.00 per day.

One stenographer to the Committee on Judiciary at $17.00 per day.

One stenographer to the Committee on Public Welfare at $17.00 per day.

One supervisor of stenographers at $17.00 per day.

One assistant supervisor of stenographers at $16.50 per day.

Twelve special stenographers at $16.00 per day.

Fifteen general stenographers and such additional stenographers as the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense may from time to time determine at $15.00 per day.

Two clerk typists at $12.50 per day.

Forty sergeants of galleries, committee rooms, retiring rooms, cloak rooms, doorkeepers to be assigned to their respective positions and duties by the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense.

One superintendent of janitors at $15.00 per day and six assistant janitors.

One captain of pages at $13.50 per day.

One assistant captain of pages at $13.00 per day, and six pages.

The sergeant-at-arms shall receive $18.50 per day, and the first assistant sergeant-at-arms shall receive $17.00 per day.

The enrolling clerk and the engrossing clerk shall each receive $15.50 per day.

The President of the Senate is hereby authorized to appoint a secretary at $15.00 per day, also a stenographer at $14.50 per day.

The Secretary of the Senate shall receive $50.00 per day, and the sum of $3,000 for extra work after the session and for compensation of clerical help for such post session.

The Executive Assistant Secretary of the Senate shall receive $30.00 per day.

The appointment to the foregoing positions shall be made by resolution specifying the names of such appointments and the positions to which the same are appointed, adopted by a majority of all members of the Senate.

ADDITIONAL EMPLOYEES—GRATUITIES

66. All propositions for the appointment and payment of employees of the Senate or for expenditures on account of the Legislature, other than those provided by law, shall be referred to the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense, without debate, and no appointment shall be made or expense incurred unless reported favorably by said committee, or unless its report be overruled by a three-fourths (3/4) vote of the whole Senate. Said committee shall report to the Senate the amount of compensation that shall be paid to each employee whose appointment is recommended by it.

SPECIAL ORDER

67. On two days' notice it shall require a two-thirds vote of the whole Senate to designate a Special Order and when a time has been designated by the Senate, whether by adoption of a report of the committee or otherwise, for a particular or Special Order, the Senate shall at such time proceed to the consideration of such order, and shall at such time so designated, after considering the bill, resolution, or measure included therein, unless the same shall be otherwise disposed of or the Special Order postponed to a day certain, immediately proceed to the third reading and final passage of the same and during the consideration of such Special Order Rule No. Fifteen (15) shall be suspended, and the debate thereon and all proceedings thereunder, including amendments and substitutions, shall be, as nearly as applicable, that of the Committee of the Whole, except that it shall be competent for any member when a question is being taken, to call for the ayes and nays which shall be entered on the Journal.

After a time designated by resolution adopted by the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense the chairmen of the Committees on Finance and Taxes and Tax Laws, as authorized by their respective committees, shall have the right to designate a time for consideration of any bill favorably reported by their respective committees, and that bill will be a Special Order to be heard at the time designated.

JOURNAL—HOW APPROVED

68. The Journal of each day's proceedings shall be open for correction at any time during the session of the succeeding day, and unless corrected on that day, shall stand approved.

AUTHORITY OVER EMPLOYEES

69. Except as otherwise provided in these rules, the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense shall have full and exclusive authority over, and charge of all employees, officers and clerks of the Senate both elective and appointive. Such committee shall have the sole and exclusive power and authority to assign them to such duties other than for which they were elected or appointed as such committee may from time to time provide. Such committee shall have power to appoint such of said employees, officers or clerks as they shall deem proper to exercise the power to them granted by this rule. They may make such rules and regulations for the government of the employees, officers and clerks as they shall see fit and proper. In case of violation of any of the orders of said committee by any employee, officer or clerk, or in case of any violation of any such rule or regulation made by such committee, or in case of any misconduct or omission of any such employee, officer or clerk, the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense shall have power to hear complaints and to discharge any such employee, officer or clerk or impose such other punishment by way of fine or otherwise upon such employee, officer or clerk as to such committee may seem just and proper.

AMENDMENTS TO TITLE

70. The title to any bill may be amended at any time during its pendency in the Senate.

RECALL FROM COMMITTEE

71. A majority of the Senate may at any time recall a bill from any committee or take a bill from the table and place such bill on General Orders.

ENROLLING AND ENGROSSING OF BILLS

72. All enrolling and engrossing of bills shall be done at the direction and under authority of the Senate.

RESOLUTIONS

73. Except as provided in Rule 44, resolutions not requiring the signature of the Governor need not take the regular course of bills and memorials, but may be acted upon in the same manner as other resolutions.

PURCHASING SUPPLIES

74. The Secretary of the Senate shall be the agent of the Senate for the purchase of supplies. Before making purchases, however, it shall be his duty to consult with and get prices from the Commissioner of Purchases of the State of Minnesota and then submit the same to the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense together with a list of necessary supplies, and the prices for which the same can be secured, which supplies shall then be purchased by the Secretary upon the approval of the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense.

REPORT OF VOTE IN COMMITTEE

75. Upon the request of any member of a committee to which a bill has been referred, or upon the request of the author of any such bill, a record shall be made of the vote on such bill in any standing committee, including the vote on any amendment or proposed amendment thereto, in the committee to which the bill was referred.

QUORUM IN COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY

76. Seven members shall constitute a quorum of the Committee on Judiciary.

COMPARISON AND SUBSITUTION OF BILLS

77. Unless there is a motion or objection, a House bill shall be referred to the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense or to its Subcommittee on Engrossing and Enrolling after its first reading. That committee will promptly make its report thereon. If there is a Senate bill identical to the House bill so referred which has had its second reading and which is on General Orders of the Day, Calendar of Ordinary Matters, or which is a Special Order, or on the Senate Calendar, the report of that committee will so state, identifying such companion bill by Senate file and recommend substitution of the House bill for its companion Senate bill in the Senate bill's place on the General Orders of the Day, the Calendar of Ordinary Matters, the Special Order, or the Calendar as the case may be, an indefinite postponement of the companion Senate bill; and upon adoption of such report the substitution and postponement recommended therein will be made without further motion, provided, a House bill when placed on the Calendar by substitution shall not be given its third reading on the same day as the substitution is effected, and in all cases a House bill shall have three readings in the Senate. Senate bills in the temporary custody of the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense or its Subcommittee on Engrossing and Enrolling for comparison purposes shall be deemed in the possession of the Senate for all legislative purposes. If there is no Senate bill identical with the House bill so referred which has had its second reading in the Senate on the General Orders of the Day, the Calendar of Ordinary Matters, Special Orders, or the Calendar, the report of the Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense or its Subcommittee on Engrossing and Enrolling on such House bill will so state and recommend that the House bill be referred to the proper committee of the Senate unless special circumstance requires a different recommendation.

AUTHORIZING ELECTRICAL DEVICE

78. Unless otherwise ordered, any vote, except upon elections and upon the overriding of a Governor's veto, may be taken by means of the electrical voting system which shall be under the control of the President of the Senate.

CALENDAR OF ORDINARY MATTERS

79. If a committee determines that a bill it recommends to pass is of a routine nature or otherwise of a nature which likely will not be opposed, it may, in its report, recommend that the bill be placed on the Calendar of Ordinary Matters. If such report is adopted, the bill will be printed and placed on the Calendar of Ordinary Matters after its second reading. On the question of adoption of such report the question of accepting the recommendation that the bill be placed on the Calendar of Ordinary Matters may be divided from the question of adopting the report in other respects.

The Calendar of Ordinary Matters shall consist of bills so placed on it; Rule 64 will govern it except that such bills will not be first considered in the Committee of the Whole and except as inconsistent with this rule.

If a member objects to consideration of a bill on the Calendar of Ordinary Matters at any time during its consideration in the Senate before the question on final passage is put, and that objection is supported by at least two other members, the bill will thereby and without further action be referred to the Committee of the Whole, unless the bill is otherwise committed, and it shall be subject to Rule 63, except that it need not lie over one day before consideration in the Committee of the Whole.

PROVIDING FOR THE REGISTRATION OF LOBBYISTS

80. Any person who is employed for a compensation or whose employment calls for or includes activity in or about the Senate in regard to legislation must register with the secretary of the Senate. Such person shall disclose in the detail deemed by the secretary necessary the following information which will be recorded in a register kept by the secretary: (1) The name and address of the registrant; (2) the name and address of the registrant's employer including any association, organized group, State agency, department or office or labor union, and in case of multiple employers a sufficient number so identified as to indicate the class or classes registered with whose interests the registrant is concerned; and (3) the subject or subjects of legislation to which his employment relates.

A person to whom this requirement of registration applies may not appear before a Senate committee in pursuance of his employment until he is registered except upon special invitation of the committee, nor shall he in such pursuit try to influence the legislative judgment or action of a member of the Senate.

A person who is registered under this rule, or who should be registered under it, when appearing before a committee shall disclose to the committee those in whose interest he speaks, the purpose of his appearance and when he or the person for whom he appears has a pecuniary or other special interest in a measure or proposal different than the public generally which is not apparent from his testimony, the fact thereof. Further, in pursuance of the employment for which he is or should be registered he must not knowingly furnish false information or make a false statement which is material and relevant to any matter with an intention to, or which he should know will have a tendency to influence the judgment or action of the Senate or of a committee thereon.

Whenever a charge of any violation of Rule No. 80 is preferred in writing to any committee chairman he shall see that reasonable notice to interested parties is given and a fair hearing of the committee is held thereon. The committee recommendation after hearing shall be submitted to the Senate.

A person who has been adjudged guilty by the Senate upon recommendation of any committee of violating this rule in any respect shall not be eligible to appear in a professional or representative capacity before any committee of the Senate and shall be barred thereby from so doing until reinstated by the Senate. The name of anyone so barred shall be recorded in the Journal of the Senate.

COMMITTEE ACTION

81. No report of any committee shall be made to the Senate unless it reports action taken at a regular or special meeting of the committee. Every report in violation of this rule shall be rejected whenever the Senate is advised that the same is in violation of this rule.

OFFICE SPACE

82. So far as practicable, the members of the Senate shall be provided with adequate office space to meet their needs in carrying out their duties in the Senate.

PERMANENT RULES OF THE HOUSE

BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE
MEETING, ROLL CALL, ETC.

1. The Speaker shall take the chair at the hour at which the House stands adjourned. The House shall then be called to order, and after prayer by the Chaplain, a roll of members shall be called and the names of the members present and those excused shall be entered on the Journal of the House. Unless otherwise ordered by the House, regular sessions thereof shall convene at two o'clock p.m.

READING OF THE JOURNAL

2. Upon the appearance of a quorum, the Journal of the preceding day shall be read by the Chief Clerk, unless otherwise ordered, and any errors therein may be corrected by the House.

ORDER OF BUSINESS

3. After the reading of the Journal, the order of business of the day shall be as follows:

1. Presentation of petitions or other communications.
2. Reports of standing committees.
3. Second reading of House Bills.
4. Second reading of Senate Bills.
5. Reports of select committees.
6. Introduction and first reading of bills.
7. Motions and resolutions.
8. Consideration of messages from the Senate.
9. First reading of Senate Bills.
10. Consent Calendar.
11. Calendar for the day.
12. General Orders.

BILLS—HOW INTRODUCED

4a. A member or committee desiring to introduce a bill shall place the same in the hands of the Speaker at least two hours prior to the opening of the daily session.

Prior to introduction, all bills shall be examined by the Revisor of Statutes as to form and compliance with the rules of the House, and the approval as to such form shall be endorsed on said bill by the Revisor of Statutes.

All memorials and joint resolutions shall be presented, received and considered in the same manner as bills, and take the same course as a bill.

No bill shall be introduced except on the written request of the governor during the last thirty (30) days of the session, except the attention of the legislature shall be called to some important matter of general interest by a special message from the governor.

Any standing or special committee of the house may introduce a bill on any subject or matters within its purview as a committee bill, which bill shall be read for the first time and may then be referred by the Speaker to any standing committee whose study it requires, but if not so referred shall be laid over one day, when it shall be read for the second time and placed upon General Orders or upon the Consent Calendar if so recommended by the Committee.

Every bill and resolution shall be introduced in quadruplicate and shall have prefixed thereto the name of the member or committee introducing it.

No bill, memorial, resolution or joint resolution shall have affixed thereto the names of more than five members as the authors thereof.

BILLS—HOW DRAFTED

4b. The title of each bill must give its single subject and briefly state its purpose.

A bill for the amendment of a statute shall contain the full text of the chapter, section, or subdivision to be amended. Insert the words and characters constituting the amending matter in the proper place in such text and underscore them. When the bill is typewritten, the amending matter shall be underscored and the words and characters to be eliminated by the amendment shall have a line drawn through them. When the bill is printed, the new matter shall be in italics and the words and characters to be eliminated shall be capitalized and in brackets.

A bill drafted by the Revisor of Statutes for the purpose of correcting errors in Minnesota Statutes need not comply with the provisions of the foregoing paragraph if the bill is labeled immediately underneath the title "[REVISOR'S BILL]" and if there is attached thereto a memorandum of information explaining the reasons for the bill.

In a bill amending the language of an existing chapter, section, or subdivision, and also adding a new section or subdivision thereto, the text of the new section or subdivision shall likewise be underscored. When the bill is printed, the amending matter, including the new section or subdivision, shall be put in italics.

Before a committee reports favorably upon such a bill, the chairman of the committee shall see that the bill conforms to this rule.

Bills shall refer to the Session Laws of this state as follows: "Laws ——, Chapter ——, Section ——".

Bills shall refer to compilations of the laws of this state as follows: "Revised Laws 1905, Section ——".

When referring to laws passed at the session of 1891 and prior years, and only in those cases, references shall be as follows:

"Special Laws ——, Chapter ——, Section ——".

"General Laws ——, Chapter ——, Section ——".

Reference shall be made to the latest edition Minnesota Statutes for the provisions appearing therein, unless reference to previous Session Laws is required for some special reason.

If the bill is for an original law and not for an amendment of an existing law, the sections and subdivisions shall be arranged, subdivided, and numbered in like manner as Minnesota Statutes. No such bill assigning to the sections thereof headnotes or identification by the decimal system of numbering used in Minnesota Statutes shall be introduced, unless there is attached thereto a written authorization by the Revisor of Statutes for such headnotes or for such identification.

If the bill is for an amendment of a statute, all statutory references shall be to the latest edition Minnesota Statutes, and it shall contain the full text of the section or subdivision to be amended as it appears in the latest edition of Minnesota Statutes, unless it has been amended at a later session, in which event it shall contain the full text as amended.

When a law is sought to be amended or repealed the title of the amendatory act shall contain a proper reference to the law to be amended or repealed and briefly express its subject matter.

All numbers in titles shall be expressed in figures. All numbers of section or chapter of laws shall be in figures. In the body of a bill numbers in excess of ten shall be in figures, except for a special reason they may be written, but when written they shall not be followed by numbers in parentheses.

The author of a bill may attach thereto a memorandum of information, headed "memorandum", which constitutes no part of the bill, and which shall only be printed when ordered by a vote of the House.

FIRST READING AND REFERENCE OF BILLS

5. All bills, memorials, resolutions and joint resolutions shall be read at length upon their introductions. No bill, memorial, resolution or joint resolution shall be objected to upon its introduction.

All bills, memorials, resolutions and joint resolutions shall after reading be referred by the Speaker to the appropriate standing committee, except when introduced by such committee as above provided, containing an amendment to an existing law of the state, shall first be referred by the Speaker to the appropriate committee of the House appointed with reference to the subject matter contained in the law proposed to be amended.

After a reference of a bill by the Speaker, a majority vote of the whole House, shall, except as herein otherwise provided, be required for a re-reference or re-committal thereof by the House.

Any bill whether emanating from the House or the Senate carrying an appropriation or which may involve any financial obligation either present or future on the part of the State, which has been previously referred by the Speaker under the Rules to any Committee of the House other than the Committee on Appropriations shall, after the same has been reported back to the House, be referred, or if originally introduced by a Committee, referred to the Committee on Appropriations for action by that committee before the second reading of the bill, and the fact that any such bill referred to any committee other than the Committee on Appropriations carries an appropriation shall be noted by the committee to which it was referred in the report of such committee returning the same.

Any bill whether emanating from the House or the Senate which creates any new department, agency, commission, board or bureau or which in any way relates to or affects the organization of any department or agency thereof of state government or the organization of any department or agency thereof, or in any way relates to or affects the official rights, powers or duties of any official, department or agency of the state government or any institution under its control, except the University of Minnesota, which has been previously referred by the Speaker under the Rules to any Committee, other than the Committee on Civil Administration, shall after the same has been reported back to the House, be re-referred, or if originally introduced by a Committee, referred to the Committee on Civil Administration for action by that Committee before the second reading of the bill, and the fact that any such bill referred to any Committee other than the Committee on Civil Administration, relates to or affects any matters specified in this paragraph shall be noted by the Committee to which it was referred in the report of such Committee returning the same.

RECORDS AND REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

6. The Chairman, or Acting Chairman, of each committee shall keep, or cause to be kept, a record on which shall be entered:

(a) The time and place of each hearing and of each meeting of the committee.

(b) The attendance of committee members at each meeting.

(c) The name of each person, except members of the House and Senate, appearing before the committee, with the name of the person or persons, association, firm or corporation in whose behalf the appearance is made.

Any member of any committee may demand a roll call on any bill, resolution, or amendment before the committee and upon such demand being made and not otherwise the roll call shall be called on such bill, resolution or amendment, and a record of the vote of each member thereon made and kept; and the name of the member making such demands shall also be recorded.

Such record shall be approved at the next regular meeting of the committee.

Such record shall be filed with the Chief Clerk at the expiration of the session of the Legislature and shall be open to public inspection during office hours.

The chairman of a standing committee reporting the action taken by his committee upon bills submitted to it shall do so upon the form provided for such reports, stating the date of the meeting when such action was taken, and shall authenticate the same by his signature. Each bill shall have a separate report and such report shall be accepted or rejected without amendment.

The report of any committee may be laid upon the table for a day and printed in the Journal, if so ordered by the House.

In the event of a minority report, the majority and minority reports shall be made separately and the minority report shall be first considered. If such minority report be adopted the majority report shall not be considered by the House. If the minority report is not adopted the majority report shall then be considered.

(d) Every chairman of every standing committee of the House shall consider each bill referred to his committee for the further purpose of determining whether or not such bill is of a non-controversial nature. If said chairman with a majority vote of the said committee shall determine that any bill is of a non-controversial nature, he shall in his report to the House upon such bill indicate the decision of his committee determining that such bill is of a non-controversial nature.

When such report is made by said chairman and the committee report on the bill is adopted, thereafter the bill so reported as being of a non-controversial nature shall be given its second reading and be placed upon a separate calendar to be known as the Consent Calendar. Such Consent Calendar of the House shall be taken up immediately prior to the order of business known as "Calendar for the Day." All bills on such Consent Calendar shall thereupon be debated, given their third reading, and voted upon, provided, however, that at any time prior to the third reading of such bill, ten members may object to the same as being controversial. If such objection is made by ten members, the bill shall be stricken from the said Consent Calendar, and shall immediately be returned to General Orders and take its place thereon in the usual order.

All such bills so recommended shall be printed and placed in the House binders at least one day before they can be considered on said Consent Calendar.

QUORUM ON COMMITTEE

7. A majority of the members of any standing or special committee shall constitute a quorum.

SECOND READING OF BILLS

8. All bills, concurrent resolutions, memorials, orders, resolutions and votes requiring the approval of the Governor, shall after a second reading, be considered in a Committee of the Whole before they shall be finally acted upon by the House. Unless otherwise ordered bills, resolutions authorizing the expenditure of money, and joint memorials to Congress only, shall require a second and third reading.

THIRD READING OF BILLS

9. No amendment shall be received on the third reading except to fill blanks or to amend titles, without the unanimous consent of the House; and all bills and resolutions may, at any time previous to their passage, be committed or re-committed only by majority votes of the whole House. If any amendment be reported upon by such commitment or re-commitment by any other than a Committee of the Whole, it shall be read a second time, considered in the Committee of the Whole and question for third reading and passage again put.

DISPOSITION OF SENATE BILLS

10. When a Senate file has been received by the House, with a message announcing that the same has passed the Senate, such bill shall be referred to the appropriate standing committee; provided, however, that when a Senate file is received the provisions of which are stated by a member to be identical with those of a House file, which has already been considered by one of the Committees of the House and is on General Orders or the Calendar, such Senate file shall be referred to the Committee on Enrollment and Engrossment for comparison, which committee shall report forthwith whether the said Senate file is identical with the House file. And, if reported identical, such Senate file may, by majority vote, be substituted for the House file (the latter in such case being considered withdrawn) and shall take the place of the House file; provided, however, that the fact that the bills are identical shall be entered on the Journal.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

11. The Committee of the Whole shall mean and include a committee of the entire membership of the House. When the House has arrived at the General Orders of the Day, they shall go into a Committee of the Whole upon General Orders. And unless a particular bill is ordered up, the Committee of the Whole shall consider, act upon or pass the General Orders according to order of their reference.

In forming a Committee of the Whole, the Speaker may appoint a chairman to preside.

Bills committed to the Committee of the Whole shall, in the Committee of the Whole thereon, be first read through, unless the Committee shall otherwise order, and then read and debated by sections, leaving the title to be last considered. All amendments shall be in writing, in triplicate, and reported to the House by the Chairman.

RULES OF THE HOUSE TO APPLY TO THE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

12. The Rules of the House shall be observed in the Committee of the Whole, so far as may be applicable, except that the yeas and nays shall not be called, the previous question forced, nor speaking limited.

Upon demand of 10 members, the ayes and nays shall be counted with the electrical voting device and announced by the presiding officer.

Provided that in the Committee of the Whole, there shall be a record vote on any amendment increasing the amount or amounts carried by any appropriation bill.

A motion that the Committee arise shall always be in order and shall be decided without debate.

GENERAL ORDERS OF THE DAY

13. The Speaker shall cause the Chief Clerk to make out a list of all bills and resolutions which have not been made a Special Order, and to number the same. This list shall be called "General Orders of the Day"; and items listed thereon shall be taken up in the order in which they are numbered, unless otherwise ordered by a majority of the Committee. All bills included therein and required to be printed under the Rules or Orders of the House, shall be printed and placed upon the members' desks at least two days before the same are to be considered in the Committee of the Whole.

Each member of the House shall leave on or under the desk, each time the House adjourns for the day, his file binder for bills. It shall be the duty of the Clerk of the House to have placed in each binder one copy of each bill printed under the Rules or Orders of the House at least forty-eight hours before the same shall be considered in the Committee of the Whole, and under the first Order of Business each day said Clerk shall report to the House what bills he has placed in the binders.

If progress is reported on a bill by the committee for three days, such bills shall go to the foot of General Orders, unless otherwise ordered by a majority vote.

SPECIAL ORDERS

14. Bills may be made the Order of the Day for a special time. Such bills shall be entered upon a separate list known as "Special Orders." Bills may be made a Special Order by a two-thirds vote of the whole House upon two days' notice. The motion pursuant to said notice may be made only by the member giving the same or another member designated by him in writing in possession of the Speaker. Such notice shall state the House File number or Senate File number, as the case may be, and the title of the bill to be made a Special Order and shall specify the day upon which the motion for such Special Order is to be made and that such Special Order will be set for a day certain. The time within which said motion may be made pursuant to said notice shall not be extended and if the member giving such notice or the person so designated by him, as the case may be, shall fail to make the motion for a Special Order on the day specified therein, his right to make the same pursuant to said notice shall expire. Appropriation bills introduced by the Appropriations Committee of the House, or by the Finance Committee of the Senate coming into the possession of the House during the last ten days of the Session, may be made a Special Order without notice. A motion to make a bill a Special Order when made as heretofore prescribed, shall be a privileged motion, shall take precedence over all other motions except the motion to fix the time to adjourn, the motion to adjourn and questions of personal privilege, and may be made at any time on the day designated in the notice and shall not be suspended except by a three-fourths vote of the whole House.

Any Special Order, or any part thereof, may be continued or postponed by two-thirds vote of the whole House at the time of such Special Order.

When the time arrives for the consideration of any Special Order, the House shall proceed to the consideration of the bill or bills upon the said Special Order in the order in which they are respectively listed; and after consideration they shall immediately be read the third time and placed upon final passage.

DUTIES AND PRIVILEGES OF OFFICERS AND MEMBERS

DUTIES OF THE OFFICERS

15. (a) The Speaker shall preside over the House, and be charged with all the powers and duties pertaining to such presiding officer.

(b) He shall preserve order and decorum, and in case of disorderly conduct or disturbance in the galleries or the lobby, he or the Chairman of the Committee of the Whole may order the same to be cleared.

(c) He shall have general control, except as provided by rule or law of the the hall of the House and of the corridors and the passages and of the rooms assigned to the use of the House, until further ordered.

(d) He shall sign all acts, addresses, joint resolutions, writs, warrants and subpoenas of or issued by order of the House and all abstracts for the payment of money out of the legislative expense fund of the House, and except as otherwise ordered by the House, money shall be paid out of said fund only upon abstract signed by the Speaker and Chief Clerk of the House.

The Speaker shall not vote on appeals from his own decisions.

SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

16. The presiding officer may call a member to the chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment. In the absence of the presiding officer, one of the members shall be selected by a majority vote to preside temporarily until the return of the regular presiding officer.

DUTIES OF THE MEMBERS

17. When the House adjourns, the members shall keep their seats until the Speaker announces the adjournment.

Every member, before speaking, shall rise from his seat and respectfully address the Speaker, but shall not proceed to speak further until recognized by the Chair. When two or more members rise at once, the Speaker shall designate which shall speak first.

EXPLAINING OR CHANGING VOTE

18. No member shall be allowed to explain his vote or discuss the question while the yeas and nays are being taken; and no member shall be allowed to change his vote after the same is announced from the Chair.

NAME OF MEMBER OFFERING BILLS, ETC., TO GO ON JOURNAL

19. In all cases where a bill, order, resolution or motion shall be entered on the Journal of the House, the name of the member offering the same shall be entered on the Journal.

ABSENCE OF MEMBERS AND OFFICERS

20. No member or officer of the House shall, unless from illness or some other sufficient cause he be unable to attend, absent himself from any session of the House during the entire day without having first obtained leave of absence from the Speaker.

DUTIES OF THE CHIEF CLERK AND ASSISTANTS OR EMPLOYEES

21. Neither the Chief Clerk nor his assistants or employees shall permit any records or papers belonging to the House to be taken out of their custody otherwise than in the regular course of business. The Chief Clerk shall report any missing papers to the Speaker. He shall have general supervision of all clerical duties appertaining to the business of the House; shall perform under the direction of the Speaker, all duties pertaining to his office, and shall keep a book showing the situation and progress of bills, memorials, and joint resolutions.

CLERICAL CORRECTIONS TO BILLS

22. (a) Minor clerical errors in any bill, memorial or resolution, such as errors in orthography or grammar, or the incorrect use of one word for another (as "affect" for "effect"), or wrong numbering of references, whether such errors occur in the original bill or any amendment thereto, shall be corrected by the Chief Clerk, as a matter of course, upon the approval of the Chairman of any committee to which the bill was referred.

(b) The Chief Clerk shall insert the enacting clause in any bill before its passage if the same shall have been omitted.

(c) Any corrections made by the Chief Clerk under this rule shall be noted by him in the Journal.

(d) Webster's New International Dictionary shall be the standard authority in matters falling under the above rules.

NO ONE TO REMAIN BY THE CLERK'S DESK

23. No member, or other person, shall remain by the Clerk's desk when the yeas and nays are being called.

DUTIES OF THE SERGEANT-AT-ARMS

24. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms to execute all orders of the House or of its presiding officer; to perform all duties that may, from time to time, be assigned to him connected with the policing and good order of the House; to exercise supervision over the ingress and egress of all persons to and from the Chamber; to see that all messages, etc., are promptly executed; and that the hall is properly ventilated and open for the use of the members; and to perform all other services pertaining to the office of Sergeant-at-Arms.

MOTION TO RECESS

25. All motions to recess for the purpose of granting the privilege to any person or persons to appear before the House during said recess shall be referred to the Committee on Rules, and no such motion shall be acted upon without a favorable report from said committee.

ORDER IN DEBATE

26. No member shall speak more than twice on the same subject without leave of the House, nor more than once until every other member wishing to speak on the pending question shall have spoken.

MOTIONS

27. No motion shall be debated until put by the Speaker before debate, and any such motion shall be reduced to writing if required by the Speaker.

After a motion has been stated by the Speaker, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House, but may be withdrawn by the mover at any time before amendment or decision; but all motions, resolutions or amendments shall be entered in the Journal unless withdrawn the same day.

MOTION TO ADJOURN

28. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order except during roll call.

When a motion to adjourn is made it shall be in order for the Speaker, before putting the question, to permit any member to state any facts to the House, relative to the condition of the business of the House, which would seem to render it improper to adjourn at that time. Such statement, however, shall not be debatable and shall not, in any case, occupy more than two minutes.

PRECEDENCE OF MOTIONS

29. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but:

1. Fix time to which to adjourn.
2. To adjourn.
3. To lay on the table.
4. For the previous question.

(Which four motions shall be decided without debate.)

5. To commit.
6. To postpone to a day certain.
7. To amend.
8. To postpone indefinitely.

These several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order; but the previous question having been seconded, and the main question ordered, a motion to lay on the table shall not be in order.

THE PREVIOUS QUESTION

30. (a) The previous question shall be in this form: "The Gentleman from..... .... moves the previous question. Do fifteen members second the motion?" If the motion be properly seconded, the question shall be stated as follows: "As many as are in favor of ordering the previous question will say 'aye'; as many as are opposed will say 'no'." There shall be a motion for the previous question, which, being ordered by a majority of all members present, shall have the effect to cut off all debate and bring the House to a direct vote upon the immediate question or questions upon which it has been ordered.

The previous question may be asked and ordered upon a single motion, a series of motions allowable under the rules or an amendment or amendments; or it may be made to embrace all authorized motions or amendments and include the bill to its passage or rejection.

(b) On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the ordering of the same, a call of the House shall be in order, but after a majority shall have ordered the previous question, no call shall be in order prior to the decision of the main question.

(c) When the previous question is decided in the negative it shall leave the main question under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking a vote, on the question or in some other manner.

INCIDENTAL QUESTIONS OF ORDER

31. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, during the pendency of such motion, or after the House shall have determined that the main question now be put, shall be decided whether on appeal or otherwise without debate.

PETITIONS, ETC.—HOW PRESENTED

32. Petitions, memorials and other papers presented to the House shall be presented by the Speaker or member in his place, and a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made verbally and endorsed thereon, together with the name of the member introducing the same.

EVERY MEMBER TO VOTE UNLESS EXCUSED

33. Every member who shall be present before the vote is declared from the chair, shall vote for or against the matter before the House, unless the House shall excuse him, or unless he is immediately interested in the question, in which case he shall not vote.

PROCEDURE IN EXCUSING MEMBER FROM VOTING

34. When a member declines to vote on a call of his name, he shall be required to assign his reasons therefor; and having assigned them, the presiding officer shall submit the question to the House, "Shall the member, for the reasons assigned by him, be excused from voting?" which shall be decided without debate. And these proceedings shall be had after the vote has been taken and before the chair has announced the vote, and any further proceedings in reference thereto shall be after such announcement.

ORDER DURING SESSION

35. When the Speaker is putting the question, no member shall walk out of or across the House, nor when a member is speaking shall any other member entertain any private discourse or pass between the speaking member and the chair.

ORDER OF PUTTING QUESTION

36. All questions, whether in committee or in the House, shall be put in the order in which they are moved, except in the case of privileged questions, and in filling up blanks the largest sum and the longest time shall be put first.

DIVISION OF A QUESTION

37. If the question in debate contains several points, any member may have the question divided. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible, but a motion to strike out being lost shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

QUESTIONS OF ORDER

38. If any member of the House, in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules, the Speaker shall (or any member may) call him to order, in which case he shall immediately sit down unless permitted on motion of another member to explain, and the House, if appealed to, shall decide in either case without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed, but not otherwise; and if the case require it, he shall be liable to censure or such punishment as the House may deem proper.

CALLED TO ORDER FOR OFFENSIVE WORDS IN DEBATE

39. If any member be called to order for offensive words in debate, the person calling him to order shall report the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the clerk's desk and no member shall be held to answer, or be subjected to the censure of the House, for language used in debate if any other member has spoken or other business has intervened after the words spoken and before exception to them shall have been taken.

MEMBERS MAY DEMAND YEAS AND NAYS

40. The yeas and nays shall not be ordered unless demanded by 15 members, except upon final passage of bills, joint resolutions, and motions directing the payment of money. In these cases yeas and nays shall be ordered without demand.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO DEBATE

41. Upon any member giving notice of his intention to debate any resolution, the same shall lie over one day without debate or any other action. This notice of intention to debate may be given at any time before the vote is taken on the resolution.

CALL OF THE HOUSE

42. Ten members may demand a call of the House and require absent members to be sent for; but a call of the House cannot be made after the voting has commenced, and such call being ordered, the doors shall be closed and no member permitted to leave the chamber until the call is suspended. And, pending the call, no motion shall be in order except it pertains to matters incidental to the call or motion to suspend further proceedings under the same, provided that the call shall not be suspended until a record of those present has been completed. Thereafter the call may be suspended by majority vote of the whole House only when all members are present or at any time by a two-thirds vote of the whole House. After the call of the House has been ordered and proceedings thereunder are suspended, the Sergeant-at-Arms shall not permit any member to leave the chamber unless excused by the Speaker.

SUSPENSION OF THE RULES TO HASTEN A BILL

43. Every bill shall be read on three different days, unless, in case of urgency, two-thirds of the whole House deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and no bill shall be passed until it shall have been read at length twice, provided that no motion for suspension of the rules to advance a bill for consideration out of its regular order shall be made or entertained unless presented to the Speaker in writing stating the present position of the bill and then only under the order of business "Motions and Resolutions", as such order of business is reached under Rule 3. Unanimous consent must be first obtained by the member making the motion before the Speaker can entertain the motion to suspend the rules at any other time.

A motion to suspend the rules together with the subject matter to which it pertains shall be open to debate but the previous question may be applied thereto.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT TO MAKE A MOTION

44. Whenever unanimous consent to make a motion is requested by a member, the member as a part of such request shall state briefly the purpose of such motion and the subject matter involved.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE PASSAGE OF RESOLUTIONS INVOLVING THE EXPENDITURE OF MONEY, AND OF JOINT RESOLUTIONS

45. (a) No resolution involving the expenditure of money out of the legislative expense fund or otherwise, or joint resolution, shall be declared passed until voted for by a majority of all members elected to the House, to be determined by a roll call. All resolutions and motions involving the expenditure of money out of the legislative expense fund shall be referred to the Rules Committee before being acted upon by the House.

MOTIONS AND PROPOSITIONS TO BE GERMANE

(b) No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of its being an amendment.

AMENDMENT NOT TO ANNEX ANOTHER BILL

(c) Except in a standing committee no bill or resolution shall at any time be amended by annexing thereto or incorporating therein any other bill or resolution pending before the House.

AMENDMENTS TO APPROPRIATION BILLS

46. No amendment increasing the amount or amounts carried by any appropriation bill shall be declared passed until voted for by a majority of all members elected to the House.

MOTION FOR RECONSIDERATION

47. When a question has once been made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof; but no motion for reconsideration of any vote shall be in order after a bill, resolution, message, report, or other official action upon which the vote was taken shall have gone out of the possession of the House, announcing their decision. Nor shall any motion for reconsideration be in order unless made on the same day upon which the vote was taken, or within the next two days of actual session of the House thereafter.

Such motion shall take precedence over all other questions, except the motion to adjourn; provided that when notice of intention to move such reconsideration of the final action of the House on any bill, resolution, message, report or other final action of the House shall be given by a member, the Clerk of the House shall retain the said bill, resolution, message, report, or other final official action, until after the expiration of the time during which such motion can be made, as hereinbefore provided, unless the same is previously disposed of. Such notice of intention to move reconsideration of the final action of the House on any bill, resolution, message, report or other final action shall have precedence over the motion to reconsider, except that it shall be in order for any member who voted on the prevailing side to make the motion to reconsider on the last day allowed for the making thereof, unless the same has been previously disposed of. A motion for reconsideration having been put and lost shall not be renewed.

THE MOTION TO RESCIND

48. The motion to rescind shall not be in order at any time in any proceedings in the House or of any committee thereof.

AUTHORIZED MANUAL OF PARLIAMENTARY PRACTICE

49. The rules of parliamentary practice comprised in Mason's Manual on Legislative Procedure shall govern the House in all cases in which they are applicable and in which they are not inconsistent with these rules and orders of the House, and the joint rules and orders of the Senate and House of Representatives.

COMMITTEES

50. Standing Committees shall be appointed by the Speaker as follows:

Administrative Rules and Procedures
Agriculture
Appropriations
Cities of the 1st and 2nd Class

If the minority group submits to the Speaker-Designate, at least thirty days prior to the opening of a regular session of the Legislature, a list of proposed committee assignments for said minority group, the Speaker shall give due consideration to such proposed assignments with the end in view of attaining a proportionate representation on such committees for the minority group.

PURCHASING SUPPLIES

51. The Chief Clerk shall be the agent of the House of Representatives for the purchase of supplies, including presession purchase of supplies. Before making purchase, however, it shall be his duty to get prices and submit the same to the Rules Committee together with a list of necessary supplies, and the prices for which the same can be secured, which supplies shall then be purchased by the Chief Clerk upon the approval of the Rules Committee, except supplies which he may purchase prior to the session.

COMMITTEE ON ENGROSSMENT AND ENROLLMENT

52. The Committee on Engrossment and Enrollment shall have supervision of the engrossment and enrollment of bills and make its report thereon at any time. Any bills correctly enrolled shall be presented to the presiding officers of the two houses for their signatures and, when so signed, to the Governor for his approval.

The Committee shall cause to be kept a record showing, by file number, the bills introduced in the House which have passed both houses and have been enrolled.

Any bill requiring engrossment shall be carefully engrossed. Any bill requiring enrollment shall be carefully enrolled.

COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

53. A Committee of Conference may report at any time. No committee except the Committee of Conference and the Committee on Rules shall sit during the sitting of the House without leave.

SPECIAL COMMITTEES

54. Special committees to whom reference shall be made shall in all cases report a state of facts and their opinions thereupon to the House.

MEETING OF COMMITTEES

55. The Speaker of the House shall prepare a schedule of committee meetings, fixing as far as practicable the date and hour which will be the regular meeting time of each committee. Should it be necessary to hold a special meeting or for any reason change temporarily the regular meeting of the committee, the notice by the chairman of said committee of such change shall be read from the desk at least one day in advance thereof, and also posted upon the bulletin board at the same time, or on a majority vote of the House, fixing the time therefor at any time. Any committee shall have the right to change the time of its meeting.

TIME LIMIT FOR CONSIDERATION OF BILLS

56. Fifteen legislative days after a bill or resolution has been referred to committee (other than a bill for appropriations or claims) and no report has been made upon the same by such committee, the author thereof may request that such bill or resolution be returned to the House and such request shall be entered in the Journal for the day. Such committee shall then have seven calendar days thereafter in which to report back the bill or resolution requested. If the committee shall fail to report such bill or resolution back within such seven days, such author may at any time during a legislative session within five calendar days after the expiration of such seven days in writing presented to the Speaker, demand the return forthwith to the House of the bill or resolution in question, which demand shall forthwith be entered in the Journal for the day and shall constitute the demand of the House and thereupon such bill or resolution shall at once be considered to be in possession of the House. Bills shall be placed at the foot of General Orders for the following day in the manner prescribed by Rule 13 subject to re-reference by the House. A motion for such re-reference if made on the day of such demand or within one legislative day thereafter shall take precedence over all other motions except privileged motions and shall be in order at any time.

The House may recall any bill or resolution from any committee at any time, give a bill its second reading and advance the same to General Orders by a majority vote of the whole House.

SUBSTITUTION OF BILLS

57. No standing or special committee, nor any member or members thereof, shall report any substitute for any bill or bills referred to such committee, which substitute relates to a different subject or is intended to accomplish a different purpose from that of the original bill for which it is reported or which, if adopted and passed, would require a title essentially different from the title of the original bill; and every substitute bill so reported shall be rejected whenever the House is advised that the same is in violation of this rule. This rule shall not be suspended without the unanimous consent of the House.

EMPLOYEES

58. All propositions for the appointment of employees of the House, other than those provided by law, shall be referred to the Committee on Rules. No appointments shall be made unless favorably reported upon by such Committee or its report be overruled by three-fourths vote of the House. All employees shall be paid

Any employee of the House may be assigned to other duties, suspended or discharged at any time by the Committee on Rules.

This rule shall not be construed as authorizing the employment or appointment of any employee named therein in case any employee has been appointed or authorized to be appointed or engaged by this House for such position by any rule or resolution heretofore adopted. No clerk shall be appointed for any of the committees named in this rule unless the necessity for the same is recommended by the Committee on Rules; and no employee or clerk mentioned in this rule shall receive any pay, compensation, gratuity or reward over and above salary named therein except upon approval of a three-fourths vote of the whole House.

No employee shall make or permit to be made any copy or copies of any journals, bills, papers, files, records or documents in his or her possession or custody or to which he or she has access, except it be upon the request of some member of the House. No journal, bill, paper, file, record or document, or copy thereof, belonging to or in the possession or custody of the House shall be furnished, or delivered to any person other than a member of the House except by or through the Chief Clerk with the approval and under the direction of the Rules Committee, and upon such terms as the Rules Committee shall prescribe and otherwise in accordance with the rules of the House, provided that this rule shall not apply to members of the House. All moneys received for any matter or service herein referred to shall be paid into the state treasury and credited to the Legislative Expense Fund of the House. Any violation of this rule shall operate as a removal or discharge of the person offending.

MISCELLANEOUS RULES
VOTE REQUIRED TO SUSPEND RULES

59. No rule of the House shall be suspended, altered or amended without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members of the whole House, except Rules 57 and 58, which shall require the concurrence of three-fourths of all the members of the whole House. But the Committee on Rules may report at any time and any rule so reported may be adopted by the majority of the House.

PRINTING OF BILLS

60. All bills of general nature, including all bills appropriating money or lands shall be printed, provided that no bill shall be printed until after the same shall have been favorably reported by the committee to which it shall have been referred unless ordered printed by a majority vote of the House.

In case of bills received from the Senate which have been amended in the Senate after having been printed by that body, it shall be the duty of the Committee of the House to which the same are referred to make a report to the House as to the advisability or inadvisability of having the same printed. All Committee Chairmen shall be furnished with a copy of this rule.

NEWSPAPER REPORTERS

61. Accredited representatives of the daily and weekly press, press associations and of radio stations shall be accorded equal press privileges by the Rules Committee. Any person wishing to report proceedings of the House may apply to the Rules Committee for assignment to suitable, available space.

On approval of the Rules Committee, television stations shall be permitted to televise sessions of the House.

WHO MAY BE ADMITTED ON THE FLOOR

62. No person or persons shall be admitted within the House Chamber, corridors, or retiring room, except the members themselves, the properly authorized employees, the Chief Executive and ex-governors of the State of Minnesota, members of the Senate, the heads of departments of the state government, judges of the Supreme and District Courts, members of Congress, the properly accredited representatives of the radio stations, newspapers and press associations, as herein provided for, and none other. When former members of Congress or the Minnesota Legislature or any other persons are personally introduced to the Speaker by members of the House, the Speaker may issue a permit good for the day to such person, after having satisfied himself that such person does not seek the floor of the House for the purpose of directing or using his influence upon any measure pending or otherwise before the House. It is expressly directed that the Sergeant-at-Arms shall keep the alcoves cleared (the alcoves shall be kept for members only) and at no time when the House is in session can visitors on the floor of the House who are guests of members thereof occupy the alcoves, but such persons when admitted shall be provided with a seat near the Speaker's rostrum, and at no time shall a conversation be carried on to disturb the business of the House.

It shall not be in order for the Speaker to entertain a request for the suspension of this rule, or to present from the chair the request of any member for unanimous consent unless, however, an extraordinary condition exists, in which event he may consent to entertain a motion for its suspension.

CONSTRUCTION, RULES AS TO

63. In consideration of the terms "majority vote", "vote of the House", and "vote of the whole House", as used ing these rules, the first two phrases shall be deemed a majority of the members present at the particular time, and the last phrase to mean a majority vote of all the members elected to the House at the particular session of the Legislature.

Words used in these Rules in the singular shall include the plural, unless the context indicates a contrary intention.

BULLETIN BOARD

64. The Chief Clerk shall prepare a Bulletin board, upon which shall be posted a list of committee meetings and any other announcements or notice the House may require.

TOPICAL INDEX

65. The Index Clerk, under the supervision of the Chief Clerk, shall prepare a topical index in which bills may be indexed by number, author, subject, section of the code amended, committees and any other subject that will make it a complete and comprehensive index. The Index shall be retained open for public inspection at all times during the session, and shall be printed in the permanent journal of the House.

VISITING PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS

66. No leave of absence shall be granted any committee, special or standing, to visit any public institution of the state, or for any other purpose. Whenever any committee shall report to the House that it is desirable that such committee receive information concerning a public institution, the House may, by majority vote of the whole House, grant a leave of absence to not more than three members of such committee, to be designated by the chairman thereof. Application for a leave of absence of such members of a committee shall be made to the House in writing, by the chairman thereof, with the names of the committeemen designated for that purpose and the name of the stenographer to accompany such committeemen if one is necessary. Such application shall immediately and without debate be referred to the Committee on Rules, with instructions to report upon the same on the next legislative day. Said members and their stenographers, if any, shall be allowed their actual expenses.

AUTHORIZING ELECTRICAL DEVICE

67. Unless otherwise ordered any vote, except upon elections and upon the overriding of a Governor's veto, may be taken by means of the electrical voting system which shall be under the control of the Speaker of the House.

PROVIDING FOR THE REGISTRATION OF LOBBYISTS

68. Any person who is employed for compensation paid by others than the Legislature and whose employment calls for or includes activity in or about the House of Representatives in regard to legislation must register with the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives. Such person shall disclose in the detail deemed by the Chief Clerk necessary, the following information which will be recorded in a register kept by the Chief Clerk: 1) the name and address of the registrant; 2) the name and address of the registrant's employer including any association, organized group, State agency or office, or labor union, and in case of multiple employers a sufficient number so identified as to indicate the class or classes registered with whose interests the registrant is concerned; and 3) the subject or subjects of legislation to which his employment relates.

A person to whom this requirement of registration applies may not appear before a House committee in pursuance of his employment until he is registered except upon special invitation of the committee, nor shall he in such pursuit try to influence the legislative judgment or action of a member of the House.

A person who is registered under this rule, or who should be registered under it, when appearing before a committee shall disclose to the committee those in whose interest he speaks, the purpose of his appearance and when he or the person for whom he appears has a pecuniary or other special interest in a measure or proposal different than the public generally, which is not apparent from his testimony, the fact thereof. Further, in pursuance of the employment for which he is or should be registered he must not knowingly furnish false information or make a false statement which is material and relevant to any matter with an intention to, or which he should know will have a tendency to influence the judgment or action of the House or of a committee thereon.

Whenever a charge of any violation of Rule No. 68 is preferred in writing to any committee chairman he shall see that reasonable notice to interested parties is given and a fair hearing of the committee is held thereon. The committee recommendation after hearing shall be submitted to the House.

A person who has been adjudged guilty by the House upon recommendation of any committee of violating this rule in any respect shall not be eligible to appear in a professional or representative capacity before any committee of the House and shall be barred thereby from so doing until reinstated by the House. The name of anyone so barred shall be recorded in the Journal of the House.

JOINT CONVENTIONS — HOW GOVERNED

Rule 1. The Speaker of the House shall preside at all conventions of the two branches of the Legislature, and shall call the members to order. The Chief Clerk of the House shall be the Secretary, and the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House shall be the Sergeant-at-Arms at the Convention.

DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT

Rule 2. The President of the Convention shall preserve order and decorum, may speak on all points of order in preference to other members; shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the convention by any member. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.

QUESTIONS — HOW STATED

Rule 3. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to-wit: "As many as are of the opinion that (as the question may be), say 'Aye' ", and after an affirmative vote is expressed, "As many as are of the contrary opinion, say 'No' ". If the President doubts, or a division be called, the Convention shall decide — those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise and afterwards those in the negative.

PRESIDENT'S RIGHT TO VOTE

Rule 4. The President shall have the right of voting in all cases except on an appeal from the decisions, and on all questions he shall vote last.

ORDER OF DEBATE

Rule 5. When any member is about to speak or deliver any matter to the Convention, he shall rise and respectfully address himself to "Mr. President," and confine himself to the question under debate and avoid personalities.

Rule 6. Whenever any member is called to order he shall be seated until the point of order is determined; and if called to order for words spoken in debate the exceptional words shall be reduced to writing immediately.

Rule 7. When two or more members rise at the same time, the President shall name the member who is in order.

Rule 8. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, without permission of the Convention.

CALL OF THE CONVENTION

Rule 9. Any five members may move a call of the Convention, and require absent members to be sent for, but a call cannot be made after voting is commenced; and a call being ordered and the absentees noted, the doors shall be closed and no member permitted to leave the hall until the report of the Sergeant-at-Arms be received and acted upon, or further proceedings under the call are suspended by a vote of the majority of all the members of the convention.

EITHER HOUSE MAY AMEND, ETC.

Rule 10. It shall be in the power of either House to amend any amendment made by the other to any bill or resolution.

BILLS — HOW ENROLLED AND SIGNED

Rule 11. After a bill, memorial or resolution shall have passed both Houses, it shall be duly and carefully enrolled by the enrolling clerk of the House in which it originated. The enrolling clerk of that House shall then obtain the signatures and certificates of the proper officers to the enrolled copies, present the same to the Governor for his approval, and report the date of such presentation to the respective Houses.

ELECTIONS BY JOINT CONVENTIONS

Rule 12. Whenever there shall be an election of any officer in Joint Convention, the result shall be certified by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, and by them announced to their respective Houses, and shall be entered on the Journal of each and communicated to the Governor by the Secretary of the Convention.

COMMITTEES OF CONFERENCE

Rule 13. In all cases of disagreement between the Senate and House on amendments adopted by either House to a bill, memorial or resolution passed by the other House, a Committee of Conference, consisting of not less than three members, nor more than five members from each House, may be requested by either House, and the other House shall appoint a similar committee. The manner of procedure shall be as follows: The Senate, for instance, passes a bill and it is duly transmitted to the House, which body adopts an amendment to the bill and passes the bill as amended, returning the same with the record of the actions of the House, to the Senate; the Senate refuses to concur in the House amendment, asks for a committee of Conference, appoints such a committee on the part of the Senate, and with a record of the action of the Senate, returns the bill to the House; if the House adheres to its amendment, a like committee is appointed on the part of the House. The joint committee shall at a convenient hour agreed upon, meet and state to each other, verbally or in writing, the reason of their respective Houses for or against the disagreement, and confer thereon, and shall report to both Houses such agreement as they may arrive at, if any — and if not, the fact of a disagreement. The House last having possession of the bill before the conference commences shall first act upon such report, if an agreement is reported, and duly transmit the same with the record of its action thereon to the other House together with the bill.

EITHER HOUSE MAY RECEDE, ETC.

Rule 14. It shall be in order for either House to recede from any subject or matter of difference existing between the two Houses at any time previous to a conference, whether the papers upon which the difference has arisen are before it or not, and a majority shall govern, except in cases otherwise provided in the Constitution; and the question having been put and lost, shall not be again put upon the same day, and a reconsideration thereof shall in all respects be regulated by the rules of the respective Houses.

APPROPRIATIONS OF MONEY — HOW MADE

Rule 15. The same bill shall not appropriate public money or property to more than one local or private purpose.

A bill for legislative expense shall be passed in both branches of the Legislature in the same manner as other bills carrying an appropriation are passed, and the fund provided by such appropriation shall be designated as the "Legislative Expense Fund" from which money shall be paid out by the Secretary of the Senate or the Chief Clerk of the House as herein provided.

Payment out of the Legislative Expense Fund for all supplies, salaries and expenses of members as provided for by law for the Senate shall be made upon proper certification by the Secretary of the Senate, upon approval of the Senate Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense.

Payment out of the Legislative Expense Fund for all supplies, salaries and expenses of members as provided for by law for the House of Representatives shall be made upon proper certification by the Chief Clerk of the House upon approval of the House Committee on Rules.

Payment of living expenses provided for by law to members of the Legislature shall be by concurrent resolution.

The Secretary of the Senate with the approval of the Senate Committee on Rules and Legislative Expense, and the Chief Clerk of the House, with the approval of the Committee on Rules of the House, are each hereby authorized and empowered to employ from the stenographic and clerical force of the Senate and House respectively, for not to exceed twenty days after the close of the Session, such employees as may be necessary to finish the business of the Legislature for such salaries paid such employees under the rules of the Senate or House, as the case may be.

Persons so employed by the Secretary of the Senate shall upon proper certification by the Secretary of the Senate, and persons so employed by the Chief Clerk of the House shall upon proper certification by the Chief Clerk of the House, be paid for such services out of the Legislative Expense Fund of the Legislature for such session.

No certificate authorizing the payment of any money appropriated by the Legislature shall be issued by the Secretary of the Senate or by the Clerk of the House by virtue of any motion or resolution, unless such motion or resolution shall have been carried by a majority of all members of the House in which it was introduced.

No cause appropriating money for a local or private purpose shall be contained in a bill appropriating money for the State government or public institutions, and all resolutions authorizing the issuing of certificates by the Secretary of the Senate or the Chief Clerk of the House for the payment of money shall be upon the call of the "yeas" and "nays."

At least twenty calendar days prior to the adjournment of the Legislature, the Committee on Finance of the Senate and the Committee on Appropriations of the House shall report to their respective Houses six separate appropriation bills as follows:

1. A bill appropriating money for the general administrative and judicial expenses of the State government for the succeeding two fiscal years including salaries, office expenses and supplies and other necessary expenses connected therewith.

2. A bill covering appropriations relating to public welfare and for the support and maintenance of all State penal and charitable institutions, and other institutions of the State except educational for the two succeeding fiscal years.

3. A bill appropriating money for the support and maintenance of all State educational institutions for the two succeeding fiscal years.

4. A bill covering all appropriations providing for the payment of claims against the State of Minnesota which may have been allowed by the Finance Committee of the Senate or the Appropriations Committee of the House.

5. A bill covering all appropriations made to aid in the maintenance of state or county fairs including parks, fish hatcheries and other semi-state activities.

6. A bill covering all appropriations for public buildings.

No other appropriations shall be contained in any of said bills but all other appropriations shall be contained in separate bills.

RULES OF JOINT CONVENTION

Rule 16. The rules of the House shall be the rules of the Joint Convention of both Houses in all cases where the foregoing rules are not applicable.

TITLE OF BILLS SHALL EXPRESS THEIR SUBJECT

Rule 17. The subject of each bill shall be clearly expressed in the title and when a bill is amendatory of an existing act, it shall not be sufficient to refer to the chapter, section or page, but the subject thereof shall be clearly stated.

Rule 18. Except where otherwise specifically provided by law, all reports of interim committees or commissions, to the legislature, except the permanent Legislative Buildings Commission, shall be submitted on paper 8½" x 11" in size, bound on the left side with three binder holes to fit a standard-size binder for 8½" x 11" paper. The forepart of each report shall contain a brief summary of the recommendations of the commission or committee distinct from its findings, discussions, and other portions of its report. Wherever possible, and if the report contains legislative recommendations, copies of any proposed legislation, particularly if extensive in character, shall be attached as an exhibit at the end of each report.

Rule 19. Bills, memorials, or resolutions enrolled pursuant to Joint Rule 11, may be prepared for presentation to the governor on good quality paper, approximately 8½" x 13" in size, and may be produced by the use of a copying machine. The enrolled bill shall be labeled "An Act" and otherwise shall contain the same material as the bill passed by the legislature. Where the enrolled bill is amendatory of any existing law, the parts therein shown with a line drawn through them shall be understood as being deleted from the old law and the underlined material shall be understood as being added to the old law.

Permanent and Interim Committees and Commissions of the Legislature

The committee system is the legislature's way of delegating responsibility and of maintaining a continuous, smooth functioning operation in the face of manifold and complex problems. Not all legislative responsibilities can be efficiently carried out by a legislative body acting as a whole, nor can all the duties be properly performed during the 120-day regular sessions. This has given rise to Permanent Committees and Interim Committees in addition to the Standing Committees on pages 106-109.

Permanent Committees — Commissions

Committees having a permanent status, as distinguished from those operating only during sessions or the interim between sessions, are established to deal with problems of a continuous and recurring nature.

LEGISLATIVE RESEARCH COMMITTEE

Director of Research

Louis C. Dorweiler, Jr., appointed Director of Research of Legislative Research Committee July 1, 1947. Educated Chokio, Minnesota, public schools, Hamline University and the University of Minnesota, receiving the degree of B.B.A. from the latter in 1929. Graduate of William Mitchell College of Law 1958. Previously employed by the First National Bank, Minneapolis; University of Minnesota; Division of Administrative Management and Research of the Department of Administration; Interim Committee on State Administration and Employment; Hamline University; United States Congress and the Minnesota Institute of Governmental Research. Present Clerk of State Claims Commission. Member Hennepin County, Minnesota and American Bar Associations.

MEMBERS:

Office Staff—109 State Capitol, St. Paul. Director of Research, Louis C. Dorweiler, Jr.; research analysts, Robert Carlson, Jr., Thomas G. Clifford, Thomas E. LaVelle.

Functions and Services

The sixteen members of the Legislative Research Committee consist of one Senator and one Representative from each of Minnesota's congressional districts. The committee was first established in 1947.

The prime purpose of this committee is to gather information and material to be used by the Legislature in its work while in session.

Thus, it has power to study, and compile information on any subject upon which the Legislature may legislate.

During a recent biennium studies of the committee included the feasibility of establishing a four year state college in western and southwestern Minnesota and an Iron Range state hospital for the mentally retarded.

Committee projects and research studies are generally initiated in two ways. The Legislature by resolution may direct or authorize the committee to study certain problems. Individual legislators may initiate studies by making a written request to the committee, stating the reasons why such study would be desirable. If the committee approves of the request the study is undertaken.

Much of the work of assembling facts, conducting research, and preparing reports is done by a staff of permanent employees, consisting of a director of research, four research analysts, and clerks.

The Legislative Research Committee has become a vital clearing house for legislative information. It serves to provide much of the facts upon which important legislative decisions are made.

LEGISLATIVE ADVISORY COMMITTEE

MEMBERS:

Senate
- Val Imm, Chairman, Finance Committee
- Donald O. Wright, Chairman, Taxes and Tax Laws Committee

House
- Richard Fitzsimons, Chairman Appropriations Committee
- D. D. Wozniak, Chairman, Committee on Taxes

Governor Karl F. Rolvaag, President
Stephen T. Quigley, Commissioner of Administration, Secretary

Functions and Services

The Legislative Advisory Committee was established in 1941 to serve in an advisory capacity to the Governor on the allocation of funds from several contingent funds authorized by the Legislature. The general purpose of the contingent funds is to supplement existing appropriations of the Legislature which, because of certain emergencies or unforeseen circumstances, must be supplemented by additional funds in order for the administrative agency to fulfill its responsibilities.

The committee meets quarterly. The Governor serves as presiding officer, but is not a member of the committee. The Commissioner of Administration is the secretary of the committee.

In its capacity as advisor to the governor on the allocation of public relief funds, the committee is designated as the Minnesota Public Relief Advisory Committee. Public relief is defined to include direct relief, farm relief, veterans' relief, unemployment relief.

The committee consists of the chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance and Committee on Taxes and Tax Laws, and the chairmen of the House Committee on Appropriations and Committee on Taxes.

LEGISLATIVE BUILDING COMMISSION

Functions and Services

This commission was established for the purpose of maintaining a continuous study of the building needs of the state government. The need for such a permanent commission grew out of the experience of the 1955 interim commission of state building. The 1955 commission made the first comprehensive study of state building and building needs.

The commission will study current and future requirements for new buildings, for maintenance of existing buildings, for remodeling of old buildings, and will explore methods of financing the building program.

STATE CLAIMS COMMISSION

MEMBERS:

| Senate | House |
|---|---|
| Homer Carr | Victor L. Johnson |
| Clifton Parks | Walter K. Klaus |

Functions and Services

The state cannot be sued unless it gives its consent. This rule is an outgrowth of the ancient doctrine that "the king can do no wrong." In certain cases the legislature by law has permitted the state to be sued in law or equity. The purpose of the State Claims Commission is to hear and consider claims against the state which may not be heard in a court of law or equity.

The object of having this commission operate during the interim between sessions is to avoid the accumulation of an excessive number of claims which would have to be heard by the standing committees of the legislature during the regular session. When the commission was first established in 1953 no member of the legislature was eligible for appointment to the commission during the term for which he was elected. The objective of lessening the work load during the session was not achieved under this arrangement since the standing committees of each house generally had to rehear and become familiar with all claims.

The 1957 legislature determined that it would greatly facilitate the legislative processing of claims if legislators served on the State Claims Commission. The commission is now largely composed of the Senators and Representatives who served on the claims committees of their respective houses during the 1963 session. Thus, it is anticipated that at the 1965 session the claims committee of each house will be familiar with most of the claims against the state and will be able to expeditiously and efficiently dispose of them.

Claims may be instituted by filing a statement of claim with the Commission Clerk at 109 State Capitol, St. Paul. The statement should set forth in detail the basis and amount of the claim, and should specify the state agency concerned.

A copy of each claim is transmitted by the Commission Clerk to the agency concerned and to the attorney general. The clerk examines the claim to determine whether it is within the jurisdiction of the commission, and if it is, is placed upon the agenda to be heard by the full commission. If the claim is not within the jurisdiction of the commission, the claimant is so notified and he may appear before the commission to show cause why the commission should assume jurisdiction.

The commission meets at least four times during the legislative interim. No liability is imposed upon the state by commission approval of a claim, unless the Legislature has previously made an appropriation for the payment of a claim subject only to the determination of the commission.

On or before the first day of October preceding the regular session of the Legislature, the commission must certify to the Commissioner of Administration the claims approved and awards recommended. This permits such claims to be included in budget estimates to be submitted to the Governor-elect.

GREAT LAKES COMMISSION

Chapter 389, Laws 1963)

MEMBERS:

Functions and Services

The Great Lakes Basin Compact, adopted by the Legislature in 1955, provides for the establishment of a commission composed of not less than three and no more than five commissioners from each party state. The commission is to carry out the objectives of the compact which are: (1) To promote the orderly integrated development and use of the water resources of the Great Lakes Basin; (2) to make it possible for the states of the basin to derive the maximum benefit from the utilization of public works, such as navigational aids, which may exist or be constructed from time to time; (3) To advise in securing a proper balance of water supply for commercial, agricultural, residential and recreational uses.

The commission is created as an agency of the party states, with the ability to acquire and hold property, to sue and be sued. The following states are members of the Great Lakes Commission: Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

INDIAN AFFAIRS COMMISSION*

MEMBERS:

| Senate | House |
|---|---|
| Gordon H. Butler | Frank H. DeGroat |

Purpose and Organization:

The primary duty of the Commission is to acquire information in the fields of employment and housing, civil rights, education, health and welfare, and law with the view in mind to recommend legislation and work out programs with the Indian people for increasing their self-sufficiency.

The commission is to be made up of the Governor and the Commissioners of Education, Public Welfare, Conservation, and Business Development, who are ex officio members (however, each may appoint a member of his staff to serve in his place); three persons (appointed by the Governor) who are of at least ¼ Indian ancestry (one representing the Red Lake Indians, one the Chippewa tribes, and one the Sioux tribes); two senators (appointed by the Committee on Committees); and two representatives (appointed by the Speaker).

The commission is to make an annual report to the Governor and a full report to each regular session of the legislature.

* The Governor's appointees and the ex-officio members had not been determined at the time the Manual went to press.

CONSTITUTIONAL OFFICERS

|---|---|
| Governor | State Auditor |
| Lieutenant Governor | State Treasurer |
| Secretary of State | Attorney General |

The executive department is established by Article V of the Minnesota Constitution. It provides for a six-member executive department consisting of a governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and attorney general. These officers are commonly known as the "constitutional officers" to distinguish them from the administrative department heads who are provided for by legislative enactments.

Each of these "constitutional officers" is elected by the people and, therefore, is ultimately responsible to them. However, during the interim between elections, each officer is responsible to the legislature which prescribes his duties and powers (except for those constitutional powers granted the governor) and which possesses the power to impeach him for misconduct in office.

Article V of the Minnesota Constitution does not set up an executive board or council with any substantial power. It does not set up a plural executive of collegiate form in which decisions are made collectively by majority vote. Instead, each "constitutional officer" is left practically independent of the others and on almost the same level of authority.

Legal Basis

Created by Minnesota Constitution, Article V.

Qualifications and Term

According to the Minnesota Constitution, Article V, Section 3, to qualify for the office of Governor a person must have attained the age of 25 years; shall have been a bonafide resident of the state for one year next preceding his election; and shall be a citizen of the United States. The Governor is elected by the people for a term of four years beginning with the first Monday in January of an odd numbered year.

Functions and Services

A. Responsibility for Legislative Program: The Governor has the responsibility of informing the Legislature of the general condition of the state. This is done by means of his inaugural message delivered personally by the Governor to a joint legislative session immediately after he takes his oath of office.

The financial needs of the state government for the next four fiscal years is presented to the Legislature in the Governor's proposed budget, submitted in printed form, within three weeks after the Governor's inauguration. In addition, he submits special messages to the Legislature from time to time on such subjects as he feels warrants particular emphasis and specific attention.

The Governor must review all laws passed by the Legislature. He may approve by signing a bill, or he may veto a bill by returning it to the Legislature stating his objections. A two-thirds vote in each legislative body is required to pass a bill over the Governor's veto.

On extraordinary occasions the Governor may call a special session of the Legislature—to enable the Legislature to complete the unfinished business of the regular session; or to consider emergencies that must be decided between regular sessions.

B. State Department and Agency Appointments: The Governor appoints the majority of the heads of the state departments and a majority of the members of most boards and commissions. Such appointments are submitted to the Senate for confirmation.

In order to develop his legislative proposals and plans for executive action, the Governor may require written reports of these agency heads. The terms of the heads of state government vary from two to six years.

Pursuant to the legal authorization invested in him the Governor makes the following number of appointments: department heads, 22; boards and commissions, 276.

In the event of a vacancy on the Board of Regents of the University of Minnesota occurring between legislative sessions, the Governor makes an interim appointment.

C. Advisory Committee Appointments: To assist the Governor and department heads in the preparation of programs for legislative and/or executive action, the Governor may establish advisory committees. These committees study state problems and make necessary recommendations. During the 1959-1961 biennium, thirty-nine advisory committees were appointed.

D. Judicial Appointments: The Governor fills vacancies which occur in municipal, district, and supreme court judgeships. These appointments do not require confirmation by the Senate.

E. Pardon, Extradition, and Civil Rights Power: The Governor grants pardons, issues extradition papers, and restores civil rights to felons.

F. Commissioning Notaries Public: The Governor commissions notaries public. Approximately 5,500 commissions are issued during each fiscal year.

G. Commander-in-Chief of Military Forces: The Governor is commander-in-chief of the military forces of Minnesota. He may call out such forces to execute the laws, suppress insurrections, and repel invasion, and for such other emergencies as he may determine.

H. Ex Officio Membership: The Governor is an ex officio member of the State Pardon Board, the Executive Council, the State Board of Investment, and the Land Exchange Commission. He presides over the Legislative Advisory Committee.

Functions and Services

The Lieutenant Governor is first in line of succession when a vacancy occurs in the office of Governor. The Lieutenant Governor may assume the duties of Governor any time the Governor is absent from the state.

Most recent examples of lieutenant governors who became Governor are Edward J. Thye and C. Elmer Anderson. Thye advanced to the Governorship when then Governor Harold E. Stassen resigned during World War II to join the Navy. Anderson moved to the higher office when then Governor Luther W. Youngdahl resigned to become a federal judge.

When a vacancy occurs in the office of Lieutenant Governor the president pro tempore of the Senate becomes the Lieutenant Governor. This occurred most recently in September 1954 when Donald O. Wright became Lieutenant Governor upon the resignation of Lieutenant Governor Ancher Nelsen.

The Lieutenant Governor is ex officio president of the state senate. In addition to presiding over the Senate during legislative sessions, the Lieutenant Governor is given the duty of assigning legislative bills to the appropriate standing committees of the Senate.

Legal Basis

Created by Minnesota Constitution, Article V.

Qualifications and Term

The state constitution (Article VII, Section 7) requires only that the Secretary of State be a citizen of the United States, a resident of the state of Minnesota, and be entitled to vote (be at least 21 years of age). The Secretary of State is elected for a four year term.

Functions and Services

One of the first duties of the Secretary of State upon assuming office is to call the House of Representatives to order when the legislature convenes. The Secretary of State is official custodian of legislative records such as the original engrossed and enrolled acts, permanent House and Senate journals, and minute books of legislative committees, prior to 1955.

The Secretary of State is keeper of the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota, and certifies records, documents and legislative acts.

Incorporation papers of business, nonprofit, cooperative, bank, insurance and foreign corporations are filed with the secretary of state.

Under the Minnesota Business and Nonprofit Corporation Acts the existence of a corporation does not begin until the Secretary of State has approved the articles of incorporation and issued a certificate of incorporation. During the past eight years the number of new corporations organized under these acts has increased by 50 per cent.

The Secretary of State is custodian of the original United States Government Survey notes of Minnesota and the township plats drawn from these notes.

The Secretary of State is responsible for many functions in the state election machinery including the filing of candidates for certain elective offices, the collection of filing fees, preparation of forms, printing the state and constitutional amendment ballots, certifying names of candidates to county auditors, and serving as chairman of the state canvassing board.

Other duties of the Secretary of State cover registration of trade marks, issuance of detective licenses, conducting special censuses, preparation of the Legislative Manual, and registration of charitable organizations and private trade schools.

The Secretary of State also is registrar of motor vehicles. He issues license plates and collects fees for more than a million and three-quarter vehicles each year. The license plates are issued by deputy registrars located throughout the state, or at the Highway Building for those who prefer to mail or bring their tax registration to the main office.

The Secretary of State must also license new and used auto dealers, chauffeurs and school bus drivers. In 1962, in addition to registering 1,865,765 motor vehicles and executing 600,000 transfers of title, the Secretary of State issued 2,200 auto dealers' licenses and 200,000 chauffeurs' and school bus drivers' licenses.

From the 1,865,765 motor vehicle registrations in 1962 the state collected 43 million dollars.

The volume of registrations in the motor vehicle division has increased over 100 per cent since 1947. The impact of this growth on service of the division has led to a program for mechanizing the processing and procedures of the motor vehicle division, operating since 1958.

The Secretary of State is a member of the Executive Council, Investment Board, and the Publication Board.

Legal Basis

Created by Minnesota Constitution, Article V.

Qualifications and Term

The qualifications for State Auditor are United States citizenship, state residence, and voting age—and are covered by Article VII, Section 7 of the Minnesota Constitution. The State Auditor is elected for a four year term.

Functions and Services

The State Auditor is the State's chief accounting officer and is charged with the administration of the general financial affairs of the State.

He maintains the general books of account of the State, and, with the Commissioner of Administration and the Public Examiner, prescribes the State's uniform accounting system.

He is responsible to the people for the examination, pre-audit and payment of all just bills, claims and demands presented against the State Treasury. No money can be paid out of the Treasury, except upon warrant of the State Auditor.

He is responsible for and maintains encumbrance controls over all appropriated and allotted sums, and provides fund direction for all moneys received into the State Treasury.

Each year he determines the mill rate of real and personal property taxation for State purposes, based on established debt and interest costs, plus legislative appropriations. This rate he certifies to the 87 county auditors for collection.

All original deeds, contracts, leases, claims, demands, bills and vouchers upon which money is to be paid to or received by the State are filed in the Office of the State Auditor.

To him is appropriated biennially moneys out of which he pays the salaries, expenses and retirement annuities of the District Court Judges and the annuities of Supreme Court Justices and Commissioners, including the Attorney General, the Clerk of the Supreme Court and the Governor's aides.

Created by Minnesota Constitution, Article V.

Qualifications and Term

The Constitution, Article VII, Section 7, requires only that the Attorney General be a citizen of the United States, a resident of the State of Minnesota, and be entitled to vote. The Attorney General serves a four year term.

Functions and Services

The Attorney General is the chief legal officer for the state and is the legal advisor to the Governor and all of the constitutional officers. He is the legal advisor for the state legislature and all of its committees. Every board, commission and agency of the state receives its legal advice from the Attorney General. His opinions have the force and effect of law as they apply to tax and education matters. In addition thereto, his opinions are generally sought and followed by the attorneys for the cities, villages, counties, towns and townships of the state. The Attorney General's duties stem from the constitution, statutes, and the common law.

The Attorney General assists in the legislative processes. He and the members of his staff assist members of the legislature in drafting new legislation or amendments to existing laws. Often the Governor, before signing or vetoing bills, consults with the Attorney General and is provided with his analysis and advice with respect to the effect of a given bill.

The Attorney General prosecutes all actions against persons who claim an interest adverse to the state, as well as claims of the state against the Federal government. The Attorney General may inquire into the affairs of charitable corporations and, if necessary, may take action to terminate their corporate existence where it appears that they are not operating in the public interest.

The Attorney General possesses authority to enforce compliance with the state's anti-trust laws and to protect the Minnesota consumer.

The Attorney General selects opinions of general interest and submits a compilation of them to the Governor annually. This report deals with cases in which the Attorney General has appeared for the state. The Attorney General's report also contains tables of criminal offenses reported by the county attorneys as well as recommendations for the amendment of laws in the State of Minnesota.

The Attorney General supervises the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, the legal activities of the Highway, Welfare, Conservation, Taxation and Employment Services divisions of state government.

The Attorney General is a member of the State Executive Council, the State Board of Investment and the Board of Pardons, as well as the State Archives Commission, the Land Exchange Commission, the State Publication Board and other boards and commissions.

ADMINISTRATIVE DEPARTMENTS, BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS*

In this section of Chapter 3 are gathered the departments, boards, and commissions whose principal functions appear to be administrative, as distinguished from agencies and commissions whose functions are primarily policy forming, advisory, or examining and licensing. Retirement boards are also set forth in a separate section.

During the past one hundred years the legislature has enacted laws which have expanded the role of the state government and increased the duties of the executive branch of government. In order that these duties may be properly executed the legislature has provided for many new administrative departments and agencies within the executive branch. The governing bodies and administrative heads of most of these departments are appointed by the governor and are responsible to him for the proper operation of their agency. An exception to this rule are the Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners who are elected by the people.

Legal Basis

Since the Department of Administration is a staff agency, references to the Commissioner of Administration or the Department of Administration are found in many different sections of the statutes. However, the main detailing of the powers and duties of the Department of Administration are located in Minnesota Statutes 1961, Chapter 16.

Qualifications for Department Head

No specific qualifications are required by law.

Organization and Functions

The Department of Administration compiles the biennial budget; manages the budgetary allotment system; supervises all state budget processes; operates the central procurement system; supervises all physical plant construction; provides a number of central services to operating departments; is responsible for programs of management improvement; maintains the capitol group of buildings; maintains an inventory of all state property and administers social security coverage for all public employees.

The department's functions are executed by the Office of the Commissioner and six operating divisions. In addition to his duties as head of the department, the Commissioner also serves as: Secretary of the Executive Council, Secretary of the Legislative Advisory Committee, Chairman of the Archives Commission, Secretary of the Minnesota Commission on Interstate Cooperation, and is a member of the Equalization Aid Review Committee, and the School Loan Committees.

The Division of Central Services includes Central Stores, duplicating equipment, addressograph, microfilming, central mailing, central tabulating machine service, and the Documents Section.

The Social Security Retirement Division is responsible for administration of existing public employees' social security programs and for the conducting of referenda on the question of social security coverage.

The Budget Division is responsible for compiling the biennial budget under supervision of the Governor-elect. It operates the allotment system and survey organization to achieve efficiency and economy by eliminating duplication.

The Procurement Division handles centralized purchasing of materials and services for state departments and agencies, except the University. It establishes and enforces regulations governing purchasing procedures. It also inspects and tests products purchased.

The State Printer, who is included in this division, supervises printing and advertising, publication of legal notices, and printing of Minnesota Statutes.

The Public Property Division maintains and operates the Capitol group of buildings and grounds. It inspects and appraises and maintains a perpetual inventory of the state's real and personal property. It also handles transfers of equipment between agencies, sells surplus equipment, supervises the rental of land and buildings for state use, rents unused state property, and operates a central switchboard for the capitol group of buildings.

Commissioner: Lawrence E. McCabe—Salary $12,000. Term expires: January 1, 1967. Appointed by Governor for four years.
Deputy Commissioner: Mirl C. Solberg, Chief Engineer, under Civil Service. Appointed as Deputy Commissioner by Commissioner of Aeronautics.

Legal Basis

Article XIX, Minnesota Constitution adopted November 7, 1944; Chapter 360, Minnesota Statutes 1961.

Qualifications for Department Head

The Commissioner is appointed by the Governor with consent of the Senate. He is required to "have knowledge of aeronautics" (Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 360.014).

Organization

The Department of Aeronautics is headed by the Commissioner. The Chief Engineer is in charge of the engineering section and he is also the Deputy Commissioner.

The Engineering Division advises municipal officials and engineers on site selection, design and development of airports; approves plans and specifications for state aid airport projects and supervises their construction; installs, maintains and operates radio navigation aids, and evaluates flight hazards.

The Safety Division investigates accidents to light aircraft; inspects flight schools, airports and commercial operations before licensing. The Division also prepares safety bulletins, and checks radio navigational aids. It works with local law enforcement agencies and runs flight traffic surveys.

The Administration Division administers department finances and records, collects the registration tax on non-airline aircraft and registers pilots.

All employees other than the Commissioner are under Civil Service.

Purpose and Functions

The purpose of the Department of Aeronautics is to encourage, foster, and assist in the development of airports and other air navigation facilities.

Legal Basis

The Department is organized under the provisions of Minnesota Statutes 1961, Chapter 17, and enforces Chapters 17-22, 24, 25, and 27-34.

Qualifications for Commissioner

No specific qualifications are prescribed other than the posting of a $5,000 bond.

Organization and Functions

The Department of Agriculture encourages and promotes the development of agricultural industries, investigates marketing conditions affecting the marketing of farm products, and assists farmers, producers, and consumers in the organization and management of cooperative enterprises and the cooperative marketing of farm products. The department advises and assists in the location and establishment of local markets when it is determined that the public necessity or the welfare of the community requires such markets, provided the department is satisfied that such markets will be successfully operated by a cooperative company or municipality.

The department enforces the laws designed to protect the public health and to prevent fraud and deception in the manufacture and distribution of food and other items.

The various laws assigned to the department for enforcement give the commissioner his basic regulatory powers. In addition the legislature has given to the commissioner the power to enact rules and regulations, definitions, and standards to cope with changing conditions.

It is also the duty of the Department of Agriculture and the Institute of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota to cooperate in all ways that may be beneficial to the agricultural interests of the state.

There are eight major divisions in the Department of Agriculture. These are the Divisions of Administrative Services, Agricultural Products Inspection, Agronomy Services, Federal-State Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, Laboratory Services, Marketing Services, Plant Industry, and Poultry Industries. There is also the Unfair Dairy Trade Practices Section which is directly responsible to the Commissioner.

Administrative Services Division includes accounting, personnel, supplies and equipment, the License Section and supervision of the semi-state activities. The latter includes such organizations as the Red River Valley Dairymen's Association, the Minnesota Live Stock Producers Association, and the Minnesota Sheep Growers Association (Northern and Southern).

The section of Cooperatives renders assistance to cooperatives as required by law and performs cooperative auditing services according to requests made to the department.

Agricultural Products Inspection Division enforces all food and sanitation laws in all phases of the dairy and food industry. This includes food and meat processing plants. This division also gives label approval for all food products sold in Minnesota. Inspectors in this division also submit samples of anti-freeze, economic poisons, paints, and caustic poisons as needed for law enforcement.

The Grade A Milk Section works toward improved quality of Minnesota milk through expansion of the Grade A quality control program.

Wholesale Dealers Section issues licenses and sets bonds as required by law of anyone engaging in the business of buying and selling products of dairy plants, eggs, poultry, fruits and vegetables, hides and wool.

Agronomy Services Division has the responsibility of enforcing weed and seed control laws and those regulating manufacture and sale of feeds, fertilizers, soil conditioners, insecticides, and caustic or corrosive substances.

The seed law is administered under this division and insures proper labeling of agricultural seed, including lawn seed, and establishes requirements for purity, germination, and weed seed and inert matter content.

State-Federal Crop and Livestock Reporting Service gathers, summarizes, analyzes, and distributes statistics on Minnesota agriculture. The results are distributed to farmers, businessmen, and others who require the information. It is used extensively by the press, radio, and television.

Laboratory Services Division makes thousands of analytical examinations of food and other agricultural products every year to make sure they conform to Minnesota standards, legal definitions, or formulas on their labels. The division includes the bacteriological, chemical, and feed and fertilizer laboratories. This simplifies the processing of samples, many of which require both chemical and bacterial analysis.

Marketing Services Division is active in market promotion work in all phases of Minnesota agriculture. Grading and inspection of fruits and vegetables by terminal and shipping point inspection is accomplished through a cooperative agreement with Agricultural Marketing Service.

Joint projects with the Market News Service of United States Department of Agriculture include fruit and vegetable, livestock, and dairy and poultry reporting.

Other services of the division include a mobile laboratory to improve quality of dairy products, and publication of a monthly newsletter, "Minnesota Marketing Messenger."

Plant Industry Division is responsible for apiary inspection to determine need for disease eradication measures, barberry eradication to protect wheat and oats from stem rust, insect and plant disease control, and inspection of nurseries to insure the consumer of vigorous, healthy, insect-free stock. An important function of this division is the certification of seed potatoes grown in Minnesota.

Predator and rodent control work is handled cooperatively with the United States Department of Agriculture. Quarantine inspection of importing and exporting shipments, a seed laboratory to aid in enforcing the seed law, stone fruit virus-free certification, and white pine blister rust control are also responsibilities of this division.

Poultry Industries Division has service responsibilities with the administration of the National Poultry and Turkey Improvement Plans and a Certified Quality Egg Program.

The regulatory function of this division is the administration of the Minnesota Egg Law under which all dealers are licensed. This law requires all eggs sold within the state to be purchased and sold on a graded basis.

Unfair Dairy Trade Practices attempts to prevent unfair trade practices in the dairy industry.

The law requires manufacturers, wholesalers and distributors of milk and selected dairy products to file schedules of prices at which all sales will be made at wholesale to retailers, including volume discounts, rebates and refunds.

Purpose and Function

The State Archives Commission was created by the 1947 legislature to establish and maintain an archival program that would provide for the care of public records of permanent value, and for the destruction of records of no continuing value. The Commission is responsible for records of both the state and its governmental subdivisions.

The Commission operates the State Archives for records which have been judged to have fiscal, legal, administrative, or historical value, and a state records center for impermanent and semi-current records needed by agencies for reference purposes for specified periods of time. The Commission maintains a document restoration shop for the repair and lamination of worn and damaged documents. It has a microfilming service for records essential to the continuity of state government, a state population census records service through the year 1905, and issues certified copies of the information.

Armory Building Commission

COMMISSION MEMBERS

Address: Room 10, Capitol

Chairman: Major General Chester J. Moeglein, The Adjutant General.

Vice Chairman: Major General Robert P. Miller, 47th Infantry Division Commander.

Secretary-Treasurer: Brig. General Donald C. Grant, 47th Infantry Division Asst. Commander.

Functions and Services

The Minnesota State Armory Building Commission is a public corporation established to acquire, equip and maintain state armories. The Adjutant General, ex officio chairman of the commission, appoints the commission members.

As a public corporation the Commission has the power to acquire property for armory use, exercises the right of eminent domain, to issue bonds for the construction and equipment of new armories, to sue and be sued and to pay the cost of operating, maintaining and improving armories. Title to armory properties which the Commission acquires through the issuance of bonds passes to the state when the bonds are fully amortized.

Director of Area Redevelopment Administration: Vladimir Shipka. Appointed by Commissioner.

Legal Basis

The Department of Business Development is organized under Chapter 362, Minnesota Statutes 1961, as amended.

Qualifications for Department Head

Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 362.09 states that the commissioner "shall be chosen with regard to his knowledge, training, experience, and ability in administering the functions of the department."

Organization and Functions

The Department of Business Development was established to promote the continued economic growth of the state. Emphasis has been on assisting and expanding small business.

The department, headed by a commissioner, operates through six divisions—Research, Business and Industrial Services, Publicity, Trade Promotion, Community Planning, and Area Redevelopment Administration.

The Division of Research conducts research and issues reports on such general subjects as income and population changes and on such special subjects as investment in the travel trade and the natural market area of a given community. It publishes a directory of Minnesota manufacturers.

Existing and potential Minnesota manufacturers are assisted by the business and industrial services division which advises inventors, locates materials and markets, suggests new products and by-products and works to stimulate community cooperation. The division attempts to sell Minnesota to manufacturing enterprises from outside the state.

The Division of Publicity conducts programs of information and publicity to advertise Minnesota and promote and encourage location of new business in Minnesota as well as expansion of existing business. It also seeks to attract visitors, tourists, and residents to the state.

The Trade Promotion Division enforces laws against unfair and discriminatory trade practices and develops better methods of conducting retail trade.

The Community Planning Division advises and cooperates with community, state and regional planning agencies to encourage growth and improvement on a sound basis and to encourage community planning projects under the federal housing act.

The Area Redevelopment Administration administers the Federal and State Area Redevelopment Acts within the policy framework established by the State Executive Council.

Director, Division of Administrative Services: James H. Alexander. Civil Service.

Legal Basis

The Department of Corrections is created and empowered by Minnesota Statutes 1961, Chapter 241.

Qualifications for Commissioner

The Commissioner of Corrections is to be selected without regard to political affiliation and must have wide and successful administrative experience in correctional programs embodying rehabilitative concepts (Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 241.01).

Organization

The Corrections Department brings together in a single department those functions and services formerly performed by the Youth Conservation Commission, the State Board of Parole and Probation, and the Department of Welfare relating to the state prison, the state reformatory for men, the state reformatory for women, and the inspection of prisons, jails, and lockups.

The department is divided into a Division of Youth Conservation which is supervised and controlled by a deputy commissioner of corrections, and a Division of Adult Corrections under the control and supervision of a deputy commissioner of corrections, which division also administers the state prison at Stillwater, the state reformatory for men at St. Cloud, and the state reformatory for women at Shakopee.

The parole and probation agents formerly appointed and employed by the State Board of Parole and Probation and the Youth Conservation Commission are now appointed and employed by the Commissioner of Corrections and are in the classified service.

Except for the Chairman of the Adult Corrections Commission and the Youth Conservation Commission, the other members of those bodies are appointed by the Governor for 6 year terms. Their compensation is paid by law at $25 per day for each day spent in their official duties, and in addition thereto they receive reimbursement for their expenses.

The Commissioner of Corrections provides the two commissions with the personnel, supplies, equipment, and administrative services necessary and incident to their function.

Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 368.07 provides that the Commissioner of Corrections or his designee serve as Secretary to the State Board of Pardons.

A Division of Administrative Services provides central control and services covering the functions of personnel, accounting, budgeting and research, statistics, and administrative analysis. These functions apply to the institutions and camps as well as the central office operations. This division is headed by a Director of Administrative Services, which position is in the classified service.

Purpose and Functions

Through the Division of Adult Corrections and the Division of Youth Conservation the department administers the adult correctional institutions, the institutions and camps for youthful offenders, and conducts a corrections program geared to effect the rehabilitation of both adult and youthful offenders, the prevention of crime and delinquency, and the conservation of youth through their training and treatment.

The Division of Adult Corrections administers a program for the custody, treatment and training of offenders committed by the courts to the state prison at Stillwater, the state reformatory for men at St. Cloud, and the state reformatory for women at Shakopee. The state prison and reformatory for men are walled institutions for maximum security. The reformatory for women is a minimum security, cottage style institution. The reformatory for men emphasizes vocational training which is available in a wide variety of shops. An extensive industry program is carried on at the prison, of which twine rope and farm machinery are the principle items manufactured. It is the responsibility of the correctional institutions to provide custodial control of offenders committed to them, and to provide the training and treatment necessary to enable them to adjust more readily to community standards of behavior upon release.

The Division of Youth Conservation performs those administrative and custodial functions formerly performed by the Youth Conservation Commission relating to the control and management of the state training school for boys at Red Wing, the state training school for girls at Sauk Centre, the several youth conservation camps located at Rochester, St. Croix Forest, Willow River and Lake Thistledew, and the Reception Centers at St. Cloud, Sauk Centre, and Red Wing.

Within the Department of Corrections for administrative purposes are the two releasing authorities. They are:

I. The State Board of Parole and Probation is renamed Adult Corrections Commission, but continues to exercise all the powers and duties vested in and imposed upon it as formerly constituted. The commission is composed of the deputy commissioner of corrections, Division of Adult Corrections, as chairman, and four other members appointed by the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate. The commission was increased from 3 to 5 members by Chapter 623, Laws 1961. The commission performs the following functions. (1) It serves as the releasing authority for the three adult correctional institutions—the Stillwater prison, St. Cloud reformatory for men, and the Shakopee reformatory for women. It holds monthly meetings at each of these institutions for the purpose of seeing and hearing candidates for parole. (2) The agents serving the commission conduct presentence investigations for the district court and make recommendations to the court as to the suitability of the convicted defendant, as candidate for probation. They also provide supervision of those persons referred to the commissioner of corrections for probationary supervision. (3) It operates a parole program for adult offenders who have been conditionally released from the prison or reformatories. (4) It administers the Interstate Compact for the supervision of probationers and parolees.

II. The Youth Conservation Commission continues to exercise all the powers and duties vested in and imposed upon it as formerly constituted, relating to the custody and control of those persons committed thereto. The commission is composed of the deputy commissioner of corrections, Division of Youth Conservation, as chairman, and four other persons appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Senate (C. 624, Laws 1961). The aims of the commission are to prevent delinquency in crime among young people. All persons under 21 years of age at the time of their arrest who have been found guilty of a felony or a gross misdemeanor must be committed to the Youth Conservation Commission for the maximum sentence provided by law. Children adjudicated delinquent by a Juvenile Court may be committed to the probationary care of the Youth Conservation Commission.

In the Bureau's laboratory the latest developments in scientific crime detection are applied in the fields of chemistry, microscopy, firearms identification, photography and document examination. The Bureau's statistical division processes data on crimes, arrests, prison statistics and information from various sources and the information is dispatched periodically to sheriffs and chiefs of police.

The Bureau puts police agencies on the alert for persons sought in connection with crimes committed in Minnesota through a "Wanted" bulletin mailed regularly to law enforcement authorities throughout the United States, Mexico and Canada.

Since 1959 the Bureau has been responsible for training of all police officers, where needed. In discharging this duty 8 police science courses have been given each year, and specialized courses in identification and police supervision.

The Bureau maintains district offices at Willmar, Rochester, Fergus Falls, Thief River Falls and Duluth with main offices in St. Paul.

Legal Basis

Statutory provisions creating and empowering the State Board and State Department of Education are contained in Minnesota Statutes 1961, Chapter 121.

Qualifications for Commissioner, and Organization

The administrative head of the department is the Commissioner of Education who is selected by the Board for a statutory term of six years, with no restrictions on reappointment. The Board is free to elect such a person as they believe possesses the appropriate qualifications for the position but the salary is set by the Legislature.

All other staff members are appointed through Civil Service processes, with salaries and eligible candidates determined by the department. The Commissioner selects appointees from Civil Service lists but actual approval of appointment is given by the Board. Tenure is that regularly provided by the Civil Service law and rules.

The Department is organized into three major divisions and a research section all responsible directly to the Commissioner.

Purposes and Functions

The Department of Education is the operating agency through which the acts of the Legislature, relating to education, and the actions of the State Board of Education are effected and administered.

The Department classifies schools, distributes state and federal school aids, directs the preparation of courses of study, generally supervises public schools for compliance with minimum standards, certifies teachers, provides consultative services to public and school libraries, and conducts a program of vocational rehabilitation.

Basically the Department is the instrument for fulfillment of the constitutional mandate that there shall be established for all children of the state a uniform system of public schools. (Minnesota Constitution, Article VIII).

Legal Basis

Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 268.12, Subdivision 1, "There is hereby created and established a department of employment security which shall be the successor to the division of employment and security."

Qualifications for Commissioner

Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 268.12, Subdivision 2 requires that the commissioner be "selected on the basis of ability and experience and without regard to political affiliations."

Organization

The Department of Employment Security administers the Minnesota State Employment Service Program and the Unemployment Compensation Program. This Department maintains 33 full-time offices and 95 part-time (itinerant) offices located throughout the state to serve the public. In addition, 300 business men have been appointed by the Commissioner of this Department to serve as Employment Security Representatives for the purpose of extending the services of the Department to areas in the state where there are no offices.

The Commissioner is appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate for a term of six years. The Assistant Attorney General is appointed by the Attorney General for an indefinite term. All other Department officials are Civil Service employees.

Purpose and Functions

The Employment Service Division provides the following services to the public:

1. A state-wide placement service, bringing qualified applicants and available jobs together. This is a primary function of the department's offices located in 33 communities throughout the state.
2. Employment Counseling and Testing. The former assists in vocation choice and adjustment; the latter is a useful tool in proper job selection.
3. Employment Information and Trends. The Employment Service publishes data on employment, unemployment, trends in labor supply and demand, and current and prospective conditions affecting the labor force at both state and local levels.
4. Personnel and Industrial Services: helping employers to hire and assign workers effectively, and helping workers in skill development and job performance.

The Unemployment Compensation Division makes benefit payments to the following groups of unemployed workers who meet the eligibility requirements of the Minnesota Employment Security Law: employees in private industry; state employees (enacted by 1957 Legislature); municipal and other public employees upon election of coverage by the governing body (enacted by 1957 Legislature); federal employees; ex-servicemen.

The Department also administers the reporting and contribution requirements for the more than 40,000 employers and 900,000 workers covered under the law.

Legal Basis

The Governor's Human Rights Commission was created by an executive order during the administration of Governor Edward J. Thye. Although the body was not set up by statute, it is given recognition as an official state organ by the Minnesota Legislature, which regularly appropriates money for the support of its program.

Functions and Services

The Governor's Human Rights Commission is composed of Minnesota citizens who are appointed by the Governor for a term which coincides with the term of the Governor. The Commission's particular areas of concern are problems facing Indians and migrant workers; and it conducts a general educational program in human relations. It engages in research and fact-finding as a guide for recommending to the Governor appropriate courses of action for meeting those problems with which the Commission is concerned. The Commission works closely with the State Commission Against Discrimination in those areas of concern to both commissions, and it works with other organizations to improve inter-group relations throughout the state. It conducts a biennial state-wide Governor's Conference on Human Rights, human relations institutes for law enforcement officers in conjunction with the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, and conferences and workshops designed to crystallize the planning of state action commensurate with meeting the Commission's program responsibilities.

Legal Basis

The State Board of Health was created in 1872 as the official state agency to exercise administrative, quasi-judicial, and rule-making powers in the protection, preservation, and promotion of the public health. (Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 15.01, and Chapter 144.)

Qualifications for Board Members, Secretary

Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 144.01 stipulates only that board members be "learned in sanitary science." No statutory qualifications are prescribed for the Secretary and Executive Officer.

The State Board of Health is composed of nine members appointed by the Governor for three-year overlapping terms. They serve without pay. The Board elects a Secretary who is also Executive Officer of the Board. The Secretary and Executive Officer is appointed by and serves at the pleasure of the Board. All other classes of officials are Civil Service appointments.

Purpose and Functions

The Secretary and Executive Officer, as the state health officer, is directed to see that rules and orders of the Board and all duties given it by law are enforced and performed, and that laws enacted in the interests of human health are obeyed. The Department functions through the following divisions:

Division of Administrative Services

The Division has custody of official records and documents.

The Section of Accounts and Finance handles the receiving, budgeting, accounting, reporting, and controlling of all monies available to the Department.

The Section of Vital Statistics prepares and preserves data pertaining to births, adoptions, legitimations, deaths, stillbirths, marriages, divorces and annulments.

The Mortuary Science Unit administers laws relating to the examination and licensing of all persons concerned with the care and disposal of human dead.

Division of Environmental Sanitation

The Section of Water Pollution Control performs the technical and administrative work of the State Water Pollution Control Commission. It makes field investigations, reviews plans for sewage and waste disposal systems and investigates the operation of disposal systems.

The Section of Water Supply and General Engineering is responsible for the sanitation of public and semi-public water supplies, plumbing, and small sewerage systems, and handles matters relating to the sanitation of artificial swimming pools. It also administers the Plumbers License Law.

The Section of Hotels, Resorts and Restaurants licenses and inspects eating, drinking and lodging establishments and trailer coach parks.

The Section of Radiation and Occupational Health is concerned with the elimination of occupational disease hazards. The Section also carries on the program in radiation control.

The Section of Engineering Laboratories provides engineering laboratory services, performs special tests and conducts research.

Division of Medical Laboratories

The Division provides laboratory services to all persons in Minnesota through individuals licensed to practice the healing arts. It performs laboratory tests as an aid to the diagnosis and control of diseases and conducts applied research programs in the study of diseases of public importance. It administers the department's service unit.

Division of Disease Prevention and Control

The Division receives and analyzes reports of communicable disease cases; carries out field investigations to assist control of diseases; distributes biologics for immunization; maintains statewide tuberculosis, venereal disease, and rheumatic fever control programs.

Division of Local Health Administration

The civil defense responsibilities of the Department and its executive officer covering health and medical care, radiological and mortuary services are delegated to and implemented by this Division.

The Section of Public Health Nursing recruits and arranges field training for nurses to be employed by school, city, and county public health nursing services; develops educational and procedure manuals and in-service training courses; provides consultation to nursing and voluntary health agencies; and carries on statutory duties related to certification of public health nurses.

The Section of Local Health Services provides, in the field through eight district offices, consultation and supervision to local public health officials, brings departmental programs to local health agencies, and provides public health resources to local health jurisdictions.

Division of Special Services

The Section of Maternal and Child Health provides medical and nursing consultation, and assistance in developing maternal and child health programs including nutrition, human genetic counseling, accident and poison prevention. Since 1957 it has carried on a Four-County project for mental retardation designed to stimulate community interest in the development of facilities and services in rural areas to meet the needs of the mentally retarded.

The Section of Dental Health carries on educational programs in the prevention and control of dental disease and the promotion of good dental health practices.

The Section of Public Health Education administers the educational program of the Department. It distributes health literature and maintains a film library.

The Alcoholism Unit carries on an educational program directed toward the public, professional groups and schools.

The Library Unit contains 17,000 medical and health volumes.

Division of Hospital Services

The Division administers the Hill-Burton Hospital Survey, Planning and Construction program (Public Law 725, 79th Congress) and the Medical Facilities Survey, Planning and Construction program (Public Law 482, 83rd Congress). These programs provide limited financial assistance for constructing and equipping general hospitals, chronic and psychiatric units of general hospitals, public health centers, nursing homes, and rehabilitation centers. The Division assists communities in solving problems associated with planning, acquiring, and administering local hospitals and related facilities and conducts an extensive program for improving patient care services. It prepares annually a State Plan for all types of medical care facilities. It licenses hospitals and related institutions and registers hospital administrators. It carries on a program for improving health services for the chronically ill and aged, including integration of rehabilitation services into a total care program.

Legal Basis

The Department of Highways is created in Section 15.01, Minnesota Statutes 1961 and is continued by Section 161.02.

Qualifications for Department Heads

There are no specific qualifications prescribed by statute or the constitution for the Commissioner of Highways. However, Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 161.03, provides that "there will be one Assistant Commissioner in the Classified Service who shall be a registered professional highway or civil engineer."

Organization

The Commissioner of Highways is appointed by the Governor with the consent of the Senate for a four year term. The Commissioner may appoint a confidential secretary who shall be in the unclassified service and shall serve at the pleasure of the Commissioner. All other officers and employees of the Department are appointed under the provisions of civil service. Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 161.03, provides that "subject to other applicable laws, the Commissioner may organize the department and employ such assistants, officers, employees, and agents as he deems necessary to carry out the duties of his office and the functions of the Department." The present organization of the Department can be ascertained from an examination of the divisions listed above.

Purposes and Functions

The purposes and functions of the Highway Department fall into the following three broad program areas:

A. Construction and maintenance of state and interstate highways. In fulfilling this function the department: (1) ascertains the present and future construction needs of state, county and municipal road systems and develops long and short range construction programs to meet these needs; (2) in cooperation with the Office of the Attorney General, acquires right of way needed for highway purposes; (3) designs, constructs and maintains the roads, bridges and related structures on 12,200 miles of authorized trunk routes, plus approximately 898 miles of defense and interstate highways—construction is supervised and highway maintenance activities are carried on through nine general and sixteen maintenance districts.

B. Administration of state and federal aid to county and municipal road systems. The department carries out this function by: (1) providing technical advice and exercising general supervision over construction and maintenance operations on state aid roads involving the use of state aid or federal aid funds—this includes the approval and programming of construction projects and provides technical advice on various phases of these projects; (2) acting as liaison between the counties and municipalities and the Bureau of Public Roads.

C. Highway Traffic Safety. In carrying out this function the department: (1) examines and licenses drivers of motor vehicles and maintains records of accidents and law violations; (2) enforces state laws on all regular and interstate highways in the state; (3) conducts safety education programs for both drivers and pedestrians.

Minnesota Historical Society

The Minnesota Historical Society is unique among state organizations—it appears to be both a state agency, and a private non-state society.

In addition to the fact that sections of Minnesota Statutes refer to the society as an agency of the state government, the legislature has placed upon the Historical Society certain duties which would characterize it as a state agency. It serves as secretariat for the Historic Sites and Markers Commission and the State Geographic Board. The director of the society serves on these boards and the Minnesota State Archives Commission, which boards are entirely composed of state officials. The society is a repository for state documents and the primary library for books on the State of Minnesota.

Approximately 85 per cent of the society's funds are received from legislative appropriations. The funds donated from private sources are used primarily to finance special projects. In the disposition of these private funds the society is deemed a private corporation.

In conformity with past practice the membership, department staff, and functions and services of the commission are set forth in this chapter under the section Semi-State Societies.

Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation Office and Commission

Commissioner

Armando M. DeYoannes, born at Calumet, Michigan on June 25, 1911. Educated at Eveleth, Minnesota public schools, Eveleth Junior College, and the University of Minnesota School of Journalism (B.S.). Employed as newspaper reporter, radio and television announcer 1937-1961. Served in U. S. Marine Corps during World War II from 1943-1946. Member of the Police and Fire Commission, City of Virginia, from 1947-1964. Associated with the Enterprise Publishing Company in Virginia, Minnesota at time of appointment as Commissioner of the Department of Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation on February 4, 1961. Married, two children. Residence, Virginia, Minnesota.

DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS

Address: 60 State Office Building, St. Paul

Commissioner: Armando M. DeYoannes—Salary $10,500. Appointed by Governor for two year term. Term expires: June 30, 1963.

Assistant Commissioner: Nello R. Valentini.

Qualifications for Commissioner

No statutory qualifications are prescribed.

Organization and Functions

Development of natural resources and provision of vocational training and rehabilitation for residents of counties where resources have been depleted are the responsibilities of the office. A seven-man Commission, which is empowered to approve or disapprove projects and expenditures proposed by the Commissioner and which serves as an advisory board to the Commissioner was created by the 1943 Legislature and consists of three Senators, three Representatives, and the Commissioner of Conservation. The office is headed by a commissioner appointed for a two-year term by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate.

Various programs are undertaken to promote agriculture and forest development and to provide vocational training. Commission funds have gone into such projects as wood processing, food processing and peat development, water surveys, mineral surveys, topographic mapping surveys and research projects such as charcoal production, tourist surveys, Indian surveys and industrial development surveys.

The office is financed by ten percent of iron ore occupation tax receipts. The monies repaid to the State pursuant to contract are now paid into a revolving fund and reappropriated for the original purposes as a result of a 1961 legislative enactment.

Legal Basis

The Industrial Commission is created and its general powers granted under Chapter 175, Minnesota Statutes 1961.

Qualifications for Commissioners

No statutory or constitutional qualifications are prescribed. Section 175.02, Minnesota Statutes 1961 does state, however, that not more than two commissioners shall be from the same political party.

Organization and Functions

The Industrial Commission is the administrative agency of the Department of Labor and Industry. It is supervised by three commissioners appointed by the Governor for six year terms. A term of one commissioner expires every two years on June 30. The last two years of his appointment he serves as chairman of the Commission. All staff members other than the commissioners are under Civil Service.

Matters directly affecting workers and employers, with a strong emphasis on safety, are handled by the Department of Labor and Industry. This agency is commonly referred to as the Industrial Commission, which is the administrative body of the department.

There are eight divisions in the department—accident prevention, boiler inspection, statistics, steamfitting standards, voluntary apprenticeship, workmen's compensation, women and children and general administration. In addition to running the department, the Industrial Commission decides appeals from its referees' findings in workmen's compensation cases and establishes minimum wages for women and minors. Determinations of the Commission may be appealed to the Supreme Court.

The department is charged with eliminating hazardous conditions and promoting safe working standards in industry and the trades. Places of employment are checked to determine safety of equipment and general working conditions. Correction orders are issued where warranted. Enforcement of laws pertaining to working women and children is handled by the Division of Women and Children.

Boiler operators, steamfitters and fee employment agencies are licensed by the department. Supervision and promotion of the state's apprenticeship program in trades and industries and enforcement of compensation laws in connection with industrial accidents are department activities. The commission administers workmen's compensation for state employees.

Labor Conciliator—Division of Labor Conciliation

Conciliator

Richard E. Wanek, 1045 West Idaho, St. Paul. Born March 10, 1917, Menominee, Michigan. Graduate, 1939, Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois. Employed as newspaper reporter at St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press 1942-1961, except for World War II service in U. S. Marine Corps, 1943-1946. Served as state capitol reporter and columnist 1951-1961. Officer of American Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, Local 2, 1950-1961; serving as vice-president, 1957-1958 and president, 1959-1960. Married: Wife, Kay; children, Richard and Jill. Appointed Minnesota State Labor Conciliator April 11, 1961.

DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS

Address: 420 State Office Building

State Labor Conciliator: Richard E. Wanek—Salary $11,500. Term expires: March 1, 1965. Appointed by Governor for four years.

Deputy Conciliator: William T. Sampson.

Assistant Conciliators: Vern E. Buck, Donald C. Casseday, Martin E. Conway, Peter Obermeyer, Warren D. Sandquist.

Legal Basis

The Division of Labor Conciliation is created and given its general powers under Minnesota Statutes 1961, Chapter 179.

Qualifications for Conciliator

No statutory or constitutional qualifications are prescribed; however, the Labor Conciliator has always had extensive experience in employer-employee relations and collective bargaining.

Organization

The Minnesota Labor Relations Act of 1939 established the Division of Conciliation in charge of the State Labor Conciliator. Although the Division was established in the Department of Labor and Industry, it is in no way subject to the control of that department. The Division has since become known as the Division of Labor Conciliation. The State Labor Conciliator is appointed by the Governor for a four year term, with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Other employees of the Division, known as assistant labor conciliators, are selected through the civil service process. One of the assistants is designated as deputy by the Labor Conciliator. Clerical personnel also are employed through civil service.

Since the Act was passed, the following persons have served as Labor Conciliators: Lloyd J. Haney, April, 1939-February, 1941; Alfred P. Blair, February, 1941-October, 1941; James L. Kelley, October, 1941-September, 1943; Leonard Johnson, September, 1943-August, 1948; Harry L. Hanson, August, 1948-April, 1957; and Charles W. Johnson, Jr., May, 1957-April, 1961.

Purpose and Functions

The primary objectives of the Division are twofold: (1) To limit or prevent work stoppages in labor disputes and settle grievances between employers and employees that the parties have been unable to resolve themselves at the bargaining table; (2) to select the representative of employees in either public or private employment when a dispute arises over selection of the proper representative.

The first purpose is accomplished by mediation, conciliation or arbitration between the parties in informal and private meetings. The second is accomplished by public investigation by the department, including hearings and elections where necessary and proper to determine wishes of the employees.

Either party to a labor dispute in private employment may request services of the Conciliator by petition. Workers or employers are required to file the petition at least ten days in advance of any strike or lockout. Conciliation services may be requested even if there is no intent to strike or lockout. The Division calls the parties into a meeting as soon as possible after receipt of the petition and endeavors to settle the dispute and avoid a work stoppage. If one takes place, despite the Conciliator's efforts, he still seeks to shorten its duration as much as possible. If the dispute involves an industry in which a stoppage would be harmful to the public interest, the matter is referred to the Governor who may name a fact finding commission to investigate and report its recommendations to him within 30 days. No strike or lockout may take place during this period, except that in industries engaged in interstate commerce, the no-strike, no-lockout provision is governed by federal instead of state laws.

In representation matters, the Conciliator is authorized to use any suitable means to determine the representative of employees, including an election among employees. In public employment the Conciliator must conduct a secret ballot election when such a dispute arises.

Liquor Control Commissioner

Commissioner

William H. Joyce, Minneapolis. Born September 29, 1907. Raised in Southwestern Wisconsin (Grant County). Graduated from Cassville High School in 1924. Attended University of Minnesota Center for Continuation Study—Law Enforcement and Parliamentary Law. From 1936-61 employed by Ford Motor Co. in Minneapolis and St. Paul and City of Minneapolis Water Department, Board of Public Welfare, and Police Department. Resigned as Deputy Inspector of Police, Minneapolis, July 15, 1961. Appointed Liquor Control Commissioner on July 17, 1961.

DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS
Address: 80 State Office Building

Commissioner: William H. Joyce—Salary $11,500. Appointed by Governor for four years. Term expires: January 1, 1967.
Executive Secretary: John A. Muer. Civil Service.
Chief of Enforcement: Walter E. Perlt. Civil Service.
Superintendent of Import: Leroy V. Cusick. Civil Service.

Legal Basis

The office of Liquor Control Commissioner is created by Section 340.08, Minnesota Statutes 1961 and is empowered by Section 340.09.

Qualifications for Commissioner

The Commissioner must be a resident of Minnesota for at least five years before appointment and have no direct or indirect financial interest in the manufacture, transportation, or sale of intoxicating liquor, malt or vinous beverages (intoxicating or not intoxicating), or commercial or industrial alcohol (Section 340.08, Minnesota Statutes 1961).

Organization and Functions

This department was established in 1934 after repeal of the National Prohibition Act and passage of the Minnesota Liquor Control Act, and is supervised by a Commissioner, who is appointed by the Governor for a four year term. All other employees of the department are under Civil Service.

The department oversees and enforces the collection of all excise taxes on distilled liquor, wine and beer, which annually totals approximately $20,000,000. This supervision is accomplished through inspections, by agents of the Commissioner, of all distilled liquor and wine at the time of arrival in the state. The monthly report required from distillers, vintners, brewers and wholesalers, whether located in state or out of state are checked and audited for the purpose of establishing tax liability. Periodic inspections are made of all retail beverage dealers in the state. Thus the channels of all branches of the alcoholic beverage industry are regulated from the manufacturer down to the consumer.

The Commissioner approves all licenses and bonds for manufacturers, importers, wholesalers and off-sale liquor licensees, and checks all certifications for on-sale and club liquor licenses issued by municipal authorities. The commissioner also must approve the standards of quality and brands of all alcoholic beverages sold in the state. The department controls all advertising of alcoholic beverages and registers all brand labels. In addition, the Commissioner issues permits to private clubs and public places allowing the consumption and display of intoxicating liquor.

Liquor Control Inspectors assist local officials in the enforcement of the Liquor Control Act. Over a period of a year such assistance will include approximately two-thirds of the counties of the state. Recent emphasis has been directed at unlicensed sale of liquor and violations involving persons under 21 years of age.

Poultry Diseases Division: H. R. Olson, D.V.M.

Office Management and Budget Control Division: C. B. Schubert.

Legal Basis

Minnesota Statutes, 1961, Section 35.02, describes the legal basis of the board. This law points out that there shall be a board of five members, that there may be a consultant to the board, that the board shall appoint a secretary and executive officer, and that the board may employ an attorney and such other assistants as may be necessary.

Qualifications for Department Head

Minnesota Statutes, 1961, Section 35.02, provides that the Secretary and Executive Officer who serves as department head shall be a veterinarian and a graduate of a regularly organized and recognized veterinary college.

Organization

The Governor appoints the board, who in turn elect a Secretary and Executive Officer. All other full-time employees are under Civil Service. These other full-time employees are division heads, field veterinarians, law enforcement inspectors, and clerical personnel. Veterinarians and veterinary helpers are employed on a contract basis to conduct the brucellosis and tuberculosis tests.

Purpose and Functions

Minnesota Statutes, 1961, Section 35.03, gives the board power to protect the health of the domestic animals of the state, employing such means and making such rules and regulations as it may deem expedient to that end. The two most well-known and time-consuming duties of the board are the tuberculosis eradication program and the brucellosis eradication program. Both of these programs have been very successful. Minnesota was declared a Modified Accredited Tuberculosis-free state in 1934, and a Modified Certified Brucellosis-free state in 1957. Other important duties of the four Divisions are as follows:

Brucellosis Division: (1) administers all laws and regulations relative to brucellosis eradication; (2) organizes and supervises county-wide tests for brucellosis and tuberculosis; (3) organizes and supervises county partial brucellosis tests; (4) supervises work of 600 practicing veterinarians when such veterinarians are engaged in brucellosis work; (5) carries out educational program relative to brucellosis eradication.

Tuberculosis and Quarantine Division: (1) administers tuberculosis eradication laws and regulations; (2) administers laws requiring inspection of all livestock imported into Minnesota; (3) carries out anthrax control program; (4) carries out garbage cooking program; (5) supervises the inspection of livestock auction markets.

Poultry Disease Division: (1) administers turkey testing program; (2) administers chicken testing program; (3) carries out hatchery inspection; (4) administers laws and regulations dealing with rabies control; (5) administers inspection requirements of livestock at all public exhibitions.

Office Management and Budget Control Division: (1) prepares payroll for Civil Service and contract employees; (2) processes appraisals on condemned animals; (3) prepares biennial and quarterly budget requests; (4) makes requisitions for department purchases; (5) manages business affairs of office.

Legal Basis

The Department of Military Affairs, under the direction of the Adjutant General, is created and its general powers granted by Sections 190.07-190.16, Minnesota Statutes 1961.

Qualifications for Adjutant General

Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 190.07 lays down the following qualifications: the Adjutant General must be a commissioned officer of the Minnesota National Guard with at least ten years of service in the armed forces of the state or United States, have been commissioned for at least three of the ten years, and have reached the grade of a field officer.

Organization and Functions

The Adjutant General is the head of the Department of Military Affairs and is appointed by the Governor for an indefinite term. Other department officials are appointed by the Adjutant General for indefinite terms and are placed on state military duty. Each official of the department receives the same pay and allowances of his grade as is authorized officers of similar rank and length of service in the Regular Army of the United States.

The Adjutant General is charged with the recruitment, organization, administration, training, discipline and supply of the military forces of the State, designated as the Minnesota National Guard, which is equipped and, to a very large extent, maintained by the federal government. This force has a dual status, in that it is the Minnesota National Guard when in the service of the State and the National Guard of the United States when it is ordered into active military service. When the Guard is in active federal service and the security and welfare of the State is endangered because of the absence from the State of this military force, the Military Code of Minnesota prescribes that the military force of the State will consist of the Minnesota State Guard, organized from those of the Militia of the State who are not likely to be called to federal service during the war or emergency.

The Minnesota National Guard has served in active federal service in all of our Nation's wars, beginning with the Civil War. The 47th Infantry Division, which was first activated in Minnesota following World War II, was ordered into active service for the Korean Incident and served for two years at Camp Rucker, Alabama. Thousands of members of this division were sent overseas to serve in combat units on the Korean Front. Other units of the Army National Guard and all of our Air National Guard units also served for two years during the Korean War. In October, 1961, the 133d Air Transport Wing and its subordinate units at Wold-Chamberlain Field were ordered into active federal service in connection with the Berlin Crisis and served for one year, flying strategic transport missions in support of our global military operations.

During the period while the Minnesota National Guard was on active duty for World War II and the Korean War, the Department organized and maintained a Minnesota State Guard. Whereas the National Guard is armed, uniformed, equipped, and paid for armory drill and field training by the federal government, the State Guard receives no pay while in service in the state by the federal government, and the state must pay for supplying arms and equipment for this force. Plans have been prepared for reactivation of the State guard should a national emergency again require federal mobilization of our National Guard units.

At the present time the Minnesota National Guard has a strength of over 11,000 officers and men. Approximately 9,500 are assigned to the 47th Infantry Division of the Army National Guard, and the remainder are assigned to the 133d Air Transport Wing, Wold-Chamberlain Field, Minneapolis, and the 148th Air Defense Group, Williamson-Johnson Airport, Duluth.

The Department of Military Affairs has control and jurisdiction over the Camp Ripley Military Reservation, 67 State-owned or controlled armories throughout the State, the Holman Air National Guard Base and the Duluth Air National Guard Base.

DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS

Address: 223 State Office Building

Acting Public Examiner: (Deputy Public Examiner Robert A. Whitaker was in charge of the department at the time the Legislative Manual went to press. No Public Examiner had yet been appointd by the Governor for the six year, $13,000 per year position).

Supervisors: County Audits--Russell O. Anderson; State Department Audits—Norman E. Nelson; Municipal Audits--Willard C. Olson; Investigations—Karl A. Nuerenberg; Municipal Reporting—Loring V. Ellefson.

Legal Basis

The creation and general powers of the department are stated in Minnesota Statutes 1961, Chapter 215.

Qualifications for Public Examiner

The Public Examiner shall be a skilled accountant and shall not at any time while in office hold any other public office or own any stock or have any commercial interest in any corporation, co-partnership, property, or business subject to supervision or examination by the department. He shall furnish bond to the state in the sum of $25,000, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties. (Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 215.02.)

Organization

The department consists of the Office of the Public Examiner and three operating divisions, all employees being Civil Service appointees: General Office Division—personnel includes the Office Executive and a clerical staff of ten; Division of Audits—personnel consists of the Chief Supervising Examiner (Deputy Public Examiner), three Supervising Examiners, each heading one of the three auditing sections—county, municipal and state department, and a staff of approximately 75 auditors; Division of Investigation—personnel includes a Public Accounts Examiner (Investigator), one Auditor, and one part-time clerk-stenographer; Municipal Reporting Division—personnel consists of a Supervisor and a clerical staff of four.

Purpose and Functions

The Department of Public Examiner is the post-audit agency of the state government. It post-audits all departments and other agencies of the state, certain semi-state agencies, all county governments, cities of the first class, and certain other municipalities and school districts. It conducts investigations in connection with its audits of these political subdivisions, and publishes statistical data for state and local governments.

In addition to his duties as head of the department, the Public Examiner serves as a member of the Archives Commission. He approves fidelity bonds covering state officers and employees, and he advises and assists the State Auditor and Commissioner of Administration in prescribing a uniform system of accounts for state departments.

*William Scott served as Public Examiner from September 1, 1961 to April 16, 1963, when he resigned.

Organization and Functions

People who are unable to provide for their own basic needs are helped by the public welfare program in Minnesota. This program provides financial aid where necessary and social services to the aged, the mentally ill, the physically handicapped, the mentally retarded and other people with special problems.

The Department of Public Welfare supervises county welfare programs which serve about 100,000 Minnesotans and it also operates 19 institutions and hospitals which care for about 16,000 patients.

Minnesota's welfare program is operated locally by 87 county welfare boards, which administer the program under the supervision of the State Department of Public Welfare. The 19 institutions and hospitals are operated directly by the state department.

The department, headed by a commissioner, performs its various functions through six divisions, each headed by a director. The divisions are: Medical Services, Public Assistance, Child Welfare, Field Services, Administrative Services and Rehabilitative Services.

SERVICE AND AID PROGRAMS

MEDICAL SERVICES

Mental Health—Administration of the state mental health program includes responsibility for:

(1) Supervision of the treatment program in the seven state hospitals for the mentally ill. A complete medical and psychiatric treatment program is offered at Anoka, Fergus Falls, Hastings, Moose Lake, Rochester, St. Peter, and Willmar.

(2) Supervision and program planning for the mentally retarded and epileptic, both within the six state institutions and in the community. Institutional care and training is provided at the State Schools and Hospitals at Faribault, Cambridge and Brainerd, the Shakopee Home for Children and the Owatonna State Training School. An additional 4100 wards of the Commissioner of Public Welfare live in their communities, under supervision of the local county welfare department.

(3) A state-wide mental health research program.

(4) Mental health training programs for professional personnel.

(5) Consultation and administration of state funds to the 17 community mental health centers located throughout the state.

Tuberculosis Control—All patients and employees in the state institutions are given screening X-rays each year and when indicated, followed periodically by special examinations and laboratory studies. One state sanitorium is maintained plus a special unit for the tuberculosis mentally ill. In addition, state aid is administered to county sanatoria.

CHILD WELFARE

For the most part this Division does not give direct service to children and their families, but instead engages in a variety of activities designed to develop, coordinate, supervise and further strengthen a state-wide program of child welfare services, primarily through 87 county welfare boards and 277 private agencies and child care facilities.

The Division does this in many ways, such as counseling with local agency workers, agency or institution directors, and with field supervisors who are in direct contact with local agencies; establishing priorities for determining how limited funds for extending and strengthening child welfare services may be used to best advantage; reviewing recommendations of local agencies regarding such matters as adoption for a particular child or permanent separation from his own parents; suggesting legislative changes when needed to better assure protection of children; and preparation of written material to promote deeper understanding of children's needs and wider appreciation of what good child welfare services can contribute.

The three principal sections and services of the Division are:

Adoption—The four units in this section operate a program for adoption placement of children who are committed as dependent or neglected wards of the Commissioner, review all adoption petitions in both agency and non-agency placements, and study and report to the court all non-relative step-parent and foreign and inter-state adoptions. Administer provisions of state law regarding importation and exportation of children for adoption or foster care.

Child Protection and Planning—This section carries responsibility for development and supervision of county welfare department programs of services to unmarried parents, illegitimate children, planning for children for whom the Commissioner has been appointed guardian, protective services to children, and services to children in their own homes.

Standards and Licensing—This section is responsible for standard setting and licensing and consultation of private child caring agencies, private children's institutions for emotionally disturbed, dependent, and retarded children, private day care facilities, both group day care and family day and boarding homes for children.

PUBLIC ASSISTANCE

The three major financial aid programs handled by this Division are: old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and aid to the disabled.

Old Age Assistance—is financial aid based on need, to persons 65 and over who are eligible.

Aid to Dependent Children—is financial help to families, with dependent children whose father is dead, absent from the home, or unable to work.

Aid to the Disabled—is financial help to persons permanently and totally disabled and unable to live without help from other persons.

General Relief—is the basic form of money assistance and takes care without regard to special conditions of all people in need—such as age, blindness, etc. This kind of relief is given by the county or township in which the person lives, and is supplied almost wholly from local funds. About 70 counties dispense relief paid wholly from local tax sources, and only about 17 counties receive any "aid to distressed counties" from the state.

FIELD SERVICES

Field personnel of the Department of Welfare work with county welfare boards to promote child welfare, mental health, and financial aid programs. They also give advice on state policies, promote effective local services, train county social workers and review local operations.

REHABILITATIVE SERVICES

This division was created for the purpose of bringing together into one operational unit those sections within the Department that were already engaged in providing diagnostic and treatment services to physically handicapped persons. Its primary function is to provide specialty resources for persons with particular impairments such as the visually handicapped, the deaf, and crippled children.

Services for the blind include aid for the needy blind, vocational counselling, medical restoration, vocational training, and job placement. Other services offered include business enterprises (vending stands), work with pre-school children and their parents, educational aids and consultations to local schools, home teaching of adults, adjustment services for newly blinded, optical aids and devices, and braille and talking books.

Services for the deaf offers a variety of services to deaf and hard of hearing people, including personnel and vocational counseling, and interpreting. One of its main functions is offering consultative services to other social agencies, both public and private, where there is need for technical advice. Services are given in special education of deaf children, working closely with public school classes and with the State School for the Deaf (Faribault).

Crippled Children—The state program is designed to provide medical, surgical, and related services to the medically indigent, crippled, and handicapped children of Minnesota. Surgery and medical care are provided at Gillette State Hospital for Crippled Children and supplementary services are purchased from private sources. Diagnostic field clinics are held in key areas throughout the state.

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

As in any large enterprise, accounts must be kept and records must be maintained in order to determine value received for money expended. This is the responsibility of the Administrative Services division. This Division prepares the department's budget, preaudits all bills, provides cost accounting service and management control of institutional expenditures; supervises the expenditures of the county welfare boards; and conducts research to interpret economic and social trends as a basis for policy and fiscal planning.

Legal Basis

The powers, duties, and responsibilities of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission are found in Chapters 216 to and including 239, Minnesota Statutes 1961, as amended.

Qualifications for Commissioners

The Minnesota Constitution (Article VII, Section 7) describes the general requirements for holding state-wide public office as being United States citizenship, state residence, and voting age. In addition to the constitutional qualifications Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners under Section 216.02, Minnesota Statutes 1961 must not be in the employ of or own stocks, bonds, or other property in any railroad company or grain warehouse.

Organization and Functions

The Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission consists of three members, each elected for a six-year term. Terms are staggered so that one commissioner is chosen at each biennial election. All other employees of the commission are under Civil Service, except the personal secretaries to the commissioners.

The commission has jurisdiction over the regulation of railroads, bus and truck companies, telephone companies, grain inspection and weighing, public terminal grain warehouses, public local grain warehouses, livestock weighing, livestock buyers or dealers, weights and measures, and warehouses (other than grain or cold storage). The railroad laws include the regulation of rail rates, clearances, crossings, abandonment of agency and custodian service, passenger trains, and other rail facilities.

The commission regulates the rates of bus and truck companies. The latter includes several divisions, i.e., regular route common carriers and petroleum carriers, irregular route common carriers, contract carriers, charter carriers, livestock carriers, and household carriers. The bus and truck division prepares commission orders covering bus and truck operations, including the issuance of certificates of public convenience and necessity, in the transportation of passengers and property as common carriers. All other types of carriers by motor vehicle are also required to have public hearings, except the livestock carrier.

The commission conducts hearings in a semi-judicial capacity when considering applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity, amendments thereto, applications for change in rates and charges for the carriage of passengers and property. All testimony taken at public hearings is reported and the commission renders formal decisions either denying or granting the application in whole or in part. Its decisions may be appealed to the district courts within thirty days of service of the orders.

The secretary of the commission is custodian of the property and records of the commission, is required to sign all notices and orders of the commission, and also acts as attorney for various divisions, except the bus and truck division. He advises and handles cases relating to depot facilities, agency service, passenger train abandonments and appears before the Interstate Commerce Commission when interstate passenger train abandonments and main line abandonments are involved.

The engineering division maintains records showing the valuations of the 22 railroads operating in the state and investigates applications for changes in railroad services relating to clearances, railroad crossings, crossing protection, train speed, and abandonment of spur and industry tracks.

The telephone division supervises all telephone companies doing business in the state. It audits annual reports of all companies and makes recommendations to the commission on rate matters.

The rate division is charged with the duty and responsibility of studying, preparing and recommending data on transportation rates, fares and charges. Statistical data is prepared for submission to the Minnesota and Interstate Commerce Commissions at hearings affecting the establishment of reasonable rates for the transportation of property.

The livestock buyers or dealers division supervises buyers of livestock for resale. Such buyers must obtain a license and keep on file a surety bond to cover their operations.

The livestock weighing division operates a weighing center at the South St. Paul stockyards and maintains stations at Winona, Austin and Albert Lea. The purpose of weighing livestock is to assure the producers of accurate weights when their animals are sold.

The law requires the grain inspection division to inspect and weigh all grain received at or shipped from any terminal warehouse in the state in carload or boatload lots. There are inspection stations, weighing stations, grain registration sections and grain protein laboratories both in Minneapolis and Duluth.

The weights and measures division is charged with the supervision and control over all weights, weighing devices, and measures in the state. It serves as a bureau of standards for the state and makes periodic inspections of scales and other weighing devices.

The public storage division has general supervision over all warehousemen (other than grain or cold storage) doing business in cities and villages having a population of 5,000 or more. Storage rates must be approved by the commission.

M. A. Thorfinnson, Executive Secretary.

Legal Basis

The committee is created and its general powers granted under Sections 40.03 and 40.04, Minnesota Statutes 1961.

Qualifications for Appointed Committee Members

The only statutory qualification is that the Governor's appointees shall be selected from nominees recommended by the state association of soil conservation district supervisors. However, if the latter submit no nominees, the Governor is to make his appointments from bona fide farmers (Section 40.03, Minnesota Statutes 1961).

Organization and Functions

The State Soil Conservation Committee was established in 1937 to promote the organization of soil conservation districts throughout the state wherever desirable, to administer funds appropriated for use of these districts and to assist them in their programs through advice and consultation.

Prior to an amendment passed in the 1961 Extra Session the Governor's appointees served for four years. Since the passage of the amendment, persons previously appointed are to serve out their four year terms with one new appointee (there being a vacancy) to serve a five year term. As future vacancies occur, appointments are to be made for five years. Four of the members are ex-officio members: the Conservation Commissioner, the Commissioner of Agriculture, Director of Agricultural Extension at the University, and the Dean of the University Institute of Agriculture. Provision is also made for the State Committee to invite the State Conservationist of the Federal Soil Conservation Service to serve as an advisory member.

The Committee, upon petition from local groups, organizes soil conservation districts. The committee sets in motion the programs of the districts, coordinates the programs of the conservation districts, obtains assistance from various governmental agencies, and generally disseminates information throughout the state concerning the activities and programs of the soil conservation districts.

There are now 86 conservation districts in Minnesota. In organizing a district, the committee conducts hearings to determine the need of soil conservation in the area. If it decides that a need exists, a referendum is conducted among the farmers affected. If a majority approves, the district is authorized.

The Soldiers' Home Board determines who shall be admitted to the home, and appoints the Commandant who administers the home. The membership of the Board was increased from seven to nine members by Chapter 150, Laws of 1957. The Governor appoints the Board members for six-year terms.

The Soldiers' Home is located in Minneapolis at Minnehaha Avenue and East Fifty-first Street. It provides accommodations for approximately 500 persons, and has a hospital with a capacity of 84 patients.

The Soldiers' Home Board also administers the Soldiers' Relief Fund. This fund, also established in 1887, grants relief and assistance to veterans and their families who have no adequate means of support.

Organization and Functions

The State Colleges in Minnesota are under the management of the Minnesota State College Board consisting of nine members. Eight of the members are appointed by the Governor subject to confirmation by the Senate. These board members are currently serving four-year terms. By action of the 1963 Legislature the terms will be progressively changed to six years. Historically, five members of the Board have been appointed from the counties in which colleges are located, and three members were appointed at large. The 1963 Legislature however, eliminated the provisions for appointing members from the counties in which colleges are located and the only limitation in force is that no more than one member may be from the same county at time of appointment.

The ninth member of the board is the Commissioner of Education who also serves as the secretary of the board. All board members serve without compensation although expenses of attending meetings are reimbursed in the same manner as for state employees. Regular board meetings are held quarterly, although it is commonly found necessary to hold meetings more frequently.

The five existing colleges are located at Bemidji, Mankato, Moorhead, St. Cloud and Winona. The 1963 Legislature directed that a new college to be under the jurisdiction of the State College Board be created in a 19-County area in Southwestern Minnesota. A committee was named by the legislature to determine the location of the new college.

The State College Board maintains a central administrative office at 457 Centennial Office Building in St. Paul, Minnesota. The purpose of this office is to coordinate the activities of the State Colleges, to provide certain accounting and budgeting services, to provide the State College Board with reports and statistical information, to serve a liaison function with other elements of state government, and to carry out the policies and directions of the State College Board.

The role of the State Colleges in Minnesota's educational system is set forth in the later chapter on Education, Institutions, Parks and Forests.

Staff: Executive Director, James C. McDonald (appointed by Commission to serve at its pleasure). Salary $10,500. Assistant Director, Mrs. Viola May Kanatz.

Legal Basis

Chapter 363, Minnesota Statutes 1961, empowers the commission.

Qualifications for Commission Members and Executive Director

No statuatory qualifications are prescribed.

Organization and Functions

The Commission consists of nine members, one from each congressional district within the state and one at large, who are appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate for terms of five years.

The primary responsibility of the Commission is to secure compliance with the Minnesota State Act Against Discrimination, which makes it an unlawful act to discriminate against a person in his quest for employment or housing because of his race, creed, color, religion or national origin.

In dealing with specific complaints, it is the Commission's function to solve the problem presented by conference, conciliation and persuasion. If the Commission is unable to resolve a complaint by conciliation, the Governor appoints a three-member Board of Review, drawn from a panel of twelve citizens already appointed by him. The Board of Review conducts a public hearing for all parties concerned, and issues an order based upon its findings. If any party wishes to appeal from the order of the Board, he may file an action in the District Court. If an order of the Board is not complied with, the Commission may file an action in the District Court to secure compliance.

In addition to dealing with specific complaints the commission has the responsibility of maintaining a prevention program. In fulfilling this responsibility the commission has conducted an informational program to acquaint the public with the law.

Organization and Functions

The State Junior College Board is to be made up of five members who are to be appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. The first Board shall consist of one member appointed for a seven year term, two members appointed for a five year term, and two members appointed for a three year term. Thereafter, appointments shall be made for terms of seven years.

The Board is generally responsible for the management and control of the state junior colleges. More specifically, its powers include: the power to establish the location of each college (with the restriction that three colleges "shall be situated within the counties of Ramsey, Anoka, Dakota, Washington, and Hennepin"); the power to appoint the head of each college, the teachers and supervisors, and all other necessary employees; and the power to prescribe the courses of study which shall be taught at the colleges.

A maximum of 15 junior colleges were established by the 1963 law.

Legal Basis

The Department of Taxation was created and powers were vested in the Commissioner of Taxation by Laws 1939, Chapter 431, Article VI. (Minnesota Statutes 1961, Chapter 270)

Qualifications for Commissioner

The qualifications of the Commissioner of Taxation are prescribed in Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 270.02 which provides that the commissioner shall be selected on the basis of ability and experience in the field of taxation and tax administration and without regard to political affiliations.

Organization and Functions

All of the powers and duties of the Department of Taxation are vested in the Commissioner of Taxation. The commissioner is appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. The commissioner has the authority to organize the department as he deems necessary, to appoint the department officers and employees, and to define their duties. All of such appointments by the commissioner are made under civil service laws and regulations.

The Department of Taxation is the agency of the State of Minnesota which administers the laws relating to the major sources of state and local revenue. All of the principal state taxes are administered by the department with the exception of those on motor vehicles, liquor, and insurance premiums. The department is under the direction of the Commissioner of Taxation who has the power and authority to exercise general supervision over the assessment of all real and personal property in the state and to administer the particular laws that relate to the taxation of gross earnings, public utilities, air carriers, iron ore mining and royalties, mortgage registry, individual and corporate net incomes, motor vehicle fuels, inheritances, gifts, deeds, and tobacco products.

The administrative functions of the department are directed by the Commissioner of Taxation and his staff through seven operating divisions. The commissioner also has a legal division and a research staff assigned to his office. He exercises the authority vested in the state board of equalization and gives final action to applications for the reduction of assessments or taxes. He is also a member of the equalization aid review committee, under which the department has the responsibility for determining the value of all taxable property in the school districts of the state for the purpose of the distribution of school aids.

The Administrative Services Division has the responsibility for carrying on the activities relating to budgets, personnel, and the central services such as the handling of mail, the receiving of money, the accounting of revenues and the provision of supplies and equipment.

The Collection Division is responsible for the administration of laws relating to past due taxes payable to the Commissioner of Taxation. These include delinquent income and inheritance taxes and amounts past due on employer withheld and estimated taxes. The Division also gives administrative assistance to the legal staff.

The Income Tax Division conducts the administration of the laws relating to the taxation of incomes, the bank excise tax law and the various surtaxes relating to such laws. All of the income tax returns are examined and audited; tax liabilities are adjusted and all other provisions of the income tax law enforced.

The Inheritance and Gift Tax Division supervises the administration of the inheritance and gift tax laws, examines all estates subject to these taxes, and assesses taxes on all transfers of property of decedents outside the jurisdiction of the probate courts and on all transfers subject to the gift tax.

The Petroleum Division carries on the administration of the taxes on motor vehicle fuels and enforces the petroleum inspection laws of the state. This involves the collection of the taxes on gasoline and special fuels including the fuels used by aircraft, the inspection of petroleum products at terminals, refineries and bulk plants, the licensing of distributors and dealers, the issuing of permits to service stations and transporters of petroleum products and the refunding of taxes on fuels used for non-highway purposes.

The Property Tax Division is concerned with the assessment of all real and personal property in the state including the property of public utilities. The division directs the commissioner's assessments of electric transmission and distribution lines, pipelines, and property at metropolitan airports.

The Special Tax Division supervises the administration and enforcement of the gross earnings taxes on transportation and communication utilities; the taconite railroad tax; the air flight tax on airlines; and the taxes on cigarettes and tobacco products. The division makes the determinations of the assessments of mined and unmined iron ore and administers the occupation tax on the business of mining and the taxes on taconite, semi-taconite and ore royalties. Other taxes administered include the deed stamp tax, mortgage registry tax, vessel tonnage tax and cooperative electric tax.

Qualifications for Commissioner

Section 196.02, Minnesota Statutes 1961 lays down the following qualifications for appointment as commissioner: (1) residence in the state for at least five years prior to appointment; (2) United States citizenship; (3) service in the United States Army, Navy, or Marine Corps during wartime and possession of an honorable discharge from service.

Organization and Functions

A view of the department's organization can be obtained from a glance at the divisions listed under Department Officials.

Assisting Minnesota veterans and their dependents in obtaining federal and state benefits to which they are entitled is the principal function of the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Among programs the Department administers are disabled war veterans' relief, emergency relief, World War II and Korean War education aid, education aid to orphans of World War I and II and Korean War veterans, grave registration, erection of government headstones, and supervision of county veterans' service officers. The commissioner acts as guardian of incompetent veterans and their dependents when so appointed.

The Department also assists veterans and their dependents in securing any federal benefits to which they may be entitled.

Other activities include cooperation with veterans' organizations and supervision of funds provided for the operation of rest and convalescent camps for needy veterans.

The Department administers all Minnesota bonus programs.

Functions and Services

Metropolitan Airports Commissions were authorized in 1943, as public corporations in and for any two contiguous cities of the first class. The objectives of the commissions are to promote the public interest in the development of air transportation; to increase air commerce and promote the efficient, safe and economical handling of such commerce; to assure inclusion of this state in national and international programs of air transportation, and to those ends to develop the full potentialities of the metropolitan areas in this state as aviation centers; and to correlate the metropolitan facilities with all aviation facilities within the state so as to provide for the most efficient and economical use of such services.

The Minneapolis-St. Paul Metropolitan Airports Commission originally had jurisdiction over the construction, operation and maintenance of all airports within a 25-mile radius of the cities involved—(Minneapolis and St. Paul). Subsequent legislation in 1947 took from the Commission jurisdiction over airports within the metropolitan area unless owned and operated by the Commission. Membership of the Commission consists of the Mayor of each city, or a qualified voter appointed by him; a member of the Council of each city, chosen by the Council; a member of the Board of Commissioners having jurisdiction over airports of each of the respective cities at the time of passage of the original legislation, or a second Council member should the Council previously have had airport jurisdiction; one additional Citizen Commissioner from each city, appointed by the Mayor and one member appointed by the Governor from outside the metropolitan area, who is the Chairman. The term of each commissioner, except that of a mayor or his appointee, and of one appointed to fill a vacancy, is six years. Each mayor or his appointee serves for the term of office of the mayor. Even though the term of a commissioner has expired he continues to serve until replaced or reappointed.

The Commission has power to issue bonds and levy taxes for payment of the bonds, expenditures for acquisition of property, construction, payments on bonded indebtedness, if any. Maintenance and operation are financed by the two cities. The law requires that the Commission submit an annual budget to each city council on or before July 1, and each city must provide the amount necessary to meet its proportionate share of the total cost.

The following airports are owned and operated by this Commission: (1) Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport—Wold-Chamberlain Field (2) Saint Paul Downtown Airport (Holman Field) (3) Anoka County Field (4) Crystal Field (5) Flying Cloud Field (6) Lake Elmo Field.

Minneapolis-St. Paul Sanitary District

(Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 445; Chapter 882, Laws 1963)

| Members: | Term Expires |
|---|---|
| Trustees—Minneapolis-St. Paul Sanitary District | |
| Commissioner Robert F. Peterson, St. Paul, Chairman | 1st Mon. July 1963 |
| Mayor George J. Vavoulis, St. Paul | during term of office |
| Mayor Arthur Naftalin, Minneapolis, Vice-Chairman | during term of office |
| Arnold J. Imsdahl, St. Paul, Corporate Secretary, Citizen Member | 1st Mon. July 1965 |
| Mayor Joseph J. Jagunich, Eveleth | 1st Mon. July 1965 |
| Nathan Harris, Minneapolis, Citizen Member | 1st Mon. July 1965 |

In addition to the power to construct and maintain waste disposal systems, the sanitary district has specific powers to regulate and control the discharge of industrial wastes.

The seven members of the board of trustees of the sanitary district are selected as follows: Each city council appoints one of its members, and one of its citizenry; the mayor of each city is a member, or may appoint a member of the city governing body in his place; the Governor shall appoint one member from the state at large from outside Ramsey or Hennepin counties, or any counties contiguous thereto. The term of each trustee begins on the first Monday in July and continues for four years, except that a trustee's term shall terminate when he ceases to hold the city office to which he was elected. Even though his term has expired a trustee continues to serve on the board until replaced or reappointed.

RETIREMENT BOARDS

Highway Patrolmen's Retirement Association
Public Employees' Retirement Association
State Employees' Retirement Association
State Police Officers' Retirement Fund
Teachers' Retirement Association

Highway Patrolmen's Retirement Association

Officers of Association: Leo M. Smith, Chief of State Highway Patrol, St. Paul, President; Val Bjornson, State Treasurer, ex officio Treasurer; Bert W. Johnson, Secretary.

Functions and Services

The Highway Patrolmen's Retirement Association was established in 1943 to provide retirement benefits for all patrolmen in service of the State Highway Patrol on and after July 1, 1943.

Benefits are in proportion to length of service. After 20 years of service, at age 55, a member is entitled to a life annuity, upon separation from state service, of $200 per month. In addition, those serving in excess of 20 years and beyond age 55 are entitled to an additional $4 per month for every year in excess of 20 served. With less than 20 but more than 10 years of service at age 55, a member may retire with a lifetime annuity of that percentage of $200 per month which the years of his service bear to 20 years.

No patrolman may continue as such beyond the age of 60 years, notwithstanding the Veteran's Preference Law, except that a patrolman may continue as a patrolman for a partial year after attaining the age of 60 years to complete a full year of employment.

Former members of the Association who were retired on pension prior to the above increase in annuities will not receive the benefit of these revised payments.

Disabilities arising in line of duty and inflicted on a member less than 55 years of age make the member eligible to receive benefits during the period of disability of $200 per month, less workmen's compensation paid or any other income earned from employment.

A member with not less than 10 years of service who retires before reaching the age of 55 because of sickness or injury rendering him unable to perform patrol duties, occurring while not on duty, is entitled to receive an annuity of that percentage of $200 which the years of his service in the highway patrol bear to 20 years less any income earned from employment.

In the event any patrolman who is a member of the association shall die from any cause, the association shall grant annuities or benefit payments from the retirement fund to any widow who was his legally married wife, residing with him at the time of his death and who was married to him while or prior to the time he was an active member of the association, for a period of at least one year, and to a child or children under the age of 18 years who were living while the deceased patrolman was an active member of the association. The widow and child or children shall be entitled to annuity as follows: (a) To the widow a sum not to exceed $75 per month for her natural life; but if she remarries the annuity shall cease; (b) to each child the amount of $20 per month until the child reaches the age of 18 years, not to exceed the aggregate sum of $75 per month.

The fund is financed by a seven per cent deduction from one's monthly salary, limited to $400 per month, and the Department of Highways pays in 10½ per cent of the salary upon which deductions were made.

Officers of the Association are the Chief of the State Highway Patrol, President; the State Treasurer, Treasurer ex officio; and one member, elected Secretary for a two-year term.

Functions and Services

Established on April 24, 1931 by an act of the State Legislature, the Public Employees Retirement Association provides annuity protection to public employees and officers throughout the state, including 87 counties, 109 cities, 480 villages, 113 townships, and 684 school districts, totaling 1,962 political subdivisions with a membership as of June 30, 1962 of 40,474, of which 36,908 were active members and 3,566 retired members.

At the 1963 Session of the State Legislature the Public Employees Retirement Act was amended to make various constructive changes in the law.

The minimum retirement age is 58 with at least 20 years of allowable service, but benefits at any age earlier than 65 are reduced one-half of one percent for each month under age 65. Except as limited by the number of years of service credits and by the maximum of $4,800 in any one year on which deductions may be taken, there is no maximum annuity provided. The board is charged under the law with establishing optional annuities which shall take the form of annuities payable for a certain period, and for life thereafter, or as a joint and survivor annuity. These optional forms shall be "actuarial equivalents" of the normal annuity provided for age 65.

Under the savings clause as provided in Laws 1957, Chapter 935, any person who on July 1, 1957 had 10 or more years of allowable service shall have the option when he retires to receive the benefits computed under the present law (in effect before July 1, 1957) or the benefits computed under the new formula. The savings clause also includes the survivor benefits.

The law also contains a provision for a survivor benefit. When a member with 18 months or more allowable service dies before retirement and whose average salary was not less than $75 per month, the surviving dependent spouse is entitled to a benefit equal to 30% of the member's monthly average salary not to exceed $65 per month until her remarriage. If the spouse has dependent children under age 18, the allowance for each such child is 20% of the member's monthly average salary not to exceed $45 per month; and in addition thereto 10% of the member's monthly average salary not to exceed $20 per month shall be paid, to be divided equally among the dependent children. The maximum monthly survivor benefit shall not exceed $250 for any one family, but in no case can the survivor benefits exceed the monthly average salary of the deceased member.

After 10 years of allowable service or after age 50, with 5 years of allowable service, whichever is sooner, a benefit is paid for total and permanent disability equal to the retirement annuity to which the member is entitled at time of disability plus a supplemental monthly annuity of $5.00 for each year under age 65 not to exceed $50.

Functions and Services

The State Employees Retirement Association was established in 1929 to provide retirement benefits for state employees.

Benefits are in proportion to length of service and earnings, payable at age 65, or over, after 10 years membership service. After 20 years' service credit, benefits are available for employees between the ages of 58 and 65.

| Years of allowable service: | Percentages at the rate of: |
|---|---|
| First ten years..... | 1 per cent per year of service. |
| Second ten years or completed months of service less than such period..... | 1 per cent per year of service. |
| Third ten years of completed months of service less than such period..... | 1.66 per cent per year of service. |
| Subsequent years or completed months of service less than such period..... | 1.75 per cent per year of service. |

Optional forms of annuity may be elected at time of retirement in order to provide benefits for a beneficiary. After not less than ten year's service credit there is provision for total permanent disability benefits for members under age 65.

If a member dies, his beneficiary or estate receives the sum to his credit in the Retirement Fund plus interest at two per cent per annum compounded annually to date of death.

Survivor benefits are available under Social Security.

Members contribute three per cent of earnings limited to earnings of $4,800 in a calendar year, and departments and state agencies contribute an amount equal to the total amount deducted from the member's salary, plus an additional two thirds of that amount. In addition to the amount paid into the Retirement Fund by members and the state, members pay the employees' tax to the Social Security Contribution Fund and the state pays the matching employer tax. Beginning January 1, 1963, this tax is 3⅝ per cent of the first $4,800 of salary received in a calendar year.

Management is vested in a Board of Trustees consisting of the State Auditor, State Treasurer, Insurance Commissioner and four state employees elected by the members of the Association.

| Charles Reiter, St. Paul | December 31, 1966 |

Functions and Services

The State Police Officers' Retirement Fund was established by the 1961 legislature (Laws 1961, Chapter 736) to provide retirement and other benefits to all Minnesota game wardens and officers of the state Bureau of Criminal Apprehension who are employed as police officers with powers of arrest. All persons so employed on or after July 1, 1961 automatically become members of the fund. The Game Wardens' Retirement Association has been abolished.

Retirement benefits are granted in proportion to length of service and earnings. At age 58 or older any warden or crime bureau officer with 10 years of service is entitled to a retirement annuity. The normal annuity is computed by multiplying the individual's average salary over his years of service times 2 per cent. The average salary, however, cannot exceed $4,800 per year.

A person permanently and totally disabled in the line of duty is entitled to benefits equal to 40 per cent of his average salary. If he is so disabled not in the line of duty, he is to receive an annuity computed in the same manner as the normal annuity for retirement is computed together with a supplementary monthly benefit based upon age.

At age 62 a surviving spouse of a member of the fund is entitled to an annuity equal to 75 per cent of the member's normal annuity provided that the member had 20 years of service or more.

The fund is financed by a 6 per cent deduction from the monthly salary of each member and an employer contribution of 11 per cent.

Functions and Services

The Minnesota State Teachers' Retirement Association was established in 1931, replacing the Teachers' Insurance and Retirement Fund which operated under a 1915 Law. The Association is managed by a Board of Trustees.

Primary function of the Association is to provide various benefits for its members and their beneficiaries. Benefits are provided for retirement, disability, survivors and death.

The Association is a divided system consisting of (1) a basic system which is without social security coverage and closed to new teachers; (2) a coordinated system which is with social security coverage including members who elected social security coverage, and all new teachers after December 31, 1959.

The Association is financed by member contributions, employer contributions and interest on investments. Members in the basic system pay to the Association 6% of salary not in excess of $4,800 per school year; and in the coordinated system, 3% not in excess of $4,800 per school year. Members in the coordinated system also pay for social security. The State as employer in the basic system pays a corresponding percentage of 6%, and an additional 1% for amortization of a deficit; and in the coordinated system, 3%, and an additional 1½% for amortization of a deficit.

Investments for the Fund are made by the State Board of Investment.

Membership in the Association does not include teachers in the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth, or at the University of Minnesota, where separate retirement systems are maintained.

SEMI-STATE SOCIETIES

Agricultural Society
Art Society
Historical Society
Horticultural Society
Sibley House

Certain societies function independently of the state government, but are largely financed by legislative appropriation and are designated in Minnesota Statutes as agencies of the state government or public corporations. In the structure of state government it has been customary to classify these societies as semi-state societies.

Functions and Services

The State Agricultural Society was organized in 1854 as the Minnesota Territorial Agricultural Society; it was incorporated in 1860 as the Minnesota State Agricultural Society. In 1903 the Legislature confirmed and established the society as a public corporation.

The principal function of the Society is the operation of the annual State Fair program. At the State Fair exhibits to encourage agriculture, horticulture, stock-breeding, manufacturing, mining, industrial arts and sciences are provided. The society also licenses shows, exhibitions and performances for the State Fair. Minnesota has one of the largest state fairs in the nation.

The members of the governing board are elected at the annual meeting of the society, held in January. Managers serve three year terms. The members manage and operate the State Fair.

Art Society

(Minnesota Statutes 1961, Chapter 139)

Governing Board: (No appointments had been made by the Governor at the time the Legislative Manual went to press.)

Functions and Services

The Minnesota State Art Society is established to advance the interest of the fine arts, develop the influence of art in education and foster its introduction into manufactures. Works of art required by the Society shall be the property of the state.

The governing board of the Society consists of the Governor, the President of the University of Minnesota, and eleven members appointed by the Governor. Such appointees shall include at least four artists, one architect and one person prominently identified with education. The Board acts as an advisory committee in the selection of works of art purchased by the state and of designs for public buildings.

Functions and Services

The Minnesota Historical Society, incorporated less than two months after the convening of the territorial legislature in 1849, is the oldest institution in the state and the official custodian of the state's history. It is unique among institutions of its kind in that it is older than the state it serves. The Society is supported mainly by legislative appropriation.

The four-fold purpose of the Society is to collect, preserve, disseminate, and interpret the history of Minnesota. Its collections comprise one of the largest historical libraries in the Northwest, including 240,000 books, pamphlets, periodicals, and state and federal documents; 5,000,000 manuscripts; 500,000 paintings, photographs and prints; and a vast collection of newspapers published in the state since the initial issue of the first newspaper, the Minnesota Pioneer, in 1849. The Society's museum, with its four large galleries of varied and colorful displays, depicts the story of the Minnesota country from prehistoric times to the present.

The Society publishes a quarterly magazine, MINNESOTA HISTORY, a magazine for school children, THE GOPHER HISTORIAN, a bi-monthly newsletter, MINNESOTA HISTORY NEWS, and books on various aspects of the state's history, the most recent of which are a guide to Minnesota's major historic sites, a volume on Minnesota murders that occurred between 1858 and 1917, and a pictorial history of the Sioux Uprising of 1862.

The Society holds an annual meeting in the spring and conducts several tours to places of historic interest each summer. It promotes the organization of local history work, co-operating with and assisting the state's county historical societies, and gives reference and information service on all aspects of Minnesota and its history. In addition to the many who wrote, 190,000 persons visited the Society in 1962, many of them school children to whom guided tours of the museum were given.

Since 1958 the Society has been active in acquiring, preserving, and developing major historic sites in Minnesota. Three important landmarks have been acquired by gift—the William G. Le Duc Home in Hastings, the Mille Lacs Indian Museum, situated on the site of historic Kathio on the west shore of Mille Lacs Lake, and the Oliver Hudson Kelley Homestead near Elk River. Both the Indian museum and the Kelley home are open to the public. In co-operation with the Division of State Parks and other federal, state, and local agencies, the Society has undertaken the restoration and refurbishing of other historic sites. The Round Tower Museum at Fort Snelling State Park, the Charles A. Lindbergh Home in Lindbergh State Park, and the development of Grand Portage National Monument are a few of the projects with which the Society is actively concerned.

Functions and Services

The Minnesota State Horticultural Society was founded in 1866. Together with affiliated organizations, it carries out an educational program to disseminate knowledge pertaining to fruit, flower, tree and vegetable growing and prepares a list of suitable varieties for planting in Minnesota. The Society is composed of approximately 241 life members and more than 10,000 annual members. Membership is open to anyone interested in horticulture and related subjects. The "MINNESOTA HORTICULTURIST" is the official publication.

RAILROAD AND WAREHOUSE COMMISSIONERS

(Over the years the office of railroad and warehouse commissioner has alternately been an elective and an appointive one. The state legislature provided that the position be appointive during the years 1871-1875, elective from 1875 to 1885, appointive again from 1885 to 1900, and finally elective from 1900 to the present time.)

DIVISIONS OF THE STATE JUDICIARY

The judicial branch of the government of Minnesota is divided into a Supreme Court, a District Court, a Probate Court, Municipal Courts, and Justices of the Peace.

Supreme Court

JURISDICTION

The Minnesota judicial system is headed by the supreme court, the state's court of last resort. To it may be taken appeals from decisions of the state's district court and certain municipal courts. In some cases, matters may be presented directly to the supreme court without having been heard previously by a lower court.

Under a 1957 law the chief justice of the supreme court is required to supervise and coordinate the work of the state's district courts. In order that he may carry out his additional duties, the supreme court may provide by rule that the chief justice not be required to write opinions as a member of the court. This same law permits the court to provide by rule for it to hear cases in divisions, rather than have all members present at the hearing of a case.

Under a 1963 law the office of Administrative Assistant to the Supreme Court was established. Under the direction of the chief justice such administrative assistant is empowered to study, aid, and improve the courts and the court system in Minnesota.

SUPREME COURT TERMS

The supreme court has one court term each year beginning the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January. This term generally continues until the end of the calendar year, with recesses at the discretion of the court.

MEMBERS—SALARY

The 1956 judiciary amendment to the Minnesota Constitution changed the name of supreme court members from "justice" to "judge." The 1957 Legislature provided that the term justice shall be equivalent to judge.

The court consists of one chief justice and six associate justices. Vacancies on the court are filled by governor's appointment.

The chief justice of the supreme court receives an annual salary of $23,500, the associate justices receive $22,500 annually, effective July 1, 1963.

ELECTION OF JUSTICES

Under the law a new candidate seeking election to the supreme court must specify (when he files) which justice (whose term will expire) he is filing against.

At the primary election candidates for supreme court appear on the ballot of candidates without party designation. At the general election the supreme court candidates appear on the state white ballot, without a political party designation.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE COURT

The Administrative Assistant to the Supreme Court, Revisor of Statutes, Clerk of Supreme Court, Supreme Court Reporter and State Law Librarian are appointed by the court to serve at its pleasure.

District Court

There is one district court for the State of Minnesota. It is divided into ten judicial districts. By Chapter 14, Extra Session 1957, the number of judicial districts was reduced from nineteen to fourteen effective July 1, 1957, and to ten districts effective July 1, 1959.

JURISDICTION

The constitution provides that the district court shall have original jurisdiction in all civil and criminal cases, and shall have such appellate jurisdiction as may be prescribed by law. At present the law provides for appeals from the probate court, municipal courts and justices of the peace.

JUDGES—TERMS—SALARY

There are three or more judges for each of the judicial districts. The judges are elected by the voters of their respective districts for six-year terms. All district judges are paid a yearly salary of $18,500 (effective July 1, 1963) by the state. St. Louis County in the sixth district, Ramsey County in the second district, and Hennepin County in the fourth district pay their district judges an additional $1,500.

CHIEF JUDGE OF DISTRICT COURT

The 1957 Legislature provided that annually the judges of each judicial district shall meet to elect a chief judge. In the case of a tie vote the judge who is senior in terms of length of service becomes chief judge (Chapter 533, Laws of 1963). The chief judge has the administrative responsibility of coordinating the business of the court in his judicial district. The chief judges of the judicial districts are required to attend all meetings of such judges called by the chief justice of the supreme court. The chief justice of the supreme court has the responsibility of supervising and coordinating the work of the judicial districts. This administrative structure in the court system is designed to provide for a more efficient administration of justice.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS EFFECTIVE JULY 1, 1959

Effective July 1, 1959, the state is divided into ten judicial districts composed of the following named counties, respectively, in each of which districts two or more judges shall be chosen as hereinafter specified:

First District: Goodhue, Dakota, Carver, Le Sueur, McLeod, Scott and Sibley; five judges; and permanent chambers shall be maintained in Red Wing, Hastings, Shakopee and Glencoe; and one other shall be maintained at the place designated by the chief judge of the district;

Second District: Ramsey; nine judges;

Third District: Wabasha, Winona, Houston, Rice, Olmsted, Dodge, Steele, Waseca, Freeborn, Mower and Fillmore; five judges; and permanent chambers shall be maintained in Owatonna, Albert Lea, Austin, Rochester and Winona;

Fourth District: Hennepin; sixteen judges;

Fifth District: Blue Earth, Watonwan, Lyon, Redwood, Brown, Nicollet, Lincoln, Cottonwood, Murray, Nobles, Pipestone, Rock, Faribault, Martin and Jackson; five judges; and permanent chambers shall be maintained in Marshall, Windom, Fairmont, New Ulm and Mankato;

Sixth District: Carlton, St. Louis, Lake and Cook, six judges;

Seventh District: Benton, Douglas, Mille Lacs, Morrison, Otter Tail, Stearns, Todd, Clay, Becker and Wadena; four judges; and permanent chambers shall be maintained in Moorhead, Fergus Falls, Little Falls, and St. Cloud;

Eighth District: Chippewa, Kandiyohi, Lac qui Parle, Meeker, Renville, Swift, Yellow Medicine, Big Stone, Grant, Pope, Stevens, Traverse and Wilkin; three judges; and permanent chambers shall be maintained in Glenwood, Montevideo and Litchfield;

Ninth District: Norman, Polk, Marshall, Kittson, Red Lake, Roseau, Mahnomen, Pennington, Aitkin, Itasca, Crow Wing, Hubbard, Beltrami, Lake of the Woods, Clearwater, Cass and Koochiching; six judges; and permanent chambers shall be maintained in Crookston, Thief River Falls, Bemidji, Brainerd, Grand Rapids and International Falls;

Tenth District: Anoka, Isanti, Wright, Sherburne, Kanabec, Pine, Chisago and Washington; four judges; and permanent chambers shall be maintained in Anoka, Lindstrom-Center City and Stillwater.

Probate Court

There is one probate court for the state of Minnesota and, until otherwise provided by law, each county constitutes one probate court district.

Probate judges serve a term of six years and there is at least one probate judge for each district, elected by the voters. All new probate judges after 1956 must be learned in the law.

The probate court has unlimited original jurisdiction in law and equity for the administration of the estates of deceased persons and all guardianship and incompetency proceedings.

Minnesota Statutes 1961, section 525.011 adds to the powers and duties of probate courts in all counties having less than 30,000 population by the 1950 census all the powers and duties of municipal courts. These probate courts may consider civil disputes and minor criminal cases in addition to their historic jurisdiction over estates, guardianships and incompetent persons.

Excepted from this law are the probate courts of the following counties:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Anoka | Freeborn | Olmsted | St. Louis |
| Blue Earth | Goodhue | Otter Tail | Stearns |
| Clay | Hennepin | Polk | Washington |
| Crow Wing | Itasca | Ramsey | Winona |
| Dakota | Mower | Rice | |

Salaries of probate judges are established by a scale set in a 1959 law, ranging by population of the county from $5,000 to $12,500. Excepted from these salary limits are Hennepin, Ramsey, St. Louis and Stearns counties. However, numerous special laws passed in 1961 and 1963 have set probate judges' salaries in various counties.

Brief mention of the adjudication of juvenile cases must be made here. Jurisdiction over juveniles is vested in the probate court of each county, except in Hennepin, Ramsey, and St. Louis Counties where it is vested in the District Court. In Ramsey and St. Louis Counties the District Court Judges assign a specific District Judge to the Juvenile Division for a period of one year during which time the judge gives priority to juvenile cases over his other work. In Hennepin County a judge is elected by the voters to the specific office of "District Court Judge, Juvenile Division", whose duty also is to give priority to juvenile cases.

Municipal Courts

Formerly the general law relating to municipal courts authorized the establishment of such courts in municipalities having 1000 inhabitants or more. However, Chapter 630, Laws of 1963 establishes municipal courts in each city, village, and borough which is a county seat or which has a population of 1000 or more persons and was formerly without a municipal court. The courts so established become organized for business upon a resolution adopted by 4/5 of the members of the municipality's governing body.

A municipal judge, who is elected for a six-year term, presides over such a court. The municipal court has jurisdiction in civil cases involving not more than $1,000, and in criminal cases not exceeding $100 fine or three months' imprisonment. The jurisdiction of the court is coextensive with the county in which it is located.

Special provisions cover the municipal courts of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. In fact, the 1963 Legislature (Chapter 877, Laws of 1963) provided for the establishment of a Hennepin County municipal court system. Under the new system, on January 1, 1965 all municipal courts will be placed on a county-wide basis with the municipal and justice courts of each individual municipality being abolished. Commencing January 1, 1965 there will be 14 judges of the municipal court of Hennepin County.

The 1959 Legislature adopted a comprehensive code applicable to municipal courts, and repealed numerous special acts for individual courts. Newly chosen municipal judges must be lawyers. A municipal court may be abolished by popular vote in any city. Salaries are set by 1959 law.

A municipal judge may be assigned by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court to assist temporarily in another city.

Justices of the Peace

Justices of the peace are elected for two-year terms in townships and in cities and villages which do not have municipal courts. Justices of the peace have jurisdiction over actions arising within a county when the amount involved does not exceed $100 for civil cases, and when the punishment or fine does not exceed $100 or three months' imprisonment in criminal cases. Under constitutional amendment the Legislature may alter or abolish the office of justice of the peace.

IMPROVING THE JUDICIAL SYSTEM

Since the establishment of the state judicial system in 1858, new problems in commerce, industry, government and the relationships between people have resulted from an increased population, urbanization and industrialization. These problems have increased the volume of court litigation, have created new types of litigation and have placed new demands upon our judicial system. This condition has led to a movement for judicial reform to provide an improved and more efficient system for the administration of justice.

NEW RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE

One of the first efforts for reform in judicial procedures began in 1948 when the Legislature authorized the supreme court to regulate practice and procedure in all courts except probate courts. Under this authority the Supreme Court, on June 25, 1951, adopted a new set of Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Courts, which rules became effective January 1, 1952. These rules were patterned after federal rules. Prior to this change, procedure was prescribed by statute.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT ADOPTED

At the general election of November 6, 1956, the voters of Minnesota approved an amendment which provided a new judiciary article for the state Constitution. The objective of this amendment was the reorganization of the state judicial system. In addition to organizational changes made by the amendment, it had the effect of permitting the Legislature to revise certain parts of the court system, including the lower court system.

LOWER COURT STUDY COMMISSION

The 1957 Legislature established an interim commission which made a comprehensive study of the lower court system of this state and other comparable states. Its report to the 1959 Legislature led to the legislation mentioned above.

JUDICIAL DISTRICTS CHANGED

When transportation facilities limited the area which could be covered by judges, there had to be many small-sized judicial districts. The 1957 Legislature determined that there could now be a more efficient use of judges by enlarging the area of judicial districts and reducing the number of districts. By Chapter 14, Laws of 1957 Extra Session, the number of judicial districts was reduced from 19 to 14 effective July 1, 1957, and to 10 districts effective July 1, 1959.

NEW ADMINISTRATIVE STRUCTURE

Beginning in 1955 the chief justice of the supreme court was given the authority, when public convenience and necessity required, to assign any judge of the district court to serve in a district not his own at such times as the chief justice might determine. The objective of such assignments is to transfer a judge, who may be temporarily idle because the court calendar in his district is completed, to a district which has a congested court calendar and possibly overworked judges.

The 1957 Legislature implemented this procedure by providing for a chief judge in each judicial district. The chief judge of a judicial district has the administrative responsibility of coordinating the business of the court in the district he serves. He presides at all meetings of the judges of his district, and is required to attend all meetings of chief judges of the state which may be called by the chief justice of the supreme court. The chief justice of the supreme court is required to coordinate the work of the state's district courts.

Currently there are 10 district chief judges serving. These 10 judges serve the judicial areas covered by the 10 judicial districts effective July 1, 1959. The district chief judges are elected annually by the judges of the judicial districts which they serve.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT TO THE SUPREME COURT

The 1963 Legislature created the office of Administrative Assistant to the Supreme Court to make studies and recommendations (under the direction and with the consent of the chief justice) for the improvement of Minnesota's judicial system.

The powers and duties of the office are stated in Chapter 758, Laws of 1963 as follows:

1) The administrative assistant to the supreme court shall, under the supervision and direction of the chief justice, have the powers and duties prescribed by this section;

2) The administrative assistant shall examine the administrative methods and systems employed in the offices of the judges, clerks, reporters, and employees of the courts and make recommendations, through the chief justice for the improvement of the same;

3) The administrative assistant shall examine the state of dockets of the courts and determine the need for assistance by any court;

4) The administrative assistant shall make recommendations to the chief justice relating to the assignment of judges where courts are in need of assistance and carry out the direction of the chief justice as to the assignments of judges to counties and districts where the courts are in need of assistance;

5) The administrative assistant shall collect and compile statistical and other data and make reports of the business transacted by the courts and transmit the same to the chief justice and to the respective houses of the legislature to the end that proper action may be taken in respect thereto;

6) The administrative assistant shall prepare and submit budget estimates of state appropriations necessary for the maintenance and operation of the judicial system and make recommendations in respect thereto;

7) The administrative assistant shall collect statistical and other data and make reports relating to the expenditure of public moneys, state and local, for the maintenance and operation of the judicial system and the offices connected therewith;

8) The administrative assistant shall obtain reports from clerks of courts in accordance with law or rules adopted by the supreme court of this state on cases and other judicial business in which action has been delayed beyond periods of time specified by law or rules of court and make report thereof to the supreme court of this state and to the respective houses of the legislature;

9) The administrative assistant shall formulate and submit to the judicial council of this state and to the respective houses of the legislature recommendations of policies for the improvement of the judicial system;

10) The administrative assistant shall submit annually, as of February 1, to the chief justice and the judicial council, a report of the activities of the administrative assistant's office for the preceding calendar year;

11) The administrative assistant shall attend to such other matters consistent with the powers delegated herein as may be assigned by the supreme court of this state.

The supreme court is empowered to provide by rule for the enforcement of the administrative assistant's recommendations for distributing the work of the courts, and for the enforcement of his requests for information and statistical data.

These new provisions apply to the supreme court, the district courts, and, when and to the extent so ordered by the supreme court, to the probate, municipal, and justice courts.

PROVISION FOR ANNUAL JUDICIAL CONFERENCE

Chapter 758, Laws 1963 granted the supreme court the authority to provide by rule or special order for an annual conference of the judges of the courts of record in Minnesota, the members of the judiciary committees of each house of the state legislature, and invited members of the bar. Such conferences are to consider judicial business and the improvement of the state's judicial system and administration of justice.

to omit or delete all parts of the statutes which have been expressly repealed, and to amalgamate into the statutes all acts of a general and permanent nature which have been enacted since the last edition of the Minnesota Statutes. The next revision will be published following the 1965 session of the Legislature, the latest revision being made in 1961.

All laws and joint resolutions enacted at each session of the legislature are printed in a volume referred to as the Minnesota Session Laws. The revisor prepares for printing copies of the laws, tables of laws and old laws which have been amended by these laws, and an index.

The revisor maintains a special staff of attorneys during the legislative period to draft bills for legislators and state departments. Before a bill may be introduced into the house of representatives it must be approved as to form by the revisor of statutes.

The office of revisor of statutes was established in 1939, and assumed legislative bill drafting duties in 1947. The revisor is appointed by the Supreme Court and serves at its pleasure.

Functions and Services

The Minnesota State Law Library, established in 1849, is located in the Capitol building. Its collection of 300,000 law books and documents includes the latest legal reports, digests, encyclopedias, textbooks, Federal and state statutes of Great Britain, Canada, the British Commonwealth and many foreign countries, as well as briefs of the Supreme Court of Minnesota and of the United States Supreme Court.

The library is available for public use, but is especially designed to meet the needs of the legal profession, the Supreme Court and the Attorney General.

The library is the official exchange medium for all state publications. It exchanges with other libraries throughout the country copies of books, journals and documents published by state agencies. In return it receives on a similar exchange basis publications from other states.

The Minnesota State Law Library functions under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. The State Law Librarian is appointed by the Supreme Court to serve at its pleasure. Four specialized librarians assist the State Law Librarian in maintaining one of the finest law libraries in the nation.

STATE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

Organization and Administration

The Constitution

The Minnesota State Constitution requires the Legislature "to establish a general and uniform system of public schools" and to "make such provisions, by taxation or otherwise as, with the income arising from the school fund, will secure a thorough and efficient system of public schools in each township in the State."

The Constitution provides for permanent school funds which are known as the Permanent School Fund, the Swamp Land Fund and the Endowment Fund. Monies accrue to these funds from the sale of school and state lands, from royalties on natural resources that are consumed and from interest on investments.

The Legislature

1. Districts. The Legislature has authorized the formation of school districts, which are public corporations with legal responsibilities for maintaining educational programs for all eligible resident pupils.

2. The State Board of Education and the State Department of Education. The State Board of Education and the State Department of Education were created by the Legislature and have been delegated certain powers in administration and supervision of the state public school system. The State Board of Education has as its principal function the formation of educational policies for the state within the framework of the statutes relating to education, and also acts as the State Board of Vocational Education in administering federal programs of vocational education and vocational rehabilitation. It consists of seven citizens, appointed for seven-year terms by the Governor with the consent of the Senate.

Present members are: Brynolf Peterson, President; Mrs. Clarence L. Anderson, John A. Butler, Stanley Carlson, Daniel C. Gearhart, Ralph Hvidsten, and Frank J. Petrich.

The State Board of Education elects a Commissioner of Education for a term of six years who is the secretary and executive officer of the board. The Commissioner is ex officio a member of the State Teachers Retirement Association Board, a member and secretary of the State College Board, a member of the School Loan Committee, and a member of the Equalization Aid Review Committee. He is responsible for administration of the Department of Education.

Finances — Sources of Support

The schools of the state derive support from local, county and federal sources. The state's share approximates 42 per cent of the cost of school maintenance. The following state funds contribute to the support of schools.

(1) The Endowment Fund — income from the Permanent School Fund and one-half of the Swamp Land Fund.

(2) Elementary-Secondary School Occupation Tax Fund — income from 40 per cent of the occupation tax on iron ore. (Beginning July 1, 1957).

(3) The Income Tax School Fund — income tax receipts dedicated to school aids.

(3a) The Special State Aid Fund — an amount appropriated biennially by the Legislature and transferred from the Income Tax Fund and the Elementary-Secondary School Occupation Tax Fund.

State Aids

According to a provision in the State Constitution, the Endowment Fund is apportioned to school districts on the basis of school attendance.

All other state aids are paid from the Special State Aid Fund according to laws enacted by the Legislature.

The 1957 Legislature established a formula for paying "foundation program" aid. This formula includes the Income Tax School Aid which is paid out of the receipts of the state income tax at $10 per year for each child six to sixteen years of age residing in the district and for each child sixteen to seventeen years of age attending school. The "foundation program" aid constitutes the major source of aids for the school districts.

Additional aids are granted for the following purposes:

Special Classes or other instruction established for pupils handicapped by blindness, deafness, defective speech, mental retardation or by being crippled.

Emergency Aid to districts unable to maintain schools with reasonable local effort, granted at the discretion of the State Board of Education.

Vocational Aid to encourage teaching of vocational courses in the secondary schools.

Transportation or board for certain pupils in consolidated districts, secondary school pupils and area vocational school pupils residing in districts not maintaining secondary or vocational schools.

Final examination in a St. Paul high school

Handicapped and isolated pupils are also eligible for aid for transportation or board, and elementary pupils in closed school districts receive transportation aid.

School Lunch Aid to assist in the financing of this program in the public schools.

*The State Department and Board of Education — Functions and Services

Although the local school districts are required to provide educational programs for all resident pupils, the State Department of Education is charged with regulating and providing leadership for these programs. The Department also participates in the operation of the educational program through its vocational rehabilitation program and through its itinerant teaching program for specialized subjects.

The most important functions of the Department of Education are providing leadership and assistance to local school programs. Two of its major responsibilities prescribed by the Legislature in this connection are the certification of all teachers and supervisors employed in public schools and the general supervision of all public education agencies.

Chapter 120 of the Minnesota Statutes, 1957, provides that: "The state board of education shall exercise general supervision over public schools and public educational agencies in the state, classify and standardize public elementary and secondary schools, and prepare for them outlines and suggested courses of study. The board shall establish rules relating to examinations, reports, acceptances of schools, courses of study, and other proceedings in connection with elementary and secondary schools applying for special state aid."

This Department's jurisdiction extends to the junior colleges and area vocational-technical schools.

*A complete description of the Department of Education appears in Chapter 3 under administrative departments.

MINNESOTA STATE COLLEGES

There are presently five State Colleges in Minnesota located in Bemidji, Mankato, Moorhead, St. Cloud, and Winona. These colleges are all under the direction and control of the Minnesota State College Board. They have all been created by act of the legislature and are supported financially by tuition and fees paid by the students and by direct appropriation from the legislature.

Originally these colleges were created as Normal Schools with the purpose of preparing teachers for the elementary schools. The first Normal School opened in Winona in 1860 with other Normal Schools opening in Mankato in 1868, St. Cloud in 1869, Moorhead in 1888, Duluth in 1902, and Bemidji in 1919. In 1947 the Duluth college became a part of the University of Minnesota. In the early years of these institutions much of the program of instruction was sub-collegiate in nature. This was made necessary by the fact that there were insufficient high schools to provide a population of students qualified to enter into a collegiate program. By 1921 the sub-collegiate instruction was eliminated and the names of the institutions were changed to Teachers Colleges signifying that the program of instruction was entirely collegiate in nature. The Teachers Colleges graduated their first four-year classes in 1926, although many students continued to pursue for some time teacher preparation courses of only one or two years' duration. Teacher preparation programs of less than four years have been completely eliminated since 1960.

It had long been the position of the Teachers Colleges that a desirable program of teacher education must be based upon a strong program of liberal arts and general education. Since strong programs in these areas have developed and since a growing number of students were selecting the bachelor of arts degrees (without teacher education) in preference to the bachelor of science degree (with teacher education), the legislature in 1956 once again changed the name of these institutions—this time to State Colleges.

In 1953 the Teachers Colleges were authorized to offer a fifth year of college work in teacher education. This program led to the granting of the master of science degree in education. The 1963 legislature authorized the State College Board to approve the granting of a master's degree in fields other than in education. Under this provision the State College Board will from time to time grant specific approval to individual State Colleges to grant the master's degree in specific fields where that college has been judged to have a program of studies sufficient for the master's degree.

The State Colleges have been growing rapidly in recent years. From the fall quarter of 1954 to the fall quarter of 1962 the enrollment at all five colleges grew from 5,687 to 16,400 which represents an increase of 188.4 per cent. The following tabulation shows the enrollment for each college in the fall of 1954 and in the fall of 1962.

| Fall Quarter | Bemidji | Mankato | Moorhead | St. Cloud | Winona | Total |
| 1954 | 600 | 2,085 | 718 | 1,661 | 623 | 5,687 |
| 1962 | 1,948 | 6,282 | 2,145 | 4,379 | 1,646 | 16,400 |

In the fall of 1962, 22.3 per cent of all college students in Minnesota were enrolled in the State Colleges, whereas in 1954 only 13.8 per cent were enrolled in State Colleges.

The State Colleges serve four major functions. By far, the largest of these functions is that of teacher education with approximately 90 per cent of the degree graduates going into teaching. Approximately one-half of the new teachers in Minnesota coming from all Minnesota colleges are graduated from State Colleges.

A second important function of that of providing a liberal arts degree to those students interested in securing a college education but not interested in pursuing a career in teaching.

A third important function is that of serving the so-called transfer student. In this case students enroll for one, two or three years in a State College taking pre-professional work in preparation for transferring to a professional school such as medicine, law, engineering, usually in some large university. This has been a rapidly expanding purpose of the State Colleges.

Another important service by the State Colleges is that of providing terminal courses of less than four years' duration. Some students who do not intend to secure a bachelor's degree find it desirable to take one or two years of college work in liberal arts or some vocational area. The State Colleges are currently developing technical programs which are planned to be of assistance to students who are interested in going into industry with a specialized technical training. Another common area providing two years of preparation is in the field of business administration.

All State Colleges are accredited by the North Central Association, by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education, and by the Minnesota State Department of Education for both the bachelor's degree and the master's degree programs.

The State Colleges serve the regions in which they are located in a number of ways. For many years a program of off-campus evening instruction has been conducted by which many teachers in the elementary and secondary schools have been able to become or to remain certificated and to continue their work toward a degree. The teacher shortage, particularly in the elementary and secondary schools in the rural areas, has been alleviated by this program. Public schools often turn to the State College facilities for assistance with special school problems. School psychologists and other specialists have been made available to public schools seeking specialized professional assistance. Numerous conferences and seminars are held at the State Colleges for the benefit of elementary and secondary school teachers and administrators.

In several instances, particularly where State Colleges are located close to other private or public colleges, programs of inter-institutional cooperation are in operation. Such programs tend to be of value to the students of all colleges involved in these cooperative programs.

Continual efforts are made by the State Colleges to improve the articulation of programs between Minnesota junior colleges and the State Colleges and between the State Colleges and the University of Minnesota. This is done in order to ease the problems of transfer of credits from one institution to the other. The University of Minnesota has recently modified its policy relative to the transfer of graduate credits to the University so that graduate credits earned at a State College are transferable to the University without loss.

The campuses of all of the State Colleges have been expanded in recent years both by the addition of land and by the construction of new buildings. The legislature from 1955 through 1963 has appropriated in excess of $43,000,000.00 for the purchase of land and the construction of new facilities on the five State College campuses. During the same period the State College Board has secured authorization from the legislature to issue nearly $29,000,000.00 in revenue bonds for the construction of dormitories, food service facilities and student unions. The revenue bonds will be retired from the revenue producing capabilities of the facilities which are constructed from the bond proceeds.

The 1963 legislature authorized that a new State College be created at some place within a 19-county area in southwestern Minnesota. The exact location of this college is to be determined by a five-man committee which was named by the legislature. This college when it is created is to contain a two-year technical division and two-year liberal arts division. The liberal arts division is to be later expanded into a four-year liberal arts college.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The University of Minnesota was founded in February, 1851, by an act of the Minnesota Territorial Legislature which provided "That there shall be established in this territory an institution under the name and style of the University of Minnesota." At first it functioned in the Village of St. Anthony, now a part of Minneapolis, as the "preparatory department of the University of Minnesota," an academy giving classes at the high school level.

Twenty-five and one-third acres of the present site were purchased in 1854, and the first campus building, Old Main, was completed in 1858. Depression, financial difficulty, Indian uprisings and the Civil War forced the University to lie dormant from 1860 to 1867. On September 15, 1869, the reorganized University of Minnesota opened as an institution of higher learning. William Watts Folwell was the first president, and 18 students were in attendance.

From that second beginning, the University has grown steadily. In the fall of 1962 student registration on the five campuses in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth, Rochester and Morris totalled 33,616. Degrees are awarded each year to about 7,000 students, in contrast to the first graduating class of two in 1873.

The University serves not only its students but all residents of Minnesota through the services of its extension division, information services, radio station, and agricultural experiment stations and its sponsorship of exhibits, concerts, lectures and publications.

The nation also is served by the University through its contributions in research. Medicine, agriculture, engineering and social welfare benefit from its experiments and surveys. The conquest of brucellosis, the development of taconite processing, utilization of the state's mineral resources, increasing understanding of the mysteries of cosmic rays and new developments in life-saving heart and cancer surgery are some of the significant results of University research projects.

COLLEGES OF THE UNIVERSITY

College of Liberal Arts—The University's largest division, the College provides educational opportunities in the social and natural sciences and the humanities both for general education and as preparation for professional and vocational work. Combined degree programs are offered with architecture, dental hygiene and education.

Institute of Technology—Professional training in engineering and architecture as well as basic education in the physical sciences and mathematics is offered by the institute in its seven colleges and schools: College of Engineering and Schools of Architecture, Chemistry, Earth Sciences, Mathematics, Mines and Metallurgy, and Physics and Astronomy. Combined degree programs with the School of Business Administration, the Law School and the College of Education also are offered.

College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics—Offers bachelor's degrees in a wide range of subject areas such as agricultural science, dairy industries, fishery and wildlife management, forest resources management, dietetics, home economics and nursery school education, and textiles and clothing. The college also offers advanced professional degrees in some fields.

College of Medical Sciences—Includes the Medical School, School of Nursing and School of Public Health.

College of Education—Preparation for teaching in kindergarten and primary grades, in elementary, junior high or high school grades, as well as programs in special education, recreational leadership and public health work.

Graduate School—Students with bachelor's degrees or their equivalents may undertake work for the advanced degrees of master of arts, master of science and doctor of philosophy.

School of Dentistry—Offers programs for dentists, dental hygienists and dental assistants, as well as continuation courses to keep those in the profession informed of new developments in research and clinical procedures.

Law School—Offers the professional bachelor of laws degree which qualifies one for bar examinations and admission to practice.

College of Pharmacy—Teaches the preparation, compounding and dispensing of medicinal agents and the study of their chemistry, pharmacological properties and therapeutic applications.

School of Business Administration—Offers basic professional training for positions of responsibility in business with degree programs in business, business-accounting, economics and economics-statistics. Graduate level degree programs related to business administration are offered by the graduate school. Specialized training is offered in industrial management, insurance, transportation, marketing, law, industrial relations, quantitative analysis and finance.

College of Veterinary Medicine—Prepares students for private practice, disease control work, teaching and research and for service as veterinarians in the Armed Forces and in the United States Public Health Service.

General College—A two-year program in which the more general courses may be combined with certain courses of preparation for specific occupations which do not require professional training.

University College—Enables the student to arrange a study program to fit his individual needs, drawing upon the entire University for its courses.

University of Minnesota, Duluth—Liberal arts and pre-professional programs are offered in a variety of general and specialized courses.

University of Minnesota, Morris—A liberal arts college with pre-professional programs.

SERVICE AND RESEARCH

Cedar Creek Forest Natural History Area—Established for scientific and educational purposes, Cedar Creek Forest is in Anoka and Isanti counties, near Bethel. This outdoor research laboratory consists of more than 3,000 acres and provides indoor laboratory facilities for scientific research, where scientists and students from universities throughout the country and other qualified individuals can study the trees, plants, animals and birds in their natural environment.

Minnesota Geological Survey—An intensive study of Minnesota's mineral resources, waters, soils and topography conducted by members of the geology department since 1872. This special service also aids other state departments and issues pamphlets for use in studying and collecting minerals.

Mines Experiment Station—A unit of the School of Mines and Metallurgy in the Institute of Technology which works on problems of extraction and treatment of the mineral resources of Minnesota.

University of Minnesota Hospitals—A center for research and treatment of disease, which includes the Mayo Memorial Building, the Variety Club Heart Hospital, the Masonic Memorial Hospital, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Cancer Research Center, and Diehl Hall, which houses the University's medical-biological library and medical research facilities. Associated with the hospitals is the Student Health Service.

St. Anthony Falls Hydraulic Laboratory—The most authentic river clinic in the world. The water that rushes through its model channels and other test apparatus comes directly from the Mississippi river. Its scientists design hydraulic projects for nations throughout the world. They study different types of dams and dam spillways, tidal bores, the aeration of churning water and the buildup and breakdown of sandbars and mudbanks.

General Extension Division—This division makes University facilities available to all residents of Minnesota through evening classes or correspondence study, Center for Continuation Study, off campus lectures and concerts, school assembly programs, radio station KUOM, Audio-Visual Extension Service, continuing education for women program, public seminars and lectures, Municipal Reference Bureau and State Organization Service.

Agricultural Extension Service—A division of the Institute of Agriculture which works to transmit the results of agricultural research to the farmers of the state. Includes the activities of county agricultural agents, county home agents, 4-H Club agents and agricultural extension specialists.

Agricultural Experiment Station—A division of the Institute of Agriculture devoted to agricultural and forestry experimentation. The work of this division is conducted, not only in the gardens on the St. Paul campus, but at experiment stations at Cloquet, Itasca, Excelsior, Grand Rapids, Duluth, Crookston, Rosemount, Lamberton, Waseca and Morris.

Institute of Child Development—Conducts investigations into the habits, abilities and methods of training and educating young children and publicizes these findings through extension classes, lectures and bulletins. It also maintains a Nursery School and Kindergarten for demonstration and practice in the training of teachers and other workers with young children.

Minnesota Landscape Aboretum—Located near Excelsior, the arboretum's 160 acres of woodland, lakes and open fields are devoted to research in testing and developing hardy trees, plants and flowers for landscaping home grounds in Minnesota.

Minnesota Museum of Natural History—Exhibits, free to the public, nearly 100 displays of Minnesota animal life mounted in typical environment. In addition, the museum makes available thousands of specimens of regional mammal and bird life for study by students and visitors.

CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

Northrop Memorial Auditorium is the center of cultural activities at the University of Minnesota. It is the home of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra and the University Artists Course. The Metropolitan Opera Company appears there annually. Northrop also houses the University Gallery, which offers a continuous variety of art exhibitions.

Weekly convocations in Northrop bring notable personalities in public affairs, science, entertainment and the arts before the University and its community. Indoor commencement exercises also are held in the auditorium.

In addition to its program of diversified drama and its summer Centennial Showboat productions on the Mississippi river, the University Theater sponsors young people's and foreign languages series. The Theater group has made tours of Europe, the Orient, Brazil, Greenland and Iceland under auspices of the United States Department of Defense and Department of State.

University Bands, Symphony Orchestra, Chorus, Chamber Singers, Men's and Women's Glee Clubs and the St. Paul Campus Chorus present free, public concerts on campus. Weekly music hours are held in Scott hall, featuring students and staff members as well as guest artists and lecturers.

KUOM, the University of Minnesota radio station, rebroadcasts convocations and carries news, lectures, music, farm and home information and dramatic productions into many Minnesota homes. University television programs are presented over KTCA-TV, the state's educational television channel

The University Library, with more than two million volumes, ranks among the top research libraries in the United States. In addition to the thousands of periodicals, newspapers and reference books used for course-related study and research, the library resources also include extensive collections of literary, historical and biographical works.

Student centers, with eating, recreational and meeting facilities are located on the various campuses—Coffman Memorial Union on the Minneapolis campus, Student Center on the St. Paul campus, Kirby Center on the Duluth campus and student center facilities at the Morris campus.

The Duluth and Morris campuses also present convocations, concerts and theater offerings. The Tweed Gallery on the Duluth campus offers a year-around exhibition program.

The division of medical services, Department of Public Welfare, supervises and administers a statewide program of health services which includes responsibility for:

- Supervision of the treatment program in the seven state hospitals for the mentally ill, the Minnesota Residential Treatment Center (Lino Lakes), and the Oak Terrace Nursing Home (Minnetonka).
- Supervision and program planning for the mentally retarded, both within the six state institutions and in the community.
- A statewide mental health research program.
- Community mental health services—including consultation and administration of state funds to the community mental health centers located throughout the state.
- Public information and volunteer services.
- The Minnesota State Sanatorium (tuberculosis) at Glen Lake (Minnetonka).

Considerable gain has been made during the past six years in extending mental health services, interest, and activities beyond the traditional hospital centers to more active participation by local communities. The community mental health services program, begun in 1957, has continued at high momentum, with 17 community mental health centers in operation. Others are in the active planning stage, awaiting availability of matching state grants-in-aid.

Hospitals for the Mentally Ill

Care and treatment of the mentally ill is provided at seven state hospitals. They are located at Anoka, Fergus Falls, Hastings, Moose Lake, Rochester, St. Peter, and Willmar. In addition, the state-operated Ah-Gwah-Ching and Oak Terrace Nursing Homes provide nursing care for elderly persons who do not require psychiatric hospital treatment.

The treatment program at each of the state hospitals for the mentally ill is geared to the rehabilitation of the patient and his return to the community in the shortest period of time. With the newer advances in treatment methods and better understanding of mental illness, the length of hospitalization has been dramatically shortened, and many of the patients return to their homes in six months time or less. For those patients, who because of advanced age or severity of illness cannot readily be returned to their home community, every effort is made to help them lead useful and productive lives.

All forms of psychiatric treatment are available in each of the hospitals. A wide variety of social, recreational, occupational, and industrial activities are offered. These play an important role in preparing the patient for his return to the community as an active and useful citizen. Hundreds of volunteers come regularly to the hospitals from communities all over the state. Their contributions of time, service and personal interest are an important addition to the hospital treatment program.

In addition to the psychiatric services, the state hospitals for the mentally ill also provide diagnostic and treatment services for physical illness and the majority are equipped to do major surgical procedures. Specialized treatment such as the Alcoholic programs at Moose Lake and Willmar, the Burns Tuberculosis unit at Anoka, the Maximum Security Hospital at St. Peter, and the Medical and Surgical Services at Rochester and Anoka are also offered.

Prior to February, 1961, residential treatment programs for emotionally disturbed children were conducted at the Minnesota Children's Center, St. Paul, and the Hastings Children's Unit, Hastings State Hospital. These two units were consolidated into the Children's Residential Treatment Center, a special building at Glen Lake, in September, 1961. This state-operated unit continued as temporary quarters until the opening of the Minnesota Residential Treatment Center at Lino Lakes in 1963.

Institutions for the Mentally Retarded

State schools and hospitals for mentally retarded children and adults are maintained by the Department of Public Welfare at Brainerd, Cambridge, and Faribault. In the residential treatment program, increasing emphasis is placed on educational classes, training programs, and a wide variety of activities to help each mentally retarded patient develop to his maximum ability.

A specialized academic and vocational training program for mildly retarded boys and girls ages 8 to 21 years is provided at Owatonna State School. Many of these students successfully return to the community as self-supporting or partially self-supporting citizens after completing their schooling.

Additional institutional care is provided at the Lake Owasso Annex (Cambridge), the Annex for Defective Delinquents at the St. Cloud Reformatory, and the Shakopee Home for Children.

Special Hospitals

Two special hospitals, Gillette State Hospital for Crippled Children (St. Paul) and the Minnesota State Sanatorium at Glen Lake (Minnetonka) are under Department of Public Welfare supervision.

Objective of the treatment program at Gillette State Hospital is to provide maximum rehabilitation for children who have a handicap resulting from illness, injury, or a congenital condition.

In addition to the latest in medical and surgical equipment and facilities, Gillette provides classroom instruction from kindergarten through high school, an active occupational and physical therapy program, a recreation department, a library for both patients and staff, and a complete brace shop where most orthopedic appliances needed by patients are made. There is, also, a complete outpatient and social service department.

The medical staff is composed of specialists from the St. Paul and Minneapolis area. The resident orthopedic staff is affiliated with the Mayo Foundation and the University of Minnesota.

Minnesota State Sanatorium serves statewide areas not covered by local county sanatoria. It is the main facility for treatment of Indian TB patients.

Special Schools

Minnesota's two special schools, the School for the Deaf and the Braille and Sight Saving School, are both located at Faribault.

The School for the Deaf is the second oldest school in Minnesota. It was established by an act of the Legislature in 1858 under the name of Minnesota State Institute for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb.

Minnesota has a compulsory education law for the deaf, and all children of the state between the ages of 5 and 20 who are too deaf or hard of hearing to make satisfactory progress in the public schools and who are not taught in a private school or in a school having a special teacher for the deaf are required to attend the Minnesota School for the Deaf until discharged by the superintendent, upon approval of the Commissioner of Public Welfare. This education is provided by the state at no cost to the parents of the children except for transportation, clothing, incidental expenses and extraordinary medical or dental care.

Speech without Sound

Technical improvements in wearable hearing aids and amplifying equipment have been considerable during the past several years. The school has made determined efforts to assure that every child with usable hearing is equipped with a hearing aid. As a result students using such aids now number more than 100.

The Minnesota Braille and Sight Saving School (formerly known as the School for the Blind) was established in 1866. Summer sessions for the adult blind were inaugurated in 1907.

Eleven months of instruction are provided during the year—nine for boys and girls from 5 to 20 years of age and two for adults. The regular school session extends from September through May; summer school, during June and July. For residents of the state, there is no charge for tuition, board, room, laundry, and ordinary medical care.

Eligibility requirements are: state residence, blindness or vision too defective to make progress in public schools, and the ability to learn. Out-of-state attendance is permitted on a tuition basis; the latter is based on the per capita cost for the preceding year.

Institutions Supervised by the Department of Corrections

The Department of Corrections, created by the 1959 state Legislature, operates through two major divisions, the division of adult corrections and the division of youth conservation.

DIVISION OF ADULT CORRECTIONS

| Name of Institution | Location | Superintendent |

The Division of Adult Corrections administers a program for the custody, treatment and training of offenders committed by the courts to the State Prison at Stillwater, the State Reformatory for Men at St. Cloud and the Reformatory for Women at Shakopee. The State Prison and Reformatory for Men are walled institutions of maximum security. The Reformatory for Women is a minimum security, cottage style institution. The Reformatory for Men provides vocational training. Twine-rope and farm machinery are the principal products of the prison industries. Training and treatment are provided at the institutions to prepare offenders to assume a normal life upon release.

DIVISION OF YOUTH CONSERVATION

School building—Sauk Centre Home School for Girls

INSTITUTIONS AND OFFICIALS

| Institution | Superintendent |
|---|---|
| Home School for Girls at Sauk Centre | Robert J. Hartford |
| State Training School for Boys at Red Wing | Delbert G. Leaf |
| Willow River Forestry Camp | Thomas P. Redmond |
| Thistledew Lake Forestry Camp | Robert Bergherr |
| St. Croix Forestry Camp | Robert Spille |
| Youth Vocational Center — Rochester | Kenneth Schoen |

The Division of Youth Conservation maintains a program for the diagnosis, custody and rehabilitation of youths under the age of 21 who have been adjudged delinquents or criminal offenders. Under this program the Division operates a Reception and Diagnostic Center, two correctional institutions, three forestry camps, and a Youth Vocational Center.

RECEPTION CENTER

At the reception center each youth is given an intensive physical and psychological examination, and a psychiatric examination when indicated. The background information regarding each individual is developed by the probation and parole officers throughout the state. This, together with the results of the diagnostic examinations and the observations of the staff at the Reception Center, forms the basis upon which the Reception Center staff recommends a program which seems best to fit the needs of the individual. The Commission, acting upon this recommendation, may place the child or youth on probation subject to the supervision of probation officers or parole agents, or it may transfer him to any of its facilities or to one of the reformatories.

The legislature has provided funds with which to operate the Minnesota Youth Treatment Center at Lino Lakes in which the Reception-Diagnostic Center is located. The planning schedule set the beginning of operations for the summer of 1963.

HOME SCHOOL FOR GIRLS AT SAUK CENTRE

Those girls committed to the youth Conservation Commission by the Juvenile Courts who are not placed on probation after their study period are transferred to the Home School for Girls at Sauk Centre. This school offers a full academic program. The girls are given an opportunity to develop housekeeping skills and participate in a varied program. They receive guidance and counseling from the professional staff. The length of stay and the supervision on parole are determined on an individual basis. The physical facilities of the Home School for Girls will accommodate 200 girls and include cottages, a school building, chapel, administrative buildings, and some staff housing. The school was established by the legislature in 1911.

STATE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR BOYS AT RED WING

This institution receives boys committed to the Youth Conservation Commission by the Juvenile Courts of the state. It was established by the legislature in 1867 and was first located in St. Paul. The school was moved to Red Wing in 1890. The program includes a full school curriculum, with specific training in 14 different trades. Each boy is reviewed every three months by those members of the staff who have come in closest contact with him, and he is recommended for parole when his attitude and behavior indicate that placement outside the institution should be made. The average daily population at the school is approximately 375.

FORESTRY CAMP AT WILLOW RIVER

The Willow River Forestry Camp, located in Pine County, was established in July 1951. It is a specialized treatment facility to which youths 18 to 21 years of age are sent after being studied at the Reception Center or transferred from the Reformatory. The youths engage in work in the General Andrews Nursery and in conservation projects in the adjacent state forests. Emphasis is placed upon working out the personal problems of each individual youth. The average population of the camp runs very close to 60 youths, the number for which the camp was planned.

FORESTRY CAMP AT THISTLEDEW LAKE

The Thistledew Lake Forestry Camp, located in Itasca County in the George Washington State Forest, was established in 1955 to provide specialized treatment for older boys from the State Training School at Red Wing. These boys work primarily in the forests, giving important assistance in the preservation of Minnesota's natural resources. The population of the camp approximates 60, the number for which the camp was planned.

ST. CROIX FORESTRY CAMP

This camp is located in Pine County in the St. Croix State Forest. It was planned for 9th and 10th grade boys who go to school half days and work half days. It accommodates 60 boys.

YOUTH VOCATIONAL CENTER AT ROCHESTER

This was an Air Force radar base located in Olmsted County which has been transferred to the state for use as an educational institution in auto mechanics and cooking. It is for boys who are over the minimum school age and who have neither the interest nor the ability to continue in an academic program. The program at the Youth Vocational Center is planned for 50 boys.

MINNESOTA STATE PARKS AND FORESTS

Old Round Tower at Fort Snelling State Historical Park, the oldest building in Minnesota

STATE PARKS

The state park system in Minnesota was started in 1889, when the Legislature appropriated funds for the purchase of a site for a monument on the Camp Release battlefield in Lac qui Parle County, to commemorate the last decisive battle with the Sioux in 1862. By the end of the 1957 legislative session the state had established 65 parks and other recreational areas, comprising over 97,700 acres.

The 1963 Legislature amended the "sticker law" authorizing the Department of Conservation to increase the charge of visitors' permits from a $1.00 to $2.00 annual fee. Under this amendment, each automobile entering the state parks must bear a sticker, purchased for $2.00, which is good for the entire calendar year and which permits the auto to enter any state park. The amendment also authorized a $.50 permit to be good for 2 days in any State Park.

The demand for park and camping facilities has greatly increased in recent years because of the growth in travel and vacationing. The state park system provides Minnesotans with needed recreational areas in the scenic splendor of their state, and serves as an important factor in attracting tourists to Minnesota.

The 1963 Legislature in recognition of the growing demands and need for additional State Park recreational opportunities to serve not only our State residents but visitors from afar, and the resulting economic benefits to be realized in the future, provided for the establishment of 14 new State Parks and the enlargement of 21 existing State Parks. This will enlarge the State Park System to 86 areas of which 54 will be major park units totaling 165,000 acres of land.

Banning State Park, established by the 1963 Legislature to comprise 5300 acres of land surrounding the abandoned townsite of Banning which was a booming quarry town and which provided sandstone building materials for many mansions in the Twin City area in its heyday. The park will include the scenic rock escarpments of the Kettle River Gorge to be acquired and developed.

Baptism River State Park, located on the North Shore of Lake Superior, was acquired in 1945. An area of 706 acres embraces the gorge of the Baptism River for approximately three miles of its length from the mouth. The river cascades over the highest waterfall in the state within the park, and another spectacular formation on the shore of Lake Superior, known as Shovel Point, is included in the area. The park is within an area known as the Saw Tooth Mountains, which is a particularly descriptive name for this section of geologic ruggedness. Public facilities have not been provided.

Bear Head Lake State Park was established by the 1961 legislature. This is a 5,000 acre State Park of outstanding scenic northern lake country in St. Louis County. Facilities—picnic ground with tables and pit latrines. Opportunity for hiking, fishing, and camping.

Beaver Creek Valley State Park, established in 1937, contains 325.17 acres and is located near Caledonia. It derives its name from a trout stream which rises from artesian springs within the park and threads its way to the pool of the "Old Schech Mill" constructed in 1896 and still operating. The park extends for approximately two miles through the narrow valley flanked by hills with numerous outcroppings of sandstone topped with limestone. Geological interest is due to the unglaciated type of terrain which exists only in the small southeastern corner of Minnesota. Facilities include a shelter building, picnic ground, and primitive camping area.

Big Stone Lake State Park. $30,000 was appropriated on a local matching basis by the 1961 legislature for the establishment of a 2,000 acre park in Big Stone County on the shore of Big Stone Lake. This area is highly significant in scenic, recreational and archeological value. Undeveloped.

Blue Mounds State Park. 295.6 acres, established in 1937, lies six miles north of Luverne and one mile east of U.S. Highway No. 75. The purple rock outcrops have long been known as the "Blue Mounds" of Minnesota's great western prairie. Mound Creek runs through the park and two dams have been constructed, impounding two lakelets totalling about forty-two acres. A pair of buffalo can be observed. Facilities for picnicking, swimming, and camping have been developed.

Bois Brule, located on the North Shore of Lake Superior on the lower portion of the Arrowhead River comprising 160 acres. It was authorized by the 1957 legislature. Limited primitive camp area, hiking, and fishing.

Buffalo River State Park, 390 acres, is one-half mile south of U.S. Highway No. 10, 12½ miles east of Moorhead. It was established in 1937, and is located on the prehistoric Campbell Beach of Lake Agassiz. Picnic facilities, bathhouse, swimming, and modern tourist camping facilities.

Camden State Park, acquired in 1935, embodies 469.96 acres of hilly country through which the Redwood River flows. It is in Lyon County, south of Marshall. Facilities for camping and picnicking, comfort stations, camp stoves, swimming pool with bathhouse, refectory and pure drinking water are provided.

Caribou Falls State Park, authorized by act of 1947 legislature, located 45 miles northeast of Two Harbors containing 91.62 acres of state land and contains a rugged gorge, waterfalls and interesting geological formations. Park facilities are undeveloped but should appeal to the hiker, fisherman and camera enthusiast.

Cascade River State Park, established by an act of the 1957 Legislature, covers an area of about 1900 acres from Spruce Creek to Thunder Bay and scenic Lake Superior. Scenic foot trails also offer fishing opportunities along the Cascade River. Picnic and tourist camp grounds are provided.

Crow Wing State Park. Established by the 1959 legislature. 1,255 acres in Crow Wing county were authorized by the legislature for which they appropriated $15,000 with the proviso that the sum be matched by local contributions. Local matching funds have been raised. This park is located at the confluence of the Crow Wing and Mississippi rivers—one mile north of U. S. Highway No. 371. This is a roadless wooded area on the east side of the Mississippi river in a two-mile stretch along the river. Interest in the area is basically historical. Facilities—picnic grounds.

Devil's Track Falls State Park. This park was established by the 1961 legislature—240 acres in Cook county and includes two falls which are 50 feet high, a deep canyon and unique stone face profile in the canyon wall. Will be limited to foot trail access.

Flandrau State Park (formerly called Cottonwood River State Park) embodies 836.48 acres purchased in 1934, adjacent to the south boundary of New Ulm. The area comprises a portion of the river valley including the tops of the bluffs which rise from the valley floor. A concrete dam created a lake of 209 acres which affords canoeing, boating, swimming and fishing. A modern bathhouse and refectory, a fine sand beach, boating, picnic facilities, and organized group camp facilities are provided.

Forestville State Park. This park is located on the south branch of the Root River and includes the old abandoned townsite of Forestville which was flourishing immediately prior to the Civil War. It was a station on the stage route from Winona to Des Moines, Iowa prior to the development of rail transportation. The hardwood forest of the valley floor and the limestone crags on the valley rim provide a unique scenic setting. This area has long been recognized by the natural science authorities for its variety of native flora and fauna. Established by the 1963 Legislature and in the process of acquisition and development. The park will embrace 2,440 acres.

Fort Snelling State Historical Park. This park was established by the 1961 legislature and lies in Dakota, Hennepin and Ramsey counties. The legislature authorized the establishment of a park up to 2,500 acres. This area is highly significant in historic and scenic values. The legislature provided $65,000 to be used for the purchase of park lands. A museum that tells the story of the Fort's development and consisting of new exhibits is maintained in the Old Round Tower by the Minnesota Historical Society.

Frontenac State Park was established by Chapter 783, Laws of 1957. It is located south of Red Wing, Minnesota, on the shore of Lake Pepin, the widest portion of the Mississippi River. The 945 acres authorized for acquisition will include the historic French Outpost site of Fort Beauharnois contracted in 1727 by the early French explorers of this region. The site of the earliest known Christian church in Minnesota will also be included in the park area.

George H. Crosby Manitou State Park consists of an extensive and valuable area of land located on the north shore of Lake Superior. It embraces the scenic gorge and cascades of the Manitou River. The land was donated by George H. Crosby. It was dedicated as a state park by the state legislature in Chapter 144, Laws of 1955.

Glacial Lake State Park, established by an act of the 1963 Legislature and is in the process of acquisition and development. The park will comprise approximately 1,400 acres which includes several lakes. The high hills surrounding the lakes are excellent examples of glacial moraine and coupled with the woodlands and lakes provide an exceptionally beautiful panorama.

Gooseberry Falls State Park, established in 1937, comprises 1,317 acres located on the north shore of Lake Superior, 12 miles east of Two Harbors on Trunk Highway U.S. 61, Minnesota's famous North Shore Drive. The Gooseberry River tumbles from a height of 240 feet above Lake Superior over two large waterfalls and a series of smaller cascades in the rocky gorge to the river mouth on the lake. Developments provide for tourist camping, picnicking with modern facilities. Natural history trails are maintained for hikers. Naturalist programs during the summer months are provided through the cooperation of the University of Minnesota's Museum of Natural History.

Grand Mound State Park. Established by the 1963 Legislature to protect and preserve the largest known Indian Mound in Minnesota. It is located at the confluence of the Big Fork and Rainy Rivers. This mound is an object of great interest to archeologists and is a monument to the prehistoric Indian culture that once flourished in Minnesota. The area will comprise approximately 65 acres.

Helmer Myre State Park (formerly Big Island State Park) authorized by act of 1947 legislature, is a heavily wooded island in Albert Lea lake, five miles south of Albert Lea in Freeborn County, comprising 119.75 acres, and containing some fine specimens of native hardwood trees which are becoming rare in Minnesota. A picnic ground with a good well, picnic shelter building and modern toilet have been provided. There are opportunities for boating, hiking and tourist camping.

Interstate Park consists of 167.50 acres of St. Croix River valley extending from Taylors Falls down the river 1.1 miles. It was acquired in 1895 by purchase. The State of Wisconsin by official agreement with Minnesota purchased and established a state park on the east side of the St. Croix at the same time. A rock gorge rises perpendicularly in places two hundred feet from the water's edge on either side of the river forming the famous Dalles of the St. Croix. Part of the area consists of stratified and precipitous rock formation, in which are spectacular examples of potholes, created by the motion of rotating water and boulders which set up a grinding action in depressions. A parking space and a combination refectory and shelter building have been provided adjacent to the potholes, and also facilities for picnicking and camping have been developed in another section of the park. Naturalist programs are provided during the summer season through cooperation with the University of Minnesota's Museum of Natural History.

Itasca State Park is midway between Bemidji and Park Rapids on U.S. Highway No. 71. It consists of 32,214 acres, established primarily to preserve an exceptionally fine scenic piece of northern Minnesota, unaltered from its natural state, and the headwaters basin for the source of the Mississippi River. The area is dotted with 157 lakes, foremost of which is Lake Itasca, the source of the Mississippi River. In the area are large stands of virgin Norway and white pine. A camping ground on the east shore of Lake Itasca provides modern facilities for a large number of tourists. Limited cabin accommodations are available in this area. Organized group camp facilities are provided on Squaw Lake and Elk Lake.

Douglas Lodge, established in 1906, a dignified resort hotel and cabin development, located in the south end of Lake Itasca among tall virgin pine, is state-owned and is operated by the division of State Parks under the European plan. Excellent fishing, boating, excursion boat trips, foot trails and other recreational activities may be enjoyed.

A State Forestry School and Biological Station is operated by the University of Minnesota for summer school students.

Guided nature trip—Itasca State Park

The picnic ground, near the Headwaters of the Mississippi River, is well developed. Ample parking space, tables, benches, fireplaces and well-water are available for public use. Modern toilets and an interesting museum are located in this section of the park.

Park purposes. An unusual stand of white pine is located on this property, and the river lends itself to excellent trout fishing. Picnic facilities have been provided.

Jay Cooke State Park, 8,920.2 acres, was established in 1915. It extends from Thomson seven miles downstream on both sides of the St. Louis River to Fond du Lac. The terrain is spectacular because of ruggedness of slope, and constitutes a segment of the Grand Portage Trail of the St. Louis River used by Du Lhut in 1679 and subsequently by the Voyageurs during their fur trading expeditions. Camp and picnic grounds are equipped with tables, stoves, drinking water, shelters, and modern comfort stations.

John A. Latsch State Park lies along U.S. Highway No. 61, north of Winona. It was established in 1925 and comprises 354.5 acres. Three limestone bluffs rise abruptly nearly 450 feet above the highway.

The Whitman Dam and Locks, contiguous with the park, play an important part in navigation on the Mississippi River.

Small areas for picnicking have been developed, provided with fireplaces, water and toilets.

Kilen Woods State Park (200.71 acres) was established by the 1945 legislature. This area lies about 7 miles northwest of Jackson, on the west bank of the Des Moines River. An unusually fine stand of hardwood timber covers the steep banks in this area. It is estimated that the river banks rise about 200 feet at one point within the park. The existence of the fine virgin timber stand in this older intense agricultural section of Minnesota is extremely unusual. Facilities have been provided for picnic, camping, and hiking activities.

Kodonce River State Park (127.80 acres) located 11 miles east of Grand Marais in Cook County was acquired in 1948. Its spectacular rocky gorge and waterfalls will amply reward the hiker, camera man or fisherman.

Lac qui Parle State Park, established in 1941, comprises two areas at the foot of Lac qui Parle Lake with a total area of 457.49 acres. On the east side of the lake, the site of the first Protestant mission in Minnesota was dedicated in 1831. A replica of the original mission chapel houses an Historical Museum. The heavily wooded area on the southwest side of the lake has been developed for extensive picnicking activity.

Lake Bemidji State Park, established in 1923, embodies 285.48 acres of lakeshore land, about six miles northeast of Bemidji. Within the virgin Norway pine forest a public camp ground and picnic grounds have been developed.

Lake Bronson State Park, established in 1937, 889.62 acres, is about two miles east of Bronson on U.S. Highway No. 59. A bathhouse and sand beach provide swimming facilities on a 327 acre lake created by a dam in the south branch of the Two Rivers. The lake serves as a water reservoir for towns downstream. Boating, picnicking, tourist camping, and limited facilities for organized group camp activities are also provided.

Lake Carlos State Park is 12 miles north of Alexandria on the north end of Lake Carlos. Its 745 acres are located in rolling topography. Deer and other wild life are plentiful. Provision has been made for picnicking, bathing, tourist camping, boating and organized group camp accommodations.

Lake Louise State Park. Established by an act of the 1963 Legislature. The area is to comprise 1,100 acres of land near the town of LeRoy. Two streams forming the Iowa River pass through the area and a mill dam forms the lake which has been used for water recreation for many years in the past. This lake is in a section of Minnesota where such features are not common. There is a substantial amount of natural hardwood timber within the limits of this established park which has yet to be acquired and developed for public accommodation.

Lake Maria State Park. Established by an act of the 1963 Legislature. This 1,470 acre area will embrace three small lakes in northern Wright County. A hardwood forest primarily Burr Oak is well established in the light sandy soil of this region. The Great River Road will pass near this area which will have potential to serve the recreational needs of the tourist. Lands to be acquired and developed.

Lake Shetek State Park, established 1937, comprises 262 acres, three miles north of Currie, on the east shore of Lake Shetek, one of the largest lakes in Southern Minnesota. One island, Loon, is within the park area, and near the entrance is located the Lake Shetek Monument, which commemorates the massacre of twelve white families during the Indian uprising of 1862. Picnic, camp grounds, swimming beach, bathhouse, boats and organized group camp facilities are provided.

Little Elbow Lake State Park. Established by an act of the 1963 Legislature and comprises 3,360 acres of land embracing Little Elbow Lake as well as Saw Mill Lake and two smaller lakes in the pine forest east of Waubon, Minnesota. This park is intended to supplement the facilities for recreation in the region of Itasca State Park which is receiving ever-increasing demands for public use.

Maplewood State Park. This park was established by an act of the 1963 Legislature and is to comprise 5,600 acres of land adjoining Lake Lida in Otter Tail County. The park will embrace some 20 lakes and ponds in addition to the border on Lake Lida. This area is in the natural transition zone between the great pine forests and the fertile western plains and as a result has a great variety of native flora and fauna. Lands are to be acquired and developed.

Mille Lacs Kathio State Park, established by Chapter 645, Laws of 1957, with a park area of approximately 9000 acres surrounding the outlet of Mille Lacs Lake and the Rum River to Shakopee Lake. Picnic facilities have been provided.

Minneopa State Park has as the principal natural feature Minneopa Creek which tumbles over two waterfalls into a deep-cut gorge. Its 116.24 acres are in Blue Earth County six miles west of Mankato on U. S. Highway No. 60. It was acquired in 1905 and now affords excellent picnic facilities including a water system, a modern comfort station, picnic kitchen and shelter, and refectory.

Nerstrand Woods State Park was dedicated by the 1945 legislature and consists of 584.8 acres of land near the village of Nerstrand in Rice County. An excellent stand of virgin hardwood timber covers the greatest portion of the area, which was part of the "Big Woods" designated by the Indians and early explorers in Minnesota. An unusually large variety of native botanical specimens are found in the park area and it has been utilized by Northfield colleges for field study classes. Commercial hardwood logging operations had made serious inroads on sections of the park up to the time of its establishment under public ownership for preservation. Picnic and camping facilities have been provided.

O. L. Kipp State Park. Established by an act of the 1963 Legislature to commemorate the Chief Design Engineer who was responsible for the development and construction of a large portion of the Minnesota Highway system. The park is to comprise 1,350 acres embracing the magnificent Mississippi River Bluffs near Dresbach, Minnesota. This park is to be acquired and developed in connection with the Mississippi Parkway on the Great River Road.

Old Mill State Park, formerly Middle River State Park, consisting of 285 acres, was purchased in 1937 and is located 17 miles northeast of Warren on State Highway No. 3. An old water powered flour mill, constructed originally in 1888, has been restored to operating condition through the cooperation of the Marshall County Historical Society. The park provides accommodations for swimming, picnicking, and hiking.

Rice Lake State Park. Established by an act of the 1963 Legislature to provide opportunity for water recreation in the area of Steele and Dodge Counties east of Owatonna. The area will comprise 1,020 acres of land surrounding one of the few remaining undeveloped natural lakes in this section of our state. Lands are to be acquired and developed.

St. Croix State Park, comprising 30,557.40 acres, 18 miles east of Hinckley in Pine County, was transferred to the state by the federal government in 1943, after having been developed by CCC and WPA under the supervision of the National Park Service. Developments comprise three large group camps and a well developed picnic and tourist camp grounds. Boats and overnight cabins are available for rental. A number of fine streams cross this fine recreation area, which lies between the St. Croix and Kettle Rivers, and provides exceptional fishing opportunities.

Sakatah Lake State Park. Established by an act of the 1963 Legislature to preserve a segment of southern Minnesota's original hardwood forest adjoining the south shore of Upper Sakatah Lake. Upper Sakatah Lake is the most interesting of the chain of lakes that contain the headwaters of the Cannon River. Lands are to be acquired and developed.

Savanna Portage State Park. The 1961 Legislature established a 15,000 acre State Park in Aitkin County which includes all or part of 4 lakes and the historic five-mile portage dating back to the late 1600's. This site is significant for its historic and recreational values. Picnic grounds with tables and pit latrines; foot trail following a part of the original portage route.

Scenic State Park consists of 2,121.3 acres, six miles east of Bigfork. It was acquired in 1921. This area is the most primitive of all Minnesota state parks and comprises large stands of virgin Norway pine surrounding two beautiful northern lakes. Boating, swimming, fishing and hiking provide recreation. Camp and picnic grounds and limited cabin accommodations are offered.

Sibley State Park, established by the 1919 Legislature, contains 972.7 acres along the north shore of Lake Andrew in Kandiyohi County, seven miles west of New London. Virgin hardwoods and unusual examples of red cedar cover the hills. Lake Andrew provides boating, fishing and swimming, and a fine sand beach. A bath house, and well-equipped picnic and public camp ground are provided. Seven barracks, a recreation building, a camp mess hall, and a modern sanitation building have been constructed to serve organized youth camp activities.

Temperance River State Park, established by the 1957 Legislature, is a 223 acre tract surrounding the lower cascade and mouth of the Temperance River in Lake Superior. This river has the unique distinction of being the only river entering Lake Superior without a shifting sand bar across its mouth. Picnic grounds, camp grounds and scenic foot trails have been developed.

Tower Soudan State Park. Established by an act of the 1963 Legislature to set aside the first iron ore mine now to be abandoned. This was the first iron ore mine operated in Minnesota and made the first shipment of iron ore July 31, 1884. Oliver Mining Company has donated all mining equipment and 1,100 acres of surrounding land for state park purposes. The mine will be opened for public inspection tours after revision of equipment and provision of additional safety devices have been installed. The mine is 2,341 feet deep with 27 levels and has several miles of underground tunnels.

Traverse Des Sioux State Park. This area was set aside as a park in 1905 and due to its small size of 2.27 acres, it was classified as an historic wayside. The 1963 Legislature has authorized the purchase of 300 additional acres to include over one mile of the west bank of the Minnesota River. This acreage will include the west end of the Indian River Crossing after which the site was named. It also embraces the site of the original townsite of Traverse des Sioux which flourished in the 1850's and 1860's, but which is now abandoned. The Treaty with the Sioux Indians, which opened to settlement the vast fertile western prairie of Minnesota, was negotiated by the U.S. Government and was signed on July 23, 1851 in this park.

Upper Sioux Agency State Park. Established by an act of the 1963 Legislature. This 330 acre site on the Minnesota River near Granite Falls embraces the station which was set up to serve the Indians in accordance with the Treaty of Traverse des Sioux in 1851 by the Federal Government. It represents one of the important historical sites in the development of Minnesota. Lands are to be acquired and developed to illustrate the historical significance as well as provide recreational facilities.

Whitewater State Park is in Winona County, about midway between Winona and Rochester. It was acquired in 1919 and comprises 688.28 acres. The park includes a wide, deep ravine through which the Whitewater River and secondary creeks flow. Unusual escarpments and formations of limestone add to the picturesqueness of the park. The bathhouse and picnic and camp grounds, equipped with modern structures and overnight cabins, provide facilities for the comfort of park users. A golf course and buildings for children's camp programs are also provided. Naturalist programs are provided during the summer season through the cooperation of the University of Minnesota's Museum of Natural History.

William O'Brien State Park, established in 1945, is an area of 487.4 acres on the west banks of the St. Croix River, two miles north of Marine-on-the-St. Croix. This tract is a typical example of the lands bordering on the historic St. Croix River, which was a principal artery of travel for Indians and early explorers. This section of the St. Croix River has been the scene of intense lumbering activities in the past. This park was donated to the state by Miss Alice O'Brien in memory of her father, who was one of the early lumbermen in this region. Tourist camp and picnic facilities including shelter building and toilets have been provided. Naturalist programs are provided during the summer season through the cooperation of the University of Minnesota's Museum of Natural History.

STATE MEMORIAL PARKS

Birch Coulee State Memorial Park containing 82 acres, was established in 1893, and is 1½ miles north of Morton. One of the hardest fought battles of the 1862 uprising took place on this site. Picnic facilities including shelter building and toilets are provided.

Charles A. Lindbergh State Memorial Park, 110.42 acres along the Mississippi River, two miles south of Little Falls, was established in 1931 as a memorial to Congressman Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the "Flying Colonel." It includes the boyhood home of the famous flyer, which contains many objects connected with his childhood.

Across the road from the residence is a large, wooded tract, available for picnic activities. A picnic shelter and kitchen, water system, comfort station and foot trails have been provided.

Fort Ridgely State Memorial Park is west of Trunk Highway No. 4, seven miles south of Fairfax. The park, created in 1911, consists of 224.8 acres and contains the site of Old Fort Ridgely, built in 1853, around which occurred some of the battles with the Sioux in 1862. The old fort commissary has been restored as a museum and meeting hall. The remnants of several other original fort structures are preserved. A rostrum, as well as two well developed picnic areas and a public golf course are maintained.

McCarthy Beach State Memorial Park was established in 1945, and comprises 135 acres of beautiful virgin pine timber lying between Side Lake and Sturgeon Lake about 20 miles north of Hibbing, Minnesota. This park is dedicated as a living memorial to those who made the supreme sacrifice for their country in World War II. The cities of Hibbing and Chisholm made substantial financial contributions to effect the establishment of this park. Developments include a modern tourist campground and a well equipped picnic ground with boat and bathing facilities.

Monson Lake State Memorial Park, commemorates the massacre of a white family in the Sioux uprising of 1862. The park is in Swift County about 25 miles from Benson and Willmar. This area of 198.95 acres was established in 1937. Picnic facilities include a shelter and kitchen building. Comfort station, well and parking space have been provided.

STATE RECREATIONAL RESERVES

Pomme De Terre State Recreational Reserve, 363.51 acres, established in 1937, is adjacent to Morris. A dam has been constructed across the Pomme de Terre River forming a lake. A bathing beach, bathhouse, picnic shelter, comfort station and well have been provided.

Schoolcraft State Recreational Reserve. This area of 192 acres in Cass County was established by the 1959 legislature—the topography is heavily rolling and the cover is primarily mature deciduous sprinkled with coniferous types. Picnic facilities with well water have been provided.

Split Rock Creek State Recreational Reserve, established 1937 one mile east of Ihlen in Pipestone County, contains 227.64 acres. A large portion of the area has been planted with deciduous trees to provide shaded public use areas. A dam across Split Rock Creek provides a small lake and the area is provided with picnic sites, swimming beach, bathhouse, and boat rental facilities.

Zippel Bay Recreation Reserve. Established by the 1959 legislature —2,289 acres of land in Lake of the Woods County with three miles of outstanding sand beach on Lake of the Woods. Limited development.

STATE SCENIC RESERVES

St. Croix Islands Scenic Reserve, established 1943, includes five heavily wooded islands in the St. Croix River immediately above the City of Stillwater in Washington County. These islands totalling 39.36 acres were dedicated primarily to preserve them for their scenic value to this beautiful recreational river. They are also stopping places for canoe and boat expeditions.

STATE WAYSIDES

Camp Release State Memorial Wayside, the oldest established state park area in Minnesota was purchased in 1889, includes 17.8 acres, west of Montevideo on U.S. Highway No. 212. A granite shaft commemorates the release, on September 26, 1862, of 269 prisoners to General Sibley. At the site stood the Sioux Village of Red Iron, friendly chief during the outbreak of 1862. A well, picnic tables and benches, and toilets have been provided.

Cross River Scenic Wayside. Established by the 1961 legislature— 600 acres in Cook County through which the scenic Cross River with its deep gorge and falls flows. Undeveloped.

Father Hennepin State Memorial Wayside, established in 1941, comprises 198 acres on the west side of Isle Bay, near the village of Isle, Minnesota. This area commemorates the capture of Father Louis Hennepin by the Indians who held him prisoner in the Mille Lacs region in 1680. He was released through the efforts of another famous explorer, DuLhut, in that same year. This episode occurred during the French control of this region. Developments provide for picnicking, tourist camping and boating.

Inspiration Peak State Scenic Wayside, 82 acres, was acquired in 1931. It is in Otter Tail County just north of the Douglas County line and west of Urbank. It embraces the highest peak in a large morainic formation known as the Leaf Mountain range, from the summit, 1,750 feet above sea level, there is a spectacular view. A small picnic ground has been developed with fireplaces, tables, water supply and toilets.

Joseph R. Brown State Memorial Wayside, three acres, was donated in 1937. The ruins of the Brown Mansion still exist on the site. Major Brown was an Indian Agent representing the Government in the middle 1800's and built the elaborately furnished mansion overlooking the Minnesota Valley seven miles south of Sacred Heart in Renville County. The house was burned during the first years of occupancy during the Indian uprising of 1862.

Old Crossing Treaty State Historical Wayside, established in 1931, comprising 111 acres on the Red Lake River near the village of Huot. The original 6 acre tract, dedicated in 1932, was the site of the Old Pembina Trail Ford where a peaceful Treaty negotiated with the Indians was signed which ceded to the United States the north half of the Red River Valley. An extensive acquisition was made in 1944 with funds raised by public subscription.

Oronoco State Scenic Wayside (105 acres) established 1937, is on Shady Lake near U. S. Highway No. 52, seven miles north of Rochester. The artificial lake is created by a dam which impounds water of the Zumbro River. The park provides facilities for picnickers.

Pine Tree State Park is a 31.55 acre area, located two miles west of Blackduck, Minnesota, on Blackduck Lake. An excellent stand of virgin white cedar is located in the park. Facilities are maintained for picnicking, camping and boat launching in this area.

Ray Berglund Memorial Wayside, is a 20 acre tract of land located on the north shore of Lake Superior, surrounding the mouth of the Onion River and its waterfalls. The land was acquired by a group of Mr. Berglund's friends, shortly after his death, and donated to the state to perpetuate his memory. Mr. Berglund was well known for his Conservation activities and the establishment of this Memorial Wayside is considered a most fitting tribute.

Sleepy Eye State Scenic Wayside, established 1921 of 40 acres, is at the edge of Sleepy Eye bordering a lake of the same name. The area is provided with facilities for picnicking.

Split Rock State Scenic Wayside, is an area of 35 acres, acquired in 1945 and located approximately 8 miles southwest of Beaver Bay on the shore of Lake Superior. It embraces a high rocky knoll, which affords an excellent panorama view of the rugged picturesque lakeshore and the famed Split Rock Lighthouse.

Toqua Lakes State Scenic Wayside comprises 40 acres located on the south side of East Toqua Lake near Graceville, Minnesota. A well, toilets and picnic facilities are maintained for public use.

STATE MONUMENTS

Acton State Monument was erected in 1909 to commemorate the spot where the first blood was shed in the Sioux uprising of 1862. It is on a one-tenth acre tract, four miles south of Grove City near State Highway No. 4.

Brook Park Monument was erected on October 11, 1915, on .25 acre in the Brook Park cemetery, adjacent to the village of the same name on State Highway 23 in Pine County. It commemorates the many who lost their lives in the Hinckley fire, and who are buried at the site, unidentifiable, individually.

Count Beltrami State Monument was established in 1945, to perpetuate the memory of one of the colorful early fur traders in the Red Lake area of Minnesota. A one-acre tract is designated at the site of the trading post established in 1823 by Count Beltrami, and which is on a height of land on the Continental Divide. Beltrami contended that the Lake Julia basin was the source of the Mississippi River. A suitable marker was erected.

Hinckley State Monument, established in 1899, is a granite shaft erected on one-tenth of an acre in Hinckley Cemetery along State Highway No. 48, in memory of a large number of people who lost their lives in the great forest fire of 1894.

Milford State Monument, established 1929, is on a one-acre tract three miles north of Essig. The monument was erected in memory of those who lost their lives in the Indian uprising of 1862 near that place.

Moose Lake State Monument is a granite shaft erected on one-tenth of an acre in Moose Lake cemetery in 1929, in memory of the 183 victims of the Moose Lake fire of 1918. The area adjoins the village of Moose Lake and U.S. Highway No. 61.

Sam Brown State Monument, established 1929, is on the west edge of the Browns Valley. On the one-acre tract is located the old log home of the Brown family, and beside the building stands a bronze placque in memory of Samuel Jerome Brown's ride on April 19, 1866, to warn the people of the frontier and Fort Sisseton of an Indian uprising. The old Brown cabin now serves as a museum, supported by the village of Browns Valley.

Schwandt State Monument was erected on a one-tenth acre tract in 1915, in memory of the Schwandt family who were murdered by the Sioux August 18, 1862. It overlooks the Minnesota River Valley 12 miles south of Renville on the old Minnesota Valley road.

Wood Lake State Monument, established 1907, is reached by traveling southeast from Granite Falls on State Highway No. 67 to the Rock Creek church and cemetery, thence one-quarter mile west. The monument is erected on a one-acre tract and commemorates the battle of Wood Lake, where on September 23, 1862, during the Sioux outbreak, Little Crow's warriors ambushed General Sibley's troops. Several of those who lost their lives in this battle, which broke the organized efforts of the Sioux at this point, are buried on this site.

MINNESOTA STATE FORESTS

In 1899 the state legislature authorized the establishment of state forests, or forest reserves, as they were called at that time. The first state forest was established the same year and was named the Pillsbury Forest. In subsequent years new state forests were established and existing forests were enlarged. There are now 36 state forests, with a net area of 7,001,125 acres, of which 2,209,120 acres are state-owned. These forests are scattered throughout the northern two-thirds of the state, and along the Mississippi River to the Iowa border.

Beltrami Island State Forest, comprising a net land area of 479,625 acres, lies in west central Lake of the Woods, east central Roseau, and northwestern Beltrami counties, near the Canadian boundary, of which 319,563 acres are state-owned. It is representative in a general way of a considerable portion of the northern lake states as it alternates between large level areas of peat swamp with or without tree growth and islands or ridges of jack pine sand capable of producing excellent crops of various kinds of timber, but particularly adapted to the growth of Norway and jack pine.

Blackduck State Forest, with a net land area of 85,635 acres, of which 5,724 acres are state-owned lands, lies in northern Beltrami county. Within this forest there are numerous lakes and streams and fairly rugged topography. On the whole, however, the soil is suitable for agricultural use. There are so many roads, farms and resorts now within the area that it will never be of major importance as a state forest.

Bowstring State Forest, 409,245 acres in area, of which 119,742 acres are state-owned land, is situated in Cass, Beltrami and Itasca counties. It consists of state-owned lands located within the boundaries of the original Chippewa National Forest and in several townships adjoining it on the east. The area as a whole is gently rolling with numerous lakes and streams. The state forest land proper averages more than 50 per cent swamp. The soil is rather sandy and not adapted to agricultural use. The lakes are very good and most of them have good sand beaches. Two large lakes, Winnibigoshish and Leach, are partly or wholly within the area.

Buena Vista State Forest, having a net land area of 69,849 acres, of which 8,087 acres are state owned, is located in central Beltrami county, immediately south of the Blackduck Forest and has many of the same characteristics. Topography varies from comparatively level jack pine flats in the southwest portion to extremely rolling, hilly country in the northeast. Within the area there are many lakes and streams both large and small which make attractive possibilities for recreational development. It is by no means a primitive forest as there are numerous roads throughout the whole area.

Burntside State Forest, with a net land area of 19,989 acres, wholly state-owned, is situated in northeastern St. Louis county. The entire area is extremely rough with a great deal of rock outcrop. There are numerous lakes and streams but no soil suitable for farming. Some small swamps occupy a portion of the area but for the most part it is a series of lakes, ridges and streams. The 20,000 acres making up the Burntside Forest was a special grant from the federal government to the State of Minnesota to be used for forestry purposes. At the time the grant was made the area was almost bare of tree growth and apparently had no value. Since the establishment of the forest the chief aim has been to produce a crop of timber which at the same time would enhance the recreational value. This has largely been accomplished at the present time, partially through planting as early as 1913 and 1914 but mostly through natural regeneration.

Chengwatana State Forest. The name Chengwatana is of Indian origin and is interpreted to mean "the lake through which a river flows." The name was applied to the area surrounding the lake principally to the east, and was finally accepted as the name of a township in Pine County, which is a part of the area of the forest. The net land area of the forest is 15,464 acres, lying entirely within Pine County.

11,236 acres are state-owned. The Kettle River is the principal eastern boundary of the forest and the topography varies, being hilly, with potholes and swamps throughout. The forest cover types are of poor secondary species. Its original crop was logged off a number of years ago. The area abounds in game and possibly as much as 85 per cent of the area is in public ownership.

Cloquet Valley State Forest has a net land area of 300,881 acres, of which 25,640 acres are state-owned, and lies in southeastern St. Louis County. It has almost all manner of topography. As the soil varies from a light pack pine sand in some locations to a heavy red clay in others, the second growth timber which now covers most of the area varies considerably according to the type of soil. On the whole aspen and jack pine predominate. There are numerous rivers and lakes within the forest.

Crow Wing State Forest, with a net land area of 95,200 acres, of which 4,310 acres are state-owned, lies within Crow Wing County. The topography varies from flat to extremely hilly. The soil is mostly of a sandy nature with a forest cover of mixed hardwoods and conifers in varying degrees of density. There are many lakes both large and small and the area has one of the heaviest resort populations of any place in the state.

D.A.R. Memorial State Forest. The extent of this forest, located in Pine County, is only 240 acres. It was established primarily as a memorial to Daughters of the American Revolution. The location, approximately one hundred miles north of the Twin Cities, makes it possible to gradually plant the whole area to native conifers.

Finland State Forest, having a net land area of 148,680 acres, of which 20,113 acres are state-owned, is in eastern Lake County. The topography of this forest is as nearly mountainous as is found in Minnesota, except perhaps in the extreme eastern portion of Cook County. There are numerous streams and many lakes, the streams being particularly attractive because of the series of falls existing on almost all of them. In many places the streams have cut deep gorges through the solid rock giving the effect of minor canyons.

Fond du Lac State Forest has a net land area of 71,480 acres, 40,802 acres of which are state-owned, and is located in St. Louis and Carlton counties. The topography is flat to rolling with only a relatively small number of lakes and streams of no importance. Much of the land is peat swamp covered by a growth of spruce. The timber is mostly second growth which is now becoming merchantable. It is valuable because of its nearness to Duluth and the wood using industries in Cloquet.

Foot Hills State Forest, with a net land area of 192,200 acres, 18,242 acres being state-owned, lies within Cass, Hubbard and Wadena counties. For the most part this forest is extremely hilly and once carried a heavy stand of Norway and white pine. There are several streams, which have some value for trout fishing. In certain parts of the forest, where fires have been controlled, there is good second growth of mixed conifers and hardwoods.

General C. C. Andrews State Forest. This forest, with a net land area of 8,325 acres of which 4,260 acres are state-owned, surrounds the state forest nursery of the same name. It is located in northern Pine County. Its chief purpose and value is for experimental planting in connection with the nursery and timber production in general. The soil is sandy and of low value for agriculture.

George Washington State Forest, containing a net land area of 352,840 acres, of which 100,285 acres are state-owned, lies in Itasca and St. Louis counties. The topography varies from flat spruce swamps and jack pine sand flats to rolling an even hilly country in the north and southwest. Most of the forest has been logged at one time or another. The forest is a mixture of all species with Norway pine predominating in virgin stands. The area contains numerous lakes of exceptional scenic beauty.

Golden Anniversary State Forest contains 260 acres and is located in Itasca County. It was established in 1961 to commemorate the golden anniversary of the Division of Forestry. The forest contains all age classes of the Norway pine, Minnesota's official state tree.

Grand Portage State Forest, with a net land area of 99,516 acres, 29,908 being state-owned, is located in Cook County. It has the roughest topography of any region in the state of Minnesota. The northern part of it has several lakes which in part are surrounded by precipitous cliffs from three to five hundred feet in height.

Kabetogama State Forest, covering a net land area of 717,885 acres, of which 166,997 are state-owned, lies in northern St. Louis County. The area is characterized by extremely rugged topography with much outcrop and a number of large lakes, some small lakes and numerous rivers and creeks. A large part of the area was originally covered by a stand of Norway and white pine with a large mixture of white spruce, cedar, balsam, birch, and in the lower areas pure stands of black spruce. There are comparatively few roads in the area, giving it a wilderness character which probably will prevail for many years to come. On the northeast the forest adjoins the Canadian boundary.

Koochiching State Forest, having a net land area of 208,071 acres, of which 156,388 acres are state-owned, lies in Koochiching County. It is characterized by a relatively flat topography with enormously large peat swamps covered in part by spruce swamps and in part by spruce forests of good merchantable quality. The area has been relatively inaccessible until in recent years and consequently much virgin timber remains. This is gradually being changed through selective logging and the construction of administrative roads. There are a few streams in the area but no lakes.

Land O' Lakes State Forest, with a net land area of 129,507 acres, of which 9,978 acres are state-owned, lies within Cass County. The topography is very hilly. There are numerous lakes, no large rivers but a number of smaller streams. The whole area was logged many years ago and a forest cover of mixed conifers and hardwoods has again become established.

Mille Lacs State Forest, with a net land area of 27,620 acres, of which 9,620 acres are state-owned, is situated in Aitkin County. Much of it is relatively flat and swampy and although it lies on the north shore of Mille Lacs Lake there is very little resort development. The forest as a whole is almost worthless for agriculture and only fair for the production of timber. Its chief value is for game cover and as a water reservoir.

Minnesota Memorial Hardwood State Forest embraces an area of about 200,000 acres in the counties of Dakota, Goodhue, Wabasha, Winona, Houston, Fillmore and Olmsted. It is an area of scenic beauty along the wooded blufflands bordering the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

Minnesota State Forest has a net land area of 1,619,769 acres, of which 187,174 acres are state-owned, and lies in Lake, Cook and St. Louis counties. This forest is located within a certain part of the Superior National Forest. The area lies between the Kabetogama State Forest and the Grand Portage and has most of the characteristics of these two. The topography is extremely rough and in some portions is mountainous. There are numerous large lakes and streams. The forest lies along the international boundary. These boundary forests are interesting inasmuch as this was the route used by the old voyageurs coming from Lake Superior and going westward into the interior of the continent. Within the forest are primitive areas many miles in extent which are accessible only by foot or canoe.

Mississippi Headwaters State Forest, having a net land area of 87,810 acres of which 8,200 acres are state-owned, lies in Hubbard, Clearwater and Beltrami counties. The topography of this forest is rolling to hilly. The Mississippi River which rises in Lake Itasca a short distance south of the forest, meanders north and northeasterly through the forest. The roughest topography is found along this river. There is a fairly large number of lakes and streams within this territory.

Nemadji State Forest, located in Pine and Carlton counties, contains 150,537 acres, of which 59,646 acres are state-owned. The topography varies considerably within the forest from level to extremely hilly with a great many boulders throughout almost the whole area. The soil for the most part is a heavy clay, although it verges on the jack pine sand type in some locations. The lakes are not very numerous but there are excellent small streams. The original forest was mostly white pine but this was all removed a great many years ago.

Northwest Angle State Forest contains 79,276 acres and is located in Lake of the Woods County, 11,199 acres are state-owned. The topography varies from level swamps to rolling country. A portion of the Angle was cut over during the past twenty years but much of it remains in its original state. There are a few lakes in this forest, but no roads whatsoever. Because of the primitive condition of the forest, fishing and hunting are particularly attractive. There are a great many moose, deer and bear in the forest. The possibility of nature and wildlife study is of the best.

Paul Bunyan State Forest, containing 146,970 acres, of which 58,977 acres are state-owned, lies within Hubbard County. The topography is extremely hilly with consistent irregularity to the arrangement of the hills. The soil is rather heavy, with numerous large boulders. There is a considerable number of lakes and several streams, all of which have recreational possibilities. The original stand of timber was mostly white and Norway pine but this through logging and repeated fires has been removed and replaced with aspen stands. A small portion on the west and northwest has re-established to jack pine of good quality.

Pillsbury State Forest, comprising 45,367 acres, of which 3,222 acres are state-owned, lies in Cass County. The topography is very hilly except in the extreme southwestern portion of the forest. In parts there are well stocked stands of jack pine, Norway pine, poplar and birch. The area adjoins Gull Lake, which is one of the most highly developed private recreational areas in the state.

Pine Island State Forest, located in Koochiching and Beltrami counties, has an area of 586,968 acres, of which 477,803 acres are state-owned. The topography is flat. There are several streams but no lakes. The strange characteristic is that the land adjoining the streams is somewhat higher than that farther back. According to geologists, it is part of the location of the glacial Lake Agassiz. Some of the area is still covered with virgin timber. This consists primarily of the so-called swamp species, spruce, tamarack and cedar. On the deep peat areas the tree growth is entirely stagnant and suitable only for Christmas trees.

Rum River State Forest, with a net land area of 55,124 acres, of which 4,324 acres are state-owned, is located in Mille Lacs and Kanabec counties. The topography is rather hilly and the soil predominantly heavy, containing a good many boulders. There are numerous lakes and rivers within the area and it has many roads and trails. The tree growth on most of the forest is very scattered.

Sand Dunes State Forest contains 10,698 acres of which 3,718 acres are state-owned. It is located in Sherburne County about fifty miles from the Twin Cities. Most of it has been farmed at one time but as the soil is composed of almost sterile sand, farming was a losing venture. The nature of the sand is such that it actually drifts like snow and forms sand dunes. Trees will grow on this sand and eventually tie down the sand and furnish timber and recreation.

Savanna State Forest has a net land area of 299,900 acres, of which 182,799 acres are state-owned, and lies within Aitkin County. The topography varies from comparatively large areas of flat peat swamps to rolling areas of jack pine and hilly areas of comparatively heavy soil. The Mississippi River bounds it on the west and a well known recreational area surrounding Big Sandy Lake takes in a large portion of the southwest part of the forest. There are a number of other good lakes and several streams within the area. The original forest cover which was predominantly white pine was cut off quite a few years ago. In many places the second growth timber is now mature and consists of many different varieties, with aspen predominating.

Smoky Hills State Forest has a net land area of 96,004 acres, of which 10,782 are state-owned, and lies within Becker County. The topography is rough with fairly heavy soil. There are quite a number of large and small lakes of considerable scenic value. The area was logged many years ago and has been restocked with a variety of tree species, with aspen predominating. There are some peat swamps with fair stands of tamarack.

St. Croix State Forest, having a net land area of 78,282 acres, of which 23,335 acres are state-owned, is located in Pine County. Most of this forest has a sandy soil, varying from pure sand to a sandy loam. The original forest was predominantly white and Norway pine. Some of the area was cleared and cultivated for agriculture and much has been burned over due to various causes. Some areas of good second growth jack pine occur, which indicates that under management the forest is capable of producing a good volume of timber. It has a high value as a game producing area.

Third River State Forest, with a net land area of 45,416 acres, of which 22,812 acres are state-owned, lies within Itasca County. The topography is rolling, with numerous lakes and streams. A considerable quantity of virgin timber, primarily white and Norway pine, can still be found, although most of the area is covered with a second growth of mixed species, predominantly aspen.

White Earth State Forest has a net land area of 193,510 acres, of which 25,514 acres are state-owned, and is located in Mahnomen, Clearwater and Becker counties. The topography is rolling to very hilly, with numerous lakes scattered throughout the area. The hills in the eastern part of the forest constitute the watershed which supplies much of the water for the source of the Mississippi. Towards the west the same hills are the source of several large drainage systems. Originally much of the area was covered by excellent stands of Norway and white pine. This has all been logged, however, and has been replaced by second growth which is predominantly poplar, with excellent stands of white, Norway and jack pine. Some of the lakes have excellent recreational possibilities.

White Pine State Forest is located in Aitkin County. It has a net land area of 73,242 acres of which 58,491 acres are state-owned. The topography is flat to gently rolling. Much of it is peat bogs, interspersed with low sand ridges. All the merchantable timber was logged at one time, but on the best highland a second crop of timber is now maturing.

In addition to these state forests, state lands totalling 837,756 acres were reserved from sale and set aside as state forest lands by order of the Commissioner of Conservation in 1959. These lands are located in the 16 forest counties of the northern part of Minnesota.

Many of Minnesota's State Parks and Forests provide beautiful natural settings for canoeing and other forms of boating

Fifty-seven of the eighty-seven counties in Minnesota were established during the Territorial period before May 11, 1858. Fourteen were established between that date and 1869. Seven, namely, Swift, Lac qui Parle, Yellow Medicine, Lincoln, Cook, Kittson and Marshall Counties, during the next ten years. Nine, Norman, Hubbard, Roseau, Red Lake, Clearwater, Koochiching, Mahnomen, Pennington, and Lake of the Woods, have since been added to the list by proclamation.

COUNTY GOVERNMENT IN MINNESOTA

by Edward A. Howe, former staff member,
Department of Political Science, University of Minnesota

Minnesota's counties, which number 87, cover the entire area of the state since no unorganized counties are present. They represent a rather typical cross section of counties in the United States ranging from Ramsey County's 160 square miles to St. Louis County's 6,281 square miles. Their population ranges from 3,377 people in Cook County to 842,854 in Hennepin County. The assessed valuation of property ranges from Lake of the Woods County's $1,403,282 to Hennepin's $622,132,671.

Creation; Change of boundaries, name, county seat

New counties may be established today out of the territory of one or more existing counties. The statutes provide that no new county may be established which will have at the time of its organization less than 400 square miles of territory, 2000 inhabitants, and an assessed valuation of $4,000,000, nor shall any existing county be reduced in size, population, or valuation below these limits. It is further provided that in counties having more than 2,500 square miles of territory, no territory shall be detached within twelve miles of the county seat. The latter provision affects Beltrami, Itasca, Koochiching, and St. Louis Counties.

Action to establish a new county must be initiated by the circulation of a petition (a separate petition for each county affected) which must be signed by a number of qualified voters equal to one-fourth the number voting in the county at the last general election. The proposition to establish a new county is carried when a majority of the votes cast in each of the existing counties affected, as well as in the proposed new territory, are in favor of it.

Changes in county boundaries, in the location of the county seat, and the consolidation of two or more counties may be made by a similar procedure, the vote required being a majority for the adoption of a change in boundaries and county seat location and 60 percent of the votes cast at the last general election for the adoption of consolidation.

The change of a county's name may be accomplished by petitioning the county board. No election is required.

The Dual Role of Counties

The primary purpose for which counties were established was to act as local agents of the state. Since a county can acquire and hold property, enter into contracts, sue and be sued, maintain a corporate seal, it is deemed, in a sense, a corporation and commonly referred to as a quasi-corporation. However, it is not a true municipal corporation since it has no charter. In the exercise of ordinary governmental functions it is (under the law) simply an agent of the state and as such is subject to unlimited control by the state. Functions which are carried out by counties and their officers principally as officers of the state include: (1) the enforcement of the ordinary civil and criminal laws of the state (through the sheriff, county attorney, coroner, and the courts—district, probate, and justice of the peace); (2) the collection of state and local taxes and the equalization of assessments—through the county assessor or supervisor of assessments, the county board (serving as the board of equalization), the auditor, and the treasurer; (3) the conduct of state elections within the county (through the county auditor); (4) the registration of titles and other legal documents (by the register of deeds); (5) superintending the schools (whose districts do not have an appointed superintendent)—through the county superintendent; (6) the construction and maintenance of county highways (through the county board and its appointee, the highway engineer); (7) providing assistance for the aged, dependent children, the blind, the disabled, and the mentally ill and retarded (through the county welfare board and its executive secretary). Thus, the more important functions of the county are performed by its officers as agents of the state.

However, this is not to say that counties are merely administrative districts of state government. Despite the fact that they were created primarily to serve as such, they have always been recognized as units of local government with a good degree of autonomy. This is true because of several factors. First, in addition to the services that counties are required to perform there are others which are optional. Some of these optional functions relate to county highways (their establishment, abandonment, maintenance, etc); the establishment of county libraries, hospitals, nursing homes, sanatoria, recreational areas; zoning; the support of county agricultural societies; and the improvement and control of access to navigable waters. In total, the list of permissive functions is a long one and is ever growing. New activities are added at a more rapid rate each decade. Some argue that even these optional functions are performed by the county as an agent of the state. In one sense this is true, but the important point is that these functions are not required of the county. They are authorized in permissive language and are freely taken on by the county after deliberation by the local representative body, the county board.

A second factor which points up the county's role as a unit of local self-government is that even in respect to their performance of the mandatory functions counties are allowed a considerable degree of discretion. In fact, this discretion often amounts to a determination of what is done.

Thirdly, county officials are chosen locally, many of them by popular election. As a result, these officials tend to reflect the sentiments of the locality more than they do the sentiments of those more distant—those officials at the state level, for example.

Finally, within the limits established by the state constitution and statutes, and after having made at least minimum provision for all required services, the county establishes its own tax rate. So it is that despite the limitations and controls imposed by the state, the county enjoys a great measure of self-government. In a very real sense its role can be said to be a dual one.

Structure of County Government

The basic structure of county government originated in the nineteenth century and consists of a board of commissioners composed of five members elected from separate districts (except for Ramsey and St. Louis counties which have six and seven respectively), as well as an auditor, treasurer, register of deeds, sheriff, attorney, clerk of court, coroner, superintendent of schools, surveyor, court commissioner, and probate judge. All officers, including the county commissioners, serve four year terms save one—the probate judge has a six year term.

All are nominated and elected without party designation at the state primary and general elections held in even-numbered years. Any voter may seek election to a county office except that of probate judge. To become a candidate for probate judge one must be "learned in the law." Each candidate for a county office must pay a fee of $20 and file an affidavit of candidacy with the county auditor during the statutory filing period.

The board of commissioners is, in effect, a board of directors for the county. The powers of the county as a body politic may be exercised only by the county board. The legislative power of the board, rather rigidly circumscribed by the state, includes the power to appropriate funds, borrow money, and levy taxes. However, administration constitutes a much more important phase of the work of the county board. These duties include the letting of contracts, controlling the expenditure of funds, appointing employees for departments under its jurisdiction, and being directly responsible for road construction and maintenance and for public assistance. In short, the county board is the principal and central governing authority of the county.

It must not be thought, however, that the county board has direct and complete authority over all county officers. The elective officers mentioned earlier have their powers, duties, and salaries set by state law. The county board does not have the power to reduce their salaries or to remove them from office. The board cannot force them to coordinate their work. Only the governor and the courts possess any effective power over them—this power being the power to remove them from office.

On the other hand, the county board does have a measure of control over the functions and duties of those officials it appoints, although they too are governed to a degree by state law and by the other boards and committees of the county which supervise their activities. Among the officials which most counties are authorized by statute to appoint are a highway engineer, a county assessor or supervisor of assessments, a weed inspector, a health officer, a veterans affairs service officer, a public health nurse, a welfare executive secretary, and different types of county extension agents.

The county board also appoints certain boards and committees. They include a board of health, a public health nursing advisory committee, a county agricultural extension committee, and a county welfare board. These boards and committees exercise some supervision over the functions they are concerned with and help coordinate the agencies of government and the private groups involved in the activity concerned. Much more control over these boards and commissions, as well as over the appointed officers mentioned above, is possessed by the county board than it has over the elective officers.

At its first meeting annually the board of commissioners selects a chairman. His duties include presiding at board meetings and signing (with the county auditor) all legal documents, deeds, vouchers, and contracts. It is safe to say that generally he exercises a strong influence in county affairs.

Because of the limitation of space a description of the functions and duties of all county officers will not be possible. Suffice it to say that in almost all cases their functions and duties are suggested to a considerable degree by their titles. There is, however, one officer of such particular significance that his position must be spelled out just a bit. This officer is the county auditor. Because of the fact that he is on the job every day (as contrasted with the commissioners who meet periodically), is the secretary of the governing body, and is the chief fiscal officer of the county the auditor tends to become the focal point of county administration. In addition, he is the county election officer and is close to the governing body in matters of tax equalization. The result is that the auditor tends to be the county board's chief advisor on general county matters. Indeed, he tends to be an officer of great importance and influence in the county.

The Court System in the County

The court of general jurisdiction in Minnesota is the district court. There are ten districts in the state and 64 judges who are elected by districts. District court judges handle all civil and criminal matters in the first instance except for the more petty offenses which are handled by the minor courts. Probate court is held in the county seat in each county. A district court clerk (who handles the local clerical matters for the court), a county attorney (who handles prosecutions), and a coroner (who holds inquests) are elected. In addition to their judicial functions the district court judges, the clerk of court, and the county attorney have non-judicial responsibilities. For example, the district judges appoint charter commissions for home rule cities, the clerk has many general recording functions (relating to births, deaths, and coroner's inquests), the attorney advises the county board and other county officers.

The court commissioner, elected in most counties, acts as a master for the district court and has the power of the district court in chambers. Each county elects a probate judge who handles the usual probate and juvenile court work in most instances.

County Finance

Brief mention of county finance is in order. Property taxes and state-aid account for almost all of county government revenue. In recent years they have made up nearly 90 percent of all revenue, 50 percent coming from the property tax. The major portion of state-aid is granted to counties for road construction and maintenance and for public welfare. In terms of expenditures, the most important are made for welfare and for roads. Together they amount to approximately two-thirds of all county expenditures.

Conclusion

As communication and transportation improved, there were grave predictions that the county as a unit of government was doomed, that the county seat was a horse-and-buggy center. There was talk of joining counties together in regions and abolishing certain traditional functions. Actually, the county in Minnesota is beginning to earn new prestige. It is found by some to be admirably suited to certain kinds of administration such as health, witness the 1963 legislature's passage of a bill putting the services of Minneapolis General Hospital on a county-wide basis. The county is small enough for such health agencies to reach their clients, the people, and large enough to permit adequate specialization.

Accompanying this increase in prestige has been an increase in the recognition of the need for more self-government. This recognition is nowhere better evidenced than by a 1961 legislative interim commission on county and township problems which expressed (in a final report) its feeling that "just as cities have the right to frame their own charters, so counties could very well make use of this power." To suggest that a local governmental unit be granted its own "constitution" is, indeed, to bestow a great deal of recognition upon the principle of local self-government.

MINNESOTA'S MUNICIPALITIES

Cities

Minnesota's 109 cities have been organized and operate under home rule charters, general laws, or special laws. As of July 1963 there were ninety operating under home rule charters, a charter being the basic law or "constitution" of a city which increases the city's power to govern itself even though it ultimately remains an agent of the state. The remaining 19 cities were operating under either general or special laws.

For the purpose of enacting legislation affecting them, cities are divided into four classes based upon population. These classes are: Cities of the First Class—over 100,000 inhabitants; Cities of the Second Class—20,000 to 100,000 inhabitants; Cities of the Third Class—10,000 to 20,000 inhabitants; Cities of the Fourth Class—under 10,000 inhabitants. Only three cities qualify as Cities of the First Class—Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth.

Of the 90 cities operating under home rule charters, which permit them to adopt a form of government particularly suited to them, 65 employed the weak mayor-council form, three the strong mayor-council form, four the commission form, and 18 the council-manager form.

Although there is not strict uniformity of plan among cities employing the same form of government certain general outlines are evident.

In general, the weak mayor-council form provides for a city council of comparatively large size whose members are elected by wards. The council possesses both legislative and administrative powers. As the local legislative body it passes ordinances and resolutions. Its administrative powers include a rather extensive appointing power—most important appointments are made by the council.

The mayor is elected separately and frequently has little more power than to appoint the chief of police, although some cities permit him to appoint members of the park and library boards. The mayor generally has the power to veto ordinances passed by the council but they may be repassed over his veto and thus be made operative.

One or more elective officers as well as a few independent boards and commissions are usually found in a weak mayor-council city. Each owes little responsibility to the mayor or council.

Under the strong mayor-council form of government an attempt is made to separate the legislative branch from the administrative. The powers of the council are limited primarily to the legislative powers (passing ordinances, resolutions, and determining policies). The council is usually small and elected at large.

The mayor is elected as the chief executive officer whose duty is to carry on the administrative functions of the city's government. He prepares the budget for council approval and possesses extensive appointive powers. He also has veto authority.

The commission form of government provides for a small council which possesses both the legislative and administrative powers of the city government. Council members are elected at large and are called commissioners. The legislative function is carried out by the commissioners meeting as a body. The administrative function is carried out by each commissioner acting separately as the head of a particular administrative department. Usually, there is a mayor with no veto or appointive authority.

The council-manager form provides the city council with full control of the legislative power while requiring the administrative work to be done under the direction of a city manager. The manager is appointed by the council. He has the authority to appoint the administrative department heads, to prepare the budget, and to assume general responsibility for the administration of the city's governmental functions. The manager is responsible to the council for all that is done and may be removed by the council at any time.

Villages

All of Minnesota's 738 villages operate under the village code adopted by the legislature in 1949. The code provides for four types of village government: the Standard Plan, a weak mayor-council arrangement (employed by 649 villages); Optional Plan A, a modified weak mayor-council plan (employed by 83 villages); Optional Plan B, a council-manager plan (used by 6 villages); Optional Plan C, the Commission Plan (which no village has adopted).

The Standard Plan is built around a council of five members consisting of the mayor, clerk and three trustees. All of these officials are elected (as is the treasurer). The assessor is appointed. As council members, the mayor and clerk have the same powers and duties as the trustees. In addition they have their own special duties. The council possesses all legislative and administrative powers for the village. All village administrative personnel are directly accountable to it. Thus, for example, the village council alone is responsible for the direction of such administrative employees as the police chief or marshal, the liquor store manager, and a street or water superintendent.

The village council does have authority to delegate certain of its functions to appointed administrative boards such as utilities commissions, civil service commissions, and library boards. These then have direct responsibility for the administration of the programs within the scope of their responsibility. In addition, advisory boards, such as a planning commission, may be established to conduct studies and make recommendations to the council.

Optional Plan A makes two simple changes in standard plan village organization. One of its distinctive features is that it removes the village clerk from the council and replaces him with a fourth elected trustee. Another is that the clerk and treasurer as well as the assessor, where the village has a separate assessor, are appointed by the council for indefinite terms of office. The duties of these three appointed officers remain the same under plan A as they are under the standard plan except that the clerk is not a council member and cannot vote or otherwise participate in council meetings.

Plan B of village government is the orthodox council-manager plan. As in all other optional plan villages, the elected village council in a plan B village consists of a mayor and four trustees. Responsibility for policy decisions and legislative activities remains with the village council, but administrative duties are delegated to a village manager appointed by the council for an indefinite term. The manager, in turn, is strictly accountable to the council for the effective administration of the village business and must follow all council policies and directions.

Optional Plan B also provides for an appointed clerk and treasurer as well as such other officers (including the assessor) subordinate to the village manager as the council may create by ordinance. The manager also appoints the attorney, but this particular appointment is unique in that it must be confirmed by the council. In the performance of their duties, the clerk-treasurer and assessor are subject to the direction of the village manager, but their functions are the same as the duties given to these officials by the laws applying to villages generally. In addition, the council may give them additional duties. In fact, the council is authorized to abolish or combine positions, including these offices, as it deems fit. It may also direct the manager to perform the duties of any of the various offices except that of treasurer. Thus the positions of clerk and manager may, for example, be combined and held by one man.

Optional Plan B abolishes all independent administrative boards and commissions, except for a civil service commission if there is one. The council itself assumes the functions of these boards. The council may, however, establish advisory boards or commissions to study any municipal function or to investigate any subject of interest to the village.

Under Plan C, all legislative and executive powers of the village are vested in a five-man council which, in turn, consists of an elected mayor and four elected trustees or commissioners. Its structure and functions are similar to those under the commission form of city government.

The only remaining borough, Belle Plaine, has a form of government very similar to the government in a standard plan village.

Townships

The state is divided into townships, the common dimensions being 6 miles square. The annual town meeting, which is held on the second Tuesday of March, is the important political event in town government. At this meeting town officers are elected, the tax levy for town purposes is set, and decisions are made regarding the expenditure of town funds (for town road maintenance, fire protection, safe-guarding the public health, morals, safety, etc.).

Officers elected include the three supervisors who make up the town board, one of whom is elected each year for a three year term, as well as the town treasurer, clerk, assessor, two justices of the peace, and two constables. All but the supervisors have two year terms. If other town officers (such as a road overseer or weed inspector) have been authorized by the town meeting, they may be elected at the annual meeting also.

MINNESOTA CITIES, VILLAGES AND POST OFFICES*

Column 1

□ Cities

○ Post Offices

County seats shown in capital letters

Column 3

Population as of 1960

Column 4

The symbols used in this column have the following meaning:

SM: Strong mayor-council plan

CM: City manager plan

Com: Commission plan

MC: (Weak) Mayor-council plan—in the case of villages, the standard plan

A: Plan A village

B: Council-manager village

Column 5

Where only a date is given opposite the name of a city, the city operates under a home rule charter adopted or revised in the year specified. In the case of the other cities, the reference is to the general or special act under which the city operates. In the case of villages, the reference is to the date of incorporation or adoption of an optional plan.

Column 6

In this column, a 1 appearing after the election date or letter means that the city holds its regular election in the odd numbered year, and 2 means that the election is held in the even numbered year. N indicates an election on the 1st Tuesday after the 1st Monday in November, and D indicates an election on the first Tuesday after the 1st Monday in December. All elections are annual unless otherwise noted. T indicates Tuesday and Th indicates Thursday.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a congress of the United States, which shall consist of a senate and a house of representatives.

SEC. 2. The house of representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several states, and the electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature.

No person shall be a representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every 30,000, but each state shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose 3; Massachusetts, 8; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, 1; Connecticut, 5; New York 6; New Jersey, 4; Pennsylvania, 8; Delaware, 1; Maryland, 6; Virginia, 10; North Carolina, 5; South Carolina, 5; Georgia, 3.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any state the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

*SEC. 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided, as equally as may be, into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year. *When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the Senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that state for which he shall be chosen.

The vice president of the United States shall be president of the senate, but shall have no vote unless they be equally divided.

The senate shall choose their own officers, and also a president pro tempore, in the absence of the vice president, or when he shall exercise the office of president of the United States.

The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments.

When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the president of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment, and punishment according to law.

SEC. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meetings shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall, by law, appoint a different day.

SEC. 5. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same; excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SEC. 6. The senators and representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall, in all cases except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SEC. 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives, but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the president of the United States; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and, if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the president within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return; in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the president of the United States, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SEC. 8. The Congress shall have power:

To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform through the United States;

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and with the Indian tribes;

To establish a uniform rule of naturalization and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

To coin money, regulate the value thereof and of foreign coins, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

To establish postoffices and postroads;

To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times, to authors and inventors, the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;

To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court;

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses, against the laws of nations;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

To raise and support armies; but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

To provide and maintain a navy;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;

To provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the Service of the United States, reserving to the states, respectively, the appointment of the officers and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress;

To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States; and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the state in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock yards, and other needful buildings; and

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SEC. 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight; but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when, in case of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder, or ex post facto law, shall be passed.

No capitation or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any state.

No preference shall be given, by any regulation of commerce or revenue, to the ports of one state over those of another; nor shall vessels bound to or from one state be obliged to enter, clear or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States, and no person holding any office of profit and trust under them shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office or title of any kind whatever, from any king, prince or foreign state.

SEC. 10. No state shall enter into any treaty, alliance or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts laid by any state on imports or exports shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another state or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION 1. The executive power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice president, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the Congress but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

[The electors shall meet in their respective states, and by vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates; and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be appointed, if such a number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose, by ballot, one of them for president; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said house shall, in like manner, choose the president. But in choosing the president the vote shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states, and a majority of all states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the vice president.]*

The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of president; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the president from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of said office, the same shall devolve on the vice president; and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the president and vice president, declaring what officer shall then act as president, and such officer shall act accordingly until the disability be removed, or a president shall be elected.

The president shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

SEC. 2. The president shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several states, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur, and he shall nominate and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the Congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the president alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The president shall have power to fill all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SEC. 3. He shall, from time to time, give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. He may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers. He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

SEC. 4. The president, vice president, and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for and conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION 1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one supreme court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may, from time to time, ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SEC. 2. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more states, between a state and citizens of another state, between citizens of different states, between citizens of the same state claiming lands under grants of different states, and between a state or the citizens thereof and foreign states, citizens or subjects.*

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be a party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the state where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any state, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

SEC. 3. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attained.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each state to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other state. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SEC. 2. The citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens of the several states.

A person charged in any state with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another state, shall on demand of the executive authority of the state from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime.

No person held to service or labor in one state under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SEC. 3. New states may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state, nor any state be formed by the junction of two or more states or parts of states, without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned, as well as of the Congress.

The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States, and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States or of any particular state.

SEC. 4. The United States shall guarantee to every state in the Union a republican form of government; and shall protect each of them against invasion, and, on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress; provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no state, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

All debts contracted and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution, as under the confederation.

This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land, and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several state legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several states, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution, but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the conventions of nine states shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the states so ratifying the same.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION

In addition to, and amendment of, the Constitution of the United States of America, proposed by Congress and ratified by the Legislatures of the several states, pursuant to the fifth article of the original Constitution.

AMENDMENT I.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, or to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

AMENDMENT II.

A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

AMENDMENT III.

No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

AMENDMENT IV.

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized.

AMENDMENT V.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service, in time of war and public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be witness against himself; nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation.

AMENDMENT VI.

In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor; and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

AMENDMENT VII.

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any court in the United States than according to the rules of the common law.

AMENDMENT VIII.

AMENDMENT IX.

The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

AMENDMENT X.

The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states, respectively, or to the people.

AMENDMENT XI

The judicial power of the United States shall not be construed to extend to any suit in law or equity, commenced or prosecuted against one of the United States by citizens of another state, or by citizens or subjects of any foreign state.

AMENDMENT XII.

The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for president and vice president, one of whom at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as president, and in distinct ballot the person voted for as vice president; and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as president and of all persons voted for as vice president, and of the number of votes for each; which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate; the president of the senate shall, in presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted; the person having the greatest number of votes for president shall be the president; if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers, not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as president, the house of representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the president. But in choosing the president the vote shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the states; and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. And if the house of representatives shall not choose a president whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the vice president shall act as president, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the president.

The person having the greatest number of votes as vice president shall be the vice president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then, from the two highest numbers on the list, the senate shall choose the vice president; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice.

But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of president shall be eligible to that of vice president of the United States.

AMENDMENT XIII.

SECTION 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

SEC. 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

AMENDMENT XIV.

SECTION 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

SEC. 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several states according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each state, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for president and vice president of the United States, representatives in Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a state, or the members of the legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such state, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such state.

SEC. 3. No person shall be a senator or representative in Congress or elector of president and vice president, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any state, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any state legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any state, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may by a vote of two-thirds of each house remove such disability.

SEC. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any state shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

SEC. 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

AMENDMENT XV.

SECTION 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States, or by any state, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.

SEC. 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

AMENDMENT XVI.

The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

AMENDMENT XVII.

The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislatures.

When vacancies happen in the representation of any state in the Senate, the executive authority of such state shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, that the legislature of any state may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointment until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.

AMENDMENT XVIII.

SECTION 1. After one year from the ratification of this article the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

SEC. 2. The Congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

AMENDMENT XIX.

SECTION 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex.

SEC. 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

AMENDMENT XX.

SECTION 1. The terms of the President and Vice President shall end at noon on the 20th day of January, and the terms of Senators and Representatives at noon on the 3rd day of January, of the years in which such terms would have ended if this article had not been ratified; and the terms of their successors shall then begin.

SEC. 2. The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall begin at noon on the 3rd day of January, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SEC. 3. If, at the time fixed for the beginning of the term of the President, the President elect shall have died, the Vice President elect shall become President. If a President shall not have been chosen before the time fixed for the beginning of his term, or if the President elect shall have failed to qualify, then the Vice President elect shall act as President until a President shall have qualified; and the Congress may by law provide for the case wherein neither a President elect nor a Vice President elect shall have qualified, declaring who shall then act as President, or the manner in which one who is to act shall be selected, and such person shall act accordingly until a President or Vice President shall have qualified.

SEC. 4. The Congress may by law provide for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the House of Representatives may choose a President whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them, and for the case of the death of any of the persons from whom the Senate may choose a Vice President whenever the right of choice shall have devolved upon them.

SEC. 5. Sections 1 and 2 shall take effect on the 15th day of October following the ratification of this article.

SEC. 6. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the Legislatures of three-fourths of the several States within seven years from the date of its submission.

AMENDMENT XXI.

SECTION 1. The eighteenth article of amendment to the Constitution of the United States is hereby repealed.

SEC. 2. The transportation or importation into any State, Territory, or possession of the United States for delivery or use therein of intoxicating liquors, in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited.

SEC. 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by conventions in the several States, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the States by the Congress.

AMENDMENT XXII.

SECTION 1. No person shall be elected to the office of the President more than twice, and no person who has held the office of President, or acted as President, for more than two years of a term to which some other person was elected President shall be elected to the office of the President more than once. But this Article shall not apply to any person holding the office of President when this Article was proposed by the Congress, and shall not prevent any person who may be holding the office of President, or acting as President, during the term within which this Article becomes operative, from holding the office of President or acting as President during the remainder of such term.

SEC. 2. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States within seven years from the date of its submission to the States by the Congress.

AMENDMENT XXIII.*

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS FOR DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

SECTION 1. The District constituting the seat of Government of the United States shall appoint in such manner as the Congress may direct:

A number of electors of President and Vice President equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives in Congress to which the District would be entitled if it were a State, but in no event more than the least populous State; they shall be in addition to those appointed by the States, but they shall be considered, for the purposes of the election of President and Vice President, to be electors appointed by a State; and they shall meet in the District and perform such duties as provided by the twelfth article of amendment.

SEC. 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

NOTE.—The Constitution was adopted Sept. 17, 1787, by the unanimous consent of the states present in the convention appointed in pursuance of the resolution of the Congress of the confederation, of the twenty-first of February, 1787, and was ratified by the conventions of the several states, as follows, viz.: By convention of Delaware, Dec. 7, 1787; Pennsylvania, Dec. 12, 1787; New Jersey, Dec. 18, 1787; Georgia, Jan. 2, 1788; Connecticut, Jan. 9, 1788; Massachusetts, Feb. 6, 1788; Maryland, April 28, 1788; South Carolina, May 23, 1788; New Hampshire, June 21, 1788; Virginia, June 26, 1788; New York, July 26, 1788; North Carolina, Nov. 21, 1789; Rhode Island, May 29, 1790.

The first ten of the amendments were proposed at the first session of the First Congress of the United States, Sept. 25, 1789; and were finally ratified by the constitutional number of states Dec. 15, 1791. The eleventh amendment was proposed at the first session of the Third Congress, March 5, 1794, and was declared in a message from the president of the United States to both houses of Congress, dated Jan. 8, 1798, to have been adopted by the contitutional number of states. The twelfth amendment was proposed at the first session of the Eighth Congress, Dec. 12, 1803; and was adopted by the constitutional number of states in 1804, according to a public notice thereof by the secretary of state, dated Sept. 25, 1804.

The thirteenth amendment was proposed at the second session of the Thirty-Eighth Congress, Feb. 1, 1865, and was adopted by the constitutional number of states in 1865, according to a public notice thereof by the secretary of state, dated Dec. 18, 1865.

The fourteenth amendment took effect July 28, 1868.
The fifteenth amendment took effect March 30, 1870.
The sixteenth amendment took effect February 25, 1913.
The seventeenth amendment took effect May 31, 1913.
The eighteenth amendment took effect January 29, 1920.
The nineteenth amendment took effect August 27, 1920.
The twentieth amendment was proclaimed February 6, 1933.
The twenty-first amendment was proclaimed December 5, 1933.
The twenty-second amendment was ratified by requisite number of states on February 28, 1951. Proclaimed March 1, 1951.

*HISTORICAL NOTE.—Proposal and ratification. This amendment was proposed by the Eighty-sixth Congress on June 16, 1960 and was declared by the Administrator of General Services on Apr. 3, 1961, to have been ratified.

Note: Congress adopted Senate Joint Resolution 29 providing for a constitutional amendment prohibiting the United States or any state from adopting legislation taking the voting privilege away from any citizen because of the individual's failure to pay a poll tax or any other tax.

The measure was adopted by a two-thirds vote in the Senate on March 27, 1962, in the House on August 27, and submitted to the state legislatures for ratification as provided in Article 5, U. S. Constitution. It must be ratified by three-fourths of the fifty states before becoming part of the U. S. Constitution.

THE AUTONOMY OF THE STATES

The fifty states appear to be autonomous and self-governing but not sovereign units within the Union. Their autonomy lies in their prerogative to exercise on their own initiative and responsibility whatever powers and functions they have under the United States Constitution. They do not need to obtain enabling legislation from Congress or executive approval from the President to utilize the powers that they possess.

Under the United States Constitution each state may pass any law and undertake any function that the proper authorities of the state think best. State powers and functions include all those powers of government that are left after the constitutional grant of certain powers to the national government. Therefore, the powers and functions of the fifty states are residual and largely undefined. A state may adopt any system of taxation that is consistent with ordinary due process, except that it may not tax imports, exports, and instrumentalities of the federal government. Staying within the rule that its government must be republican in form, a state may change its government in any way it chooses and may set up any system of local government that it desires.

In short, the power of each state is considerable. Each possesses a wide range of choices with respect to what it shall do, how its government shall be organized, and how it shall finance its services. Furthermore, only by a constitutional amendment that would require a three-fourths vote of the states could the states be deprived of their present autonomy.

Abbreviations: L—Legislative days; C—Calendar days

(a) In practice the legislature meets for 18 weeks. Legislators receive $210 a week in combined daily salary and expense allowance, a total of $3,780 for each regular biennial session.

(b) Annual sessions.

(c) Plus excess baggage allowance.

(d) Plus $20 per day salary (limited to $1,800 in a year) for special sessions and interim committee meetings; $10 per day subsistence for days required to attend interim committee meetings, plus 8c a mile or first class public carrier.

(e) Speaker of the House receives $2,700.

(f) 12½c a mile for interim committee meetings and $25 a day for maximum of 60 days for interim committee meetings.

(g) Actual and necessary expenses.

(h) Legislators receive $100 a month during biennium plus $2,400 per biennium, paid at rate of $20 a day during regular and special sessions with remainder paid as a lump sum. Legislators also receive $20 per day, not to exceed $600 in any calendar year, while not in session, for attendance at legislative meetings, plus actual and necessary traveling expenses.

(i) 70-day limit on special sessions called by Governor; 30-day limit on sessions convened by legislature except for impeachment proceedings.

(j) $2,500 per general session; $1,500 per budget session.

(k) 90 days biennial total: 60-day regular session, 30-day budget session.

(l) Legislators are paid for Sundays and holidays during session, consequently compensation period usually is 72 to 74 days.

(m) In terms of fixed amounts for each legislator.

(n) Determined at each session in Massachusetts.

(o) Within 40-mile radius, 7c a mile daily to amount to not less than $4.50 a week; outside 40-mile radius, $38 per week living expenses plus 7c a mile for one round trip per week.

(p) Plus one extra round trip each 7 days at 6c a mile.

(q) 10c a mile for daily commuting or $15 per day if living in capital.

(r) 20c per mile for first 45 miles, 8c for next 25 miles, 6c for next 25 miles, 5c over 95 miles.

(s) This salary becomes effective in 1963.

(t) Legislators receive $15 for first 75 legislative days, including intervening non-legislative days, for regular or special session, otherwise $100 a month.

(u) 10c a mile for one round trip; thereafter, 7c a mile for first 2,000 miles per month, 6c a mile for each additional mile once a week during the session.

(v) Members receive an annual salary of $4,800.

(w) Members receive $70 for each week or portion thereof during regular session.

(x) For legislators filing affidavit regarding necessity of establishing temporary residence at capital during regular or special session.

(y) Minimum $10.

(z) $15 per day within 25-50 kilometers radius; $25 per day beyond.

Minnesota State Government

Charles H. Backstrom

Associate Professor of Political Science

University of Minnesota

Minnesota exists as a state because people here wanted to run their own affairs. Early settlers in the upper Mississippi and Minnesota River valleys were not content to have much of their everyday affairs determined in Washington so they petitioned and got the chance to be an equal partner in the Federal Union.

State Powers

In the more than one hundred years that have elapsed since statehood, international events have forced people to look up from the barge and plow and notice what the national government was doing. In fact, economic developments have made the barge and plow themselves concerns of the national government, which now regulates and promotes much of our work-a-day lives. Because the national government has become such a great enterprise we sometimes forget the tremendous powers left to the state government.

In fact, the people of Minnesota continue to operate a huge and rapidly expanding business and regulatory agency themselves, using the state government to shape the everyday quality of their lives pretty much as they wish.

Nowhere is it possible to find listed the powers of state government. Unlike the powers of national government, which are spelled out (in bare bones, at least) in the United States Constitution, the powers of the State of Minnesota are not detailed anywhere. In truth, Minnesota has all the powers of the British House of Commons at the time of the American Revolution—which was virtually unlimited—except for such powers as the United States and Minnesota Constitutions have taken away.

Some powers were denied to the states in the original United States Constitution. As a result, Minnesota cannot have an army or navy, engage in foreign affairs, have nobles, coin money, tax imports or exports, allow people to get out of contracts they have made, punish an individual by legislative act, or increase the penalties for some act after it has been committed.

After the Civil War, amendments to the United States Constitution laid further restrictions on the states. A state could not authorize slaves, prevent a person from voting because of his race, treat people unequally, nor arbitrarily take away their freedoms, their lives or property.

Not all of these restrictions on states were obvious at the outset. In fact, courts are to this day still in the process of determining what the requirements are for treating an accused person fairly, and the meaning of "equality" (which a state must not deny by its laws or official actions). States learned, too, that they could not block a legitimate power of the national government by trying to forbid, regulate, or tax its operations.

Furthermore, the people in Minnesota never wanted their government to have all the power of the old House of Commons, so they added some restrictions of their own. Minnesota's Constitution contains its own Bill of Rights, stated as Article I. It reads much like the Bill of Rights that restrains the national government's infringement of free speech, free press, and rights of the accused. Two are missing—the rights of assembly and petition. There are, however, a few additions in the Minnesota document, such as a much more definite statement forbidding the use of tax money for religious activities, and the right to sell farm vegetables without a license! Other restrictions elsewhere in the Constitution restrict Minnesota's legislature from enacting changes in railroad taxes without a popular vote, from passing special laws applying to an individual local government without consent of that municipality or from enacting laws on some subjects that would apply only to named individuals. Churches, cemeteries, charitable institutions, and schools are not taxable. The Constitution spells out the proportion of motor vehicle taxes to be distributed to various kinds of highways.

But by and large, the people of Minnesota have left themselves free, through the governmental structure they describe in the Constitution, to handle a very large number of important things such as:

1) The protection and improvement of society and of the individual. The state makes regulations regarding public safety (criminal law defining prohibited acts of violence and theft), health (sanitation, quarantine, hospitals, housing), morals (sexual behavior, dance halls. liquor), social welfare (family life, marriage and divorce, women, children, aged, relief), and education (all levels).

2) The regulation and promotion of people's political life. The state decides virtually all election procedures and regulations, including those governing presidential electors and United States Senators and Representatives, such as registration, nominations, district boundaries, ballot forms, recounts, political parties, and most corrupt practices legislation. The state also prescribes local governmental units, structures, and powers, including the details of how home rule is acquired by cities.

3) The protection and improvement of economic welfare and processes. The state makes civil law dealing with business, contracts, and corporations. The state has authority to define and punish business frauds and monopolies, to regulate banking, labor (unemployment insurance, wages, hours, conditions of work, industrial accidents, disputes, subject to national government action where these affect interstate commerce), promotion and regulation of agriculture and marketing, transportation (trucks, railroads, terminals, highways, and aviation, subject again to national government actions or requirements of national uniformity).

4) The conservation and development of natural resources. The state regulates land (irrigation, drainage, settlement), sub-soil wealth (minerals), public utilities, forestry, and fish, game, and birds.

The state has wide latitude to decide what to tax and how heavily in order to provide for these functions, and can structure its own government any way it chooses, so long as the people are allowed ultimately to control it under a republican form of government.

Local Government

A further word should be said about one of the powers of the state—its control over local government. Contrary to popular thinking, there is no right of local self-government, apart from that allowed by the state. True, the people of Minnesota through their Constitution sought to give cities who chose to frame their own charters the power to run their own affairs. However, it is often difficult to decide what are strictly local matters, and what is more the state is reluctant to give away any of its powers to rule. The result is that state government continues to exercise great authority over what its cities can do. Furthermore, except for changing county seats or boundaries, where local consent is required, there are no restraints upon the state in dealing with the other units of government—counties, school districts, townships, special districts—that it has created. As an example, the legislature recently abolished effective July 1, 1965, most school districts that do not operate a school.

Lawmakers

Laws are made in Minnesota by being agreed to by a majority of all members elected to each house of the legislature and by being signed by the governor, or passed by a two-thirds vote over his veto. Minnesota has no direct legislation—referendum or initiative—by which people make ordinary law in the voting booth. Even the Constitution can be changed only upon the initiative of the legislature. Proposals to amend the Constitution are then referred to the people, where a majority of those voting at the election must say "Yes" before the Constitution is held to be changed, which has happened 90 times in 175 tries. Or, the legislature has to decide that a constitutional convention is necessary before the people can vote upon whether one should be called to revise the entire document.

This means that the legislature is a very powerful body. The legislature has all the powers the people themselves could exercise, except those denied it in the state Constitution. No money can be spent unless appropriated by the legislature. No government agency can be set up or changed except by the legislature and governor acting together. No act can be punished as a crime unless the legislature specifically so declares, and no punishment can be administered except for that which the legislature prescribes. The legislature even decides upon proposed amendments to the United States Constitution, unless Congress provides for a special ratifying convention.

To do this work, the legislature meets once every two years for as long as 120 days (not counting Sundays), although the governor can call a special session. Minnesota state representatives are elected every two years and senators every four years, from districts drawn by the legislature. The state Constitution requires that the districts be laid out on the basis of equality of population. The legislature redistricted the state in 1959, effective for the 1962 election, to bring the legislative districts somewhat more into line, although the 1960 population of senatorial districts still ranges from 24,428 to 100,520 (two adjacent districts in Hennepin County).

Minnesota election laws provide that legislators' names appear on the ballot without party designation, but the two major political parties in recent years have engaged in endorsements and campaigns in many districts to try to elect more members of their persuasion to the legislature. Members endorsed by the Democratic-Farmer-Labor party have almost all caucused for organizational purposes in the legislature as Liberals, while Republican-endorsed or-supported members have usually caucused with other members not acknowledging party support as Conservatives, or in the case of the Senate, simply as the majority caucus. Both caucuses in the House of Representatives and the Liberal caucus in the Senate have become policy discussion groups as well as organizational devices for selecting leadership and committee members. The majority group in the Senate, on the other hand, usually prefers informal contacts among the leaders, or uses the Rules committee, consisting of all committee chairmen, to plan and coordinate its actions. While the caucuses in the legislature are not always unified, members are found dividing pretty much along caucus lines on controversial matters. Caucus unity in Minnesota's legislature seems to be greater than party unity in the United States Congress.

Executives

The governor of Minnesota is charged with taking "care that the laws be faithfully executed." Yet the governor is not the sole executive officer of the state. Instead, five other elected officers, together with the governor, constitute the executive department: the lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, and attorney general. In recent years one party has not been able to elect all of its candidates to these positions. These officials, except the lieutenant governor, constitute the Executive Council, which handles mineral leases, timber permits, sale of state lands, and several administrative responsibilities. Moreover, the governor is simply one member of the State Board of Investment and the Land Exchange Commission. Also, instead of possessing sole authority to grant pardons he shares this power with the attorney general and the chief justice of the supreme court.

Administrative duties of the state are performed, according to a recent count, by 23 administrative departments, 30 policy boards and commissions, 21 examining and licensing boards, and 12 semi-state agencies. In most cases, the governor does not have power to remove these officials. Ten administrative heads have a longer term than the governor himself, and therefore are not subject to his ultimate control, except in a second term. Members of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission are elected.

The governor of Minnesota does have a measure of control over these agencies, however, through his power to recommend a budget. The commissioner of administration, an appointee of the governor, receives spending requests from the several state agencies, and assists the governor in deciding what program priorities he will recommend to the legislature. Of course, the legislature ultimately decides the exact amount of money to be spent for individual programs of each agency, but the governor's recommendation is carefully considered, and the governor can veto individual items in the appropriation bills.

Separate election of executive officials, diffusion of power among many administrative agencies, and incomplete control over personnel means that the governor of Minnesota has far less power over state affairs than the President of the United States has over the federal executive branch. In several other states, governors have centralized executive authority. But in a few states, governors have even less control over state affairs than in Minnesota. The trend in other states in recent years has been to consolidate the executive and administrative responsibilities in the hands of the governor. For the first time, the governor of Minnesota is serving a four-year term, as is the case in most states today. The aim is to give the governor a somewhat better opportunity to concentrate on operating the government.

Ultimately, the real power of any governor depends upon his leadership of public opinion, and the effectiveness of his political party organization in electing majorities to the legislature and in securing a measure of uniformity of views among officeholders. In terms of the influence of political parties in shaping governmental programs Minnesota stands, perhaps, midway among the states of the Union—some have much stronger parties and some much weaker.

Judiciary

The judicial branch of Minnesota has recently been reformed—toward a more unified court system. There are still three principal branches. Besides the supreme court, Minnesota has one district court (though there are actually 64 judges in 10 districts), and one probate court (with each of the 87 counties constituting a district). Minnesota has no court of appeals between the district court and the supreme court. For most Minnesotans the state supreme court is the court of last resort since only cases involving a substantial federal question can be appealed to the United States Supreme Court.

The chief justice of the supreme court, with the aid of an administrative assistant, has authority to expedite the business of the courts by assigning judges to other counties and districts, by conducting research on the business of the courts, and by calling judicial conferences. Judges in each district elect a chief judge to supervise their assignments. The probate court in most counties now has general civil and minor criminal jurisdiction in addition to its special authority over wills, guardianships, and (in most counties) juveniles. This change, making the probate court a sort of county court, was a move toward a full-time, salaried, legally trained judiciary throughout the state. Municipalities which now have municipal courts may abandon them if they choose. Some villages and townships still elect justices of the peace to hear minor cases, although the legislature could abolish them at any time. In 1965 Hennepin county will have a county-wide municipal court system, leaving no municipal or justice courts.

All judges in Minnesota are elected for six year terms, but virtually all supreme and district court judges come to the court initially through appointment by the governor. They are usually re-elected to successive terms. Judges are designated on the ballot as incumbents, challengers are required to file against a specific sitting judge.

Expenditures

A few rough figures will give a glimpse at what Minnesota spends money on. Education, welfare, and highways get the major share.

Education. Over 700,000 grade and high school students are found in classes on an average school day—one-fifth of the people in the state. Local school districts are expected to bear the major share of the expense. But to insure that at least a minimum educational program is carried on by every district, no matter how poor it may be, the state contributes a certain amount per pupil, less the amount received from a minimum local tax level. Currently, the state supplies, on the average, about 45% of local school maintenance costs, totalling about $150 million per year. Buildings must be paid for locally. Special state aids also assist in transportation and education of the handicapped.

About 15,000 students are enrolled in Minnesota's five state colleges, and another 30,000 at the University of Minnesota (all branches). The state appropriates more than $100 million per year for higher education. This sum constitutes more than a third of the total University budget, and about two-thirds of the state college money. The rest comes from fees, services, federal and other grants, and investment income. The state pays for most buildings.

In addition, about $1 million a year aids local districts in supporting junior colleges. A new state junior college board will operate 15 institutions of this type in the near future.

Welfare. Minnesota spends about $150 million a year on welfare activities. These include aid and relief programs (for the blind, aged, dependent children, disabled, and general indigent), mental hospitals, and institutions for the handicapped. Over a third of the money comes from state sources, an equal amount from the counties, and the rest from the federal government.

Highways. Minnesota spends about $130 million a year on state highways—construction, maintenance, and safety programs. About half comes from current highway user taxes, with most of the remainder from Federal aids. In addition, the state distributes about $25 million in highway user taxes to counties and cities for roads and streets.

Other functions. About $25 million a year goes for natural resources—agriculture, forestry, state parks, game and fish, and water, land, and mineral management. Correctional institutions take $10 million, health activities $4 million, employment security administration $6 million, tax collection $8 million, general administration $3 million, and interest on debt $7 million.

Altogether, the state's general expenditures in 1962 were $635 million. The legislature appropriates only about two-thirds of this amount. Not all of the grants to local governments or the taxes the state collects and shares with them are subject to legislative appropriation. Well over a third of the state's expenditures goes to local governmental units in one form or another. Actual cash flows in and out of the treasury, given receipts and payments into employee retirement funds and all federal grants now amount to over $1 billion per year.

Revenues

Most money to cover the expenses of the state is raised through taxes. But there are substantial non-tax sources of income, such as sale of timber, fees for state park use, investment income, borrowing, and federal grants. Federal grants for all purposes come to about $140 million a year.

Considering state taxes alone, Minnesota receives most of its $450 million tax revenue from various kinds of sales taxes (on gasoline, liquor, tobacco) and from earnings taxes on railroads and telephone companies—a total of $145 million. Next in importance is the individual income tax, which produces about $140 million. Licenses provide another $60 million, corporation net income taxes $35 million, property taxes $25 million, mining taxes $15 million, and death and gift taxes $15 million.

The legislature's job in balancing the state's budget is not a simple one of matching income to outgo—though that is a herculean task. More than three-fourths of the Minnesota tax take is already dedicated, that is, set aside for certain purposes. Thus the highway-user taxes are dedicated to highway needs, the income tax to education, and sportsmen's licenses to game and fish propagation.

The state uses its portion of the general property tax principally for repaying money borrowed to construct buildings for government, administration, and for mental, correctional, and higher educational institutions. The state's total property levy is somewhat over 15 mills ($15 per thousand valuation), which constitutes a small proportion of the average property owner's tax considering the fact that the property tax is the main source of income for counties, cities, and school districts.

Trends

The business of operating the state of Minnesota is not static, with the same old activities going on year after year. Instead, conditions change the impact of old programs and the means of handling them.

Population growth provides a constant challenge. Another half million Minnesotans will live within our boundaries ten years from now. This constitutes a 17 per cent increase. But the number of residents over 65 (who are major consumers of welfare aids) and the number of school age children will go up by 30 per cent. This means that merely maintaining present services—present education aids, present services to children and the aged—will require drastically increased expenditures.

An even greater impact on state agencies will be produced by the changing nature of service to individuals. In the past, Minnesota has led the nation in applying new concepts of treatment of the mentally ill. New breakthroughs may make possible vast improvements in preventing, diagnosing, and treating such maladies as cancer, heart disease, and birth defects, if the knowledge can be put into effect. Demand for recreational facilities is skyrocketing because of increased leisure time and rising standards of living. Automation requires a substantially different emphasis in education and re-education for many. And far higher proportions of college age people are wanting further academic and professional education. The continuing automobile explosion will likely overload the new interstate highway system even when present plans are brought to completion. Private air travel may increase sharply, requiring new airport facilities. Water supply—in quantity and quality—will plague even the land of 10,000 lakes. New types and standards of food production and marketing are in view, needing only to be developed, promoted, and regulated. New programs may be found for preventing crime as well as for apprehending and rehabilitating lawbreakers. Paradoxically, saving more people from critical disease and accidents is raising the number of people needing physical and vocational rehabilitation. Metropolitan growth will necessitate a rethinking of the roles and structures of local governmental units.

All of these developments and others must be faced by the state in the very near future. What kind of programs to adopt to deal with them is only part of the question. How to pay for them is the rest. The state is a helpless bystander, except through its political influence, in the realm of national fiscal and monetary policies designed to regulate and promote the growth of the nation's economy. By and large, if the nation prospers, Minnesota will too. More money will come in from existing taxes. But the competitive place of Minnesota among the fifty states is more within the control of this state. Minnesota can promote and encourage its own growth through programs of education and development of its resources, including the promotion of industrial and business growth within its borders.

The level of taxing and spending for public purposes is not fixed. It is a judgment of values and priorities people must make, within limits of economic reality. The aim is to meet the real needs of the people within the fairest and most productive distribution of costs. Solving this complicated formula will strain the wisest heads in the state. It will take energetic and dedicated officials to cope with the problems, a political structure that enables decisions to be made in the most efficacious, yet the most democratic way possible, and the enlightened participation of the citizenry in accepting local and state responsibilities.

If the state governmental system works well in its continuing and expanding job, it will prove that the present inheritors of the Mississippi, Minnesota, Red, and St. Croix lands are indeed fit to run their own affairs, as their forefathers believed when they took on this task more than a century ago.

LEGAL HOLIDAYS IN MINNESOTA

Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 645.44, Subd. 5:

Holidays include New Year's Day, January 1; Lincoln's Birthday, February 12; Washington's Birthday, February 22; Memorial Day, May 30; Independence Day, July 4; Labor Day, the first Monday in September; Christopher Columbus Day, October 12; Christmas Day, December 25; the Friday next preceding Easter Sunday, commonly known as Good Friday; Thanksgiving Day; and Veterans Day, November 11; provided, when New Year's Day, January 1; or Memorial Day, May 30; or Independence Day, July 4; or Christmas Day, December 25; falls on Sunday, the following day shall be a holiday. No public business shall be transacted on any holiday, except in cases of necessity, nor shall any civil process be served thereon.

Minnesota Statutes 1961, Section 126.10:

Special Days—The following days or the school days nearest such days are hereby designated for special observance in the public schools of the state: September 28 as Frances Willard Day, October 9 as Leif Erikson Day, and February 15 as Susan B. Anthony Day. On such days one-half hour may be devoted in the schools to instruction and appropriate exercises relative to and in commemoration of the life and history of the respective persons and the principles and ideals they fostered.

LEGISLATIVE AND CAPITOL NEWS CORRESPONDENTS

A battery of reporters, photographers and radio and television newsmen converge on the capitol every two years to report the actions of the Minnesota Legislature. Because of the dedication of these professional journalists, coverage of the state's legislative process is rated among the best in the United States.

Center of the news operation during the session is a pair of adjoining second floor press rooms, located between the senate and the house chambers. Several teletype machines are in almost continuous operation, carrying legislative news to the offices of every newspaper, TV and radio station in the state. Major stories are dispatched nationwide on the wires of the Associated Press and United Press International.

During the interim, four Twin Cities newspapers and the two wire services—Associated Press and United Press International—provide full-time or near full-time reporters to focus attention on state government developments. A "breaking" story often brings reporters from out-state papers and TV and radio newsmen.

Full-time statehouse reporters are: Jack B. Mackay, Associated Press; William Fox, United Press International; and Richard A. Williams, St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press. Near full-time reporters are: Robert Weber, Minneapolis Star; and Mercer Cross, Minneapolis Tribune.

Chapter 10 Constitution; Fundamental Laws

Contents:

1. Northwest Ordinance 1787
2. Organic Act
3. Enabling Act
4. Minnesota Constitution
5. Congressional Act of Admission

This section of the Legislative Manual sets forth five fundamental charters and laws which effect the State of Minnesota. They are presented with explanatory material and in the chronological order of their effect upon the establishment of the land area and the formation of the fundamental governmental principles of this state. They are: (1) The Northwest Ordinance of 1787 which established the Northwest Territory; (2) The Organic Act which created the Territory of Minnesota; (3) The Enabling Act which authorized a state constitution preparatory to admission into the union; (4) The Minnesota Constitution; (5) The Congressional Act of Admission whereby Minnesota was admitted as a state.

MINNESOTA — UNDER FOUR NATIONS

The land area of Minnesota has at various times been under the governments of four nations — France, Spain, England and the United States. The early territorial claims of France, Spain and England were vague and overlapping. Formal government was nonexistent.

Formal dominion over this area was probably first expressed by the French when in 1671 the Sieur de St. Lusson, in a picturesque ceremony held at the Sault de Ste. Marie, claimed for France the vast northwest area of North America.

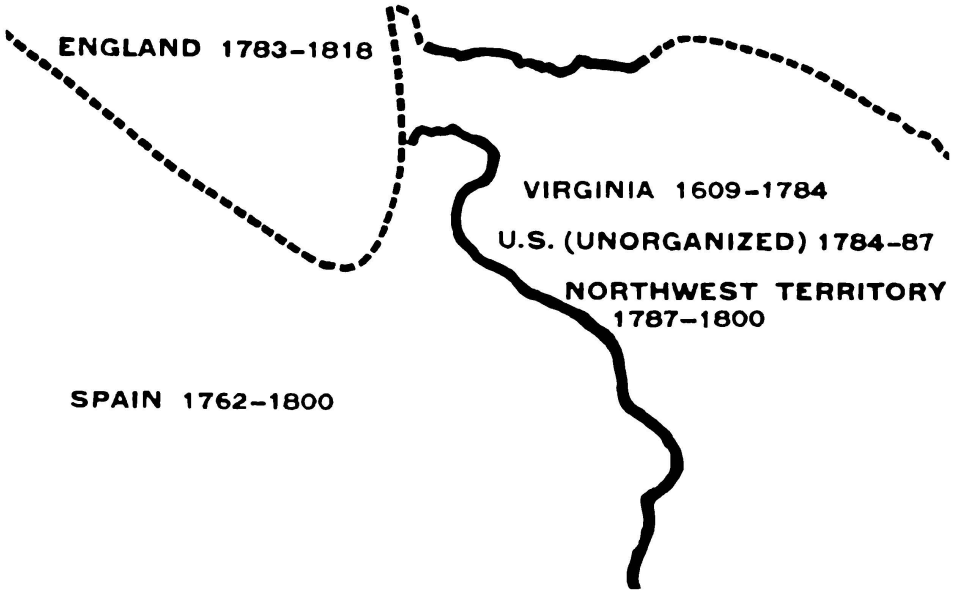

However, British dominion over northeastern Minnesota appears to have provided the first written constitution nominally in effect in the land area of Minnesota. This occurred when Minnesota was made a part of the Province of Quebec under the Quebec Act of 1774. But England's claim to this area was not exclusive inasmuch as Virginia maintained a claim to the same area.

Of Minnesota's land area the portion east of the Mississippi River was the first to come under the jurisdiction of the United States. This was established by the treaty of peace between England and the United States in 1783. Four years later, under the Ordinance of 1787, the first genuine government was extended to this area, and the Minnesota country began its march to statehood.

THE NORTHWEST ORDINANCE OF 1787

One of the great fundamental charters of our history was the Northwest Ordinance passed by the Congress of the Confederation on July 13, 1787. The Ordinance of 1787 was made possible when several states, including Massachusetts, New York, Virginia and Connecticut released their claims to the land area west of the Appalachian Mountains extending to the Mississippi River. This area became known as the Northwest Territory.

The Ordinance of 1787 followed the fundamentals of Thomas Jefferson's Ordinance of 1784 and established a government over the Northwest Territory and gave impetus to the westward expansion of this nation. It was an outstanding governmental document. It gave first national recognition to the Bill of Rights, abolished primogenture, provided for the encouragement of education, prohibited slavery, and established the great new principle that new states should be admitted to the federal government on equal footing with the original states.

The full effect of the Northwest Ordinance upon Minnesota law has yet to be determined. For example, the question of whether common law in Minnesota dates from the Revolution or from the Ordinance of 1787 has been left open by decisions of the Minnesota courts.

The Ordinance provided for the formation out of the Northwest Territory of not less than three nor more than five states. These states were to be admitted to the federal government on an equal footing with the original states.

By May of 1848 five states had been formed out of the Northwest Territory — Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The State of Wisconsin was organized out of the Territory of Wisconsin, the last remnant of the Northwest Territory. Although in 1848 the Territory of Wisconsin extended to the Mississippi River, the State of Wisconsin voluntarily limited its western boundary to the St. Croix River. This boundary limitation by the State of Wisconsin left the land area between the St. Croix and the Mississippi available for eventual inclusion in the State of Minnesota.

Thus it is that the State of Minnesota can trace much of its fundamental governmental principles, and a substantial portion of its territory, back to the Northwest Ordinance of 1787.

ACT OF CONGRESS, JULY 13, 1787

An Ordinance for the government of the territory of the United States northwest of the river Ohio.

1. Be it ordained by the United States, in Congress assembled, That the said territory, for the purpose of temporary government, be one district, subject, however, to be divided into two districts, as future circumstances may, in the opinion of Congress, make it expedient.

2. Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That the estates both of resident and non-resident proprietors in the said territory, dying intestate, shall descend to, and be distributed among, their children and the descendants of a deceased child in equal parts, the descendants of a deceased child or grandchild to take the share of their deceased parent in equal parts among them; and where there shall be no children or descendants, then in equal parts to the next of kin, in equal degree; and among collaterals, the children of a deceased brother or sister of the intestate shall have, in equal parts among them, their deceased parent's share; and there shall, in no case, be a distinction between kindred of the whole and half blood; saving in all cases to the widow of the intestate her third part of the real estate for life, and one-third part of the personal estate; and this law, relative to descents and dower, shall remain in full force until altered by the Legislature of the district. And until the Governor and judges shall adopt laws, as hereinafter mentioned, estates in the said territory may be devised or bequeathed by wills in writing, signed and sealed by him or her in whom the estate may be, (being of full age), and attested by three witnesses; and real estates may be conveyed by lease and release, or bargain and sale, signed, sealed and delivered by the person, being of full age, in whom the estate may be, and attested by two witnesses, provided such wills be duly proved, and such conveyances be acknowledged, or the execution thereof duly proved, and be recorded within one year after proper magistrates, courts, and registers, shall be appointed for that purpose; and personal property may be transferred by delivery, saving, however, to the French and Canadian inhabitants, and other settlers of the Kaskaskies, Saint Vincents, and the neighboring villages, who have heretofore professed themselves citizens of Virginia, their laws and customs now in force among them, relative to the descent and conveyance of property.

3. Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That there shall be appointed, from time to time, by Congress, a Governor, whose commission shall continue in force for the term of three years, unless sooner revoked by Congress; he shall reside in the district, and have a freehold estate therein, in 1,000 acres of land, while in the exercise of his office.

4. There shall be appointed from time to time, by Congress, a Secretary, whose commission shall continue in force for four years, unless sooner revoked; he shall reside in the district, and have a freehold estate therein, in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of his office. It shall be his duty to keep and preserve the Acts and laws passed by the Legislature, and the public records of the district, and the proceedings of the Governor in his executive department, and transmit authentic copies of such Acts and proceedings every six months, to the Secretary of Congress. There shall also be appointed a court, to consist of three judges, any two of whom to form a court, who shall have a common law jurisdiction and reside in the district, and have each therein a freehold estate in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of their offices; and their commissions shall continue in force during good behavior.

5. The Governor and judges, or a majority of them, shall adopt and publish in the district such laws of the original States, criminal and civil, as may be necessary, and best suited to the circumstances of the district, and report them to Congress from time to time, which laws shall be in force in the district until the organization of the General Assembly therein, unless disapproved of by Congress; but afterwards the Legislature shall have authority to alter them as they shall think fit.

6. The Governor, for the time being, shall be commander-in-chief of the militia, appoint and commission all officers in the same below the rank of general officers; all general officers shall be appointed and commissioned by Congress.

7. Previous to the organization of the general assembly, the Governor shall appoint such magistrates, and other civil officers, in each county or township, as he shall find necessary for the preservation of the peace and good order in the same. After the General Assembly shall be organized the powers and duties of magistrates and other civil officers shall be regulated and defined by the said assembly; but all magistrates and other civil officers, not herein otherwise directed, shall, during the continuance of this temporary government, be appointed by the Governor.

8. For the prevention of crimes and injuries, the laws to be adopted or made shall have force in all parts of the district, and for the execution of process, criminal and civil, the Governor shall make proper divisions thereof; and he shall proceed, from time to time, as circumstances may require, to lay out the parts of the district in which the Indian titles shall have been extinguished, into counties and townships, subject, however, to such alterations as may thereafter be made by the Legislature.

9. So soon as there shall be five thousand free male inhabitants, of full age, in the district, upon giving proof thereof to the Governor, they shall receive authority, with the time and place, to elect Representatives from their counties or townships, to represent them in the General Assembly: Provided, that for every five hundred free male inhabitants there shall be one Representative, and soon, progressively, with the number of free male inhabitants, shall the right of representation increase, until the number of Representatives shall amount to twenty-five; after which the number and proportion of Representatives shall be regulated by the legislature: Provided, that no person be eligible or qualified to act as a Representative, unless he shall have been a citizen of one of the United States three years, and be a resident in the district, or unless he shall have resided in the district three years; and, in either case, shall likewise hold in his own right, in fee simple, two hundred acres of land within the same: Provided also, that a freehold in fifty acres of land in the district, having been a citizen of one of the States, and being resident in the district, or the like freehold and two years' residence in the district, shall be necessary to qualify a man as an elector of a Representative.

10. The Representatives thus elected shall serve for the term of two years; and in case of the death of a Representative, or removal from office, the Governor shall issue a writ to the county or township, for which he was a member, to elect another in his stead, to serve for the residue of the term.

11. The General Assembly, or Legislature, shall consist of the Governor, Legislative Council, and a House of Representatives. The Legislative Council shall consist of five members, to continue in office five years, unless sooner removed by Congress; any three of whom to be a quorum; and the members of the council shall be nominated and appointed in the following manner, to wit: As soon as Representatives shall be elected the Governor shall appoint a time and place for them to meet together, and when met they shall nominate ten persons, resident in the district, and each possessed of a freehold in five hundred acres of land, and return their names to Congress, five of whom Congress shall appoint and commission to serve as aforesaid; and whenever a vacancy shall happen in the Council, by death or removal from office, the House of Representatives shall nominate two persons, qualified as aforesaid, for each vacancy, and return their names to Congress, one of whom Congress shall appoint and commission for the residue of the term; and every five years, four months at least before the expiration of the time of service of the members of the Council, the said House shall nominate ten persons, qualified as aforesaid, and return their names to Congress, five of whom Congress shall appoint and commission to serve as members of the Council five years, unless sooner removed. And the Governor, Legislative Council, and House of Representatives shall have authority to make laws in all cases for the good government of the district, not repugnant to the principles and articles in this Ordinance established and declared. And all bills, having passed by a majority in the House, and by a majority in the Council, shall be referred to the Governor for his assent; but no bill or legislative Act whatever shall be of any force without his assent. The Governor shall have power to convene, prorogue, and dissolve the General Assembly when, in his opinion, it shall be expedient.

12. The Governor, judges, Legislative Council, Secretary, and such other officers as Congress shall appoint in the district, shall take an oath or affirmation of fidelity, and of office; the Governor before the President of Congress, and all other officers before the Governor. As soon as a legislature shall be formed in the district, the Council and House assembled, in one room, shall have authority, by joint ballot, to elect a delegate to Congress, who shall have a seat in Congress, with a right of debating, but not of voting, during this temporary government.

13. And for extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, which form the basis whereon these republics, their laws and Constitutions, are erected; to fix and establish those principles as the basis of all laws, Constitutions, and governments, which forever hereafter shall be formed in the said territory; to provide, also, for the establishment of States, and permanent government therein, and for their admission to a share in the federal councils on an equal footing with the original States, at as early periods as may be consistent with the general interest:

14. It is hereby ordained and declared, by the authority aforesaid, that the following articles shall be considered as articles of compact, between the original States and the people and States in the said territory, and forever remain unalterable, unless by common consent, to wit:

Art. I. No person demeaning himself in a peaceable and orderly manner shall ever be molested on account of his mode of worship, or religious sentiments in the said territories.

Art. II. The inhabitants of the said territory shall always be entitled to the benefits of the writs of habeas corpus, and of the trial by jury; of a proportionate representation of the people in the Legislature, and of judicial proceedings according to the course of the common law. All persons shall be bailable, unless for capital offenses, where the proof shall be evident or the presumption great. All fines shall be moderate, and no cruel or unusual punishments shall be inflicted. No man shall be deprived of his liberty or property, but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land, and should the public exigencies make it necessary, for the common preservation, to take any person's property, or to demand his particular services, full compensation shall be made for the same. And, in the just preservation of rights and property, it is understood and declared that no law ought ever to be made or have force in the said territory, that shall, in any manner whatever, interfere with or affect private contracts, or engagements bona fide and without fraud previously formed.

Art. III. Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged. The utmost good faith shall always be observed towards the Indians; their lands and property shall never be taken from them without their consent; and in their property, rights and liberty they never shall be invaded or disturbed, unless in just and lawful wars authorized by Congress; but laws founded in justice and humanity shall, from time to time, be made, for preventing wrongs being done to them, and for preserving peace and friendship with them.

Art. IV. The said territory, and the States which may be formed therein, shall forever remain a part of this Confederacy of the United States of America, subject to the Articles of Confederation, and to such alterations therein as shall be constitutionally made; and to all the Acts and Ordinances of the United States in Congress assembled, conformable thereto. The inhabitants and settlers in the said territory shall be subject to pay a part of the federal debts, contracted, or to be contracted, and a proportional part of the expenses of government, to be apportioned on them by Congress, according to the same common rule and measure by which apportionments thereof shall be made on the other States; and the taxes for paying their proportion shall be laid and levied by the authority and direction of the Legislatures of the district, or districts, or new States, as in the original States, within the time agreed upon by the United States in Congress assembled. The Legislatures of those districts, or new States, shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil by the United States in Congress assembled, nor with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title in such soil to the bona fide purchasers. No tax shall be imposed on lands the property of the United States; and in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents. The navigable waters leading into the Mississippi and Saint Lawrence, and the carrying places between the same, shall be common highways, and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of the said territory as to the citizens of the United States, and those of any other States that may be admitted into the Confederacy, without any tax, impost, or duty therefor.

Art. V. There shall be formed in the said territory not less than three nor more than five States; and the boundaries of the States, as soon as Virginia shall alter her Act of cession, and consent to the same, shall become fixed and established as follows, to wit: The western State, in the said territory, shall be bounded by the Mississippi, the Ohio, and the Wabash rivers; a direct line drawn from the Wabash and Post Vincents, due north, to the territorial line between the United States and Canada; and by the said territorial line to the Lake of the Woods and Mississippi. The middle States shall be bounded by the said direct line, the Wabash from Post Vincents to the Ohio, by the Ohio, by a direct line drawn due north from the mouth of the Great Miami to the said territorial line, and by the said territorial line. The eastern State shall be bounded by the last mentioned direct line, the Ohio, Pennsylvania, and the said territorial line: Provided, however, and it is further understood and declared, that the boundaries of these three States, shall be subject so far to be altered, that, if Congress shall hereafter find it expedient, they shall have authority to form one or two States in that part of the said territory which lies north of an east and west line drawn through the southerly bend or extreme of Lake Michigan. And whenever any of the said States shall have sixty thousand free inhabitants therein, such State shall be admitted, by its delegates, into the Congress of the United States, on an equal footing with the original States, in all respects whatever; and shall be at liberty to form a permanent Constitution and State government: Provided, the Constitution and government, so to be formed, shall be republican, and in conformity to the principles contained in these Articles, and, so far as it can be consistent with the general interest of the Confederacy, such admission shall be allowed at an earlier period, and when there may be a less number of free inhabitants in the State than sixty thousand.

Art. VI. There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said territory, otherwise than in the punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted: Provided always, that any person escaping into the same, from whom labor or service is lawfully claimed in any one of the original States, such fugitive may be lawfully reclaimed, and conveyed to the person claiming his or her labor or service as aforesaid.

Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That the resolutions of the 23rd of April, 1784, relative to the subject of this Ordinance, be, and the same are hereby, repealed, and declared null and void.

Done by the United States, in Congress assembled, the 13th day of July, in the year of our Lord 1787, and of their sovereignty and independence the 12th.

THE ORGANIC ACT

The Organic Act was passed by Congress on March 3, 1849, to provide for the Territorial Government of Minnesota. The boundaries of the territory of Minnesota were Canada on the north, Wisconsin on the east, Iowa on the south and the Missouri and White Earth rivers on the west.

The movement to create a Minnesota Territorial Government arose out of the necessity for formal government in the remnants of land area which remained after the formation of the states of Wisconsin and Iowa.

Minnesota's land area west of the Mississippi was left without territorial government when the State of Iowa was formed out of the Territory of Iowa in 1846.

The triangular area between the St. Croix River and the Mississippi River was left without territorial government when the State of Wisconsin was admitted to the Union in 1848.

Thus, by 1848 the land area from the St. Croix River west to the Missouri and White Earth rivers was without territorial government — a veritable "no man's land."

Consequently, when Henry H. Sibley was elected delegate to Congress from this area, he worked together with Senator Stephen A. Douglas, chairman of the Senate Committee on Territories, to bring about the passage of the Organic Act for the establishment of a territorial government over this area — the Territory of Minnesota.

The Organic Act provided for a governor, secretary, judicial system, legislative assembly and a delegate to congress. Legislators and the delegate to congress were elected; all other officers were appointive.

The Legislative Assembly consisted of two houses, a council composed of nine members and a house of representatives with eighteen members. The first session of the Legislature convened on September 3, 1849, in the Central House at the corner of Bench and Minnesota Streets in St. Paul. Since that time St. Paul has been the capital of Minnesota. However, in 1857 a bill was introduced in the territorial legislative assembly to have the capital removed from St. Paul to St. Peter. This action was promoted by the East and West boundary group which contended that the boundary to be established for the State of Minnesota should extend from Wisconsin west to the Missouri River, with the north line of the state being just north of St. Paul. Although this bill passed both houses of the legislative assembly, it was stolen before it could be presented to the territorial governor for his signature. Thus, the bill failed to pass because of assembly member Joseph Rolette, who disappeared with the bill and held it until the close of the Legislative session.

An important provision of the Organic Act was the reservation of sections 16 and 36 of each township for school purposes.

Alexander Ramsey, a Whig, was the first Territorial Governor. He was followed by Willis A. Gorman and Samuel Medary, Democrats.

Minnesota progressed under the territorial government, but many groups felt that progress would be accelerated if Minnesota were a state. Within a short time there arose a strong desire for statehood.

ORGANIC ACT OF MINNESOTA

An act to establish the Territorial Government of Minnesota
[Passed March 3, 1849]

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the passage of this act, all that part of the territory of the United States which lies within the following limits, to-wit: Beginning in the Mississippi river at the point where the line of forty-three degrees and thirty minutes of north latitude crosses the same; thence running due west on said line, which is the northern boundary of the state of Iowa, to the northwest corner of the said state of Iowa; then southerly along the western boundary of said state to the point where said boundary strikes the Missouri river; thence up the middle of the main channel of the Missouri river to the mouth of White Earth river; thence up the middle of the main channel of the White Earth river to the boundary line between the possessions of the United States and Great Britain, thence east and south of east along the boundary line between the possessions of the United States and Great Britain to Lake Superior; thence in a straight line to the northernmost point of the state of Wisconsin in Lake Superior; thence along the western boundary line of said state of Wisconsin to the Mississippi river; thence down the main channel of said river to the place of beginning, be and the same is hereby erected into a temporary government by the name of the Territory of Minnesota; provided, that nothing in this act contained shall be construed to inhibit the government of the United States from dividing said Territory into two or more territories, in such manner and at such times as Congress shall deem convenient and proper, or from attaching any portion of said Territory to any other state or territory of the United States.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the executive power and authority in and over said Territory of Minnesota shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office for four years, and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States. The governor shall reside within said Territory; shall be commander-in-chief of the militia thereof; shall perform the duties and receive the emoluments of superintendent of Indian affairs. He may grant pardons for offenses against the law of said Territory, and reprieves for offenses against the laws of the United States until the decision of the president can be made known thereon; he shall commission all officers who shall be appointed to office under the laws of the said Territory, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

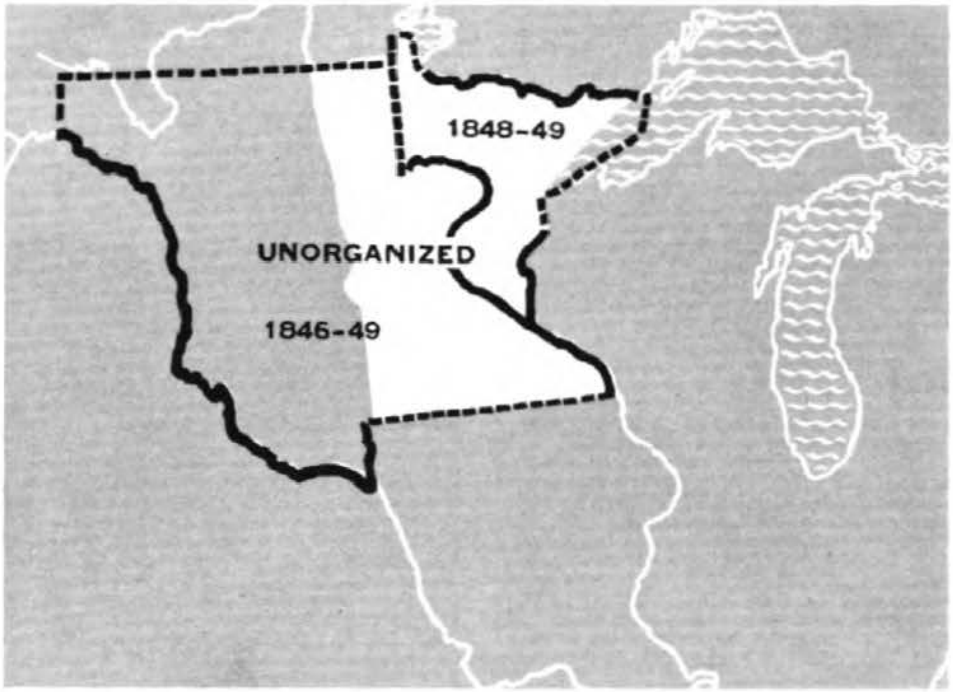

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That there shall be a secretary of said Territory, who shall reside therein, and hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president of the United States; he shall record and preserve all the laws and proceedings of the legislative assembly hereinafter constituted, and all the acts and proceedings of the governor in his executive department; he shall transmit one copy of the laws and one copy of the executive proceedings, on or before the first day of December in each year, to the president of the United States, and at the same time two copies of the laws to the speaker of the house of representatives, and the president of the senate for the use of Congress. And in case of the death, removal, resignation, or necessary absence of the governor from the Territory, the secretary shall be and he is hereby authorized and required to execute and perform all the powers and the duties of the governor during such vacancy or necessary absence, or until another governor shall be duly appointed to fill such vacancy.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power and authority of said Territory shall be vested in the governor and a legislative assembly. The legislative assembly shall consist of a council and house of representatives. The council shall consist of nine members having the qualifications of voters, as hereinafter prescribed, whose term of service shall continue two years. The house of representatives shall, at its first session, consist of eighteen members, possessing the same qualifications as prescribed for members of the council, and whose term of service shall continue one year. The number of councilors and representatives may be increased by the legislative assembly, from time to time, in proportion to the increase of population; provided, that the whole number shall never exceed fifteen councilors and thirty-nine representatives. An apportionment shall be made, as nearly equal as practicable, among the several counties or districts for the election of the council and representatives, giving to each section of the Territory representation in the ratio of its population, Indians excepted, as nearly as may be. And the members of the council and of the house of representatives shall reside in and be inhabitants of the districts for which they may be elected, respectively. Previous to the first election, the governor shall cause a census or enumeration of the inhabitants of the several counties and districts of the Territory to be taken, and the first election shall be held at such time and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct, and he shall, at the same time, declare the number of members of the council and house of representatives to which each of the counties and districts shall be entitled under this act.

The number of persons authorized to be elected having the highest number of votes, in each of said council districts for members of the council, shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected to the council, and the person or persons authorized to be elected, having the greatest number of votes for the house of representatives, equal to the number to which each county or district shall be entitled, shall also be declared by the governor to be duly elected members of the house of representatives; provided, that in case of a tie between two or more persons voted for, the governor shall order a new election to supply the vacancy made by such tie. And the persons thus elected to the legislative assembly shall meet at such place on such day as the governor shall appoint, but thereafter the time, place and manner of holding and conducting all elections by the people, and the apportioning of the representation in the several counties or districts to the council and house of representatives, according to the population, shall be prescribed by law, as well as the day of the commencement of the regular session of the legislative assembly; provided, that no one session shall exceed the term of sixty days.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That every free white male inhabitant above the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of said Territory at the time of the passage of this act, shall be entitled to vote at the first election, and shall be eligible to any office within the said Territory; but the qualifications of voters and of holding office at all subsequent elections shall be such as shall be prescribed by the legislative assembly; provided, that the right of suffrage and of holding office shall be exercised only by citizens of the United States and those who shall have declared on oath their intention to become such, and shall have taken an oath to support the constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the legislative power of the Territory shall extend to all rightful subjects of legislation, consistent with the Constitution of the United States and the provisions of this act; but no law shall be passed interfering with the primary disposal of the soil; no tax shall be imposed upon the property of the United States; nor shall the lands or other property of non-residents be taxed higher than the lands or other property of residents. All the laws passed by the legislative assembly and governor shall be submitted to the Congress of the United States, and if disapproved shall be null and of no effect.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That all township, district and county officers, not herein otherwise provided for, shall be appointed or elected, as the case may be, in such manner as shall be provided by the governor and legislative assembly of the Territory of Minnesota. The governor shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the legislative council, appoint all officers not herein otherwise provided for, and, in the first instance, the governor alone may appoint all said officers, who shall hold their offices until the end of the next session of the legislative assembly.

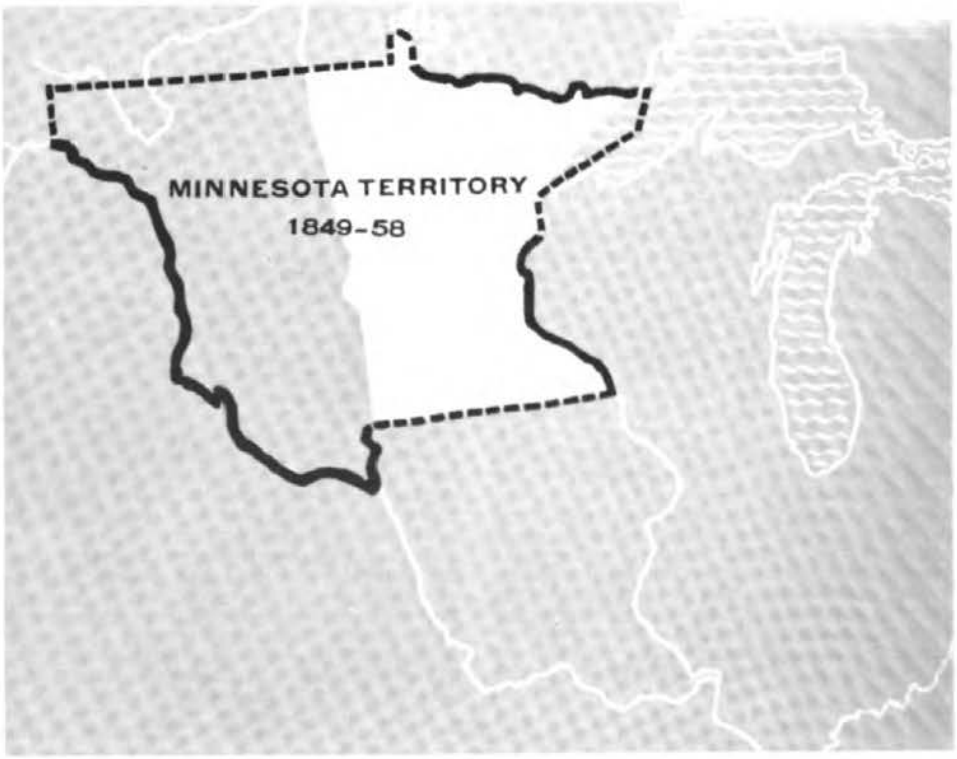

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That no member of the legislative assembly shall hold or be appointed to any office which shall have been created, or the salary or emoluments of which shall have been increased, while he was a member, during the term for which he was elected, and for one year after the expiration of such term; and no person holding a commission or appointment under the United States, except postmasters, shall be a member of the legislative assembly, or shall hold any office under the government of said Territory.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the judicial power of said Territory shall be vested in a supreme court, district courts, probate courts, and in justices of the peace. The supreme court shall consist of a chief justice and two associate justices, any two of whom shall constitute a quorum, and who shall hold a term at the seat of government of said Territory annually; and they shall hold their offices during the period of four years. The said Territory shall be divided into three judicial districts, and a district court shall be held in each of said districts by one of the justices of the supreme court, at such time and places as may be prescribed by law; and the said judges shall, after their appointment, respectively, reside in the districts which shall be assigned them. The jurisdiction of the several courts herein provided for, both appellate and original, and that of probate courts and justices of the peace, shall be as limited by law: provided, that the justices of the peace shall not have jurisdiction of any matter in controversy when the title or boundaries of land may be in dispute, or where the debt or sum claimed shall exceed one hundred dollars; and the said supreme and district courts, respectively, shall possess chancery as well as common law jurisdiction. Each district court, or the judges therof, shall appoint its clerk, who shall also be the register in chancery, and shall keep his office at the place where the court may be held. Writs of error, bills of exception and appeals shall be allowed in all cases from the final decisions of said district courts to the supreme court, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, but in no case removed to the supreme court shall trial by jury be allowed in said court. The supreme court, or the justices thereof, shall appoint its own clerk, and every clerk shall hold his office at the pleasure of the court for which he shall have been appointed. Writs of error and appeals from the final decisions of said supreme court shall be allowed, and may be taken to the supreme court of the United States, in the same manner and under the same regulations as from the circuit courts of the United States, where the value of the property or the amount in controversy, to be ascertained by the oath or affirmation of either party, or other competent witness, shall exceed one thousand dollars: and each of the said district courts shall have and exercise the same jurisdiction, in all cases arising under the constitution and laws of the United States, as is vested in the circuit and district courts of the United States; and the first six days of every term of said courts, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be appropriated to the trial of causes arising under the said constitution and laws; and writs of error and appeal in all such cases shall be made to the supreme court of said Territory, the same as in other cases. The said clerk shall receive in all such cases the same fees which the clerks of the district courts of the late Wisconsin Territory received for similar services.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That there shall be appointed an attorney for said Territory, who shall continue in office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall receive the same fees and salary as the attorney of the United States for the late Territory of Wisconsin received. There shall also be a marshal for the Territory appointed, who shall hold his office for four years, unless sooner removed by the president, and who shall execute all processes issuing from the said courts, when exercising their jurisdiction as circuit and district courts of the United States; he shall perform the duties, be subject to the same regulations and penalties, and be entitled to the same fees as the marshal of the district court of the United States for the late Territory of Wisconsin; and shall, in addition, be paid two hundred dollars annually as a compensation for extra services.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That the governor, secretary, chief justice and associate justices, attorney and marshal, shall be nominated and by and with the advice and consent of the senate, appointed by the president of the United States. The governor and secretary to be appointed as aforesaid shall, before they act as such, respectively, take an oath or affirmation, before the district judge, or some justice of the peace in the limits of said Territory, duly authorized to administer oaths and affirmations by the laws now in force therein, or before the chief justice, or some associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, to support the constitution of the United States, and faithfully to discharge the duties of their respective offices, which said oaths, when so taken, shall be certified by the person by whom the same shall have been taken, and such certificates shall be received and recorded by the said secretary among the executive proceedings; and the chief justice and associate justices, and all other civil officers in said Territory, before they act as such, shall take a like oath or affirmation, before the said governor or secretary, or some judge or justice of the peace of the Territory, who may be duly commissioned and qualified, which said oath or affirmation shall be certified and transmitted, by the person taking the same, to the secretary, to be by him recorded as aforesaid; and afterwards, the like oath or affirmation shall be taken, certified and recorded in such manner and form as may be prescribed by law. The governor shall receive an annual salary of $1,500 as governor, and $1,000 as superintendent of Indian affairs. The chief justice and associate justice shall each receive an annual salary of $1,800. The secretary shall receive an annual salary of $1,800. The said salaries shall be paid quarterly, at the treasury of the United States. The members of the legislative assembly shall be entitled to receive three dollars each per day during their attendance at the session thereof, and three dollars each for every twenty miles traveled in going to and returning from the said sessions, estimated according to the nearest usually traveled route. There shall be appropriated, annually, the sum of $1,000, to be expended by the governor to defray the contingent expenses of the Territory; and there shall also be appropriated, annually, a sufficient sum to be expended by the secretary of the Territory, and upon an estimate to be made by the secretary of the treasury of the United States, to defray the expenses of the legislative assembly, the printing of the laws, and other incidental expenses, and the secretary of the Territory shall annually account to the secretary of the treasury of the United States for the manner in which the aforesaid sum shall have been expended.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That the inhabitants of the said Territory shall be entitled to all the rights, privileges and immunities heretofore granted and secured to the Territory of Wisconsin and to its inhabitants; and the laws in force in the Territory of Wisconsin at the date of the admission of the State of Wisconsin shall continue to be valid and operative therein, so far as the same be not incompatible with the provisions of this act, subject, nevertheless, to be altered, modified or repealed by the governor and legislative assembly of the said Territory of Minnesota; and the laws of the United States are hereby extended over and declared to be in force in said Territory, so far as the same, or any provision thereof, may be applicable.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That the legislative assembly of the Territory of Minnesota shall hold its first session in St. Paul; and at said first session the governor and legislative assembly shall locate and establish a temporary seat of government for said Territory, at such place as they may deem eligible; and shall at such time as they shall see proper prescribe by law the manner of locating the permanent seat of government of said Territory by a vote of the people. And the sum of twenty thousand dollars, out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, is hereby appropriated and granted to said Territory of Minnesota, to be applied by the governor and legislative assembly to the erection of suitable public buildings at the seat of government.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That a delegate of the house of representatives of the United States, to serve for the term of two years, may be elected by the voters qualified to elect members of the legislative assembly, who shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges as are exercised and enjoyed by the delegates from the several other territories of the United States to the said house of representatives. The first election shall be held at such times and places and be conducted in such manner as the governor shall appoint and direct; and at all subsequent elections the times, places and manner of holding the elections shall be prescribed by law. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be declared by the governor to be duly elected, and a certificate thereof shall be given accordingly.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That all suits, process and proceedings, civil and criminal, at law or in chancery, and all indictments and informations, which shall be pending and undetermined in the courts of the Territory of Wisconsin, within the limits of said Territory of Minnesota, when this act shall take effect, shall be transferred to be heard, tried, prosecuted and determined in the district courts hereby established, which may include the counties or districts where any such proceedings may be pending. All bonds, recognizances, and obligations of every kind whatsoever, valid under the existing laws, within the limits of said Territory, shall be valid under this act; and all crimes and misdemeanors against the laws, in force within said limits, may be prosecuted, tried, and punished in the courts established by this act; and all penalties, forfeitures, actions and causes of action may be recovered under this act the same as they would have been under the laws in force within the limits composing said Territory at the time this act shall go into operation.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That all justices of the peace, constables, sheriffs, and all other judicial and ministerial officers, who shall be in office within the limits of said Territory, when this act shall take effect, shall be and they are hereby authorized and required to continue to exercise and perform the duties of their respective offices as officers of the Territory of Minnesota, temporarily, and until they or others shall be duly appointed and qualified to fill their places, in the manner herein directed, or until their offices shall be abolished.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That the sum of $5,000 be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, to be expended by and under the direction of the said governor of the Territory of Minnesota, in the purchase of a library, to be kept at the seat of government for the use of the governor, legislative assembly, judges of the supreme court, secretary, marshal, and attorneys of said Territory, and such other persons and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by law.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That when the lands in said Territory shall be surveyed under the direction of the government of the United States, preparatory to bringing the same into market, sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in each township in said Territory shall be and the same are hereby reserved for the purpose of being applied to schools in said Territory, and in the state and territories hereafter to be erected out of the same.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That temporarily, and until otherwise provided by law, the governor of said Territory may define the judicial districts of said Territory, and assign the judges who may be appointed for said Territory to the several districts, and also appoint the times and places for holding courts in the several counties or subdivisions in each of said judicial districts, by proclamation to be issued by him; but the legislative assembly, at their first or any subsequent session, may organize, alter or modify such judicial districts, and assign the judges, and alter the times and places of holding the courts, as to them shall seem proper and convenient.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That every bill which shall or may pass the council and house of representatives, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the Territory; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it originated; which shall cause the objections to be entered at large upon their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall also be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law; but in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days, (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislative assembly, by adjournment, prevent it, in which case it shall not become a law.

THE ENABLING ACT

Act Authorizing a State Government

Henry M. Rice, delegate to Congress from the Territory of Minnesota, at the opening of Congress in December 1856 introduced a bill for an act to authorize a state government for Minnesota. The Rice bill proposed that the north, south and east boundaries of Minnesota be continued, and that the west boundary be established as a line beginning at a point in the center of the main channel of the Red River of the North at the Canadian Border and running south through Lake Traverse, through Big Stone lake, to the Big Sioux river and to the northwest corner of Iowa. In place of the Big Sioux river Congress substituted a line from the outlet of Big Stone lake due south to the Iowa border.

Considerable controversy had arisen in the territory over proposed boundaries for the State of Minnesota. There were two general groups, the East and West group and the North and South group. The East and West group proposed the Missouri river as the west boundary, and a point just north of St. Paul as the north boundary. The Rice bill followed the proposal of the North and South group.

The bill for an enabling act was not without opposition in Congress. However, Minnesota again found a friend in Senator Stephen A. Douglas who was still chairman of the Senate committee on territories. The enabling act passed Congress and was approved on February 27, 1857.

In addition to establishing boundaries for the State of Minnesota, the Enabling Act provided for a constitutional convention and an election of delegates to that convention. It further provided that the following proposals be submitted for the consideration of the constitutional convention: that sections 16 and 36 of each township be reserved for school purposes; that 72 sections of land be reserved and set aside for a state university; that ten sections be granted to the state to complete and erect public buildings at the capitol; that all salt springs, not exceeding 12, be granted to the state for its use; and that five per centum of net proceeds from the sale by Congress of public lands lying within the State of Minnesota be paid to the state for public road purposes.

The Enabling Act also authorized the State of Minnesota to have one Representative in Congress and such additional Representatives as the population of the state would entitle it to at the current ratio of representation. For the purpose of determining the population the act authorized a census to be taken by the United States marshal for the Territory of Minnesota. The census was completed in October of 1857.

ACT AUTHORIZING A STATE GOVERNMENT

[Passed Feb. 26, 1857]

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the inhabitants of that portion of the Territory of Minnesota which is embraced within the following limits, to-wit: Beginning at the point in the center of the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the boundary line between the United States and the British Possessions crosses the same; thence up the main channel of said river to that of the Bois de Sioux river; thence up the main channel of said river to Lake Traverse; thence up the center of said lake to the southern extremity thereof, thence in a direct line to the head of Big Stone lake; thence through its center to its outlet; thence by a due south line to the north line of the State of Iowa; thence along the northern boundary of said state to the main channel of the Mississippi river; thence up the main channel of said river, and following the boundary line of the State of Wisconsin, until the same intersects with the St. Louis river; thence down the said river to and through Lake Superior, on the boundary line of Wisconsin and Michigan, until it intersects the dividing line between the United States and the British Possessions; thence up Pigeon river and following said dividing line to the place of beginning, be and they hereby are authorized to form for themselves a constitution and state government by the name of the State of Minnesota, and to come into the Union on an equal footing with the original states, according to the Federal Constitution.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the State of Minnesota shall have concurrent jurisdiction on the Mississippi and all other rivers and waters bordering on the said State of Minnesota, so far as the same shall form a common boundary to said state and any state or states now or hereafter to be formed or bounded by the same; and said river or waters leading into the same shall be common highways, and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said state as to all other citizens of the United States, without any tax, duty, impost, or toll therefor.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That on the first Monday in June next, the legal voters in each representative district then existing within the limits of the proposed state, are hereby authorized to elect two delegates for each representative to which said district shall be entitled according to the apportionment for representatives to the territorial legislature; which election for delegates shall be held and conducted, and the returns made, in all respects in conformity with the laws of said Territory regulating the election of representatives, and the delegates so elected shall assemble at the capitol of said Territory on the second Monday in July next, and first determine by a vote whether it is the wish of the people of the proposed State to be admitted into the Union at that time; and if so, shall proceed to form a constitution, and take all necessary steps for the establishment of a state government, in conformity with the Federal Constitution, subject to the approval and ratification of the people of the proposed State.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That in the event said convention shall decide in favor of the immediate admission of the proposed State into the Union, it shall be the duty of the United States marshal for said Territory to proceed to take a census or enumeration of the inhabitants within the limits of the proposed State, under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the secretary of the interior, with the view of ascertaining the number of representatives to which said State may be entitled in the Congress of the United States. And said State shall be entitled to one representative, and such additional representatives as the population of the State shall, according to the census, show it would be entitled to according to the present ratio of representation.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the following propositions be and the same are hereby offered to the said convention of the people of Minnesota for their free acceptance or rejection, which, if accepted by the convention, shall be obligatory on the United States, and upon the said State of Minnesota, to-wit:

First—That sections numbered sixteen and thirty-six in every township of public lands in said State, and where either of said sections, or any part thereof, has been sold or otherwise been disposed of, other lands, equivalent thereto, and as contiguous as may be, shall be granted to said State for the use of schools.

Second—That seventy-two sections of land shall be set apart and reserved for the use and support of a state university, to be selected by the governor of said State, subject to the approval of the commissioner at the general land office, and to be appropriated and applied in such manner as the legislature of said State may prescribe; for the purpose aforesaid, but for no other purpose.

Third—Ten entire sections of land to be selected by the governor of said State, in legal subdivisions, shall be granted to said State for the purpose of completing the public buildings, or for the erection of others at the seat of government, under the direction of the legislature thereof.

Fourth That all salt springs within said State, not exceeding twelve in number, with six sections of land adjoining or as contiguous as may be to each, shall be granted to said State for its use; and the same to be selected by the governor thereof within one year after the admission of said State, and, when so selected, to be used or disposed of on such terms, conditions and regulations as the legislature shall direct; provided, that no salt spring or land the right whereof is now vested in any individual or in individuals, or which may be hereafter confirmed or adjudged to any individual or individuals, shall by this article be granted to said State

Fifth—That five per centum of the net proceeds of sales of all public lands lying within said State, which shall be sold by Congress after the admission of said State into the Union, after deducting all the expenses incident to the same, shall be paid to said State for the purpose of making public roads and internal improvements as the legislature shall direct; provided, the foregoing propositions herein offered are on the condition that the said convention which shall form the constitution of said State shall provide, by a clause in said constitution, or an ordinance, irrevocable without the consent of the United States, that said State shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same by the United States, or with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title in said soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and that no tax shall be imposed on land belonging to the United States, and that in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents.

THE MINNESOTA CONSTITUTION

The State of Minnesota is unique among constitutional governments in that it doesn't have a constitution—it has two. The circumstances which gave rise to this historical anomaly depict the strong feeling for independent political thinking which has pervaded Minnesota politics since statehood. However, any thought of illegality because of two constitutions should be promptly dismissed, for the two instruments are substantially identical, and all challenges on this issue have been quickly overturned.

The Constitutional Convention

In accordance with the Enabling Act of February 26, 1857, an election was held on June 1, 1857, at which Republican and Democratic delegates were elected to the constitutional convention. When these delegates assembled in St. Paul on July 13, 1857, to draft the Minnesota constitution, bitterness between the two parties was so intense that Republican delegates and Democratic delegates refused to meet in the same convention. As a result each party held separate sessions in different rooms of the first capitol building.

The Democratic "convention" was presided over by Henry H. Sibley, later elected first governor of Minnesota. The Republican "convention" was presided over first by John W. North, and later by St. Andrew D. Balcombe.

The political cleavage was so great that the two bodies never acted in joint meeting during the entire constitutional convention—July 13 to Aug. 29. The final work of writing the constitution was done through a conference committee composed of five conferees from each of the conventions. The conferees, by reporting to and receiving advice from their respective conventions, were able to draft a constitution that would be acceptable to both bodies. On August 28, 1857, in spite of numerous protests by delegates, the report of the conference committee was adopted without amendment by both the Republican and Democratic conventions.

However, when it came time to sign the constitution, the bitter feeling was still so intense that Democrats would not sign an instrument which bore Republican signatures, and the Republicans likewise objected to signing an instrument which bore the signatures of Democrats. The solution to this impasse is a credit to Minnesota political ingenuity—two constitutions. One constitution was written on white paper and signed only by Republicans. The other constitution was written on blue-tinted paper and signed only by Democrats. Thus, on the twenty-ninth day of August, after seven weeks of political dispute and disagreement, the "two" conventions adjourned when as many members as could bring themselves to do so signed the copy of the constitution enrolled for their particular convention.

Both copies of the constitution are now in the custody of the Minnesota Archives Commission where they are being preserved as evidence of our fundamental law, and as testimony of a unique and exciting political history.

Election to Accept the Constitution

The schedule to the constitution provided for an election to be held on October 13, 1857. At this election the voters were to accept or reject the constitution. The ballots used for this purpose were printed to provide only for affirmative votes. A voter who wished to reject the constitution had to alter his ballot and write in a negative vote. The result—30,055 for acceptance and 571 for rejection.

Approval by Congress

The procedure for acquiring statehood not only requires a constitution to be approved by the voters of the proposed state, the constitution must also be approved by Congress. In December of 1857 the Minnesota constitution was submitted to the United States Senate for ratification.

A certified copy of the Democratic constitution was transmitted to the Senate by the territorial secretary—a Democrat. This copy was attached to the bill for the admission of Minnesota into the union. However, when the bill was reported back from the Senate, historians report that the Republican constitution was attached. In any event, there is substantial authority that both constitutions were before Congress when Minnesota was admitted to the union on May 11, 1857.

But, in reality the constitution ratified by Congress was not the original constitution. At the election of October 13, 1857, in addition to voting on the constitution, the voters elected executive, legislative and judicial officers. The state officers were content to wait for the act of Congress before assuming office. But the legislature took a contrary view. It convened on December 3, 1857, on the theory that under the Enabling Act the statehood of Minnesota began when the voters approved the constitution. Even though this theory was incorrect, the legislature proceeded to enact laws, the effect of which have remained undisturbed by the courts. The first two acts passed by the legislature were proposed amendments to the constitution. One amendment authorized a loan to railroads of $5,000,000, and the other related to the term of office of the first state officers. These amendments were ratified by the voters at a special election held April 15, 1858. Thus, it would appear that the constitution which Congress approved on May 11, 1858, was an amended constitution—not the original adopted by the constitutional convention and approved by the voters in 1857.

Changing the constitution — Revision — Amendment

Although Minnesota's constitution originated in a stormy climate of frontier political cleavages, it has endured 100 years without substantial change. Amendments to the constitution have not changed its basic framework, nor have they affected the fundamental concepts which it embodies. In general, Minnesotans have found the constitution well suited to their moral, social and political needs. From time to time, however, the procedures for changing the constitution have evoked the pros and cons of various groups.

Revision by Constitutional Convention

The constitution has never been revised by constitutional convention. This is probably due to the difficult procedures which must be followed to secure such a revision. Revision by constitutional convention requires the following procedure: (1) The proposal for calling a revising convention must be approved by "two-thirds of the members elected to each branch of the legislature;" (2) If approved by the legislature, the proposal for a constitutional convention must be submitted at the next general election and be approved by a majority of all votes cast at the election; (3) If approved at such election, the next session of the legislature must provide for a convention, and for the election of delegates to the convention; (4) The constitution adopted by the convention must be submitted to the voters at the next general election held not less than 90 days after its adoption by the convention. If at such election three-fifths of the voters voting on the question of ratification approved the constitution, the constitution so ratified shall constitute a new constitution for the State of Minnesota.

Prior to 1954 a majority of all votes cast at the election was required for the ratification of a revised constitution. This was changed to a three-fifths vote of all voters voting on the question of ratification by an amendment approved on November 2, 1954, which added a new Section 3 to Article XIV.

Amending the Constitution

Since approval of the constitution by the voters in 1857, 175 amendments have been proposed, 90 have been adopted, 85 rejected.

The only change which has been made in the procedure for adopting amendments occurred in 1898 when the voters approved an amendment to Section 1 of Article XIV. Prior to this change, an amendment was adopted whenever the affirmative vote on the question of adoption exceeded the negative vote. Subsequent to 1898 an amendment to be adopted has had to receive an affirmative vote of at least a majority of all votes cast at the election.

The amending procedure which existed from 1858 to 1898, inclusive, was the result of a compromise arrived at by the constitutional convention of 1857. The conference committee of the constitutional convention was divided on the issue of whether the question of negro suffrage should be submitted to the voters. Certain Republican members insisted on this proposal, and certain Democrats were unyielding in their opposition to it. At one point the feeling between two members of the conference committee was so intense that they came to blows in the committee room. These two members were asked to stay away from future committee meetings, and the remaining eight members of the committee proceeded to find a compromise. The Republicans gave up their proposal for negro suffrage in exchange for a simplified provision for amending the constitution. The hope of the Republicans was that they would control the state in the future and be able to accomplish their objective for negro suffrage by amendment. The amendment providing for negro suffrage was adopted in 1868.

The vote on the adoption of the 1898 amendment to Section 1 of Article XIV illustrates the difference between the effect of the rule applicable from 1858 to 1898 and the one applicable subsequent to 1898. The actual vote on the 1898 amendment was 69,760 yes votes and 32,881 no votes. Thus, because under the rule in effect in 1898 only a majority of yes votes on the question of adoption was required, the amendment was adopted. However, if the rule proposed by this 1898 amendment were applied, the amendment would not have passed because it failed to receive an affirmative vote equal to a majority of all votes cast at the election. The total vote cast at the election was 251,250, and in order to be adopted the amendment would have required an affirmative vote of 125,626.

Amendments Adopted Since 1857

The constitution originally consisted of a preamble, fifteen articles and a schedule. The purpose of the schedule was to provide for the transition from a territory to a state. The eighty-three amendments to the constitution have been in the form of changes or additions to existing articles, and the addition of new articles. Today the constitution has twenty articles. The changes and additions have been made as follows:

ARTICLE 1. BILL OF RIGHTS. This section sets forth rights similar to those guaranteed under the bill of rights of the federal constitution, except the Minnesota bill of rights prohibits slavery. This article has been amended five times.

Section 4. Trial by jury. Amendment approved November 4, 1890, authorized a five-sixths verdict in civil cases. Vote 66,929 yes, 41,341 no. This provision was not implemented by the legislature until passage of Chapter 63, Laws of 1913. A five-sixths verdict is sufficient after twelve hours' deliberation by the jury in civil cases as provided in Section 546.17, Minnesota Statutes.

Section 7. Due process; prosecution; second jeopardy; self-incrimination; bail; habeas corpus. Amendment approved November 8, 1904, eliminated the necessity of a grand jury indictment in certain criminal cases. Total vote 322,692, yes 164,055, no 52,152.

Section 12. Imprisonment for debt; property exemption. Amendment approved November 6, 1888, authorized workmen's and materialmen's liens on property which is exempt from seizure or sale for the payment of debt. Vote 153,908 yes, 52,946 no.

Section 13. Private property for public use. Amendment approved November 3, 1896, provided that compensation for private property taken for public use shall include property which is "destroyed or damaged." Vote 101,188 yes, 56,839 no.

Section 18. No license to peddle. Amendment approved November 6, 1906, added this section to guarantee the right of persons to sell produce from their farm or garden without obtaining a license. Total vote 284,366, yes 190,897, no 34,094.

ARTICLE II. NAME AND BOUNDARIES. This article has never been amended. However, the establishment of the northern boundary at the Lake of the Woods was not completed until 1877 when a four year survey was completed and reported to Congress.

ARTICLE III. DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT. This article provides for the separation of the powers of government into three departments—legislative, executive and judicial. All additions or changes of state departments and agencies appear to have been within the framework of this basic constitutional structure. This article has never been amended.

ARTICLE IV. LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT. This article divides the legislature into two bodies, the senate and the house of representatives. It covers the apportionment, term, qualifications and duties of members, and establishes certain rules of legislative procedure. Fourteen amendments to this section have been adopted, however, the amendment adopted in 1881 added both sections 33 and 34.

Section 1. Length of session; limit on introduction of new bills. Amendment approved November 6, 1860, limited legislative sessions to 60 days. Vote 19,785 yes, 442 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1877, provided for biennial sessions of the legislature. Prior to this amendment the legislature met annually as prescribed by statute. Vote 37,995 yes, 20,833 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1888, extended the limit of legislative sessions from 60 to 90 days, and added the provision that during the last 20 days no bill shall be introduced except upon the written request of the governor. Vote 150,003 yes, 52,946 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1962 extended the limit on legislative sessions from 90 to 120 days and changed the limit on the introduction of new bills with the written request of the governor from 20 to 30 days. Vote 706,761 yes, 393,538 no.

Section 11. Approval of bills by Governor; action on non-approval. Amendment approved November 7, 1876, authorized the governor to veto items of an appropriation bill and at the same time approve other items in the same bill. Vote 47,302 yes, 4,426 no.

Section 24. Senatorial districts, term of office of senators and representatives. Amendment approved November 6, 1877, extended the term of state representatives from one to two years, and of state senators from two to four years. Vote 33,072 yes, 25,099 no.

Section 32 (a). Change of form of taxation of railroads to be voted upon. Amendment approved November 8, 1871, added this section to provide that any changes in the railroad gross earnings tax be submitted to a vote of the people, and be adopted by a majority of votes at said election. Vote 41,814 yes, 9,216 no. Although this provision as adopted was numbered Section 32, it is designated as Section 32 (a) to avoid confusion with an amendment adopted in 1872 which was also numbered Section 32. The amendment of 1872 is now designated as Section 32 (b).

Section 32 (b). Internal improvement lands; investment of proceeds in bonds. Amendment approved November 5, 1872, added this section to provide for the sale of internal improvement lands, for the investment of the proceeds in bonds, and for the establishment of the Internal Improvement Land Fund. Money belonging to this fund cannot be appropriated until the legislative act for that purpose is approved by a majority of votes cast at the next general election following its enactment. Under this provision, Chapter 71, Extra Session 1881, pledged the proceeds of this fund to the payment of Minnesota State Railroad adjustment bonds, and was approved at the general election of 1884 by 31,011 yes votes with, 13,589 no votes. This section was adopted as Section 32, but is designated as Section 32 (b) to avoid confusion with the previous section. Vote 55,438 yes, 4,331 no.

Section 33. Against special legislation. Amendment approved November 8, 1881, added this section to restrict the powers of the legislature in enacting special or private laws. Vote 35,019 yes, 18,320 no.

Amendment approved November 8, 1892, added the first sentence relating to general laws and the proviso to Section 33, and made general changes in the text. Vote 77,614 yes, 19,538 no.

Amendment approved November 4, 1958 revised and consolidated provisions on local government by amending this section, repealing section 36 of this article, and amending Article XI.

Section 34. General laws under the amendment of 1881. Amendment approved November 8, 1881, added this section and section 33 to Article IV. The effect of this section appears to have been modified by the amendment to section 33 approved in 1892. Vote 77,614 yes, 19,583 no.

Section 35. Against combinations or pools to affect markets. Amendment approved November 6, 1888, added this section to prohibit combinations or pools to monopolize markets for food products. Vote 194,932 yes, 13,064 no.

ARTICLE V. EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT. This article provides that the executive department shall consist of a governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and attorney general. The term of office of these officers has always been two years, except that of auditor which was originally set for three years and later amended to four years. In the general election in 1958, this article was amended to provide four-year terms for all the constitutional executive officers. This article has been amended seven times.

Section 2. Election returns to be sent to secretary of state. Amendment approved November 6, 1877, established a state canvassing board consisting of the Secretary of state, two or more judges of the supreme court, and two judges of the district court. Prior to this amendment returns of votes for the state officers were made to the secretary of state, and by him transmitted to the speaker of the house of representatives, who would have them opened and canvassed before both houses of the legislature. Vote 36,072 yes, 21,814 no.

Section 3. Official term of governor and lieutenant governor: Qualifications. Amendment approved November 4, 1958, provides that the term of office for Governor and Lieutenant Governor shall be four years beginning with the general election in 1962. Vote 641,887 yes, 382,505 no.

Section 4. Powers and duties of governor. Amendment approved November 3, 1896, changed power of governor to grant pardons by providing that the power to pardon be exercised in conjunction with the state board of pardons. The board of pardons was established to include the governor, attorney general and chief justice of the supreme court. Vote 130,354 yes, 45,097 no.

Amendment approved November 2, 1954, changed the term of appointment which the governor makes to fill vacancies in elective offices. Prior to this amendment such appointments were only until the next annual election. The effect of this provision is observed in the 1952 election when there had to be two votes for the office of secretary of state, one for two months of the unexpired term from November to January, and the other for the new term beginning the first Monday in January. The amendment eliminates this by providing that such appointments shall be for the unexpired term or until the first Monday in January following the next general election which ever is sooner. Total vote 1,168,101, 636,237 yes, 282,212 no.

Section 5. Official term of other executive officers. Amendment approved November 6, 1883, extended the term of office of the state auditor from three to four years. It also deleted from this section the first salaries of the governor $2,500, the secretary of state $1,500, and the auditor, treasurer and attorney general $1,000. Salaries for these officers are prescribed by statute. Vote 74.375 yes, 24,359 no.

Amendment approved November 4, 1958, provides for the election of the secretary of state, treasurer, and attorney general for four-year terms beginning with the general election in 1962. Vote 641,887 yes, 382,505 no.

Section 6. Succession to governor and emergency continuity of government. Amendment approved November 8, 1960 provides that in case the governor is unable to discharge his powers and duties they devolve upon the lieutenant governor. The legislature is authorized to provide a further line of succession and for emergency government made necessary by enemy attack. Vote 974,486 yes, 305,245 no.

Section 7. Official terms of first State officers. Amendment approved April 15, 1858, added this section to provide for the term of office of the first State officers. This amendment was approved prior to the admission of the state into the union on May 11, 1858.

ARTICLE VI. JUDICIARY. This article has been the subject of nine amendments. The last amendment, adopted in 1956, completely revised this article. Article VI provides for a supreme court, a district court, a probate court and such other courts as the legislature may establish. Prior to the 1956 revision this article also specified justices of the peace.

Amendment approved November 6, 1956, set forth a revised article VI which provides a reorganization of the state judicial system. The amendment was proposed by Chapter 881, Laws of 1955. Total vote 1,442,856. 939,957 yes, 307,178 no.

Amendments adopted prior to the 1956 revision are as follows:

Section 2. Supreme Court. Amendment approved November 6, 1883, extended the term of the Clerk of the Supreme Court from three years to four. Vote 73.565 yes, 24,359 no.

Amendment approved November 4, 1930, increased the number of associate justices of the supreme court to six. Prior language provided for two associate justices, with a possible increase not to exceed four by a two-thirds vote of the legislature. Total vote 828,401, 428,013 yes, 130,833 no.

Section 3. Election and term of office for judges. This section now covers judicial districts and district judges.

Amendment approved November 7, 1876, authorized district judges to sit as supreme court justices whenever all or a majority of supreme court justices were disqualified. Vote 41,069 yes, 6,063 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1883, reduced term of office of supreme court from seven to six years. Vote 73,565 yes, 24,016 no.

Section 4. Judicial districts for district court; election of judges; term of office and residence. This section now covers district court clerks only.

Amendment approved November 2, 1875, removed limitations on the number of judicial districts and number of district judges. Prior to this amendment this section provided for six judicial districts and one judge in each district. Vote 22,560 yes, 18,534 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1883, reduced the term of office of district judge from seven to six years. Vote 73,565 yes, 24,016 no.

Section 7. Probate court; judges to be elected; jurisdiction. Amendment approved November 2, 1920, extended term of office of judges of probate from two to four years. Total vote 797,953, 446,959 yes, 171,414 no.

Amendment approved November 2, 1954, authorized the legislature to establish qualifications for probate judges, and by a two-thirds vote extend the jurisdiction of the probate court. Total vote 1,168,101, 610,138 yes, 303,838 no.

This section now covers qualifications of judges.

ARTICLE VII. ELECTIVE FRANCHISE. This article covers the right to vote, election by ballot, right to hold office, residence of certain persons, and the official year. This article has been amended five times.

The right to vote was originally limited to male persons, but by amendments women were given the right to vote for and hold school and library offices. Although the limitation to male voters has never been officially deleted from the Minnesota constitution, the limitation to males is generally excluded when printing the constitution since the full right of suffrage was extended to women under the nineteenth amendment to the United States Constitution.

There have been six amendments to this article.

Section 1. Elective franchise. Amendment approved November 3, 1868, deleted the restriction in the constitution which limited the right to vote to "white" citizens. The objective of this amendment was to extend the right to vote to negro voters. The question of negro suffrage had been a crucial issue in the conference committee at the constitutional convention. Some of the Republican members of the committee insisted that this question be submitted to the voters, whereas certain Democrats objected strongly. The strained relations in the conference committee were alleviated by an apparent compromise. Republican members gave up their proposal to have this question submitted to the voters, in exchange for a simple provision for future constitutional amendments. The future expectations of these Republican members were realized when this amendment was adopted eleven years later. Vote 39,493 yes, 30,121 no.

Amendment approved November 3, 1896, disqualified aliens from the right to vote. Originally aliens were permitted to vote if they had declared their intention to become a citizen. Residence requirements were also changed from one year in the United States, four months in the state and ten days in the election district, to six months in this state and thirty days in the election district. Vote 97,980 yes, 52,454 no.

Amendment approved November 8, 1960, removes obsolete provisions relating to persons of Indian blood, and authorizes the legislature to make special provision waiving the thirty day precinct residence provision. Vote 993,186 yes, 302,217 no.

Section 8. Women may vote. This section is obsolete under provisions of the United States Constitution, nineteenth amendment.

Amendment adopted November 2, 1875, added this section to extend to women the right to vote for and hold any office pertaining to the management of schools. Vote 24,340 yes, 19,468 no.

Amendment adopted November 8, 1898, extended to women the right to vote for and hold offices pertaining to the management of libraries. Vote 71,704 yes, 43,660 no.

Section 9. Official year of the State. Amendment approved November 6, 1883, added this section to establish the official year for the state and the date for the general election. Vote 75,782 yes, 24,082 no.

ARTICLE VIII. SCHOOL FUNDS, EDUCATION AND SCIENCE. This article authorizes a uniform system of public schools, provides for certain school funds, and confirms the establishment of the University of Minnesota. It has been amended twelve times.

Old Section 2. Proceeds of school lands to be a perpetual fund. Amendment approved November 2, 1875, authorized the legislature to enact suitable laws for the safe investment of all school funds which arise from use or sale of school lands. Originally the constitution merely declared the proceeds from the sale of school lands a perpetual fund, and that the principal of said fund shall be preserved inviolate and undiminished. Vote 28,755 yes, 10,517 no.

Amendment approved November 8, 1881, provided for the sale of swamp lands and the division of proceeds therefrom. Vote 51,903 yes, 8,440 no.

Amendment approved November 7, 1916, authorized a revolving fund for improving and protecting unsold school and swamp lands. Total vote 416,215, 240,975 yes, 58,100 no.

This section was eliminated by the amendment of November 6, 1962.

Present Section 2. Public schools in each township to be established. Amendment approved November 6, 1877, prohibited the use of school funds to aid sectarian schools. Vote 36,780 yes, 16,667 no.

Present Section 4. Investment of permanent school and swamp land funds. Amendment approved November 6, 1962 replaced former sections 2 and 5 and broadened the authority of the state investment board in managing the permanent school fund. It also established the investment board by constitution (previously it was set up by statute). The amendment placed the swamp land fund in the permanent school fund and permitted the latter's investment in securities of the United States and its agencies, United States guaranteed securities, bonds of the state of Minnesota or its political subdivisions or agencies, bonds of other states, corporate stocks (not more than 20% of the fund), and corporate bonds (not more than 40% of the fund), and removed the former provision limiting investment of school funds arising from the use or sale of school lands to interest-bearing bonds of the United States, the State of Minnesota, and other states. Vote 728,255 yes, 385,723 no.

Old Section 5. Permanent school funds may be loaned to districts or counties for school purposes. Amendment approved November 2, 1886, added this section to provide that permanent school funds may be loaned to districts or counties for school purposes. Vote 131,533 yes, 17,914 no.

This section was eliminated by the amendment of November 6, 1962.

Present Section 5. Investment of university funds; approval; bonded indebtedness not to exceed 15 per cent, draw not less than two per cent, run not less than one year nor more than 30 years. Amendment adopted November 3, 1896, added this section to permit the investment of permanent school and university funds in the bonds of certain municipalities. Vote 127,151 yes, 36,134 no.

Amendment approved November 8, 1904, increased the debt limitation from seven to fifteen per cent of assessed valuation for municipalities which borrow from the school funds. Total vote 322,692, 190,718 yes, 39,334 no.

Amendment approved November 7, 1916, authorized the investment of school and university funds in first farm mortgages. Total vote 416,215, 211,529 yes, 56,147 no.

Amendment approved November 3, 1942, added swamp land funds to this section, and reduced the minimum rate of interest from three per cent to two per cent and the minimum term of loans from five years to one year. Total vote 818,182, 415,012 yes, 190,563 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1962 removed swamp land funds and the permanent school fund from this section.

Present Section 6. Timber lands set apart as state forests; disposition of revenue. Amendment approved November 3, 1914, added this section which authorized the legislature to establish state school forests, and other forests, from school and other public lands. Total vote 356,906, 178,954 yes, 44,033 no.

Present Section 7. Exchange of public lands, reservation of rights. Amendment approved November 8, 1938, added this section to authorize exchange of state public lands for private or United States lands. Total vote 1,144,926, 609,046 yes, 259,007 no.

ARTICLE IX. FINANCES OF THE STATE AND BANKS AND BANKING. This is the most frequently amended article. It accounts for twenty-three amendments. However, twenty-three amendments have actually affected this article, for the 1956 highway amendment in addition to providing a revised Article XVI on public highways, also repealed section 36 of this article.

Section 1. Power of taxation; legislature may authorize. Amendment approved November 2, 1869, authorized legislation to permit special assessments by municipal corporations. Vote 26,636 yes, 2,560 no.

Amendment approved November 8, 1881, authorized assessments on a property frontage basis for certain municipal improvements. Vote 35,019 yes, 18,320 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1894 authorized an inheritance tax. Vote 108,332 yes, 41,242 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1906, replaced the former sections 1, 2, 3 and 4 and the unnumbered amendment of 1896. This amendment set forth the section substantially in its present form. It is commonly known as the "wide open tax amendment." This amendment removed all controls upon the legislature's power of taxation, except for the requirement that taxes be uniform upon the same class of subjects, that taxes be for public purposes, and that certain taxes are exempt from taxation. Total vote 284,366, 156,051 yes, 46,982 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1934, authorized a limited exemption from taxation for household goods and farm machinery. Total vote 1,064,332, 630,125 yes, 181,126 no.

Section 1A. Occupation tax. Amendment approved November 7, 1922, added this section to provide for an occupation tax on mining ore, and apportioned the proceeds of the tax to the general revenue fund 50 per cent, Permanent School Fund 40 per cent, and the Permanent University Fund 10 per cent. Total vote 714,630, 474,679 yes, 91,011 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1956, allocated the ore occupation tax to current school and university needs. Prior to this amendment the occupation tax on ore was apportioned to the permanent school and university funds, and only the interest from these funds could be spent for school needs. Total vote 1,443,856, 1,084,627 yes, 209,311 no.

Section 1B. Portion of occupation tax placed in veterans compensation fund. Amendment approved November 7, 1950, added this section to require that notwithstanding the provisions of Section 1A a portion of the proceeds from the ore occupation tax be paid into the veterans compensation fund. Total vote 1,067,967, 594,092 yes, 290,870 no.

Section 2. This section was eliminated by the amendment of November 6, 1906.

Amendment approved November 6, 1860, amended this section and section 10 to provide for popular approval of the tax to pay the Minnesota Railroad Bonds. The amendment to section was later held unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of contract established by the bonds. Vote 19,785 yes, 442 no.

Section 3 and 4. Eliminated by amendment of November 6, 1906.

Section 5. Authority to levy and distribution of motor vehicle fuel tax. Amendment approved November 4, 1924, authorized the gasoline tax, with proceeds to be placed in the Trunk Highway Fund. Total vote 860,151, 520,769 yes, 197,451 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1928, changed the distribution of gas tax to one-third to State Road and Bridge Fund and two-thirds to Trunk Highway Fund. Total vote 1,070,274, 542,796 yes, 346,109 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1962 removed the former conditions for incurring state debt including the $250,000 debt limit and changed the distribution of the gas tax by placing all the proceeds therefrom in the highway user fund. Vote 728,255 yes, 385,723 no.

Section 6. State debt; how contracted. Amendment approved November 6, 1962 removed the former conditions for contracting long term state debt and authorized the issuance of bonds for certain specified purposes upon a ⅗ vote of all the members of the legislature and for terms of not more than 20 years. The amendment also empowered the legislature to provide for short term borrowing on certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of the collection of taxes and other revenues.

Section 7. Limitation as to when debt may be contracted; definition of public debt.

Amendment approved November 6, 1962 added a definition of public debt.

Section 10. Credit of the State limited. Amendment approved April 15, 1858, authorized a loan of $5,000,000 to railroads for constructing railroads within the state. The constitution as approved in 1857 prohibited loans to private persons or corporations. Vote 25,023 yes, 6,733 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1860, eliminated the provision for issuance of railroad bonds which had been added by the amendment of 1858. Vote 18,648 yes, 743 no.

Amendment approved November 7, 1922, established a system of rural credits where loans could be made to private individuals for development of agricultural resources. Total vote 714,630, 526,936 yes, 199,603 no.

Section 12. State school fund; investment; safe keeping; all State funds to be deposited in name of State. Amendment approved November 4, 1873, generally revised this section. Vote 21,143 yes, 5,438 no.

Section 14 (a). Special loan for hospital building for insane. Amendment approved November 5, 1872, added this section to authorize an increase in the public debt and issuance of bonds to erect and complete state hospitals for the insane, deaf, dumb and blind, and a state prison. Vote 29,158 yes, 26,881 no.

This section was eliminated by amendment adopted November 6, 1962.

Section 14 (b). County, city or township aid to railroads limited. Amendment approved November 5, 1872 added this section restricting to ten per cent the indebtedness of counties and municipalities in the issuance of bonds to aid railroads. Section 15 is identical with this section, except that it reduces the limit of indebtedness from ten to five per cent. Vote 27,916 yes, 7,796 no.

Section 15. County, city or township aid to railroads limited. Amendment approved November 4, 1879, added this section to restrict to five per cent the indebtedness of counties and municipalities in the issuance of bonds to aid railroads. This section is identical with Section 14 (b) above, except it reduces the limit of indebtedness to five per cent. Vote 54,810 yes, 1,700 no.

Section 16. State Road and Bridge Fund. This section was replaced by the new Article XVI approved November 6, 1956.

Amendment approved November 8, 1898, added this section to provide a state road and bridge fund. Vote 70,043 yes, 38,017 no.

Amendment approved November 6, 1906, deleted provisions relating to the establishment and powers of the State Highway Commission, and increased the limit on the annual tax levy. This amendment is often called the "good roads" amendment. It was declared adopted by judgment entered in the district court in the election contest proceedings of McConaughy vs Secretary of State. Total vote by judgment of the court 284,366, yes 157,377. The state canvassing board had determined 141,870 yes, and 49,232 no.

Amendment approved November 8, 1910, increased the state's contribution to the cost of road and bridge construction from not more than one-third to not more than one-half. Total vote 310,165, 159,746 yes, 44,387 no.

Amendment approved November 5, 1912, increased the annual road and bridge levy to one mill, and eliminated restrictions on the state's contribution to road and bridge construction. Total vote 349,678, 195,724 yes, 51,135 no.

Unnumbered Section. Amendment approved November 3, 1896, added an unnumbered section to the end of Article IX. The amendment provided for a system of progressive taxation upon certain industries. Vote 163,694 yes, 42,922 no. This section was eliminated by the amendment of November 6, 1906.

ARTICLE X. CORPORATIONS HAVING NO BANKING PRIVILEGES. This article has been amended three times.

Section 3. Liability of stockholders. Amendment approved November 5, 1872, amended this section to except from personal liability stockholders of corporations organized to carry on a manufacturing or mechanical business. Prior to this amendment a stockholder in any corporation was liable to the amount of stock held by him. Vote 23,091 yes, 21,794 no.

Amendment approved November 4, 1930, gave to the legislature the power to prescribe the liabilities of stockholders except for stockholders of banks and trust companies whose personal liability was prescribed by this section to be an amount equal to the stock owned. Total vote 828,401, 486,818 yes, 135,345 no.

Amendment approved November 2, 1954, eliminated the liability of stockholders in banks and trust companies. Total vote 1,168,101, 624,611 yes, 290,039 no.

ARTICLE XI. Amended November 4, 1958 to revise and consolidate the provisions on local government, to regulate the passage of special laws relating thereto, and to provide for the adoption and amendment of home rule charters by cities and villages and by other local government units when authorized by law. Vote 712,552 yes, 309,848 no. This article has been amended twice to date.

The original Article XVI set forth seventy trunk highways in the constitution. The designation of trunk highway routes in the constitution was eliminated by the 1956 amendment. The argument advanced in 1920 for including such routes in the constitution was that it would make the routes practically unchangeable, whereas if fixed by the legislature the routes would be subject to change at subsequent legislative sessions. This amendment is often referred to as the "Babcock" or "Trunk Highway Amendment." Total vote 797,945, 526,936 yes, 199,603 no.

ARTICLE XIV. AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION. Only two amendments have been made to this article.

Section 1. Amendments to constitution; majority vote of electors voting makes amendment valid. Amendment approved November 8, 1898, raised the majority required to adopt an amendment from a majority of those voting on the question of ratification to a majority of all the electors voting at the election. This amendment also added the provision that amendments be submitted at any "general election." Vote 69,760 yes, 32,881 no.

Section 3. Constitution drafted at revising convention submitted to voters. Amendment approved November 2, 1954, added this section to provide that a constitution drafted at a revising convention shall be submitted to the people at the next general election, and if approved by three-fifths of the voters voting on the question of ratification it shall be the new constitution. Prior to this section, approval at the election required a majority of all votes cast at the election. Total vote 1,168,101, 638,818 yes, 266,434 no.

ARTICLE XVI. PUBLIC HIGHWAYS. A new Article XVI was approved on November 6, 1956. It was proposed by Chapter 882, Laws of 1955, and takes the place of the former Article XVI and Article IX, section 16. This new article became effective January 1, 1957.

Section XVI was the first article to be added to the original fifteen articles of the constitution. This article accounts for three amendments to the constitution.

Amendment approved November 6, 1956, provided new Article XVI. Total vote 1,443,856, 1,060,063 yes, 230,707 no.

Amendment approved November 2, 1920, added Article XVI to the constitution and established the state Trunk Highway System.

Section 3. Motor vehicle tax. Amendment approved November 8, 1932, amended section 3 of the old Article XVI to authorize a motor vehicle tax on companies paying taxes under the gross earnings system of taxation. Total vote 1,054,203, 537,292 yes, 227,634 no.

ARTICLE XVII. FOREST FIRES: PREVENTION, ABATEMENT. Amendment approved November 4, 1924, added this article to authorize the state and municipal subdivisions to contract debt and pledge credit for forest fire prevention.

ARTICLE XVIII. FORESTATION AND REFORESTATION. Amendment approved November 2, 1926, added this article to encourage the development of forests and to authorize a special tax levy for such purpose. Total vote 722,781, 383,003 yes, 127,592 no.

ARTICLE XIX. AERONAUTICS. Amendment approved November 7, 1944, added this article to provide for the construction and maintenance of airports. This article provides for the taxation of air motor fuel and for a use tax on aircraft. Total vote 1,195,397, 737,011 yes, 264,149 no.

ARTICLE XX. VETERANS BONUS. Amendment approved November 2, 1948, added this article to provide a bonus for veterans of World War II.

ARTICLE I

Bill of Rights

Object of government. SECTION 1. Government is instituted for the security, benefit and protection of the people, in whom all political power is inherent, together with the right to alter, modify or reform such government, whenever the public good may require it.

Rights and Privileges. SEC. 2. No member of this State shall be disfranchised, or deprived of any of the rights or privileges secured to any citizen thereof, unless by the law of the land, or the judgment of his peers. There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the State otherwise than the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

Liberty of the press. SEC. 3. The liberty of the press shall forever remain inviolate, and all persons may freely speak, write and publish their sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right.

Trial by jury. SEC. 4. The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, and shall extend to all cases at law without regard to the amount in controversy, but a jury trial may be waived by the parties in all cases in the manner prescribed by law; [and the legislature may provide that the agreement of five-sixths of any jury in any civil action or proceeding, after not less than six (6) hours' deliberation, shall be a sufficient verdict therein.][1]

No excessive bail or unusual punishments. SEC. 5. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor shall excessive fines be imposed; nor shall cruel or unusual punishments be inflicted.

Rights of accused in criminal prosecutions. SEC. 6. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the county or district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which county or district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, to be confronted with the witnesses against him, to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defense.[2]

Due process; prosecutions; second jeopardy; self-incrimination; bail; habeas corpus. SEC. 7. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law, and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law. All persons shall before conviction be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require.

Redress of injuries or wrongs. SEC. 8. Every person is entitled to a certain remedy in the laws for all injuries or wrongs which he may receive in his person, property or character; he ought to obtain justice freely and without purchase; completely and without denial; promptly and without delay, conformable to the laws.

Treason defined. SEC. 9. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against the same, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

Right against unreasonable searches. SEC. 10. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the person or things to be seized.

Prohibits ex post facto laws, or laws impairing contracts. SEC. 11. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, nor any law impairing the obligation of contracts shall ever be passed, and no conviction shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate.

Imprisonment for debt; property exemption. SEC. 12. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in this State,[2] but this shall not prevent the legislature from providing for imprisonment, or holding to bail, persons charged with fraud in contracting said debt. A reasonable amount of property shall be exempt from seizure or sale for the payment of any debt or liability. The amount of such exemption shall be determined by law. [Provided, however, that all property so exempted shall be liable to seizure and sale for any debts incurred to any person for work done or materials furnished in the construction, repair or improvement of the same, and provided further, that such liability to seizure and sale shall also extend to all real property for any debt incurred to any laborer or servant for labor or service performed.][4]

Private property for public use. SEC. 13. Private property shall not be taken, destroyed or damaged for public use without just compensation therefor, first paid or secured.[5]

Military power subordinate. SEC. 14. The military shall be subordinate to the civil power, and no standing army shall be kept up in this State in times of peace.

Lands declared allodial; leases, when void. SEC. 15. All lands within the State are declared to be allodial, and feudal tenures of every description, with all their incidents, are prohibited. Leases and grants of agricultural lands for a longer period than twenty-one years hereafter made, in which shall be reserved any rent or service of any kind, shall be void.

Freedom of conscience; no preference to be given to any religious establishment or mode of worship. SEC. 16. The enumeration of rights in this constitution shall not be construed to deny or impair others retained by and inherent in the people. The right of every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience shall never be infringed, nor shall any man be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship, or to maintain any religious or ecclesiastical ministry, against his consent; nor shall any control of or interference with the rights of conscience be permitted, or any preference be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship; but the liberty of conscience hereby secured shall not be so construed as to excuse acts of licentiousness, or justify practices inconsistent with the peace or safety of the State, nor shall any money be drawn from the treasury for the benefit of any religious societies, or religious or theological seminaries.

No religious test or property qualifications to be required. SEC. 17. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification for any office of public trust under the State. No religious test or amount of property shall ever be required as a qualification of any voter at any election in this State; nor shall any person be rendered incompetent to give evidence in any court of law or equity in consequence of his opinion upon the subject of religion.

No license to peddle. SEC. 18. Any person may sell or peddle the products of the farm or garden occupied and cultivated by him without obtaining a license therefor.[6]

[2]The jury contemplated by article 1, section 6, securing the right to jury trial in criminal cases, is a body of twelve men, and it is error to try a party charged with crime in a justice court, against his objection, with a jury of six. The fact that he may appeal to the district court, on entering into recognizance with sureties, does not change the rule. 14 Minn. 330.

[3]23 Minn. 1; 23 Minn. 411.

[5]The words "destroyed or damaged" inserted by amendment adopted November 3, 1896.

On Name and Boundaries

Name and boundaries. SECTION 1. This State shall be called and known by the name of the State of Minnesota, and shall consist of and have jurisdiction over the territory embraced in the following boundaries, to-wit: Beginning at the point in the center of the main channel of the Red River of the North, where the boundary line between the United States and British Possessions crosses the same; thence up the main channel of said river to that of the Bois des Sioux river; thence up the main channel of said river to Lake Traverse, thence up the center of said lake to the southern extremity thereof; thence in a direct line to the head of Big Stone lake; thence through its center to its outlet; thence by a due south line to the north line of the State of Iowa; thence east along the northern boundary of said State to the main channel of the Mississippi river; thence up the main channel of said river and following the boundary line of the State of Wisconsin until the same intersects the St. Louis river; thence down the said river to and through Lake Superior, on the boundary line of Wisconsin and Michigan, until it intersects the dividing line between the United States and British Possessions; thence up Pigeon river and following said dividing line to the place of beginning.[1]

Jurisdiction on bordering rivers. SEC. 2. The State of Minnesota shall have concurrent jurisdiction on the Mississippi and on all other rivers and waters bordering on the said State of Minnesota, so far as the same shall form a common boundary to said State, and any other state or states now or hereafter to be formed by the same; and said rivers and waters, and navigable waters leading into the same, shall be common highways and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of said State as to other citizens of the United States, without any tax, duty, impost, or toll therefor.

Acceptance of propositions in enabling act. SEC. 3. The propositions contained in the act of Congress entitled, "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government, preparatory to their admission into the Union on equal footing with the original states," are hereby accepted, ratified and confirmed, and shall remain irrevocable without the consent of the United States; and it is hereby ordained that this State shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same, by the United States, or with any regulations Congress may find necessary for securing the title to said soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and no tax shall be imposed on lands belonging to the United States and in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents.

a distance of about twenty miles, making a wedge-shaped jog through the lake until it strikes firm ground on the west bank of the lake; thence in a due south line to the 49th parallel. The explanation of this jog is found in the subjoined paragraphs. In the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, section 19 reads as follows: Sec. 19. Resolved that the following described (also represented on said map as before mentioned), is, in the opinion of the commissioners, so far as the same extends, the true boundary intended by the before mentioned treaties, namely: * * * thence through the middle of the waters of this bay to the northwest extremity of the same; being the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods, and from a monument in this bay, on the nearest firm ground to the above northwest extremity of said bay, the courses and distances are as follows: 56° W. 1,565½ feet; 2nd, N. 6° W. 861½ feet; 3rd, N. 28° W. 615.4 feet; 4th, N. 27° 10′ W. 495.4 feet; 5th, N. 5° 10′ E. 1,322½ feet; 6th, N. 70° 45′ W. 493 feet, the variation being 12° east. The termination of this 6th and last course and distance being the above said most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods, as designated by the seventh article of the treaty of Ghent, and being in latitude 49° 23′ 55″ north of the equator, and in longitude 95° 14′ 38″ west from Greenwich. The second article of the convention of 1818 is as follows: Article 2. It is agreed that a line drawn from the most northwestern point of the Lake of the Woods along the 49th parallel of north latitude, or, if the said point shall not be in the 49th parallel of north latitude, then that a line drawn from the said point due north or south, as the case may be, until the said line shall intersect the said parallel of north latitude, and from the point of such intersection due west, along and with the said parallel, shall be the line of demarkation between the territories of the United States and His Britannic Majesty, and that the said line shall form the northern boundary of the said territories of the United States and the southern boundary of His Britannic Majesty, from the Lake of the Woods to the Stony Mountains. This boundary was re-established and determined by a commission authorized by congress, and the surveys embracing four years were made and reported to congress in 1877.

ARTICLE III

Distribution of the Powers of Government

Division of powers. SECTION 1. The powers of government shall be divided into three distinct departments—legislative, executive, and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to or constituting one of these departments shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except in the instances expressly provided in this constitution.[1]

[1]Courts cannot control or interfere with an executive officer of the state in his official acts, even though they are such that the duty to perform them might have been entrusted to some other officer. 28 Minn. 50.

ARTICLE IV

Legislative Department

Length of session; limit on introduction of new bills. 1-SEC. 1. The legislature shall consist of the Senate and House of Representatives. The senate shall be composed of members elected for a term of four years and the house of representatives shall be composed of members elected for a term of two years by the qualified voters at the general election.

The legislature shall meet at the seat of government in regular session in each odd numbered year at the time prescribed by law for a term not exceeding 120 legislative days; and no new bill shall be introduced in either branch, except on the written request of the Governor, during the last 30 days of such sessions.

A special session of the legislature may be called as otherwise provided by this constitution.

Apportionment of members. SEC. 2. The number of members who compose the Senate and House of Representatives shall be prescribed by law, but the representation in the Senate shall never exceed one member for every 5,000 inhabitants, and in the House of Representatives one member for every 2,000 inhabitants. The representation in both houses shall be apportioned equally throughout the different sections of the State, in proportion to the population thereof, exclusive of Indians not taxable under the provisions of law.

Eligibility of members; quorum. SEC. 3. Each house shall be the judge of the election returns and eligibility of its own members; a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to transact business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day and compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as it may provide.

Rules of government. SEC. 4. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, sit upon its own adjournment, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member; but no member shall be expelled the second time for the same offense.

Officers; journal of proceedings. SEC. 5. The House of Representatives shall elect its presiding officer and the Senate and House of Representatives shall elect such other officers as may be provided by law; they shall keep journals of their proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, and the yeas and nays, when taken on any question, shall be entered on such journals.

Length of adjournments. SEC. 6. Neither house shall, during a session of the legislature, adjourn for more than three days (Sundays excepted), nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be assembled, without the consent of the other house.

Compensation. SEC. 7. The compensation of senators and representatives shall be three dollars per diem during the first session, but may afterwards be prescribed by law. But no increase of compensation shall be prescribed which shall take effect during the period for which the members of the existing House of Representatives may have been elected.

Privilege from arrest. SEC. 8. The members of each house shall in all cases, except treason, felony, and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during the session of their respective houses, and in going to or returning from the same. For any speech or debate in either house they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Restriction as to holding office. SEC. 9. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he is elected, hold any office under the authority of the United States or the State of Minnesota, except that of postmaster, and no senator or representative shall hold an office under the state which has been created or the emoluments of which have been increased during the session of the legislature of which he was a member, until one year after the expiration of his term of office in the legislature.

Bills of revenue to originate in House. SEC. 10. All bills for raising a revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose and concur with the amendments as on other bills.

Approval of bills by Governor; action on non-approval. SEC. 11. Every bill which shall have passed the Senate and House of Representatives, in conformity to the rules of each house and the joint rules of the two houses, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor of the State. If he approves, he shall sign and deposit it in the office of secretary of state for preservation, and notify the house where it originated of the fact. But if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated; when such objections shall be entered at large on the journal of the same, and the house shall proceed to reconsider the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if it be approved by two-thirds of that house it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house, respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within three days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature, by adjournment within that time, prevents its return; in which case it shall not be a law. The governor may approve, sign and file in the office of the secretary of state, within three days after the adjournment of the legislature, any act passed during the last three days of the session, and the same shall become a law.

Governor may cut out items of appropriation bills and otherwise approve. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriation of money, he may object to one or more of such items, while approving of the other portion of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session, he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by two-thirds of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section, in relation to bills not approved by the governor, shall apply in cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

Money appropriations, how made. SEC. 12. No money shall be appropriated except by bill. Every order, resolution or vote requiring the concurrence of the two houses (except such as relate to the business or adjournment of the same) shall be presented to the governor for his signature, and, before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being returned by him with his objections, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the members of the two houses, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in case of a bill.

Majority vote of all members-elect to pass a law. SEC. 13. The style of all laws of this State shall be: "Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota." No law shall be passed unless voted for by a majority of all the members elected to each branch of the legislature, and the vote entered upon the journal of each house.

Impeachment powers. SEC. 14. The House of Representatives shall have the sole power of impeachment, through a concurrence of a majority of all the members elected to seats therein. All impeachments shall be tried by the Senate; and when sitting for that purpose the senators shall be upon oath or affirmation to do justice according to law and evidence. No person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Exclusion from civil rights. SEC. 15. The legislature shall have full power to exclude from the privilege of electing or being elected any person convicted of bribery, perjury, or any other infamous crime.

Protest and dissent of members. SEC. 16. Two or more members of either house shall have liberty to dissent and protest against any act or resolution which they may think injurious to the public or to any individual, and have the reason of their dissent entered on the journal.

Vacancies in legislature. SEC. 17. The governor shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies as may occur in either house of the legislature. The legislature shall prescribe by law the manner in which evidence in cases of contested seats in either house shall be taken.

Punish for disorderly conduct. SEC. 18. Each house may punish by imprisonment, during its session, any person, not a member, who shall be guilty of any disorderly or contemptuous behavior in their presence, but no such imprisonment shall at any time exceed twenty-four hours.

Open Sessions. SEC. 19. Each house shall be open to the public during the sessions thereof, except in such cases as in their opinion may require secrecy.

Reading of bills. SEC. 20. Every bill shall be read on three different days in each separate house, unless, in case of urgency, two-thirds of the house where such bill is pending shall deem it expedient to dispense with this rule; and no bill shall be passed by either house until it shall have been previously read twice at length.

Enrollment of bills. SEC. 21. Every bill having passed both houses shall be carefully enrolled, and shall be signed by the presiding officer of each house. Any presiding officer refusing to sign a bill which shall have previously passed both houses shall thereafter be incapable of holding a seat in either branch of the legislature, or hold any other office of honor or profit in the State, and in case of such refusal, each house shall, by rule, provide the manner in which such bill shall be properly certified for presentation to the governor.

Passage of bills on last day of session prohibited. SEC. 22. No bill shall be passed by either house of the legislature upon the day prescribed for the adjournment of the two houses. But this section shall not be so construed as to preclude the enrollment of a bill, or the signature and passage from one house to the other, or the reports thereon from committees, or its transmission to the executive for his signature.

Census enumeration; apportionment. SEC. 23. The legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of this State in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and every tenth year thereafter. At their first session after each enumeration so made, and also at their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe the bounds of congressional, senatorial and representative districts, and to apportion anew the senators and representatives among the several districts according to the provisions of section second of this article.

Senatorial districts; term of office of senators and representatives. SEC. 24. The senators shall be chosen by single districts of convenient contiguous territory, at the same time that members of the house of representatives are required to be chosen, and in the same manner; and no representative district shall be divided in the formation of a senate district. The senate districts shall be numbered in a regular series. The terms of office of senators and representatives shall be the same as now prescribed by law until the general election of the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight (1878), at which time there shall be an entire new election of all senators and representatives. Representatives chosen at such election, or at any election thereafter, shall hold their office for the term of two years, except it be to fill a vacancy; and the senators chosen at such election by districts designated as odd numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the second year, and senators chosen by districts designated by even numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the fourth year; and thereafter senators shall be chosen for four years, except there shall be an entire new election of all the senators at the election of representatives next succeeding each new apportionment provided for in this article.

Qualification of legislators. SEC. 25. Senators and representatives shall be qualified voters of the State, and shall have resided one year in the State, and six months immediately preceding the election in the district from which they are elected.

Senators to Congress. SEC. 26. Members of the Senate of the United States from this State shall be elected by the two houses of the legislature in joint convention, at such time and in such manner as may be provided by law.[2]

Laws to embrace only one subject. SEC. 27. No law shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title.

Divorces. SEC. 28. Divorces shall not be granted by the legislature.

Oath of office. SEC. 29. All members and officers of both branches of the legislature shall, before entering upon the duties of their respective trusts, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation to support the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of the State of Minnesota, and faithfully and impartially to discharge the duties devolving upon him as such member or officer.

Elections viva voce. SEC. 30. In all elections to be made by the legislature, the members thereof shall vote viva voce, and their votes shall be entered on the journal.

Prohibition of lotteries. SEC. 31. The legislature shall never authorize any lottery or the sale of lottery tickets.

Change of form of taxation of railroads to be voted upon. SEC. 32. [a] Any law providing for the repeal or amendment of any law or laws heretofore or hereafter enacted, which provides that any railroad company now existing in this State or operating its road therein, or which may be hereafter organized, shall, in lieu of all other taxes and assessments upon their real estate, roads, rolling stock, and other personal property, at and during the time and periods therein specified, pay into the treasury of this State a certain percentage therein mentioned of the gross earnings of such railroad companies now existing or hereafter organized, shall, before the same shall take effect or be in force, be submitted to a vote of the people of the State, and be adopted and ratified by a majority of the electors of the State voting at the election at which the same shall be submitted to them.

Internal improvement lands; investment of proceeds in bonds. SEC. 32 [b] All lands donated to the State of Minnesota for the purpose of internal improvement, under the eighth section of the act of Congress, approved September fourth, eighteen hundred and forty-one, being "An act to appropriate the proceeds of the sale of the public lands, and to grant pre-emption rights," shall be appraised and sold, in the same manner and by the same officers, and the minimum price shall be the same as is provided by law for the appraisement and sale of the school lands, under the provisions of title one (1), chapter thirty-eight, of the General Statutes, except the modifications hereinafter mentioned. All moneys derived from the sales of said lands shall be invested in the bonds of the United States, or of the State of Minnesota issued since 1860; and the moneys so invested shall constitute the Internal Improvement Land Fund of the State. All moneys received by the county treasurer under the provisions of title one (1), chapter thirty-eight (38), aforesaid derived from the sale of internal improvement lands, shall be held at all times subject to the order and direction of the state treasurer, for the benefit of the fund to which it belongs; and on the fifteenth day of June in each year, and at such other times as he may be requested so to do by the state treasurer, he shall pay over to the said state treasurer all moneys received on account of such fund.

The bonds purchased in accordance with this amendment shall be transferable only upon the order of the governor, and on each bond shall be written "Minnesota Internal Improvement Land Fund of the State, transferable only on the order of the governor."

Principal not to be reduced. The principal sum from all sales of internal improvement lands shall not be reduced by any charges or costs of officers, by fees, or by any other means whatever; and section fifty (50), of title one (1), chapter thirty-eight (38), of the General Statutes, shall not be applicable to the provisions of this amendment, and wherever the words "school lands" are used in said title, it shall read as applicable to this amendment, "Internal Improvement Lands."

Appropriations therefrom to be voted upon before valid. The moneys belonging to the Internal Improvement Land Fund shall not be appropriated for any purpose whatever until the enactment for that purpose shall have been approved by a majority of the electors of the State voting at the annual general election following the passage of the act.[3]

The force of this amendment shall be to authorize the sale of the internal improvement lands, without further legislative enactment.

Special legislation. SEC. 33. In all cases when a general law can be made applicable, no special law shall be enacted, except as provided in Article XI; and whether a general law could have been made applicable in any case is hereby declared a judicial question, and as such shall be judicially determined without regard to any legislative assertion on that subject. The legislature shall pass no local or special law authorizing the laying out, opening, altering, vacating or maintaining roads, highways, streets or alleys; remitting fines, penalties or forfeitures; changing the names of persons, places, lakes or rivers; authorizing the adoption or legitimation of children; changing the law of descent or succession; conferring rights upon minors; declaring any named person of age; giving effect of informal or invalid wills or deeds, or affecting the estate of minors or persons under disability; exempting property from taxation or regulating the rate of interest on money; creating private corporations, or amending, renewing, extending or explaining the characters thereof; granting to any private corporation, association, or individual any special or exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise whatever or authorizing public taxation for a private purpose. The inhibitions of local or special laws in this section shall not be construed to prevent the passage of general laws on any of the subjects enumerated.

The legislature may repeal any existing special or local law, but shall not amend, extend or modify any of the same except as provided in Article XI.[4]

Refers to amendment of 1881, superseded as above. SEC. 34. The legislature shall provide general laws for the transaction of any business that may be prohibited by section one (1) of this amendment, and all such laws shall be uniform in their operation throughout the State.

Against combinations or pools to affect markets. SEC. 35. Any combinations of persons, either as individuals or as members or officers of any corporation, to monopolize the markets for food products in this State, or to interfere with, or restrict the freedom of, such markets, is hereby declared to be a criminal conspiracy, and shall be punished in such manner as the legislature may provide.

[1]Adopted November 6, 1962.
[2]While still law, this is of no effect because of passage of Federal Constitution No. 17 in 1913.
[3]By chapter 71, G. L. of 1881, extra session, the proceeds of this fund were pledged to the payment of Minnesota State Railroad adjustment bonds, and the law was voted upon and approved at the general election of 1884, by 31,011 votes in favor and 13,589 votes against.
[4]Changed by amendment adopted November 4, 1958.

Executive Department

Officers in executive department. SECTION 1. The executive department shall consist of a governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer and attorney general, who shall be chosen by the electors of the State.[1]

Election returns to be sent to secretary of state. SEC. 2. The returns of every election for the officers named in the foregoing section shall be made to the secretary of state, who shall call to his assistance two or more of the judges of the supreme court, and two disinterested judges of the district courts of the State, who shall constitute a board of canvassers, who shall open and canvass said returns and declare the result within three days after such canvass.

Offical term of governor and lieutenant governor—qualifications. SEC. 3. The term of office for the Governor and Lieutenant Governor shall be four years, and until their successors are chosen and qualified. Each shall have attained the age of 25 years and shall have been a bona fide resident of the state for one year next preceding his election. Both shall be citizens of the United States.[4]

[2]Powers and duties of governor. SEC. 4. The governor shall communicate by message to each session of the legislature such information touching the state and condition of the country as he may deem expedient. He shall be commander-in-chief of the military and naval forces, and may call out such forces to execute the laws, suppress insurrection and repel invasion. He may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices; and he shall have power, in conjunction with the board of pardons, of which the governor shall be ex officio a member, and the other members of which shall consist of the attorney general of the State of Minnesota and the chief justice of the supreme court of the State of Minnesota, and whose powers and duties shall be defined and regulated by law, to grant reprieves and pardons after conviction for offenses against the State, except in cases of impeachment. He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint a state librarian and notaries public, and such other officers as may be provided by law. He shall have power to appoint commissioners to take the acknowledgment of deeds or other instruments in writing, to be used in the State. He shall have a negative upon all laws passed by the legislature, under such rules and limitations as are in this Constitution prescribed. He may on extraordinary occasions convene both houses of the legislature. He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, fill any vacancy that may occur in the office of secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, and such other state and district offices as may be hereafter created by law, until the end of the term for which the person who had vacated the office was elected, or the first Monday in January following the next general election whichever is sooner and until their successors are chosen and qualified.

Official term of other executive officers. SEC. 5. The official term of the secretary of state, treasurer, attorney general, and state auditor shall be four years, and each shall continue in office until his successor shall have been elected and qualified. The further duties and salaries of the executive officers shall each be prescribed by law.[5]

Duties of Lieutenant Governor—emergency continuity. SEC. 6. The Lieutenant Governor shall be ex officio president of the Senate; and in case a vacancy should occur, from any cause whatever, in the office of Governor, he shall be Governor during such vacancy. The compensation of Lieutenant Governor shall be double the compensation of a State Senator. Before the close of each session of the Senate they shall elect a president pro tempore, who shall be Lieutenant Governor in case a vacancy should occur in that office. In case the Governor shall be unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office, the same shall devolve on the Lieutenant Governor. The legislature may by law provide for the case of the removal, death, resignation, or inability both of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor to discharge the duties of Governor and may provide by law for continuity of government in periods of emergency resulting from disasters caused by enemy attack in this state, including but not limited to, succession to the powers and duties of public office and change of the seat of government.[6]

Oath of office to be taken by State officers. SEC. 8. Each officer created by this article shall, before entering upon his duties, take an oath of affirmation to support the Constitution of the United States and of this State, and faithfully discharge the duties of his office to the best of his judgment and ability.

[1]An executive officer of the state is not subject to the control or interference of the judiciary in the performance of duties belonging to him as an executive officer, and no act done, or threatened to be done, by him in his official capacity can be brought under judicial control or interference by mandamus or injunction, even when the act is purely ministerial, 29 Minn. 555.

Supreme Court. SEC. 2. The supreme court shall consist of one chief judge and not less than six nor more than eight associate judges, as the legislature may establish. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court.

A judge of the district court may be assigned as provided by law temporarily to act as a judge of the supreme court upon its request.

The supreme court shall appoint, to serve at its pleasure, a clerk, a reporter, a state law librarian, and such other employees as it may deem necessary.

Judicial districts; district judges. SEC. 3. The number and boundaries of judicial districts shall be established or changed in the manner provided by law but the office of a district judge may not be abolished during his term. There shall be two or more district judges in each district. Each judge of the district court in any district shall be a resident of such district at the time of his selection and during his continuance in office.

District court clerks. SEC. 4. There shall be elected in each county one clerk of the district court, whose qualifications and duties shall be prescribed by law, and whose term of office shall be four years. His compensation shall be prescribed by law and shall not be diminished during his term of office. Adopted Nov. 6, 1956.

Jurisdiction of district court. SEC. 5. The district court shall have original jurisdiction in all civil and criminal cases, and shall have such appellate jurisdiction as may be prescribed by law.

Jurisdiction of probate court. SEC. 6. The Probate Court shall have unlimited original jurisdiction in law and equity for the administration of the estates of deceased persons and all guardianship and incompetency proceedings, and such further jurisdiction as the legislature may establish, including jurisdiction over the administration of trust estates and for the determination of taxes contingent upon death. Until otherwise provided by law, each county shall constitute a probate court district and there shall be one or more probate judges in each district. Each judge of the probate court in any district shall be a resident of such district at the time of his selection and during his continuance in office.

Qualifications; compensation. SEC. 7. Judges of the supreme court, the district court, and the probate court shall be learned in the law. The qualifications of all other judges and judicial officers shall be prescribed by law. The compensation of all judges shall be prescribed by the legislature and shall not be diminished during their term of office.

Terms of office; election; re-election. SEC. 8. The term of office of all judges shall be six years and until their successors are qualified, and they shall be elected in the manner provided by law by the electors of the state, districts, county, municipality, or other territory wherein they are to serve.

Holding other office. SEC. 9. Judges of the supreme court and the district court shall not hold any office under the United States except a commission in a reserve component of the military forces of the United States and shall not hold any other office under this state. The term of office of any such judge shall terminate at the time he files as a candidate for an elective office of the United States or for a nonjudicial office of this state.

Retirement. SEC. 10. The legislature may provide by law for retirement of all judges, for the extension of the term of any judge who shall become eligible for retirement within three years after expiration of the term for which he is selected and for the removal of any judge who is incapacitated while in office.

Appointment. SEC. 11. Whenever there is a vacancy in the office of judge the governor shall appoint in the manner provided by law a qualified person to fill the vacancy, to hold office until his successor is elected and qualified. The successor shall be elected for a six year term at the next general election occurring more than one year after such appointment.

Retired judges. SEC. 12. As provided by law, a retired judge may be assigned to hear and decide any cause over which the court he is assigned shall have jurisdiction.

Schedule

(a) All justices of the peace shall continue in office each for the remainder of his term which remains unexpired at the time this Article takes effect.

(b) All probate judges in office at the time this Article takes effect shall be deemed learned in the law for the purpose of continuance in, and reelection to, any judicial office inferior to the district court.

(c) All municipal courts in existence at the time this Article takes effect shall continue in existence until otherwise provided by law.

(d) Salary schedules, in effect when this Article takes effect for the compensation of judges, court commissioners, clerks of court, and other court employes, shall remain in effect until otherwise prescribed by the legislature or provided by law.

(e) Statutory provisions fixing the retirement compensation of judges, in effect when this Article takes effect shall remain in effect until otherwise provided by law.

(f) The office of court commissioner in any county at the time this Article takes effect shall continue in existence until otherwise provided by law.

[1]The Supreme Court shall consist of one chief justice and four associate justices. G. L. 1881, ch. 141, Article VI including schedule adopted November 6, 1956.

ARTICLE VII

Elective Franchise

Elective franchise. SECTION 1. Every person of the age of twenty-one years or more who has been a citizen of the United States for three months and who has resided in this state six months and in the precinct for thirty days next preceding an election shall be entitled to vote in that precinct, and the place of voting by one otherwise qualified who has changed his residence within thirty days preceding the election may be prescribed by law.[1]

Non-eligible. SEC. 2. No person not belonging to one of the classes specified in the preceding section; no person who has been convicted of treason or any felony, unless restored to civil rights and no person under guardianship, or who may be non compos mentis or insane, shall be entitled or permitted to vote at any election in this State.

Residence not lost in certain cases. SEC. 3. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have lost a residence by reason of his absence while employed in the service of the United States; nor while engaged upon the waters of this State or of the United States; nor while a student in any seminary of learning; nor while kept at any almshouse or asylum; nor while confined in any public prison.

Soldiers and sailors—restriction. SEC. 4. No soldier, seaman or marine in the army or navy of the United States shall be deemed a resident of this State in consequence of being stationed within the same.

Civil process suspended on election day. SEC. 5. During the day on which any election shall be held, no person shall be arrested by virtue of any civil process.

Elections by ballots. SEC. 6. All elections shall be by ballot, except for such town officers as may be directed by law to be otherwise chosen.

Right to hold office. SEC. 7. Every person who by the provisions of this article shall be entitled to vote at any election shall be eligible to any office which now is, or hereafter shall be, elective by the people in the district wherein he shall have resided thirty days previous to such election, except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, or the Constitution and law of the United States.[2]

Women. SEC. 8. Women may vote for school officers and members of library boards, and shall be eligible to hold any office pertaining to the management of schools or libraries. Any woman of the age of twenty-one years and upward and possessing the qualifications requisite to a male voter, may vote at any election held for the purpose of choosing any officers of schools or any members of library boards, or upon any measure relating to schools or libraries, and shall be eligible to hold any office pertaining to the management of schools and libraries.

Official year of the State. SEC. 9. The official year for the State of Minnesota shall commence on the first Monday in January in each year, and all terms of office shall terminate at that time; and the general election shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. The first general election for state and county officers, except judicial officers, after the adoption of this amendment, shall be held in the year A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four (1884), and thereafter the general election shall be held biennially. All state, county or other officers elected at any general election, whose terms of office would otherwise expire on the first Monday of January, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six (1886), shall hold and continue in such offices, respectively, until the first Monday in January, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (1887).

[1]Adopted November 8, 1960.

[2]Held restrictive and to disqualify a person from holding an elective office who was not eligible at the date of his election, though eligible at the beginning of the term. 45 Minn. 309.

ARTICLE VIII

School Funds, Education and Science

Uniform system of public schools. SECTION 1. The stability of a republican form of government depending mainly upon the intelligence of the people, it shall be the duty of the legislature to establish a general and uniform system of public schools.[1]

Public schools in each township to be established. SEC. 2. The legislature shall make such provisions, by taxation or otherwise, as, with the income arising from the school fund, will secure a thorough and efficient system of public schools in each township in the State.

Prohibition as to aiding sectarian school. But in no case shall the moneys derived as aforesaid, or any portion thereof, or any public moneys or property, be appropriated or used for the support of schools wherein the distinctive doctrines, creeds or tenets of any particular Christian or other religious sect are promulgated or taught.

University of Minnesota — location confirmed. SEC. 3. The location of the University of Minnesota, as established by existing laws, is hereby confirmed, and said institution is hereby declared to be the University of the State of Minnesota. All the rights, immunities, franchises and endowments heretofore granted or conferred are hereby perpetuated unto the said university; and all lands which may be granted hereafter by Congress, or other donations for said university purposes, shall vest in the institution referred to in this section.

Investment of permanent school and swamp land funds. [2]SEC. 4. The permanent school fund of the state shall consist of (a) the proceeds of such lands as are or hereafter may be granted by the United States for the use of schools within each township, (b) the proceeds derived from swamp lands granted to the State, and (c) all cash and investments now or hereafter credited to the permanent school fund and to the swamp land fund. No portion of said lands shall be sold otherwise than at public sale, and in the manner provided by law. All funds arising from the sale or other disposition of such lands, or income accruing in any way before the sale or disposition thereof, shall be credited to the permanent school fund. Within limitations prescribed by law, to secure the maximum return thereon consistent with the maintenance of the perpetuity of the fund, such fund may be invested in: (1) interest bearing fixed income securities of the United States and of its agencies, fixed income securities guaranteed in full as to payment of principal and interest by the United States, bonds of the State of Minnesota, or its political subdivisions or agencies, or of other states, but not more than 50 percent of any issue by a political subdivision, shall be purchased; (2) stocks of corporations on which cash dividends have been paid from earnings for five consecutive years or longer immediately prior to purchase, but not more than 20 percent of said fund shall be invested therein at any given time, nor more than one percent in stock of any one corporation, nor shall more than five percent of the voting stock of any one corporation be owned; (3) bonds of corporations whose earnings have been at least three times the interest requirements on outstanding bonds for five consecutive years or longer immediately prior to purchase, but not more than 40 percent of said fund shall be invested in corporate bonds at any given time. The percentages referred to above shall be computed using the cost price of the stocks or bonds. The principal of the permanent school fund shall be perpetual and inviolate forever; provided, that this shall not prevent the sale of any public or private stocks or bonds at less than the cost thereof to the fund; however, all losses not offset by all gains, shall be repaid to the fund from the interest and dividends earned thereafter. The net interest and dividends arising from the investment thereof shall be distributed to the different school districts of the state in proportion to the number of scholars in each district between the ages of five and twenty-one years. No such investment shall be made until approved by a board of investment consisting of the governor, the state auditor, the state treasurer, the secretary of state, and the attorney general, who are hereby constituted a state board of investment for the purpose of administering and directing the investment of all state funds.

The state board of investment shall not permit the fund to be used for the underwriting or direct purchase of municipal securities from the issuer or his agent.

Investment of university funds; approval; bonded indebtedness not to exceed 15 percent, draw not less than two percent, run not less than one year nor more than 30 years. [3]SEC. 5. The permanent university fund of this state may be loaned to or invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town, or village of this state and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state, but no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 percent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town, or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any such farm loan or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 percent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgaged to secure said investment; nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than two percent per annum, nor for a shorter period than one year nor for a longer period than 30 years and no change of the town, school district, city, village, or county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village, or city in this state at the time of issuing such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds.

[4]SEC. 6. Such of the school and other public lands of the state as are better adapted for the production of timber than for agriculture, may be set apart as state school forests, or other state forests, as the legislature may provide, and the legislature may provide for the management of the same on forestry principles. The net revenue therefrom shall be used for the purposes for which the lands were granted to the State.

[5]SEC. 7. Any of the public lands of the state, including lands held in trust for any purpose, may, with the unanimous approval of a commission consisting of the governor, the attorney general and the state auditor, be exchanged for lands of the United States and/or privately owned lands in such manner as the legislature may provide, and the lands so acquired shall be subject to the trust, if any, to which the lands exchanged therefor were subject, and the state shall reserve all mineral and water power rights in lands so transferred by the state.

[1]Article 8, section 1, which directs the establishment of a general and uniform system of public schools, does not prohibit the legislature from providing public schools other than those included in the general system, or creating exceptional districts, to meet particular and exceptional cases; and the exception from the operation of a general law relating to public schools of independent school districts, and schools specially provided for, does not violate the constitutional provision. 25 Minn. 1.

ARTICLE IX

Finances of the State and Banks and Banking

Power of taxation — legislature may authorize. [1]SECTION 1. The power of taxation shall never be surrendered, suspended or contracted away. Taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, and shall be levied and collected for public purposes, but public burying grounds, public school houses, public hospitals, academies, colleges, universities, and all seminaries of learning, all churches, church property and houses of worship, institutions of purely public charity, and public property used exclusively for any public purpose, shall be exempt from taxation, and there may be exempted from taxation personal property not exceeding in value $200, for each household, individual or head of a family, and household goods and farm machinery, as the legislature may determine; Provided, that the legislature may authorize municipal corporations to levy and collect assessments for local improvements upon property benefited thereby without regard to a cash valuation, and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect, modify or repeal any existing law providing for the taxation of the gross earnings of railroads.

Occupation tax. [2]SEC. 1A. Every person, co-partnership, company, joint stock company, corporation, or association however or for whatever purpose organized, engaged in the business of mining or producing iron ore or other ores in this State, shall pay to the State of Minnesota an occupation tax on the valuation of all ores mined or produced, which tax shall be in addition to all other taxes provided by law, said tax to be due and payable from such person, co-partnership, company, joint stock company, corporation, or association however or for whatever purpose organized, on May first of the calendar year next following the mining or producing thereof. The valuation of ore for the purpose of determining the amount of tax to be paid shall be ascertained in the manner and method provided by law. Funds derived from the tax herein provided for shall be used as follows: 50 percent to the state general revenue fund, 40 percent for the support of elementary and secondary schools and ten percent for the general support of the university. The legislature shall by law make the necessary provisions for carrying out the provisions of this section.

NOTE—The part of this section providing for distribution of the fund, adopted November 6, 1956.

[3]Portion of Occupation Tax Placed in Veterans' Compensation Fund. SEC. 1B. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 1A of Article 9 of the Constitution, a portion of the proceeds of the occupation tax on the valuation of all ores mined or produced to be paid by every person, co-partnership, company, joint stock company, corporation, or association however or for whatever purpose organized, engaged in the business of mining or producing iron ore or other ores in this state, equal to the proceeds of a tax of one percent on such valuation levied in the manner provided by law, shall be paid into the veterans compensation fund before the remaining funds derived from the occupation tax are apportioned as provided by Section 1A of Article 9 of the Constitution.

This amendment when approved by the people and proclaimed, all as provided by law, shall be effective as of the first day of January, 1949. In the event that the provisions of the preceding sentence shall be held to contravene the constitution of the United States of America, the remaining provisions of this section shall stand as valid and continue in full force and effect.

This section of the constitution shall expire on December 31, 1958, except as to the proceeds of the occupation taxes theretofore levied and thereafter collected.

N. B.—Sections 2, 3 and 4 obsolete, because in 1906 there was adopted the section which now is Section 1 in this article. It supplanted Sections 1, 2, 3 and 4 and the unnumbered section of 1896. This amendment is sometimes called the wide open tax amendment. No amendments have been adopted to take the place of the old Sections 2, 3 and 4. There is therefore a gap in the numbering from 1 to 5.

Authority to levy, and distribution of motor vehicle fuel tax. [4]SEC. 5. The state shall never be a party in carrying on works of internal improvements, except as authorized by this Constitution, but it may levy an excise tax upon any substance, material, fluid, force, or other means or instrumentality, or the business of dealing in, selling, or producing any or all thereof, used or useful, in producing or generating power for propelling motor or other vehicles used on the public highways of this state, and shall place the proceeds of such tax in the highway user tax distribution fund provided for in this Constitution, and further except in cases where grants of land or other property shall have been made to the state, especially dedicated by the grant to specific purposes, and in such cases the state shall devote thereto the avails of such grants, and may pledge or appropriate the revenues derived from such works in aid of their completion.

State debt; how contracted. [5]SEC. 6. Subdivision 1. The state may contract public debts, for which its full faith, credit, and taxing powers may be pledged, at such times and in such manner as shall be authorized by law, but only for the purposes and subject to the conditions stated in this section.

Subd. 2. Public debt may be contracted:

(a) for the acquisition and betterment of public land and buildings and other public improvements of a capital nature, and to provide moneys to be appropriated or loaned to any agency or political subdivision of the state for such purposes; provided any law authorizing such debt is adopted by the vote of at least three fifths of the members of each branch of the legislature;

(b) as authorized in any other section or article of this Constitution;

(c) for temporary borrowing as authorized in subdivision 3;

(d) for refunding outstanding bonds of the state or any of its agencies, whether or not the full faith and credit of the state has been pledged for the payment of such bonds; and for refunding certificates of indebtedness authorized by the legislature prior to January 1, 1963.

Subd. 3. As authorized by law, certificates of indebtedness may be issued during each biennium, commencing on July 1 in each odd-numbered year and ending on and including June 30 in the next odd-numbered year, in anticipation of the collection of taxes levied for and other revenues appropriated to any fund of the state for expenditure during that biennium.

No such certificates shall be issued with respect to any fund when the amount thereof with interest thereon to maturity, added to the then outstanding certificates against the same fund and interest thereon to maturity, will exceed the then unexpended balance of all moneys which will be credited to that fund during the biennium under existing laws; except that the maturities of any such certificates may be extended by refunding to a date not later than December 1 of the first full calendar year following the biennium in which such certificates were issued. If moneys on hand in any fund are not sufficient to pay all non-refunding certificates of indebtedness issued on such fund during any biennium and all certificates refunding the same, plus interest thereon, which are outstanding on December 1 immediately following the close of such biennium, the state auditor shall levy upon all taxable property in the state a tax collectible in the then ensuing year sufficient to pay the same on or before December 1 of such ensuing year, with interest to the date or dates of payment.

Subd. 4. Public debt other than certificates of indebtedness authorized in subdivision 3 shall be evidenced by the issuance of the bonds of this state. All bonds issued under the provisions of this section shall mature within not more than 20 years from their respective dates of issue, and each law authorizing the issuance of such bonds shall distinctly specify the purpose or purposes thereof and the maximum amount of the proceeds authorized to be expended for each purpose. The state treasurer shall maintain a separate and special state bond fund on his official books and records, and when the full faith and credit of the state has been pledged for the payment of such bonds the state auditor shall levy each year on all taxable property within the state a tax sufficient, with the balance then on hand in said fund, to pay all principal and interest on state bonds issued under the provisions of this section, due and to become due within the then ensuing year and to and including July 1 in the second ensuing year. The legislature may by law appropriate funds from any source to the state bond fund, and the amount of moneys actually received and on hand pursuant to such appropriations prior to the levy of such tax in any year, shall be used to reduce the amount of tax otherwise required to be levied.

Limitation as to when debt may be contracted; definition of public debt. [6]SEC. 7. The state shall never contract any public debt, unless in time of war, to repel invasion or suppress insurrection, except in the cases and in the manner provided and referred to in the sixth section of this article. Public debt includes any obligation payable directly, in whole or in part, from a tax of state-wide application on any class of property, income, transaction or privilege, but does not include any obligation which is payable from revenues other than taxes.

Disposition of funds received for bonds. SEC. 8. The money arising from any loan made, or debt or liability contracted, shall be applied to the object specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or to the repayment of such debt or liability, and to no other purpose whatever.

Money drawn from the State treasury. SEC. 9. No money shall ever be paid out of the treasury of this State except in pursuance of an appropriation by law.

Credit of the State limited. SEC. 10. The credit of the State shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association or corporation, except as hereinafter provided. Nor shall there be any further issue of bonds denominated "Minnesota State Railroad Bonds," under what purports to be an amendment to Section ten (10) of Article nine (9) of the Constitution, adopted April 15th, 1858, which is hereby expunged from the Constitution, saving, excepting and reserving to the State, nevertheless, all rights, remedies and forfeitures accruing under said amendment. [7]Provided, however, that for the purpose of developing the agricultural resources of the state, the State may establish and maintain a system of rural credits and thereby loan money and extend credit to the people of the State upon real estate security in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by law, and to issue and negotiate bonds to provide money to be so loaned. The limit of indebtedness contained in Section 5 of this Article shall not apply to the provisions of this Section, and the purposes for which the credit of the State or the aforesaid municipal subdivisions thereof may be given or loaned as herein provided are declared to be public purposes.

Publication of receipts and expenditures by treasurer. SEC. 11. There shall be published by the treasurer, in at least one newspaper printed at the seat of government, during the first week in January in each year, and in the next volume of the acts of legislature, detailed statements of all moneys drawn from the treasury during the preceding year, for what purpose and to whom paid, and by what law authorized; and also of all moneys received, and by what authority and from whom.

State school fund — investment — safe keeping—All State funds to be deposited in name of State. SEC. 12. Suitable laws shall be passed by the legislature for the safe keeping, transfer and disbursements of the State and school funds; and all officers and other persons charged with the same or any part of the same, or the safe keeping thereof, shall be required to give ample security for all moneys and funds of any kind received by them; to make forthwith and keep an accurate entry of each sum received, and of each payment and transfer; and if any of said officers or other persons shall convert to his own use in any manner or form, or shall loan, with or without interest, or shall deposit in his own name, or otherwise than in the name of the State of Minnesota; or shall deposit in banks or with any person or persons, or exchange for other funds or property, any portion of the funds of the State or the school funds aforesaid, except in the manner prescribed by law, every such act shall be and constitute an embezzlement of so much of the aforesaid State and school funds, or either of the same as shall thus be taken, or loaned, or deposited or exchanged, and shall be a felony; and any failure to pay over, produce or account for the State school funds, or any part of the same entrusted to such officer or persons as by law required on demand, shall be held and be taken to be prima facie evidence of such embezzlement.

General banking law; provision and restrictions. SEC. 13. The legislature may, by a two-thirds vote, pass a general banking law, with the following restrictions and requirements, viz.:

First—The legislature shall have no power to pass any law sanctioning in any manner, directly, or indirectly, the suspension of specie payments by any person, association or corporation issuing bank notes of any description.

Second—The legislature shall provide by law for the registry of all bills or notes issued or put in circulation as money, and shall require ample security in United States stock or State stocks for the redemption of the same in specie; and in case of a depreciation of said stocks, or any part thereof, to the amount of ten per cent or more on the dollar, the bank or banks owning said stocks shall be required to make up said deficiency by additional stocks.

Third—The stockholders in any corporation and joint association for banking purposes, issuing bank notes, shall be individually liable in an amount equal to double the amount of stock owned by them for all the debts of such corporation or association; and such individual liability shall continue for one year after any transfer or sale of stock by any stockholder or stockholders.

Fourth—In case of the insolvency of any bank or banking association, the bill holders thereof shall be entitled to preference in payment over all other creditors of such bank or association.

Fifth—Any general banking law which may be passed in accordance with this Article shall provide for recording the names of all stockholders in such corporation, the amount of stock held by each, the time of transfer, and to whom transferred.

NOTE—Section 14(a) was repealed by amendment adopted November 6, 1962.

NOTE—Section 14(b) appears to be superseded by Section 15.

County, city or township aid to railroads limited. SEC. 15. The legislature shall not authorize any county, township, city, or other municipal corporation to issue bonds, or to become indebted in any manner, to aid in the construction or equipment of any or all railroads to any amount that shall exceed five (5) per centum of the value of the taxable property within such county, township, city, or other municipal corporation. The amount of such taxable property to be ascertained, and determined by the last assessment of said property made, for the purpose of state and county taxation, previous to the incurring of such indebtedness.[5]

Of Corporations Having No Banking Privileges

Corporation for general purposes. SECTION 1. The term "Corporation," as used in this Article, shall be construed to include all associations and joint stock companies having any of the powers and privileges not possessed by individuals or partnerships, except such as embrace banking privileges and all corporations shall have the right to sue, and shall be liable to be sued in all courts in like manner as natural persons.

Not to be created by special act. SEC. 2. No corporations shall be formed under special acts, except for municipal purposes.

Liability of Stockholders. SEC. 3. The legislature shall have power from time to time to provide for, limit and otherwise regulate the liability of stockholders or members of corporations and cooperative corporations or associations, however organized.[1]

Lands may be taken for public use. SEC. 4. Lands may be taken for public way, for the purpose of granting to any corporation the franchise of way for public use. In all cases, however, a fair and equitable compensation shall be paid for such land, and the damages arising from the taking of the same; but all corporations being common carriers enjoying the right of way in pursuance of the provisions of this section, shall be bound to carry the mineral, agricultural and other productions of manufacturers on equal and reasonable terms.

tration, consolidation, division, and dissolution of local government units and their functions, for the change of boundaries thereof, for their officers, including qualifications for office, both elective and appointive, and for the transfer of county seats. No county boundary shall be changed or county seat transferred until approved by a majority of the voters of each county affected voting thereon.

Special Laws. SEC. 2. Every law which upon its effective date applies to a single local government unit or to a group of such units in a single county or a number of contiguous counties is a special law and shall name the unit or, in the latter case, the counties, to which it applies. The legislature may enact special laws relating to local government units, but a special law, unless otherwise provided by general law, shall become effective only after its approval by the affected unit expressed through the voters or the governing body and by such majority as the legislature may direct. Any special law may be modified or superseded by a later home rule charter or amendment applicable to the same local government unit, but this does not prevent the adoption of subsequent laws on the same subject.

Home Rule Charter. SEC. 3. Any city or village, and any county or other local government unit when authorized by law, may adopt a home rule charter for its government in accordance with this constitution and the laws. No such charter shall become effective without the approval of the voters of the local government unit affected by such majority as the legislature may prescribe by general law. If a charter provides for the consolidation or separation of a city and a county, in whole or in part, it shall not be effective without approval of the voters both in the city and in the remainder of the county by the majority required by law.

Charter Commissions. SEC. 4. The legislature shall provide by law for charter commissions. Notwithstanding any other constitutional limitations, the legislature may require that commission members shall be freeholders, provide for their appointment by judges of the district court, and permit any member to hold any other elective or appointive office other than judicial. Home rule charter amendments may be proposed by a charter commission or by a petition of five percent of the voters of the local government unit as determined by law and shall not become effective until approved by the voters by the majority required by law. Amendments may be proposed and adopted in any other manner provided by law. A local government unit may repeal its home rule charter and adopt a statutory form of government or a new charter upon the same majority vote as is required by law for the adoption of a charter in the first instance.

Existing Laws and Charters. SEC. 5. Existing laws and charters, valid when adopted shall continue in effect until amended or repealed in accordance with this article.[1]

Of the Militia

Militia organization. SECTION 1. It shall be the duty of the legislature to pass such laws for the organization, discipline and service of the militia of the State as may be deemed necessary.

ARTICLE XIII

Impeachment and Removal from Office

SECTION 1. The governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, and the judges of the supreme and district courts, may be impeached for corrupt conduct in office, or for crimes and misdemeanors; but judgment in such case shall not extend further than to removal from office and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit in this State. The party convicted thereof shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

SEC. 2. The legislature of this State may provide for the removal of inferior officers from office, for malfeasance or nonfeasance in the performance of their duties.

SEC. 3. No officer shall exercise the duties of his office after he shall have been impeached and before his acquittal.

SEC. 4. On the trial of an impeachment against the governor, the lieutenant governor shall not act as a member of the court.

SEC. 5. No person shall be tried on impeachment before he shall have been served with a copy thereof at least twenty days previous to the day set for trial.

Amendments to the Constitution

Amendments to constitution — majority vote of electors voting makes amendment valid. SECTION 1. Whenever a majority of both houses of the legislature shall deem it necessary to alter or amend this Constitution, they may propose such alterations or amendments, which proposed amendments shall be published with the laws which have been passed at the same session, and said amendments shall be submitted to the people for their approval or rejection at any general election, and if it shall appear, in a manner to be provided by law, that a majority of all the electors voting at said election shall have voted for and ratified such alterations or amendments, the same shall be valid to all intents and purposes as a part of this Constitution. If two or more alterations or amendments shall be submitted at the same time, it shall be so regulated that the voters shall vote for or against each separately.

Revision of constitution. SEC. 2. Whenever two-thirds of the members elected to each branch of the legislature shall think it necessary to call a convention to revise this Constitution, they shall recommend to the electors to vote at the next election for members of the legislature, for or against a convention; and if a majority of all the electors voting at said election shall have voted for a convention, the legislature shall, at their next session, provide by law for calling the same. The convention shall consist of as many members as the House of Representatives, who shall be chosen in the same manner, and shall meet within three months after their election for the purpose aforesaid.

[1]Submission to people of revised constitution drafted at convention. SEC. 3. Any convention called to revise this constitution shall submit any revision thereof by said convention to the people of the State of Minnesota for their approval or rejection at the next general election held not less than 90 days after the adoption of such revision, and, if it shall appear in the manner provided by law that three-fifths of all the electors voting on the question shall have voted for and ratified such revision, the same shall constitute a new constitution of the State of Minnesota. Without such submission and

ARTICLE XV

Miscellaneous Subjects

Seat of government. SECTION 1. The seat of government of the State shall be at the city of St. Paul, but the legislature, at their first or any future session, may provide by law for a change of the seat of government by a vote of the people, or may locate the same upon the land granted by Congress for a seat of government to the State; and in the event of the seat of government being removed from the city of St. Paul to any other place in the State, the capitol building and grounds shall be dedicated to an institution for the promotion of science, literature and the arts, to be organized by the legislature of the State, and of which institution the Minnesota Historical Society shall always be a department.

Residents on Indian lands. SEC. 2. Persons residing on Indian lands within the State shall enjoy all rights and privileges of citizens, as though they lived in any other portion of the State, and shall be subject to taxation.

Uniform oath at election. SEC. 3. The legislature shall provide for a uniform oath or affirmation to be administered at elections, and no person shall be compelled to take any other or different form of oath to entitle him to vote.

State seal. SEC. 4. There shall be a seal of the State, which shall be kept by the secretary of state, and be used by him officially, and shall be called the great seal of the State of Minnesota, and shall be attached to all the official acts of the governor (his signature to acts and resolves of the legislature excepted) requiring authentication. The legislature shall provide for an appropriate device and motto for said seal.

State prison location. SEC. 5. The territorial prison, as located under existing laws, shall, after the adoption of this Constitution, be and remain one of the state prisons of the State of Minnesota.

ARTICLE XVI

[1]Public Highway System

Authority of state. SECTION 1. Subject to the limitations of this article the state may establish, locate, construct, reconstruct, improve and maintain public highways and may assist political subdivisions in such work.

Trunk highway system. SEC. 2. There is hereby created a trunk highway system which shall be established, located, constructed, reconstructed, improved and maintained as public highways by the state. Said trunk highway system shall consist of the trunk highway routes numbered 1 through 70 described in the constitutional amendment adopted November 2, 1920, the trunk highway routes added to said foregoing routes by the legislature prior to the effective date of this article, and such additional routes as may be added to the trunk highway system hereby created pursuant to authority in this article contained. The said highways shall extend as nearly as may be along the routes number 1 through 70 described in said constitutional amendment adopted November 2, 1920, and the routes described in any act of the legislature which has made or will hereafter make a route a part of the said trunk highway system. The more specific and definite location of said routes shall be fixed and determined by such boards, officers or tribunals and in such manner as shall be prescribed by law, but in fixing such specific and definite routes there shall not be any deviation from the starting points or terminals set forth in said routes nor shall there be any deviation in fixing such routes from the various villages and cities named therein through which such routes are to pass.

The legislature may add by law new routes to said trunk highway system. Said trunk highway system shall not exceed 12,200 miles in extent, provided however, that the legislature may add by law trunk highways to said system in excess of said foregoing mileage limitation as the legislature may determine as necessary or expedient to meet, use, or otherwise take advantage of any federal aid made available by the United States to the State of Minnesota for highway purposes.

Any route added by the legislature to the trunk highway system either prior or subsequent to the effective date of this article may be altered, amended, relocated, changed or removed from said system, as provided by law. The definite location of said trunk highways numbered 1 through 70 heretofore fixed pursuant to this article may be thereafter changed and relocated as provided by law but no such change or relocation shall be authorized which would cause a deviation from the starting points or terminals set forth in said routes nor cause any deviation from the various villages and cities named therein through which such routes are to pass.

County state-aid highway system. SEC. 3. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide by law for the establishment of a system of county state-aid highways. The county state-aid highway system shall be established, located, constructed, reconstructed, improved and maintained by the counties as public highways in such a manner as shall be provided by law. Such system shall include streets in cities, villages and boroughs of less than 5,000 population where necessary, as provided by law, to provide an integrated and coordinated highway system and it may include similar streets in other cities, villages and boroughs. The county state-aid highway system as herein authorized shall not exceed 30,000 miles in extent, provided however, that said limitation of 30,000 miles may be increased or decreased by the legislature by law.

Municipal state-aid street system. SEC. 4. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide by law for the establishment of a system of municipal state-aid streets within cities, villages and boroughs having a population of 5,000 or more. The municipal state-aid street system shall be established, located, constructed, reconstructed, improved and maintained as public highways by such cities, villages and boroughs in such manner as shall be provided by law. The municipal state-aid street system as herein authorized shall not exceed 1,200 miles in extent, provided that said limitation of 1,200 miles may be increased or decreased by the legislature by law.

Highway user tax distribution fund. SEC. 5. There is hereby created a fund which shall be known as the highway user tax distribution fund. The highway user tax distribution fund shall be used solely for highway purposes as specified in this article. Said fund shall consist of the proceeds of any taxes authorized to be imposed by sections 9 and 10 of this article. After the deduction of collection costs as provided by law and the payment of refunds authorized by law, the net proceeds of such taxes shall be transferred to the following funds in the following proportions: 62 percent to the trunk highway fund; 29 percent to the county state-aid highway fund; nine percent to the municipal state-aid street fund. After January 1, 1963, the legislature is authorized to provide by law that five percent of the net proceeds of the highway user tax distribution fund may be set aside and if so set aside shall be apportioned as provided by law to one or more of the three foregoing funds on such basis as the legislature may determine. After said five percent may have been so set aside the balance of the highway user tax distribution fund shall in all events be transferred to the trunk highway fund, the county state-aid highway fund, and the municipal state-aid street fund in accordance with the percentages hereinbefore set forth. No change in the apportionment of the proceeds so set aside shall be made within six years of the commencement of the year in which the last previous change occurred.

Trunk highway fund. SEC. 6. There is hereby created a trunk highway fund which shall be used solely for the purposes specified in section 2 of this article and the payment of principal and interest of any bonds which may be issued under the authority of section 12 of this article and any bonds issued for trunk highway purposes under the constitution prior to July 1, 1957. All payments of principal and interest on any such bonds issued shall be a first charge on moneys coming into this fund during the year in which such principal or interest is payable. The fund created by this section shall also be used for the carrying on of work undertaken and the discharge of obligations incurred payable out of or chargeable to the trunk highway fund or the trunk highway sinking fund constituted and established by the constitution prior to July 1, 1957, and all moneys in said funds on the effective date of this article are hereby transferred to the fund created by this section.

County state-aid highway fund. SEC. 7. There is hereby created a county state-aid highway fund. Said fund shall, in addition to the share of the highway user tax distribution fund transferred to it by section 5, receive and include all moneys accruing from the income derived from investments in the internal improvement land fund. All moneys in the state road and bridge fund as constituted and established by the constitution prior to July 1, 1957, are hereby transferred on the effective date of this article to the fund created by this section. To render aid for highway purposes the county state-aid highway fund shall be apportioned among the counties as provided by law. Except as provided herein, the funds apportioned shall be used by the counties as provided by law for aid in the establishment, location, construction, reconstruction, improvement and maintenance of county state-aid highways. The legislature may authorize the counties, as provided by law to use a part of said funds so apportioned to them to render aid in the establishment, location, construction, reconstruction, improvement and maintenance of other county highways, township roads, municipal streets, and any other public highways, including but not limited to trunk highways and municipal state-aid streets within the respective counties.

Municipal state-aid street fund. SEC. 8. There is hereby created a municipal state-aid street fund. To render aid for highway purposes the municipal state-aid street fund shall be apportioned as provided by law among the cities, villages and boroughs having a population of 5,000 or more. Except as provided herein, the funds apportioned shall be used by such cities, villages and boroughs as provided by law for aid in the establishment, location, construction, reconstruction, improvement and maintenance of municipal state-aid streets. The legislature may authorize such cities, villages and boroughs, as provided by law, to use a part of said funds so apportioned to them to render aid in the establishment, location, construction, reconstruction, improvement and maintenance of other municipal streets and any other public streets, including but not limited to trunk highways within such cities, villages and boroughs and county state-aid highways within the counties wherein such cities, villages and boroughs are located.

Taxation of motor vehicles. SEC. 9. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide by law for the taxation of motor vehicles using the public streets and highways of this state on a more onerous basis than other personal property; provided, however, that any such tax on motor vehicles shall be in lieu of all other taxes thereon, except wheelage taxes imposed by political subdivisions solely for highway purposes and except that the legislature may impose such tax upon motor vehicles of companies paying taxes under gross earnings system of taxation and upon the right to use such vehicles upon the public highways notwithstanding the fact that earnings from such vehicles may be included in the earnings of such companies upon which such gross earnings taxes are computed. Any such law may, in the discretion of the legislature, provide for the exemption from taxation of any motor vehicle owned by a non-resident of the state but properly licensed in another state, and transiently or temporarily using the streets and highways of the state. The proceeds of such tax shall be paid into highway user tax distribution fund.

Taxation of motor fuel. SEC. 10. The state may levy an excise tax upon any substance, material, fluid, force or other means or instrumentality, or the business of dealing in, selling or producing any or all thereof, used or useful, in producing or generating power for propelling motor or other vehicles used on the public highways of this state. The proceeds of such tax shall be paid into the highway user tax distribution fund.

Participation of political subdivisions in trunk highway work. SEC. 11. The legislature may authorize any political subdivision, upon such terms, conditions and in such manner as shall be provided by law, to aid or lend aid in the establishment, location, construction, reconstruction, improvement and maintenance of trunk highways within their respective boundaries. The enumeration as in this section contained of the power of the legislature to authorize political subdivisions to participate in trunk highway work shall never operate or be construed so as to limit, prejudice or curtail in any degree or manner whatsoever any power or authority now vested in the legislature concerning or relating to any other public highways.

Bonds. SEC. 12. The legislature may provide by law for the issue and sale of the bonds of the state in such amount as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of section 2 of this article; provided, however, that the total amount of such bonds issued and unpaid shall not at any time exceed $150,000,000, par value. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be paid into the trunk highway fund. Any bonds so issued and sold shall mature serially over a term not exceeding 20 years. They shall not be sold for less than par and accrued interest and shall not bear interest at a greater rate than five percent per annum. In case the trunk highway fund shall not be adequate to meet the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds authorized by the legislature as hereinbefore provided, the legislature may provide by law for the taxation of all taxable property of the state in an amount sufficient to meet the deficiency, or it may, in its discretion, appropriate to such fund moneys in the state treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Supersedure; repeal of inconsistent provisions. SEC. 13. Article XVI and Article IX, section 16, are hereby superseded in their entirety; and any and all provisions of the constitution of the State of Minnesota inconsistent herewith are repealed so far but only so far as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing or permitting the doing of the things hereinbefore authorized.

Effective date. SEC. 14. This article shall take effect on the first day of July, 1957.

[1]Adopted November 6, 1956. Revised article on public highways.

[1]ARTICLE XVII

Forest Fires; Prevention, Abatement

SECTION 1. The state and (or) any of its political subdivisions, if and whenever authorized by the legislature, may contract debts and pledge the public credit for and engage in any work reasonably tending to prevent or abate forest fires, including the compulsory clearing and improvement of wild lands (whether belonging to the public or privately owned) and the assessment against such lands of the value of all benefits so conferred and the payment of damages so sustained in excess of such benefits.

SEC. 2. Any and all provisions of the constitution of the State of Minnesota inconsistent with the provisions of this article, are hereby repealed, so far, but only so far, as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing or permitting the doing of the things hereinbefore authorized.

[1]Adopted November 4, 1924.

Forestation and Reforestation

SECTION 1. Laws may be enacted for the purpose of encouraging and promoting forestation and reforestation of lands in this state, whether owned by private persons or the public, including the fixing in advance of a definite and limited annual tax on such lands for a term of years and a yield tax at or after the end of such term upon the timber and other forest products so grown, but the taxation of mineral deposits shall not be affected by this amendment.

SEC. 2. Any and all provisions of the constitution of the State of Minnesota, inconsistent with the provisions of this article, are hereby repealed, so far, but only so far, as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing or permitting the doing of the things hereinbefore authorized.

[1]Adopted November 2, 1926.

Aeronautics

SECTION 1. The state may construct, improve, maintain, and operate and may assist counties, cities, towns, villages, boroughs, and public corporations in constructing, improving, maintaining, and operating airports and other air navigation facilities.

SEC. 2. For the purpose of carrying on or assisting in carrying on such work it may expend monies, including such monies as the legislature may see fit to appropriate, may incur debts, and may issue and negotiate bonds to provide money therefor. The provisions of Section 5 of Article 9 of the Constitution shall not apply to the provisions of this section, and the purposes for which the credit of the state may be given or loaned as herein provided are declared to be public purposes.

SEC. 3. The state may levy a state excise tax upon any fluid or other means or instrumentalities, or the business of dealing in, selling, or producing any or all thereof, used in producing or generating power for propelling aircraft of any kind now known or hereafter invented, or for propelling or operating motor or other vehicles, or other equipment used for airport purposes and not used on the public highways of this state.

SEC. 4. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide, by law, for the taxation of aircraft using the air space overlying the State of Minnesota and the airports thereof, including any contrivance, now known or hereafter invented, used or designed for navigation of or flight in the air, on a more onerous basis than other personal property; provided, however, that any such tax on aircraft shall be in lieu of all other taxation thereon, and except that the legislature may impose such tax upon aircraft of companies paying taxes under any gross earnings system of taxation, and upon the right to use such aircraft in the air space overlying the State of Minnesota and upon the airports thereof, notwithstanding the fact that earnings from such aircraft may be included in the earnings of such companies upon which such gross earnings taxes are computed. Any such law may, in the discretion of the legislature, provide for the exemption from taxation of any aircraft owned by a nonresident of the state and transiently or temporarily using the air space overlying the State of Minnesota or the airports thereof.

SEC. 5. Any and all provisions of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota inconsistent with the provisions of this article are hereby repealed, so far, but only so far, as the same prohibit or limit the power of the legislature to enact laws authorizing or permitting the doing of the things hereinbefore authorized.

Veterans Bonus

SECTION 1. The State may at any time pay an adjusted compensation to persons who have served in the Armed Forces of the United States during the period from and including September 16, 1940, through December 30, 1946; may levy taxes and appropriate monies for such purpose; and if and whenever authorized, and in such amounts and on such terms as may be fixed by the Legislature, may expend monies, may contract debts, may issue and negotiate bonds or certificates of indebtedness, or both, and may pledge the public credit, to provide money therefor. The provisions of section 5 of Article 9 of the Constitution shall not apply to the provisions of this section, and the purposes for which the credit of the State may be given or loaned as herein provided are declared to be public purposes.

SCHEDULE

Territorial laws valid in change to State organization. SECTION 1. That no inconvenience may arise by reason of a change from a territorial to a permanent state government, it is declared that all rights, actions, prosecutions, judgments, claims and contracts, as well of individuals as of bodies corporate, shall continue as if no change had taken place; and all process which may be issued under the authority of the Territory of Minnesota previous to its admission into the Union of the United States shall be as valid as if issued in the name of the State.

Territorial laws not repugnant to constitution to be in force. SEC. 2. All laws now in force in the Territory of Minnesota not repugnant to this Constitution shall remain in force until they expire by their own limitation, or be altered or repealed by the legislature.

SEC. 3. All fines, penalties or forfeitures accruing to the Territory of Minnesota shall inure to the State.

Civil rights under territorial government secured in the change to State government. SEC. 4. All recognizances heretofore taken, or which may be taken before the change from a territorial to a permanent state government shall remain valid, and shall pass to and may be prosecuted in the name of the State; and all bonds executed to the governor of the Territory, or to any other officer or court in his or their official capacity, shall pass to the governor or state authority and their successors in office, for the uses therein respectively expressed, and may be sued for and recovered accordingly and all the estate of property, real, personal or mixed, and all judgments, bonds, specialties, choses in action, and claims and debts of whatsoever description, of the Territory of Minnesota shall inure to and vest in the State of Minnesota, and may be sued for and recovered in the same manner and to the same extent by the State of Minnesota as the same could have been by the Territory of Minnesota. All criminal prosecutions and penal actions which may have arisen, or which may arise before the change from a territorial to a state government, and which shall then be pending, shall be prosecuted to judgment and execution in the name of the State. All offenses committed against the laws of the Territory of Minnesota, before the change from a territorial to a state government, and which shall not be prosecuted before such change, may be prosecuted in the name and by the authority of the State of Minnesota with like effect as though such change had not taken place, and all penalties incurred shall remain the same as if this Constitution had not been adopted. All actions at law and suits in equity which may be pending in any of the courts of the Territory of Minnesota, at the time of a change from a territorial to a state government, may be continued and transferred to any court of the State which shall have jurisdiction of the subject matter thereof.

Territorial officers continued until superseded. SEC. 5. All territorial officers, civil or military, now holding their offices under the authority of the United States, or of the Territory of Minnesota shall continue to hold and exercise their respective offices until they shall be superseded by the authority of the State.

First session of State legislature. SEC. 6. The first session of the legislature of the State of Minnesota shall commence on the first Wednesday of December next, and shall be held at the capitol, in the city of St. Paul.

SEC. 7. The laws regulating the election and qualification of all district, county and precinct officers shall continue and be in force until the legislature shall otherwise provide by law.

Constitution submitted to a vote of the people. SEC. 8. The president of this convention shall, immediately after the adjournment thereof, cause this Constitution to be deposited in the office of the governor of the Territory; and if, after the submission of the same to a vote of the people, as hereinafter provided, it shall appear that it has been adopted by a vote of the people of the State, then the governor shall forward a certified copy of the same, together with an abstract of the votes polled for and against the said Constitution, to the president of the United States, to be by him laid before the Congress of the United States.

Representation to congress. SEC. 9. For the purposes of the first election, the State shall constitute one district, and shall elect three members to the House of Representatives of the United States.

First apportionment into legislative districts. SEC. 10. For the purpose of the first election for members of the State Senate and House of Representatives, the State shall be divided into senatorial and representative districts, as follows, viz.: First district, Washington county; Second district, Ramsey county; Third district, Dakota county; Fourth district, so much of Hennepin county as lies west of the Mississippi; Fifth district, Rice county; Sixth district, Goodhue county; Seventh district, Scott county; Eighth district, Olmsted county; Ninth district, Fillmore county; Tenth district, Houston county; Eleventh district, Winona county; Twelfth district, Wabasha county; Thirteenth district, Mower and Dodge counties; Fourteenth district, Freeborn and Faribault counties; Fifteenth district, Steele and Waseca counties; Sixteenth district, Blue Earth and Le Sueur counties; Seventeenth district, Nicollet and Brown counties; Eighteenth district, Sibley, Renville and McLeod counties; Nineteenth district, Carver and Wright counties; Twentieth district, Benton, Stearns and Meeker counties; Twenty-first district, Morrison, Crow Wing and Mille Lacs counties; Twenty-second district, Cass, Pembina and Todd counties; Twenty-third district, so much of Hennepin county as lies east of the Mississippi; Twenty-fourth district, Sherburne, Anoka and Manomin counties; Twenty-fifth district, Chisago, Pine and Isanti counties; Twenty-sixth district, Buchanan, Carlton, St. Louis, Lake and Itasca counties.

SEC. 11. The counties of Brown, Stearns, Todd, Cass, Pembina and Renville, as applied in the preceding section, shall not be deemed to include any territory west of the State line, but shall be deemed to include all counties and parts of counties east of said line as were created out of the territory of either, at the last session of the legislature.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 1st district | 2 Senators | 3 Representatives |
| 2nd district | 3 Senators | 6 Representatives |
| 3rd district | 2 Senators | 5 Representatives |
| 4th district | 2 Senators | 4 Representatives |
| 5th district | 2 Senators | 3 Representatives |
| 6th district | 1 Senator | 4 Representatives |

SEC. 13. The returns from the Twenty-second district shall be made to and canvassed by the judges of election at the precinct of Otter Tail city.

Judicial districts. SEC. 14. Until the legislature shall otherwise provide, the State shall be divided into judicial districts as follows, viz.:

The counties of Washington, Chisago, Manomin, Anoka, Isanti, Pine, Buchanan, Carlton, St Louis and Lake shall constitute the First judicial district.

The county of Ramsey shall constitute the Second judicial district.

The counties of Houston, Winona, Fillmore, Olmstead and Wabasha shall constitute the Third judicial district.

The counties of Hennepin, Carver, Wright, Meeker, Sherburne, Benton, Stearns, Morrison, Crow Wing, Mille Lacs, Itasca, Pembina, Todd and Cass shall constitute the Fourth judicial district.

The counties of Dakota, Goodhue, Scott, Rice, Steele, Waseca, Dodge, Mower and Freeborn shall constitute the Fifth judicial district.

The counties of Le Sueur, Sibley, Nicollet, Blue Earth, Faribault, McLeod, Renville, Brown and all other counties in the State not included within the other districts, shall constitute the Sixth judicial district.

SEC. 15. Each of the foregoing enumerated judicial districts may, at the first election, elect one prosecuting attorney for the district.

First State election. SEC. 16. Upon the second Tuesday, the thirteenth day of October, 1857, an election shall be held for members of the House of Representatives of the United States, governor, lieutenant governor, supreme and district judges, members of the legislature, and all other officers designated in this Constitution, and also for submission of this Constitution to the people, for their adoption or rejection.

Voters at the first election. SEC. 17. Upon the day so designated as aforesaid every free white male inhabitant over the age of twenty-one years, who shall have resided within the limits of the State for ten days previous to the day of said election, may vote for all officers to be elected under this Constitution at such election, and also for or against the adoption of this Constitution.

Vote on the constitution. SEC. 18. In voting for or against the adoption of this Constitution, the words "For Constitution," or "Against Constitution," may be written or printed on the ticket of each voter, but no voter shall vote for or against the Constitution, on a separate ballot from that cast by him for officers to be elected at said election under this Constitution; and if upon the canvass of the vote so polled it shall appear that there was a greater number of votes polled for than against said Constitution, then this Constitution shall be deemed to be adopted as the Constitution of the State of Minnesota, and all the provisions and obligations of this Constitution, and of the schedule thereunto attached, shall thereafter be valid to all intents and purposes as the Constitution of said State.

Election—how conducted. SEC. 19. At said election the polls shall be opened, the election held, returns made, and certificates issued, in all respects as provided by law for opening, closing and conducting elections and making returns of the same, except as hereinbefore specified, and excepting also that polls may be opened and elections held at any point or points in any of the counties where precincts may be established as provided by law, ten days previous to the day of election, not less than ten miles from the place of voting in any established precinct.

Returns of election. SEC. 20. It shall be the duty of the judges and clerks of election, in addition to the returns required by law for each precinct, to forward to the secretary of the Territory, by mail, immediately after the close of the election, a certified copy of the poll book containing the name of each person who has voted in the precinct and the number of votes polled for and against the adoption of this Constitution.

Canvassing returns. SEC. 21. The returns of said election for and against this Constitution, and for all state officers and members of the House of Representatives of the United States, shall be made, and certificates issued in the manner now prescribed by law for returning votes given for delegates to Congress; and the returns for all district officers, judicial, legislative or otherwise, shall be made to the register of deeds of the senior county in each district, in the manner prescribed by law, except as otherwise provided. The returns for all officers elected at large shall be canvassed by the governor of the Territory, assisted by Joseph R. Brown and Thomas J. Galbraith, at the time designated by law for canvassing the vote for delegates to Congress.

SEC. 22. If, upon canvassing the votes for and against the adoption of this Constitution, it shall appear that there has been polled a greater number of votes against than for it, then no certificate of election shall be issued for any State or district officer provided for in this Constitution, and no state organization shall have validity within the limits of the Territory, until otherwise provided for and until a Constitution for a State government shall have been adopted by the people.

CONGRESSIONAL ACT OF ADMISSION

Acceptance by Congress is the final act in the process of being admitted as a state. A bill for the admission of Minnesota into the Union was submitted to Congress in December of 1857.

The bill for admission encountered several obstacles. The Minnesota bill was coupled with the bill for the admission of Kansas. It was customary to admit states in pairs—a state which permitted slavery would be linked with a state which prohibited slavery. This served to preserve the balance of power in Congress. Minnesota was to be a free state, Kansas a slave state. The proposal to admit Kansas as a slave state was being made under its fraudulent Lecompton constitution. The fraud in the adoption of the Kansas constitution was so glaring that admission under it was abandoned. This delayed the Minnesota bill for several months. Minnesota's bill also met with general opposition from congressmen from southern slave states.

On May 11, 1858, the bill for the admission of Minnesota was passed by Congress and approved by President James Buchanan. However, word of its passage did not reach St. Paul until almost two weeks later. Minnesota had no telegraph lines or railroads, so a telegram was sent to Prairie du Chien, Wisconsin, and carried up the Mississippi River to St. Paul by steamboat. On May 24, 1858, the state officers took their oaths of office and Minnesota's state government began to function.

This ended the long trek toward statehood, which had seen the area of the state of Minnesota under four nations—France, Spain, Great Britain and the United States, and under nine territories—Northwest, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Louisiana, Missouri, Iowa and Minnesota.

ACT OF ADMISSION INTO THE UNION

An Act for the admission of Minnesota into the Union
[Passed May 11, 1858]

WHEREAS, An act of Congress was passed February twenty-sixth, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, entitled "An act to authorize the people of the Territory of Minnesota to form a constitution and state government preparatory to their admission into the Union on an equal footing with the original states"; and, whereas, the people of said Territory did, on the twenty-ninth day of August, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, by delegates elected for that purpose, form for themselves a constitution and state government, which is republican in form, and was ratified and adopted by the people at an election held on the thirteenth day of October, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, for that purpose; therefore,

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the State of Minnesota shall be one, and is hereby declared to be one, of the United States of America, and admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original states in all respects whatever.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That said State shall be entitled to two representatives in Congress, until the next apportionment of representatives among the several states.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That from and after the admission of the State of Minnesota, as hereinbefore provided, all the laws of the United States which are not locally inapplicable shall have the same force and effect within that State as in other States of the Union; and the said State is hereby constituted a judicial district of the United States, within which a district court, with like powers and jurisdiction as the district court of the United States for the district of Iowa, shall be established; the judge, attorney and marshal of the United States of the said district of Minnesota shall reside within the same, and shall be entitled to the same compensation as the judge, attorney and marshal of the district of Iowa; and in all cases of appeal or writ of error heretofore prosecuted and now pending in the supreme court of the United States, upon any record from the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, the mandate of execution or order of further proceedings shall be directed by the supreme court of the United States to the district court of the United States for the district of Minnesota, or to the supreme court of the State of Minnesota, as the nature of such appeal or writ of error may require; and each of those courts shall be the successor of the supreme court of Minnesota Territory, as to all such cases, with full power to hear and determine the same, and to award mesne or final process therein.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS 1964 GENERAL ELECTION

At the general election on November 3, 1964, two proposed amendments to the Minnesota State Constitution will be presented to the voters for their approval or rejection. The proposed amendments will appear on the ballot in the following order and language:

FIRST: Taxation of Taconite and Other Metals*

(Proposed by Chapter 99, Laws of 1963)

"Shall the constitution of the state of Minnesota be amended by adding an article to be known as Article XXI prohibiting the amendment, modification, or repeal for a period of 25 years of Laws of Minnesota 1963, Chapter 81, relating to the taxation of taconite and semitaconite and facilities for the mining, production and beneficiation thereof; and also authorizing the legislature to impose limitations for a period of not more than 25 years with respect to taxes imposed upon or required to be paid with respect to the mining, production and beneficiation of copper, copper-nickel and nickel?

Yes . . . . . .
No . . . . . ."

SECOND: Removal of Obsolete Provisions from the State Constitution*

(Proposed by Chapter 870, Laws of 1963)

"Shall the constitution be amended by removing the obsolete language of Article IV, Section 2, relating to apportionment of members of the legislature; of Article IV, Section 7, relating to the compensation of members of the legislature; of Article IV, Section 23, requiring a state census; of Article IV, Section 32 (b), calling for a validating election in 1884; of Article V, Section 4, relating to appointment of a state librarian; and of Article VII, Section 9, relating to the first state general election and the first state election; and by repealing Article IV, Section 26, relating to the election of members of the senate of the United States, and Article VII, Section 8, limiting women's suffrage to school and library elections?

Yes . . . . . .

1962 GENERAL ELECTION CANVASSING BOARD REPORT

Supplemental Statement by Joseph L. Donovan, Secretary of State Regarding Results of Recount of Gubernatorial Race as Between Karl F. Rolvaag, Democratic-Farmer-Labor, and Elmer L. Andersen, Republican.

On November 26, 1962 the State Canvassing Board certified in its Report that the original returns from the several counties produced the following result as to Governor:

|---|---|
| Karl F. Rolvaag | 619,704 |
| Elmer L. Andersen | 619,646 |
| William Braatz | 7,311 |

The results by counties exhibited in the Report are those which produce the total shown above. The results by precincts published in the 1963-64 Legislative Manual are also those from the original returns.

The State Canvassing Board further reported that supplemental or amended returns had been received from 10 counties, which, if so counted would produce the following statewide totals:

|---|---|
| Karl F. Rolvaag | 619,580 |
| Elmer L. Andersen | 619,722 |
| William Braatz | 7,234 |

The Board reported disagreement, and pursuant to an order of the Supreme Court of Minnesota met again on November 29, 1962 and certified the latter figures, counting the amended returns as above.

An election contest followed, which was tried by a three-judge district court in the district court of Ramsey County. On March 21, 1963 the court adjudged that Karl F. Rolvaag was elected Governor. The court determined only statewide totals as follows:

|---|---|
| Karl F. Rolvaag | 619,842 |

Elmer L. Andersen, as incumbent governor, continued to hold office until March 25, 1963 when Karl F. Rolvaag was sworn in as Governor of Minnesota.

Because of these extraordinary proceedings, the election returns by counties and precincts, published in the Canvassing Board Report and the Legislative Manual will vary slightly from the unknown actual results in those precincts where errors were corrected or disputed ballots resolved by the district court. Returns from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and other cities where voting machines were used were unchanged.

REPORT OF THE STATE CANVASSING BOARD FOR THE GENERAL ELECTION HELD IN THE STATE OF MINNESOTA NOVEMBER 6, 1962 WITH RESPECT TO THE OFFICE OF GOVERNOR

The undersigned here set forth our respective positions on the essential issues before this Board.

The undersigned, Joseph L. Donovan, Secretary of State, and Thomas F. Gallagher, Associate Justice of Supreme Court, hold the view that all so-called amended returns from the ten counties set forth on another page of this report should be rejected and that on the basis of original returns KARL F. ROLVAAG be declared elected Governor; and that the basic reasons for this position are expressed in the statement of Canvassing Board member Justice Thomas F. Gallagher in Exhibit A attached hereto.

JOSEPH L. DONOVAN
THOMAS F. GALLAGHER

The undersigned Martin A. Nelson, Associate Justice of Supreme Court, and Albin S. Pearson, Judge of the District Court, are of the view that all of the amended returns as set forth on another page of this report from ten counites should be accepted and counted, and ELMER L. ANDERSEN be declared the elected Governor

ALBIN S. PEARSON

I, Luther Sletten, feel that the Canvassing Board can reconvene where there has been an obvious error in returns made by the various precincts, but that the amended returns must show that there has been substantial compliance with the law with regard to correction of error and its recount of votes, and that in my opinion one amended return, and at the most two of the amended returns show that the law has been substantially complied with, with regard to a recount based upon obvious error. These are legal questions that must be decided by the proper court and the Canvassing Board cannot decide questions of law.

LUTHER SLETTEN

STATEMENT BY THOMAS GALLAGHER MEMBER, STATE CANVASSING BOARD NOVEMBER 26, 1962

There does not appear to be any statutory authority vested in a county canvassing board under which it may reconvene after it has met, publicly canvassed the election returns evidenced by the summary statements previously filed by the election judges with the county auditor, and made its report to the county auditor therefrom.

Under Minn. St. 204.25 and § 204.26, the election judges must first count the ballots, make a summary statement thereof, place the ballots in sealed envelopes and deliver the sealed envelopes and summary statements to the county auditor. Under § 204.27 and § 204.28 the county auditor is required to insure delivery of such statements and envelopes to his office and if necessary to keep his office open for 24 hours after election for this purpose. Thereafter, under this section, he is required to keep them in his office in a safe place.

Under § 204.29 a county canvassing board is required to meet in the auditor's office within 10 days after the general election to publicly canvass the general election returns as evidenced by the summary statements previously delivered to the auditor by the various election judges. In making such a canvass, they have access to the summary statements but not to the sealed ballots except as governed by § 204.30.

Under § 204.30 in such a canvass the county canvassing board may, upon a four-fifths vote where there is an "obvious error in the counting and recording of the vote," as evidenced by the summary statements, order an inspection of the sealed envelopes in which the ballots have been placed. Such inspection is required to be made on notice to and in the presence of the candidates involved. The specific language of § 204.30 requires that such procedure may be followed by the county canvassing board in "conducting the canvass * * * as provided by law." There is no statutory provision for any canvass other than the original canvass provided for in § 204.29, so it would seem clear that it is only in conducting the original canvass thereunder that the procedure outlined may be followed.

Of course, the construction of these statutes — §§ 204.25-30 inclusive, in last analysis is a judicial function. Accordingly, I feel that I should refrain from executing the certified statement required of the State Canvassing Board under § 204.31 until such time as the Supreme Court shall have determined the issues described. Presumably, it can do this shortly pursuant to the jurisdiction granted to it under § 203.38.

*Filed by petition for the seat made vacant by the death of Judge Harold N. Rogers and to which Douglas K. Amdahl was appointed by Governor Elmer L. Andersen. The Minnesota Supreme Court declared the appointment of Amdahl valid and the election of Barbeau void.

NOTE: In each judicial district but the fourth and sixth, the incumbent judge was a candidate to succeed himself. In the fourth district Tom Bergin and Joseph C. Vesely were candidates for the office to which Levi M. Hall was elected; Donald T. Barbeau was a candidate for the office to which Harold N. Rogers was elected. In the sixth district Donald C. Odden and Edward W. Peterson were candidates for the office to which Victor H. Johnson was elected; Arthur O. Anselmo and N. S. Chanak were candidates for the office to which Arthur O. Anselmo was appointed.
