

Office of Governor Mark Dayton

Better Early Learning Opportunities for Minnesota Kids

Budget for a Better Minnesota

A growing body of research shows that access to high-quality preKindergarten has significant benefits for all children. In fact, University of Minnesota researchers have found that Minnesota cannot close its school readiness gap without providing children from both low- and middle-income families access to high-quality early learning opportunities.

In 2017, Governor Dayton proposed enough permanent funding that would have ensured that every Minnesota child could attend free, school-based preKindergarten. Unfortunately, the Minnesota Legislature only agreed to provide $50 million in new one-time funding. Approximately 6,100 four-year-olds are attending free, school-based preKindergarten this year in 109 school districts all across Minnesota because of this investment. But because the Legislature only provided one-time funding for some communities, 59 of those school districts would lose state funding for preKindergarten if the Legislature does not agree to make that funding permanent.

It is unfair that the younger siblings of these children, in 59 school districts around Minnesota, may not be afforded the same opportunity to attend free preKindergarten without a long-term funding solution. This year, Governor Dayton's Budget for a Better Minnesota would make voluntary preKindergarten permanent, ensuring thousands of Minnesota four-year-olds are not denied the opportunity to attend school-based preKindergarten in the future. The Governor's preKindergarten proposal also includes increased funding of 5 percent each year in order to expand access to even more children. Read more below about which school districts would lose state funding for free, voluntary preKindergarten if the Legislature does not support the Governor Dayton's proposal; about 4,000 kids each year would lose out on the great starts they need in school without this state funding.

Minnesota Schools Receiving One-Time PreKindergarten Funding

Without action by the Minnesota Legislature, these 59 school districts and charter schools would lose state funding for school-based preKindergarten programs; about 4,000 kids each year at these schools would lose out on the great starts they need in school without this state funding. Governor Dayton has proposed making the state funding permanent, to help ensure thousands of kids are not denied access to the high-quality early learning opportunities they need to get a great start in school and in life.
