SECRETARY-GENERAL MANAGER'S REPORT

SECTION I — INTRODUCTION

There were over 2,000 fairs which ran 3 days or more in operation in 1970. They attracted more than 100,000,000 people through their gates; they spent $67,000,000 on improvements; paid out $21,000,000 in cash awards and had budgets totaling in the neighborhood of $240,000,000.

Fairs, whether they be state, district or county, are big business and obviously have a time proven success formula. In addition to being a family affair, they put a giant helping of fun and entertainment on top of a solid basic offering of education, human accomplishment and service.

The casual observer might get the impression that fairs are static and never change. This is not true, they quite accurately mirror and frequently predict the times. They present the real and the imaginative worlds. The agricultural elements are still there and still remain as the basic foundation of most fair's existence, but are in proportion to the interests of the public.

Fairs are making and will continue to make lasting contributions to our society. They are fun, you can tell that just by observing the people who attend them. They are different from any other activity. Like Christmas, they come but once a year, but unlike Christmas they need many factors including good weather conditions for success.

This report would not be complete without publicly thanking everyone connected with the 1970 Minnesota State Fair. Their dedication and hard work is sincerely acknowledged and appreciated. Enough credit cannot be given to the many people behind the scenes who work so diligently and loyally to help make the annual exposition a success. To the Board of Managers, the hard-working permanent staff, the Department Superintendents and their subordinates and to everyone else, goes my sincere and heartfelt thanks.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN E. LIBBY
Secretary-General Manager

SECTION II — GENERAL

The Minnesota State Fair advanced into its 12th decade of existence in 1970 with bright-eyed and childlike enthusiasm. Sharing this enthusiasm were well over a million and a quarter visitors who attended the Exposition during the 10-day period, August 29 through September 7. Official tabulations put 1970 attendance at 1,332,784, fifth best total in the long history of the Minnesota Fair. It is quite generally felt that if it had not been for early school openings, a new total attendance record would have been realized. Most primary and secondary schools around the state were either in operation when the Fair opened or began the first Monday of the Fair. In the past, the majority of Minnesota schools did not begin holding classes until after Labor Day. Statistics indicate that the attendance decline between 1969 and 1970 of 45,000, was almost entirely in the "under-16" age category.

Two daily attendance records were established in 1970. On the opening Saturday, August 29, the attendance was 145,176, while on the final Saturday, September 5, 180,976 attended the Exposition. In addition, this was the 16th consecutive year in which the Fair drew over one million admissions.

Weather during the 1970 State Fair was generally quite good, though unpredictable. On several days, rains came without warning but were not of long duration. On two occasions, light showers fell just as the fireworks were concluding the night Grandstand show. Daytime temperatures were moderate and conducive to comfortable fair attendance.

For the fifth year in a row all Grandstand performances and all auto race programs were completed without any loss to weather. A new format in night show programming was introduced for the first time in 1970. The high cost of "name talent" necessitated the staging of two shows per night on four separate days of the Fair. An early show, preceded by automobile thrill stunts, was held at 6:30 p.m. and a second performance, climaxed by a fireworks display, was staged at 9:00 p.m. This procedure enabled the Fair to draw nearly 100,000 persons to its night Grandstand shows, best turnout in over 20 years. The highlight of the week occurred on Tuesday, September 1st when the Johnny Cash Show drew more than 26,000 spectators for two country-western programs.

Other name stars such as Lawrence Welk, Petula Clark, Art Linkletter, Bobby Vinton, Charlie Pride and the Cowsills appeared during the 10-day Exposition and were responsible for an extremely large attendance at the Grandstand.

Fess Parker was featured at the eight English and five western horse shows as well as the three RCA-sanctioned rodeo performances in the Hippodrome.

Exhibits in all competitive departments were outstanding. Premiums again were increased in 1970 as they have been for each of the past 11 years. Competitors at the Exposition were paid in excess of $268,000. These prizes were distributed on the basis of judging in the Fair's 22 competitive departments and represent the efforts of over 8,500 exhibitors who showed a total of some 65,000 animals and/or articles. Livestock facilities, including the brand new Beef Cattle Barn, were filled as entries in most of these departments exceeded the capacity of the barns.

"Mexican Village", a new and unique exhibit facility, provided the 1970 Fair with major theme involvement as a "Salute to Mexico" was featured. A 150-foot by 250-foot enclosure, having the appearance of an adobe-walled courtyard, was established on the south side of the Fairgrounds. The interior was divided into three major areas: An exhibit/concession/demonstration area comprised of 101 booths; a cafe-style Mexican food operation adjoined by a patio dining area, and an entertainment center.

The exhibit/concession area was utilized for a wide variety of enterprises including Mexican craftsmen working in such basic crafts as weaving, metal-tooling, glass-blowing and many more. The cafe served authentic Mexican fare. Entertainment, such as mariachi music and Spanish dancing, was provided in 25-minute segments on the hour each day between 10:00 a.m. and 9:00 p.m. Mexican Village proved by far the most popular single attraction at the 1970 Minnesota State Fair.

Another new feature winning wide acceptance at the '70 Fair was the establishment of a special day to honor senior citizens (Thursday, September 3). Over 15,000 persons took advantage of free outside gate admission for those 65 years of age and over on this special day.

Other programs of free entertainment and exhibits, staged around the Fairgrounds, again proved most popular. An almost continuous schedule of music was presented on the Administration Park bandstand every day, drawing standing-room-only crowds to see such attractions as the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band, the North Door Singers, the Betty Rydell Trio, Barbara Mandrell, plus the Fair's own Fair Tyne Singers.

Immediately upon completion of the '70 Fair, work began on a beautiful, permanent bandshell for the Administration Park area. This new stage facility, plus an expanded program of free entertainment, are on the agenda for 1971. During the early fall, construction was also begun on a new "Creative Activities" Building. This facility replaces the old Home Activities Building near the East Commonwealth gate.

Drum and bugle corps marched the length of the mall each day of the Fair. Units from each of Minnesota's border states participated as did numerous award-winning bands from the Twin Cities area and out-state Minnesota. Close to 100,000 rock fans enjoyed the festival-like atmosphere of Young America's "Mind Odyssey", listening to the James Gang, Sha Na Na and top local bands. Back by popular demand was Gene Holter's Wild Animal Circus. These movie animals went through their paces before capacity crowds at each of five free shows daily.

A quick look at some of the other special programs conducted at the 1970 State Fair indicates the broad versatility of its involvement in the pursuits and interests of all Minnesotans . . . 4-H/FFA safe tractor operators contest; outstanding senior citizens award program; Minnesota "Teacher of the Year" competition; coronation of "Princess Kay of the Milky Way", and so on. These are but a few from a long list.

A continued increase in the off-season use of State Fair facilities was promoted during the 1970 season. A total of 51 special events or shows were conducted on the Grounds by private organizations during the months of April, May, June, September and October with a total attendance of over 165,000 persons. This represents an increase of ten percent over 1969.

SECTION III — DAILY RESUME

A detailed resume of the day-to-day events of the 1970 Minnesota State Fair follows:

FRIDAY, AUGUST 28 — PREPARATION AND PREMIERE DAY

Heavy rains during the day dampened Preparation Day, 1970. By evening the showers had ceased but cool weather remained. In spite of the rain and cool weather, 28,500 admissions were counted. A charge of 50c went into effect at 8:00 a.m. at the outside gates.

State Fair board members and department superintendents were guests of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune at an annual luncheon held on the porch of the Publicity Headquarters.

Quality beef judging was held in the Judging Arena.

The "Princess Kay of the Milky Way" coronation was staged in the Dairy-Animal Products Building at 6:30 p.m. Miss America, Judi Ford, was on hand to present a bouquet of roses to winner Gayle Krogstad of Ada. Miss Krogstad will be the official representative of the American Dairy Association of Minnesota throughout the year.

Horse show events in the Hippodrome featured eliminations for junior hunter and equitation classes during the day. In the evening, the first English horse show was presented featuring television star Fess Parker along with the musical group "The New Establishment".

The night Grandstand resounded with country music for the first of three different shows to be presented during the Fair. Headlining the show were country artists Sonny James, Jeannie C. Riley, Faron Young, Bobby Wright and Jimmie Davis. The show was climaxed with a large fireworks display.

Machinery Hill Always a popular stop for both city and rural youngsters is the Fair's sprawling outdoor machinery exhibit area. Covering 80 acres at the north end of the Grounds, Machinery Hill offers the prospective buyer a complete range of farm, yard and recreation equipment from snowmobiles to combines.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 29 — MEXICO AND SAINT PAUL DAY

Opening day of the 109th Minnesota State Fair was cool and cloudy with light rain in the morning. Skies cleared towards noon with temperatures reaching a comfortable 70 degrees during mid-afternoon.

All attendance records were broken for this day as 145,176 admissions were recorded. The previous record was 133,121, set in 1969. As in past years, the gates of the Exposition opened at 6:00 a.m. and closed at 10:00 p.m.

At 9:00 a.m. ribbon-cutting ceremonies officially opened the new Mexican Village complex. Dignitaries on hand for this event included Lt. Governor James B. Goetz and representatives of the Mexican National Bank and the National Craftsman Union of Mexico.

Candy Candido and Miss America, Judi Ford, host and hostess of the 1970 Minnesota State Fair, were on hand to greet Fairgoers all through the ten days of the Pageant. "Bubbles the Clown" canvassed the grounds with balloons and bubble gum for the kiddies.

Young America's "Mind Odyssey" opened with many new features including a light show, live theatre and an art show, along with the best in local and national rock bands.

Appearing in Administration Park were the North Door Singers, the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band and the Phillip Whitecloud Indian Dance troupe.

Duluth Day at the Fair was marked by the appearance of the Duluth Boys Chorus in Administration Park. As a token of cooperation and support, plaques were exchanged between the Fair and the Duluth Chamber of Commerce.

Religious services were conducted in the 4-H Building and at the Farm Boys Camp. A public worship service was held at 11:00 a.m. in the Crossroads Chapel.

The State Fair "Fly-In" was another feature of Aviation Day. This event was co-sponsored by the St. Paul Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Fair. Weather conditions outstate limited the number of pilots taking advantage of this unique way of traveling to the Fair.

Featured at the afternoon Grandstand was a twin-50-lap sprint car race along with an exciting auto thrill show produced by the Chitwood Auto Daredevils. Two performances of the English horse show were conducted in the Hippodrome.

SECTION V — FINANCES

Part A - Operating Statement

The operating statement, shown on the following three pages, includes only the receipts and disbursements directly pertaining to the operation of staging the 1970 State Fair. It includes only the maintenance of real estate and other properties of the Society and does not include any of the permanent improvements made to the physical plant last year. Total operating receipts of $3,047,481.94 represents an increase of $597,809.51 over 1969. The bulk of this increase is attributed to the increased price of tickets at the outside gates, and increased revenue at the night grandstand and in the Space Rental Department.

Operating expenses of $2,690,692.47 represents an increase over 1969 of $329,403.00. This increase is largely due to the increased cost of wages and materials. The difference between operating receipts and operating expenses in 1970 reflects a net operating gain of $356,789.47. An increase of approximately $270,000 more than that realized in 1969.

A total of $268,957.96 in premiums was paid to competitive exhibitors in the various departments in 1970. This sum represents the largest amount of premium money paid in the history of the Minnesota State Fair and reflects the extremely large number of entries in all departments.

More than $286,421.00 was spent in 1970 for maintenance and repairs to the physical plant. Of this amount, $157,230.76 was spent for maintenance and repairs to the existing structures; $39,092.65 was spent for vehicle and personal property repairs; $12,074.96 was spent on electrical plant maintenance; $10,301.87 was spent for maintenance and repairs to the water distribution and sewer systems; and $77,726.55 was spent on maintenance and repairs of fences, streets, sidewalks and landscaping (landscaping includes such things as grading, sodding and tree trimming).

As noted above, Society funds expended for permanent improvements to the physical plant are not included in the operating statement, but a total of $733,964.00 was spent in 1970 for these improvements. A breakdown shows that $417,078.00 was spent for new structures or improvements to existing structures; $14,434.00 for improvements made to land, streets and sidewalks; $64,346.00 for personal property acquisitions; $135,297.00 for electric plant improvements; and $102,809.00 for improvements to the water distribution and sewer systems.

Part B — Balance Sheet

The balance sheet shows $10,745,446.10 credited to real estate resources. This represents an increase of approximately $235,545 after deducting depreciation on structures and the value of the Home Activities Building which was razed following the 1970 Fair. New street lights and other improvements of the electric plant have raised its value to $528,043.05, an increase of approximately $115,000 over 1969.

Personal property inventory, after depreciation, amounts to $302,343.82, an increase of approximately $38,000.00 over the previous year. Cash and securities at the end of the fiscal year totaled $614,803.37. This figure is comprised of $27,601.36 in the General Fund; $1,000.00 in the Contingent Fund; $10,000.00 in the Payroll Fund; and $576,202.01 invested in U.S. Treasury Bills. The cash balance shows a decrease in comparison to that of 1969 but is due to the large amount of money expended for maintenance and improvements to the physical plant in 1970. Accounts receivable at the end of the fiscal year amounted to $22,212.35.

Total resources of the Society are $12,213,987.18, approximately $224,000 more than at the end of the 1969 fiscal year. This figure represents but a fraction of what it would cost to replace the facilities.

Ride 'Em Cowboy Always a "must stop" for youngsters and parents attending the State Fair is Gene Holter's Wild Animal Circus. Where else can a boy get a chance to ride a Hippo? Back for its fourth consecutive visit to the Fair in '70, the Holter Show played to standing-room-only crowds every day of the run.

STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY
Year Ended November 30, 1970

ACCOUNTANT'S REPORT

This report on an examination of the financial affairs of the State Agricultural Society covers the year ended November 30, 1970.

The examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as were considered necessary in the circumstances.

Depreciation has been taken on certain structures, the electric plant, and personal property. Depreciation is not taken on some structures, the gas, sewer, and water systems, and other improvements such as fences, sidewalks, streets, curbs, and gutters.

It is the opinion of this department, subject to the foregoing paragraph, that the balance sheet and statement of income and expense in this report present fairly the financial position of the State Agricultural Society on November 30, 1970, and the results of its operation for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

COMMENTS

The State Agricultural Society is a public corporation with the right of perpetual succession. Its membership is composed of the following:

1. Three delegates from each agricultural society or association in the State which maintains an active existence, holds annual fairs, and is entitled to State aid under Minn. Stat. Section 38.02 (1969).
2. One delegate to be appointed by the county board of each county in the State in which no county or district agricultural society exists.
3. Individuals, who by reason of eminent service to agriculture, horticulture, or in the arts and sciences connected therewith, or by long and faithful service to the Society, have been elected as honorary members.
4. Delegates from qualified State societies and associations as listed in Minn. Stat. Section 37.03 (4) (1969).
5. Members of the Board of Managers of the State Agricultural Society.

The management of the affairs of the State Agricultural Society is vested in a Board of Managers. The President is elected for a one-year term, the two vice-presidents for two-year terms alternately. The other managers are elected from each of seven regional districts not represented by a vice-president for terms of three years.

The year-around business is conducted under the stewardship of a secretary-general manager, elected by the Board.

All employees serve at the pleasure of the Board and the secretary-general manager. The secretary-general manager is authorized by the Board to make adjustments in the assignments and compensation of employees as he deems advisable.

Activities of the Society are financed by receipts from the annual fair and from rental of buildings and grounds.

Attendance

The following is a record of the attendance at the last four annual fairs:

	1967	1968	1969	1970
Admitted through outside gates	1,355,817	1,457,829	1,376,887	1,332,784
Admitted to grandstand	165,147	162,526	159,130	167,944

Operations

A statement of income and expense for the year ended November 30, 1970 is shown in Exhibit B. A comparative summary of income and expense for the years ended November 30, 1969 and 1970 follows:

	Year Ended November 30
	1970	1969
Total income	$3,049,765.61	$2,450,236.50
Total expense	2,690,692.47	2,374,524.89
Net income	$ 359,073.14	$ 75,711.61

The income for the year ended November 30, 1970 increased by $283,361.53 over the previous year due mainly to an increase in admission prices, an increase in the number of evening grandstand performances, an increase in nonfair space rental, and an increase in interest income on temporary investments.

Statement of Application of Funds

A statement of funds provided and applied appears in Exhibit C. Net income and depreciation for the year and a reduction in working capital were applied to increases in plant.

Public Safety

Receipts of the Public Safety Department were reconciled by use of the court docket and the summary of bail received, bail returned, bail forfeited and payment of fines. The receipt book in which all transactions are to be entered could not be audited because the copies were virtually illegible. It is recommended that more care be taken in writing receipts so as to produce legible copies.

Camp Grounds

The camp ground fees as recorded in the receipt books could not be reconciled to deposits because the duplicate receipts were illegible, voided original receipts were not always attached to the duplicate, and some receipts were issued out of sequence.

Registration cards were used for persons staying on the camp grounds. These cards were not completely filled out and usually did not indicate the registration sticker number.

The registration stickers could not be properly accounted for because the cash receipt did not show the sticker number purchased, the registration cards did not show the sticker number, and a log was not maintained for duplicates issued.

Personal Property

Employees are continuing to update the personal property inventory as was recommended by the examiners in 1966. However, a proper identification system is not used, nor are items sold or scrapped removed from the inventory list.

Personal property should be classified as nonexpendable, semiexpendable, and expendable. Nonexpendable items should be identified by a numerical code and serial number, and semiexpendable items should be marked as Society property.

The storeroom in the service building does not maintain a perpetual inventory.

Gasoline

Gas purchased, issued, and on hand could not be proven against a physical inventory because a storage tank was replaced that does not have a conversion table available, and both pumps were replaced without the meter readings being verified.

The company that supplied the new tank has agreed to provide a conversion chart and a measurement stick.

Concession and Exhibit Contracts

Three void concession contracts and three void exhibit contracts could not be found. Employees stated that a new employee discarded the six voided contracts. All contracts should be retained for audit.

Accounts Receivable

The net accounts receivables over one year old at November 30, 1970 totaled $7,689.07. Some of the accounts are over six years old.

An account for allowance for uncollectible accounts receivable should be established on the books by charging to operating expense the estimated amount of uncollectible accounts. Once a year management should determine which accounts over six years old are uncollectible and request authorization to write them off the books.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON SESSION

January 26, 1971

Minnesota State Agricultural Society

The meeting was called to order by the President, Birney Wilkins, at 2:00 o'clock P.M.

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Ladies and gentlemen, we will reconvene the meeting that we started yesterday, the Minnesota State Agricultural Society, and the first thing on this program are the remarks by the President. I can assure you that they will be short and I might illustrate the fact by telling a story about Doctor Davis, who is Dean of Education of Chicago University. He was invited all over the United States to speak at Commencement exercises and he wondered why he was invited until he heard two Superintendents discuss this at a convention. One Superintendent said to the other Superintendent, "I don't know who I am going to get for a Commencement speaker," and the other one said, "Well, get Davis. He is short and he is cheap." I am very short and they aren't going to pay me at all. So that takes care of that.

Or it might be like another speaker that was called upon to speak at a PTA meeting—his wife wasn't going that night so she asked him what subject is he going to speak on. Well, he didn't want to tell her because it was going to be on sex education, so he said, "Sailboating" which he was very poor at doing as an amateur. So a few days later his wife met one of their friends in a super market and the other one said that John certainly did a good job. He explained everything in detail and answered all the questions. His wife looked dumbfounded and said that "Every time he tries it, his hat falls off, and he gets seasick."

(Laughter.)

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: I might assure you that we have had our biggest and best year that we have ever had of the Minnesota State Fair last year. The attendance was down somewhat, but the gate receipts were up. Now, we don't have a surplus of money, I can assure you of that, because we spend it as fast as we get it. The expenses keep up with the income in every case. I do want to take this opportunity to thank the permanent staff and all of our Superintendents and Supervisors that are available when we want them to make the Minnesota State Fair a successful institution, which it is. This institution is one of the few in the United States that maintains an agricultural complex. We have the largest display of machinery in the United States. Now, we do have quite an extensive improvement program. We are updating our water systems and our electrical systems, and then we will service the streets after this first study. Our Building Department is rather ambitious, as you know. We are in the process now of replacing an old homes activity program with a Creative Activity building. The last few years we have built the Dairy building, the Educational building, the Administration building. We had to put the Education building up again and this time it stayed. So now, this concludes my remarks and I told you it would be short and cheap.

The next thing on the program will be the report by Roy Sorenson, the Treasurer.

Report of Treasurer

Roy C. Sorenson

MR. ROY C. SORENSON: If you will turn to Page 23, I will read my short report. The balance in the General Fund as of December 1, 1969, was $99,780.92. Contingency Fund, $1,000.00; Payroll Fund, $10,000.00; and U. S. Treasury Bills at that date was $674,493.75, making a total of $785,274.67.

During the past year our total cash receipts were $3,090,063.40. Our total cash disbursements were $3,260,534.70, which indicates, as Birney says, that we spent more money than we took in, but it left us a cash excess over receipts of $170,471.30.

The cash balance as of November 30th was, General Fund, $27,601.36; Contingent Fund, $1,000.00; Payroll Fund, $10,000.00, and the U. S. Treasury Bills, $576,202.01. These were all in the Northwestern National Bank, bills under the safety deposit. That leaves us with a balance of $614,803.37.

There is one thing that I have given a lot of thought to over a period of years and especially this last year. It has been a wonderful feeling to come up here year after year and make a report when you don't have to look at red figures, and I think it is well that we all give a little thought to that. This State Fair of ours is really run in a businesslike way. I don't know when the last time is that we ever read any red figures. Do you know, John?

MR. JOHN E. LIBBY: I don't remember.

MR. ROY C. SORENSON: Well, Mr. President, I move the adoption of this report.

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Thank you, Roy. Is there a second to the motion?

DELEGATE: I second it.

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Motion made and seconded to approve the report as read. All of those in favor signify by saying aye. Opposed, the same sign. Motion carried.

We will change our format just a little bit. Rather than have somebody give me a bunch of notes that are rather difficult to read and they wouldn't have any personal knowledge of the person who is going to speak, we are going to ask the individual in the case who is going to introduce the person who is going to give the talk, so at this time we will ask the Minnesota State Club Leaders, Leonard Harkness — oh, I beg your pardon. I have skipped one. John just says he wants to talk next.

MR. JOHN E. LIBBY: The program says so.

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: We will agree with the program. We will have John Libby give his report at this time.

Report of Secretary-General Manager

John E. Libby

MR. JOHN E. LIBBY: I agree with you, Birney, I don't have that such to say, but if you will excuse me, I will put these cheaters on.

The State Fair, as you know, was not a record-breaker as far as attendance is concerned, but it did provide several "firsts" and several accomplishments of a record-breaking nature.

The total attendance of 1,332,784 was the fifth best in the Fair's long history, and it is generally felt that it was adversely affected by two things. Number one, the earlier than usual school openings, and the general economic conditions and the large amount of unemployment.

Many of the primary and secondary schools around the State began classes the week before Labor Day and some of them were even in operation before the opening of the Fair on August 29th.

If you look at the statistics, you will find that it will show that nearly all of the attendance decline from 1969 to 1970 was in the "under 16" age category.

Further evidence of the effect the early school openings had was the fact that both of our record days for single days in 1970 were on Saturdays or weekend days.

However, as I have already mentioned, the 1970 Fair did provide some milestones and some things which I think are worthy of comment. It marked the first year that we went to what could be termed "big names" exclusively at our night grand stand.

Such names as Johnny Cash, Lawrence Welk, Petula Clark, Bobby Vinton, Art Linkletter, Charlie Pride and the Cowsills, were responsible for an extremely large attendance at our night grand stand shows. In fact, it was the largest that we have had in over 30 years.

Last year we initiated a special day for our Senior Citizens. We provided them with a free outside gate admission on September 3rd until 6:00 P.M. Thousands of people, 65 years of age and over, took advantage of the free day and swarmed the grounds, many of them attending the special recognition that we had for the State Fair Senior Citizens in the afternoon, and the Lawrence Welk show that evening in the grand stand.

Another "first" in 1970 was the Mexican Village. This new and unique facility, built on the south side of the grounds, across from the Ag-Hort Building, provided us with a major theme which was A Salute to Mexico.

The enclosure, which encompassed approximately a full acre, was surrounded by an adobe-type wall. The interior was comprised of 101 booths by 10 exhibit booths. These booths were used to display and merchandise hundreds of authentic Mexican-made articles such as pottery, leather goods, sombreros, and many other things too numerous to mention.

In one corner of the Village, a restaurant sold Mexican foods such as tortillas, enchiladas and refried beans. It was adjoined by an outdoor patio area where the people could sit and enjoy the Mexican food, drink beer and watch the free Mexican entertainment featured in the Village. This free entertainment was provided by a troupe of more than 30 people, direct from Mexico City. They staged 25-minute shows every hour from 10:00 A.M. to 9:00 P.M. each day of the Fair.

Admission to the Village was free and without question, this new feature proved by far the most popular single attraction we had at the 1970 Fair. It is our intention to continue this next year and we hope that many of the people who were unable to see it because of the huge crowds, will be able to witness it for themselves next year.

We were very pleased that our efforts to keep the grounds clean were appreciated. During and following the Fair, we received numerous letters, phone calls, and comments relative to the cleanliness of the grounds during Fair week.

We appreciate these comments very much because we did, over the past several years, make a concerted effort to keep our grounds clean.

With more than 130,000 people on the average on the grounds each day and on several days, as you know, many more than that, this is no small task. This is a job that all fairs, whether they be large or small, have to contend with.

Of course, this could not have been possible without the help of the fair-going public, and we appreciated their cooperation in using the receptacles that we provided.

Our policy, which was established several years ago, of providing an abundant array of free entertainment, has been met with genuine and enthusiastic response. It is also our intention to continue this policy and as evidence, we are presently constructing a beautiful new bandshell in the Administration park area. This bandshell will be the site of nearly continuous free entertainment every afternoon of the Fair, and we are constantly looking for the type of attractions there that will appeal to all age groups and all elements.

Exhibits in all of our 22 competitive departments were outstanding again last year. The premium awards were increased for the 11th consecutive year. Competitors in these departments were paid in excess of $268,000.00, making 1970 the sixth year that premiums have exceeded a quarter of a million dollars.

Approximately 8,500 exhibitors showed a total of 65,000 articles and/or animals last year. With this type of participation, we feel we are fulfilling our basic obligation and responsibility by providing and encouraging active participation and education to all segments of the community.

Turning a moment to the financial figures, the operating statement on Page 15 of the report which you have will reveal that both the operation receipts — I think Birney and Roy already mentioned this — operating receipts and operating disbursements were at an all-time high.

Operating receipts were $3,047,481.94, and disbursements or expenses were $2,690,692.47. The difference between these receipts and disbursements shows a net operating gain in 1970 of $356,789.00.

As I am sure most of you know, the operating statement does not reflect the amount of money spent for permanent improvements to the physical plant. In all, a total of $734,661.00 was spent last year for permanent improvements. These are improvements that are either new buildings or permanent improvements that are not reflected in the costs now. This is the largest amount of money ever spent in a single year in the history of the Fair, and I might add, it was done without any outside financial help, which has been the case in the last 25 years.

There are several other items or factors which made the 1970 Fair a success. I think most of them are covered in the report, which you have. I hope you will take a copy of it home with you and study it at your leisure, but before closing, I would like to thank President Wilkins, the Board of Managers, the permanent staff, the Department Superintendents and their staffs and all the part-time people who helped and worked hard for their efforts this past year. As you know, the staging of an annual event such as the State Fair or even a county fair requires the full cooperation of many, many people. To all of them goes my thanks and appreciation.

The press, radio and television people were also most helpful in promoting the Fair last year and their active presence on the grounds and their overall efforts are most appreciated.

We look forward to the new year with confidence and anticipation in our efforts to produce a bigger and better Fair in 1971. We solicit the continued support of the community, the State, and the entire area which we serve.

Thank you.

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Thank you, John. Next we will introduce Leonard Harkness who will introduce the President of the Minnesota 4-H Federation. Leonard, if you will, please.

MR. LEONARD HARKNESS: It is a real pleasure and I am grateful to you, Birney, for the privilege of introducing our State 4-H Federation President, Nancy Mrnak of Polk County. She has noticed some people from Polk County, so you feel right at home, don't you, Nancy? Nancy has been serving as our 4-H State President since June of this year when she was elected as our State 4-H President last year. She was elected as President at the State 4-H Leadership Conference over on the State fair grounds. She has been involved in a number of activities since representing the nearly 100,000 young people who are involved in 4-H in one way or another in Minnesota. This just fortunately was a year that a girl should be elected President. Every other year it is a boy, and so we are fortunate to have Nancy of the right sex so that she can be President this year. She is a Freshman at Moorhead State. She came down this morning from the Fargo area by plane and had a pleasant trip, and we have had a pleasant lunch together, and now she is looking forward to speaking to you about 4-H and the Fair. I might just say that as we came into this room, we both were reminded that this was not the first time that she had been here on behalf of the State Fair, because she was one of the State Fair ambassadors a year ago in a very real sense, when we came over here to appear before and present a program to the Downtown Lion's Club during the State Fair week, so this seemed like old times to walk through that door and this is a different group than what we saw then.

Nancy, it is a pleasure to have you here and to have you speak on behalf of the 4-H members of Minnesota as you address members of the State Agricultural Society and members of the County Federation of Fairs. You are here.

MISS NANCY MRNAK: That's right, Leonard, we have been here before, and it looks the same because the last time it was almost completely males, too, and I remember walking in and not finding any other girls until I saw Miss America standing there, and so it was just us two and everyone else, and contrary to everything that my mother has told me about dirty old men, I still have yet to meet one, so I feel quite safe in the present group.

(Laughter.)

MISS NANCY MRNAK: First of all, I would just like to say thank you for bringing the spirit of 4-H to our county fairs, and especially at the Minnesota State Fair. I know that to most people fairs must mean cotton candy and popcorn and caramelized apples and red, white and blue ribbons, and it does mean this to 4-H, too, but it means a lot more, and I think that our experience at the Fair can be summed up in one word and that is learning. There are many things that we learn through fairs. We learn how to compete and we learn how to meet people and we learn how to develop self-confidence, and I just kind of want to go into some of these areas to kind of give you my personal experiences at the Fair and how I feel that these are areas in which I have learned.

I think the most essential thing that any 4-H'er learns at a fair is how to compete, and competition really seems to be the basis of the American way of life. We are all striving to be the best, and we want to be successful in what we do, and this really is what is going on. The 4-H'ers, too, want to prove that they have learned their project well, and that they have done it better than someone else. But on the same line, I think that we should remember that; say the little boy who is showing his pigs for the first time at the State Fair and gets a white ribbon — he may have a greater learning experience than the one who gets, say, the blue or the grand champion ribbon, because competition is based on what you learn as well as the ribbon, because I feel that the boy with the white ribbon who learns and knows why he got a white ribbon can get a lot more out of the fair than the one with the blue ribbon and yet he has no idea why he got this ribbon, so I think that 4-H stresses competition, but we stress competition with learning and with some objective in mind.

Secondly, I think the most important thing that 4-H'ers get out of fairs is meeting other people. I know that this year down at the State Fair, I met many wonderful people; Mr. Libby here, and Candy Cantino was over here at the Lion's meeting that one day and Judith M. Ford was up for many of our 4-H activities at the 4-H building, but even like a county fair, you are brought into contact with kids just from your neighboring schools, and I don't know how it was when you were back in high school, but, you know, a high school boy now goes out for sports. You just don't talk about the kids, you know. They practically get in gang fights, you know, they are going to go out there and win that night, and somehow at fairs during the summer, the kids from neighboring towns are brought together and they learn "Oh, gee, they're really not so bad. We hear about them, you know," and it really brings people just from the county together. When you get down to the State Fair, I know this is many of the children's first trip away from home and away from mom and dad and all of a sudden, they are on their own, and certainly they are exposed to a widely diverse group of people at the State Fair; just by walking down the Midway, they come in contact with the hippies, the college students. They are really freaks and drop-outs, and they have to learn how to accept these people because I think too many of us want to force our beliefs on other people, and we forget that we have to accept people for what they are, and not for what we might like them to be, and this is also evidenced in the 4-H'ers that you meet just in your own fair group that you meet down at the State Fair because we can't get much closer together in that 4-H building in the bunks up there when they are three high and two across and as far as the eye can see, and it is really a great experience, and I think every 4-H'er should have it, and the first time, it is really scary, you know, talking to persons that you have never seen before, much less sleeping next to them, you know. I think 4-H brings people together and I think it makes you appreciate other people's values and purposes in life.

Thirdly, I think that 4-H at the Fair develops both your self-confidence and your self-discipline. I say self-confidence again because in meeting people and in displaying your project, self-discipline, well, mainly for the first time, many kids, say when they are 12 or 13 years old when they are first eligible to go down to the State Fair, one of the big things is that they have money on their own for the first time, and that they can do anything that they want to, you know, their parents give them $5.00 or $10.00, and then they take off and then they say, "Have a good time at the Fair," and they will find that the kids who are, say, 12 or 13, right away, down to the Midway, you know, and by the end of the first day, all of their money is spent on rides, and gradually, as you get older, you learn to appreciate the educational values of the fairs and anyone who has walked through, especially the barns at the State Fair when the 4-H'ers are there, will notice that many kids just sit down there and talk and get to know each other, and I think that this has more valuable assets than the State Fair could ever buy anything. Just providing us with these places, just to sit down and talk means more than anything that we could ever go out and spend money on.

Next, the Fair is the time to merely gather in the fruits of your labor, because 4-H'ers work all year, and they're really not sure, you know, how they are doing, because like raising a cow, it could very easily contract a disease. If they are in gardening, you know, there could be a drought or something, and you have to have perseverance and know that success is not a here-and-gone thing; it is something that you have to work hard at.

I would also like to thank both the county fairs and the State Fair for providing space for demonstrations. I know this is my biggest hang-up about 4-H items. This is how I first got involved down at the State Fair, and I am really enthusiastic about that. I think that every 4-H'er should go through the experience of demonstrating down at the State Fair because you have these hundreds and hundreds of people walking by, and you are talking, you know, and some stop and some go by, and you find yourself up on a platform and usually 15 and 16-year-olds are telling these old people, you know, generations one or two above you, how to do something, and it is really a great feeling to be able to pass on some of your knowledge that might be of help to other people, and thank you for providing these facilities for us.

This year I had a different experience at the State Fair in that I didn't exhibit anything or didn't demonstrate anything and so I was there as a 4-H ambassador, and some of the things that we do during State Fair, we work on the 4-H platforms; we emcee the various programs, and we also have quite a few radio and television interviews during this time.

I also feel that State Fair is a springboard to other activities, not only in 4-H, but in community and school affairs, because — well, I went down to the State Fair when I was 12 years old for the first time, and this is my sixth year back, and it is evident that I really like it because I have met so many people through State Fair, and I am just so excited about the new people and the new experiences that you meet that I want to go on and get involved in other 4-H activities and even school activities where I could be with other people and get to know as many people as I could, so thank you again. We learn and experience a great deal at your Fairs, and I would like to thank you for teaching us.

(Applause.)

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Thank you very much, Nancy. We are always glad to hear from the youth groups and their spokesmen. At this time I will ask W. J. Kortesmaki to introduce the member from the FFA.

MR. W. J. KORTESMAKI: Jim, you don't have to stand as close to me as Nancy did to Leonard and not too far either. We do have gals now and I can see that some day I may be introducing a gal for FFA, and we had a couple of gals that were exhibitors, one from Fairfax, I believe, and one from Chaska. I circled the name of Logan Scow here because when we were talking here, it was about the State Fairs and the county fairs and the story that he told me about the fishing trip and when I was invited to the District FFA's fishing and snowmobiling, and by the time I got the hole big enough to get the boat in there, it was too late, so that is the reason that I didn't get anything, and to Leo Keskinen and we were both flying to Finland and we were also coming back by jet is because underneath the Statue of Liberty is the reason "Please, no more Finns."

(Laughter.)

MR. W. J. KORTESMAKI: A tobacco company promised a one-way trip, and I don't know how you are financing yours, Leo, and I saw at the 4-H Regional Fair — they have very outstanding 4-H organizations, and I am not mentioning anything about FFA because they didn't have anything, but I want to compliment someone here and James, you are to be next. You are surprised. Usually when a boy becomes a State officer, we tell them to send a biographical sketch, and he sent a tear-page from his high school annual and it said here that he was recognized in FFA and that Jim was the most likely to succeed, so James Sorlie, President of FFA at Osakis, Minnesota. Okay, James, now you can come up.

MR. JAMES SORLIE: I don't know how I can follow that up, but I will try. It is really my honor to be here this afternoon with a bunch of people like you. They are doing so much to help young people in today's nation to show what they can really be and what they can do. I was not very active in the State Fair until the last couple of years in my senior high school years, and then I finally found out what the Fair is all about and believe me, I really appreciate it. Last year we were fortunate enough to have most of the state officers down at the State Fair all the time. Now, we did a lot of things and one obvious advantage of being a state officer at this time, you might know, is we did get to meet a few nice girls like Nancy over here down at the Fair. That is one point.

Anyway, I would just briefly like to review some of the things that go on at State Fairs as far as FFA is concerned. First of all, there is a crop show. Now, Minnesota is one of the better-known crop states and the southern part especially, and at the Fair, a young man gets the chance to extend his project to a different area of the state, give it competition not only around his home town, like you would get if you get up into the northern part of Minnesota, there are only a couple of types of crops raised up there; the same with southern Minnesota and at the Fair it gives him broader competition throughout the state, and our members are very well pleased at the way that this is handled, and also the premiums that they receive from their crop show.

Next is the livestock show. This is a thing that we are so proud of. Last year I believe we had slightly under 2,000 head of livestock at the Fair. Mr. Odell Barduson, who I see seated over here, has done a lot of work on this program. Just today I was discussing with him the program and it sounds like it is going to be expanded even more next summer at the Fair. We are proud to take these livestock show statistics to the National FFA, so we can sit back and brag about it being the largest livestock show of FFA in the whole nation or the whole world for that matter, and that we are very proud of it.

The next thing I am going to mention is that I was very personally involved with and really learned a lot from it and that is the judging contest; judging dairy and other items at the State Fair. Now, in the FFA, we have contests throughout the year, and we have state contests, and I have been in both of them, and believe me, the State Fair contests are twice as tough as our regular contests, which aren't very easy. I was in dairy cattle contests for quite a few years and believe me, I learned a lot from judging cattle down at the State Fair because there are some very good examples of real fine livestock throughout that Fair, and this is something that is not easy to find, as that number of cattle or sheep or hogs or what have you in such a large number.

Well, the next thing is, of course, the FFA barnyard. This is where I got all of my experience this year is meeting the general public. Nancy was talking about some of the kids that you meet on the Midway. We have some of the same kids that go through the barnyard. Believe me, sometimes they look like a bunch of hippies to me, too, but I think those kids are all right.

We have got to give them a chance. Through the whole 12 days of the Fair, we sat in that barnyard and strange as it seems, I can't think of a single insult or anybody even being rude to us guys back there and people were so nice to us that it is really unbelievable when you have that many people going through there. We counted the people going through and sometimes there was way over a thousand people an hour going through the barnyard. The barnyard, of course, is created for young kids about that high. Now, it doesn't work that way because most of the time these little kids have trouble crawling between the adults. People still like the farm. They still like the way things used to be; the good natural life. They like to get in there and see those animals in their natural state. I had one young kid walk up to me this summer at the Fair and he saw a nice hog laying down there, and he asked me "What do you use that for?", and I had to explain to him that that is where bacon comes from and that is where you get these good pork cutlets that you eat and things like that. He didn't know that, and believe me, he didn't look like a very impressive young man, but when I got to talking to him, he was one of the nicest people I ever met, and I enjoyed visiting with him. At the barnyard we also gave away some 24,000 smoking posters which reflect our attitude toward the act of smoking and things that have been proven about it in the individual health case. Some of the other things that were sort of the highlight of the barnyard this year was, again, we had a rooster crowing contest and this year another thing, a turkey gobbling contest. These two activities sort of let the poultry industry make a little showing at the Fair. They are an awful lot of fun for us guys and the kids entering them and this year we had so many people around there that it was hard for everybody to see what was going on, there were so many people at the rooster crowing contest, and we had most of the radio and TV stations with very good coverage on them and a lot of publicity out of it.

Next, there is the matter of the State Farm Boy's Camp. Now, this camp, I was up there this summer and saw the boys, and now, they are learning something. They are learning a lot up there. They go to that grand stand at night, and they have got to be in contact with people, and this is one of the most important things that young people today want and we have trouble getting. We never really get the chance in some cases to get out there and meet the public face to face and believe me, those boys did, and I think they did a good job of it. Another thing, like Nancy said, they get to live with each other. It is quite an experience just to move in for a week with a bunch of kids you never met before. It does most people a lot of good to go through something like this.

The last thing I would like to mention is the FFA booth and the demonstrations. These are going to be a little reorganized next year, but still, they are giving, not the State Association, but the individual chapter a chance to come down to the Fair and to set up a booth and express their views on some point of education. In walking through the Education building this year, I was quite proud of the chapters I recognized throughout that building; some very nice displays. I hope that this can be continued. I would like to thank each and every one of you for the work that you have done to make this Fair possible. There is a little saying that I sometimes use that says that what a young man earns in the daytime goes into his pocket. What he spends at night goes into his character, and from the State Association, from the FFA Officers, I would like to say that the whole 12 days that we put in at the Fair last summer really went into our character. I am sure that it is going to remain with us the rest of our lives. I thank each and every one of you for that.

(Applause.)

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Thank you, James. I will now introduce the Superintendent of the Educational Department of the Minnesota State Fair who will introduce the Teacher of the Year. Leo has been known to tell Finnish jokes. I don't know if he is prepared today or not.

MR. LEO KESKINEN: How can you tell a Finnish joke when you follow Korttesmaki?

(Laughter.)

MR. LEO KESKINEN: You heard Kort mention that we were flying over Finland together this year. I mentioned it to one of the treasurers of one of the northern county fairs down here that I was planning on taking this trip, and he said: "You know you're going to have a tough time over there because when you order a mixed drink, you are not going to get any ice. The fellow that had the recipe died."

(Laughter.)

MR. LEO KESKINEN: You know, it is difficult to follow Kort when you are making an introduction, but it is real pleasant to follow the representatives of the youth groups that have represented us at the State Fair because it shows the emphasis that has been placed on youth activities, and I think an emphasis has been placed in the right direction, and we are real proud of these youth activities that we have in existence, but we are proud of some other things that we do at the State Fair too, and one of these is the activities of the Education department that we have been involved with now for the past three years in our Teacher of the Year program. We are participating with the Minnesota Education Association and working with them in their state-wide Teacher of the Year program, and we have Lee Kohs, the 1970 Minnesota Teacher of the Year with us today.

Lee is a Physics teacher. He is the head of the Science Department in a new high school in Saint Cloud, and he and his wife and four children have lived in Saint Cloud since 1955. He has a Bachelor's Degree and a Master of Science Degree from Saint Cloud State College. He taught at Marshall for several years and then moved on to Saint Cloud, where he has been ever since. He has done graduate work at the Iowa State College, the University of North Dakota and has involved himself in numerous professional associations. I think one of the finest commendations to our Teacher of the Year was a letter that one of the students sent in to the committee that was making the recommendation in this he said, "If there were an award for an outstanding teacher, I am sure that he will win." Welcome, please, Lee Kohs, Teacher of the Year.

(Applause.)

MR. LEE KOHS: Thank you very much, Leo. I don't know quite what to say following remarks like that. I agree that it is a real pleasure to follow two representatives that you have, these young people that we have with us this afternoon. It is indeed an honor and a very, very distinct pleasure for me to be invited to visit with you this afternoon, and I want to take this opportunity because I guess I really haven't been able to do so. I have made my remarks known and my feelings made known by way of a letter, but I would like to thank this particular group for sponsoring the Minnesota Teacher of the Year program. I think it is one of the finest public relations programs that we know of in trying to find someone that can represent, and I sincerely mean this word "represent" because I don't think there is any other way that you could categorize the Minnesota Teacher of the Year. There is no other way to attempt to find the best teacher. You are trying to find a representative that can display perhaps these qualities to the public and act as a public relations agent and I think, as I mentioned before, you are to be commended for this extremely fine program.

I guess I find it difficult to make it entirely clear to anyone and this includes people in my own profession as well as to outsiders the very distinct pleasure that I have in teaching. I guess I would rather earn my living by teaching than in any other way. In my mind, teaching is not really a life's work, I guess, or a profession or an occupation, or a struggle — I guess I would say it is a passion. Needless to say, I love to teach. I love to teach as perhaps a painter loves to paint or a musician would love to play or a singer loves to sing or an athlete enjoys running a race. Most of all, I think teaching is an art. It is an art that is so great and so difficult to master that a man or woman can spend his entire lifetime at it without realizing much more than his limitations and his mistakes and really his distance from the idea, but the main aim of my professional life as a teacher is to become a good teacher; just as every architect wishes to become a good architect and every professional poet strives towards perfection. All of us, I am sure, through our own experiences, have been made aware of the fact that education today is much different than it was 10 or 20 years ago. It is quite apparent that no one will live all of his life into the world in which he was born, and this really isn't difficult to understand when one considers that according to best estimates, scientific discoveries, and I guess this is the area that I am probably more familiar with than anything else, is doubling every 10 years, and I understand that most recent estimates say that doubling is taking place every five years. Now, what does this really mean. It is pretty startling when you stop and consider that 55 percent of the products on the shelves of our drug stores today are new within the last 10 years. About 50 percent of what an engineer is taught is obsolete within 10 years, and a single day's output of new scientific information would fill seven sets of a large encyclopedia. Stop and think about this for a moment, and I think the remarks that I am about to make will perhaps be more meaningful. From these remarks, I think you will find that it is quite apparent that no one can ever learn or even scratch the surface of this new rush of information. It is my contention therefore that education must be more concerned with developing an interest and attitude in the pursuit of knowledge rather than with the actual knowledge itself. One of the prime values of education in our fast-moving world is that power to enable students to invent and create new ideas. This requires a flexibility of mind and a desire to perform and expand on this knowledge. Within each discipline, an attempt must be made to equip students with the basic skills and qualities of character so that responsible and satisfying goals can be met. Opportunities must be provided for each student to pursue in depth individual areas of interest, providing an opportunity for them to organize their own work, select their own references, present their own findings and evaluate their own performances. I think this is a little bit different philosophy of education than when you and I perhaps were exposed to it.

The central purpose of my professional life is to provide students with this direction, and in addition, an attempt must be made to instill in them an understanding of the personal responsibility for one's own act, and this is really not an easy goal to attain. Perhaps, first of all, there must be a mutual respect between teacher and student before any communication can take place and this respect cannot be obtained through a teacher-dominated classroom, but it must be obtained through an understanding of the entire individual. Whether it is in a teachers' lounge or in your homes, we hear about discipline in school; too harsh, too easy, too much from this one or too little from that one, but the responsibility for discipline in my estimation belongs basically to the parents because the teacher cannot contend with this and really do an effective job of teaching. This is not the time for the parent to come to the teacher and say, "I hope you can do something with my son or daughter because I haven't really been able to do anything with him." In order to present as much information as we can to the students, the teacher should not have to be bogged down by discipline problems that the home should have taken care of. Now, that doesn't mean that the teacher shouldn't deal with situations as they arise for a time that is imperative that children be corrected by the nearest adult.

But these problems of charity, honesty, and integrity are not going to be solved in the school. The influence of the parents is going to weigh more heavily than the efforts of six different teachers who have 30 students in a class. Ultimately the teacher's influence will be felt on the subject material that it gives to the youngsters and the attitude towards their future learning. Even in the first five years of a child's life, the parents have shaped the child's character to an enormous degree. Just stop for a moment and listen to your child in an unguarded moment, and I think you will hear yourself talking. It is the parent who the child will emulate in matters of honesty, reliability and general morality.

The field of education today is really exciting. It is stimulating and generally one of challenge to educators with a great deal of pressure being placed on schools to change and implement new teaching programs, which are more individualized in nature and more relevant to the student. There are hundreds of innovations and educational curriculum and school organizations being tried out throughout the nation and I am sure that most of you have heard of many of them but, however, almost every program that I am aware of is designed for the student to accept more responsibility for his or her own learning and to depend less on the teacher. The teacher's responsibility is not and cannot be an answer supplier, but instead, a teacher should be one who tries to stimulate student inquireabilities.

When one considers our present performance evaluation, I guess we are overly conscious about grades. One needs to spend a little time in education to be familiar with the shortcomings of the teacher-dominated graded process. Students often view grades as an award, and I mean that sincerely, as awards from their teacher who have little or nothing to do with their performance. With an attitude that a teacher gave this in mind, I think that one can easily imagine what happens to the rapport between student and teacher when a poor grade is given. Under the present setup, grades are often valued more than the knowledge they supposedly represent. Our society places an extremely high priority on grades and uses them for a variety of purposes, and among them might be to determine admission to colleges or universities; to determine whether or not one can participate in interscholastic athletics, and even to determine whether or not one stays in college or is ultimately faced with the draft. This over-emphasis has caused students to become test and grade conditioned creatures with a frightening determination to score high no matter how. Making high grades becomes their main concern rather than the attainment of new skills, knowledge or training. The detrimental effect of our grading goes even further, especially with low-ability students. Over the past years, our national drop-out rate has continued to climb. Our ineffective system of evaluation has continually destroyed confidence and created dislike for subjects in which students have received low grades. When one considers the inevitable feeling of frustration and failure when a student receives a string of D's or F's over a period of years, it is really amazing that our drop-out rate isn't higher. When the student is responsible for evaluating himself, then an attitude of "I gave myself this" replaces the old "Teacher gave me this, I believe," and self-evaluation or at least allowing the students to have a voice in his own grade determination gives a new vested interest in their education. I have experienced this. I have tried this myself, and you know, it is really amazing. I have yet to have a student take advantage of this system. In fact, if anything, these students have perhaps evaluated themselves lower than perhaps I would, but I think that he has his own personal responsibility and an own personal interest in his education. You know, we tend to criticize young people, but I guess I find myself to realize that these perhaps are one of the finest groups of people in the country. I mean this sincerely. I think you have had evidence of this from the two fine people that spoke prior to myself.

I had an experience just about two years ago, being invited along with four other educators throughout the State of Minnesota to visit with seven young activists throughout the Twin City area. I guess that might be the term you would call them. We had the opportunity of sitting down for about three or four hours in discussing all aspects of their lives including education, and let's not kid ourselves. Even these kids, call them hippies, call them whatever you might want to, really have zeroed in with amazing accuracy on our education of today. Let me give you some examples, and I will quote these as closely as I can. Teachers should be the kind of people who want to teach kids and to really try to motivate them. This is what the students have said themselves. I think that teachers like this would turn kids on. Teachers have to try to relate to their students and not only in class. If the teacher cares about his students, cares about their personal problems, kids go into his classroom knowing this and want to study. We need courses that teach people to get along with one another. This is something that must be done because people are not getting along. Let's face it. The conditions in this country are coming to a point where pretty soon things are going to blow, so teaching people how to work with one another is important. Young people realize that they have to have a teacher, but they want the type of teacher who will work with them. They want teachers that are not afraid to discuss controversial issues. I know this for a fact and I think you know it that many teachers are afraid and steer away from issues such as race, sex, drugs, because they don't want to get themselves bogged down in such discussions. Education ties right into the community. This really makes you stop and think. The ills of the community boil in the school.

Number five, the present grading system is outdated because all it is doing is separating students. I think a passed-fail system would be better because more kids would be interested in learning rather than just trying to get answers so that they will get good grades. I think it becomes quite evident and this could go on and on that many opportunities, and at the same time, many problems face the schools and teachers, and it seems evident that we must not only permit but to encourage schools and teachers to become more aggressive, more creative and not afraid to try out and learn new ideas and certainly to use imagination in meeting the unique needs of the various areas that are being served. Mass education is not practical or possible if we are to do an effective job. Each student is a unique individual with separate and distinct problems. Sometimes these problems seem trivial to us as teachers and parents, but to young adults at this stage, they are real and they are extremely important, and they are in need of immediate attention. A teacher must be someone that a student can confide in and come to with problems, whether they be educational or personal; otherwise, any type of communication is lost. Ultimately the community, State and nation are affected to a large extent by the influence of teachers. This influence must be constructive in nature so that the lives of students can be made a little easier and a little brighter, and that these experiences may help them avoid the blunders of ignorance as they move towards their goals in life. This is really an exciting and challenging time that we live in with the teaching professions faced with many problems. I am proud to be a teacher and it is with a deep sense of humility that I accept and did accept the 1970 Minnesota Teacher of the Year program and again, I would like to thank each and every one of you for being cosponsor of the program.

Thank you very much.

(Applause.)

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Thank you very much for your message. Now, we will take up some matters that we would ordinarily handle tomorrow morning. I will ask Ike Byers to give the Report of the Credentials Committee.

Report of the Credentials Committee

MR. I. B. BYERS: Mr. Chairman and delegates: I am glad that I don't have to make a speech after those people. They are terrific, but anyway, the following members of the Credentials Committee were present: Mr. William Korff from the First District; Mr. E. J. Herriges from the Second District; Mrs. Eileen Roehlke from the Third District; Mr. Bob Menge from the Fourth District; myself from the Fifth District; Mr. Don Brown from the Sixth District; Mr. Lawrence Kloos from the Seventh District; Mrs. Harold Running from the Eighth District; and Mr. Paul Billberg from the Ninth District.

The following societies and associations were not certified by the State Auditor: Hubbard County Society and the Scott County Agricultural Society of Shakopee.

The following state-wide associations submitted a credentials blank, who is not certified by the Secretary of State — they were too late —: Minnesota Sheep Breeders Association and Minnesota County Exhibitors Association. All other agricultural societies state-wide association credential blanks submitted to the State Agricultural Society have been approved, and I move the adoption of this report.

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Is there a second?

DELEGATE: I second it.

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: The motion has been made and properly seconded to accept the report as given. All of those in favor signify by saying aye. Opposed, the same sign. Motion carried.

Logan Scow will give the report on the Resolutions Committee.

Report of the Resolutions Committee

MR. LOGAN SCOW: Thank you, Birney. I would just like to take a little Chamber of Commerce pride and tell you that both Mr. Sorlie and Judy are neighbors of mine up in Central Minnesota, and I am deeply proud of them, really.

The Report of the Resolutions Committee which is comprised of the following delegates: Murray Jessen, probably the most outstanding bachelor of the group. I think his whole claim to fame is the fact that he has been a bachelor for about 90 years. Murray Jessen from St. Charles, Roy Hunt from Jackson, Harold C. Rath from Cambridge, Tony Schmidt from Saint Paul, Wayne Turnquist from Minneapolis, Leonard Hagen from Luverne, Harry Fralick from Duluth, and Charles Cheney from Warren, as well as myself.

The Resolutions certainly are of an uncontroversial nature and I am going to read them all because I don't think there will be any objection to any of them.

Resolution 1: Resolved that we express our special thanks to the Hotel Radisson and the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce for its valuable services and cooperation rendered for our 1971 Annual Meeting.

Resolution 2: Resolved that we acknowledge the support received from the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce each year in promoting the welfare and success of the State and County Fairs.

Resolution 3: Resolved that we express to the Minnesota Editorial Association, the daily and weekly press, the radio and television stations of Minnesota, our sincere appreciation for their efforts in publicizing the worth and scope of our State and County Fairs.

Resolution 4: Resolved that we endorse and continue to support the School in Fair Management so successfully conducted by the Agricultural Short Course Department of the University of Minnesota. Further, to support the action of the Federation of County Fairs to designate sites for holding regional meetings.

Resolution 5: Resolved that we extend our thanks and appreciation to all individuals and institutions who cooperated to make the 1970 Minnesota State Fair, which for the 16th consecutive year reached 1,000,000 attendance, to the Board of Managers who with John E. Libby, Secretary-General Manager and the office staff, planned the strategy; to the Publicity Department for a well-directed campaign; to the department superintendents and their assistants; to the Minnesota County Fairs and the thousands of exhibitors, 4-H club members, FFA members; to the various state departments for their interesting story of the State's resources and activities; to the farm equipment manufacturers and dealers for their most elaborate show; to the multitude of commercial firms who displayed their products so effectively; all these combined with the splendid amusement features offered, to make this one of the Nation's great Fairs.

MR. LOGAN SCOW: These are the resolutions. Mr. President, I now move their adoption.

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: A second is in order.

DELEGATE: I will second it.

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Any discussion? All of those in favor, signify by saying aye. Opposed, the same sign. Motion carried.

MR. LOGAN SCOW: Thank you, Birney. I would now like to make a resolution on my own. John, I am deeply grateful to you for that lousy ice story I sold this morning.

(Laughter.)

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Is there any other business you wish to bring before this group before we recess?

(No response.)

PRESIDENT BIRNEY WILKINS: Hearing none, we will stand recessed until tomorrow morning. The meeting will start exactly at 9:30 tomorrow morning.

...Whereupon, the meeting was regularly adjourned...

WEDNESDAY MORNING SESSION

January 27, 1971

Minnesota State Agricultural Society

The meeting was called to order by the Vice President Mr. Leonard F. Ramberg, at 9:30 A.M., Mr. Wilkins being ill.

MR. LEONARD F. RAMBERG: The Meeting of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society will come to order. As you can tell, Birney Wilkins isn't at the podium this morning. I think most of you know by now that Birney was taken to General Hospital to see what kind of a problem he was developing. He had some chest pains and they thought it would be advisable for him to go to the hospital. I am sure that we'll know later in the morning about his condition, and when we do, I hope that we will be able to communicate it to each of you. Our business is on the program and the first order is the election of officers, and I would entertain nominations for president for a term of one year.

MR. TY SINCOCK: Mr. Chairman, I would like to nominate Mr. Birney Wilkins to succeed himself for the term of one year.

MR. LOGAN SCOW: I second the nomination.

MR. LEONARD F. RAMBERG: Are there any other nominations? Hearing no further nominations, I would entertain a motion that the nominations be closed and that we cast the unanimous ballot for Birney Wilkins for one-year term as president of this society.

MR. NORRIS CARNES: Mr. Chairman, I move that the nominations cease, the rules be suspended, and the Secretary be instructed to cast the unanimous ballot for Mr. Birney Wilkins to succeed himself for one year as president of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society.

MR. RAMBERG: Is there a second?

MR. STAN MUCKLE: I so second it.

MR. RAMBERG: All those in favor of the motion say Aye (Aye); Contrary minded, no (no response). The motion is carried.

MR. RAMBERG: Mr. Secretary?

MR. JOHN E. LIBBY: Would you ask them to identify themselves for the record?

MR. RAMBERG: Oh, I am sorry, that's right. For the record, first on the motion was Ty Sincock, (Owatonna), and the second was Logan Scow, (Long Prairie), and the maker of the motion for closing, Norris Carnes, (St. Paul), and the second was Stan Muckle, (Steele County). I am sorry. I apologize.

Okay. And the Secretary has cast the unanimous ballot for Mr. Wilkins. The election of a vice-president for a term of two years from the Fourth Regional District is now open for nominations.

MR. JOHN E. LIBBY: Mr. Chairman, I have a letter from Amos Martin, Executive Vice President of the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce, recommending Mr. Norris K. Carnes to succeed himself from the City of St. Paul.

MR. RAMBERG: I recognize Stan Muckle.

MR. STAN MUCKLE: Mr. President, it is my pleasure to place a nomination for the vice presidency of the State Agricultural Society, Norris Carnes. He has served this institution for many, many years very well, and I am sure that we would all like to see him continue in this capacity.

MR. RAMBERG: Frank Mitchell.

MR. FRANK MITCHELL (Canby): Mr. Chairman, in view of the excellent service rendered to the Association by Mr. Carnes, I would be happy to second. Thank you.

MR. RAMBERG: Are there any further nominations? If not, I would entertain a motion that the nominations cease and the Secretary cast a unanimous ballot for Mr. Norris K. Carnes as vice president for the Fourth Regional District for a two-year term. Do I hear such a motion?

MR. SCOW: Mr. Chairman, I would be glad to make the motion to suspend the rule and ask that the Secretary cast the unanimous ballot. I think we should commend the wisdom of our forefathers in the setup that makes the vice presidents from the Twin Cities never become presidents because in that way they never retire.

(Laughter.)

MR. RAMBERG: Is there a second?

MR. MUCKLE: I will second it.

MR. RAMBERG: All those in favor of this motion say Aye (Aye); Contrary, no. The motion is carried. Mr. Carnes?

MR. NORRIS CARNES (St. Paul): Mr. Chairman and Members of the Fair Fraternity, I sincerely appreciate your expression of confidence which you have manifested in your vote for me here this morning. I assure you that as long as I am on the Board of Governors of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society I shall work for what I consider to be the best interest of that institution. Thank you very much.

MR. RAMBERG: Thank you, Mr. Carnes.

(Applause.)

MR. RAMBERG: The election of Board Members for manager for a term of three years from the Second Regional District, and would members who want to make nominations start by giving their names.

MR. ERNEST J. HERRIGES (Brown County): Mr. Chairman, it is my pleasure —

MR. RAMBERG: Oh, I guess I am again making an error, and we are supposed to have a report, sir, from the caucus before your nomination. I am sorry. That's my fault, not yours.

MR. JOHN E. LIBBY: Mr. Chairman, the delegates from the Second Regional District caucused in accordance with the statutes yesterday afternoon, and I have a certificate of nomination certifying Mr. Anton Geiger to succeed himself for a term of three years.

MR. RAMBERG: That means then that there is a nomination, and what we need is a second to the nomination. Now, would you like to second?

MR. ERNEST J. HERRIGES (Brown County): I would like to second. I don't have to make any long speeches. You all know Tony. He is our boy out in the Second District, and we are very pleased with him.

MR. RAMBERG: You have heard the nominations from the caucus. You have heard the second. Are you ready for voting on the manager for a term of three years for the Second Regional District? All those in favor say Aye (Aye); Contrary, no. The motion is carried.

MR. RAMBERG: Congratulations, Mr. Geiger. Would you like to make a speech?

MR. ANTON C. GEIGER (Jackson): No speech. I think most of them want to get on their way or find out if their cars are going to run. I know mine didn't start.

(Laughter.)

MR. RAMBERG: It was 14 below when I came in a few minutes ago.

MR. GEIGER: Well, I think the gentlemen in the Second District, and I know in accepting the responsibilities as a member of the Board of Managers, that we must stay on our toes and we have to keep up with all the new ideas and the maintenance of the grounds; and although we have a big job, and as long as we are financially able, I know that the Board would like to keep abreast of the times, so I know that we are doing a very good job.

MR. RAMBERG: Thank you very much, Tony.

(Applause.)

MR. RAMBERG: You know if this meeting was long enough, I would probably learn the rules before I get through. The next is for the election of a Board Member, a manager for a term of three years from the Eighth Regional District, and could we hear the report from the caucus.

MR. JOHN E. LIBBY: Mr. Chairman, I have a certificate of nomination from the delegates in the Eighth Regional District certifying Mr. Leo Keskinen of Grand Rapids to succeed himself for a term of three years.

DELEGATE: Mr. Chairman, I should like to second that nomination from the Eighth District. We have Leo, a man who is in the field of education, and we know that education is an area which plays a very vital part for our survival today, so he has to start his duties in excellent shape, so I second the nomination of Leo Keskinen.

MR. RAMBERG: Thank you, Dean. You have heard the nomination of the caucus, the second, are you ready to vote? All those in favor for the election of Leo Keskinen say Aye (Aye); Contrary minded, no. The motion is carried.

MR. RAMBERG: Congratulations, Leo.

MR. LEO KESKINEN (Grand Rapids): Mr. Chairman, I also want to thank the members from the Eighth District and the Association for the support they have shown me, and I would like to join Vice President Carnes and board member Geiger in placing my sentiments that we will all try to do the best we can to keep this Fair the best Fair in the whole country.

(Applause.)

MR. RAMBERG: I believe we have elected all the Officers and Board Members. We should now have a report of the Hall of Fame Committee. I recognize Mr. Norris Carnes.

MR. NORRIS CARNES: Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention: I have a recommendation, or a report on the recommendation, to make for the Hall of Fame Committee. Mr. T. H. Arens, Ted Arens, was born in Jordan, Minnesota. He graduated in 1916 from the College of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota with a Bachelor of Science Degree. Subsequently, he served his country for fourteen months with the United States Marines, and was discharged from that illustrious institution in June, 1921. He has owned and operated a farm in Aitkin County all of his adult life, where he developed an excellent herd of Holstein-friesian cattle. He operated a retail farm implement business in Aitkin, Minnesota, from August 1939 through the year 1967. He was a member of the Board of Managers of the Minnesota Farm Implement Dealers' Association from 1948 to 1957, and was its president in 1957. He has always manifested an active interest in state and national politics as a representative of the Democratic Farmer Labor Party. It is difficult for me to understand how a man of his intelligence, good judgment and understanding could be politically wrong for so long.

(Laughter.)

MR. NORRIS CARNES: For a long span of years he served the public in many different capacities. He was a member of the Minnesota Advisory Committee for the Farm and Home Administration, Secretary to the Lieutenant Governor of the State of Minnesota during the 1931 legislative session, Assistant Commissioner of the Minnesota State Department of Agriculture from April 1931 to July 1933. He was conservator of the Minnesota Department Rural Credit from July 1, 1933 to July 1, 1939. He was Chairman of the County Citizens' Committee on Aging from 1958 to 1959. He acted as Postmaster of the Aitkin Post Office from 1963 to 1967. He was Executive Director of the Housing and Rural Development Authority of Aitkin County from November 1966 to June 1970. He was General Manager of the Aitkin County Fair from 1940 to 1943. He became a member of the Board of Governors of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society in 1945, and served in that capacity with distinction until 1955. He was President of the Minnesota State Fair in 1956 and 1957. During the time when he was President of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society, he promoted, developed, and established the Minnesota State Fair Hall of Fame where the portraits of outstanding men who have made worthwhile contributions to agriculture and the Minnesota State Fair are hung, and where they can be viewed by patrons of the Fair. And I am happy to state that much interest has been manifested in this Gallery by fairgoers. The Selection Committee consisting of Fair Board members working with the capable and efficient Secretary, Mr. Harry Frost, has presented the names of several prominent men whom it felt were deserving of recognition to the Board of Governors for approval as deserving of the signal honor of having their portraits hung in this Hall of Fame. These names have been approved by the Board of Directors and the portraits have been hung. It would seem both fitting and proper that the gentleman who conceived the idea of the Hall of Fame and guided its early development, and who has rendered real and much-needed services to society in general, and more especially to the Minnesota State Agricultural Society, should have his portrait hung in this Gallery, this honor gallery, with other notables. It, therefore, affords me a real pleasure, and I consider it a special privilege to offer the recommendation of the Hall of Fame Committee to the Board of Directors of the Minnesota State Agricultural Society for approval, of which is that our good friend and ardent supporter of the Minnesota State Fair, Mr. T. H. Arens of Aitkin, Minnesota, be one to be recognized and honored by having his portrait hung in the Hall of Fame on the Minnesota State Fairgrounds.

MR. RAMBERG: Mr. Scow?

MR. LOGAN SCOW: Mr. Chairman, after hearing Brother Norris's delightful report, I didn't know that Ted was of the opposite party, Norris; and in spite of that, I think we should hang him in the Hall of Fame.

(Laughter.)

MR. LOGAN SCOW: I have known Ted Arens for many, many years. I may be the junior member of the Board, but I have had the delightful privilege of knowing Ted since way back in the 1940's, and I can think of no other man that has probably done as much single-handedly for our Machinery Hill as Ted Arens, and I would, therefore, move that Ted Arens be elected to the Hall of Fame.

MR. RAMBERG: Is there a second?

MR. LEO KESKINEN (Grand Rapids): Mr. Chairman, as a northern neighbor of Ted Arens, it gives me a great privilege to second this motion.

MR. RAMBERG: You have heard the motion, you have heard the report of the Hall of Fame. All those in favor of accepting the report and electing Ted Arens to the Hall of Fame say Aye (Aye); Contrary minded, no. The motion is carried.

MR. RAMBERG: Thank you very much, Mr. Carnes, and the Committee for this excellent report. Where is Mr. Arens? Would you stand up, Mr. Arens, and would you like to take the podium for a minute. He wouldn't like to, but he will.

(Laughter.)

MR. T. H. ARENS: Mr. Chairman and Fellow Sufferers, I don't know just what to say first. Ordinarily my reaction is to answer Mr. Carnes and Mr. Scow. I think you good Republicans should have taken note that I was an implement dealer for a little over thirty years, and I thought possibly if I had been forewarned, I would have brought a manure spreader along down here.

(Laughter.)

MR. T. H. ARENS: I believe if my wife looked at me in the coffin and heard these things said that you said today, she wouldn't recognize me. Well, anyway, I really have to answer Mr. Carnes. Even though you've wondered about my fellow party people being so active for so long, you will have your occasion for revenge. I think that you good Republicans in control of our state legislation are going to warm up the stern seats for one of us that survived the last election. Well, that be as it may, I thank you all — I know all of you are taking part in this in good spirit. I have just been wondering — I feel a little bit here that I am in the choir singing at my own requiem. I say that because Mr. Carnes and the rest of the members that were on the Board when I was on the Board at the time that the Hall of Fame was brought into being, and since then it has been repeated that we should comb the fields and choose men that have contributed as much to the welfare of our State Fair in past years who are now dead, as those of us who are still living, and I do believe we had a gentlemen's agreement that we would do just that. It is just a little bit embarrassing to me that you should extend this honor to me now. That is why I say I feel like I am in the choir singing at my own requiem. On more serious mood, I haven't seen your list of members of the Hall of Fame, and I wonder if we have done a good job by going back in the past in giving the recognition to the good men that helped put this Fair where it is today. How about the first president? Wouldn't he be qualified for the Hall of Fame? He must have had something on the ball and good hind legs to get something started that snowballed it to its grandeur today. I want to express my appreciation for your consideration. A baby is born, so there is no need and nothing to be gained for criticizing your action further, but I hope you will look back in the history books and pick out the men. One more thought comes to my mind. I don't know whether there is in the Hall of Fame someone representing the Association of County Fairs, and by all means if there isn't, someone I know is worthy of consideration first of that Hall of Fame and on the Board of Directors, many had their antecedents in activities with a local county fair, and I don't think any of you would say otherwise in what the county fairs and the spark plugs of those county fairs have contributed a great deal to the welfare of the Minnesota State Fair. In closing, I really want to express my appreciation for your kind remarks and your friendship. I have enjoyed that more than any group that I do count among my friends and I thank you.

(Applause.)

(Standing ovation.)

MR. RAMBERG: Thank you very much. (The unfinished business.) The Board of Directors of the Minnesota State Fair will meet immediately at the close of this meeting. It will be in Duluth A. A luncheon for the Board and other invited guests is at 12:00 Noon in Duluth B.

Is there any other unfinished business, Mr. Libby? Does any member have any unfinished business? We thank Mr. John Libby, our Secretary and General Manager for his part in this meeting, and Birney Wilkins we hope is getting along real well at the hospital. We hope we will hear from him before the day is over. We hope that those of you who are leaving now will have a good trip back, and unless there is further business, the meeting will be adjourned. So be it.

...Whereupon, the meeting was regularly adjourned...

PLANNING COMMITTEE MEETING

Radisson Hotel

January 25, 1971 - 11:00 a.m.

Members present: Carnes, Chairman; Ramberg; Geiger; Mitchell; Wilkins; Libby.

Secretary presented and outlined in detail a proposed budget of 1971 plant improvements and maintenance totalling $687,400. It was emphasized that a most critical aspect of this budget was consideration of the Society's cash flow prior to August 15. Several items in the improvement category, specifically Creative Activities and Bandshell completion, plus the proposed new East Commonwealth gate feature, involve major construction and must be undertaken and completed before August 1. Such work scheduling might very well necessitate short-term borrowing by the Society so that funds will be available for the opening of the Fair.

It was moved by Mr. Ramberg, seconded by Mr. Wilkins and carried that the committee recommend to the Board that construction of a new East Commonwealth gate feature be undertaken in 1971, prior to the fair opening, at an estimated cost of $85,000.

After considerable discussion, it was moved by Mr. Wilkins, seconded by Mr. Mitchell and carried that the budget as presented be accepted and that a committee recommendation for full Board approval be made on Wednesday (January 27).
