May 1999

We are pleased to present the 1998 Probation Survey; the nineteenth edition.

This survey is a cooperative effort in documenting the use of community supervision of offenders and, as such, plays a significant role in the response of the governor, legislature, and the department to probation crowding. It reflects the work being done by probation officers and corrections agents throughout Minnesota.

We are appreciative of the help we received in collecting the data, the promptness in responding to our requests, and for the cooperation with the department's Office of Planning and Research in completion of the survey.

Again this year there has been an increase in probationers on supervision throughout Minnesota. The additional probation officers and corrections agents made possible by the funding for workload/caseload reduction will assist in management of the ever-increasing probation population.

We welcome your suggestions on ways in which this survey can be made a more useful tool or you. Consideration is being given to including agent information in future editions of this survey.

Please call Deb Mack at (651) 603-0180 for additional copies of this survey.

Thank you for your assistance!

Sincerely,

I. Introduction

The Minnesota Department of Corrections (DOC) has collected probation data from Minnesota counties on an annual basis since the early 1980s. The reporting of entries, removals, year-end populations, and distribution by race and gender has remained largely unchanged since the 1984 survey. Throughout these years, one purpose of the Minnesota Probation Survey has been to collect data requested by the Bureau of the Census and the Bureau of Justice Statistics regarding Minnesota probationers. The organization of the Minnesota questionnaire and its definition of “probationer” was patterned after that used in the federal questionnaire. In addition to meeting federal reporting requirements, the findings of the probation survey are used by the Minnesota Department of Corrections, other state agencies, the Minnesota Legislature, county probation offices, and other parties for management and policy-making purposes.

Probation officers do much more than provide probation supervision. Other duties can include supervising individuals on supervised release, parole, intensive community supervision, pre-trial diversion, or CHIPS (child in need of protection or services), as well as conducting presentence investigations, processing transfer requests, and working with prevention programs. In addition to presenting probation data, this report includes a profile of some of these other contributors to the workload of probation service providers.

II. Methodology

This chapter describes the content of this probation survey and how the survey data were collected. Issues that arose in the course of this year’s data collection are also addressed. The Minnesota Department of Corrections’ Corrections Management Information System (CMIS) was used as the source for supervised release and parole data included in this report.

A. Survey Design

The 1998 probation survey instructions and questionnaire are shown in Appendix A. Throughout the years, the essential definition of “probationer” has been “those who have been placed under the supervision of a probation agency as part of a court order—regardless of whether they have been convicted.” However, clarifications and changes have been made in the detailed instructions in recent years, to ensure that the data needed for reporting and management purposes are collected, and to promote more consistent interpretations of the instructions by all counties. For instance, prior to the 1993 survey respondents were told to exclude “cases for whom an agent is only monitoring compliance with a sanction such as a fine or restitution.” However, the Bureau of Justice Statistics directs the DOC to report on all probationers, including those in “paper” or “administrative” classifications, so the Minnesota survey’s instructions were changed to include these cases.

B. Survey Administration

Questionnaires were mailed in December 1998 to the following:

- Community Corrections Act (CCA) directors—to collect data on all probationers in their counties.
- County probation offices in non-CCA counties not served by DOC contract agents—for reporting all probationers under their supervision (generally juveniles and adult non-felons).

Minnesota Department of Corrections’ district offices maintain caseload data on probationers supervised by adult state agents and contract agents. The district offices were requested to generate and submit their probation survey data using a reporting feature built into their PROBER software.

C. Reporting

All probation offices completed and returned the survey.

III. Findings

This chapter provides an analysis of the 1998 probation survey data. Comparisons are also made to probation data from previous years.

A. Overview

Appendix B presents the data, by county, as reported by the probation offices on their questionnaires. In the case of non-CCA counties, this was obtained by adding the numbers provided on the state agent and county agent questionnaires. After each county's data, Appendix B presents various aggregations of the data:

- by agent type (adult state agents, CCA agents, contract agents, and non-CCA county agents)
- by CCA status (CCA counties, non-CCA counties)
- by metro/non-metro status (where "metro" is defined as consisting of Hennepin, Ramsey, Anoka, Washington, Dakota, Scott, and Carver Counties) as well as statewide totals of all probationers.

Appendix B column headings correspond to questions 1 through 8 of the questionnaire (Appendix A). The first three columns report the 1997 year-end population, as well as movements (entries and removals) during 1998. After establishing the December 31, 1998 population, (column 4) the remaining columns show the distribution of the year-end probationer population by gender, race, Hispanic status, and offense category.

Appendix B shows that on December 31, 1998, there were 96,786 adults and 18,274 juveniles under probation supervision in Minnesota. Below is a comparison of 1997 and 1998 probation populations:

Table 1: Comparison of 1997 and 1998 Year-end Minnesota Probation Populations

	12/31/97	12/31/98	Change
Felony probation	29,052	29,516	+1.6%
Gross Misdemeanor probation	21,169	24,600	+16.2%
Misdemeanor probation	40,486	42,670	+5.4%
Total adult probationers	90,707	96,786	+6.7%
Juvenile probationers	17,182	18,274	+6.3%
Total probation population (adults and juveniles)	107,889	115,060	+6.6%

Figures 1 and 2 present the Table 1 data graphically. The distribution of the December 31, 1997 probation population is given in Figure 1, while Figure 2 provides a comparison of year-end 1997 and 1998 populations. Figure 3 shows that during 1997 non-CCA counties showed an increase in probationer population at all levels.

Based on 2000 population estimates from the State Demographer's Office, the total probation population of 115,060 means that approximately one out of every 46 Minnesotans, 10 to 44 years old, was on probation on December 31, 1998 (although not all were under active supervision).

B. Minnesota Probationer Population, 1984-1998

The probation population increased at all levels during 1998. The greatest rate of increase was at the gross misdemeanor level. Table 2 shows the year-end probationer population by offense level for each year from 1984 to 1998, while Figure 4 presents the same information graphically.

The Table 2 numbers were obtained from probation surveys conducted over the years. The pre-1993 data are supplemented with annual statewide counts of felony probationers supervised by DOC felony agents. DOC felony agents did not participate in the probation survey before 1993. From 1990 to the present, all probation offices have completed and returned the probation survey each year and participation was nearly 100 percent before 1990. In the three instances before the 1990 survey where a populous county failed to submit probation data, the missing numbers were estimated, using the county's population data from the year before and after, so that Table 2 and Figure 4 represent a complete accounting of the Minnesota year-end probation population for each year from 1984 through 1997. With the exception of a slight dip in 1992, adult probation populations have increased annually. The adult probationer population increased by 93 percent during the ten-year period from December 31, 1988 (50,184) to December 31, 1998 (96,786). By comparison, the population of Minnesota-committed inmates in state correctional facilities increased by about 82 percent during that period.

Prior to 1993 respondents were instructed to exclude cases where the agent was "only monitoring compliance with a sanction," whereas since 1993 years these cases have been included. If these cases had been counted prior to 1993, it would have increased the number of probationers for those years, and would lessen the percentage of probation population increase when comparing any year prior to 1993 to any year after that. Since the probation survey has never collected information regarding the supervision level of probationers, attempts to adjust the pre-1993 numbers would be speculative. However, the general trends of steady growth in probation populations from 1984 to 1998, plus the observation that the rate of adult population increase from 1992 (with administrative cases excluded) to 1993 (with administrative cases included) was little different than the average annual increase in previous years, suggests that including administrative supervision cases had only a small impact on the total adult probation numbers. Thus, Table 2 and Figure 4 likely represent the probation population situation fairly accurately, even without adjustment of the pre-1993 data.

Table 2 shows that the sharpest population increase has been in gross misdemeanants. The year-end 1998 gross misdemeanor probationer population of 24,600 was eight times the number of gross misdemeanor probationers at the end of 1984 (3,012). The smallest increase has been in felony probationers, whose numbers have increased about 92 percent from 1984 to 1998. It should be noted that the designation of an offense as a felony, gross misdemeanor, or misdemeanor, is not always clear-cut. Thus the data on the total adult probationer population over the years provides another useful perspective.

The juvenile probation population increased markedly from 1992 to 1993 (about 31 percent). This may be due largely to the change in the 1993 instructions described above, including the addition of administrative supervision cases for the first time. The juvenile probation growth has subsequently returned to a slower rate.

C. Minnesota Probationer Demographics, 1985-1998

A common element of the probation survey over the years has been the reporting of the gender and race distribution of the year-end population. The first year in which gender data were reported for a clear majority of probationers was 1985. Race data is presented from 1986 to the present for all four offense levels - adult felony, adult gross misdemeanor, adult misdemeanor, and juvenile. The 1998 data used in this section is given in Appendix B. This appendix also provides the breakdown of demographic data, on at the county level, for readers interested in examining this level of detail.

Probationers supervised by adult state agents are included in the demographic data only in 1989 and from 1993 to the present, since these are the only years within this span in which adult state agents participated in the survey. However, since county-supervised felony cases outnumbered state felony cases by ratios of two- or three-to-one over these years, the findings presented in this section should not be substantially distorted by the missing data. With the exception of adult state agent cases, race and gender were reported for virtually 100 percent of the probationer population from 1987 to the present.

The composition of the adult and juvenile probationer population by gender is shown in Figure 5. At year-end 1998, 79 percent of adult probationers and 75 percent of juvenile probationers were male. The percentage of females among adult probationers has increased from 17 percent in 1985 to 21 percent in 1998, and the percentage of females in the juvenile probationer population increased from 21 percent to 25 percent during this period. Females constitute a much higher percentage of the probationer population than the adult prison population: As of January 1, 1999, 5.37 percent of the adult Minnesota correctional facility population is female.

Note:

The sharp decline in black felony probationers in 1988, as shown in Figure 3(a), is due to that year's report showing only 221 black felons for Hennepin County, as compared to 1242 in 1987 and 1482 in 1989. Almost certainly this indicates a data quality problem, rather than an actual fluctuation in the racial distribution of probationers.

Figure 6 shows that probationers at all offense levels have been predominantly white, from 1986 to the present, but that the proportion of minority probationers has increased over this time. The proportion of white felons on probation was about 68 percent at year-end 1998. At present, whites constitute about 83 percent of the gross misdemeanor and misdemeanor probation population, and about 72 percent of the juvenile probation population.

The percentage of blacks among felony probationers increased very slightly in 1998. There has been a sharp increase in the percentage of black gross misdemeanants and misdemeanants, and a gradual increase in black juveniles, over the period shown in the graph. The proportion of American Indian probationers has held quite constant over the years at all offense levels.

The 1998 year-end population of Minnesota's state correctional facilities displays some notably different racial characteristics from the felony probation population. The racial distribution of Minnesota's adult inmate population is 47.4 percent white, 37.6 percent black, 6.8 percent American Indian, 6.5 percent Hispanic, and 1.8 percent other. ("Hispanic" is counted as a racial category in the CMIS.)

D. Probationer Distribution by Agent Type

Table 3 shows the distribution of December 31, 1998 probationers by agent type and offense level. The first three data columns include only probationers processed in adult court; all juveniles are reported in the fourth column. (These data can also be found in Appendix B.)

As might be expected of "felony agents," about 77 percent of the probationers under the supervision of adult state agents are felons, with most of the remainder being gross misdemeanants. Among probationers supervised by agents in CCA counties, 31 percent are felons, 24 percent are gross misdemeanants, 45 percent are misdemeanants, and 16 percent are juveniles. Contract agents - DOC employees providing non-felon probation services in non-CCA counties - had a caseload consisting of approximately 20 percent gross misdemeanants, 32 percent misdemeanants, and 48 percent juveniles. Probation agents employed by non-CCA counties served a caseload of which 47 percent were misdemeanants and 28 percent were juveniles, with the remaining 26 percent being gross misdemeanants.

About 63 percent of the state's population live in CCA counties, and CCA agents supervised 77.3 percent of the state's probationers. CCA counties supervise about two-thirds of the statewide felony probationer population, with the adult state agents being responsible for the remainder. CCA counties supervise 71 percent of the gross misdemeanor, 76 percent of the misdemeanor probationers in the state, and 63 percent of the juvenile probationers.

E. Probationer Distribution by Type of Offense

The probation survey has included an "offense category" question since 1993. The offense categories used in the questionnaire were derived from the Minnesota Offense Code general index categories, with the main differences being the creation of separate categories for DWI and juvenile status offenses due to the frequent occurrence of these offenses in the probationer population. Probationers frequently may be under supervision for more than one offense, but survey respondents were directed to count each individual only once according to their most serious offense.

Appendix B provides the numbers of probationers in each offense category (e.g., arson, assault, burglary, etc.) by offense level (felony, gross misdemeanor, etc.) by county, and also provides summary data by agent type, county type, and statewide. A more concise summary of the offense data is provided in Appendix C. In Appendix C, offense categories have been collapsed into "offense types" as shown below:

Person: assault, criminal sexual conduct, homicide, kidnapping, robbery

Property: arson, burglary, forgery, property damage, stolen property, theft, theft related and vehicle theft

Other: crime against family, crime against administration of justice, crime against government, disturbing peace, escape, gambling, obscenity, sex related, weapons, other

In addition, the survey's offense categories for "drugs," "DWI," "juvenile status offenses," "traffic/accidents" (except DWI), "other," and "unknown/not applicable" are each represented as an offense type in Appendix C.

About half (47 percent) of Minnesota's felony probationers are under supervision for a property offense, with most of the remaining felons divided fairly evenly between person offenders (24 percent) and drug offenders (22 percent). In comparison, the 1998 year-end adult population of Minnesota's state correctional facilities included 59.6 percent person offenders, 18.5 percent property offenders, and 14.8 percent drug offenders.

Sixty-four percent of the gross misdemeanants are DWI cases; another nine percent are property offenders. Fifty-nine percent of the misdemeanants are under supervision for a DWI as their most serious offense. The most common offense of juvenile probationers is property at 33%. Next most frequent among juveniles are person offenders (22 percent).

F. 1998 Probation Population by County

The ten Minnesota counties with the largest December 31, 1998 adult and juvenile probationer populations are shown in Table 4. About 70 percent of all adult probationers in the state are in the ten counties listed in Table 4(a). These ten counties have about 63 percent of the state's general adult population. About 57 percent of all juvenile probationers in the state are in the ten counties listed in Table 4(b).

Table 5 shows the number of all probationers per 1000 population (10 to 44 years old) for each county as well as for the entire state. The adult county populations were obtained using projections from the state demographer's office. In the table, counties are listed in descending order of their per-thousand probationer population.

G. December 31, 1998 Supervised Release/Parole/ICS Population

Appendix D presents demographic information concerning offenders under community supervision in Minnesota after being released from state correctional institutions. These data are not collected using the probation survey, but extracted from the DOC's CMIS database.

Department of Corrections agents supervise adult releasees in non-CCA counties. Juvenile parolees in non-CCA counties are supervised by county probation agents in some counties, and by Department of Corrections "contract agents" in counties that contract with the DOC to supervise their juvenile probationers and parolees. Adult and juvenile releasees living in Community Corrections Act counties are supervised by CCA county agents, except that releasees in intensive supervision programs (Intensive Supervised Release, Intensive Community Supervision, and Challenge Incarceration Program community supervision) are sometimes supervised by DOC agents. Due to the more serious nature of their crimes, supervised releasees/parolees tend to require higher levels of supervision than probationers. Thus it is important to include prison releasees in considerations of the overall workload of agencies providing community supervision.

Over half of all adult releasees live in Hennepin or Ramsey Counties. In fact, the number of adult releasees living in these counties is disproportionately large in comparison to the populations of these counties. Juvenile parolees are distributed more evenly throughout the state.

H. Summary

The number of Minnesotans on probation again increased in 1998. At year-end, over 96,000 adults and over 18,000 juveniles were under probation supervision. Additionally, with 2,616 adults and 282 juveniles under supervision after release from a correctional facility, there are nearly 118,000 offenders under community supervision in Minnesota. Thousands of additional Minnesotans are in pretrial diversion programs at year-end.

While it is important to count the number of offenders on probation, additional information is needed to determine the workload represented by these probationers. Standards for face-to-face contact with a probation agent vary according to the risk represented by the offender, the sanctions pronounced in court, the number of offenses for which the offender has been sentenced, the offender's compliance with the probation conditions, and local probation policies. "Weighting" probationer data to reflect supervision requirements for individual probationers allows probation services providers and the state of Minnesota to allocate resources in proportion to needs. While individual providers of probation services have caseload management systems, at present no procedures exist to uniformly measure probation workloads statewide. The Minnesota Legislature has taken several steps to address this concern:

1. Minnesota Session Laws 1992, Chapter 571, Article 11, Section 15 appointed a "probation standards task force." Session Laws 1993, Chapter 326, Article 10 directed this task force to report to the Legislature concerning statewide probation officer and funding needs, and to make recommendations to facilitate uniform case classification and reporting. In their December, 1994 report, Probation in Minnesota: Putting the Pieces Together, the task force proposed a method of weighting probation survey population data to estimate the workload represented by the probation population.
2. In Minnesota Session Laws 1995, Chapter 226, Article 1, Section 11, Subdivision 3, the Legislature asked the Legislative Auditor's Office to conduct "a weighted workload study to be used as a basis for fund distributions across all three probation delivery systems, based on uniform workload standards and level of risk of individual offenders." The study was to "recommend to the Legislature...a statewide uniform workload system; a standardized data collection system...; and a new mechanism or formula for aid distribution based on the data." The Legislative Auditor's report (Funding for Probation Services, January 1996) explains that subsequent discussions with legislators led to some modification of the focus of their study. The Legislative Auditor concluded that "a weighted workload study based on the risk of individual offenders cannot be done at this time." However, the Legislative Auditor's report made suggestions on how to implement a statewide method of offender risk assessment.
3. The 1996 Omnibus Crime Bill directed the Office of Strategic and Long-range Planning to develop "a weighted workload study to be used as a basis of distributing probation officer caseload reduction funding across all three probation delivery systems, based on uniform workload standards and level of risk of individual offenders." This document was published February, 1997 by MN Planning.

The Minnesota Department of Corrections plans to conduct its next probation survey at year-end 1999, to meet the ongoing need for information on the number of individuals on probation. In addition, the DOC is presently working with CCA and DOC probation offices to compile a felony probationer database with individual-level offender data. Given the widespread interest in evaluating probation outcomes, distributing state funding for probation based on the risk represented by individual offenders, and making individual probationer data available for law enforcement purposes, this database will be a valuable resource for research and evaluation and for exploring future possibilities for individual-level data collection and data management.

Instructions for Completing the 1998 Probation Survey

Thank you for your participation in this annual survey conducted to provide information to legislators, policy makers, Minnesota Department of Corrections, Minnesota counties, and other government agencies. This survey is being mailed to:

- Community Corrections directors, to collect all CCA-county probation information
- Department of Corrections district supervisors, to collect data on all probationers supervised by DOC felony agents and DOC contract agents, and
- chief probation officers in non-CCA counties, to collect data on all probationers supervised by non-CCA county agents.

One survey is enclosed for each county in which your office provides probation services. Please answer the questions for all probationers under your supervision.

Who is to be counted as a "probationer"?

- All probationers, regardless of conviction status, who were under the supervision of a probation agent as part of a court order at any time between December 31, 1997 and December 31, 1998.
- Probationers for whom there is a court order for supervision and/or services such as restitution, community services, or monitoring.
- Persons placed on probation under Minnesota Statutes 152.18 ("deferred adjudication" for certain drug offenders) and 609.135 (stay of imposition or execution) if you are providing probation supervision or services.
- Probationers who are sent to your county from another county or state for supervision.

Who is to be excluded as a "probationer"?

- Persons on investigative status only, such as PSI's, pre-pleas, bail evaluations, etc.
- Persons on "bench probation", "court probation", or "summary probation", who have not been placed under the supervision of a probation agency.
- Pre-trial diversion and pre-trial supervision cases.
- Juveniles receiving services under a CHIPS petition.
- Persons released from state correctional facilities who are on supervised release, parole, intensive community supervision, etc.

In all questions on this survey, report each individual probationer only once, not the number of offenses or open files. If an offender is on probation for offenses of differing severity, count him/her in the category of highest severity. If a probationer is under both juvenile and adult supervision, place the individual as juvenile OR adult, using the most serious offense. If you are unable to eliminate double counting under juvenile and adult supervision, asterisk the juvenile total on line 4 of page 1 and in the "Comments" section on page 2, estimate the number of juveniles who may also be counted as adults.

Please mail your completed survey(s) by January 18, 1999 to:

NOTES:

Question 1. The 1997 year-end population reported on line 4 of last year's survey has been entered on line 1 of the enclosed survey(s). If these numbers have changed, insert the amended number.

Question 2. Count individuals who newly entered probation supervision during the year. Do not count offenders who picked up another offense while on your caseload.

Question 3. Count individuals who were removed from probation supervision during the year (e.g., offenders discharged from probation, sent to another county or state for supervision, or incarcerated upon revocation of their probation; absconders removed from your caseload; or those who are deceased). Do not count an offender discharged from probation for one offense while he/she remains on probation for another.

Question 4. Year-end populations reported are the most important data.

REMEMBER: Line 1 + line 2 – line 3 = line 4 is the formula for the "total" column.

Question 5. Self-explanatory.

Questions 6–7. The department reports aggregate statewide data from this probation survey to the Bureau of Justice Statistics (BJS) on their nationwide probation survey. The race and ethnic origin categories used in questions 6 and 7 are the same as those used by the BJS survey. The federal government regards "Hispanic" as a designation of ethnicity, not race. Hispanic probationers will generally be counted as White or Black in question 6, and as Hispanic in question 7. The following Census Bureau definitions may be useful:

White (race): - A person having origins in any of the original peoples of Europe, North Africa, or the Middle East. Note: this is true of most Hispanics. If your agency records Hispanic origin as a racial category but does not have a white/black distinction, then include them in the white category.)

Hispanic (ethnic origin): - person of Mexican, Puerto Rican, Cuban, Central or South American or other Spanish culture or origin, regardless of race.

Question 8. A probationer being supervised for more than one offense should be counted only once. Report the most serious offense for which the probationer was under supervision on 12/31/98.

Offense categories used in question 8 are derived from the Minnesota Offense Code (MOC) general index categories, except that "juvenile status offenses" and DWI were made into separate categories, and some MOC "miscellaneous" offenses (liquor, conservation) were added to the "crime against government" category. Please consult the table in the MOC system if you have questions in categorizing offenses.

Examples:

Offense	Offense category
terrorist threats	Assault
criminal vehicular homicide	Traffic/Accidents
witness tampering, probation violation	Crime against administration of justice bad checks, welfare fraud	Theft related
tax evasion	Crime against government

How to determine the "most serious offense" for the probationer who is under supervision for more than one offense.

Strict application of the suggested approach – using the statutory maximum sentence for each offense to determine that which is most severe may not be feasible in your reporting but provides a guiding principle you may find applicable. For example: if one offense is a felony and the remainder are gross misdemeanors, report the felony offense.

Users of PROBER PLUS caseload management software and CSTS+ software can automatically produce the probation survey report, however, that data lacks detailed offense selection logic. The ranking of question 8 offense categories used by PROBER and CSTS+ is given for your information.

Homicide, Criminal Sexual Conduct, Kidnapping/False Imprisonment, Assault, Robbery, Arson, Escape/Flight, Burglary, Drugs, Crime Against Administration of Justice, Crime Against Government, Liquor, Conservation, DWI, Obscenity, Sex Related, Crime Against Family, Vehicle Theft, Theft Related, Forgery/Counterfeiting, Property Damage, Stolen Property, Traffic Accidents (excluding DWI), Weapons, Disturbing Peace/Privacy, Juvenile Status Offenses, Other.
