Introduction

The Minnesota Employment and Wages by Economic Region and County is published quarterly by the Research and Statistics Office of the Minnesota Department of Jobs and Training. The data contained in this publication includes two digits of industry detail wherever possible. To avoid violating data privacy laws and maintain the mandated confidentiality of individual firm data it was necessary to combine industries wherever there are too few firms in an industry cell. For this reason, some counties show less industry detail than others.

The source of the information is data developed and analyzed by the Research and Statistics Office of the Minnesota Department of Jobs and Training. The data is selected from quarterly tax reports submitted by employers covered under the Minnesota unemployment compensation tax law. All individual employer data is confidential. The data selected is reviewed for accuracy and organized in accordance with the U.S. 1972 Standard Industrial Classification Manual. Approximately 97 percent of the total nonagricultural wage and salary employment in Minnesota is included. There are nine categories of workers excluded from covered under Minnesota State law:

- 1) the self-employed;
- 2) farms with less than four employees in 20 weeks;
- 3) all railroad transportation employment;
- 4) insurance and real estate salespeople who work only on commission basis;
- 5) students working for the school while a full-time student;
- 6) those employed by a church or synagogue for religious work;
- 7) minor children, spouse and parents working for owner of a business;
- 8) elected officials at the Federal, State and Local level of government;
- 9) the Red Lake Chippewa Tribe.

Region I, Changing Patterns of Employment Growth

The seven county corner of northwestern Minnesota, known as Economic Region I, has always been identified as an agricultural area. The Region encompassing the Red River Valley has some of the richest soil in Minnesota, and agriculture has always been very important to the economic life of the area. As agriculture shifted from labor intensive to machine based, however, the significance of agriculture as a source of jobs declined. Other industries, such as trade, government, and services became the largest employing industries.

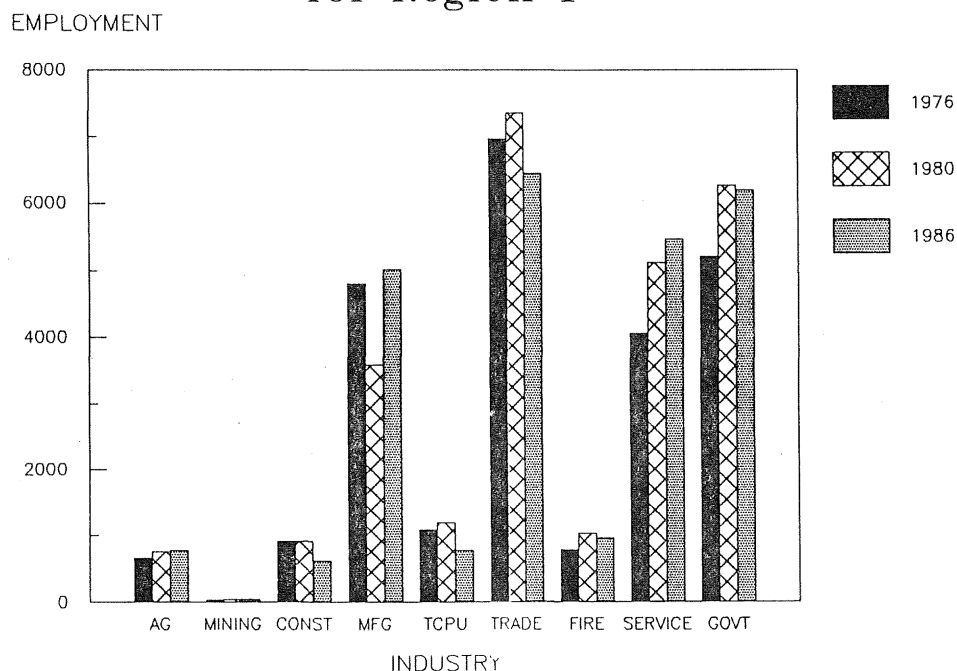

In 1976 the annual average covered employment in Region I totaled 24,489.¹ Trade had the largest portion of covered employment with 6,957 employees or 28% of the total. Non-durable wholesale trade, which includes the sale of farm produce, comprised 29% of the trade employment. Following trade was government with 5,199 employees or 21% of the total. Manufacturing was the next largest industry, employing 4,804 (20%), followed by Services with 4,049 (17%). In Manufacturing the activity was principally in durable goods (68%). In 1976 agricultural covered employment averaged 660 employees per month representing only 3% of the region's total covered employment. Not surprisingly, crop production claimed 70% of that figure.

By 1980 covered employment had risen to 26,240, a 9% increase from the 1976 figures. Trade remained the largest industry with 7,348 covered employees or 28%. Government continued as the second largest employer and increased to 6,260 workers or 24% of the total. Services had 5,108 employees and a 19% share of the region total. Manufacturing, however, dropped to 3,589 (14%). Agriculture had stabilized and held steady at 3%.

¹ The year 1976 is used as a base since most changes in coverage were in place by then, and data for subsequent years will be consistent.

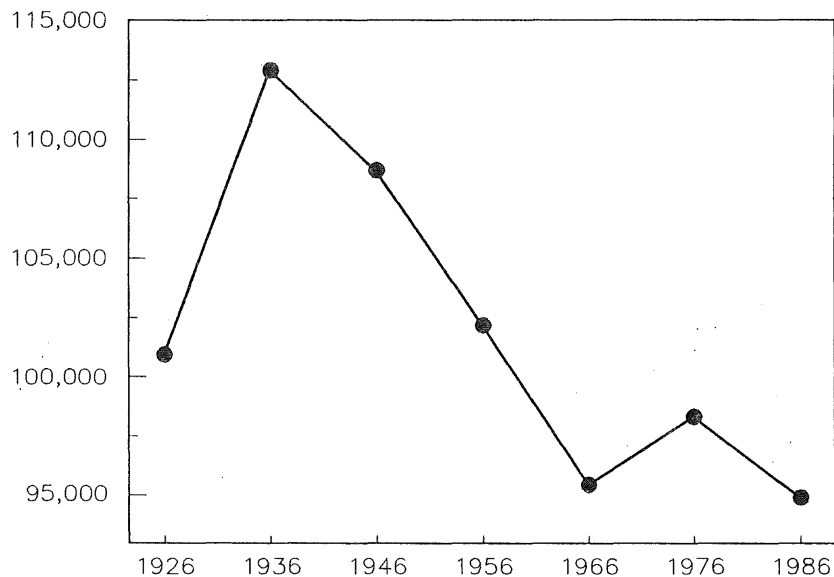

In 1986 after several years of employment declines, Region I employment rebounded to virtually the same level as in 1980 with 26,297 covered employees. The industrial distribution had changed, however, with manufacturing making a recovery. Manufacturing rose to 5,014 or 19% of covered employment with durable goods representing 66% of the manufacturing total. Trade lost some ground and fell to 6,444 or 25% of the total covered employment, but still had the largest industry employment. Government maintained second place with 6,191 or 24%.

Comparison of Covered Employment for Region 1

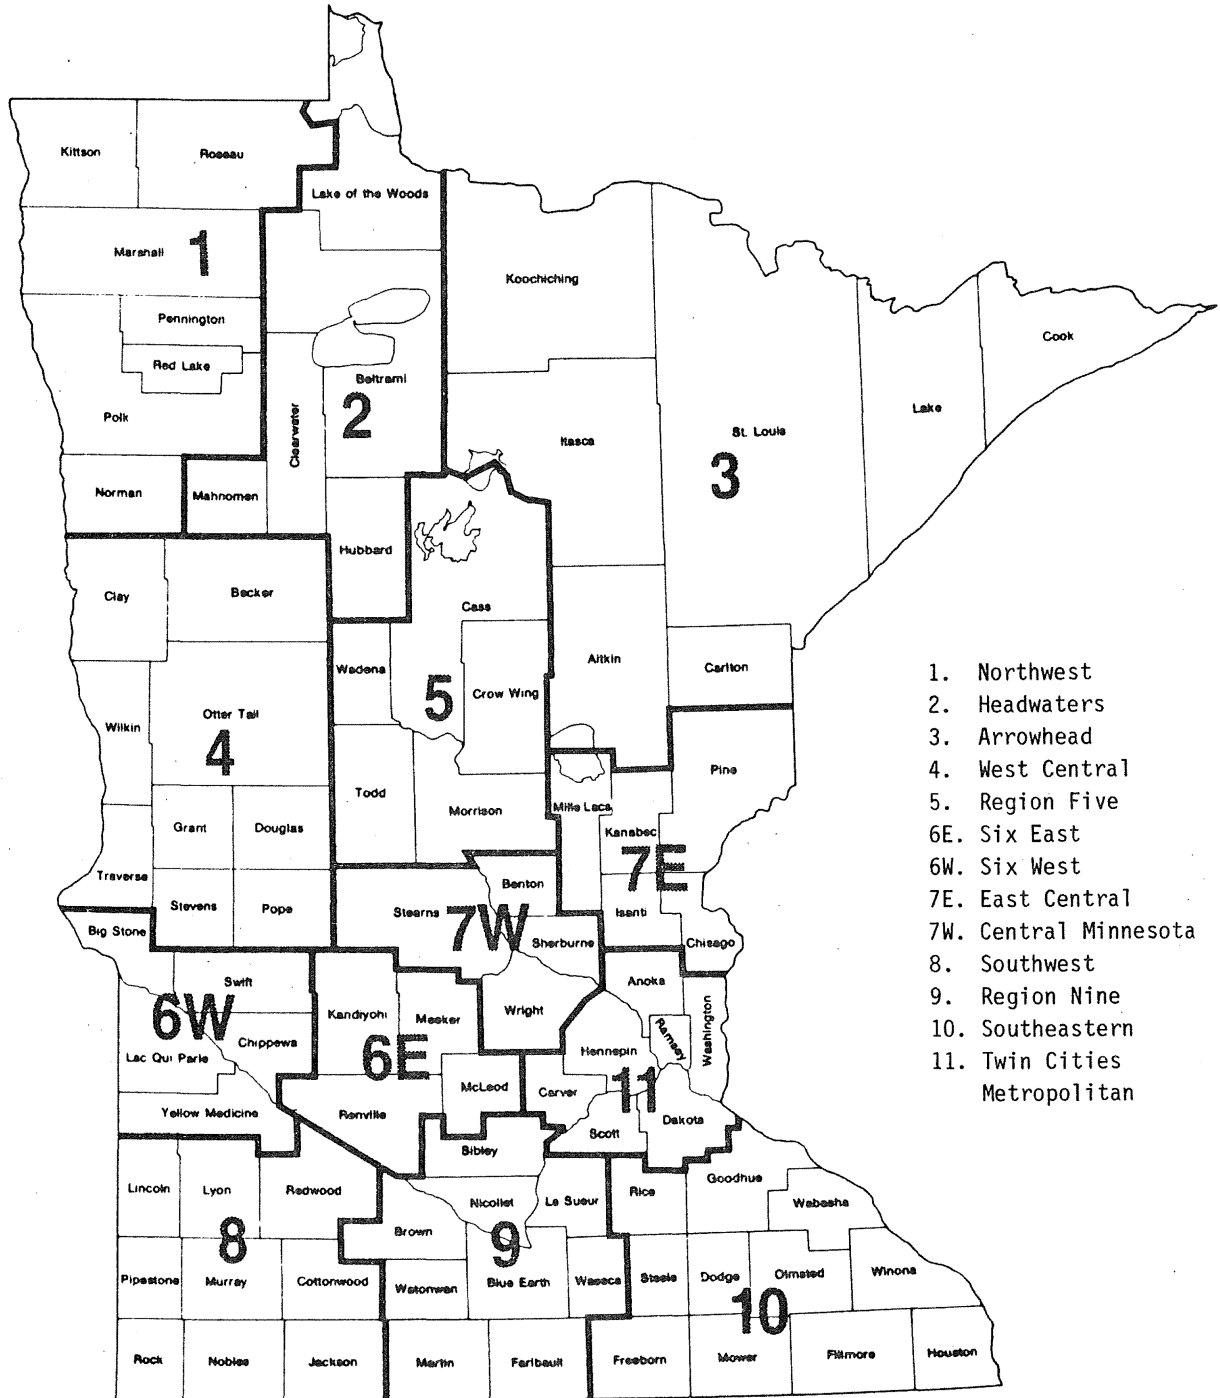

While this changing pattern of growth was occurring in employment, the census figures showed another story. In 1940, the year of peak population, the region's people represented 4.2% of Minnesota's population. By 1976 it had dropped to 2.5% of the total state figure and was only 2.3% in 1986. The economy could not sustain the population level of former years and outmigration resulted. In fact, by 1986 the number of deaths was exceeding the number of births in Marshall, Norman, and Red Lake Counties, which indicates that any industrial growth in those counties will have to attract labor back to the area.
