HIGHLIGHTS

Warren Burger

Warren Burger is well-known for his former role as Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. To a select few, he is Warren Burger, painter and sculptor. But Minnesotans also know him as a graduate of the William Mitchell College of Law.

To honor Burger, the state may dedicate a chamber of the William Mitchell College of Law Library in his name to the citizens of Minnesota.

Rep. Kathleen Vellenga (DFL-St. Paul), authors HF1960, a bill that would appropriate the needed funds to renovate, build, and remodel the library to accommodate memorabilia and documents from Burger’s career. Presenting her bill before the Higher Education Committee, March 16, Vellenga told members that this is an opportunity that few states can duplicate. “Chief Justice Burger served the nation for 35 years and he has brought great honor to this state...this project would be unique to Minnesota.”

James F. Hogg, president and dean of the college, told members that the chamber would house more than just papers from the Chief Justice—it would also house some rare original Burger paintings and sculptures that the Chief Justice donated to his alma mater.

The library would be open to the public and available for public use as a conference and educational area. Public and educational agencies interested in the study or practice of government and the legal system would get scheduling preference.

The bill brought unanimous support from the committee. Rep. Mary Forsythe (IR-Edina) said it was a good use of state dollars...”a one-of-a-kind project we should all support.”

Legislators' terms of office

A proposal to lengthen state legislators’ terms of office drew bipartisan support from the Governmental Operations Committee March 15.

HF877, which Rep. Wayne Simoneau

It’s a fact!

Just as men, machines, and inventions changed the face of the nation, railroads changed Minnesota’s progress and history.

When Minnesota entered the Union in 1858, money was in short supply; the entire nation was suffering from an economic depression. Although Minnesotans had empty pockets, they dreamed big dreams. They envisioned Minnesota as the market center for the Upper Midwest.

Yet, in 1858, Minnesota had not one mile of railroad track within its boundaries. Finally, land grants, railroad charters, and the work of many immigrants put the first engine on track. It traveled from St. Paul to St. Anthony in 1862.

In 1893, James J. Hill, the “Empire Builder,” fulfilled his dream of running a railroad all the way to the Pacific Ocean.

For more about James J. Hill, see “Do You Know?” on page 22.
(DFL-Fridley) sponsors, would amend the State Constitution to increase House members' terms to four years, and senators to six years. The original bill proposed staggered terms only for House members, so that half the representatives would face elections every two years. The committee amended the bill to provide staggered terms for senators, too.

Rep. Jim Heap (IR-Plymouth) says the proposal's going to make better government. He says staggered terms will make both senators and representatives a little more responsive and attentive to some of the pressure points in the government. He says staggered terms will make both senators and representatives more responsive and attentive to some of the pressure points that House members face all the time under the current every-other-year election system.

Simoneau says that holding elections less often should help cut back on election costs. House races are now in the $25,000 to $50,000 range, he says. While this bill doesn't limit the amount of money a candidate can spend, it would mean spending only once in four years, rather than once in two years.

Four other states—Alabama, Louisiana, Maryland, and Mississippi—have four-year terms for House members. No state has six-year terms for senators.

The committee recommended the bill to pass March 17. If the full Legislature passes the bill, the question of longer terms of office will be on the general election ballot in November.

Property tax reform

The Taxes Committee heard HF2033, a bill about property tax reform, March 17.

Rep. Alan Welle (DFL-Wilmar), is sponsor of the bill which is the product of a joint effort of Minneapolis, St. Paul, and the Coalition of Greater Minnesota Cities.

Welle says his proposal would equalize the tax base for local communities, particularly for those communities in the south and southwestern areas of the state, where the most dramatic and extreme mill rate increases occur. Tax base equalization is important, Welle said, because the tax bases in different communities vary so widely.

The bill addresses other problems such as increasing property tax disparities which, Welle says, may be due to the increasing differences in taxable wealth. It also covers unequal tax burdens on business property and higher-value homes.

Some of the provisions in Welle's tax proposal would:
- lower the number property classifications to six;
- contain a homestead exemption for agriculture and nonagricultural homesteads;
- offer an agricultural land exemption for up to 320 acres of homestead agricultural land;
- offer additional funding for school districts that would lower the general education mill rate;
- equalize aid programs for cities, towns, and counties to reduce the differences in municipal and county tax rates attributable to differences in taxable wealth;
- provide a metropolitan fiscal disparities program which would redistribute among other taxing entities, 40 percent of commercial and industrial property valuation since 1975;
- begin a state takeover of county income maintenance and related welfare costs; and
- provide an income adjusted circuit breaker and renters' credit program for low-income residents.

Rochester University Center

The Appropriations Committee Education Division, March 17, approved an allocation of $167,500 to the University of Minnesota to work on a plan that would provide graduate programs Rochester area citizens say they need.

The division recommended the allocation instead of HF2327 (Otis, DFL-Mpls), a bill which would establish a University center in Rochester for postgraduate and high-tech education programs.

"The Rochester area has need for graduate education. I think that's an extremely loud message. But it seems to me that the type of graduate education they need can best be delivered by that institution in our state which gives education beyond the master's level," said Rep. Len Price (DFL-Woodbury).

"I think it would be a mistake, in light of the recent information we have, to give the University of Minnesota yet another responsibility," said co-author Frerichs. "The University has other things on its mind right now than Rochester. I think we would miss the opportunity for a quick start."

"My concern is that all the energy and enthusiasm, and urgency on the part of Rochester not be allowed to fizzle," added Otis. "The University is a massive organization. If this momentum were to dissipate, it would be too bad."

Under the division's proposal, the University of Minnesota would provide, by Feb. 1, 1989, both short-and long-range plans for program development, faculty recruitment, availability and uses of adjunct faculty, cost estimates for five years, and a timetable for establishing graduate programs.

Toy gun replicas

A bill that would require warning labels on toy gun replicas moved another step closer to becoming law this week.

On March 17, the Commerce Committee recommended HF2205 to pass. The bill, now on its way to the House floor for approval, would prohibit the sale of toy gun replicas that do not bear a label warning consumers that use of the toy to commit a crime is a felony. The label would have to appear on the toy gun or on the package. Retailers and manufacturers would face civil penalties for failure to label the product.

HF2205 is one of two bills, now awaiting action on the House floor, that aim at toy guns. The other bill, HF2206, would make it a felony for anyone who uses a toy gun replica to rob or threaten another person.

Rep. Phil Carruthers (DFL-Brookyn Center) authors both proposals.
Indian treaty bill

The Appropriations Committee, March 16, reviewed and recommended to pass a bill to settle a legal dispute over hunting and fishing rights on Indian territory, but in Minnesota waters.

HF2216 (Battaglia, DFL-Two Harbors) would ratify an agreement where the state would pay three Chippewa Indian bands a total of $5.1 million annually. In exchange for the yearly appropriation, the three tribes would agree not to exercise their exclusive hunting and fishing rights on an 1854 federal treaty granted them.

HF2216 would allow the Department of Natural Resources to regulate hunting and fishing in ceded Chippewa treaty territory in northeastern Minnesota. The territory includes Cook and Lake counties entirely; portions of Carlton, St. Louis, Aitkin, and Pine counties; and Minnesota waters adjacent to the ceded territory such as parts of Lake Superior and the Boundary Waters Canoe Area.

Although Indian government leadership endorses the legislation, many tribal members oppose the bill and asked the Appropriations Committee to delay action until the Indian community could vote on the issue by referendum in June. A reservation referendum could overturn the tribal government’s decision to support the state’s offer and would, in turn, force the pending litigation into Federal District Court.

License plates

A license plate bill that reached the House floor last year is back for additional debate. The Appropriations Committee, March 16, reviewed the delete-everything amendment and with their recommendations and minor changes, it will now take another trip to the floor.

Rep. Wayne Simonen (DFL-Fridley) is author of HF80 which would require Minnesota motorists to get new license plates every six years. Other provisions in the bill would:

- require motorists to pay $2 to replace license plates that are six years old or older when they renew their vehicle registration;
- provide for a one-time payment of the $100 personalized plate fee, and would direct the Department of Public Safety to designate a personalized plate replacement fee;
- allow special license plates for Vietnam veterans, Pearl Harbor veterans, and POWs; and
- repeal several provisions that are related to plate fees, taxes, and tax-exempt plates.

The Minnesota Police and Peace Officer Association, the State Sheriffs Association, and the Department of Public Safety support the bill. Attempts to amend the bill with a “lifetime plate” amendment failed.

Resolutions

Minnesota legislators are asking Congress to repeal a federal law that would require farmers to pay excise taxes on diesel fuel.

The request comes by way of a resolution that the Transportation Committee unanimously approved on March 16.

Committee members say if Congress doesn’t repeal the provision, farmers would lose their tax-exempt status and could start paying the excise tax as early as April 1.

The federal law would allow farmers to apply for a refund or credit on the taxes they’ve paid. But members say farmers may wait as long as a year before receiving the refund.

This is the second resolution to get legislative attention this week. On March 14, the House passed a resolution petitioning the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture to stop the movement of farmer-owned reserve grains to commercial warehouses.

Both resolutions must pass the full House and Senate before going to the U.S. Congress and the Secretary of Agriculture.

K-12 education

On March 16, the Education Committee approved a $54.5 million K-12 education omnibus bill and sent it on to the Appropriations Committee.

Under HF2245 (K. Nelson, DFL-Mpls), Minnesota school districts would receive $50 more per pupil this school year. Also, aid would be available for extended day, parental involvement, and pre-school developmental education programs.

“What we’re saying here is that we think getting kids off to a good start is critical to their long-term success,” said Nelson.

Besides programs for youngsters, HF2245 would raise the compulsory attendance age from 16 to 18, beginning with kids who start kindergarten this fall. It would allow adults who dropped out of high school to return for their diplomas at state expense. And it would require school districts to develop individualized learning programs for teenaged parents.

HF2245 also would spell out guidelines for the State High School League, specify procedures for selling permanent school funds lands, and appropriate about $12 million to St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Duluth school districts for desegregation costs.

 Altogether, aid to K-12 schools totals $54,423,300, which is $69,700 less than the allocation in the House Budget Resolution.

As it stands now, the Senate’s K-12 aids bill appropriates $19,312,100.

Budget allocations

- Members of the Agriculture, Transportation, and Semi-State Division of the Appropriations Committee started working out budget amounts for state departments and semi-state agencies this week.

Proposed allocations so far:

- $1.9 million to the Department of Public Safety for its flood and tornado disaster relief program;
- $136,000 to the Minnesota Historical Society for the Lindbergh Center in Little Falls, an exhibit at the Humphrey Institute, and for grants to the Southwestern Regional Development Corporation;
- $36,000 and one additional position to the Transportation Regulation Board;
- $200,000 to the State Arts Board; and
- $10,000 to the Military Order of the Purple Heart to help veterans prepare and present claims against the U.S. govern-
Funding requests from the Charitable Gambling Control Board, Metro Mobility, and the Department of Agriculture are next on the division’s agenda.

Health insurance

The Financial Institutions and Insurance Committee heard a bill March 15 that would prohibit the sale, continuance, or renewal of health insurance policies requiring parents or guardians to pay a deductible or co-payment for child health care services and prenatal care.

Rep. Phillip Riveness (DFL-Bloomington), author of HF1932, told the committee his bill would make it easy for low- and middle-income parents to get proper prenatal care and other pediatric preventive services.

Dr. Scott Giebink, a University of Minnesota pediatrics professor, told committee members that many parents and parents-to-be ignore their children’s prenatal care, routine immunizations, developmental assessments, and laboratory services because their health insurance does not cover the cost of such services.

According to Giebink, the deductible or co-payment for prenatal and child health services can run as high as $300 to $500 per child, while the cost of a first-year check-up with immunizations is roughly $250. “Parents pay it out-of-pocket or don’t bother to pay it unless their children are sick,” Giebink said.

Countering insurance company claims that nondeductible children’s health services would raise premiums, Giebink said that babies born with low birth weights are at risk for mental retardation, lung infections, and birth defects. Services to such babies cost $60 million in 1984 in Minnesota, while preventive prenatal care costs averaged about 9 cents a month, he said.

LuAnn Nyberg, director of the Children’s Defense Fund, cited statistics from the National Academy of Sciences which showed that every dollar that goes for prenatal care will save $3.38.

The committee recommended the bill to pass; it now awaits House approval.

Minnesota Marketplace

If Minnesota businesses would use more supplies and services from Minnesota and fewer from other states or nations, the state’s economy could get a much-needed boost, says Rep. Todd Otis (DFL-Mpls).

Otis is author of HF2249, a bill he presented to the Economic Development and Housing Committee on March 15. The bill would create several programs; among them, Minnesota Marketplace.

“This program is aimed at going to various communities in Minnesota to bring together buyers and sellers in a way that will enhance our state’s economy and reduce our reliance on getting those products or services from other states or countries,” he said. “In short, it will put our state’s suppliers and consumers in touch with each other.”

Besides Minnesota Marketplace, HF2249 would create Celebrate Minnesota 1990 and establish a grant program for Minnesota Main Street. Both of these programs would showcase the state during the 1990 Olympic Festival.

“Many of our communities could get an economic boost through these two programs....at least on a short-term basis,” says Otis, “and every little thing helps.”

The committee approved HF2249 and sent it to the Governmental Operations Committee.

Athletic agents

Student athletes who want to turn pro run into trouble if an agent negotiates for them before they finish college.

This makes them ineligible for college sports under a National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) rule. And if they continue play, they, along with their college and team, face NCAA penalties.

Rep. Art Seaberg (IR-Eagan), author of a bill to regulate agents, says agents ought to share those penalties. U of M football coach, John Gutekunst, supports the proposal which, he says, won’t take away an athlete’s right to talk to a coach or friend about a professional career.

The bill, HF2167, would require athletes to sign a form waiving their college eligibility, and give them a seven-day “cooling off” period to change their minds.

An agent who persuades an athlete to agree to an agent contract or a professional sports services contract before the athlete’s collegiate eligibility expires would face a felony penalty of up to two years in prison and/or a maximum fine of $100,000, or three times the amount the agent offered the athlete, whichever is greater.

The Judiciary Committee recommended the bill to pass March 15.

Wolf center

The idea of a wolf center in Minnesota went undisputed in the Appropriations’ Education Division meeting March 14. But the center’s funding, site, and mission triggered some discussion.

Dr. L. David Mech, a senior wolf biologist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, said, “We believe that with a mix of programming and a mix of public and private money, we definitely can make the wolf center a great success.”

Mech stresses that the center’s mission would be to educate the public about wolves and proposes Ely, Minnesota as a center site.

Karlyn Atkinson-Berg, spokesperson for Bovey, Minnesota, says she sees the center as a cultural resource and education facility. And she doesn’t favor Ely. She says she’d like the center to have a northern Minnesota location, but in a place where it would have the greatest public impact.

About funding, Atkinson-Berg says, there are more viable options without state bonding.
Committee deadlines

Committees have been meeting the deadlines the House adopted Feb. 22 (see The Session Weekly, Feb. 26 p. 4), and committee action is winding down.

After March 18, all committee reports on Senate Files must go to the Rules and Legislative Administration Committee before they can go to the House Floor for action.

After Wednesday, March 30, the House can act only on bills in conference committee reports, bills the Rules and Legislative Administration Committee reports on (Special Orders), and bills in messages from the Senate or governor.

The Rules and Legislative Administration Committee will meet periodically to prepare Special Orders, taking bills from the General Orders calendar and placing them on Special Orders to keep legislation moving and procedures running smoothly.

Deadlines don’t apply to committee reports from the Taxes or Appropriations Committees, or to the education finance bill.

Gavels come to rest and the paper flow slows down as committees meet their work deadlines. Focus on bill action now begins to shift from committees to the full House.

DWA penalties will get tougher if HF704 (Rest, DFL-New Hope) makes it to the law books. The bill would impound the license plates of repeat drunk drivers. The offender could get new plates, but would first need a review from the commissioner of public safety. And if the department re-issues the plates, they would display a special plate number and series to alert law enforcement officers that they belong to a person who’s been guilty of driving while drunk.

Oil overcharges that result when oil companies violate federal petroleum pricing laws would fund energy-related programs, projects, and grants under HF512 (Trimble, DFL-St. Paul). Low-income weatherization assistance programs; a grant to demonstrate the use of fossil fuel at the Lake Isabella Environmental Learning Center; a photovoltaic cell project at the Battle Creek Magnet School in St. Paul; and the Legislative Commission on Minnesota Resources would benefit.

Companies or individuals who sell hearing aids may have to have a permit and provide buyers with a contract that would offer a 30-day money-back guarantee. Rep. Peter Rodosovich (DFL-Faribault) presented a bill to the Appropriations Committee, Health & Human Services Division, March 15, that would regulate a contract agreement between hearing aid sellers and buyers. The committee added an amendment to also regulate licensing and practice of speech and language pathologists and audiologists.

Minnesota would establish two programs to help the homeless under HF 2444 (Clark, DFL-Mpls), a bill the Health & Human Services Division of Appropriations approved March 16. The bill would establish two homeless demonstration projects. One project would administer grants for life skills and employment programs and a second would award grants for rehabilitation of abandoned or empty dwellings or the construction of residential units for the homeless. The division recommended a $64,000 appropriation for just the life skills and employment program grants which federal funds may match.

More home-grown farm products will go into food production by state agencies, schools, franchised food chains, and restaurant establishments if the Legislature approves and the governor signs HF1229 (Bauerly, DFL-Sauk Rapids). HF1229 would direct the Department of Agriculture to investigate new uses and markets for Minnesota agricultural products—and would require food suppliers who contract with state agencies to make a reasonable effort to identify Minnesota products. The Agriculture Committee recommended the bill to pass March 14.

The metro mobility system is a “game of chance” for disabled people who don’t have a reason to go to the same place every day, says Mary O’Hara from the Metro Center for Independent Living. “If you’re a lucky winner, you’ll get a ride for the next day. If not, you stay home and wait until the next day to see if maybe you’ll get a ride two days later,” she says. Testifying before a House Appropriations Division, O’Hara said the system works for some people, mainly the standing order and group agency trips. Purpose of Metro Mobility is to provide alternative transportation for people with disabilities who can’t use mainline service.
If you barter, sell, or give alcohol to a minor, and the minor gets intoxicated and later hurts someone or causes property damage, you could face civil penalties under a bill the House passed March 14. HF1774 (Quist, IR-St. Peter) would allow people who suffer injuries because of an intoxicated minor to seek civil damages against whoever gave the youngster the liquor. Quist says the bill results from testimony at an Alexandria mini-session hearing last fall where a parent told of how he’d lost a daughter because of an under-aged drunk driver an adult had given liquor to.

Leaders in economic conversion from Great Britian told an Economic Development & Housing Committee meeting that all tiers of government—from NATO to neighborhoods—must get wholly involved in helping displaced workers—victims of shifts in the economy. “Don’t wait for the ax to fall,” said Phil Asquith, product development officer in Sheffield, England. “Because economic conversion takes a long, long time.”

Answers to the legislative lingo cartoon on page 6.

How many did you find?

1. railroading: an 1880s American term suggesting forceful, high-handed pushing of a bill through the legislature—came into usage when the strength of the railroad lobby reached its peak.

2. turkey: a Florida term meaning bills that fund local improvement projects in legislators’ home districts. In Arizona, they’re going home bills, and in Montana, dog and cat bills.

3. lame duck: a 1700s British term meaning a bankrupt businessman. By the 1830s, Americans gave it political meaning—office holders ending their elected terms who aren’t eligible to run again, or they lost the election, or resigned, and are serving out their term. In 1910, The Nation magazine described election-day casualties as “lame ducks in the sense they have been winged, but hope to preen their plumage again.”

4. fence sitter: a term that began in the 1800s meaning a politician who’s neutral on an issue.

5. Christmas tree (or “hanging ornaments on a Christmas tree”): the practice of attaching amendments (or ornaments) to bills that seem likely to pass, whether or not amendments are germane.

6. hired gun: a Texas term meaning a lobbyist who works on single issues, representing many clients.

7. rider/fence mending: a rider is the top rail of a zig-zag fence which politically came to mean an added provision in a bill. The horseman here is probably doing same fence mending—a term that came about in 1879 when an Ohio senator went home to look after his political interests, but told reporters he was home on his farm only to repair his fences.

8. logrolling: an early settlers’ term for helping one another clear farmland of logs and stumps. By 1823, the term politically came to include a hint of corruption and suggested buying, selling, or trading votes.

9. grass roots: a popular Minnesota term, probably originating in the Farm Labor Party and agricultural spirit of the 1880s.

10. fat cat: a term 19th century headline writers coined to describe wealthy groups, individuals, and lobbyists influential in politics.

11. duck pond: in Ohio, legislators who want to avoid voting on a bill, go into the duck pond; in Florida and Vermont, they take a walk.

Do you know?

James J. Hill, the “Empire Builder,” had a dream of making the Northwest Territory into a market center through a railway system that would eventually link Lake Superior to Puget Sound, Washington.

Born in 1838, Hill arrived in St. Paul, Minnesota when he was 16 and started working at a steamboat company. Eventually, he organized the Red River Transportation Company, which began his quest to complete the Great Northern Railway.

Along the way, he acquired the bankrupt Northern Pacific, and with the help of J.P. Morgan, took the Burlington Railroad from Edward Harriman.

The determination of young James J. Hill played an important role in turning our then unpopulated and economically depressed region into a land of prosperity and progress.
DO YOU WANT TO STAY ON THE SESSION WEEKLY MAILING LIST?

We need your help.
To save money, we’re purging our mailing lists. We need your answers to the questions below.

Do you want to receive The Session Weekly in 1989?
\[ \square \text{yes} \quad \square \text{no} \]

The Session Summary provides brief summaries of all bills that both the House and Senate passed during the 1988 legislative session and their chapter numbers as they appear in Laws of Minnesota 1988.

Do you want a copy of the 1988 Session Summary?
\[ \square \text{yes} \quad \square \text{no} \]

If you answered yes to either question, please clip and mail this form (with the mailing label on the back) by June 1 to:

Mailing List
House Public Information Office
