Debate over growth hormone shifts to labeling

Most product labels tell consumers what they’re buying. But the House Agriculture Committee approved a bill March 14 that would allow some milk labels to inform consumers of what they’re not buying.

HF2386, sponsored by Rep. Steve Trimble (DFL-St. Paul), would allow milk producers who do not treat their cows with recombinant Bovine Growth Hormone (rBGH) to label their dairy products with the phrase: "Milk in this product is from cows not treated with rBGH."

The Agriculture Committee approved the bill 13 to 6. It now moves to the House Commerce and Economic Development Committee.

The growth hormone, also known as Bovine Somatotropin (BST), increases milk production in cows. It is a natural protein that is produced in the pituitary gland of all cattle.

The biotechnology industry has worked for several years to produce a synthetic version of the hormone to increase milk production in cows. In February, the genetically engineered version won approval from the United States Food and Drug Administration.

"[Labeling] puts a question in the consumer’s mind, said Dwight Hasselquist, a farmer and vice president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau. "What is wrong with that product that is not labeled?"

"It suggests that we’re going to do something that is not moral, that is detrimental to the consumer [by using rBGH]," he said.

Although the Minnesota Department of Agriculture doesn’t officially oppose the bill, a letter written by the department and submitted to committee members reads: "We believe labeling is unnecessary because milk from treated cows has been found safe for humans and animals and because there is no difference in the milk from [rBGH] treated and untreated cows."

Regardless of the safety of rBGH, the bill’s supporters told the committee that consumers are asking for milk from cows not treated with it.

Chris von Rabenau, who operates a whole foods community co-op in Duluth, said he receives numerous requests for “rBGH-free” milk.

"The product that consumers are asking for isn’t there,” von Rabenau said.

The bill would establish a process to inspect and certify milk from cows that are not treated with the hormone. Milk producers that receive the certification would then be able to provide affidavits to companies that use the milk in products, such as cheese and ice cream.

The bill also requires that all non-treated cows and the milk they produce be kept separate from cows and milk treated with rBGH — if the producer wishes to label the products.

The cost is not yet known, but HF2386 would appropriate money from the state’s general fund to the commissioner of agriculture to administer and enforce the rBGH labeling program.

"We’re not debating whether [rBGH] is safe, we’re debating essentially a labeling issue and a consumer’s right to know,” said Rep. Steve Wenzel (DFL-Little Falls), chair of the Agriculture Committee.

Rep. LeRoy Koppendrayer (IR-Princeton) voted against the proposal and said labeling will lead consumers to believe there is something wrong with milk from cows that are treated.

"Those of us who know better should be telling the consumer this is identical to any other milk you drink," said Koppendrayer.

Tough manure!

A farmer who follows all government rules for one year couldn't be sued by neighbors who dislike the smell of manure, if a bill approved by the House Agriculture Committee March 14 becomes law.

Bill author Rep. Jerry Bauerly (DFL-Sauk Rapids), said the measure is aimed at reducing the "nuisance lawsuits relative to dust and smell from farming."

Such conflicts sometimes arise in newer housing subdivisions that are built in the country near established farms. The measure (HF2493) would protect farms that have met all federal, state, and local standards for one year from lawsuits accusing them of creating a "public or private nuisance."

Current law requires a farm to operate successfully for six years before it's eligible for the same protection.

"If you're abiding by all the laws and rules that you need to abide by, folks can't drag you into court," Bauerly said, in describing the bill's intent. He said farmers usually win nuisance lawsuits, but they can be costly enough to "break you in the process."

Although some smells and other aspects of farming may bother new neighbors, Bauerly said a farm should be protected if it's meeting all the governmental guidelines. If a farm violates zoning codes or other rules, the protection would not apply.

If a farm is expanded or significantly altered, the one-year period would be reinstated from the start-up date of new operations. The bill also would require that anyone selling property in an area zoned for agriculture notify any buyers of that fact and of the practices common to farming.

Bauerly said nearly 40 other states have similar legislation.

HF2493 now goes to the House Judiciary Committee.

Museum capital city

The Science Museum of Minnesota and the Minnesota Children's Museum would each receive state money for their construction projects in downtown St. Paul if two House bills now under consideration become law.

The science museum receives nearly a million visitors a year, twice as many as it was designed to accommodate, said museum Director Jim Peterson.

As a result of the overcrowding, large school groups visiting the museum often must eat their lunches on the floor, Peterson told members of a House finance committee March 15.

The museum wants to construct a 325,000-square-foot building on 11 acres of city-owned property on the south bank of the Mississippi River between the Wabasha Street and Robert Street bridges.

The plans call for the new museum to integrate the Mississippi River and the surrounding area into its exhibits, Peterson told members of the House Economic Development, Infrastructure and Regulation Finance Committee.

If fully developed, those exhibits would include a hands-on archeology dig on the river bank and a floating biology laboratory traveling up and down the river, he said.

The bill containing the funding request currently contains no dollar amount, but Mariani said the request would likely be for $10 million. Peterson said the museum would eventually need $30 million from the state to relocate to the river front.

If the bill becomes law, the state would sell bonds to raise the money.

At the same committee meeting, Mariani also presented a bill proposing that the Minnesota Children's Museum get $1.25 million in state bond proceeds to help fund its relocation. It wants to move from its current site near the state fairgrounds to downtown St. Paul.

The popularity of the children's museum means that it, too, is overcrowded, said Ann Bitter, museum president.

The bonding money requested in the bill (HF2442) would allow for more exhibits and activities, she said, which would ensure enough visitors to keep the museum self-sufficient.

The committee took no official action on either bill, but will consider each later when it assembles an omnibus committee bonding bill.

Ice time for girls

Women and girls would be assured access to ice for their hockey and ringette games under a bill sponsored by Rep. Bob Milbert (DFL-South St. Paul).

Milbert wants to build two metropolitan area ice centers which would be required to devote 50 percent of their ice time to female sports.

The House Governmental Operations and Gambling Committee's State Government Finance Division approved the bill (HF2914) March 16 and referred it to the House Capital Investment Committee.

The committee heard emotional testimony from women who told legislators about being harassed and discriminated against when they asked for ice time at local rinks.
Kati Norsten, a ringette player at South St. Paul High School, said her family received harassing phone calls in the middle of the night after her father demanded ice time for girls. Her team was eventually given time to play—at 5 a.m., she said.

Milbert estimates it would cost $13.8 million for both ice arenas. State bonds could be sold to pay for the projects or the state could use money it earned from the sale of Metropolitan Center in Bloomington.

The measure specifies that the city or county where the arenas are located contribute $2 million to the project. That contribution could be in the form of land, access roads, or utilities, Milbert said.

The division sent the bill along with $53.8 million in bonding recommendations to the Capital Investment Committee. But the division didn't assign a priority ranking to HF2914 or recommend funding.

The other bonding recommendations, which did receive priority ranking, included $5.5 million for renovations to the Capitol, and $6 million to help build the Lake Superior Center Authority in Duluth, which would host educational programs about Lake Superior.

The division also recommended $250,000 for improvements to the Capitol cafeteria, but only on the condition the food is improved.

BUSINESS

Business start-ups

Small business entrepreneurs not only need money, but sound technical advice to make a start-up business succeed. The sponsors of two bills approved by an economic development subcommittee March 16 say their measures would provide both.

Rep. Becky Lourey (DFL-Kerrick) has sponsored HF2218 which would lend money to small start-up businesses. Rep. Roger Cooper (DFL-Bird Island) has sponsored HF2084 which would help start-up businesses in southwestern Minnesota with technical business advice.

Lourey's bill would create a "micro business loan pilot project" through which community development corporations could provide loans to beginning small businesses. The community development corporations would apply to the Department of Trade and Economic Development for grants to fund the loans. The maximum loan would be $15,000.

Lourey told the International Trade and Economic Development Division of the House Commerce and Economic Development Committee that this program is necessary to help create jobs.

The program is designed for people who don't need much money, but do need someone to share the risk of starting a business. Although HF2218 doesn't specify a dollar amount, Lourey said the loan program would cost about $1 million.

The bill was referred to the full Commerce and Economic Development Committee for further review.

Cooper's bill (HF2084) calls for technical support for start-up businesses in southwestern Minnesota and would establish a "regional technology coordinator" in Minnesota Technology Inc.'s Redwood Falls office.

Minnesota Technology Inc. is a public, non-profit corporation that assists existing small- and medium-sized businesses become more competitive. But currently it does not work with start-up manufacturers.

Cooper's bill would set up a three-year pilot project to specifically assist start-up manufacturers in southwestern Minnesota. So far the proposal contains no money, but $200,000 is being sought for the project.

Although there is some help for prospective entrepreneurs, supporters of Cooper's bill say the resources aren't as comprehensive as is needed for start-up businesses. They stress that the measure is a technical assistance bill—not a financial assistance one.

John Otteson, the owner of Browntown-based Buffalo Creek Specialties which makes food seasonings, expressed a need for the technology coordinator.

"Economic growth will not come from the 3Ms or the General Mills," he said. "Economic growth will come from the small companies."

HF2084 bill now goes to the full Commerce and Economic Development Committee.

CRIME

Bad dog

Dogs that are considered dangerous would be branded with a special dog tag, under a bill approved March 14 by the House General Legislation, Veterans Affairs and Elections Committee.

The bill (HF2362), sponsored by Rep. Lyndon Carlson (DFL-Crystal), would require dangerous dogs to wear tags containing the designated state dangerous dog symbol. The precise design and material for the dog tag would have to be worked out.

Current law requires the owner of a dangerous dog to place a sign in his or her yard warning passersby about the animal.

A dangerous dog is defined as one that does any of the following: inflicts substantial bodily harm on a human without provocation; kills a domestic animal without provocation while off the owner's property; or is found to have been potentially dangerous.

The bill also expands the legal definition of "potentially dangerous dog."

"Potentially dangerous dog." Presently, Minnesota cities and counties can regulate "potentially dangerous dogs," which are defined as those inclined to unprovoked attacks on humans or pets, or those that chase people on public property "in an apparent attitude of attack."

HF2362 would include dogs that simply...
Juvenile justice

House members, after a prolonged debate March 17, approved a new juvenile crime bill on a 129-to-0 vote.

The bill (HF2074), poses heavier consequences for young offenders.

But Rep. Wes Skoglund (DFL-Mpls), the bill's chief sponsor, told lawmakers that the bill's $18.5 million appropriation is "mainly for prevention."

Money is allocated for more judges, public defenders, probation officers, and juvenile prison space, as well as several programs to help at-risk teens.

A 14-month long study by the Minnesota Supreme Court Advisory Task Force on the Juvenile Justice System laid the groundwork for the House bill.

Although a portion of the bill focuses on prevention, another part creates no-nonsense tough penalties for juvenile offenders.

The bill specifies that after Aug. 1, 1994:

- Juveniles over the age of 16 charged with first-degree murder or first-degree criminal sexual conduct would be automatically prosecuted as adults and face adult penalties.

- "Drive-by shootings" would be added to the list of crimes which receive a mandatory minimum sentence. Also, a minor carrying an assault weapon in a public place would face a felony charge rather than a misdemeanor.

- A new category of "serious youthful offender" would be established and defined as a 14- to 17-year-old charged with a felony. Juvenile court judges could use their discretion to decide who is a "serious youthful offender."

- A 16- or 17-year-old juvenile could be labeled a serious youthful offender if the juvenile meets the standards to be tried as an adult and if a prosecutor identifies the juvenile as one.

- A 14- to 17-year-old who is considered a serious youthful offender would be entitled to legal representation and a public jury trial. If found guilty, the juvenile would receive both an adult criminal sentence and a juvenile sentence. The adult penalty would not be imposed if the minor successfully completed the juvenile penalty. However, should a serious youthful offender commit another crime — or violate the terms of the juvenile penalty — the adult criminal penalty would then be imposed. Court records for "serious youthful offenders" would be forwarded to the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension (BCA) and kept on file for 15 years after the disposition of a case.

- Juveniles, 14 and older, would be tried as adults only for felony offenses. Current law allows them to be tried as adults for any offense, but those cases are relatively rare.

- There would be a presumption to try a 16- or 17-year-old as an adult if the juvenile court decides a prison sentence is likely or if the juvenile used a firearm while committing a felony. In other words, juveniles would face an adult trial unless they prove they warrant a juvenile hearing. There would be a presumption to try a 14- or 15-year-old as an adult for first- or second-degree murder.

- Juvenile courts would maintain jurisdiction over a juvenile until the individual's 23rd birthday, unless the court terminates its jurisdiction before that. Under current law juvenile court supervision ends at age 19.

- Most juvenile court conviction records would be kept on file for three more years than current law mandates — until the offender reaches the age of 26, or until 28 for sex offenders.

- A juvenile court could issue a subpoena requiring the presence of a minor's parent or guardian at any hearing held during a delinquency proceeding. A parent or guardian who does not comply could be held in contempt of court.

- A peace officer could issue a ticket ("notice to appear" citation) to a juvenile for a misdemeanor-level infraction. This is a simple alternative to a police officer going to a county attorney to file a time-consuming petition to juvenile court.

The juvenile justice bill provides the Department of Corrections with $1.5 to create several small, secure regional facilities to hold serious youthful offenders. A maximum of 50 more beds would be available in Minnesota. Corrections officials would have an additional $1 million for community programs as an alternative to detention.

With more juveniles being tried as adults, the district courts would have more cases, so $372,000 would be appropriated to create four new judgeships. About $3.9 million would go to hire more public defenders, and the Department of Corrections would receive $3 million to hire more probation officers.

To help teenagers stay out of trouble, the Department of Education would receive $3.5 million for pre-school education programs and violence prevention grants; and the Department of Jobs and Training would receive $2 million to create after-school and summer programs for at-risk youth.

HF2074 now goes to the Senate for consideration.

Reinventing itself

A State Board of Invention was created last year on the condition it receive no state funding. Now the original author of last year's measure is asking that the board be permitted to receive state funds.

Bill sponsor Rep. Tony Kinkel (DFL-Park Rapids) said the prohibition against using state funds was inserted into his bill last year by the Senate.

HF1961, introduced this year, would simply restore his proposal to its original form so state funds could be used. But the bill makes no mention of a specific dollar amount.

The bill was heard March 15 in the House Commerce and Economic Development Committee and referred without recommendation to the House Governmental Operations and Gambling Committee for further review.

The board is designed to assist potential inventors by streamlining the process of obtaining U.S. patents for their ideas and other details associated with selling an invention.

Under current law, the 11-member board may receive federal grants and private contributions to pay for its operation, but no state money.

K-12 bonding changes

The House Education Committee approved a bill March 15 to spend $51 million on construction and new equipment projects for K-12 education this year.

The sale of state bonds would pay for the projects.

The bill (HF2199) is nearly identical to the version passed by an education subcommittee last week (See March 11, 1994, Session Weekly, page 5).

The only change from the bill's original form is a $2 million increase in grants for school districts to make their buildings handicapped accessible (from $3 million to $5 million). To make up the difference, the committee decreased by $2 million the allocation for grants to make public libraries handicapped accessible (from $5 million to $3 million).

The bill now moves to the House Capital Investment Committee.
The measure would allow districts the option of starting the 1994-95 school year on the Thursday or Friday before Labor Day. Minnesota law currently prohibits school districts from starting classes before Labor Day. This year, however, Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, begins the day after Labor Day, which is usually the first day of school. Jewish children do not go to school on Rosh Hashanah, known as two of the most holy days in the Jewish religion. The days are traditionally set aside for confession and introspection. Under HF1845, school districts could start school early to allow Jewish students to attend the first day of school. (See March 11, 1994, Session Weekly, page 7.)

Sarah Hunter carried her sons, Luke, right, and Sam to Rep. Pam Neary’s office. Hunter was part of an early childhood learning group, which came to the Capitol from Stillwater March 15 to talk about continued funding.

Updating ‘Cold War’ textbooks

A bill to raise the allowance Minnesota gives its schools for books and other supplies was heard by an education subcommittee March 16.

Proposed by Rep. Becky Kelso (DFL-Mpls), HF2162 would call on the state to spend an additional $18.8 million a year for school books and other equipment.

The proposal would boost the current equipment expense formula from $63 to $100 per pupil.

Kelso said too many schools are using history books that pre-date the Persian Gulf War, the collapse of the Soviet Union, and the dismantling of the Berlin Wall.

Kelso added she’s seen students use science books from the 1960s and other “appalling situations where we’re trying to prepare kids for the future.”

School districts supplement the state money. In 1991, for example, school districts actually spent an average of $110 per pupil on textbooks, workbooks, library books, and audio-visual equipment, according to the Department of Education.

The K-12 Education Finance Division’s Facilities Subcommittee is scheduled to vote on the proposal March 23.

School bus driver day

The House of Representatives gave final approval March 14 to a bill that would declare the second Monday in January “School Bus Driver Day” in Minnesota.

Sponsored by Rep. Bob Anderson (DFL-Ottertail), HF1811 calls on schools to use the day for special programs honoring Minnesota school bus and Head Start drivers (See March 11, 1994, Session Weekly, page 9).

The measure, which was approved on a 98-33 vote, now moves to the Senate for further review. The Senate version of the bill awaits a hearing in the Senate Education Committee.

Religious holiday exception

Recognizing an important Jewish holiday, the Minnesota House passed a bill March 14 that could have some students in school a few days early this fall.

HF1845, sponsored by Rep. Jim Rhodes (IR-St. Louis Park), passed 129 to 0.

The measure would allow districts the option of starting the 1994-95 school year on the Thursday or Friday before Labor Day.

Minnesota law currently prohibits school districts from starting classes before Labor Day. This year, however, Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, begins the day after Labor Day, which is usually the first day of school. Jewish children do not go to school on Rosh Hashanah, known as two of the most holy days in the Jewish religion. The days are traditionally set aside for confession and introspection. Under HF1845, school districts could start school early to allow Jewish students to attend the first day of school. (See March 11, 1994, Session Weekly, page 7.)

A bill that would pay back $172 million of the $664 million Minnesota owes its school districts won approval March 11 from the House Ways and Means Committee.

The bill is identical to the versions approved by the House education and taxes committees. (See March 4, 1994, Session Weekly, page 7, and March 11, 1994, Session Weekly, page 13.)

Currently, the state is required to repay districts that “shift” their regular local property tax funds to replace late state aid payments. The law, however, does not authorize the state to repay districts that cover the late payments with local referendum levies — extra property tax money their local taxpayers voted to give the district.
HF1925, sponsored by Rep. Kathleen Vel­lenga (DFL-St. Paul), would ensure that dis­tricts with local referendum levies are repaid.

Without the law change, the state would have to withhold $51 million of the full $172 million that has been earmarked to be re­turned to school districts in 1994.

The state began borrowing money from the school districts in the 1980s during a series of budget crises.

The bill now awaits approval on the House floor.

ENERGY

Dead lines

Northern States Power Company would have to move its electric poles and power lines from Indian Mounds Park on the east side of St. Paul to comply with a bill approved by the House Environment and Natural Re­sources Committee March 15.

Rep. Steve Trimble (DFL-St. Paul), spon­sor of HF2043, said that the utility poles stand on a "sacred burial site," burial mounds constructed more than 2,000 years ago by what archaeologists call the Hopewell People.

Most of the mounds have been destroyed, but the remaining few became part of the city park in the Dayton’s Bluff neighborhood 100 years ago.

Trimble said that NSP can move their lines around or under the bluff, "as long as they don’t dig into the mounds themselves."

Kent Larson, NSP’s regional manager in St. Paul, opposed the bill and said that moving the electrical lines and poles would cost $75,000 to $100,000. Some were installed in 1936, and some in 1965.

"The concern we have with this is not the [cost], but the precedent that would be set," Larson told committee members.

“This is not an isolated case,” he said. He explained that many people ask NSP to move power lines. The Public Utilities Commission rules allow NSP to charge for removing or burying power lines, according to Larson.

This bill, however, would not compensate NSP for relocation work at Indian Mounds Park.

HF2043 now goes to the House floor.

ETHICS

Ethics bill approved

Nearly all lobbyist gifts to lawmakers would be banned under a bill approved by the House March 17 on a 117-to-13 vote.

Under the bill, a lobbyist, business, or special interest group could not give any gift to a legislator. A legislator, in turn, could not accept a gift from anyone or any group at­tempting to influence legislation.

Such gifts would include money, property, a service, a loan, or a promise of future employment. Although not specifically listed, food and beverages would also be considered a gift, and, therefore, banned.

The original version of the bill, which the House passed March 3 after extensive debate, did not ban lobbyist spending. Instead, it required lobbyists to report anything over $5 spent on a legislator and the name of the legislator who accepted it.

The Senate toughened the bill, and the House voted to adopt the stricter guidelines.

With approval from both the House and Senate, HF1863 now goes to Gov. Arne Carlson for his consideration.

There are a few exceptions to the ban on gifts; a lawmaker may accept a plaque or similar memento recognizing service or a meal after he or she has appeared at a meeting to give a speech or answer questions on an issue.

GOVERNMENT

Capitol vision

Minnesota’s state government needs to expand — by 10 new buildings — to meet its space needs into the next century, according to a recently released report.

The buildings would be grouped around the state Capitol and cost $615 million in 1993 money. Construction would take nine years.

“The Strategic Plan for Locating State Agen­cies” — a study conducted by the Depart­ment of Administration and several consulting firms — proposes to tie the new Capitol area complex with downtown St. Paul by creating a commercial corridor along Cedar Street.

The plan calls for constructing office buildings totaling more than two million square feet. The departments of health and human services would each get a new building with 500,000 square feet. The departments of education, military affairs, and public safety also would move into new buildings. Fur­thermore, two state office buildings would be built to the north and west of the Capitol.

One would house multiple smaller state agen­cies and boards; the other, lawmakers, legis­lative staff, and some constitutionally elected officials and their staffs.

Dennis Spalla, assistant commissioner for the Department of Administration, told members of the House Capital Investment Committee March 8 that the study predicts a 2 percent annual growth rate for state agencies.

He said that "in the long run" new buildings were preferable to leasing existing office space in older buildings. Each agency has different space, parking, and utility needs that older buildings may not be able to handle.

The first steps to construction are in Gov. Arne Carlson's bonding proposal, which contains $1.5 million for pre-design work on several building projects. That is in addition to the state selling bonds to pay for delayed road, utility, and other infrastructure improvements in and around the Capitol. Also, the governor's proposal includes $13.4 million this year for a Transportation Building renovation.

Square dancing vs. disco

Square dancing may have therapeutic value for those recovering from hip, knee, or back surgery, but that doesn't mean it's for all Minnesotans.

Despite its bona fide wholesomeness, the House General Legislation, Veterans Affairs and Elections Committee March 14 failed to make the square dance the official folk dance of Minnesota.

The setback marked the second time that square dancing has suffered a legislative setback. Although the Senate approved a similar measure in 1992, the House declined to join in.

This year, the proposal hit its first snag when Rep. Tim Commers (IR-Mendota Heights) offered an amendment that would have made disco dancing the official state dance.

"I'm still somewhat emotionally scarred from the fourth and fifth grade when I had to square dance," Commers revealed. He added that square dance instructions like "change your partner" were improper. The amendment failed.

Members also voted down a motion to put HF2089 on the House Consent Calendar, where non-controversial bills are considered.

A motion to reconsider the bill and put it on the general list of bills going to the House floor also failed. That makes the chances of square dancing receiving the state's official state blessing this session relatively slim.

The measure is sponsored by Rep. Katy Olson (DFL-Sherburn).

Torture, not culture

Coinciding with the March 16 observance of Battered Women's Action Day at the Capitol, members of the House Judiciary Committee approved a bill that would ban female genital mutilation — sometimes referred to as "female circumcision."

The mutilation of a woman's genitals is a local custom in many African countries. With African immigrants coming to Minnesota, doctors report seeing cases of varied forms of genital mutilation.

The measure would require the Minnesota Department of Health to carry out education and prevention programs in communities that practice ritual female genital mutilation. The programs should inform the community about the health risks and emotional trauma inflicted by those practices.

Under the bill, anyone performing genital mutilation would be guilty of a felony; consent to the procedure could not be used as a courtroom defense. Legitimate medical procedures performed by licensed physicians are permitted.

Dr. Doris Brooker, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Minne-it is physical assault." Brooker said. "It is absolutely unjustified and unethical — it is physical assault." Brooker noted that there is not an Islamic religious mandate for this practice, although the ritual often "has a religious overlay."

Carol Hogard, a women's studies instructor at Minneapolis Community College, explained that the subject is difficult to talk about "because it is totally unbelievable." Asked about the reason for the practice, she replied, "It is done to control female sexuality."

"This is not culture, it is torture," she said. "Once it's done women have serious health problems for the rest of their lives."

The World Health Organization estimates that 80 to 100 million women have had their genitals maimed, according to Hogard, making this the most widespread form of torture in the world. Kenya has banned the practice, she said.

Outreach work in France and Somalia educates people about the dangers of genital mutilation, Hogard said.

HF2434 was incorporated into the omnibus crime bill (HF2351), which is still being assembled.

More housing funds

More money would be available for special housing programs, including some to help the homeless and low-income people buy homes, if a bill approved March 14 by the Housing Committee becomes law.

But high-income home owners would have to deduct less of their mortgage interest payments on their state income tax returns to pay for those programs.

Bill sponsor Rep. Karen Clark (DFL-Mpls) said cutting back on the interest payment deductions would free up $20 million annually to spend on a variety of housing programs.

The proposal (HF2428) would only affect home owners with adjusted gross incomes of more than $75,000 a year — who comprise fewer than 9 percent of the state's home owners, said Clark, chair of the committee.

Under HF2428, a married couple filing jointly with an adjusted gross annual income between $75,000 and $100,000 could deduct only a portion of their mortgage interest payments in excess of $10,000.

A couple with an adjusted gross annual income greater than $100,000 could only deduct a maximum of $10,000 in mortgage interest payments.

Under current law, there are no such restrictions. The bill now goes to the House Taxes Committee.

Sprinklers for buildings

All Minnesota buildings more than 74 feet tall and not equipped with a sprinkler system would have to be outfitted with one under a bill sponsored by Rep. Bob Johnson (DFL-Bemidji).

The House Governmental Operations and Gambling Committee's Subcommittee on Administrative Rules approved the bill (HF392) March 16 and referred it to the full committee.

If the Legislature approves, owners of those buildings would have 15 years to install the sprinklers.

Tom Brace, state fire marshal, said fires in high-rise buildings are difficult to fight without sprinkler systems.

But at least one lawmaker worried that the bill may present a hardship to some property owners.

If condominium owners have to pick up the cost, it could run $1,500 to $2,000 per owner, said Rep. Phil Kinkie (IR-Shoreview).

Calling all whistle-blowers

People from around Minnesota who suspect wrongdoing in government could dial a toll-free number in the Office of the State Auditor to report the abuse, under a bill approved March 14 by the House Labor-Management Relations Committee.

And public employees would be granted broader protection under the state's "whistle-blower law," which is designed to shield employees from retaliation by their employers.

Current law protects all employees who report violations of state or federal laws or rules at their workplace. It also protects employees who refuse to carry out an employer's request because the employee thinks it's illegal.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Kathleen Sekhon (DFL-Burns Township), would extend a new kind of protection from employer retaliation for public employees and private-sector people who work with public agencies.

Under her proposal, employees, who, in good faith, report questionable conduct — even if the conduct is not a violation of state or federal law or rules — would be covered.

The proposal states that employees who report an improper use of a government office, the gross waste of public funds, or other abuse or neglect of duty by a public agency or public officer, would be included under the whistle-blower law.

The bill would also call on the state auditor's office to review the matters reported and, if necessary, take further action.

The measure specified no specific dollar amount for the hot line, but Sekhon said she will request an appropriation of $4,000 to pay for it.

HF2292 now goes to the House Governmental Operations and Gambling Committee for further review.

Minimum wage $6.50?

Minnesota's minimum wage for most businesses would rise from the current $4.25 an hour to $6.50 by 1997 under a bill the House Labor-Management Relations Committee approved 9 to 7 March 14.

Beginning in January 1995, the minimum wage would rise 75 cents each year until hitting $6.50 per hour in January 1997. After 1997, the minimum wage would be tied to the Consumer Price Index and increase accordingly, said bill sponsor Tom Rukavina (DFL-Virginia).

The bill (HF2243) now goes to the House floor for debate.
Proponents argue a minimum wage increase is vital for people struggling to support families. Those opposed say an increase will cause businesses to shut down.

If the bill becomes law, Minnesota's minimum wage would be higher than the federal rate of $4.25 an hour. Currently, six states and the District of Columbia pay more. Iowa pays its workers $4.65 per hour. Under Rukavina's proposal, businesses with sales of less than $362,500 per year—which now pay $4 per hour in minimum wage—also would see 75-cent annual increases, to $6.25 by 1997.

The committee passed the bill along party lines after hearing about two hours of testimony from about 10 people. DFLers supported the increase; IRs did not.

A minimum wage hike would mean "layoffs, hiring freezes, and stores closing in the retail field," said Judy Cook, a lobbyist for the Minnesota Retail Merchants' Association.

"Few businesses have the increased business growth that they could support this," said Cook. "Many businesses on main streets are struggling to survive. Those retailers had to fight a major depression in the farm economy, flooding, and a flight of rural dollars to the cities." Elliott Eisman, who owns a McDonald's restaurant in Plymouth, said if the minimum wage is raised 75 cents, those earning more than minimum wage now would clamor for raises too, costing businesses even more money.

Those arguments didn't matter to those thinking of families.

Brian Rusche, a lobbyist for the Joint Religious Legislative Coalition, said: "A person that works full time shouldn't be poor. A full-time, year-round worker should be able to meet the poverty line for a family of three."

"A lot of people are trying to make it and feed a family on minimum wage, Rukavina said. "But minimum wage hasn't kept up to inflation. It's intended to be at 50 percent of what an average industrialized wage earner is making. But it hasn't kept up since 1980."

Emergency 911

Distracted or panicked callers to 911 emergency lines have no say when their calls are replayed on TV or radio newscasts. But a bill approved March 15 by the House Judiciary Committee's data privacy subcommittee would change that. HF2024 would require an individual's permission before his or her 911 call could be broadcast.

News organizations could still obtain transcripts of 911 calls, but would have to pay for the cost of transcribing the call. Police, fire, and 911 personnel could still use audio recordings to help with investigations and to train dispatchers.

Bill sponsor Rep. Loren Jennings (DFL-Harris) was motivated by an incident last December in Ramsey, Minn., where Dean Helgeson arrived home to find his wife and two young children murdered. The killings were committed by his 14-year-old son, who later shot and killed himself.

Local newscasts repeatedly played the tape of Helgeson's anguished call to 911. In emotional testimony, Robert Hoene, Helgeson's brother-in-law, told legislators that many family members heard the tape on TV news reports; some even heard it on the radio while driving to the funeral.

Hoene said TV news "took full and maximum advantage" of the audiotape, and engaged in varied speculations about the crime for several days. In testimony supporting the bill, Hoene mentioned that dozens of people approached him after the murders to say they were appalled by the use of the 911 audio tape in news reports.

Following the incident, 911 emergency operators heard from numerous callers who announced that they wouldn't call 911 to report a crime, said Anthony Palumbo, assistant Anoka County attorney. He backed the bill and noted, ironically, that the Helgeson 911 call was released at the direction of his office.

Gary Hill, managing editor at KSTP-TV in St. Paul, and Mark Anfinson, attorney for the Minnesota Newspaper Association, both urged committee members to vote against the measure. Hill said that the bill discriminates against TV and radio broadcasters.

It would be a "very serious policy mistake" to privatize 911 audiotapes, said Anfinson. He argued that access to the tapes is necessary for the media to monitor the efficiency of 911 emergency services; law enforcement agencies cannot be trusted in this regard, he said.

"If your 911 system is not operating efficiently, the consequences can be catastrophic," Anfinson said.

HF2024 is expected to become part of HF2028, the omnibus data privacy bill, which is still being assembled.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Elected vs. appointed

The Metropolitan Council needs to be more accountable to the public and that's why its 16 appointed members should be elected rather than appointed.

That's the message contained in a bill approved by a House government subcommittee March 11.

The governor has appointed members of the Metropolitan Council since the body's inception in 1967. The council coordinates growth and development, roads and transit, sewage, and other regional issues for the seven-county metro area and the 100 cities that make up the region.

It now spends $600 million each year in state money and levies $100 million annually in property taxes, said Rep. Myron Orfield (DFL-Mpls), the bill's sponsor.

After approving the bill (HF2276), the House Local Government and Metropolitan Affairs Committee referred it to the House Transportation and Transit Committee.

Orfield and other lawmakers have tried before to revamp the Metropolitan Council. In 1993, five bills were introduced to change its makeup. At that time Orfield tried but failed to require that council members be elected.

This year's bill would enact recommendations made by a metropolitan governance study group created by the 1993 Legislature. The study called for the election of council members and for the elimination of the Regional Transit Board, Metropolitan Transit Commission, and Metropolitan Waste Control Commission. These duties would then be shifted to the Metropolitan Council.

"[The council] decides which cities will grow and which will not, where the roads and sewers will go and where transit will run," Orfield said. "It's deciding how the region's future will go and it should be elected."

Few governors since the council's creation have had time to oversee the members they appoint. When governors expressed little interest in metropolitan issues, special interest groups began controlling the Metropolitan Council, Orfield said.

But Dottie Rietow, the council's chair, testified against the bill. She said an appointed council "gives us the freedom to focus on the future from a long-term perspective." The governor is also able to name a diverse Metropolitan Council.

If elections were held council district's would contain about 196,000 people, about six times the size of the House's 32,000-person legislative districts.

Under the amendment, candidates would have equal time on public access cable television. The Metropolitan Council also would have to mail out a voter's guide outlining candidates' issue positions to citizens living in a district with an upcoming election.

TAXES

Property tax refunds

A bill that would make more Minnesotans eligible for a property tax refund in 1994 passed the House 130 to 0 March 17.

To qualify for a refund under current law, a property owner's taxes must have gone up more than 12 percent and increased by at least $100. But because so many people will see a property tax increase this year, the Department of Revenue, using its discretion as allowed under law, increased that threshold to $300.

That increase limits the number of people eligible for a refund and makes sure the department doesn't exceed the state's $5.5 million budget cap for refunds.

This bill, sponsored by House Taxes Committee Chair Rep. Ann Rest (DFL-New Hope) removes the cap and essentially retains the $100 limit.

The language in the House bill was folded into the Senate's version. It will now travel through the process as SF1709. The Senate passed its bill, sponsored by Sen. Phil Riveness (DFL-Bloomington) 64 to 0 March 14. Although the House passed the Senate version, it made some minor amendments. That means the bill now goes back to the Senate where members will take another vote.

The bill deals specifically with the state's "targeting" refund program which is separate from the renters' credit and circuit breaker tax refund programs.

The bill would appropriate an additional $6.2 million in fiscal year 1995 to pump the refund program up to $11.7 million. The bill is a one-shot deal and eliminates the cap only for taxes payable in 1994. The additional $6.2 million would come from the state's general fund.

Because the refund forms already have gone out with the $300 threshold printed on them, the bill would mandate that each county mail a postcard or letter to property owners notifying them of the new law and that they may be eligible for a refund.

TOURISM

Welcome to Minnesota

The House Commerce and Economic Development Committee March 15 approved a bill asking the state to create a coordinator of international protocol and affairs.

The bill (HF1900), sponsored by Rep. Mike Jaros (DFL-Duluth), said the position is needed to make the state more appealing to international visitors. (See March 11, 1994, Session Weekly, page 14.)

The "coordinator of international protocol and affairs" position would be created within the Minnesota Trade Office.

"I think we could do more . . . to attract overseas tourists," said Jaros.

He said the coordinator's responsibilities would include monitoring programs that host international visitors to Minnesota and advising Minnesotans on how to treat official visitors from other nations.

The bill, which as yet does not specify the cost of the new position, was referred to the House Economic Development, Infrastructure and Regulation Finance Committee.
Limiting tourism liability

Growing numbers of Minnesota resorts are dropping horseback riding, waterskiing, windsurfing, canoeing, and other activities for fear of landing in court.

To protect resort, campground, and other recreational landowners from “frivolous” lawsuits, Rep. Kris Hasskamp (DFL-Crosby) is sponsoring a bill that would make it more difficult to hold them responsible for accidents that occur on their property.

The Tourism and Small Business Division of the House Commerce and Economic Development Committee approved the bill March 9. It now moves to the full committee.

Hasskamp cited a recent survey of operators of 500 Minnesota recreational sites in which 40 percent said they’ve dropped at least one activity due to the cost of insurance or its potential for legal problems.

“Having recreational opportunities pulled back because of potential liabilities will have a major effect on our tourism,” Hasskamp told the commerce division.

Under HF887, a resort owner must be proven guilty of “gross negligence” to be held liable for an accident. Gross negligence is more difficult to prove than “regular negligence,” which is the standard to which resort owners are held under current law.

Negligence is considered an accidental oversight, but gross negligence is considered an extremely irresponsible act that is just shy of intentional. A jury would decide the difference.

The measure also gives greater protection to private landowners who allow snowmobilers and others to use their property free of charge. Under the proposal, that kind of landowner could not be held liable for any injuries unless he or she intentionally caused an accident.

HF887 offers another protection from “nuisance lawsuits” by requiring the plaintiff who loses a case to pay a resort or property owners’ attorney’s fees and costs.

Jane Tschida, a lobbyist from the Minnesota Trial Lawyers Association, said her group opposes the bill because it creates “absolute immunity” for private landowners.

In addition, Tschida said the bill “will practically keep [resorts] from being responsible for any kind of negligence. It’s very difficult to prove something grossly negligent.”

Hasskamp said the bill is not intended to discourage legitimate claims but to encourage resorts to offer as many activities as possible, and for private landowners to continue to allow recreational use of their land.

Rep. Tony Kinkel (DFL-Park Rapids) supported the bill, but reminded the panel that the insurance industry also should be held accountable for indirectly forcing resorts to cut back on certain activities.

TRANSPORTATION

No driving for dropouts

Teenagers who don’t go to school should lose their driver’s licenses. That’s the message two House members want to send teens before they drop out of school.

“Driving is a privilege, not a right,” Minority Leader Steve Sviggum (IR-Kenyon) told members of the House Transportation and Transit Committee March 11.

Sviggum is the sponsor of a bill (HF1143) that would deny a driver’s license to anyone under 18 years old who has not graduated from or is currently not attending a secondary school.

The bill also authorizes the Department of Public Safety (DPS) to suspend a person’s license for 30 days after it receives notice that the person has dropped out of school.

Sviggum said he drafted the bill to combat the high dropout rate for high school seniors, which he said is 19 percent statewide. Although Minnesota has a high school graduation rate of about 90 percent (among the highest in the country), the dropout rate is measured differently.

If adopted, Minnesota would follow other states, such as Florida, which have enacted similar laws.

Both Sviggum’s bill and a similar bill (HF2322) sponsored by Rep. Kris Hasskamp (DFL-Crosby) define a dropout as someone with more than 10 consecutive, or 15 total, unexcused absences in a single semester.

Under both bills, dropouts would only get their licenses back when they return to school full time or turn 18. In addition, Hasskamp’s bill stipulates that students expelled from school would have their licenses suspended for up to 90 days.

Educators need more effective ways to manage the “problem students” who habitually disrupt the classroom, said Jim Christenson, a science teacher at Crosby-Ironton High School who spoke in support of Hasskamp’s bill.

Expulsions and in-school suspensions are largely ineffective with these troublemakers, he said, but denying them the ability to drive may just work.

“Students value their driver’s licenses more than perhaps anything else,” Christenson said.

Although the committee heard testimony on the bills, it took no official action. A vote is expected later.

Handicapped parking posse

All Minnesota cities could establish citizen parking patrols to tag vehicles illegally parked in handicapped-only spaces if a House bill now under consideration becomes law.

Lawmakers two years ago granted such authority to the state’s three largest cities: Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Duluth. Last year, the Legislature expanded that authority to “second class” cities, or those with populations between 20,000 and 100,000.

Under the provisions of HF2426, all incorporated cities in Minnesota, regardless of population, would be authorized to train volunteers to issue citations to drivers who illegally park in handicapped-only zones.

Such “parking posse” are needed in both small and large cities because police don’t have the time to enforce the law, said Rep. Tony Kinkel (DFL-Park Rapids), chief author of the bill. Kinkel presented his bill at the March 16 meeting of the House Transportation and Transit Committee.

Although the committee heard the bill, it took no official action. A vote is expected later.

The current fine for illegally parking in a handicapped-only space is between $100 and $200.

Minority leader’s success will be measured Nov. 8

To those who know Minority Leader Steve Sviggum, there’s no question about his sincerity.

He’s a staunch believer in the principles of the Independent-Republican Party of Minnesota, and a well-known conservative in its ranks.

So when it comes to choosing between family and politics, there’s no question upon which side this 42-year-old lawmaker, devoted father of three, farmer, and part-time basketball referee falls.

Blood wins every time.

When asked what he would do if any of his children decided to join the DFL, he paused and said: “I’d be a bit disappointed, but I would respect their decision.”

He has a dream of some day campaigning for his grade school daughter, Marit, for a seat in the U.S. Congress. “I could never go to Washington myself, but she could. . . . Of course I’d campaign for her harder if she ran as a Republican,” he joked.

The Independent-Republican from Kenyon in southeastern Minnesota has served as minority leader for nearly two years, which qualifies Sviggum as an elder statesman for the post.

Since 1960, the average tenure for minority leaders has been just 2.7 years. Some leave, burned out from the frustration of seldom winning legislative battles. Others, like managers of professional sports teams, are asked to leave.

“I enjoy the job a lot, but I enjoy my family, too,” said Sviggum. “Could I do it for 10 years? No.”

The down side to minority rule is clear: Fewer Independent-Republican bills make it into law or are heavily compromised if they do.

“You run for office to make decisions, to set the agenda,” Sviggum said. “It is frustrating when you can’t.”

Minority Leader Steve Sviggum

Although he spends less time with his mother and two brothers on his 440-acre beef, corn, and soybean farm, he tries to work there whenever possible. The farm duties and basketball refereeing offer necessary distractions from the day-to-day grind of state politics.

Fifth Judicial District Judge Terry Dempsey, Sviggum’s predecessor as minority leader, said his replacement has done well handling his leadership role.

“He is articulate and well-informed on the issues. . . . Steve doesn’t make enemies. Maybe that is [due to] his background as a referee — he can make a decision without causing a riot.”

Being in the minority isn’t pretty, Dempsey said. “You have to be negative. You’re complaining all the time. . . . People say, ‘Here we go again — gripe, gripe gripe.’

“You are constantly being blamed for things and you have no control over anything. The minority has no rights.”

In politics, success as a minority leader means getting more of your own party elected, winning a majority, and controlling the legislative process.

With all 134 House members up for re-election this November, Sviggum hopes the IRs will do just that. The IRs have won control of the House just once in the past 20 years, and that was 10 years ago.

Although the DFL has had its public relations troubles this year, Sviggum said IRs must shine this legislative session to ensure victory at the polls.

“We can hope for more stubbing of the toes” by the DFL, but IRs must present a positive agenda of important bills and maintain a confrontational, watchdog-style on the floor with DFLers, said Sviggum.

This session, IR legislation will revolve around several familiar themes. Some include ‘no new taxes,’ a ballot question on term limits for state and federal elected officials, workers’ compensation reform, tougher crime legislation, welfare reform, and the expansion and creation of jobs through the elimination of state sales tax on equipment purchased by businesses.

So, like winners and losers in the basketball tournaments he often referees, Sviggum’s tenure as minority leader will be measured by a single event — in this case the Nov. 8, 1994, elections.

“He needs another 25 IR members [elected to the House] and then he’ll be outstanding,” said Dempsey.

Liquor and ballots did not mix for the 1878 Legislature.

That year, lawmakers declared that for voters to cast ballots coherently on election day, all Minnesota bars should shut down for most of the day.

The law closed saloons from 5 a.m. until 6 p.m. on election days. Liquor stores were barred from opening at all.

“Experience had shown that in the larger cities patrons of saloons had at times purchased liquor for immediate consumption in inordinate quantities” on election day, wrote William Folwell in A History of Minnesota. Such indulgences increased intoxication “to a degree that caused disorder. . . . and, in some instances, disqualified [citizens] from the intelligent exercise of the cherished elective franchise,” Folwell added.

To ensure that the law was followed, violations carried stiff fines. Saloonkeepers serving drinks faced $25 to $100 fines for each offense. Additionally, every mayor had to remind bar owners of the law. Mayors who forgot to make a proclamation faced up to a $1,000 fine and 60 days in jail.

Retiring is something that Rep. Leo Reding has gotten good at. He has retired twice already — once in 1982 from the House and again in 1985 from his job as a meat cutter at the Hormel plant in his native Austin.

Now, the 69-year-old legislator from District 27B in rural southeastern Minnesota has announced his second retirement from the House. This legislative session will be his last. Really. He means it.

Reding first came to the House in 1975, but left after four terms because of the stress of numerous special sessions. He returned to the House in 1987 after his successor, Pat Piper, was elected to the Minnesota Senate.

He was first elected at a time when Greater Minnesota members still had a slight edge in power over their metropolitan colleagues. Since then, Reding has seen rural members' clout gradually decline.

Now, he said, it's time for a younger — perhaps more aggressive — member to take control and strongly argue for the interests of Greater Minnesota.

In addition, after working as a public servant for more than 16 years and always answering to the concerns of his constituents, Reding said it's time for him to spend more time on his 69-acre wooded farm that he and his wife, Marian, have outside Austin.

"My goal is to see how many birds and animals I can attract to that," he said.

The consummate nature lover, Reding has been involved with much legislation designed to protect the Minnesota outdoors. This session, for example, Reding is carrying a bill to preserve a Native American flint quarry and a bill to establish two nature trails.

But he quickly added that he will miss the House of Representatives.

"I've had some really unique years here," Reding said. Indeed, the DFL lawmaker said those years included witnessing two of the most unusual developments in Minnesota politics.

Those two events, Reding said, are the 1978 elections that left the House deadlocked with 67 representatives from each party, and the 1990 election of Gov. Arne Carlson, who didn't win his party's primary election.

"There's just a lot of awfully good memories," Reding said, making it impossible to select one as his favorite. But high on his list are the heated public battles he had with other representatives only to later effectively work with them on other legislation.

Reding said he has survived in the House by learning the fine art of building alliances and gathering the votes he needs to pass bills. In fact, that wisdom is encapsulated in the advice he would give to the person who replaces him next year: "You can't do anything up here without 68 votes."

Reding's unique style of dress has also given him another reputation around the Capitol. The sports jackets he wears are often in shades of purple, green, or orange. His pastel attire once led a Twin Cities weekly newspaper to dub him the "living Technicolor legislator."

Reding takes all such kidding in stride, because he knows that he has served his constituents in southeastern Minnesota well.

"I have helped a lot of people," he said. "And that's kind of neat."

— Tim Walker

Greatest accomplishment: Bringing the majority of the state's police and firefighter associations into the Public Employees Retirement Association.

Reding, who has chaired the Legislative Commission on Pensions and Retirement, said that prior to the efforts he and others made in this area, many police and fire retirement accounts were underfunded and could easily have become a tremendous burden to taxpayers.
